19 High School Students Are Spending Vacation in City Conducting Freeway Surveys

By Frances Hawthorne

An interracial group of nineteen high school students from eight states are in Des Moines this summer conducting surveys and interviews of approximately 330 families who will be directly affected by the proposed freeway route. The young people all volunteered for this type of work and came to Des Moines several weeks ago following a conference at a "Y" camp near Boone and are conducting the project under the supervision of American Friends Service committee which has regional offices at 4211 Grand avenue.

Helpful Information

They are seeking to compile information that will be helpful to these families and are not working with the city or freeway committee in any capacity. In addition, they are not placing families who will be displaced by the city project, but if they in the process of their work, naturally they will pass it along to the American Friends committee along with other information taken from interviews. Their contacts have been gained through Negro ministers of local churches.

The students who paid their travel expenses here and are paying living expenses while here, are living at the residence on Grand avenue adjoining the offices. During the day they attend workshop classes and study periods and conduct most of the interviews during evenings, along an area north of School Street and one and one-half blocks north of each side street.

Members

Members of the group are Ted Preston, Pittsburgh, Penna., who is also a counselor; Linda Lugg, Albany, N. Y.; Linda Heller, Los Angeles, Calif.; Miriam Schwartz, Minneapolis, Minn.; Gwen Peoples, New York City; Jean Kimball, Yellow Springs, Ohio; Judy Swanson, New York; Mary Jennings, Philadelphia, Penna.; Nancy Vogel, Chicago, Ill.; Catherine Brown, Talladega, Ala.; David Evans, Philadelphia, Penna.; Ed Ayers, New Jersey; Karl Stephenson, Lubbock, Tex.; Warren Witte, Milwaukee, Wis. and Tom Randle of Des Moines. Randle, who met the group at Boone during the camp days, is a member of the project except in an official capacity. A North high senior, he lives at 1155 West 14th street.

Directors

Directors of the project are Hanna and Ted Deutsch. Mrs. Deutsch is also a counselor.

The American Friends Society is a religious organization of Quaker denomination and projects similar to the one being conducted in Des Moines in the interest of minority groups is one of the purposes of the organization.

President's Group Reports 341 Complaints Investigated

Washington, D. C.—The President's Committee on Government Employment Policy is urging the institution of training programs in the Federal departments and agencies to strengthen and supplement the non-discrimination policy of the Executive branch of the Federal government, according to the Committee's Second Report recently submitted to President Eisenhower.

The Committee was established in January of 1955 by the President to advise and assist the Federal agencies in eliminating employment discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion or national origin. The Committee's Second Report covers its work from May of 1956 to January of 1958.

Public members of the Committee are Archibald J. Carey, Jr., of Chicago, who is the Chairman; Branch Rickey of Pittsburgh, Vice Chairman; Milton H. Blou of New York City; and Mrs. Jang Warnock of Eagle Butte, South Dakota; alternate director. The allocation is the second distribution of money during 1958. It brings the total amount received this year by the participating colleges to $861,779.

Stanley C. Hope, president of Esso Standard Oil Co., and 1958 ports the fund-raising appeal for the colleges running ahead of last year.

"Volunteer chairmen in our campaign communities, including those hardest hit by the recession, are optimistic," Mr. Hope said.

The 1958 campaign, to raise 10 per cent of the operating costs of the 33 UNCF colleges, began in April and will continue until Dec. 31.

Class I is composed of branches which have no paid personnel. The 1957 series of the publication won the award.

The 1,000 delegates were welcomed to the convention by Gov. C. William O'Neill, Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze and Dr. Nathan K. Christopher, on behalf of the Cleveland NAACP, host to the convention. The six-day assembly ends on Sunday, July 13.

Halfway

Recalling the launching, five years ago, of the NAACP ten-year fight to get rid of racial discrimination and segregation by 1963, the centennial of Abraham Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation, Dr. Tobias reviewed the progress made since that time and indicated what remains to be done in order to achieve the NAACP goal.

Rededication

"We are now at the half-way point in the ten-year Fight for Freedom," Dr. Tobias declared. "It is time for a progress report. . . . It is time for rededication of our efforts and the final charting of our course of action."

