REPORT ON PUBLIC SCHOOL DESEGREGATION:

Around the Battlefronts In School Desegregation Areas Hostilities Go on Charlotte, N. C.—Dorothy Counts, 15, a Negro girl who was the center of an integration controversy here will be withdrawn from all-white Harding high school, her father said Monday.

The Rev. Herman L. Counts told reporters his daughter's statements on a Washington, D. C. television program Sunday had been misconstrued. Dorothy when asked about Harding, replied "my mind is rather confused and I don't know."

The interview resulted in reports that she might return to Harding as its only Negro student. Dorothy and her father announced last week that she would withdraw from Harding because of treatment she received there.

Dorothy said she was spat upon and struck with sticks and stones at the school.

In Vacant House

Hosse said Reed told him the two left with the dynamite and hid it in a vacant house, from which it later

Girl 4, Playing in Back Yard, Falls Into Well; Saved by Neighbors, Uncle

A 4-year-old girl with one arm in a cast was pulled to safety from a well Thursday afternoon, Sept. 12.

Yvonne Bonnie Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pope, 825 S. E. Eighth street fell into the well about 1 p.m. when a rotten board gave way beneath her.

Minutes later she was rescued by John Pope, 21, an uncle who lives with the family. She was taken to Broadlawn General Hospital and released after a check-up showed she was uninjured.

Mother Hears It

Last Sunday Yvonne fell from the porch and broke her arm.

John Pope said Yvonne was playing in the back yard Thursday with her brother, George, 2, and sister, Joyce, 5.

The child's mother was hanging up clothes in the back yard, Pope said, when she heard a board snap. She turned around and saw only George and Joyce.

Pope said he was working on his car at the side of the house when he heard his sister-in-law yelling that Yvonne had fallen into the well, and saw her running across the street to a neighbor's house.

He said he ran to the back yard and noticed the broken board atop the well. After tearing away the remainder of the lumber, he lay on his stomach, reached into the well and grabbed the child by the arm. The water surface was about 3 feet below the top of the well.

"She couldn't have been in the well more than two or three minutes," Pope said. "When I grabbed her she was lying on her back in the water and kicking for all she

William L. Carter Injured When Wall Of Garage Gives Way

William L. Carter, Sr., 1063 Sixteenth Street, was taken to Broadlawn General Hospital in a police ambulance Friday morning with injuries and severe cuts and bruises on the face and head. He was injured when a part of a garage he was tearing down fell on him. His son, William L., Jr., 39, pulled him from the debris.

Patrolman Harold Cunningham said the two men were tearing down a concrete block garage at the rear of 1060 Fourteenth Street when the accident occurred.

Cunningham said the elder Carter was pushing against a wall when it gave way and about 500 pounds of brick from an old chimney fell on him.

Report 2,300 Deep South States and Border Areas 'Still Tightly Segregated'

Atlanta, Ga.—Public school integration in the three years since it was held invalid by the U. S. Supreme court has been dissolving slowly in the south.

There is some indication the action, mostly peaceful but marked by occasional violence, may go even more slowly, the deeper south it penetrates.

But of the 17 states which maintained separate schools for white children and Negroes prior to May 17, 1954, only in the seven citadels of traditional racial separation—Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, South Carolina, Mississippi and Virginia—are all public classroom color barriers still intact.

In several of them, the practice is under strong legal attack.

Problems of Relocation, Rehabilitation Aired at Urban Renewal Clinic Here

About fifty Des Moines city officials and civil leaders attended a clinic last Friday morning at Hotel Savery, sponsored by the Greater Des Moines Chamber of Commerce, which is devoting a series of four weekly meetings to the problem of slum clearance and redevelopment of blighted areas.

John Connolly, Jr., chairman of the Des Moines Urban Development Committee, presided at the clinic, which presented Ivan D. Carson of Chicago, regional director of the Urban Renewal Administration, who related from his experiences, ideas "to help improve living conditions in Des Moines."

Carson urged the Des Moines group to "keep community purpose alive; then, show results."

Acquisition of land under the city's urban renewal program could begin within a year to 18 months. References were made to an area on the "rim of the downtown."

An application for advance for planning would enable the city to qualify for federal funds to help with further planning or blighted areas, to speed clearance of blighted areas.

"You can't clear slums fast enough. You have to do all you can to increase the life of houses that are basically good," Carson said as he referred to a program in Detroit "in which the whole project was rehabilitation."

'Most Encouraging'

"The rehabilitation aspect is one of the most encouraging phases of your whole program—and I hope you are thinking of it in your plans. It is one of the very difficult aspects. It requires all of the community support—every community organization, your church groups, your Chamber of Commerce—because, in the final analysis you are going to have to depend upon individual property owner to improve his property. He has to have your help."

"It takes a lot of help. It takes patience," Carson told the clinic, adding that "you will be putting in to neighborhoods those enemies which will make that neighborhood a better one in which to live—to make it no longer on the downgrade."

