'K.K.K.' Prank at Iowa University Dormitory Had Happened Before

Miss Moore Said 'Signs' Occurred Last April 1st

BULLETIN

"It has happened before, last April 1 (April Fool's Day) so I believe it was just a Halloween prank by someone in the dormitory here."

That was the statement made by Miss Moore in a telephone conversation late Tuesday afternoon.

When asked about her initial reaction she said, "I was shocked, and hurt more than anything."

She stated that she and Mrs. Berry had not discussed the matter until they were in the office of the dean of students. "I do not know what steps the University is taking at this time," she added.

Mrs. Berry was contacted by special letter but no reply had reached the Bystander office before press time.

Iowa City, Iowa.—Miss Jo Anne Moore, 20, Ottumwa, and Mrs. Henry Berry, 19, Houston, Texas, students at the State University of Iowa reported that "K.K.K. Marks" were placed on their doors at Currier Hall, women's dormitory, last week.

"Doomed"

Miss Moore said that last Thursday morning when she left her room she found a piece of cardboard with burned out areas in the shape of a cross on her door. Written on it in India ink were the letters "K.K.K." and "doomed" three times at the bottom.

Mrs. Berry, the former Dora Lee Martin and Miss SUI of 1956 reported a similar "paper sign" with a skeleton and "K.K.K. will strike", on it.

20 Negro Girls

Upon learning of the incident, M. L. Huit, dean of students, took precautionary measures for Halloween and said in a newspaper statement, "If the persons responsible for this (the crosses) are discovered, she or they will be subject to strong disciplinary measures, including suspension or dismissal."

Miss Moore, who is very active in academic and extra-curricular activities at SUI, says there are about 20 Negro girls living in Currier. Mrs. Berry is living in the hall while her husband is in the army.

Six of the defendants were bound over to the grand jury in the Oct. 10 preliminary hearings and they gave their names, ages and addresses as: John Charles Bell, 25, of 908 Fourteenth street; Warren A. Swanson, 26, of 1112½ Center street; Clark Yeager, 32, of 1536 East Seventeenth court; Calvin Coolidge Gilmore, 29, of 813 School street; Pauline Hudson, 31, of 1356 East Seventeenth street; and Frank Crawford-Brenklin, 35, of 1222 School street.

Sen. Kennedy Upholds 'Law of the Land'

Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem. Mass.) told a meeting of Democrats in the heart of the Deep South that he had "accepted the Supreme Court's decision on desegregation as the law of the land," and that there should be no disagreement "on the necessity to uphold law and order in every part of the land."

Senator Kennedy spoke to a crowd of nearly two thousand Mississippi Democrats in Jackson, Miss., where he fulfilled a speaking engagement accepted some six months ago.

The needs of these children, some of mixed racial backgrounds, will be discussed by Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer, director of the children's division of the State Board of control.

Korean-Negro

The special problems of Korean-Negro and Korean-Caucasian children will be presented at both meetings by Mrs. Margaret A. Valk, senior case consultant, American Branch of International Social Welfare Service, New York. The attendance of prospective parents at these meetings is encouraged, whether or not they decide to consider adopting a child from any of these groups.

Wilkins: South's 'States' Rights Denied to Negroes

San Francisco.—The recent racist events at Little Rock have served to awaken many Americans for the first time to "ugly realities of a challenge to the very unity of our nation," Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, asserted in an address at a luncheon meeting of the famous and influential Commonwealth Club of California here, Friday.

The Little Rock situation also "dealt a stab in the back to American prestige" abroad, Mr. Wilkins quoted, pointing out: "The world cannot understand nor long respect a nation in which a governor calls out troops to bar little children from school in defiance of the Supreme Court of the land, a nation in which mobs beat and kick and stone and spit upon those who happen not to be white."

