New York—Harry Belafonte, who has just returned from a triumphant tour of Europe capitals, and Mrs. Martin Luther King will join Jackie Robinson in leading thousands of Negro and white students on the Youth March for Integrated Schools in downtown Washington on October 25. A. Philip Randolph, national vice-president of the AFL-CIO and co-chairman of the Youth March for Integrated Schools announced today.

Mrs. King will represent her husband, one of the initiators of the March. Physicians have forbidden Dr. King, Jr. to participate. He is recovering from the wound he suffered as a result of the assault upon him several weeks ago. Mr. Randolph also announced that he has written President Eisenhower asking him personally to receive a group of students representing the Youth March at the White House.

80 Buses

With the march still a week away, over 80 buses are already scheduled to take young students to the March. Support for the demonstration has already grown far beyond the initial estimate of 1500 mothers. The student governments of many colleges including Brooklyn CCNY and Hunter have endorsed the March. Eleanor Roosevelt--U.S. Must Put Own House in Order in Solving Minority Problems

If the United States is to be the showcase of the non-communist world, we have a long way to go in solving our minority problems," declared the First Lady of the World, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, in one of several speeches in Des Moines Tuesday in observance of the anniversary of the birth of the United Nations.

"Africa is the continent that Russia is wooing today," continued Mrs. Roosevelt, who is chairman of the Board of Governors of the American Association of the United Nations. "We aren't doing much about it, and there's not much we can do until we put our own house in order."

Dangerous Ignorance

Emphasizing the dangerousness of ignorance of activities in uncommitted nations of the world, the famed former first lady of the U.S., said, "This country cannot hope to successfully meet its opposition and win over the uncommitted areas without greater knowledge of what is going on in these places."

3,000 Iowans

Mrs. Roosevelt appearing before more than 3,000 Iowans here attending two receptions and making three speeches, praised the Iowa branch of the A.A.U.N. as "one of the most active and best in the whole nation."

Reception

In eight hours here, Mrs. Roosevelt spoke to 300 persons at the Iowa Bankers Association convention at Hotel Fort Des Moines, 1,500 Iowans at a reception at the governor's mansion, addressed a banquet audience of 400 at Younkers Tearoom, and nearly 1,000 more at a public U.N. program at the statehouse.

ROZENTING HARDAWAY

Hardaway Tonsorial Parlor, 1004 Center street, holds the distinction of being the oldest Negro barber shop in Des Moines which has operated under the same ownership. Its proprietor-manager is Rozenting Hardaway, Sr., one of the local leading self-made business men. Next week he is celebrating his 30th anniversary in the barbering business.

Born in Octine, Texas, Mr. Hardaway got his training in the barber trade in San Antonio, in his native state.

In 1924 he came to Des Moines and worked as a barber for the late Mr. Oscar Glass two years before going to Chicago, Ill. A year and a half later he returned to Des Moines and went in business for himself on Oct. 29, 1928.

300,000 Persons Reminiscing over the past three decades, Mr. Hardaway said, "A lot of people have gone through our shop in the past 30 years. The way I figure it, over 300,000 persons have been in and out. Some have been as far away as Africa. Others were nationally known ball players and sports figures."

Segregationists Paid Negroes To Attend White Churches in Little Rock, Probe Reveals

New York—Attempts by groups of Negroes to attend services at white churches in Little Rock would appear to be "a maneuver of the segregationist forces and may well have been stimulated by some state officials," the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People declares in a statement released here by Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the Association's Board of Directors.

Real Objective

The statement, adopted by the NAACP Board of Directors at its regular meeting here on Oct. 14, reaffirms the Association's conviction that "the Churches of Christ should be voluntarily desegregated everywhere." However, it points out, "an investigation by the NAACP seems to indicate

NEWS In A Nutshell

Oxford, Miss.—A Negro man who sat down at a drugstore food counter last week was "forcibly" ejected when witnesses said he refused to move from the section reserved for whites.