Investment Opportunities In Small Businesses Are Being Offered by Liberia

Boston.—The Republic of Liberia offers inviting opportunities for profitable investments in small business enterprises, George A. Padmore, Liberian Ambassador to the United States told delegates attending the joint conventions of the National Business League and the National Housewives' League of America here recently.

Addressing a banquet meeting of the two organizations, Ambassador Padmore said that "a logical place to start considering my country's potential industrial development is with the possibility of processing tree-crop products for local consumption as well as for export." He cited such crops as coffee, cocoa, palm kernels and timber products.

Small Industries

Although the West African republic is predominantly an agricultural country, he noted that many of its processed foods are imported. Development of small industries in this field would find a ready-made market, he said.

Among feasible industrial activities which should prove productive, Mr. Padmore listed "livestock raising, pig butchering and smoking, dairy farming and milk processing, bakery, commercial fishing, production of rice, animal feed mills, fruit

Jumbo Cereal Flake Hamburgers Hearty Fare for After-Game Buffet

Entertaining at a buffet supper after a football game is easy when the main course features Jumbo Cereal Flake Hamburgers.

All ages enjoy juicy hamburgers served hot from a table grill in a tipped box with favorite garnishes.

Cereal flakes are so quick to use in making hamburgers. They are easy to crush, thus eliminating the tedious job of crumbling bread. Juiciness and flavor are improved by the addition of cereal flakes. Main dishes are but one of the many ingredient uses of breakfast cereals. Cookies, confections, muffins, breads, and pies take on new flavors and textures by the addition of breakfast cereals.

Cereals make important nutritional contributions of high-quality protein, essential B vitamins and minerals, in addition to food energy.

Hostesses who enjoy entertaining try to do as much advanced preparation as possible. Jumbo Cereal Flake Hamburgers can be prepared and shaped early in the day. A mold helps to make uniform size hamburgers. For easy handling, place squares of waxed paper between each patty and refrigerate until time to grill. This recipe adapts itself to freezing. Simply prepare the individual patties, wrap in a moistureproof freezer paper and freeze.

The buffet table can be set before the game. Relishes can be prepared early in the day. After the game, heat the grill, cook the hamburgers, place potato chips and relishes in serving dishes, prepare a tray with mugs of instant cocoa and chilled milk and presto, supper is ready!

For a quick and easy dessert roll balls of ice cream in pre-sweetened rice cereal and serve with fruit or chocolate sauce.

Jumbo Cereal Flake Hamburgers

2 cups corn flakes, slightly crushed
1½ pounds ground beef
¼ cup chopped onion
2 teaspoons salt

1½ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup milk, water, or tomato juice
2 tablespoons fat

Mix ingredients together thoroughly. Gently shape and flatten 8 patties. Heat 2 tablespoons fat in skillet or on griddle. Cook patties to the doneness desired, 3 to 8 minutes over medium heat, turning once. If preferred, broil until done on a rack 6 to 8 inches from a bed of glowing coals, turning once. Yield: 8 hamburgers.

NAACP Board of Directors Back Wilkins and Mitchell On Civil Rights' Strategy

New York—The Board of Directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has voted, with only one dissent, "full approval" of the actions of Roy Wilkins, executive secretary, and Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington bureau, in their successful efforts to secure enactment of the civil rights law in this session of Congress.

The Board's vote of confidence came a few hours after President Eisenhower signed the bill in Newport, R. I., on Sept. 9. It was the first meeting of the Board since June when it met in Detroit. The vote followed extended reports by Mr. Wilkins and Mr. Mitchell on the role and position of the NAACP in support of the first civil rights act passed by Congress since 1875.

NAACP Role Reviewed

Mr. Wilkins reviewed the Association's role and the political maneuvering which developed following the Senate's adoption of the jury trial amendment. In the name of demanding a "strong" bill, the NAACP leader reported, the Republicans adopted a policy which would have led to interment of the bill in a House-Senate conference committee.

"When we asked questions," Mr. Wilkins told the Board members, "we could get no assurance that the House Rules Committee would report out a bill without the jury trial amendment, and that, even if it did, the necessary votes could be shifted in the Senate to pass it."

Additional Votes

Five additional votes were needed in the Senate, he pointed out. At no time did the Republican leadership indicate where these votes could be picked up. Twelve Republicans had joined 39 Democrats, including 13 from outside the South, in voting for the amendment.

"Since it did not appear to experienced legislative agents of the organizations working for the bill that a no-jury-trial version would be returned by the House to the Senate and passed, and since the conference burial plan was being pushed under a heavy cloak, the NAACP decided to speak briefly. Rev. Jones showed movies of last year's reunion.

the guise of 'getting a stronger bill,' a decision had to be reached at that moment if the objective was to secure passage of a bill at this session.

