Rep. Adam Powell Indicted
For Evading $3,063 in Taxes

New York, N. Y. — Representative Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., 49, one of the most controversial political leaders of present-day history was indicted on three counts of income tax evasion after grand jury investigations were renewed last week.

Powell who has been in Congress since 1945 is accused of evading $3,063 in income taxes of his wife's pianist Hazel Scott and his own income in 1951 and 1952.

Shortly after the 1956 national election when Powell supported President Eisenhower and the Republican national ticket because, he said, he disagreed with the Democrat's stand on racial segregation a grand jury began investigation of Powell's income tax affairs. But the probe was suspended until last April 17 when it was renewed amid rumors that the jury had been pressurizing federal authorities.

Marcus McCraven
Files $50,000 Suit
Against L. Berry

Marcus McCraven of 913 Grove street filed a $50,000 suit for personal damages in Polk county district court Monday against Leander Berry of 908 Laurel street for the alleged shooting of McCraven April 7 at the Craftsman club, 1213 Park street.

McCraven charges Berry's shooting him in the face with a pistol was "malicious, felonious and without provocation."

Prior to the shooting incident last April 7, police authorities said Berry had been evicted from the club following a quarrel with his companion. When he returned 15 minutes later and was denied re-entrance by McCraven (who was on the door checking membership cards), Berry pulled a gun and started shooting.

McCraven was hospitalized when a bullet from the alleged pistol struck him in the jaw.

Return Verdict in Favor
Of 3 D.M. Policemen
In $200,000 Assault Suit

In a series of courtroom battles precipitated by his arrest at a river drowning scene, last Aug. 12, Raymond Knox, 41 of 223 Racoon street came to the end of his legal journey where he met defeat. Polk County District jury verdict in his $200,000 civil damage suit against three Des Moines policemen—Lt. Frank Manny and Patrolmen Bruce Dyer and Ralph Baker. After nearly six hours of deliberations, the jurors returned a sealed verdict Monday evening about nine o'clock which ruled in favor of the defendants—saying Knox had no grounds for damages. Judge Tom K. Murrow read the verdict Tuesday morning.

Reactions of Principals

Atty. Henry T. McKnight: "Of course, I was disappointed with the outcome. I thought the jurors would give us, at least, a token verdict... But that's the chance you take when you go into a lawsuit... one side wins... the other loses... and we were on the losing end."

Atty. James Brad Morris: "Natural, we were disappointed... We had the utmost confidence in our cause and felt we would prevail. However, the jury has spoken and its verdict reflects its accepted version of the facts. We hope and trust this verdict will not be construed as a blow to civil rights in our city."

"We are both of the opinion, if we had it to do over again we would proceed in the same manner and say publicly anytime, we feel Civil rights of citizens are violated, we intend to exhaust all and remedy by law to redress any such wrong."

Mrs. Mary Knox: "If I had enough money I would take this all the way to the Supreme Court. If we have to keep on putting up with police brutality, there will be a lot of us in and out of the court getting unfair decisions... I really feel we have had an unfair trial as far as the jurors are concerned."

Raymond Knox: "We had the best attorneys that could be had for any trial and they fought as hard as could be fought in a court of law, and I can truthfully say they proved their point as far as the evidence was concerned of the brutality that was testified to in this case."

"We want to thank all the people and organizations who helped to contribute and fight this case."

In the original petition filed Aug. 30, following his conviction on two counts in Municipal court, Knox asked $200,000 damages—$75,000 actual and $125,000 exemplary damages. However, upon a motion by lawyers for the defense, Judge Morrow Monday ruled the plaintiff had failed to show malice, (since malice must be proven in punitive damages by law, he instructed the jury to consider only the actual damages.

Knox charged the three policemen with assault following his arrest at a drowning scene in the Des Moines River near the Scott street bridge last Aug. 12. He said he was beaten with fists and a sap in the police squad car and "was knocked to the floor in the basement of the city jail and was beaten about his body and kicked."

As in two previous trials, police did not deny hitting Knox with their fists and blackjacks in their testimony but said they did so for their own protection.

The civil suit which began Monday, May 5 followed the appeals case by less than a month in which Knox was acquitted of resisting arrest but found guilty of disturbing the peace by using profane language, and fined $50. His appeals case had its inception last Aug. 29 when he sought relief from conviction on both charges in Municipal court.