The campaign was launched at the Association's 44th annual convention in St. Louis in 1953 in response to a proposal placed before the delegates by Dr. Tobias. In Tuesday's address, he reviewed advances made since 1953 in the fields of education, employment, housing,

By Mrs. Frances Hawthorne

Cheese Crusted Hamburger Pie

Here is a flavorful, colorful, meal-in-a-dish—just the thing to please the end of the month food budget.

Tempt family appetites with this Cheese Crusted Hamburger Pie early this spring. You may even be surprised yourself at how your family will accept a new dish so quickly—and demand repeats in the future.

This pie can be your economy dish for the week. The hamburger pie picks up a delicious new flavor with the "melt in your mouth" cheese crusted topping. Luckily too, it not only tastes good, but is good for you! When the cheese crust is made with enriched flour, you get extra shares of B-Vitamins and food iron along with food energy and protein.

Along with this Cheese Crusted Hamburger pie you will like to include a fresh green tossed salad with some of the new spring vegetables. This in itself would make a complete luncheon but for a dinner perhaps you'll want to include a dish of fresh new asparagus. Nothing more will be needed to get the "You're the best cook, mom!" reward.

Clip this recipe not only for this week's menu but also for future demands.

Youth Of The Week

This is the 16th in a series featuring youth, 13 to 21 years, in the community and in Iowa who are setting a good example in wholesome living and achievements in their homes, schools, churches, sports and civic activities.

This week the Bystander hands its bouquet of commendation to Barbara L. Garrett, 18-year-old, who is busy making plans for the future . . . immediate and far-reaching.

Miss Garrett, who graduated from East High last month, right now is concentrating on passing her civil service exam July 18 which will enable her to obtain employment as a dental assistant. She is not stopping there, of course. Her long range goal is to become a dental technician, and although she has not definitely decided on a school, she is thinking about Denver university.

"If I don't make it this fall, I'll make it next year," she said determinedly.

Mr. Gamby, who is 29, holds Master of Music and Bachelor of Arts degrees from the New England Conservatory, granted in 1955 and 1951 respectively. He has recently returned from studying abroad under a Fulbright Scholarship (1956-7) and a Beebe Scholarship (1957-8), and now plans a career as a concert pianist.

Asks Withdrawal of Building Charter to William Levitt

New York, N. Y. — The American Civil Liberties Union called on New Jersey Attorney General Furman today to withdraw state approval of the corporation charters of builder William Levitt. Levitt has announced that he will not sell homes to Negroes in the new Levittown development being built in Burlington County.

Declaring that the Levitt policy violates New Jersey's public policy, constitution and laws, the ACLU asked Furman to vacate the charter of Levitt's New Jersey corporation and suspend the license of the builder's New York corporation, "to prevent the use of the New Jersey corporation laws in aid of this illegal scheme. It is well settled that corporate privileges may be denied to both foreign and domestic companies which seek to break a state's laws and violate its public policy."

SEE IN STARS

New York City (CNS) — Every now and then—with long periods between—a just about perfect motion picture comes along . . . one with—and offers a solution too—that of integration . . . We always believed a film such as this would do more for race relations than all the speeches, and all the laws passed—because it makes a person THINK and FEEL what prejudice really is . . . in a simple, heart-warming way . . . and once a person does this, he is bound to see it the right way.

No Negro in Cast

This is about the first film we have ever seen dealing so directly with the problem and yet without ONE NEGRO IN THE CAST. "King of the Hill" is a challenge for Frank Sinatra, who began his career as a crooner and has turned into one of today's finest character actors . . . Here he plays the role of an ordinary American soldier whose father had run a candy store in Harlem . . . Tony Curtis is a Corporal . . . the son of a wealthy New Jersey manufacturer . . . Together they fall in love with Natalie Wood, a French girl whose father was a Negro.

Usually—in a situation like this—the girl becomes very apologetic for her parent's "misfortune" and is ashamed of her heritage and once her secret is out, she walks around as if with the burden of the world on her shoulders . . . But this film is different . . . and they deal with the "problem" direct and squarely.

The girl shies away from Sinatra, mainly because she is not sure of her affection, but mostly because of her father . . . Then the mother takes over—and in a few simple words explains to the soldier that "Monique's father was a 'very remarkable man'—the most wonderful man she ever knew . . . and she says it proudly—with feeling . . . She tells of his beginning in the south, his struggle against poverty to better himself and his graduation from Hampton Institute . . . "At 35 he was head of his own insurance company in Philadelphia," she remembers . . . Then they met, fell in love and married . . .