Delay Meant Defeat

"A delay in this decision until after the bill was received and acted upon in the House," Mr. Wilkins continued, "would have meant burial because commitments would have been made and the machinery would have been functioning. A mere declaration that we wanted the House to strengthen the bill, without the accompanying demand for passage this year would have accomplished nothing, since the answer would have been that the House was fighting for a strengthened bill in conference, but was being blocked by Senate conferees. So the decision was made to deplore the weakness of the Senate version, but to ask that it be passed by the Senate in the hope that some means will be found to strengthen it in the House."

Effect of Decision

The effect of this decision and joint statement issued on August 7, Mr. Wilkins asserted, was to "halt the smooth operation of the plan to bury the bill. It forced the Republicans to explore ways and means of strengthening the bill short of the impossible complete elimination of the jury trial amendment, and it forced the Democratic leadership to consider additional modifications."

"The upshot of the political maneuvering (induced by the August 7 statement) between August 7 and August 23, when agreement was reached, was that the Republicans did discover a formula for softening the jury amendment and that a bill was passed which was stronger than the Senate version."

In his report to the Board, Mr. Mitchell reviewed the history of the bill from its original introduction in the 84th Congress. He reported on the vote on each of the issues as they came before the Senate and indicated where work needed to be done in order to gain restoration of Part III of the bill in the next session of Congress.

"In due time," the NAACP Washington representative said, "this legislation will make the Congress itself a more realistic reflection of the American scene . . . When this legislation is enforced, there will be no more flummery about how many bubbles there are in a bar of soap when colored citizens seek the right to register. After the stern restraint of a federal injunction has been applied, those who used force, economic restrictions, and deception to keep the voting lists lily-white will realize that the vote must be given to all without regard to race.

"We who assisted at the birth of this legislation," Mr. Mitchell told the board, "and who have worked without many of the tools that we needed for success understand that we now have a new weapon against Jim Crow. We shall see to it that the race issue is blasted from southern politics."

Douglas Applauds NAACP

Also read into the record was a letter from Senator Paul H. Douglas, a leader in the fight for the bill, expressing appreciation for "the tremendous help of your organization and its representatives, Mr. Roy Wilkins and Mr. Clarence Mitchell, in the battle for meaningful civil rights legislation."

Of these NAACP leaders, the Illinois Democrat said: "They never wavered in their pursuit of the goal. They were wise in their counsel, tireless in their energies, responsive to every request for assistance."

The letter, dated Sept. 6, was addressed to Arthur B. Springarn, president, and Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the Board.

The Ambassador revealed that a group of Detroit Negro business men is currently investigating possibilities of a timber concession in Liberia. He said "that out of the 250 odd commercially valuable trees in the Liberian forests, 21 species have been declared excellent cabinet woods and eminently suitable for the production of durable high-grade furniture."

Private Investment

Liberia, Mr. Padmore asserted, "has instituted a number of statutes designed to encourage the inflow of private investment capital from the outside. Notably among these are provisions which make Liberia entirely free from foreign exchange regulations." He cited provisions of the law permitting free movement of capital into and out of the country and limited exemptions from certain types of taxation permitting early recovery of initial investments.

Open Arms

While his country "extends an open arm to peoples of all countries and all races," and is "especially interested in American investments," the African envoy declared that "the recent proposal that a foreign government might wish to take steps to facilitate the emigration of peoples of African descent to Liberia has been a shock to my government and people."

Nat Cole to Play Part of W. C. Handy In Film; Cab Calloway Back to Fold

WITH DELORES CALVIN

New York City—(Calvin News Service) HANDY FILM SET FOR CAMERAS. . . Nat King Cole, listed heretofore as merely a star in the film of the life of W. C. Handy, is finally definite as playing Handy in the picture. . . Although looking nothing like the Father of the Blues, Nat is a natural as far as the music is concerned. . . The story will stick as near to the truth as possible, with scenes of Handy as a young boy broke and desolate in the south. . . This week the director was signed - he's Allen Reisner, who directed many of the television series for "Climax". . . This is his first film assignment - and though we don't doubt his ability, we're always leary of "green" directors in films where everything is needed to make it a "best". . . Robert Smith will do the producing for Paramount Pictures - and the whole thing starts October 2nd. . .

Nat, as we said, is a natural for the music part - and he's also a natural actor. . . His screen credits are good: a heavy supporting role in "China Gate" where he played a courageous soldier - and "Instant" as a pianist whose love song entranced Errol Flynn. . . Nat has showed real dramatic ability which he's taken over to his current television program. . . His habit of signing off with a wink has caused a mild sensation among his fans who've come to look for it after every session. . . So we feel that surely, in this role of W. C. Handy, a part close to him because of his great gift to the musical world - he'll do well. . . We're sure of that.