When the trial in the civil court ended Knox accompanied by his wife through the long proceedings, had spent compositely more than a dozen hours in court and nearly half of that time on the witness stand himself.

Attorneys for Knox were Henry T. McKnight and James B. Morris Jr.

"In the verdict, I don't think the jurors honestly considered all the facts in the case."

Says Pending Bill Threatens
Civil Rights of Negro Citizens

New York — The pending Senate bill to restrict the authority of the United States Supreme Court "is a dangerous threat to the protection of civil rights," Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, warns in a letter to the Association's 1,000 branches throughout the country.

The bill as approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee by a 9 to 6 vote would prohibit the Supreme Court from reviewing any case involving state regulations governing admission of lawyers to practice their profession. It would also bar federal court review of Congressional investigating powers.

NAACP Renews Activities After 1956 Ban in Louisiana

New Orleans, La. — The return of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People as an active and important organization in Louisiana is indicated by the revival of eleven local branches in the state, Clarence A. Laws, NAACP field secretary, reports.

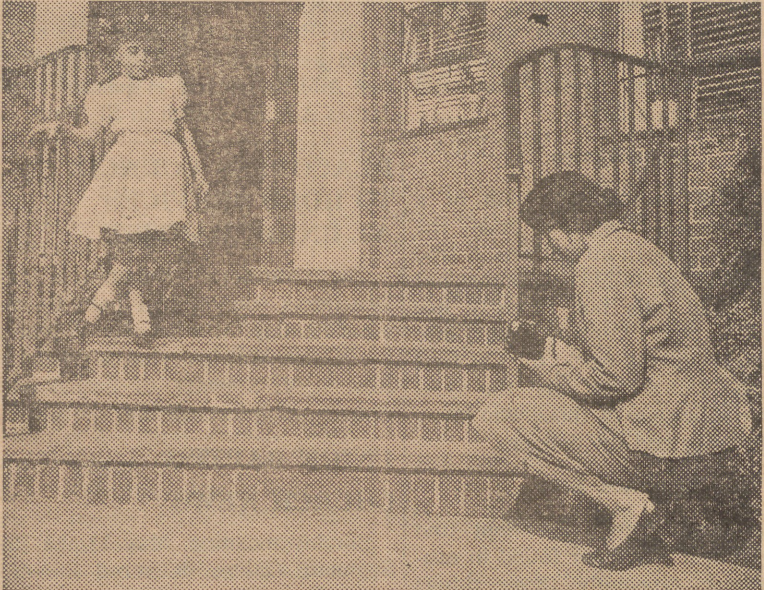

NAACP activity in the state was suspended in April, 1956, after the state's attorney secured an injunction against the Association for refusal to disclose its list of members and contributors. At that time there were 66 NAACP branches in the state.

An old law, passed in 1924 and aimed at the Ku Klux Klan, was invoked to demand filing of the NAACP membership lists. The Association declined to make public the names of members lest they be subjected to economic pressure and other forms of intimidation.

In November of 1956, the Louisiana Court of Appeals ruled that the lower court injunction was null and void on a technical point. Although the injunction was invalidated, the Louisiana attorney general maintained that in order to operate in the state, the NAACP would have to file its membership lists. Meanwhile a number of other organizations, white as well as Negro, began filing their membership lists in compliance with the old law.

the Camera Guild

Mother snaps a picture that will keep her memory ever-fresh of the little girl starting off on that big adventure—the first day of school.

It's School Time!

For the past few days we've been hearing bells ringing in our ears—and you know what kind, don't you? That's right—school bells! Practically everywhere across the country summer vacation is drawing to a close, and very soon now hordes of youngsters will be reluctantly setting forth for their annual battle with the 3R's.

School is a word that covers many activities and people. At your house, school days may mean a well-scrubbed, neatly combed six-year-old who's entering Class 1-A. Or it may refer to a daughter who's on her way back to high school or a son setting off to college. And to a teacher—if there's one in your family—it will mean readying the classroom for a new group of youngsters.

But no matter what new activities school days bring to your home, one thing is certain: It's no time to put away your camera just because vacation has ended. The school year brings with it many moments when you'll be awfully glad you had a camera handy. And remember, something as simple as a shot of the children poring over their homework projects or perhaps dressing up for the school pageant may turn out to be the most cherished picture of your collection in years to come.