Windsor, Ontario, Canada—Dr. Roy Perry, socially prominent physician, and city controller, last week announced his candidacy for mayor of the City of Windsor, in the 1958 municipal elections. He also has the honor of being the first Negro member of the City Council where he has served nine years.

Accra, Ghana—Fifteen members of the "Opposition United Party" were taken into custody last week on charges of participating in an unlawful assembly while armed with offensive weapons. Arresting officials said they threw bottles and stones at a police car when told to break up their demonstration.

Wilberforce, Ohio—School president, Dr. Rembert Stokes of Wilberforce university announced the receipt of an anonymous $25,000 gift made in connection with a current school year $75,000 Development Fund.

Washington, D. C.—Judge Edward M. Curran of the U.S. District court ruled last week that the State Department was justified in denying a passport to William J. Worthly, Jr., Negro newspaper reporter, on the grounds he is likely to break the travel restrictions outlined by the passport division.

Cairo, Egypt—When the brother of King Saud married an Egyptian girl this week in what is called the most lavish wedding of the country, he set a new standard for bridegrooms-to-be. Emir Fahed ben Abdel Oziz, 40, gave his beautiful 18-year-old bride Safinaz Neur the following "first" wedding gifts. Jewelry worth $275,000; 300 dresses by Dior and a cash gift of $40,000. In addition he presented her family with six American limousines.

Single maidens take note—the next boat to Cairo sails at midnight.

"Center street is much different than the late '30's in reference to business establishments. Things have changed a lot in the barbering business, also."

"When I started, haircuts were 75 cents and a shave was 25 cents. Today they are $1.50 and 75 cents respectively," he related.

"In the old days we used shaving mugs, something like porcelain cups."

Says Endorsement by City Council Would Extend Segregated Neighborhood

Representatives of the Des Moines branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will meet with the city urban renewal board at the board's public meeting at the city hall tomorrow (Friday) to request re-consideration of the location of a proposed $2,000,000 housing development on the east side.

The request will be the second this week before city officials. Monday, J. B. Morris, Sr., editor-publisher of the Iowa Bystander and official spokesman for the NAACP, asked the City Council to reject the proposed site to the Urban Renewal board for further study of this and other sites and offer interested groups opportunities to be heard.

Open Occupancy

In addition, he asked the city council to go on record as favoring "open occupancy"—non-segregated and non-discriminatory housing in the relocated area and in the land cleared by the urban renewal board.

The area proposed by the Urban Renewal board is generally bounded by Washington and Cleveland avenues and East 16th and East 17th streets.

Designated Negro

Atty. Morris told the council, "The location would only enlarge a neighborhood already designated as Negro."

"It is nearly surrounded by sub-standard houses, a railroad spur less than a block to the north, and with land zoned for industrial use to the north of the railroad. And the site is on low land which raises an undue

Where Employment is Better

It's good to live and work in Iowa. For one thing, Iowa's steady employment record is one of the finest in the nation. Figures published at mid-year show that, while jobs were still hard to find in some parts of the country, we had the THIRD LOWEST unemployment figure of all states in the Union.

One of the solid factors in helping Iowa maintain such a fine record is our brewing industry. Over 23,000 Iowans are regularly employed in the brewing and distribution of beer... the light, bright beverage of moderation. In these steady and growing payrolls, as in so many other ways...

John "Joker" Jackson (Tony Curtis) and Noah Cullen (Sidney Poitier) escape from a chain gang when a truck carrying prisoners crashes on a rain-swept highway.

Jackson, a powerful, rock-faced white, and Cullen, a well-muscled, equally rock-faced Negro, are linked together at the wrists by a four-foot chain which they are unable to break. The two, white and Negro, are enemies. Enemies with the kind of deep, mean, bitter antagonism that can be held only by men who think they hate the color of another man's skin. Jackson wants to head south but Cullen insists on going north, 60 miles cross-country through swamps to a railroad freight line near a turpentine camp.