For a widow to speak so highly of love and admiration for her husband, no matter what color he was, is pleasing to hear—and when the husband belonged to a minority group and the wife has had to fight with him for a place in the world—it is doubly pleasing . . . The most interesting part is that the daughter has so much love for her father, yet understands "how Americans feel."

Films too often make the mistake of trying for more impact by having the children of an interracial marriage turn out as misfits and hating either parent or disowning their Negro blood—or becoming "hopeless neurotics" . . . Here is a clear-thinking girl able to face the world with out fear or inferiority—and we had to admire her graciousness in accepting her plight.

The highlight of the picture is when Sinatra is told . . . and he becomes so shocked he cannot speak but slowly, as the mother talks, he understands though it takes him a week to realize it . . . Here, too, the mother is wonderfully sympathetic in explaining to the soldier that he is welcome if he wishes to return—and if not, he has already given them happiness . . . There is no bitterness in her voice, no scorn for his attitude . . . Sinatra has told them that he grew up in Harlem where "they were on one side and we were on the other . . ."

To be commended is Frank Ross, producer, Delmer Daves, director—and of course United Artists, distributors—who all possessed, with the players, an extremely modern outlook—and wove this message of goodwill into a most entertaining story which also gives a most impressive view of France in war days.

Usually these racially-angled pictures leave the Negro patron in a depressed mood—as they end with little hope or in tragedy . . . but here the listener is proud to hear his race lauded—and proud to get a Negro . . . For the first time, here is a picture written without the usual superiority and use—rather misuse of the word "tolerance"—here is a picture written instead with heart and understanding.

Local Baha'is Observe Martyrdom of Bab

Yesterday, July 9, The Baha'is of Des Moines joined with millions of others in 254 countries and territories to commemorate the martyrdom of the Bab, Prophet-Herald of their Faith.

The Bab, a young man of 30, according to Mrs. V. C. Andersen, Chairman of the Des Moines Baha'is Local Assembly group, was executed in 1850 by a firing squad in the barracks square of Tabriz, Iran. For six years the Bab had been proclaiming the imminence of a new era in which the world would become as one country and mankind its citizens.

The enthusiasm with which thousands, high and low, accepted the Bab's teachings, Mrs. Andersen went on to say, alarmed the rulers of "church" and state. They conspired to wipe out this movement and in the persecution that followed, the Bab and 20,000 of his disciples perished. Three years later, the one foretold by the Bab appeared in the person of Baha'u'llah, Prophet-Founder of the Baha'is Faith.

Today, the martyrdom of the Bab is observed yearly as a Baha'is holy day.

Novel Table for Cottage Folds Against Wall

A COMPACT, out-of-the-way table and benches suitable for a camp cottage will be a pleasure to build and a delight to the family because of its novelty.

The table top, when folded up, serves as a door for the wall cabinet. Because it will wear long and is easy to keep clean, Masonite 1/4" Tempered Preswood is used to surface the lunber framing of the table top. The same material covers the planks serving as benches.

The cupboard is built of 1 inch lumber framing, covered with Tempered Preswood. Shelves are similarly constructed.

Note the hinges which permit the table and benches to be pushed out of the way, against the wall, to which they are fastened with hooks.

Panels of Preswood can be used effectively in other ways at the summer cottage—to cover unsightly interior walls, for converting a large room into smaller ones, corner closets, floors, fish cleaning and bait cutting benches—sunshades at the beach, or re-surfacing old picnic tables.

Children Need to Be Heard and Know Parents Understand the Importance of Their Problems

UNDERSTANDING IOWA CHILDREN

SPONSORED BY THE IOWA CHILD WELFARE RESEARCH STATION

Written by Lloyd Lovell, SUI Assistant Professor

Many families today reject the precept that "children should be seen and not heard." Parents often feel strongly that children have a right to express their opinions and present their points of view.

Half Hearing

But a good deal of what children talk about just doesn't interest adults much, and we often develop a deaf ear against the child's seemingly endless prattle. (We do this with our spouse's boring relatives, too.) Besides, we are often, in the midst of doing things that have to be done right now while our children are talking. What sometimes happens as a result is that we form a habit of only half-hearing our children's conversation.

