Speakers Urgelowans To Increase Support Of NAACP Struggles

Two national leaders speaking before the 19th annual Iowa Fall Conference here last weekend urged Negroes to support the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and its leaders in their fight for civil rights.

Russell Lasley, vice-president of the U.P.W.A. of A.F.L.-C.I.O., stated, "We have a responsibility to our leaders who are specialists in the fields of human rights and relations."

All People

Pointing to Roy Wilkins and Thurgood Marshall, Lasley said, "We don't know what they have to go through on the firing line for us. They are not just fighting for Negroes, they are fighting for the freedom of all peoples in the boundaries of the United States of America."

"Nobody will be free until all are free," he continued. "But, the job can be done through support of our leaders and recognizing their sacrifices."

School Integration

"We have found in our union efforts, you get a lot more done if you don't talk about getting rid of Jim Crow, but start doing something about it," he declared.

"As for school integration," The Waterloo, Ia. native asserted, "Those who say it won't work better talk to the governor of Oklahoma."

Mass Meeting

At the mass meeting Sunday afternoon, Miss Mildred Louise Bond, At the mass meeting Sunday afternoon, Miss Mildred Louise Bond, National NAACP membership secretary, emphasized Lasley's statements, and called upon the northern Negro to give wholehearted backing to the NAACP fight in finances and leadership.

"I will take care of children from two to school age," she said, "I can even take care of kindergartners after they come home from school. The only thing that I ask that is, that all prospective children placed in my care be toilet trained."

In Des Moines Wednesday Atty. Morris stated he has not made up his mind to whether to appeal his case. He has until 30 days to do so.

Police Term Job 'Pro' At Integrated Tennessee School; Damages $300,000

Clinton, Tenn.—The place was integrated Clinton High school located right across from a police station. The time was 4:21 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 5. The cast . . . unknown culprits lurking in the pre-dawn. The scene, fog enshrouded, visibility zero. . . And then . . . came three closely spaced and devastating dynamite blasts, set off in separate parts of the building, which shattered walls, cracked support beams, smashed windowpanes and doors and ripped a hole in the roof. Sixteen of 20 classrooms in the 33-year-old building were a complete ruin. Damage was set at $300,000.

Police quickly termed the bombing that of professionals and the work of anti-integrationists.

Peaceful Integration

When the blasts occurred, two years had passed peacefully since Negro students were integrated into classes. School officials immediately met—the emergency, first—declaring a brief suspension of classes. Then classes resumed Tuesday in the undamaged wing of the gymnasium, the national guard armory and church school facilities until today when transportation of the school's 850 students began by bus to a vacated school in nearby Oak Ridge.

$5,000 Reward

At Nashville, Gov. Frank Clement

termed the blasting "a cowardly act." He offered a $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for it. City and county officials said they will offer rewards, also.

FBI Called In

The Tennessee Bureau of Identification and state highway patrol entered the investigation. Police also called in the FBI. In Washington, D. C., justice department officials expressed shock, but said they will wait for a report before making a statement.

Negroes Admitted

Clinton High admitted Negroes under federal court orders in 1956. The first week of desegregation was accompanied by rioting. Gov. Frank Clement sent in state troopers and national guardsmen.

The first-year was marked by numerous racial incidents within the school, but school officials reported the first few weeks this year were mostly peaceful.

Little Rock School Remain Closed; Court Sets Hearing

St. Louis, Mo.—An injunction against the Little Rock school board banning leasing of the school building to a private corporation was extended Monday by three judges of the U. S. eighth circuit court of appeals. The ruling came after one hour of oral argument by attorneys and continued in effect a temporary restraining order granted Sept. 28 at Omaha, Nebr.

Arkansas Law

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (N.A.A.C.P.) asked Monday for an injunction pending action on an appeal. That appeal was from a ruling by U. S. District Judge John E. Miller, who refused to accept jurisdiction in the N.A.A.C.P.'s case challenging validity of the Arkansas law.

Asks Injunction

The N.A.A.C.P. attorneys asked for an injunction against leasing of the public school buildings at Little Rock or, as an alternative, an order requiring that any private schools be operated on an integrated basis.

Richard Butler, attorney for the Little Rock school board, suggested a ruling is essential on constitutionality of recent Arkansas legislative acts under which the schools were closed.

Cheese Souffle With Corn Flake Topping

Gather your family around the table and then bring this Cheese Souffle with Corn Flakes Topping directly from the oven to the table. The crisp corn flakes add an unusual texture to the cheese souffle. Serve the souffle with individual tossed vegetable salads, bran muffins, grape jelly, milk to drink and fresh fruit for dessert.