Posse and Dogs

They have only a twelve-hour start on Sheriff Max Muller (Theodore Bikel), heading a well-armed posse of troopers commanded by State Police Capt. Frank Gibbons (Charles McGraw) and civilians led by Lou Gans (Whit Bissell). There is con-from the major affiliates of the AFL-CIO are participating. Dozens of distinguished churches along the Eastern Seaboard are organizing the participation of the young people and adults of their congregations.

NAACP

The NAACP has mobilized its Youth Councils under the direction of its National Youth Secretary, Mr. Herb Wright. The Committee stated that many of the young people who will attend are students who are the heroic pioneers in their communities as the first Negro students to enter hitherto all white schools under the mandates of the Supreme Court. Some are veterans and victims of violence, torture and insults. One of the March's objectives will be to honor the courageous young people "in whose debt the whole nation stands."

States & Cities

Bus and cars will be traveling from the New England States, many communities of Long Island, Pennsylvania, Maryland, South Carolina, Virginia, North Carolina. The Midwest will be represented by groups from Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland, and other inland cities. A chartered plane will fly a delegation from Los Angeles to join the March.

flit in the posse when it is joined by dog-boy Solly and his trackers, including two vicious Dobermans, who quickly pick up the trail. Gibbons wants to take the prisoners dead or alive, but Muller orders the dogs kept leashed, and warns the man about using their guns.

Clay Pit

The fugitives cross a swollen river and Jackson saves Cullen when he flounders in the raging water. They dive into a clay pit, barely escaping discovery on a wagon trail, and scale the clay bank only after a terrific struggle. Yet the animosity between them grows during their flight.

Captured, Then Freed

They reach a settlement and when all lights go out, they break into a store seeking food, through a smoke-vent in the roof. Jackson falls, and passes out from the pain of iron cutting his wrist. Their noise awakens the town and they are captured, threatened with lynching, then jailed. But Big Sam, (Lon Chaney, Jr.), whose wrist betrays the scars of manacles, sets them free.

The posse is close behind the fleeing pair, who run until violence. Their blows are savage but weakness makes them ineffectual, and the fight stops when an 11-year-old boy (Kevin Coughlin), aims a 22 rifle at them. He takes them to an isolated cabin where his mother (Cara Williams) feeds them, gives them hammet and chisel to break their chain, and nurses Jackson when he becomes feverish from his wrist wounds.

Quicksand

After their night together, the woman abandoned by her husband eight months earlier—decides to go away with Jackson in her car. She directs Cullen to a short-cut through a swamp, but when she admits she has sent him to sure death in quicksand, Jackson pushes her away. The boy shoots Jackson but he runs after Cullen.

End of Flight

Jackson finds Cullen in the swamp and they head toward the railroad on high ground, the posse only minutes behind them. Jackson is so faint from loss of blood that Cullen has to support him while trying to swing aboard the train. They fail, and fall beside the tracks. When the posse catches up to them, Cullen is seated and singing, the white man cradled in his arms.

Ala. Voter's Board Refuses to Show Rights Agents Records

Tuskegee, Ala.—Although the Macon County voter registration board denied charges of discrimination, Monday officials refused to let two commission look at its records. The agents of the new federal civil rights agents, who identified themselves as Burton J. Goodyear and O. J. Peterson, said several Negroes came in and tried to register while they were there.

Negro population outnumber whites in Macon county 6 to 1 but voter registration is only about half as that as whites. In denying discrimination, board members claim Negroes who have been refused registration have not met qualifications.

Alabama law requires prospective voters to answer a questionnaire which asks, among other things, for a definition of the "duties and obligations" of citizenship.

E. P. Livingston, chairman of the board, said the agents produced "no court order to see the registration records, but hinted they might do so."

Prior to the city council meeting Monday, about 30 persons attended a public meeting sponsored by the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights and Job Discrimination and held at Bishop Cafeteria, last Thursday evening, (Oct. 16). In the discussion similar views and objection of segregation were voiced to the proposed housing development.

Mrs. Griffin

Mrs. Stanley Griffin, housing committee chairman for the Des Moines branch, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said her group feels that both whites and Negroes resist relocation there.