This habit sometimes gets in our way when our children have something important to say. If we seem to feel that because children are little their problems are little, we probably would be wise to listen more carefully to what they are saying.

Important to Youngsters

From the vantage of our experience many childhood difficulties may seem trivial, but they don't always seem that insignificant to the child who is in the middle of them. Youngsters usually will appreciate our willingness to take their troubles seriously.

Facial

Give yourself a daily soap-suds facial during this warm weather—to open the pores and to "pull" out stale makeup and grime. Follow with ice water splashes for a healthy, natural glow.

Four Des Moines women who are long-time active members and officers in the Des Moines NAACP left the city together on the 7:15 train Monday morning for Cleveland, Ohio, where they will attend the week-long 49th annual convention. The ladies are Mesdames Clifford Bayles, Guy E. Greene, J. B. Morris, sr., and Bonnie Herndon.

Mrs. Bayles, president of the local branch, will be accepting two awards in behalf of the local organization tonight at the Freedom Fund and Awards banquet. She noted that pictures are taken of each person as they walk up to receive the award and of course give acceptance speeches. She promised to bring "at least one back" with her if she possibly can.

Mrs. Greene also gave us a promise . . . to keep her ears open for personal sidelights of the convention and relate them to us when she returns. Enroute Home she plans to visit with relatives and friends in Chicago.

Following close of the convention Sunday Mrs. Morris plans to go onto Virginia where she will visit a while with a sister.

Attending the convention will be a part of this year's vacation of Mrs. Herndon, who along with Mrs. Bayles, will come directly home when the convention ends.

A. P. Trotter, state president, stopped off in Cleveland, to attend the meeting following annual vacation trip East with his wife, Mrs. Goetha Trotter and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, of 1121 11th street. Mrs. Trotter returned home with the Mitchells over the holiday weekend.

Also returning from vacation this week were Mrs. Leola Hubbard and Mrs. Bernice Sloan, who spent the past several weeks in California visiting with relatives and friends.

My family and I had a pleasant visit from one of my old high school classmates . . . Mrs. Ophelia Marshall, of Cedar Rapids, Ia. The former Ophelia Farris and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Farris, of Eolia, Mo., (my hometown) and I had not seen each other since the summer following our graduation from high school in Louisiana, Mo., about 10 years ago. Needless to say, we had much . . . to talk about. She is now the mother of three daughters.

During a chat with the Rev. Mrs. Oryzealaya Roberson last week, she was relating some of the pleasant as well as difficult times she experienced during the past year when she was trying to secure time and create a format desirable to local radio program managers, in behalf of the Prisoner's Rehabilitation Service, Inc., of which she is executive-founder.

She told how she tried at least four stations, was turned down by all including KWDM before she conceived the present program—idea which went over big with the radio station; also the banks, churches and business organizations approached for sponsorship. As it happens with most writers and people seeking to formulate new ideas, she says—her present format came to her late one night . . .

The Sam Frisco family of 4619 S. E. 5th street which has been beset by illness of one nature or another, had reason to smile over the holiday weekend. Mr. Frisco, who has been a patient intermittently at Veteran's hospital during the past year, was able to spend the weekend with his wife and three children.

BETTER RECOGNITION IN PARTY CIRCLES

The Bystander never lets a chance pass in order to seek full recognition for minorities whether in business, labor or politics. It has had occasion to chide both Republican and Democrat leaders that altogether to little recognition was being given the Negro party worker in planning the campaigns, thus leaving him to form a part of a delegation serving as window dressing only.

In pursuance to some of these efforts, the retiring Polk County Republican Committee chairman, Rollo Bergeson, in his set up of the recent convention, named Negroes on each of the three standing committees, with one serving as chairman. This is the first time such a thing has been done. It is the type of recognition which encourages leadership and a desire to work for the success of those who have come to see things in a new light.

This is just another instance where those in authority will move out from the old order in proportion that they are shown that it is the proper thing to do.

The Bystander hopes that other chairmen, both Republican and Democrat, will follow suit.

HARD TO RECONCILE

SOME THINGS

The news is full of innovations these days with reference to human rights. Some are bad, some good, but in them all-together emerges a balance on the right side of the ledger.