Cab Calloway has come back to the fold, after his "gone fishin'" vacation - now at Eden Roc Hotel at Miami Beach. . . Louis Armstrong is making much moola for promoter George Amato at his fancy theatre restaurant in Portland, Oregon. . . With every night a complete sellout and reservations booked well in advance, citizens of Portland have something to really rave about - heretofore they've only seen Pops Armstrong at one-nighters as he whistled through the town. . . This occasion therefore is a happy one for all. . .

Whoever has been saying rock and roll is dead had better visit the current show at the Brooklyn Paramount and get a whiff of the hot music pouring from the rafters. . . For Alan Freed, who introduced rock and roll in its original form and has since accompanied it to the various large houses here in New York and neighboring areas, has returned with his flock to stir up the young crowd just as the thought of rock and roll was dying out. . . With him is the same brood: the Moonglows, Little Richard, Mickey and Sylvia, Al Sears and all the rest which make up 14 acts. . . Best of the group is Mickey and Sylvia who will survive the fad and go on to bigger things - and Little Richard who closes the show, and rightly so. . . In a show with no big name orchestra, the Apollo did well for the Labor Day weekend titling Fats Domino, a big favorite here, and big Maybelle, whose appearance in red satin tights in a sight to behold. . . Knitting the show together was "Jockey" Henderson, disc jockey acting as emcee - a great favorite in Harlem. . . Now, that the Palace on Broadway is closed to vaudeville, the Apollo remains the last strong-hold for real live acts. . .

Although "Simply Heavenly" gets good notices and their ads are attractive, many of the critics felt it's about time there was a play about an average Negro family - not one faced with ridicule and comedy situations through and through. . . "Simply Heavenly" is a sort of satire of life in Harlem as author Langston Hughes sees it. . . and whereas it is roilingly funny and in many cases true to life, we are inclined to agree that if there were enough other plays about other phases of life as a Negro - such as struggles to be professionals - etc. - then "Simply Heavenly" would not be so typed. . . As it is, this is the only musical about Negro life playing Broadway at the moment and is therefore more open to criticism. . . Boxoffice boomed with $14,500 for 6 performances. . . In their second week on the main stem, $5.75 is top. . .

Eartha Kitt and her new Victor record: "Take My Love" soaring. . . The Harlem nightspot, Zanzibar, is getting a wonderful reputation of a grand floorshow for the price of drinks. . . as the entire staff of waiters and hostess gets into the act. . . They mostly have fine operatic voices which boom through the small place - which incidentally, is so crowded that one can hardly walk between tables. . . Situated very near a landmark, Small's Paradise, which is remodeled and going great in biz also - the Zanzibar is unique and offers spontaneous entertainment which promises variety and fun for all at every show. . .

Last year, at the Miss America Pageant, of all the floats carrying the various contestants from the different states, there was one of Negro girls not contesting. . . This year they hoped to be more integrated in the tremendous proceedings.

disappeared. He told Hosse he did not know what happened to it. . . Hosse said that when Reed went with FBI investigators to the vacant house, the dynamite was gone. . . Hosse said the police investigation is continuing, but that no charges have been placed. Six men have been in custody in connection with the bombing.

He emphasized that Reed is not under arrest, and said the investigation is being pushed in an attempt to locate the persons who actually planned and executed the bombing.

Papers Served

Meanwhile, U. S. marshals served papers on 10 of 12 individuals named in a federal order, restraining further interference with integration of first-graders in city schools.

One of the 12, John McCurry, described as an itinerant preacher, was fined $200 on misdemeanor charges in city court Friday afternoon.

The Davidson county (Nashville) grand jury indicted Kasper for inciting to riot. Kasper, already fined $200 on misdemeanor charges, remained in jail in default of $2,500 bond.

Twelve Negro students started attending previously all-white classes Monday. All 12 were in the mixed schools Friday except one enrolled at Hattie Cotton School, which was closed by the dynamiting.

Marylander Finds Bomb in Front Yard

Easton, Md. - A Negro father of two children attending a formerly all-white elementary school found a homemade bomb of 10 sticks of dynamite on his front lawn Friday morning, Sept. 13.

Sessions Boyd spotted a plastic picnic bag in front of his house. When he pulled the zipper, he saw the dynamite and called police.

A Maryland state police sergeant dunked it in water.

Potential Force

Thomas Messick, a dealer in dynamite, said the explosives had the potential force of a one-ton bomb and would have destroyed or severely damaged three or four of the frame houses on the street.

Messick said the dynamite probably failed to go off because of a faulty fuse. The inside of the bag was scorched, indicating the fuse had been set off.

Protests to integration of elementary schools in Talbot County have been made by a white citizens association. Three pickets were arrested when school opened last week, but no demonstrations have been staged since.

Four Grades

Talbot County opened its first three grades to integration last year and expanded it to the fourth grade this year.

The Boyd home is in a Negro settlement. Boyd is head waiter at the Tidewater Inn, most modern hotel and eating place on Maryland's eastern shore.

