NEGROES CONVERGE ON CAPITOL GROUNDS IN MONTGOMERY:

Protest Injustices in Ala. Courts

Leander Berry, 30 Arrested in Sunday Shooting Incident

Leander Berry, 30, of 908 Laurel street, was charged with assault with intent to commit murder in the early Monday morning shooting of Marcus McCraven, of 913 Grove Street.

According to investigating officer, Detective Paul Thomas, the shooting occurred at the Craftsman Club located at 1213 Park Street, shortly after midnight Sunday.

Berry had been evicted from the club following a quarrel with his companion, shortly before midnight. He then came back about 15 minutes later and demanded re-entrance to the club, Thomas related.

"McCraven was on the door checking membership cards, and when McCraven refused to admit Berry, he (Berry) pulled a gun and started shooting as McCraven was closing the door," Thomas said.

One of the bullets struck McCraven in the jaw and he was taken to Methodist hospital where he was reported in "fair condition, Wednesday."

The Craftsman club is owned by a local fraternal organization and William Weathers, of 1067 16th Street, who evicted Berry, is one of its managers. Patrolman Robert Webb was the arresting officer.

For 23 years Speck Redd has been teaching functional keyboard harmony and has authored three books pertaining to that phase of music. However, he specializes in teaching adults and gives daily private lessons in his music room at home from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. with the aid of two assistants, Mrs. Barbara McMurray and Mrs. Peggy Earrotti.

Famous Pupils

Among his more nationally known famous pupils are Roger Williams (Des Moines' Louis Weertz) and Louis Bellison (Pearl Bailey's drummer-husband) But chiefly people from all walks of life, housewives, teachers, doctors, etc., who have never played before but are seeking to learn and relax with music.

Leaders Plan Review Of Southern Voting Restrictions April 25

Washington—Leaders in the effort to wipe out voting restrictions maintained against Negroes in southern states will report on their respective states at a one-day conference to be held here at the Asbury Methodist Church Sunday, April 27. Keynote speaker for the conference will be Aubrey W. Williams, long-time advocate of human rights and editor of the Southern Farm and Home, Montgomery, Ala.

C. Gomillion

Heading the list of those scheduled to report is Charles G. Gomillion, faculty member of Tuskegee Institute and president of the Tuskegee Civic Association. Mr. Gomillion will give highlights of the development that focused national attention there earlier this year.

James Nabrit

James Nabrit, secretary of Howard University, will summarize and lead a discussion after the reports.

2,500 Join Easter Mass Meeting to Ask Support Of Liberal Southerners

Montgomery, Ala.—On the day that is annually remembered by man as the resurrection after the crucifixion of the greatest Messiah who ever lived, nearly 2,500 Negroes gathered on the grounds of Alabama's capitol Easter Sunday in a mass protest against "crucifixion" by the courts of Alabama.

The meeting which had been called by local ministers in Montgomery was held to protest the recent electrocution of Jeremiah Reeves, Jr., who was convicted and put to death in the electric chair here 16 days ago for the rape of a white woman.

Miscarriage of Justice

Speaking before the crowd, the Rev. Martin Luther King, Baptist minister and bus boycott leader, lashed out at the "constant miscarriage of justice that we (Negroes in Alabama) confront every day in our courts."

The leader of the Montgomery Improvement Association told his listeners that Reeves' death "is but one incident" in the long and desolate night of court injustice.

"No Redress"

"Here Negroes are robbed openly with very little hope of redress," he said. "We are fined and jailed in defiance of law. Right or wrong, a Negro's word has little weight against a white opponent's."

The Rev. Mr. King emphasized that it was "the severity of Jeremiah Reeves' penalty that aroused the Negro community, not the question of his guilt or innocence."

Similar Crime

Several days before the day of the meeting leaders had pointed out that for a similar crime white men who are convicted of raping Negro woman get off with a comparatively light prison sentence.

Chief aim of the meeting was to elicit support of white Southerners to wage an intensive battle against "the pattern of injustice in the court room."

Empanelling of Jury For Knox Appeal Case Began Here Wed.

Empanelling of a jury to hear the Raymond Knox appeal case began here at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Polk County district court.

Knox, "the man in the river," of 223 Racecon Street has found guilty of disturbing the peace and resisting arrest in Municipal court here last Aug. 29, fined $10 on the first charge and, sentenced to 15 days on the second and paroled to his attorney, Henry T. McKnight for six months.