"The whites will resist moving in because they will look on it as a Negro area, as it already is 'mixed,' Mrs. Griffin said. "Only white people who can't do any better will go there."

"The reaction of the Negroes is that they are being told where to go. It might be to our economic benefit, but there is a sense of rebellion to it."

"Cut and Dried"

Morris and others charged the whole project was "cut and dried" before people most vitally concerned knew anything about it.

W. Lawrence Oliver, Negro attorney and alternate member of the urban renewal board, said:

Cheap Lots

"This is the only area where we can find lots cheap enough to put up $8,000 houses. I don't believe the problem is as big as some think. It isn't the best in Des Moines, but you can't build a $9,000 house on an expensive lot. Some of the displaced have to be supplemented to live in a house at that price."

"The development plan provides a subsidy to help pay rent or buy homes for families whose incomes are insufficient to enable them to have standard housing."

Marguerite Cothorn of the Council of Social Agencies pointed out that the Cleveland avenue area had been considered for a housing development by another commission some years ago.

Renominated to Serve on NAACP Board

New York, N. Y.—Among fourteen persons nominated for election to the Board of Directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was Judge Carl Johnson of the Municipal Court in Kansas City, Mo., and president of the local branch there.

Two New Names

Two newly selected candidates

(making a total of 16 candidates) are—Miss Betty Lou Burleigh, president of the Association's college chapter at the University of Pittsburgh to serve as youth representative, and Mrs. Doretha A. Combre, president of the Louisiana State Conference of NAACP branches, longtime worker in the Association, and prominent business woman in her home city of Lake Charles.

Other Candidates

Candidates were selected by a seven-person nominating committee composed of four persons chosen by the annual NAACP convention in Cleveland and three designated by the Board of Directors. Other candidates may be nominated by petitions signed by not less than 30 members of the Association in good standing. Such petitions must be filed with the Executive Secretary not later than Nov. 1.

Names of all candidates will be submitted to the branches in a referendum. The 16 elected will serve for three-year terms, ending Dec. 31, 1961. The ballots will be counted at the annual meeting to be held at the NAACP headquarters in New York City on Jan. 5, 1959.

New York—(CNS)—Louis Jordan and his Tympany Five still like the coast for nothing has budged them from it in the last few months. From Los Angeles, he's gone up the line so that now he's in San Francisco, doing weeks at a time. "But then we can't blame him with the weather the way it is."

Lionel Hampton

Lionel Hampton, meanwhile, is on the east coast, packing them in as usual. "Ham" has an interesting theory for success—absence makes the heart grow fonder. He stays scarce and thereby hoops it up when he comes to town.

Ethel Waters

Ethel Waters—still great in our book as an actress and a singer despite the thinning voice—but is an awful bore on the race relations' subject. She's talking more these days than ever before on what the Negro ought to do. If she would only keep to the things she does so well

Raves and Fads

Recalling some of the raves or fads in haircuts through the years Mr. Hardaway said, "Back in my early days of business, a haircut style known as 'shingles' was much in demand. Here, recently customers have asked for the 'collegiate,' which is the same style as the 'shingles' 30 years ago."

Credit to Wife

Mr. Hardaway gives much of the credit for his success in business, to his wife, Mary. "She has been a lot of help and a source of inspiration to me during the past 30 years," he said. They are parents of one son, Rozenting, Jr., and had one other son who is deceased and who also received his apprentice training under his father. He has one barber in his shop, Mr. William McLeudon, who has been with him 10 years. "There have been six others who got their apprentice training in my shop," he reported. "One, Merl Young, operates his own shop in Minneapolis and all are successful barbers."

In connection with his profession, Mr. Hardaway, was instrumental in organizing six months the Associated Barbers of which he is chairman.

Rose Morgan

Marva Louis Spaulding still modeling in outstanding cities. She's got the clothes—so why not? Meanwhile, her successor to the Mrs. Joe Louis title—Rose Morgan—is on the circuit, too. More than ever since she too has vacated being Joe's spouse.