Little Rock Hopeful

Little Rock, Ark. - When Gov. Orval Faubus left here saying he was "hopeful" for his talk with President Eisenhower he could have been speaking for the entire state.

There was a feeling here that regardless of the results of the conference it will allow tempers and tensions to abate.

Faubus joked with newsmen about having "no sponge" in his luggage, alluding to a report, denied hotly by President Eisenhower, that Faubus was going to Newport, R. I., "to throw in the sponge."

Present Term

Faubus' present term, the second, ends in January, 1959. With one exception, no Arkansas governor has succeeded in winning a third term.

Reporters asked Faubus whether he thought the integration crisis would induce people to vote for him if he runs for a third term.

"They may not get the opportunity," he retorted.

The calm that has settled over Little Rock can be felt.

At Central High School, a few national guardsmen loitered about the grounds.

At North Little Rock High, where Negro and white students clashed Monday, classes went into session with no trace of tension.

It was as though the city were tired of its emotional budge. But many think the climax is yet to come.

Kasper From One Jail to Another

Nashville, Tenn. - After lunching on cabbage and cornbread, roaming segregationist John Kasper of New Jersey was turned out of the city workhouse Thursday, Sept. 12, on a $500 appeal bond.

His freedom ended a few moments later. He was taken to the county jail on a state charge of inciting others to riot.

The city and state charges stemmed from Kasper's anti-integration activities here.

Kasper was arrested as integrated classes resumed here Wednesday. Ten Negroes, including two juveniles, were arrested near various integrated city schools. They were charged with carrying firearms.

Rented or borrowed films offer interesting entertainment for the family. They are available in a wide variety of subjects.

Show Professionally-Made Movies at Home

We always thought it's a good idea to rent professionally-made movies to show at home when you are entertaining. We've talked about it before and marveled at the wide range of subject matter covered by the films which you can get on a rental basis.

But we didn't know until recently just how smart this is considered socially. A friend of ours showed us something in one of the top women's fashion magazines that really proved how right we've been all the time. It was an article telling what kind of clothes a woman in an exclusive suburban New York area wears on various occasions. And it showed a dress for wearing when friends or neighbors invite her to drop in for the evening to see a film they've rented to show at home! The article went on to point out how popular this idea has become in the modern way of living.

Of course, we aren't going to suggest that you wear any particular type of clothing for viewing films—but we do want to remind you that there are so many wonderful movies available, both from an entertainment and educational standpoint, that it's a shame not to take advantage of them.

If you don't have a projector, it is usually fairly easy to borrow or rent one. The movies you show with it can be used to amuse the family on a rainy weekend, to fascinate young guests who come to play, and provide an enjoyable evening for your adult friends.

To Organize the Children's Day on Visit, Get Together with Mother, Grandmother

BY LLOYD LOVELL, SUI ASSISTANT PROFESSOR

Mrs. Smith looked at her daughter and sank into a chair. "It's wonderful seeing you and your children," she said, "but they're just wearing me out. I'm not sure how I will survive another four days of this visit. They're so active, and there doesn't seem to be any escape."

Her daughter replied, "You know, we were all so excited about coming to see you that we just didn't think of the problems involved. I've been so eager to talk to you that when the kids interrupt I just shoo them away. I think the reasons they're at loose ends so much of the time are that they aren't familiar with your house and your rules, and they don't know their way around the neighborhood. If we can organize their day a little, maybe we'll be free and they'll be more content."

Grandmother Explains

So Grandmother carefully explained to the youngsters what they could do and could not do in the house and yard. She helped them meet some of the other children in the neighborhood, and put a collection of the things small children en-

Nippy Autumn Days Call For — Hot Caramel Milk, Spiced Grape Juice, Apple and Lemonade or Limeade, Says Economist

Iowa City, Iowa.—Iced drinks provide wonderful summer refreshment but on these nippy autumn days your family will be more enthusiastic about a hot spicy punch or a hot milk drink.

Coffee may be the standby for the adults in your household but for youngsters you'll need appealing fruit and milk drinks that have nutritional value, says Edna Bowersox, home economist at the State University of Iowa. And of course these are good for grownups too.

Hot Caramel Milk

Hot caramel milk is easy to prepare and a favorite with children. For a single serving, beat one egg yolk thoroughly, add one tablespoon of caramel syrup, a dash of salt and one cup of milk. Heat to the scalding point, cool slightly, and then add 1-4 teaspoon vanilla and an egg white that has been beaten until stiff.

Vote to Resettle Negroes in North

Montgomery, Ala.—The Alabama senate adopted a resolution Friday, Sept. 13, endorsing the idea of a resettlement commission in southern states to move Negroes to the North.

If approved later by the house, the resolution would create a four-member legislative committee to explore the idea with officials in other southern states.

Sponsors said a resettlement commission, if established, would buy property in northern cities and resell it to Negroes who wanted to move north.