Denunciation

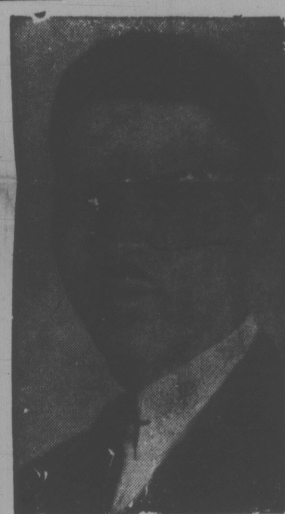

The address contained a strong denunciation of states' rights as the theory is interpreted by many southern states.

Hampton Prexy Lashes Out at 'Communist' Hint

Hampton, Va. — Hampton Institute's president, Dr. Alonzo G. Morton, lashed back at attempts "by a Virginia evening daily paper to impute to him guilt by association as a result of his speaking at an integration seminar at the Highlander Folk School."

The Times Herald, Newport News, Va., published reports of investigations of the Georgia Commission on Education which characterized the Montegale, Tenn., school as "a Communist training school." The theory was carried prominently under four column headlines. In an endeavor to justify the accusation against the school, the Georgia commission issued a newspaper sized broadsheet that set forth the supposedly Communist background of a number of those at the seminar over the Labor Day weekend.

100,000 Folders

Reportedly, 100,000 of these folders were printed and their mailing has been extensive—throughout the South and elsewhere. A recent editorial in the Christian Century severely criticizes a Cincinnati, Ohio, daily paper for becoming an instrument of communication between white and Negro leaders. It was the first such statement from the deep south.

The publication of the Georgia Commission's "disclosures" took place here last week, during the time the President was in New York City attending the semi-annual meetings of the college's board of trustees. He answered the charges, after his return to the campus, in a previously scheduled talk at the weekly vesper service.

African Directs Ohio Symphony

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Fela Sowande, an African composer, Sunday directed the Cincinnati symphony orchestra in an excerpt from his "African Suite."

The work was performed at a concert here—Orchestra officials said Sowande is the first African to take the baton before a major U. S. Orchestra.

Rites for 'Fay' Young-Sports Writer, Editor

Chicago, Ill.—Funeral rites for Frank "Fay" Young, 73, veteran newsman and former sports editor of the Chicago Defender, were held Friday, Nov. 1, at Everybody's Church, 60th and Wabash Avenue with the minister, Dr. James Scott and associate minister, The Rev. William Mitchell, officiating.

Mr. Young, writer of the column, "Fay Says", died Oct. 27, reportedly from shock shortly before leaving the city to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Belva Overton, New York.

Many Firsts

Known as the dean of sports writers, Mr. Young was one of the founders of the annual Prairie View Bowl game at Houston, Tex., and worked with the late Cleve Abbott in establishing the Tuskegee relays. He also was the first Negro sports writer to report football games on the campuses of Negro colleges.

In 1934 Mr. Young left the Defender where he had served as managing editor and went to Kansas City, Mo. to serve as managing editor of the Kansas City Call. He returned to the Defender in 1937 and took over his old post as sports editor.

Survivors

He was at the organization of the now defunct Negro national League in Kansas City, Mo., in 1920, and served as statistician until disorganization of the league in 1933.

Mr. Young is survived by his wife, Mrs. Cora Young, 838 East 52nd Street; a daughter, Mrs. Louise Hunt, Chicago; a son, Frank Jr., New York; a sister, Miss Ethel Cauton, of New York and a brother, Russell C. Cauton, Atlantic City, N. J.

Planned with a new ordinance passed Oct. 15 which requires the filing of

From New York

Mrs. L. C. Bates, state NAACP leader, returned from a speaking engagement in New York, and submitted to local police, and was released immediately on $300 bond. The other NAACP officer, the Rev. L. C. Crenshaw, local president and Baptist minister, was released on $300 bond, also. A hearing was set for Dec. 3 in Municipal court. Conviction of violation of the ordinance carries a fine of $50 to $250 for each day of violation.

Asks Delay

Meanwhile the city of Little Rock asked Monday for an indefinite delay of the federal court hearing on a NAACP petition to block enforcement of the ordinance. The requested postponement would be effective until Arkansas state courts had had an opportunity to pass on validity of the ordinance and, it was filed by City Atty. O. D. Longtreth, Jr. on behalf of Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann.