Cereal Festivals were celebrated in mid-April about 500 B.C. by the Romans to solicit protection for growing grains. The modern version of this celebration is the Spring Cereal and Milk Festival sponsored by the breakfast cereal and dairy industries to promote the food value of cereal and milk. Cereal and milk complement each other in both food value and appetite appeal. Besides providing calcium, cereal and milk also contribute other important minerals (phosphorus and iron), B vitamins (thiamine, niacin and riboflavin), top-quality protein and food energy.

The ingredient use of cereals and milk in main dishes provides an attractive way to encourage adults, and children too, to get their daily requirements of this nutritious team.

Youth Of The Week

This is the 26th in a series featuring youth, 13 to 21 years, in the community and in Iowa who are setting a good example in wholesome living and achievements in their homes, schools, churches, sports and civic activities.

Udell Cason, Jr., 17 year-old Junior at East High had the distinction of making history last week when he became the first of his race to be elected drum major in any school in Des Moines. That election came from the majority of the school band members. Shortly after he was named one of his school mates contacted us to give us the history making news.

Combo Band

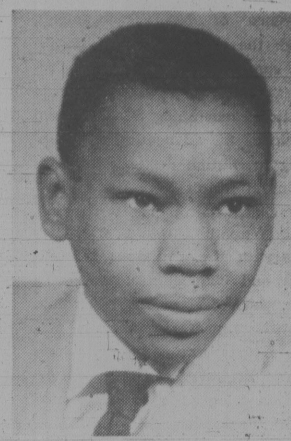

However, participating in the band is nothing new to Udell. He has been playing the drums, bass fiddle or some percussion instrument in the band since he was at Amos Hiatt Junior High. There he played in the combo band which performed at most special school activities and once at the Val Air. His first introduction to drums came at the early age of 10 when he began his rhythmic thumping that got him recognition at school.

Track

Back in junior high he also started in track and cross country and has participated in most city and state events since that time. Presently he has one letter in track and in working on his second in cross country. Among his array of honors are seven ribbons and four medals ranging from first to third place.

Artist

Udell, who is an all around lad at school and at home, also is extremely interested in art. An interest which also began in junior

Although he likes English and history, when he graduates he would like to go to college and concentrate his career in commercial art.

At East he is a treasurer of the Hi Y club and is a member of Union Baptist church. He is one of three children of Mr. and Mrs. Udell Cason, Sr., of 1210 McCormick St.

TROPHY FOR 200 STRIKE-OUT RECORD

St. Louis, Mo.—SAD SAM JONES, left, holds huge trophy given him by the St. Louis Cardinals early in September just after he smashed the 25-year strike out record held by Dizzy Dean. With him is Harry Carey, Cardinal sportscaster.

Sad Sam Jones Will Go Down in Record Books as 1958's Hard Luck Pitcher

St. Louis, Just a few weeks ago news media across the country flashed that Pitcher Sad Sam Jones of the St. Louis Cardinals tied the major league strikeout record for night baseball with 14 while hurling his leg into a 9-1 win over the Philadelphia Phils.

As the baseball season drew to a close Sunday, Sad Sam had racked up considerable more prestige on the diamond, enough to provide hot stove chatter throughout the winter months.

Season Ends

A week before the season ended, the 32 year old righthander had struck out 216 batters in a total of 238 innings. Just prior to that, he smashed the 199 strikeout mark held by the Cardinals Dizzy Dean since 1941. He accomplished this with a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs at which time he fanned eight batters.

Hard Luck

Despite this, the tall 205 pound toothpick chewing hurler will go down in the record books as 1958's hard luck pitcher.

In order to take up her new career, Mrs. Townsell will have to resign from her present job for the State department in the child welfare division. She is also a former school board employee. A graduate of East High school she is a member of Mt. Olive Baptist church.

NAACP Renewal Drive Intensified

New York, Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the NAACP Board of Directors, has called upon local units of the Association throughout the country to give full support to the October membership renewal campaign to re-enlist all former members of the Association.

"Freedom is costly," he pointed out. "We must renew our memberships because the NAACP is definitely the organization which stands for full freedom for colored Americans. We cannot afford to do less if we wish our citizenship rights to be respected. We call upon every former NAACP member and friend to renew his membership today."

"The struggle for equality is most critical," she declared. "The NAACP cannot equivocate . . . we cannot afford it."

"There can be no compromises or gradualism, because you cannot gradually save a man's life," she maintained.

"We should not be willing to compromise at gradualism in segregation," she said. "We must have a determination that will enable us to support the kind of fight the NAACP is fighting, and has fought for more than 50 years."