The eighth annual National Home Week, the largest ever held in Des Moines, will start next Sunday, with 85 model homes open for public inspection.

Almost 2 million dollars worth of homes, many specially built for the Home Week observance, have been prepared by 64 members of the Home Builders Association of Des Moines, sponsor of National Home Week.

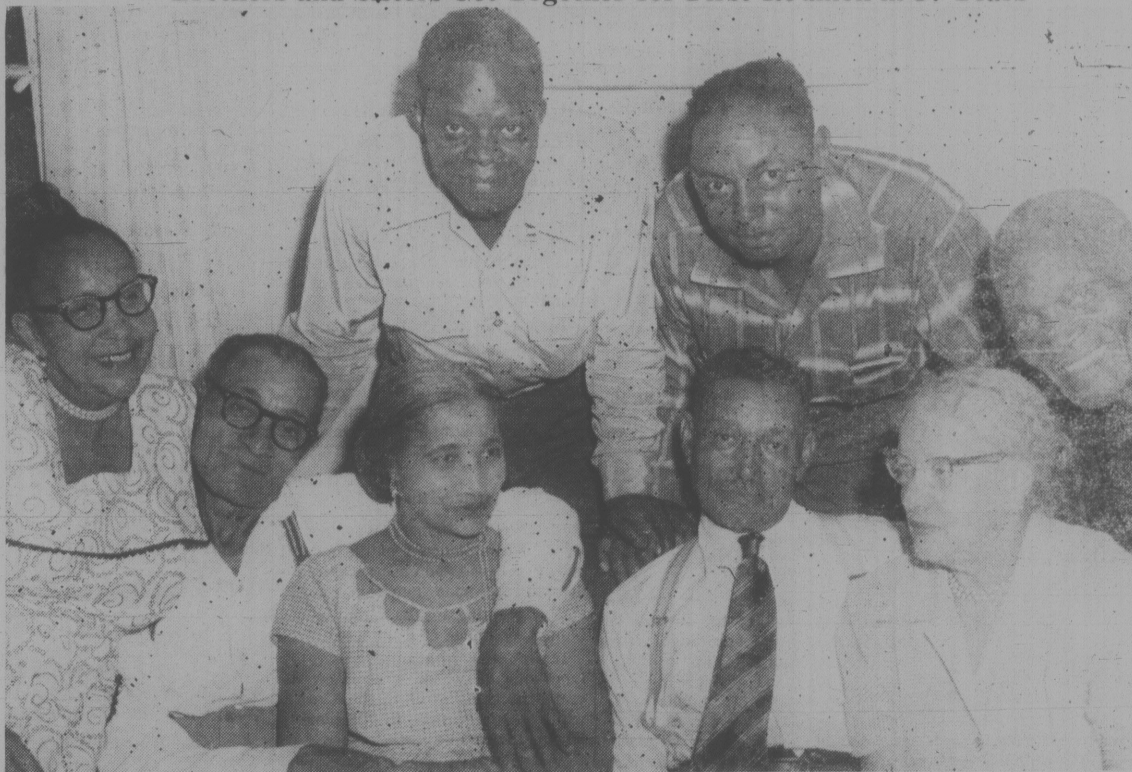

National Home Week in Des Moines has grown from 15 models on display in 1950 to the record 85 this year. Many are located in 26 different building projects, where other homes may be seen in varying degrees of completion.

The model homes will be open for inspection from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. next Sunday and the following Sunday, and from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. every night during the week.

THERE WAS NOTHING TO ARBITRATE

In the struggle which goes on in Arkansas over Gov. Faubus' conduct in the school segregation matter, it must be kept in mind that "you don't arbitrate the law." And except for a courtesy due every citizen, there was little reason or excuse for the conference between President Eisenhower and Gov. Faubus.

It is pretty well established what the law of the Arkansas case is. It is generally agreed that Gov. Faubus used the national guard to prevent rather than permit integration, a factual question which Judge Davis will be considering at the hearing Friday.

Little information of value has come out of the President's conference for the reason that little happened. The matter had resolved itself into a question of whether the governor would obey the law. And of course Mr. Eisenhower could not speak for the court nor Judge Davis.

But there rests upon the justice department headed by Attorney General Brownell through the local U. S. Attorney, the responsibility to prepare and present a vigorous case which the facts as indicated by the press disclosed do exist.

Judge Davis has indicated by his past rulings that he will follow the law and will not be bound by expediency to make a ruling one way or another. (Judge Davis served in the US District Court for the Southern District of Iowa prior to the appointment of Judge Hickland and lawyers, express great admiration for his fair-mindedness, ability and strict administration of the law.)

Too much fumbling goes on about enforcing the laws anyway! There seems too much of a disposition to be lenient and thus the rabble-rouser and the rough necks are encouraged to challenge the law and embarrass those who wish to maintain a law abiding community.