The opening of school spells "camera" in another important way, too. It marks a time when junior members of the family especially appreciate having a camera of their own. Friends and classmates, school activities and events belong in any youngster's pictorial record—and he'll enjoy taking those snapshots himself, recording his own impressions just as he wants to remember them.

It won't require expensive equipment, either, for a simple box-type camera is all that's necessary. With a flash attachment and a supply of flash bulbs, Junior can take pictures under almost any conditions—indoors, day or night, in clear weather or cloudy, in early morning or after the sun goes down. In fact, don't be surprised if he's named official photographer for his class in school as well as for his Scout troop!

Africans Want to Imitate The Best in This World

FOREIGN MISSION BOARD, N. B. C., U. S. A., INC.
By Dr. C. C. Adams, Secretary

Sixth Of A Series Of Articles On Africa Today

Lagos, Nigeria: Do not get the wrong idea of African men and women. They do not want to be like anybody else, or look like anybody else. They are quite satisfied with themselves as God made them. They know that black is as good, as pretty and as honorable as white, yellow, brown or any other color. Africans want to be themselves and to develop themselves, and in that they will strive forever through education to develop the minds. They will strive to train the eye and hand in useful arts, and through medicine and sanitation to make the whole body more healthy.

Seek Growth

Through religion and the church, under God, Africans seek growth in heart and spirit to become worthy sons of God and brothers of men. As Africans, we believe this to be our mission in the world and should be our highest goal. On this platform, we seek not only our good, but the good of all men. With this, Africa confronts and challenges the world and offers her hand and heart.

Interdependent

Another thing. It has long since been proven beyond question that neither an individual or nation can live alone and to itself. By nature man, whether alone or in groups, is an interdependent. He is a social being, his nature and needs call to and for his brother.

And his brother is all colors and

Personal Touch

By MARIE ROSS

This time of the year when the spring season moves in with all of its beauty and warm temperatures—many of the clubs and organizations begin their outdoor activities. Youth organizations in the churches, and schools start their picnics, hikes, breakfasts and events—beginning the windup of the activities of the season.

Somewhere about town are many of these affairs being planned. If your club or organization is among the many planning spring parties, outings or closing events of the season—let the paper know about them. Send an item to Mrs. Frances Hawthorne at the Bystander. This is her first spring at the news desk—and it will be difficult for her to know some of the regular events unless the club, church, school and organization reporters notify her.

Last fall when I left Des Moines, I told her I would continue writing the column for a few months to give her time to get acquainted in the community—then I would turn it over to her. That time has now arrived—and I am sure she will be able to do a much better job keeping up with the many little things that should be "touched" upon personally, than I can—so far from you now.

So, not saying goodbye to all of my friends—but just — "until we meet again"—I'll turn the Personal Touch Column over to Mrs. Hawthorne.

I have a column—"Around the Town Over the Week End"—that runs in the city edition of the Kansas City Call—and that is a job—with the other news that I do weekly. I shall keep in touch with you, and, now and then, send a note to Frances for you.

I shall appreciate hearing from you—getting your letters and cards. My address is 2500 North Allis Street, Kansas City, Kan.

SEEIN' STARS....

WITH DELORES CALVIN

New York City—(CNS)—After all these years, if Fred O'Neal gets the presidency of the Actors Equity, powerful union in showbiz, then things will surely be looking up . . . For O'Neal, longtime a bit actor in movies and TV and a featured performer on Broadway, has performed as 3rd vice president for the Equity . . . This marks the first time a Negro has been nominated for the Presidency . . . Elections are in June . . . Of course Equity, an accredited non-segregational outfit, has been cited for its fairness in choosing officers according to merit . . . With thousands of Negro performers paying dues to Equity, the Negro is hoping he will be at last fully represented. . . O'Neal, who rose to fame in Broadway's version of "Anna Lucasta", is a pioneer in bringing Negro players to the front . . . He has done tremendous behind-the-scenes work with workshop players, encouraging their talent and aiding them to get jobs . . . One of his latest roles was in "Something of Value" with Sidney Poitier. . .

Sammy Davis

Sammy Davis, jr. without bride Lora, goes on to glory — in evidence of his terrific opening at the Chi Chi Club in Palm Springs . . . His single performance was one hour long . . . Capitalizing on the rage of westerns, Sammy does a skit where he plays a cowboy . . . "Who ever heard of a colored cowboy?" he asks, mischievously . . . Sammy always manages to get an integration theme in or plant a question in active minds of his audience amidst entertaining them. . .