Says Nixon Would Extend Negro Neighbors Welcome

Washington, (CNS)—In a surprise answer to a plot by Georgia segregationists to move a Negro family, the larger the better—into a restricted residential area where Vice President Dick Nixon lives—sources close to Mr. Nixon gave out the report that "he wouldn't care less." It was also understood that Mr. Nixon would personally welcome such an addition to the neighborhood. This bit of information will no doubt surprise the Georgia group who expected Mr. Nixon to be publicly embarrassed.

10 or 12 Kids

Headed by Georgia State Rep. A. A. Fowler, in Atlanta, the idea of the American Resettlement Foundation is to seek swanky northern neighborhoods for southern Negroes and charge as low as $1.00 per month. They choose Negro families with 10 or 12 kids and buy property in the most exclusive sections of the country.

Fowler is quoted as saying this idea will give the country's leading integrationists a chance to practice "some of the mixing they have been preaching." If the deal goes through, plans are to settle the Negro family in the new house within 60 days. Leaders of the Resettlement Foundation include Roy V. Harris, one of the biggest segregation powers in the south.

Negro 4-H Girl Goes To Brazil for 6 Months

Mount Holly, Va.—Miss Doris Smith, a 20-year-old Negro 4-H'er who has completed a number of homemaking projects, as well as helped with the chores on her parents' 160-acre farm at Mount Holly, Va., was one of 14 young people who flew to Latin America last week for a 6-month stay as International Farm Youth Exchange delegates. Miss Smith and an Oregon 4-H'er, Miss Marilyn Neil, were headed for Brazil. There they will live as members of several farm families, assisting with the work to be done, sharing in family and community social life, and developing a better understanding of the customs and culture.

Holds B.S.

Miss Smith holds a B.S. degree in elementary education from Virginia State College, and Miss Neil has earned a similar degree at Oregon College of Education.

The other 12 IFYE delegates went to Argentina, Chile, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Panama, and Peru. Since the launching of this program 9 years ago, 880 U. S. farm youths have visited families have sent 1,016 of their young people here.

The youths not only seek to gain a better understanding of the ways of life of the people they visit, but they also try to help the host families and communities get a better understanding of their countries. They do this through conversation, talks before groups, and the presentation of slides and other visuals.

Mix egg yolk, milk, quick-cooking tapioca, salt, and 2 tablespoons sugar in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil (5 to 8 minutes). Pour a small amount of hot mixture gradually into meringue, blending well. Quickly stir in remaining tapioca mixture. Add vanilla. Let stand 15 to 20 minutes; stir. Place tapioca cream in serving dishes. Top with cooked sweetened apple sections. Serve warm or cold. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Louis B. Mayer

With the death of Louis B. Mayer, it will be remembered that it was under his direction as production chief that Lena Horne rose to fame in the many technicolor musicals for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer after the war. . . . This was the first real break for a Negro performer in musicals as Lena's parts were all as a night club singer, never in menial or servant roles. . . . Ironically enough, the day of Mayer's funeral, Lena, now one of America's biggest stars, opened her show on Broadway with a fabulous advance sale of more than one million bucks.

Nine Little Rock Students Get Heavy Mail from Overseas

New York, N. Y. — Some three thousand letters from virtually every nation outside the Iron Curtain have been received by the nine Negro students in Central High School in Little Rock, Ark. This mail has been unanimous in support of the youngsters and sympathetic to their efforts, declared New York Post reporter Ted Poston Thursday, (Oct. 31), in a telecast over WPIX.

The Negro high school children are receiving more mail from overseas than from the United States, although citizens of 42 states have written, he said.

Of the fifty to 100 letters received daily by the high school children, the leading nations represented are West Germany, Sweden and New Zealand. The nine expressed some disappointment that no mail had come from France because they wanted to make new "pen pals" from that country.