In any event, most of that is said now is mere conjecture for the decision will be in the hands of Judge Davis.

THE POST OFFICE FLARE UP

Des Moines has a new postmaster David Cranshaw (acting) who replaces Edith Johnson who has held the post since 1940.

The Bystander does not pretend to know the sufficiency of the charges to warrant the removal of Miss Johnson. It does insist that she should be measured by the same standards as postmasters in other places—or other parties.

One thing Miss Johnson did during her administration was to employ on the basis of merit rather than allow superficial consideration such as race, creed or color to enter the equation. In fact more Negroes have been employed during her administration than in all the years combined.

Whoever the trouble, let's have a square deal for everybody.

POOR RECORD IN TRAFFIC CONTROL

In the early part of 1957, it looked as if progress would be made this year in reducing traffic accidents. However, as of September 18, 511 have been killed whereas 504 were killed in 1956 by the same date.

This is not encouraging. And while Iowa has more people and own more cars, new methods of safety should make up the difference.

All kinds of suggestion and studies have been made to remedy the situation, none of which seems to do much good.

Much can be said for strict enforcement of traffic regulations with particular reference to habitual violators and those whose offenses show a reckless disregard for the lives and property of others.

Of course, there is the constant cry of lack of manpower to do the job; some of this is true. On the other hand, it occurs all too often that more of the available force is assigned to less important tasks.

gation by defying the courts and attempt to nullify the law of the land by mob violence. This has gone too far already. Silence has helped it grow.

lie schools on the basis of race alone is unconstitutional, has brought a flareup of disturbances.

Demonstrations hit areas in West Virginia, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia in 1955. Last year Clinton, Tenn., Sturgis and Clay, Ky., and Mansfield, Tex., were the trouble spots.

Little Rock and North Little Rock, Ark., and Nashville, Tenn., are the center of attention now.

But less well known are places where integration has been accomplished without incident such as San Antonio, Tex., Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Okla., Kansas City and St. Louis, Mo., Louisville, Ky., and Hoxie, Ark.

Many Factors

Why is violence flaring up over integration in some instances, while desegregation goes along so peacefully in others?

Harold Fleming of the Southern Regional Council, an organization devoted to contributing to better relations between the races, concedes there is no easy answer. He believes, however, that some contributing factors are known.

The low ratio of Negro population and the cost of maintaining separate schools undoubtedly made integration easier in some smaller systems, says Fleming.

Proper Preparation

Proper preparation he credits with aiding smooth integration in other areas. Fleming also lists such things as a history of peaceful race relations, previous integration of ministerial or physicians groups, libraries, buses, playgrounds and the like.

St. Louis is cited as an example of preparedness. An extensive program was undertaken there, Fleming said, and integration was accomplished with a minimum of incidents.

Baltimore, he said, also had a preparedness program, though not so extensive. There were some disturbances in Baltimore, to which flareups in Delaware contributed.

On the other side, says Fleming, in places where the citizens and leaders are not ready for it and where there are strong or out-spoken pro-segregation groups school integration is more likely to encounter difficulty.

After moving rather rapidly in the border states during the first two years, racial mixing in public school classrooms went forward at a slower pace this fall. Of the 738 districts which have begun integration, Southern School News reports only 25 were making the start this year.

Beginning

Districts beginning integration this year include three in Arkansas, six in Kentucky, seven in Missouri, three in North Carolina, four in Oklahoma and one in Tennessee.

Although there had been some parochial school and college level integration in North Carolina, admission of a few Negroes to public schools in Charlotte, Greensboro and Winston-Salem was the first voluntary break in the solid segregation front of the deep south states.

In Texas, where integration has begun in the western Part of the state but segregation prevails in the east with heavier Negro populations, a law was enacted requiring voter approval before a district can integrate. As a result, no new districts broke the racial barrier in their schools this fall.

Ignore New Right

In Odessa, Tex., which threw out segregation in 1955, no Negro has sought admission to a white school.

In San Antonio, largest Texas city to integrate, only 471 of 4,400 Negro students attended formerly all-white schools.

Supt. Thomas B. Porterwood commented: "We haven't forced anybody to go anywhere. The Negroes want the right to go to mixed schools, but when it comes right down to it, they want to go to their own schools."

and financial aid in a court fight to clear Raymond Knox.

Knox has been found guilty in municipal court of disturbing the peace and resisting arrest after he sought to assist in the recovery of the body of a boy who drowned in the Des Moines river Aug. 12.

Knox charged that he was beaten without provocation by police.

The NAACP voted to allocate $300 for expenses in connection with an appeal to district court of the conviction, and for publication of a

HEALTH FOR ALL

"112-211"

The doctor tells you that you have "athlete's foot." When he writes down the diagnosis he'll spell it "dermatophytosis." His secretary will file it as "112-211."

This isn't done just to confuse you, and make mysteries of medicine more mysterious. It's the result of years of effort to end confusion and give the doctors a common language.