Nat Cole

Meanwhile Nat King Cole, on home ground, enjoyed his billing at the famed Ambassador where he opened the Coconut Grove, a fabulous hang-out of the stars . . . a row of famous personalities turned out for the opening . . . Nat's show calls for 14 songs and goes through May 27th. . .

Barbara McNair

Duke Ellington

Benny Goodman played his clarinet right up the steps to the high airliner which took him and his group over to Europe — first stop Brussels World Fair . . . there Benny will perform as a Good Will Ambassador from the U. S. . . He was happy to say—before leaving he's got a few new tunes, one by his pal, Duke Ellington . . . and Goodman's also got a good vocalist, Jimmy Rushings, who took the trip with great coolness. . .

W. C. Handy Blues

Something new has been added: and that's the newest album—"W. C. Handy Blues" put out by Folkways and sung by—of all people Katherine Handy Lewis, daughter of the Father of the Blues. . . Folkways says these records were waxed some 10 years ago and hte album itself is a historical note. . . Done in great blues style, W. C.'s daughter has a real feeling and knowledge of what she sings—and James P. Johnson does a very fine accompaniment. . .

Josephine Baker

From London we hear from good sources that Josephine Baker, who never says die, and who also never seems to age a day, is back on the scene . . . She appeared in Jack Hylton's Monday Show in London, to the great pleasure of her English fans . . . Jackie Robinson isn't letting his public forget him—he did a guest spot on the Metropolitan Educational TV Assn's program devoted to little league baseball in city parks. . .

Parents Can Help Relieve Drudgery of Children's "Chores" by Working Out Some Arrangements

UNDERSTANDING IOWA CHILDREN
SPONSORED BY THE IOWA CHILD WELFARE RESEARCH STATION

RELIEVING THE DRUDGERY OF "CHORES"

Written by Lloyd Lovell, SUI Assistant Professor

Recently a careful study of parental practices concerning allowances, and children's reactions to the practices was completed. One of the interesting reports the researchers obtained from many families was that both the parents and their children were dissatisfied with any program that levied cash against the children's allowance when children failed to meet certain obligations.

Effective Fines

The parents often reported that the effectiveness of the fines soon wore off, and the children felt that receiving the allowance should ordinarily not depend on whether they had done their chores, for example. Parents and children in this study seemed to agree that if the children were paid for doing chores, this financial arrangement should be separate from the matter of allowances.

Agreements

The question of chores is an important one, and the researcher asked these families what they had done to arrive at workable agreements concerning the chores. The children (most of whom were from 11 to 14 years old) felt strongly that chores were a more bearable part of their lives when they could at least occasionally be shared with their parents.

Unpleasant Chores

They often resented being assigned the more unpleasant chores if they were not sometimes helped by their parents and if they were not sometimes given the less unattractive jobs to do. The children did not like to feel that they were being treated as servants who were to do only the drudgery.

Monotony

An inevitable amount of drudgery goes with managing a household, and something that might seem fun once can become monotonous if it must be done over and over. We adults appreciate a brief "vacation" from our less thrilling duties, and we can sometimes give our children a "vacation" too. Sometimes we can trade tasks temporarily, and sometimes we can do the children's tasks and ours together, or even postpone a chore for good reason.

Such practices may relieve some of the dissatisfaction that we and our children feel about of the routine jobs we all have to do.

SCHOOL SEGREGATION
CASE 4 YEARS OLD

May 17 marks the fourth anniversary of the U. S. Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation in the public schools.

Opponents must have seen the decision coming long ago for the court had, time after time, unanimously held unconstitutional laws violating civil rights and contrary to the 14th amendment.

The best evidence is that southern states, while fighting these cases to the last ditch, began complying noticeably the erection of new schools and equalizing teacher salaries.

Unfortunately, public officials did not provide ample moral leadership at the time to help implement the decision and thus the rabble moved in and made it appear that they represented the attitude of their respective communities.

In spite of the fact that the decision simply seeks to square America's deeds with what it proposes on paper, it has drawn criticism upon the court, criticism upon those who sponsor it particularly the NAACP, one state after another defies it and no end of trouble is anticipated for the future.

Those who would uphold it and particularly the law abiding southerner has been subjected to all kinds of abuse. Even the President has not escaped their wrath. And some of that wrath has been heaped by unappreciative Negroes who are so ignorant or self centered as to place their bellies above civil rights.