South Texas Town Votes to Integrate

Pleasanton, Texas. — Integration started Tuesday at Pleasanton, in South Texas, as a result of a 343-88 vote Saturday to permit 36 Negroes to attend white schools.

The election was the first held under a state law enacted last spring. The law requires a favorable vote before a school district can be integrated. J. D. Klingman, school superintendent, explained earlier that the election was called to protect the district's accreditation.

"Our Negro facilities are inadequate and have been declared so by the Texas education agency," he said.

Klingman estimated the school district has about 5,000 residents. Pleasanton is a farming center in Atascosa County.

Dental Care
Someone has stated that luxuries are things that make people do without necessities. Your city and county health department suggests that you are doing without the necessities when you neglect proper care of teeth and do without a good balanced diet.

Personal Touch

By MARIE ROSS

November is the month when that common little fruit—the persimmon—has been kissed by the heavy frosts—and can be found hanging on narrow limbs of tall trees in the woodlands.

It is a delicious little many-seeded pulpy fruit—member of the Ebony family—which is relished only when ripe—or after it has been frosted thoroughly by Mother Nature.

I picked a basket during the week end; carried a small box of them to the office—and soon the fun began. Every other person picked a luscious looking little fruit—and soon could not open his or her puckered mouth. One man, shaking his head and frowning, remarked: "I can't even say 'Spudnik'."

The more fortunate persimmon tasters were quite pleased—and were planning to go out for more to put away a few for the coming Thanksgiving dinner menu.

Persimmon Recipe

If you have noticed food pages in some of the current magazines and papers you have seen now and then a persimmon recipe. Of course, some of these recipes refer to the large imported Japanese persimmon—but many persons say that the small wild fruit has the better flavor.

I find wild persimmon preserves, something special with hot biscuits or rolls. A tablespoon or two of the same preserves, added to your winter punch or to fruit juice drinks, give zest, a snap or a biting quality that lifts the beverage.

Among the new persimmon suggestions are: persimmon pudding made with raisins; persimmon salad with grapefruit slices.

Many grandparents made persimmon bear and wine.

Now, where to find some persimmons soon?

When the hunters go out into the woods, tell them to bring back a few persimmons, if the pheasants are all in hiding.

November, also is the month when many of the year-around thrifty persons are waiting for their Christmas savings checks.

In recent years, many social organizations have taken up the business of saving for special occasions—like Christmas shopping, vacation trips and the like.

One of the first of the social savings clubs to be organized in Des

Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. G. S. Patterson and Daughter, Pamela, See Europe in 6-Week Tour Given Them by Son, Dr. L. A. Whitfield

When Mrs. John Q. Evans, 1106—17th Street, left Des Moines last August, she started the first leg of a journey that took her on a tour of the historic sites and unofficial world wonders of Europe. Accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. G. S. Patterson, of Omaha, Nebr., and her grand-daughter, Pamela, she joined Dr. L. A. Whitfield, her physician-surgeon-son in Chicago, Ill., who made the trip possible.

11 Countries

Following their journey across the Atlantic on the Queen Mary, largest British luxury ocean liner, Mrs. Evans and family joined the Happiness Group, and independent traveling group, and toured the continent. Their six week sight-seeing trip took them to eleven countries, including: London, England and a tour of Buckingham Palace and Charles Dickens Curiosity Shop; Rotterdam and Amsterdam, Holland; Brussels, Belgium, where preparations are going on for the 1958 World's Fair; Luxembourg; Heidelberg, Germany, famed world medical center; Liechtenstein, smallest European country; Austria; Switzerland; La Sagne, Venice, Rome, Genoa, home of Columbus, and Florence, world art center, and Pisa in Italy; Monte Carlo, home of Prince Ranier and Princess Grace in Monaco; and Versailles and Paris, in France.

Bicycles

Mrs. Evans was enthusiastic on seeing first hand, historic sites she had read about but was particularly impressed by the things history books had left out.

In Holland, where the chief transportation is bicycles, they visited Amsterdam, a city of canals like Venice, Italy, only here the canals were bordered by sidewalks.