TARGET FOR TODAY

Today's target may be vital. May we always use each day, As if it were our last one. Only God knows, if it may. No item is too trifling. No good thing that's too small. Could we foresee the ending. Knew today, might end it all. Today's target could be heaven. May our souls be tried and true. And our sights, be on His target. With each word: each thing we do. Revelations' Word has told us. Of the fall of fiery rain. Trials, plagues, and tribulations. Then our Lord, returns again. Keep us eager, ever willing. Worthy, ready, in every way. May the highest place beside him. Be our target for today.

Personally Yours

Over the weekend the social calendar was crammed with activities . . . State NAACP convention . . . Ice Follies . . . Elks Annual Style show . . . Public receptions . . . Open House . . . and private parties . . . and entertainment of weekend guests. Hoala hooping was still top priority on the youngsters list of activities . . . Staunch football fans almost got a bad case of blues as the Air Force broke even with the Hawkeyes . . . and wild fowl hunters eyed with anticipation south-bound flocks winging overhead . . .

Among Des Moines residents attending the 1959 Ice Follies at Veterans' auditorium last week were members of the DeLuxe club. Also Mrs. Rufus Spates and her daughter, Peggy.

Hoala Hoops are catching on strong with the adult set . . . and are invading recreational activities of club members. At a recent meeting of the Bow Knots club, social organization for married couples, members decided to hold a hoala hooping contest. So the hosts got out their youngsters hoops and the fun and laughs began. A novelty gift was presented to the woman and man who were able to out last their genial competitors.

Recently, we were talking to Mrs. Edgar Cranshaw who revealed that Harvey E. Rucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Rucker of Chillicothe, Mo., was among the summer graduates at Drake University. She also reported he had boarded in the Cranshaw home during the entire four years he attended the school where he maintained a fine record both as a student and a person.

Right after we viewed Roy Campanella on "This is Your Life," on Ralph Edwards nation-wide program last Wednesday evening, we called John M. Estes, Jr., to get his comments on the former Los Angeles Dodger star catcher's physical progress as viewed from the TV screen.

Mr. Estes, Jr., sustained a similar injury several years ago in which the doctors predicted he would not walk again. In an interview last fall he voiced the belief that Campanella would walk again.

We were unable to get him but talked to his father . . . Mr. Estes Sr., said Campanella's ability to use his hands seems even better than recent newspaper reports.

The most obvious absence from the list of baseball stars paying tribute to the catcher was Jackie Robinson who preceded Campanella on the Dodger roster but by a scant two years.

Attending the Governor Conference on Children and Youth in Cedar Falls, Ia., last Friday were Mrs. Inez Morrow and Mrs. Betty Townsell. Mrs. Townsell is secretary to Mrs. Esther Immer, executive secretary of the organization.

Mrs. Townsell also attended the 58th annual State Welfare Association held at the Hotel Savery last week. Other Des Moines residents whose professional interests lie in that field, attending were Mrs. Clara Bayles, Mrs. Rosa Hamilton, and Mr. Ed Harris.

The name of this week's candidate for "Youth of the Week," was submitted by John Thomas, East High student. He called us last week right after Udeil Cason, was voted by the band as drum major . . . becoming the first Negro in Des Moines history.

Among other weeks this is National Newspaper week which reminds me that yours truly has been with this newspaper for a year. May I take this opportunity to thank all our readers and "reporters" for their fine co-operation . . . that helped to make this year go so speedily.

LAWRENCE'S ATTITUDE AIDS LAWLESSNESS

David Lawrence, whose syndicated column appears in the Des Moines Tribune, is one of the most severe critics of the U. S. Supreme Court. His articles have been a continuous defense of segregation to the extent that he appears to be a press agent for the southern view point.

There are whites in the South who would speak out against segregation and particularly obedience to law and order—but fear of reprisals from their neighbors. David Lawrence is not so situated. His articles do a real disservice to constitutional government.

Lawrence is editor of a magazine called U. S. News. Recently this magazine sent a questionnaire to U. S. District Judges asking their views on recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions particularly in the field of human rights. It did not say so but his purpose was a sly way of getting expressions from these judges who would not be required to give their names.

This part of his campaign seems to have boomeranged for most of the judges felt that it was an affront and an insult to their intelligence and propriety for it called for criticism of a court to which their own decisions might be appealed.

It is gratifying that by far most of the judges ignored David Lawrence's questionnaires.

SEPARATE BUT EQUAL IS EXPENSIVE

The 1958 World Series baseball games have attracted wide-spread interest—as usual—and thanks to television—the games have been watched by millions who could not follow the teams to New York City and Milwaukee.