The case was immediately appealed to district court, and the following day, Aug. 30, Knox filed a $200,000 damage suit against three Des Moines policemen who he said assaulted him "without provocation."

Knox's case following his arrest by police Aug. 12 at the scene of a drowning in the Des Moines river near the Scott Street bridge, attracted wide attention in Des Moines and elicited protest to "police brutality" and public support of the local NAACP and Interdenominational Alliance of Des Moines who sent delegations to his trial.

NAACP Official Warns: 8 States Cannot Be Trusted With Federal School Funds

Washington—The officials of eight southern states cannot be trusted to administer any type of federal assistance to education without anti-segregation safeguards, an NAACP official told a Congressional subcommittee here.

Clarence Mitchell, director of the Association's Washington bureau, testified before the House subcommittee on special education on April 2. He enumerated the eight states with untrustworthy officials as Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, and Virginia.

He cited a letter from NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins to Marion B. Folsom, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, in which Mr. Wilkins warned that "any government plan for assistance to the states in the form of grants for scholarships, teacher training, and other methods of reducing the waste of talent should not subsidize a system which has stifled talent among the children and youth of 4,000,000 American families, except for a handful of hardy, persistent and fortunately placed individuals."

Wanton Program

In addition to their verbal statements, all participants will also file more comprehensive written reports, to be published for nationwide distribution. The published document will also have reports from all the other southern and border states, including one on Maryland by Cliff McKay, managing editor of the Afro-American Newspapers, Baltimore.

any funds unless its appropriate officials pledge that they will be spent in conformity with the requirements of the U.S. Supreme Court decisions of May 17, 1954, and May 31, 1955, in the school desegregation cases," he asserted.

Mr. Mitchell cautioned subcommittee members that "at some point, the Congress must decide to call a halt to the wanton program of using federal money to promote illegal school programs of racial segregation."

Patterned Defiance

"Now is the time to act," he added, pointing out that "Congress cannot ignore the extensive pattern of tax-supported defiance in some areas of the country."

The NAACP's legislative specialist noted that a Chicago newspaper last month estimated that southern states have spent more than two million dollars in attempts to defy the Supreme Court decisions banning segregated public schools.

White Citizens Council

He noted also that in Mississippi the state legislature has had under consideration "a proposal to let a private organization, the White Citizens Council, fight desegregation with tax money."

"Unless there are appropriate safeguards against illegal expenditures of federal money, we may discover too late that funds intended for public education have been diverted to supporting the White Citizens Council in Mississippi or some other private organization that promotes segregation," Mr. Mitchell cautioned.

ENCOURAGING BETTER READING

When I was in grade school, I read hundreds of stories about cowboys and Indians, all of them alike. My mother used to make great efforts to persuade me to vary my reading tastes, but for several years the cowboy stories were the only ones that held me spellbound.

A few days ago I happened to run across one of these stories, one I had read many times long ago. I read it again, enjoying the nostalgic feeling of the temporary return to those young days—but I was astonished at how dull and pointless the story seemed to me now. My taste in reading matter has matured a great deal.

Rehearing Stories

My own young children are now as entranced as I used to be with certain kinds of stories, hearing and rehearing the same tales with apparently inexhaustible delight. My delight in reading these stories has

N. J. ASSEMBLYWOMAN HONORED AT TESTIMONIAL

East Orange, N. J.—Mrs. Madeline Williams, the first Negro woman to be elected to the New Jersey State Legislature, was honored at a testimonial dinner here on March 27.

Principal speaker at the dinner which was held at the Surburban Hotel was Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who paid tribute to Mrs. Williams' devotion to public service.

The guest of honor is the wife of Samuel Williams, a member of the NAACP national Board of Directors.

Mrs. Williams was presented with two plaques. Dr. Everett B. Simmons, president of the Oranges-Maplewood NAACP branch, made the presentation on behalf of the branch. The second plaque was presented by Samuel Haynes, editor of the New Jersey Afro-American, on behalf of his newspaper.

long since vanished, and I try sometimes to introduce them to new stories that I think are more "fitting" for their developing minds. My choices are not very popular with the kids, and they tell me I don't like "good" stories. Once in a while, though, they ask a question which shows that stories I chose where at least heard.