Mrs. Evans reports, "It was nothing to get up in the morning and see the women on hands and knees, scrubbing the sidewalks clean."

She added, "Rotterdam, Holland is a post-war rebuilt city with many tall apartment buildings in pastel shades of blue, pink and yellow."

Street Car Boats

In La Sagne, Italy they climbed jerkily to a mountain top by cable car. Despite the deep snow, Mrs.

Moines was by a group who calls itself the "M.C. Club."

In a letter from Mrs. Julia Cannon, 1220 Laurel Street, president, she tells how her social savings club operates.

"This is a nice club and—so easy to save—as we won't go to town with one or two dollars."

"We have a president, secretary and treasurer. We meet the second Tuesday in November (Nov. 12), when we start our Christmas savings by paying from one to five dollars—or whatever one feels like she can pay."

"Then we draw Big Sister names that same night for next year—and—whosoever name you choose, is your Big Sister. Her name is kept a secret until next Christmas at which time the club has a Christmas party at one of the members' homes."

"We exchange gifts, pay three dollars plus tax for a gift. When your Big Sister has a birthday you are to send her a hankie, with no name signed. We serve ice cream and cake or salad and coffee—or whatever you want to serve."

"Our checks are mailed to us about the 11th of November. Books closed on Nov. 5 for banking. We meet every two weeks. We pay thirty cents a month dues. Twenty cents goes into our treasury for the Christmas turkey. Ten cents goes into the benevolent treasury for flowers or cards."

"If a member dies, we buy flowers; if sick, we mail a card."

So much for the M. C. Savings Club in Des Moines.

In Kansas City, I have noticed these clubs in the weekly news: The Charmante De Moisselle Social and Savings Club, L'Esprit De Fleurs Social and Savings Club—The Morning Glory Art and Savings Club—The Keys Social and Savings Club—The Trumpeter Savings Club—The Tuen of Hearts Social and Savings Club—The Fashionettes Social and Savings Club—The Jasmynes Social and Savings Club—The Happy Workers Social and Savings Club—and others—which prove that many of the social clubs are mixing business with their pleasures.

"We have a separate treasurer for our turkey money. Benevolent

Evans says, "it was not cold," and they ate dinner at outdoor tables before descending.

Venice, the city of canals of blue sea waters and gondolas was another stop. There workers get to their jobs on street car boats which seats 50 to 60 persons. "The people are always singing operas there," she said, "and their voices sound so soft and beautiful."

"All over Europe the cars are black and very small, and the streets are very narrow," she noted. "In England, where it rains so much, people never go out doors without an umbrella, which they also use for a walking cane."

Impressed by Art

Mrs. Evans was impressed most by the art and art work—the statuary in gardens and on and around buildings; paintings on ceiling and walls in cathedrals and castles; the gardens and water fountains of Tivoli, Italy; the gallery of mirrors, golden stairway, giant chandeliers and formal gardens of Versailles, France.

In spite of Europe's unofficial wonders of the world, Mrs. Evans says, after her tour of Eastern United States, that "nothing compared to American and the home of George Washington on the Potomac. After all that over there, I had to return home to find the real beauty."

Gives European Trip

Dr. Whitfield

Mrs. Evans' son, Dr. Laurence A. Whitfield, Chicago, Ill., physician-surgeon and specialist in Internal medicine made the trip possible. Dr. Whitfield, who is on the staff at Provident Hospital and associated with Chicago General Hospital, combined research work with recreation during the trip.

"We also bring a covered dish for our Christmas turkey dinner. In other words, the club buys the turkey. We plan a menu and tell each member what to bring to make up the dinner, depending upon how many members. We have sixteen members. In this case two women go in together and fix a dish: four will get sweet potatoes; another four or six will get green beans. A dinner committee is appointed and they prepare the dinner. We each bring a guest, our husbands or whatnot, and a small gift for the guest."