But howl and abuse they will, the decision is here to stay. America cannot afford to retreat particularly in the light of its appeal to Russia to respect its obligations and obey the law; to work for equality and peace among nations and men.

The fight the NAACP has waged in behalf of the Negro cost a lot of money. It is doing the job for the state and paying the bill out of funds contributed by friends to sustain their efforts while its opponents are using tax funds, much of which is contributed by Negroes, to sustain their efforts to keep the Negro down.

This decision is a milestone in the progress of the Negro toward a better life. And while many people continue to urge education as a solution, Negroes can no longer wait than the Western powers can wait for Russia to be educated to observe its obligations in the field of international relations.

The Bystander can but hold in contempt those who would nullify the law; those who would abuse the Supreme Court for upholding the law; those Negroes who have such little regard for their civil rights as to accept a mess of pottage in exchange for their civil rights.

Men of principle and courage are needed more than ever to stand up and be counted for the things that are just and right. They are the type who support the Supreme Court school segregation case.

UNFORTUNATE DELEMA
FOR REP. POWELL

Representative A. Clayton Powell of New York has been indicted for income tax evasion. Rumblings of his difficulties have been heard for some time, particularly since some members of his staff met the same fate.

Of course indictment does not mean that a party is guilty. He will have his day in court.

It is most unfortunate that Mr. Powell has been so careless as to allow himself to be so involved. Here the minister of one of the largest churches in New York, a representative in Congress and an acknowledged outstanding leader in the country finds himself embarrassed and disgraced. What can be expected of the kids when older people present such examples?

Powell is a controversial figure. He has defied many with whom he came in contact; he has spoken out fearlessly much to his own disadvantage—and some of his enemies are mad. All of this, he knew and should have, by all means, kept his house in order.

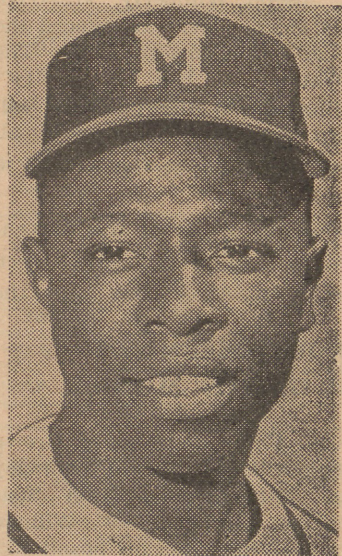

The Bystander hopes for the best for Representative Powell. On the other hand, he should take his medicine like any other law violator. Men in high places should not be allowed to escape their responsibilities to themselves and the public.

Clowns Paved Aaron's
Way to Major League

Petersburg, Fla. — Here in the training camp of the Indianapolis Clowns baseball team an interesting story is going the rounds. It is how

HANK AARON

Hank Aaron prized Milwaukee Braves outfielder, made the successful jump from the Negro American League to the Majors.

The story tells of how Aaron whom the Clowns sold to the Braves for $10,000 in 1952, was discovered on a sandlot and developed into a crack shortstop and later into a big league player.

Barnstorms with Jackie Robinson's All-Stars

According to the story, Syd Pollock, the Clowns general manager, and field manager, Ed Hammon, spotted Aaron in the spring of 1952 playing with a sandlot team in Mobile, Ala. They had glimpsed the boy once before on a barnstorming tour with the Jackie Robinson All-Stars, and he had impressed them. So when the Clowns regular shortstop was injured Pollock signed him up to fill in. Aaron played so well and hit so consistently, the regular shortstop never got back into the lineup.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

The district track meet at East High didn't turn out many upsets. Tech's Jim Hutchinson galloped off with both short dashes. In the 100 young Jim Thomas of East established himself as a dash man to beat next year. The little Lee Townshipp literally ran Hutch all the way in the 100 and we hard that this was his first try at that race.

Ron Barker of East has a chance to place in the broad jump and high jump and Riley Cook sailed over the low hurdles for a gold medal. The North High team of Al Collier, George Robertson, Ron Carter and Verne Greenfield who ran third in the half mile got a record and then placed in the shot relays.

Later on, Greenfield, Collier, Carter and Ronnie Ware brought North home in the mile relay behind Ames. Might be an interesting state meet.