"Mature" Appetites

Parents can become pretty concerned about the tastes their children exhibit in reading material, music and other fields. We wonder what we can do to help them develop "mature" appetites in these areas. On way of enlarging children's range of interests is to have available a great variety of music, books and magazines, and other examples of the artistic fields.

Encourage Exploration

The almost-universal presence of radio and television probably makes available a wider variety of entertainment than most families have ever been able to choose from before, and changes in the printing industry have brought about the same kind of expansion of choice of inexpensive written materials of all kinds. Forbidding a given kind of material may be almost impossible to enforce; encouraging children to explore a convenient variety may probably make it easier for the child to choose wisely as his tastes change.

nest Redd Serenaders" billing themselves as "exclusive but not expensive."

Since coming to Des Moines in 1942 Speck Redd has composed both popular and classical works, for Leeds Music Company. He wrote a symphony based on the history of Ethiopia which took him five years to finish.

Radio, TV Artist

In Des Moines Speck Redd is more widely known among TV fans for his radio and television show, "Speck Redd plays", several years ago. A feature of his show was telephoned requests for songs from home viewers and listeners. Out of the more than 4,000 songs that the inimitable entertainer knows, he was only stumped once and that—because the song had the same title as another.

Records Now

Although he has no TV show at present he is still affiliated with KRNT-TV and records chiefly for radio. He has even done singing commercials for several sponsors. He still has his 3-piece combo, "Speck Redd's Trio, which he has had since 1942 and concentrates on intra-state engagements.

The man who has added much culturally to his city, has served four years as pianist for the Fellowship Chorus of Corinthian Baptist Church where he has been a member since establishing residence here.

Fabulous Piano

To go along with his fabulous career is an equally fabulous piano, an Ainsley Dyna-Tone, electronically controlled, with round tapering keys. It has a hi-fi record player built in, so when he's composing, he can get an immediate playback if desired. In addition it's wired for TV and four types of radio. When closed it turns into a buffet and is reported as the only one of its kind in this part of the country.

Devoted to Family

Speck Redd is as equally devoted to his family as to music, and has turned down tempting offers because of his determination to keep his home roots in one place, as few musicians find it possible to do.

SEEN' STARS

WITH DELORES CALVIN

New York City—(CNS)—Eartha Kitt's new record—St. Louis Blues—Shorty Rogers and His Giants is really moving up—and is termed her greatest yet. Eartha singing the blues is a treat. Everyone loved Mahalia Jackson on Ed Murrow's show—and the children appearing with her were adorable. Mahalia loved children and even though she isn't a fashion plate, you must admit her voice is so beautiful you see nothing else but the talent.

NAT COLE

Sammy Davis

Sammy Davis, Jr.'s new Decca album, "No Fool Like An Old Fool" hitting the mark and speaking of Sammy—it was he who subbed for Judy Garland in the Las Vegas deal when she was ill—then she returned to walk off—a performance which she repeated at the swank Town and Country Club here in Brooklyn where only a few Negroes (Belafonte among them) have been able to appear. It is a sad affair when a star such as Judy Garland goes completely out with the tide.

"The Well"

TV brought back "The Well," a 1951 story of a little Negro girl who fell in—and is heroically saved at the end. To those who had not seen this film, it proved very race-educational. Among the reminiscing about Mike Todd, it was recalled that one of Todd's early money makers, "The Hot Mikado" which starred Bill Robinson, is the same show where Bill met his second wife, Elaine, who was dancing in the chorus.

Fats Domino

"Othello", the Shakesperian play which brought out the great talent of Paul Robeson and Ferer, will play New York again—but with different stars. It opens July 2nd in Central Park and stars one of our favorites, Frank Silvera, in the title role. Fats Domino is a big headliner this week at the Apollo, presented by Dr. Jive, Harlem favorite. Domino took over the Easter show which is usually played each year by Louis Jordan. Jordan meanwhile is filling dates in Florida and incidentally those tourists who were so quick to slip over to Havana during the cold wave in Florida, aren't so anxious to get over there now—into a Cuban revolution.

W. C. Handy

They're busy with planning fitting memorials to a great man, W. C. Handy. With three of the stars of "St. Louis Blues" putting out albums from the picture (Nat Cole, Eartha and Pearl Bailey), Handy will well be immortalized for years to come. Newest idea is a jazz concert at the Central Plaza April 20th with George Lewis and his band. Part of the proceeds go to Handy's foundation for the Blind, a pet project of his.