Mrs. Daisy Bates

How Mrs. Daisy Bates of Arkansas manages to look as pretty as a picture—even though she can be deeply worried inside—is a marvelous display of femininity while she thinks as a man. . . . You just can't underestimate the power of a woman as the saying goes.

Model Race Relations

Durham, N. C. is still about the best model of race relations in the south—separate but equal. Perhaps it's because the Negro really looks after himself better here than in other places. It's been proven you are an equal—not so much by demanding it but by actually being one through hard work. Durham Negroes really produce.

Izola Ware Curry can get 25 years, if convicted for attempted murder of Dr. King. . . . Many hope she will.

He is a former trustee of Corinthian Baptist church where he is a member and holds membership in the Masonic order and Monarch club. He is a charter member of Hilltop Tennis club. During his sparetime he indulges in his hobby, photography, which he developed an interest in six years ago.

Favors Trades

Mr. Hardaway, who has never been to high school but got his formal education through correspondence courses and night school, feels "young people could be more successful in going into business."

"I guess, I am partial to business ownership," he said, "but that is one letdown among our people. I believe that if young people would take up a trade of some kind while they are in school, it would help a lot."

If you were among the thousands of local residents and out of town Iowans who got a holiday atmospheric boost from Des Moines first downtown "Mall" last weekend . . . you are just about all set for hectic excitement of Christmas 1958. The closest holiday and one in which youngsters will feel "ghostly chills" running up and down their spines . . . is Halloween . . . or as youngsters say . . . "Tricks or Treats" night.

And if you are looking for something special and different to treat those small "ghosts" who will be ringing your door bell a week from tonight why not try delicious, "chewy" popcorn balls . . . from a recipe we came across.

Start with six quarts of popped corn, and salt it lightly. Melt one-third of a cup of butter or margarine and 20 marshmallows together in a heavy pan over medium heat. Add two-thirds of a cup of heavy sorghum (not molasses) and heat until the mixture is just beginning to bubble. Pour the liquid over the popped corn, coating it evenly. Chopped candied fruits or nut meats may be added. Let stand a few minutes. Shape with buttered hands into balls. This recipe makes 18 large or 36 small balls. A cluster of chocolate candy kisses or a piece of candied fruit in the center of a ball provides a pleasant taste surprise.

Here's another for pizza loving teenagers or for hostesses who are looking for novel sandwiches to serve while ghost gallop through the night. And if it is a club meeting perhaps you would like to have all members make his own "eerie, cheese face" and award a prize for the eeriest.

For "ghostburgers" make a pizza mixture of ground beef, finely chopped onion, tomato paste, salt, and oregano. Spread mixture on cut side of sandwich bun halves and brown in a hot oven for 12 minutes.

Give pizzas a spirited look with eerie cheese faces. Cut faces from slices of sharp process cheese, using a paring knife.

Place a cheese face over browned meat and return to the oven for 1 or 2 minutes until cheese starts to soften.

And of course, if you want a perfect Halloween salad here's one which is easy and can be made in advance of a party or club meeting. Make a salad of grated carrot and dark plump raisins molded in lemon or orange gelatin in a shallow pan.

Then cut salad into circles and center each on lettuce leaf. Spread lightly with mayonnaise and make a jack-o-lantern face using raisins.

If you wish to showoff this salad as a centerpiece, make in round shallow dish (glass cake pan or larger would be perfect). And after unmolding, make jack-o-lantern face with ripe olives.

Mrs. Chrystal Peavy called us to give us a tip on this month's cover girl for Ebony magazine. We assured her we were looking for the mail man to bring our any day now. She says Barbara Crutchfield is the lucky lass . . . former member of Phi chapter of Delta Sigma Theta sorority of which Mrs. Peavy is dean of pledges. Miss Crutchfield also attended the State University of Iowa and served as dean of pledges for Deltas there, she related and is well known around the parts.