How to Make a Dust Ruffle from a Sheet

IT'S EASY TO ACHIEVE this glamorous decorator finish for your bed by making the dust ruffle from a common percale sheet. Economical, too, when you consider that a double-bed size percale sheet is under four dollars. Easy launderability offers another reason why homemakers like the idea. From directions originated and tested by The Cannon Homemaking Institute, you can make a dust ruffle in a few hours.

First, measure the distance from top of box spring to floor. Then add 3" for hem and seam allowance. This gives you the depth of the dust ruffle.

Second, measure three sides of your bed. Double this figure, and you have the yardage needed for a gathered or shirred dust ruffle. For the tailored style shown, measure three sides of your bed and add a yard for the four-inch corner pleats.

Cut or tear the ruffle lengthwise on the sheet; hem bottom of ruffle. Gather or arrange the top (with front pleats) until it fits your bed. Now, cut a piece of unbleached muslin the size of your mattress and sew your gathered or tailored ruffle to the outer edge of muslin. Place muslin between box spring and mattress. Your dust ruffle then hangs evenly and securely all around the bed.

For decorative trimmings on dust ruffles, washable bias tape is available in packages at most dime stores.

Imposing Adult Standards of Conduct on Little Ones Causes Parent-Child Conflicts

WRITTEN BY MAY P. YOUTZ, SUI ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR school demands.

A mother visiting school complained, "How do you get my boy Tom to do things? He simply doesn't do what I ask him to do at home."

After the principal and mother had discussed the problem at this invitation of the mother, the school social worker visited the home several times to observe the situation. One day when the worker was there, the mother gave several commands practically all in one breath as soon as the child stepped into the house. The child did nothing she asked.

Attention Span

"See, this is what I mean," said the mother.

The school visitor was able to help her by tactfully pointing out that children's attention span is short, and by suggesting that she praise her boy when he did one thing successfully. As we advise parents, we need to remember that in the main they want to solve their problems with their children; they want a successful outcome when meeting difficult situations.

A clinician once told of a mother who brought her boy to his clinic asking that he be given a test because she thought he was, as she scornfully said, "Dumb." The clinician found that the child was not dumb but had an intellectual grasp which should have helped him meet

After discussing the home situation with the mother alone, the clinician said, "I believe you need to praise your son more than you do."

Praiseworthy?

The mother replied, "How can I praise him when he never does anything worthy of praise?"

I hope the reader sees the root of the problem here—adult standards of conduct imposed on children will cause parent-child conflicts. Today there are many helps for parents so that they may learn what to expect of children at different ages. There is no excuse for not knowing what a child can do and what behavior to expect of him at various stages of growing up.

THE WOLF IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING

It often happens that people who play cranks use that opportunity to get their dirty work in—as a joke—but deep in their hearts they mean every word they say or act they perform.

Last week, two Iowa University Negro students found signs on their doors in Currier Hall with the letters KKK on them. Some are prone to pass off this as a joke. It was not. The job was done by some students who resented Negro residents in the hall.

The dean of students has stated that the matter would be investigated thoroughly and the perpetrators punished severely, if they should be caught. This is as it should be for such pranks as this must not be tolerated in decent surroundings—anywhere for that matter.

Today, every effort is being made to ferret out subversive influence in American life. However, subversive influence is not confined to Communism but also fascist influence which show themselves in racial, religious, and economic hatred, all of which has a tendency to undermine the foundation of American government.

There are those who overlook or have a tendency to tolerate racist influence, making one excuse after another to justify its existence, such as calling the incident at Iowa University just a prank. This, of course, is wrong and those who attempt to pass it off so lightly are either in sympathy with such things or are so glibly as to misunderstand the meaning of such things.

Prompt positive action by university officials will deter a recurrence of such unwholesome conduct.

GIVE RUSSIA CREDIT: AMERICA PUSH ON!

Russia has launched another satellite, Sputnik No. 2. Much credit must go to them for their scientific achievement, for having been first to arrive so far in this field.

There are those who are howling at the government and scientists in this country for allowing the Russians to get ahead of the United States in the missile field. Most of them are those who made much over the probability that American know-how would be channeled to Russia. However, they were so stupid as to believe science could be kept a secret. It just is not so.