Individuals to be cited are L. Alex Wilson, editor of the Tribune-State Defender at Memphis, Tenn., and Ella Fitzgerald in town for her Easter Sunday concert with Duke Ellington at Carnegie Hall. A one-shot performance, all seats were reserved at $4.75 top. The lilies which adorned most churches were flown in from Bermuda, the land where lilies grow so beautiful and plentiful.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bates, publisher and editor, respectively, of the Arkansas State Press at Little Rock. They will receive a citation of merit for outstanding performance in journalism.

Wm. Walker

The newspapers will receive the award for significant contributions to better human relations, instituted through its reporting and picture coverage and editorial writing.

Mr. Wilson will serve as toastmaster at the banquet and William O. Walker, editor of the Cleveland (Ohio) Call and Post will give the banquet address.

Education

Admiral Rickover, who is called the father of the atomic submarine, is extremely critical of "frills" in American education. An AP dispatch quotes him as saying: "I'd throw all of the fringe courses out of our schools. For instance, in one Illinois school system they have a course in how to know if you're in love. In another school they have a course in rest—you get credits for resting. And in Florida they have a course in fly casting."

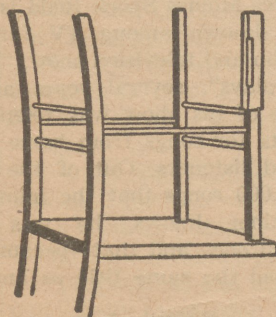

Worthy Jr. Passport Rejected by Dulles

New York, N. Y.—The American Civil Liberties Union disclosed today that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles finally had rejected the passport application of Baltimore Afro-American newsman William Worthy, Jr. The civil liberties group said that a suit to regain the passport promptly will be filed in the Federal District Court charging that the Secretary's action violates the right of freedom of movement and infringes on freedom of the press. Worthy had visited Communist China and Hungary in 1956 de-

How to Even Up Chair Legs

WHEN a chair is out of level, one method of evening the legs is to trim the legs which are too long. A simple method of performing this tricky operation is described in Family Handyman.

Form a tube of paper, fastening it together with paste. Now slip it over one leg, cutting off the tube at the exact tip of the leg as the other end rests on the rung.

To assure getting each leg the identical length, slip the tube over each other one in turn, marking them to the same length. Now adjust the length of the tube to the shortest leg and mark all others for cutting.

the Camera Guild

Pictures of children in a favorite play situation add interest to family albums.

Use Simple Props to Make Story-Telling Snapshots

Every one who has ever had anything to do with a "theatrical" production, whether it be a grammar school pageant or a community theater group offering, knows the importance of having the right properties. We've rummaged through trunks in attics through boxes in basements to find just the right things to use in the setting to help tell the play's story to the audience.

Props can be similarly used in your snapshots to tell a story that will be fun to read and re-read in the pages of your family albums for many years to come. Instead of taking a picture of little Susie, who is the family's pride and joy, standing staring straight into the camera—picture her in one of her favorite play settings.

You can sometimes do this candidly, but on other occasions you'll want to set-up such a picture. This will enable you to arrange the props for the best possible composition of your snapshot scene. The picture which illustrates today's column was chosen because it brings out this point very nicely. Whether the little girl had arranged her "pupils" in exactly this fashion, or if the camera-user had a hand in it, we can't say. In either case, they are nicely arranged so that their attention—and the attention of anyone viewing the picture is neatly centered on the little girl playing teacher.

Choose the right props, and arrange them nicely to help your family snapshots tell an interesting story. —John Van Guilder

Africa 1958

Says Missionaries Helped This Continent Rise to Power

FOREIGN MISSION BOARD, N. B. C., U. S. A., INC.
By Dr. C. C. Adams, Secretary

ISSELE UKU, NIGERIA: I arrived in Kano, Nigeria, on the first birthday of Ghana's Independence, a most significant date to watch in African future history. Kano, like hundreds of other African towns and communities, is losing its weird and old appearance to modernization. It is falling in step with "new Nigeria" and new Africa. Immediately the old questions confronted me:

Questions

What makes Africa what she is? Why are African men and women filling the universities of Europe, America and Canada, walking away with scholastic honors, to return to serve their homelands?

Why are schools, colleges, universities and hospitals springing up all over Africa as if by magic?