When we talked to Udell Cason, Jr. several weeks ago to feature him as Youth of the Week, we asked how many brothers and sisters he had and mistook three for thirteen. Udell, Jr. is the oldest of 14 children and they all attend Bethel A.M.E. church instead of Union Baptist.

PECULIAR USE OF
CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

It is customary for opposing political parties and/or candidates for office to drag out all kinds of issues aimed to get the vote. And as long as they are facts, even though embarrassing, the electorate should know about them.

The election committee of the legislature has been hearing testimony concerning the operation of campaigns in Iowa including methods of financing. This testimony developed that employees had been required to contribute funds to political campaigns. This, the Bystander believes does not deserve the condemnation some have given it.

Why should not employees or prospective employees donate to a candidate's expenses? He, too, gets the benefit of having his candidate elected and has no right to ride in office without paying his share of the expense of getting the job done.

The latest disclosure by the committee shows that personal debts of Governor Loveless were paid out of campaign contributions in 1956. This is a strange way of using contributions and a diversion of funds which the donor did not anticipate.

The source of most of the Democratic funds came from the Teamsters' Union treasury which, no doubt, pleased them that the money was so used. It simply places them closer to the division of spoils which, in this case, are serious in the light of the teamsters' record.

DRAKE, DON'T REDUCE FOOTBALL

Drake University has had a miserable football season this year having lost all of its games so far. On the other hand it had an excellent season last year winning a berth in the Salad Bowl. It has had some excellent teams in the years gone by.

Some are disturbed over Drake's standing today, to the extent that football may be deemphasized, giving more attention to basketball and baseball because of lack of scholarships in comparison with other schools in the conference.

We hope Drake officials will not take such a course. Football success has always of running in cycles. Remember Minnesota in the thirties? They were almost unbeatable and yet during the last few years, it has had miserable seasons. Today, Minnesota is at the bottom of Big Ten conference standing. Notre Dame has had the same experience. But neither has deemphasized football.

Unfortunately, the people of Des Moines have been poor supporters of the team just as is the case with its baseball team. The city needs to generate a spirit of loyalty to local athletic projects which not only help Drake and the community but also provide recreation for many who like to see sports events.

The Bystander believes that Des Moines baseball officials have done a poor job getting the crowds in the habit of coming out to the park. Likewise Drake needs to do a selling job in the community to support its athletic program.

The school has a good coaching staff. It can comeback and will if alumni and town people give the school decent support.

YOU CAN'T BUCK
WORLD OPINION

Member nations of the U. N. have been pressing South Africa for more humane treatment of natives growing out of laws practically stripping them of all of their civil rights.

South Africa has insisted that their relationship with those people was an internal matter and not a proper subject for U. N.

This has been a touchy subject for America partly because it slaps at some of its allies, England and France, partly because it is guilty of mistreatment of some of its own citizens, partly because some American delegates come from a part of the country where South Africa's type of treatment prevails.

They too have at least been in sympathy with South Africa.

When efforts have been made to bring the matter up, America has passed when their time came to vote rather than take sides. In fact, our representatives have tried to remain on the fence.

But it is difficult to stay on the fence indefinitely. Our foreign policy has gone on the theory that every human being has certain natural rights, that colonialism was wrong and that people had a right to be free and independent. This position is contrary to South Africa's views and, of course, untenable for a nation claiming to be a democracy.

In recent months, American delegates have indicated a willingness to take sides. And even though South African delegates have walked out rather than consider the subject, they, too, cannot continue their undemocratic conduct against world opinion.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

The Wisconsin Jim dandy has really set out the rabid Iowa fans and the anti-Iowans. The anti-Iowans say well, maybe they won't lose more than two if they are as lucky as they have been. The true Iowa yellers such as Frank Massy are saying the Hawkeyes will go all the way. Might be worth watching to see Burton and Fowler of Northwestern match speed and races it Jeter and Fleming of Iowa. Hope to be there.

Iowa State

Iowa State did it again and so did Drake. That's all for them. They tell us that Johnny Williams was the first Negro to play varsity for Stanford U. Although the Indians do have a Negro basketball player who captained the team in 1951. That should be news.