Last week a hotel in London refused to accommodate three American Negro women who, previously, had made and paid for reservations, purely in the basis of race, but during the same week Althea Gibson won the women's Wimbledon tennis championship in London for the second time. Bishop Bromley Oxnam, presiding bishop of the Methodist Church said last week that those ministers who preach the holy bible and court segregation failed to qualify as Christians; several southern delegates to the National Education Association walked out of their annual convention rather than consider the appointment of a committee to study the problem of how to make integration succeed.

The forces of evil, whether in London or America, will never give up but they are being pushed further and further into an untenable corner which makes their position most uncomfortable.

RECENT DISASTER IN IOWA COUNTIES

Iowa has been fortunate for many years in that disaster from any cause has been at a minimum. Last year, the lack of rain was a problem in some sections; this year, in some sections, rain followed by floods and high winds, has been a problem.

Last week rain and wind struck heavily in several counties in the west central Iowa area leaving 21 dead or missing; property damage was exceedingly heavy. This misfortune has placed a heavy burden upon many people who lost their homes, businesses and farms.

Fortunately, the President lost no time in declaring it a disaster area offering grants, loans and other services. To make rehabilitation a bit easier, volunteer groups acting with the Red Cross, are on the scene offering their services and assistance whenever possible.

The calamity is most unfortunate but fortunately Americans have learned to be good neighbors under such a situation and their response for help will and should be generous.

voting, transportation and the armed services.

Supreme Court

"The first and most far-reaching step toward fulfillment of our goals was the momentous decision of the Supreme Court handed down on May 17, 1954, within a year after our campaign began," the NAACP chairman declared. Other important advances cited by the speaker included enactment of the Civil Rights Act of 1957, the increase in the voting strength of southern Negroes, the New York City ordinance banning racial discrimination in the sale and rental of private housing, the court decisions against Jim Crow travel, the elimination of segregation in the armed services, and expanded job opportunities.

Joe Jeanette, Veteran Boxer Dies at 78

New York City. (CNS)—A little man who met Champion Jack Johnson in the ring for eight times, died here this week—at the age of 78—but never won the actual title, Joe Jeanette battled 143 times (many more off the record) and was knocked out just once—by Sam Langford, whom they called the "Boston Tar Baby" in 1916. His last fight was in November of that year—a win over Bartleu Madden at Bayonne, N. J.

It was a heart attack which felled the great immortal at the end of the North Hudson Hospital at Weehawken, N. J., less than three months after the Hudson County Veteran Boxers Association honored him at their annual dinner. Joe was unable to attend.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

This was to have been a different column, but the other day we got word that our old friends of about 35 years is desperately ill in Chicago.

Everett Wadsworth worked on the Bystander staff for a number of years and he and I collaborated on some sports stories. For instance, come Drake-Rely time we would make the rounds of the hotels where the Negro athletes were staying and come up with some startling interviews. For years that was a regular Saturday morning task until Negroes became too numerous to cover in even three days. Probably the greatest thrill we think Everett ever got was the night we acted as a second to Martin Graves in one of his early professional fights and Ev worked with us. We got so excited that we had to check to see who was fighting Martin.

Everett was left handed and made all the sports he played seem awkward. But, he made surprisingly few errors in baseball. Got his share of the hits and was a pretty accurate tackle in football. But baseball was his sport. He would watch the game by the hour and discuss it with anybody who would listen to him.

After the death of his oldest son, Everett went and gave up his baseball. Don't know if he ever did get back into the groove or not. Never heard him say. But we certainly hope the big guy makes it. And if pulling for him will do any good, he has it made.

Local

The other day we ran into a young fellow in a wheel chair. He mentioned the fact that we had included him in the list of pioneer wrestlers in local high schools here. And also said we had got his name wrong. His name is J. Howard Neal and not Jay Neal as we put it. We didn't ask the nice husky youngster why he was in a wheel chair. Never ask people about their afflictions no matter how curious we are.

Willie Wells has taken over Garrison's pool hall or Billiard parlors. Willie is trying hard to revive the old Buck Scott atmosphere and the place is much nicer and a better place to stop in than it has been for some time. Lots of the former patrons are drifting back and they all smile at the changes Willie has made.

Outdoor Furniture

It's better to suds-wash outdoor furniture often than to let dirt get a "toehold" in the crevices of reed, rattan, wicker, and cane.

First, brush away loose dirt. Then apply generous amounts of warm soap or detergent suds and scrub well. Next, wipe with a cloth wrung out in clear water and dry each piece carefully.