In Ferment

Africa today, in 1958, is stirred spite a State Department ban on travel to those countries.

Dulles Statement

In approving the Board's ruling, Dulles said that he believed Worthy would not abide by the Department's travel restrictions in the future, and "accordingly, I have concluded that his activities abroad, at this time, would be prejudicial to the orderly conduct of foreign relations of the United States." Dulles asserted that the travel bars had been imposed to implement U. S. foreign policy and that Worthy had disregarded the government's position by using his passport to travel to and in Communist China and Hungary.

Retirement

The New York Times quotes Dr. Howard A. Rusk as saying that this year about 500,000 Americans will enter into retirement. More than 14,000,000 men and women have reached the widely accepted retirement age of 65, and their number is increasing by more than 400,000 a year.

and in ferment, along with the rest of the world. In China, India and Africa, the true and unselfish work of missionaries have stirred the eagles' nests and the eagles are anxious to try their wings.

"Thus Africa is boiling with the desire to be free, filled with the aspirations for liberty like an over-heated cauldron. Both the answers and the reasons for this significant smouldering can be traced to the diligent, patient workings of missionaries. Unfortunately, the world has long been ignorant and unappreciative of what missionaries are doing.

Dr. Martin

To go from the specific to the general, Dr. S. W. Martin here at Issele Uku, heads the Pilgrim Mission which encompasses a fifty mile area. There are fifty churches, a high school, teachers college, and forty fielding schools. Two hundred and fifty loyal and devoted workers are Dr. Martin's great team. There are hundreds of others like Dr. Martin and his team scattered about Africa, and they have been working tirelessly for more than a century.

False Ideas

They have created the fire that burns away the false ideas and practices of ignorance, superstitions, slavery and race superiority. There is left the true vision and stature of the image of man as God intends him to be: Free, intelligent, developed and bowing to worship only God.

Make Men Free

Political agitation had no part or purpose in the missionary teachings. They simply preached and taught the Gospel of Christ, the results of which is to make men free. "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

Personal Touch

By
ROSS

Thanks for all of the lovely Easter greeting cards from Iowa friends. Of course, I was looking for a few postscripts. Looked all over—inside and outside—for a few lines penned to the card of Mrs. Willa Mae Williams, down in Ottumwa. Saw her last—at a tea in Des Moines, given last June in the home of the Stanley Proctors, in honor of Mrs. Gwendolyn Fowler who was on vacation here from her post in Saigon, Viet Nam. Mrs. Williams, then, promised to resume her writing—to let the readers know what is going on weekly in Ottumwa. The office will have to remind her as, once she was a very busy news correspondent for the Bystander.

Miss Betty Jones, 1118 Twelfth Street, added to her card; "May God bless you and your family"—which is always appreciated—and, especially now in modern times like these.

The other day, I received an Easter message from my sister, Sylvia, who attended Drake University her freshman year, then finished at Minnesota U. Now Mrs. Caldwell McMillan, who with her husband and two children live on a 180-acre farm in Annapolis, Md., she wrote of the recent predicament of their family during the recent snow storm which buried her section.

"At last heat—water running out of the faucets—and refrigeration! No telephone as yet, but that's not so important. Our clocks stopped at 3:24 a.m. Thursday (the first day of spring) and until this afternoon at 2 o'clock, remained there just about four and one-half days—no electricity.

"With this modern living everything stops. Fortunately for us we could cook, having gas too, we were blessed with the fireplaces and a dug well—not a drilled one. We could get water from the well. Our neighbors—on the Washington highway—had a greater hardship with an electric stove and a drilled well—no cooking and no water.

"Fortunately for everyone, the weather was not real cold—in the

Cpl. Alpha Dixon Visits With Family Before Leaving for California

Cpl. Alpha (Burtie) Dixon of the United States Marines returned from a two year cruise around the world to spend his leave with his parents and other relatives before departing for Camp Pendleton, Calif. last Monday, Mar. 31.

While here he was entertained by all the members of his family. He is the son of Mrs. Jesserean Dixon of 958 West 15th Street and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Carson, of 964 West 23rd Street.

Cpl. Dixon attended Roosevelt High School in Des Moines and graduated from Hyde Park High in Chicago, Ill. He attended a junior college in California before entering the Marine Corps.

upper 30's and 40's. We had four clocks—all electric—so we had no time, no radio and no television. We borrowed two kerosene lamps and with the small one we had, got along pretty good. The children caught colds but are not sick with them."