One of the big jobs was to cut down the number of terms used by physicians to describe specific ailments. There are more than 2,000 terms in use referring to tumors. Many are inaccurate or misleading. Another problem was the number of diseases named after men discovering them, such as Addison's disease; Parkinson's disease. There might be six different diseases bearing the same name in one form or another.

Suppose you move to a new town, and take your medical records to a new doctor. He might find them confusing if he couldn't rely on the Standard Nomenclature of Disease and Operations.

The Nomenclature contains more than 16,000 medical terms in good order, and anyone with the key can tell quickly that "dermatitis venenata" is poison ivy, or 110-3001. The numbering system is similar to the Dewey Decimal System used in almost all libraries. By a series of number it, narrows a term down from a broad category to a specific part of the body, tells just what's wrong there and what caused it. You'll notice that poison ivy starts with the same combination of numbers at athlete's foot because they're both skin troubles, but from there on they separate—in no uncertain terms.

Stop Outflow

Everyone got his preseason glimpse of the local high schools last Tuesday night. That Tech outfit is going to win some games with the speedmerchant Jim Hutchinson. Let that guy get one foot out in front and nobody can catch him. So far the strategy has been simply to get him into the open and then leave a pass. Well, maybe he can run from scrimmage, too.

East either doesn't have much of a really under wraps. This is the most inexperienced team East has had in some time. North didn't look too badly in their part of the game. The Polar Bears are overdue. Looks like quite a season.

At Iowa everyone is talking in terms of winning or have won the Big Ten again. But we like to remind you that in just two of those games last year one sort of a bad break could have meant a bad record instead of a Rose Bowl trip.

Baseball

Looks like the Braves and Yankees. Can't see Milwaukee blowing the race now. But we don't believe they will win the series.

The Little Leaguers had their fun at East stadium last week end. The Northeast Giants who hadn't lost a game found their high point offense stopped dead and were trounced by the boys who feature Young Sharp and Holmes. The other team, the Rams, lost to the Giants.

But with all the teams we have around, we could have another league and probably there will be something done about it. Would be fine to stay home and play football. If you haven't seen the kids play do it soon.

special bulletin dealing with the case.

Mrs. Clara Bayles said 1,100 copies of the bulletin will be sent to members of the Des Moines branch, and 1,000 additional copies will be distributed in public places.

J. B. Morris, Jr., NAACP legal redress chairman who assisted in Knox's defense, told the meeting:

"This was just the first round, and we are firmly convinced that the next round will be ours.

"I don't think you can get 12 right-thinking people on a jury who will go along with the preposterous police theory in beating Mr. Knox."

Morris said Knox's civil rights were violated, and contended that Municipal Judge Harry B. Grund's findings "were without basis in fact and certainly without basis in the record."

Knox also has filed a $200,000 damage suit against Sgt. Frank Manny and Patrolmen Bruce Dyer and Ralph Baker, claiming he was permanently disfigured in the beating. Morris said the NAACP is taking no part in the suit.

DUTCH PASTOR WRITES

HYMN OF LITTLE ROCK

New York—From Rekken, Netherlands, the NAACP this week received a letter from the Rev. William Janssen, a pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church, expressing his dismay about what's happening in Little Rock, Ark., as reported in the Dutch papers.

In a poem which he enclosed he says he's trying "to re-tell in English what my Dutch newspaper said on the matter in Dutch." Except for the opening and closing stanza, the Rev. Janssen wrote, the poem is his own creation.

The verse follows:

In Christ there is no East or West, in Him no South or North, but one great fellowship of love throughout the whole wide earth. Except in Arkansas of course, where Christians, armed and white, think what the whole world thinks is wrong, and what they do is right.

A Negro girl to highschool went, according to the law; so fearful Faubus called for help in pale-face Arkansas. The truth was dressed in innocence, fears uniform was force—Two hundred men, and just one girl Who'll lose? The girl of course. But, governor of Arkansas, Two hundred men won't do! One day the girl comes back to school, and brings her girl-friend too! Alarm! Alarm! They come to school! And in their hands the law, and in their schoolbags "little rocks" Fight for white Arkansas! But... "little rocks" will one day win and beat the fearful sword, like David once Goliath beat with rocks, and with the Lord!

MORE IOWA PROSPERITY

Few people realize how much the brewing industry is helping to boost our Iowa prosperity these days.

In three items alone; the industry is pouring over $83,300,000.00 per year into this state. These items include $30,471,000.00 in Iowa payrolls, $27,500,000.00 in general business costs, and $25,362,798.00 in taxes. In addition, our farmers' incomes are boosted by the huge volume of grain purchased for the making of beer.

All this added wealth flows steadily into the stream of our Iowa income—reaches out into every part of the state, to benefit all of us. Year in, year out, every county and community can feel the benefits as the brewing industry continually adds to Iowa's growing prosperity.