Among the players on both teams are Negroes who have made outstanding contributions to the success of their respective aggregations.

And not only are these Negro players getting high praise along with all the other players, but they participate in the extra money which comes to the teams playing in the series. Neither of these rewards would have come had they not been given an opportunity to play in organized baseball.

Prior to the time Negroes were taken in on big time baseball, there existed a Negro American and National League. These teams produced some remarkable players such as old Satchel Page. But they never made any money. In fact it is safe to say that the salaries of the Negro players on the two teams will be greater than all the net income of the old separate leagues in one year.

In the struggle over school integration much is being said about "separate but equal" for the races as laid down by Supreme Court in 1896. The decision was almost dormant until integration was in sight, then the proponents of the doctrine got busy.

Of course, separate but equal, equals unequal for no facility built or organized on a segregated basis is equal.

If Negro players were in "separate but equal" leagues they would have little opportunity to display their ability as other players or receive a share of the purse that comes as a result of playing on these unsegregated teams.

THE NEGRO MUST PAY MORE

Speaking before the Iowa State Conference of Branches, NAACP Mildred Bond, secretary of the Fighting Fund For Freedom Committee emphasized two things;

1. The NAACP is in the midst of the greatest fight of its life and must have the help of all right thinking people—black, and white—to carry on its program.

2. That it takes large sums of money to finance this program and that Negroes should dig deeper into their pockets to finance it.

With this, of course, the Bystander fully agrees.

There are altogether too many Negroes who criticize white people for offering token employment and/or enjoyment of civil rights to the Negro and yet they give token help to the NAACP by taking two dollar annual membership.

In other words, those people who can should give more. They are shirking their responsibility when they play the NAACP cheap for it is the greatest organization in America fighting for the rights of minorities and thus all the people.

Campanella Sees 3 Games of Series

New York, N. Y.,—Roy Campanella, paralyzed Los Angeles Dodger catcher, attended all three games held in New York of the World Series.

When he was brought into the Yankee Stadium Saturday, the crowd gave him a tremendous ovation. He arrived each day in a station wagon. His male nurse and two firemen carried him to a box seat behind the Yankee dugout.

Everybody is asking the same questions about Iowa. Was T.C.U. as tough as they were supposed to be or was the Air Force Academy much tougher than anybody dreamed? Maybe Iowa loafed, but they certainly didn't loaf when they were behind. If Texas Christian and the Air Force Academy were really tough, then take a look at the rest of the Hawkeye schedule and try to figure who they can beat. Tell you more about it after the Wisconsin game.

Drake Bulldogs

Drake still looking for that first win. The Bulldogs are improving and will get somebody yet. Iowa State can find more ways to lose Big Eight games when they take the field you find yourself wondering how they will blow this one.

High Schoolers

Here at home North High suddenly looms as a threat to both Roosevelt and East. The Polar Bears seem to have found a leader and are getting better each week. East is still floundering around. They won that one last week in spite of themselves. The Scarlet has the size and speed and may jell any week into a tough hard hitting outfit.

Quarterbacks

What is a quarterback? In this day of signals called from the bench one wonders how much criticism one should lay onto a quarterback or his choice of plays. Time was when the quarterback had to check the defense, watch the actions of each defensive man on certain plays and plan his offense accordingly. With the advent of the huddle, the various teammates would report their luck with the men opposing them.

Passing

Now the quarterback is chosen largely as we see it for his ability to handle the ball and pass. Choice of plays isn't too much. Anything special comes from the bench where the coach has an assistant on top of the press box looking at the play and reporting the defensive maneuvers by telephone.

Coaches

So when a team signal caller goofs one, in the opinion of the Monday morning stadium quarterbacks who should get the blame? The coaches sometimes take the blame or the credit for the plays that succeed or backfires and they should. We would like to see a game played as a duel of wits and skill between two opposing quarterbacks without any interference from the bench. Might be interesting.

What About Hypnosis?

The history of hypnosis through the ages has been a series of ups and downs. Periods of great interest by the medical profession have been followed by almost complete rejection. At times it has had little more than the status of a vaudeville trick. Today interest in its use in the treatment of illness is again on the upswing.

The extent of interest in hypnosis is illustrated by the fact that the American Medical Association has seen the necessity of making a study of the subject and making recommendations to the doctors of the nation. The complexity of the subject and making recommendations to the doctors of the nation. The complexity of the subject is shown by the difficulty the AMA had in arriving at a definition of hypnosis, even though there was no question about the results brought about by hypnosis.

Temporary Condition

What they came up with was "a temporary condition of altered attention in the subject which may be induced by another person."