College

Iowa U is shopping around for a basketball coach. Just who they finally hire is of great importance. Last year the Hawkeyes had their best team when they had three and sometimes four Negroes on the floor. Will the new coach be a fellow who will sustain this policy? Iowa State, so we hear, has run into that situation. Seems that Brian Dennis, veteran end and the coach got into into it about some not too important matter and Dennis left the team. Later, acting upon the advice of someone, Brian went back to talk things over. It is said the coach addressed Dennis as "Boy" and that did it. The young man quit football then and there.

If this story is true, we can't see the man staying at Iowa State too long. The Cyclones have had too many fine Negro athletes in late years to let someone ruin this setup. Maybe, the new coach will see the light. We hope so.

riers to foreign trade on a gradual and selective basis. A Committee spokesman says that this need is even more compelling now that it was then, a major reason being the Soviet economic offensive.

HEALTH FOR ALL

A Chest X-ray for You?

We all recognize the vast improvements modern science has made in our lives, but with them often comes new dangers. For example, X-rays have been one of the most important medical tools in diagnosis and treatment of illness, yet scientists warn us of the hazards of too much X-ray radiation. How much is too much? How does this affect you?

Chest X-rayed?

Let's suppose a chest X-ray survey to find TB is being held in the area where you live or in the place where you work. Should you get your chest X-rayed? In the first place, the amount of radiation to which you would be exposed is infinitesimal. The possible amount of harm is still being argued by scientists. Of course, as long as any harm is possible, you should not be exposed to unnecessary radiation. It's a question of weighing the benefits against the possible harmful effects.

Surveys

X-ray surveys are usually planned for areas and population groups in which a high yield of TB and other chest disorders can be expected. The possibility that the X-ray may help find that you have TB so that it can be promptly treated and cured far outweighs the danger of radiation. With some groups a preliminary tuberculin test is recommended. If the test is negative, an X-ray would not be necessary.

Ask Doctor

If there's any question in your mind about having an X-ray, ask your doctor. If he recommends an X-ray, it is because he feels the benefit to you will be vastly greater than the danger.

Sylvester Robertson Learns from Experience—
Sets New Drake Mark in Half-Mile with 1:52.1

Proof that experience is the best teacher was shown here Saturday at Drake stadium in the Missouri Valley Conference track meet when lengthy Sylvester Robertson won the conference half-mile in 1:52.1 seconds for the best in Drake history and his own. The old record was 1:55 set in 1931. Robertson did 1:55.4 in a time trial.

The Drake university junior's time in Iowa is surpassed only by former Iowa star, Ted Wheeler who did it in 1:51.7 in 1952.

A year ago in his attempt to win the 880-yard event in the Valley meet Robertson had the unfortunate and unforgettable experience of falling in a mixup rounding a curve and in the melee spiked himself in the thigh.

From this experience the lanky sprinter must have learned that a quick get-off from the start is the thing to do and to leave the rest of the pack behind you for the probable mishaps.

Robertson also finished a :48.6 anchor on the mile-relay to push Drake into second place in that event and past Bradley to finish fourth in the meet.

Robertson was city high hurdles champion in Chicago and has been considered potential championship material ever since arriving at Drake. He finally proved that he is a champion.

SECRETS

Whisper softly,
Gentle breeze
Rustle the curtains
and the leaves;
Whisper to the birdies
As they pass;
Tell your secrets
To the Flowers and Grass.
Your secrets are Safe,
You can rest well—

The birds and flowers
Will never tell.

PLEASURE

Pleasure is the opiate
That dulls the inner ear;
Seducts the mind to deviate
When conscience can't hear.

Sham and tinsel mark the snare

Cover evils' deadly pit:
Trap the weak and unaware in the cloying heart of it!

Let us analyze the pattern
Take the deeper look, and measure
Evil is the clever slattern:
Camouflaged to look like pleasure!

Bruton's Knee is Well;
Due Back in Lineup

Milwaukee—The Milwaukee Braves have announced that Bill Bruton, who has been recovering from a knee injury since last July is back in the lineup as of today (May 15).

The Braves said Dr. Donald Donoghue, who performed an operation on Bruton's knee last winter, informed them that Bruton is ready.

Bruton injured his knee in a collision with teammate Felix Mantilla midway in last season and missed the remainder of the games with the Braves. He also missed the World Series which the Braves won in a down-the-wire contest with the Yankees.

For the past few weeks, Bruton has been taking exercise to strengthen the injured knee. His leg had shrunk to the size of a man's arm.