About the winter weather which hit the hardest at the arrival of spring — Mrs. McMillan summed: "this has been a winter of firsts for us. First time we were snowed in and it took two days to get to the highway; first time electricity and telephone cut off for such a long time; first time we had so much snow, ice and cold weather—and—who knows if it's over." So much for my sister. Some Des Moines friends might like her address. It is Route 1, Box 309, Annapolis, Md.

An Easter "note" arrived from Miss Mabel Harris, 1319 Lyons Street, who penned that she reads the Personal Touch column in the Bystander weekly—and "I am always interested. A retired Des Moines school teacher, Miss Harris is an arthritic sufferer. She added "I don't get out at all now days. I keep in touch with the doings of Des Moines, and, in a way with the rest of the world via the newspapers."

"Run Silent, Run Deep" Stars Gable, Lancaster; Features Top Negro Actor, John Fluellen

Joel Fluellen (right), Broadway-TV-Hollywood acting veteran, plays a submarine torpedo man in Hecht-Hill-Lancaster's "Run Silent, Run Deep," World War II action drama, released by United Artists. Here Fluellen listens as the sub's executive officer, Burt Lancaster, comes to the defense of their Commander, played by Clark Gable.

"RUN SILENT, RUN DEEP," United Artists' adventure drama of World War II submarine warfare starring Clark Gable and Burt Lancaster, gives Negro actor Joel Fluellen, his best film role to date. As Bragg, a torpedo man serving Commander Richardson (Gable) and his executive officer Jim Bledsoe (Lancaster), Fluellen is in the middle of the most violent and authentic undersea battle scenes ever brought before the Hollywood cameras now showing at RKO Orpheum in Des Moines.

Ocean Warfare

"RUN SILENT, RUN DEEP," a Hecht, Hill and Lancaster production is the story of violent ocean warfare in the Japanese waters of the Pacific waged during World War

II, and the bitter personal conflict between the two men in command.

Richardson, having lost his own submarine during a raid on Japan's Bungo Straits, assumes command of the U.S.S. "Nerka" for another mission to the dangerous waters. He incurs the antagonism of Bledsoe, who had expected to command the "Nerka" following an injury to its Commander. Richardson finally gains the confidence and respect of his men after a heroic series of actions deep in Japanese home waters.

Fluellen

Fluellen is aboard the "Nerka" a fleet submarine, in reality the Navy's "U.S.S. Redfish." During World War II the "Redfish" sank thousands of tons of Japanese shipping as well as a Japanese aircraft carrier.

Rewarding Experience

Actor Fluellen found working with Clark Gable and Burt Lancaster "an extremely rewarding experience." Careful preparation for their roles as officers of a submarine indicated the well known fact that the two stars are perfectionists before the cameras.

Gable, known to millions as the "King," ranks as one of the world's most popular and best known personalities. Lancaster, a one-time acrobat, must keep himself in shape both physically and mentally to meet the extravagant demands made on him.

First Film Break

Fluellen got his first film break in "The Jackie Robinson Story." He came to Hollywood from Broadway where he scored in "Deep Are The Roots." The young actor has appeared in many television shows.

Described as a man of outrageous talent, Fluellen is also a singer and once was with the Johnson choir. He also excels as a fine sculptor, singer, skilled painter, director and writer. Fluellen is probably best known as Enoch in last year's film drama "Friendly Persuasion."

In his thirty-plus years, Joel Fluellen has gone a long distance from his birthplace in Monroe, La. and his original training as a social worker at the University of Chicago to his role in "RUN SILENT, RUN DEEP."

The announcement by Arnetta G. Wallace of Knoxville, Tenn., AKA national president who met with other Sorority officials in the Nation's Capital this week, included a

LAWLESSNESS DESTROYS AMERICAN PRESTIGE

Easter Sunday, a throng of Negroes assembled on the capital grounds in Montgomery, Alabama, for a mass meeting protesting the unequal administration of justice in the courts in that state.

The protest was precipitated over the execution of a Negro for raping a white woman and the failure of even an attempt to prosecute a white man for raping a Negro woman.

This, of course, is a sad situation for when the law fails to do its duty, then there is little chance for the average citizen to secure justice.

Such practice has gone on for years but it is only now that Negroes have had the courage to protest the practice openly.