America has been first in many scientific fields and will do so again. And other countries have not howled because of our successes.

These scientific achievements by Russia may serve to spur American scientists on to new heights; they have demonstrated further that brains draw no line as to nationality or race.

SACRIFICES VICTORY TO MAINTAIN SEGREGATION

During the football game between Iowa and Michigan Universities, seldom has a more able and versatile player appeared on a field than Jim Pace, Michigan's left halfback. The television announcer reminded his hearers that Pace hails from Little Rock, Arkansas.

Just two weeks before that time, the announcer called attention to the fact that Williams, the able quarterback on the Wisconsin team, hails from Little Rock, also.

The University of Arkansas team has not done well this year. Pace and Williams, both of whom are Negroes, might have been the difference between a successful and an unsuccessful team for Arkansas this year. And it is pretty certain that the white boys at the University of Arkansas would have welcomed it.

Public Exposure
The ordinance in question was enacted by the city council on Oct. 14. On Oct. 15 the mayor called upon the NAACP and three pro-segregation groups to submit lists of members and other records within 15 days. The NAACP was specifically required to file the names of its members and contributors, its officers, agents and employees, and a financial statement indicating the source of all its income as well as a listing of all expenditures. Also required was an affidavit setting forth the relation of the branch to the national organization.

The ordinance, the document charged, "is a pretense for obtaining and publicly exposing the names of the members and contributors" of the Little Rock NAACP branch. Public exposure of these names, the complaint continued, "will deter members and contributors from joining or remaining affiliated with" the NAACP.

Frank Robinson is N. L. Soph. of Year

New York, N. Y.—Frank Robinson, Cincinnati's star outfielder has been acclaimed the National League's sophomore of 1957.

Robinson won over an impressive stock of second year eligibles in the annual polls conducted by the Associated Press. Of the 182 ballots cast by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America he won 52 of them. His closest competitor, pitcher John Drysdale of the transplanted Brooklyn Dodgers, had 44 votes.

Undoubtedly Robinson believes in improving because only last year he was the National League Rookie of the Year. The outfielder-first baseman batted at a .290 clip in his rookie year and as a sophomore he tied with Milwaukee's Hank Aaron for third place honors in the batting title with a sizeable .322. An increase of thirty-two per centage points.

The 22-year-old Robinson is the youngest of 11 children.

Willie was busy nosing around Seals Stadium, temporary home of the New York—we mean San Francisco Giants. Lincoln U. Routs TSU in Homecoming Clash

Jefferson City, Mo. (Special) Lincoln University playing before a Homecoming crowd of approximately 5,000 persons combined five touchdowns and three extra points to defeat Texas Southern University of Houston, 33-13, for their sixth straight victory this season.

The Lincoln driving attack produced 19 first downs to 8 for Texas Southern. The Tigers stayed mainly on the ground attempting only six passes and completing two. Texas Southern took to the air 14 times and completed six.

Roy Wilkins

Recalling that Arkansas Governor Orval Faubus cited states' rights against federal authority, Mr. Wilkins said: "He and his supporters cry out that the South is a hapless minority, subjected to the rule of a ruthless majority. They ask recognition of their minority status in the nation."

Minority Rights

But, the civil rights leader asserted, Gov. Faubus and other states' rights advocates "demand for themselves minority rights which in turn they deny to their own minorities. While protesting loudly and vigorously against restrictions upon their liberties, they consistently restrict the freedom of Negro citizens in their states."

According to the southern interpretation, Mr. Wilkins declared, "one of the rights of the states is to deny citizenship rights to Negro citizens, which is done the Little Rock crisis which broke out might have been eased somewhat had the peoples of those countries been informed of recent progress made in race relations in this country, he said. In failing to give a true representation of the role of Negroes in this country, Mr. Wilkins declared, the film industry is passing up an opportunity to render a real service to American democracy."