World Series Decided on Better Fielding
Better Pitching Combination—Braves Lead

BY STAFF WRITER

New York, N. Y., (Tuesday)—That the World Series baseball classic of 1958 between second successive year rivals world champions Injun Braves and Rivals Yankee Joes is presently at a 3-2 game edge favoring Milwaukee is largely the result of who having played the better field or who had the better pitching in each given game.

To date, the heretofore onrushing Braves have been the more spectacular in both departments. If getting the jump on the opposition means anything the Braves should win the series for they won the initial contest in a 4-3, 10-inning thriller that saw Billy Bruton, slim centerfielder, in a pinch hitting role knock in the edge. Pitching ace Warren Spahn was the victor in this clash against loser Whitey Ford.

Lew Burdette

The second game was also won by Milwaukee and was a 13-5 slugfest that was decided early in the first inning when the champion Braves sent seven record-breaking runs across the plate. (A record for most runs scored in the first inning of a world series.) In this game Lew Burdette, thrice astonisher of the Yankees in last years' series with his mound wizardry, was pitted against the Yankees claim to fame, Bob Turley. The frolicking bats of

During this condition of "altered attention" doctors and dentists have been able to accomplish remarkable results. Severely burned patients have been able to do exercises necessary to recovering the use of their limbs. Children who need surgery have been anesthetized easily and without being frightened. Dentists have used it successfully both for anesthesia and to allay patient's anxiety. The use of hypnosis in psychotherapy has been frequently dramatized, even over-dramatized.

Dangerous Aspect

The dangerous aspect of hypnosis is the fact that it can so easily be induced by someone with little or no technical training. It is meat for the charlatans who can dramatize its mysterious quality. The harm that can be done by hypnosis is still debatable, but it should only be used for medical treatment by a qualified, trained practitioner. Its use for entertainment purposes is vigorously condemned by the AMA.

The Braves sent Turley to the showers early and throughout the remaining eight innings were no less kind to five other New York hurlers.

Hapless Yankees

And thus the hapless Yankees were sent home to recuperate and heal their wounds. The Braves, two games up followed into Yankee Stadium, the Yankee home, and faced big Don Larsen for the third game of the series versus Milwaukee's Bob Rush. Both boys seem to have their stuff until the late innings when Rush yielded and walked the bases full. Then old Hank Bauer hit a looper to shallow right field which centerfielder Henry Aaron failed to get a quick jump on (perhaps because he lost the ball against the background of triple tiered stands) and a run scored.

Gil MacDougald was purposely passed and scored another Yankee run. Pinch hitter Slaughter walked and old Bauer socked a homer to tally the score at 4-0. Milwaukee had their chance but nullified it with a mixup on the base paths.

Warren Spahn

The next day, however, reliable Warren Spahn was on the war path again and blanked the New Yorkers 3-0 in the fourth contest. His opponent in the first game, Whitey Ford was the loser. Aside from southpaw's Spahn mastery over the Yankee batters, errors afield also contributed to their losing cause.

Fifth Game

In this, the fifth game, a kind of a duplication of the second in reverse, saw the Yankees score six runs in the sixth inning after Gil MacDougald had bounced a Lew Burdette pitch off the foul pole in left field for a homer. In reverse, too, because Burdette's (now Bumdette) mastery of the Yankees came to an abrupt end and one time loser Bob Turley had the savvy to blank the Braves 7-0; striking out ten while doing so.

Back to Milwaukee

And now the New Yorkers must return to Milwaukee, the home of the Braves, to culminate their rivalry and decide just who is the baseball king. The Braves have three wins to their credit, this Yankees two. And it is interesting to note the changing complexes that have taken place in this '58 tumultuous duel. At first it looked like the Braves in four straight, then perhaps tied at two and two and later four-one . . . now the standings are three and two, Braves . . . later on it might be four and two—Braves the winner—or three and three—tied . . . but the final analysis of tabulations are in reality game six or perhaps seven; when the true complexion of the thing are revealed . . . Who knows what it is to be.

DEAR EDITOR:

With reference to 11 persons pleading guilty to resorting to a disorderly house: Whereas, in law, a plea of guilty is a solemn and unqualified admission both to the commission of the act and the intent.

If the defendant protesting his innocence, and offers to plead guilty, the offer should be rejected. The law does not punish a man upon his own request. It should only punish him when he is found guilty upon the evidence and when open court declares that he is in fact guilty.

It occasionally occurs that the defendant is a mistaking one, as to the consequences of his wrongful act, and guilty.

The record must show that statute proving the plea of guilty must be explained with and that the defendant, after being so advised, persisted in his plea . . . as held in the Fulman case.