And while the white South gets away with such conduct against the Negro, it fails to realize that the prestige of the United States suffers immeasurably because of such practices.

Peoples of other lands brand the United States as hypocrites; as a lawless nation unwilling to protect the rights of its own citizens. And while they accept all the aid they can get, respect for U. S. does not go hand and hand with questionable gratefulness for the material help given them.

Unfortunately, America is drifting into a nation of lawlessness far greater than that of other countries. Much of this is due to the failure of moral faces to emphasize the importance of that part of the daily lives of the American people. This lawlessness is being heaped upon Negroes in the South, in the North against all classes.

LITTLE LEAGUE BASEBALL DESERVES SUPPORT

Last year, little league baseball got started in Des Moines with no small degree of success. Youngsters took to the program which not only provided recreation for them but it also taught good conduct, citizenship and sportsmanship.

There is an old saying that idleness is the devil's workshop. As warmer weather comes on and the schools are dismissed for the summer youngsters have more time to play. It is well to help provide play in wholesome surroundings.

Of course, all cannot play on the teams. Naturally, the more talented ones will be chosen. But given an opportunity, most kids will be trying to measure up knowing that regardless of their accident of birth or standing there is a future in what they are trying to do.

Little league baseball is just another method of providing good surroundings for kids to grow up, utilizing their time in a program that helps them to do things which counteract juvenile delinquency.

PRIDE NEEDED IN NEIGHBORHOOD BEAUTY

Generally speaking, winter leaves are a mark on every community which demands attention. It leaves many unsightly neighborhoods emphasized by an accumulation of trash and other untidy conditions on the home lots, in the alleys and vacant properties.

Unfortunately, Des Moines does not seem to have a program directed toward any concerted effort to remedy these conditions. Entirely too many people are allowed to maintain unsightly properties, which detract from that of the neighbor next door; in fact, in the whole block. Zoning officials and the departments charged with the responsibility to prevent or remedy these conditions seem to get little done. And thus entirely too many neighborhoods are allowed to deteriorate to the point where the combination makes for a poorly kept town.

The real estate board of the Chamber of Commerce has undertaken a program of educating people to do a better job of maintaining their neighborhoods but to date it does not seem to get off the ground very well.

In the absence of an organized program, individuals citizens have a responsibility to see that their yards are raked, rubbish removed and flowers planted wherever possible. They should encourage their neighbors to do likewise.

After all, a beautiful block or community is a combination of beautiful homes, not necessarily pretentious but in keeping with the ability of each individual to do his best to carry a fair share of the responsibility.

Machen, Folley Thinks Of Becoming Champ??

San Francisco, Cal.—Perhaps with the possibility of becoming world's heavyweight champion lurking in their subconscious two-powerful - fisted heavyweights, undefeated Eddie Machen and Zora Folley winner of seventeen straight fights, pair off in the Cow Palace Wednesday.

Machen, the number one contender is a 2-1 favorite to beat number two contender, Folley.

The winner will be in a strong position to negotiate for a title match with champion Floyd Patterson. However Patterson's manager Gus D'Amato, has already ruled out Machen claiming Machen forfeited his chance by turning down a previous match with Patterson.

Patterson's manager has not made his position clear on Folley's chances for a title scrap.

Machen, 25, of Redding, Calif. has a 24-0 record 16 of which were K.O.'s.

Folley, 27, of Chandler, Ariz., has a 38-2-1 record including 24 knock-outs.

Trotters Escape Stars 73-69 in Final Seconds

The amazing Harlem Globetrotters eased by the magnificent College All-Stars 73-69 in a close fought contest here Monday night at Veterans Memorial Auditorium before an estimated crowd of 7,500.

The determined play of the All-

CRAWFORD

RODGERS

Stars forced the Trotters to discard their famous shenanigans and even then it took them up until the last seconds of the game to clinch the victory.

Deadlocked

Spiked with exceptional rebounding and passing performances, the game was deadlocked at 32-32 at the midway point. Halfway through the third quarter it was knotted at 39-39 but then the Globetrotters hit a scoring streak that netted them 10 points before the Stars could drop a bucket.

At the end of the third quarter the Trotters had a 53-47 edge. The College Stars were not to be denied, however, and surged back to close the gap to 69-67 with one minute four seconds remaining in the game. And with 17 seconds to go the Trotters still had a margin of two points, 71-69.