HEALTH FOR ALL

A HEARTY BREAKFAST

"But I just don't feel hungry in the morning." It isn't just women fighting the battle of the bulge who try to get by with a cup of black coffee and a piece of toast. Many of us just don't feel like eating breakfast.

We know better. We know that our bodies need food after the 12 hour stretch since dinner. Studies among teen-agers have shown that they suffer an eleven o'clock slump in their school-work if they haven't eaten breakfast. Factories and offices have recognized this slump among their workers by instituting mid-morning coffee breaks.

Wrong Message

There's a good reason why many of us can't face a plate of scrambled eggs at 7 a.m. When the alarm clock goes off, our body temperature is at its lowest. Stirring about with the business of getting dressed for the day starts the temperature up towards normal. But the hypothalamus, the part of the brain that controls appetite, gets the wrong message. It interprets the rising temperature to mean that food has already been consumed, so it shuts off appetite. The farmer who gets up and goes right out to the barn to do his early chores isn't troubled this way. By the time he comes in for breakfast, his temperature has stabilized itself and the hypothalamus has created an appetite that can tear into a double helping of pancakes with sausages.

What's the answer, if you haven't cows to feed? You can try to get up earlier and do a few household tasks. If that's too difficult, make your mid-morning break a meal—not just another cup of coffee and a doughnut. This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by Polk County Tuberculosis & Health Association.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

Don't know who didn't see the Iowa-Michigan battle. Opinions as to whether Iowa should have gone for the win instead of settling for a tie. In our book the best back on the field was Michigan's Jim Pace. The man has really improved over last year. Then he was a hard, fast receiver, but now he has added a change of pace and the cool poise of a veteran that makes him a threat every time he gets the ball. Can't blame Iowa for not wanting Pace to get many more chances to run against them.

Barring injustices, there is a good chance that the all conference team will contain two Negroes on each half. That would be history. Right now, Pace and Lewis of Wisconsin are the two best backs in the Big Ten.

We have been telling people that Drake has a better team than people think. Guess the Bulldogs proved it Saturday when they walloped Iowa State. But, even with their surprise play, they had an assist from the mud.

High School

The flu got credit for a postponement of the East-Roosevelt game. Maybe, it was not the best thing to do but the kids have to learn that things will happen in life that will catch them unprepared and that those things can't be postponed. Might as well learn that from a football game. Football teaches, a lot of lessons that can be applied to life if one will do so.

One of the chief faults of the North High's Coach talk is that he tries to teach his kids too many plays and formations. Old timers can recall when all teams had from sixty to eighty plays and from three to four formations. Then there was a complicated number system to learn since there was no huddle then. The quarterback simply began calling numbers and each number meant something.

county attorney's office.

Incinerator

The body of Mrs. Rife's newborn daughter was found June 5 in an incinerator by Mrs. Alma Parson, who lives in the same apartment house as Mrs. Rife.

Coroner R. Corwin Johnson said after an autopsy that the infant was alive when it was born but that the cause of death could not be determined. Mrs. Rife has two daughters, aged 4 and 2. Her husband Marion works in Cedar Rapids.

Drake Has Skip-Day Snake Dance in Loop

The Drake University Bulldogs celebrated their 20-0 Homecoming victory over Iowa State University last Saturday with Skip-Day, Monday and a raucous, hilarious snake-dance motorcade down Locust street to the Statehouse for a commendation talk by Gov. Hershel Loveless. The snake-dance motorcade consisted of a line of cars weaving left to right across the street and letting no other cars pass the procession. Students were running along side the cars with jubilant hilarity.

But there was no Skip-day nor snake-dancing for the Bulldogs themselves who were busy readying themselves for the rugged contest with their next foe, Wichita, Kans.

GIVE TO ME, YOUR HAND

Give to me your hand, my friend
Together: through all storms we'll wend.

Give to me your hand, dear Lord
Arm me with Thy mighty sword,
Lift me up by faith I pray,
Direct me always in Thy way.

Good neighbor, lend a willing hand:
Extend good will o'er every land.