High School

Ed Carter of North became the first player to score against Roosevelt this year. This week's Tech game will be the first one that has been East at full strength for some time. In view of last week's upset this game could be quite a duel.

We wondered what had happened to Collier when he started out as a back for Downing. Now we see he has been shifted to end.

All Stars

The papers are booming Duncan and Gromwinkle of Iowa for all star honors, but the guy who goes on the field sixty minutes week after week is John Burroughs.

After Dr. King, Six
Others Testify

New York—(CNS)—Mrs. Izola Ware Curry, who has earned the wrath and disgust of so many for plunging a letter opener into the chest of Rev. Martin Luther King, has been indicted for attempted murder in the first degree.

Dr. King testified before the Grand Jury along with six witnesses including Mrs. King, policemen and those who saw the stabbing. Directly following Dr. King's story of how he had been autographing copies at the 125th St. Department Store when the attack came, the indictment was handed down.

Not "Crazy"

Mrs. Curry—who has been under observation at Bellevue Hospital, is due to be arraigned early next week. Should her psychiatric report be returned in time, she will be asked to plead. She herself has been persisting that she is not "crazy" and that she knew what she was doing.

Meanwhile, Dr. King told reporters how "a lot" of mental illness is due to "so much racial tension and lack of real brotherhood. He's due to return to Alabama after spending another week in New York to thoroughly recuperate with friends.

Cold Wave Coming

This is not a weather report. A cold wave is coming, but it's the annual wave of colds that happens every fall shortly after the opening of school.

Doctors tell us that a child beginning school has four to six colds a year, and the first one will usually hit soon after he starts school. What can be done to prevent this? Apparently much of what we do is wasted effort. There's no effective vaccine against the common cold virus, though there is a vaccine against the adenoviruses which cause a small percentage of colds. Isolation is the only certain way to prevent colds, but this is practical only with small babies. There's evidence that the more contacts a school age child has with the cold virus, the more likely he is to retain his immunity.

Infected Persons

Although colds are most prevalent during the winter, experiments have shown that chilling hasn't much to do with it. In winter we close our

in Amazing Second Half Recovery

Madison, Wis.—Like the lull before the storm the Iowa Hawkeyes overcame a first half 9-0 deficit to subdue previously unbeaten Wisconsin eleven by a 20-9 margin here Saturday before the greatest crowd ever of 65,241 footballites.

Fate seemingly had dedicated the first half of the contest to Wisconsin. The mightiness of the Badgers attack was evident from the start and Iowa could not get their offense in gear. Their plays would not jell against the defensive maneuvers of the opposition. And the Hawks punts were bad.

Field Goal

A 15-yard field goal early in the game gave the Badgers a 3-0 lead. In the second quarter Wisconsin deviated from their ground attack and threw a 22-yard pass that netted them a TD and their 9-0 margin at the half.

windows to keep warm and avoid drafts. But the cold virus doesn't come from outside; it comes from the infected person indoors. With windows shut and drafts eliminated the virus particles are most likely to find their human target.

General Good Health

Well, what can you do about colds? See that your youngster starting school this fall is in good general health. A visit to the family physician for a check-up is a wise move. This won't prevent the child from catching cold, but it will help ward off the more serious complications that may follow. When a cold strikes, the school may ask you to keep him at home. Keep him comfortable and see that he takes plenty of fluid. It's not necessary to put him to bed unless he has a fever.

Many research groups are studying the common cold, and the day may come when it will be conquered.

INCONSTANT WIND

Inconstant wind—forever free,
You blow your breath across the sea,
To irk the fisher at his work give us teamwork all can see.

Let us learn to work together, striving for the common good . . .
Let's ignore the agitators hell-bound foes of brotherhood.
We could be a real republic.
Where all peoples lend their skill.
Reaching for the true perfection living in Our Fathers' will.
Never mind the deviators, know accord is not a dream . . .
All it takes is just believing we all know, IT TAKES A TEAM.