Clincher

Then the Trotter's Milton came up with a basket that clinched the game. Iowa's John Crawford played his usual game of exceptional basketball dropping in 11 points before he fouled out with four minutes seventeen seconds left. Guy Rodgers, the versatile All-American from Temple, played sparkling ball and was high point man for the All-Stars with 18 points.

Roman Thurston of the Globetrotters captured high point honors for the game with eight baskets and 14 free throws for 30 points.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Clean-Up Time

Any day now the madness will strike you. The first daffodil in your garden will open. Whether it's the fresh pungent scent or the exhilarating color of the flower hasn't been scientifically determined. But the effect is to throw you into a frenzy of house cleaning.

The least domestic female in the land will feel the urge to polish windows to a sparkle. In backyards from Maine to Oregon, freshly washed curtains will flutter from the clothes lines. Buckets of soap suds will trap the unwary husband as he tries to retreat to his basement hide-out. He might as well give in and start putting up the screens.

Dangers

It's a soul-satisfying orgy, but it has its dangers. The mood is likely to catch you unprepared. You must wash the kitchen cupboards, but the stepladder is broken. So you use a wobbly kitchen chair. You stand on tiptoe to reach the top shelf. Comes the crash, and you're lucky to get off with a sprained wrist. And that's only one of the hazards. Bursitis lurks for the do-it-yourself type who experiments with the painting the ceilings. If not that, there's a headache in the pain fumes.

Proper Equipment

This is not to say you shouldn't drive out the dinginess of winter. But please be sure you have all the proper equipment for the job. Be sure it's in good safe condition. Read the directions on the cans of paint and paint remover. Spread the work out so that you don't exhaust yourself. The tired workman is just asking for an accident.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

The Harlem Globe Trotters brought their all star show to town Monday night and just about every Negro who could rake up the price of admission and who liked basketball just a little bit was there. It seems as if the College All Stars always play their best game against the Trotters here, and Monday night was no exception.

You all know the Trotters won in the final seconds, and went away leaving the crowd arguing among themselves. Did they just toy with the collegians, or were they forced to go all out. Bert McGrane seemed to think so. But no matter what happened, there is just plenty of people who will argue with you that the pros just horsed around until they had to go.

Comedy

Personally, we don't know. We do know that the Harlem boys have to play a relaxed game and that sometimes it gets too relaxed and they wind up second. Maybe it is one of those times. But, even so, there was some time for a little comedy as well as some whoppin' good basketball.

Pro League?

How would the Trotters do in the pro league? Well, we don't think they would be a doormat by any means. They might not win the thing very often if at all, but they would never finish least in games won. No matter how many times you have seen the Trotters, you never get tired of seeing them again, although when you have seen them once, you have seen them for just about every time they come to town. Maybe a pro league team in town would cut in on the attendance, we don't know. But we do know the Trotters seem to go on forever.

Sol Butler

We read with interest that the former Dubuque University athlete, Sol Butler, was nominated to the Iowa Hall of fame. This is a little late, but the big, muscular guy really deserved the honor. It wasn't generally known that Sol had a kid brother who was no mean half miler. If Sol had been elsewhere, the kid brother might have been recognized as a star.

We were fourteen when we first saw the big barrel-chested fellow who walked like an English bulldog. Then we got acquainted with him in a roundabout way. The story as told by one of the fellows who always maintained he was there is this.

Duke Slater

A group of Negro football players that included some of the best around Chicago, including Duke Slater, went out to the Pacific Coast to play a Negro team out there. It took all their available cash to get out there, and the game was called off. There was a mad scramble to wire, write or call back to the windy City for transportation home.

Most of the fellows made it, but the great Sol spent ten years out there, and this story teller swears it took Butler that long to get his fare back to Chicago. He played softball, basketball, wrestled, boxed or what have you, and every time he nearly got his required dough together, something would happen and he would get broke. But the old boy finally made it.

We met him in Chi. when he was a playground instructor at Washington Park. What he didn't know about the various games, he would

Baylor Aims to Play Pro. Ball with Knicks

The 22-year-old All-American had not received any professional offers but expressed the belief that he could adjust to the style of professionals after a few games.

The 6 foot 5 inch Baylor was chosen as the most valuable player in the national collegiate championship contest held at Louisville, Ky. and also finished second nationally in the individual scoring contest during the past season.