HEALTH FOR ALL

"An Ill Name"

Being but touched it causeth redness, itching and lastly blisters, and which, howsoever, after a while pass away of themselves, without further harm; yet because for the time they are somewhat painful, it hath got itself an ill name.

That was the first report on poison ivy, written about 350 years ago by Captain John Smith. Among his many adventures in the early American wilderness, the Captain's first encounter with poison ivy is not as well known as his adventures with the beautiful Indian maiden Pocahontas. Historians now tell us that the Pocahontas story was mostly legend, but poison ivy is no legend. It is still only too much with us.

Symptoms

However, unlike poor John who could only suffer patiently until the symptoms passed away of themselves, there is some help for the modern explorer. There are many lotions and ointments on the market today some of which not only soothe but may also prevent discomfort.

Treatment

Look for preparations containing zincironium which neutralizes urushiol, the toxic principle of poison ivy. To be effective, treatment must begin as soon as possible after exposure. If you expect to be in contact with poison ivy, use the preparation in advance on exposed areas of the skin.

Avoid Leaves

People vary considerably in the strength of their reaction to ivy poisoning, and no preparation is fool-proof. So don't rush in where angels fear to tread. Learn to identify the noxious plant by its shiny, dark green leaf divided into three leaflets. Avoid poison ivy areas even when the leaves are gone. The whole plant, stem and roots as well as leaves, can poison you.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by Polk County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Curtis Flood, 20, from Oakland, Calif., Is New Cardinal Ball Club Sensation

By Roscoe L. McCrary

St. Louis, Mo.—Is Curtis Charles Flood, the St. Louis Cardinals 20 year old centerfielder a "miniature Willie Mays" as a St. Louis sports writer described him recently?

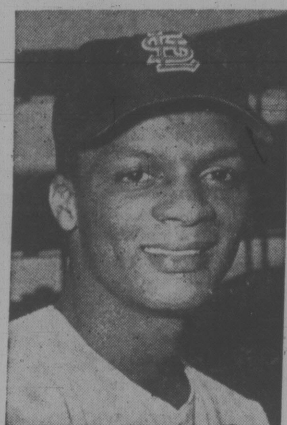

Will young Flood continue to play the type of ball that will make St. Louis fans divide their allegiance with longtime idol Stan Musial?

Right now, the answer seems yes. Into San Francisco this week (week of July 7th) where Herman and Laura Flood of Oakland, California, will see their youngest son play ball for the first time in their lives. Curt continues to make the right moves at the right time.

Short and sturdy at 5'9" and weighing 165 pounds, Flood has learned to hit behind the runner and also helping to move more of his teammates into scoring position. Since he was recalled last May 2, (much to his surprise) Flood credits much of the tutoring he has received to manager Fred Hutchinson and Musial.

Asked about his current hitting streak, Flood attributed it to "lotsa luck and Somebody up there likes me."

Flood was only one year old when his family moved to California from Houston, Texas. He played sandlot,

FLOOD

American Legion and high school infielder in Oakland. He was scouted by Bobby Mattick of the Reds and signed to a contract for $4,000. Cincinnati optioned him to the Class B Carolina league. He was a 340 hitter with 29 homers with 128 RBIs in Class B in 1956. Last year, he hit .299 with 14 home runs and 82 driven in for the Class A Sally league.

Barons Edge Clowns 3-2 in Pitchers Duel

In what amounted to a tight pitcher's duel, the Birmingham Black Barons edged the Detroit Clowns 3-2 before a gala baseball fans. The contest saw only nine scattered hits, five of which were bunched in the latter innings. The Clowns collected five blows while the Barons got four.

Hitless Until 8th

Pitcher Johnny Winston of the Clowns held his opponents hitless until the eighth inning although one run was scored in the early innings on an error. Up until that time the score was tied one and one. Winston seemed to tire in the eighth and yielded a succession of hits which resulted in the Barons scoring two runs to take the lead.

Shaky Start

Southpaw Willie Smith of the Birmingham team started off shaky

Clowning

Antics and pranks of the Clowns third baseman, "French Joe" Henry, showed talent and alertness, and were sparkingly funny. This added much to the fan's enjoyment of the evening. The pre-game pepper-balling of Goose Tatum and cohorts was also amusing.
