NEWS In A Nutshell

New York, N. Y.—Shortly after the marriage of Josephine Premice, entertainer to Timothy Fales, prominent banker's son, her husband was dropped from the "400 Bluebook", social register of the elite. The marriage was performed by the Rev. Adam Clayton Powell, minister of Abyssinian Baptist church.

Birmingham, Ala.—Thirteen Negroes filed suit in U. S. District court last week asking that a new city ordinance, aimed at keeping the city's buses segregated, be declared unconstitutional. The suit also asked that the four ministers previously arrested and convicted under the ordinance, be given $100,000 in damages.

Cambridge, Mass.—The pastors and congregation of the First Baptist church and the Western Avenue Baptist church are holding joint services twice a month. The unique feature is that one church has a white congregation and the other, a Negro congregation.

Chicago, Ill.—Ronald M. Segal, a 26-year-old editor from Capetown, S. A., said recently the U. S. should start backing the right horse in South Africa before it is too late. Contending that his country is "the pivot of the African Continent," Segal said he believes a revolution there backed by the Negro is "inevitable."

Newark, N. J.—On request of Ira Goldman, counsel for Levitt and Sons, a public hearing concerning charges of discrimination by two complainants against the developers of Levittown, N. J., originally scheduled for Nov. 14 was postponed until Dec. 15.

Louisville, Ky.—Charles W. Anderson, Jr., attorney, and former member of the Kentucky legislature, and formerly an assistant states attorney, was commissioned a "Kentucky Colonel" by Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler in a brief ceremony last week.

175 Little Rock Teachers Paid $20,000 Weekly to Sit in Vacated Schools

Washington, D. C.—Dichard segregationists have not yet met their Waterloo but from all indications the centuries-old walls of racial bias are beginning to crumble under the impact of integration thrusts and economic cost of closed schools.

In a news conference Monday Welfare Secretary Arthur S. Flemming stated "No one can force all the significant social, economic and psychological effects on the children, on teachers on the community of closing the doors of public schools to our young people."

Flemming said the closed schools are passing this week the deadline when it is impossible for them to complete the recognized minimum school year of approximately 180 days by June 30.

Little Rock where the private school corporation is offering the people "half a load" educational program in an attempt to ease the tension created by the closing of the four public high schools by Gov. Orval Faubus.

More than 3,000 students are affected. Meanwhile, the city is paying an exorbitant price for segregation. The 175 regular teachers under court injunction not to teach in the private school system are being paid $20,000 a week for simply reporting daily at the vacated high schools.

Federal Courts

However, there are reports that federal officials are expecting a ruling from federal district court stipulating procedure by which the closed schools in Little Rock may be re-opened. In all, 13 schools have been closed in the integration controversy.

Norfolk Citizens

Integration is making headway in the South, however. In an election two weeks ago in which the voting was heavily influenced by the threat to cut off state funds to schools reopened on integrated basis, Norfolk citizens came close to overriding the closure action.

Of the more than 21,000 persons voting, 8,871 were for reopening the city's public high schools on an integrated basis as opposed to 10,000 who balloted to keep them closed. Those voting to reopen the schools were behind a Norfolk city council move to have them returned to local control.

Atlanta Mayor

In Atlanta, Ga., Mayor William B. Hartsfield demanded that the State of Georgia "let the people of Atlanta be the jury to decide the fate of her own schools. The mayor is at odds with state officials principally Gov. Marvin Griffin, who threatened to close the schools under state laws rather than have them integrated by federal orders.

Who's Who in Iowa

Leola Hubbard, Secretary for Rights Commission, Reports On Nat'l. Meet in Pittsburgh

This is the 41st in a series of articles featuring Negro firsts, leaders and outstanding personalities in Iowa who are excelling in civic, professional, business, religious, educational, fraternal and entertainment fields.)

By Mrs. Frances Hawthorne

Mrs. Leola Hubbard, of 1130 11th Street received the chance of a lifetime several weeks ago. Upon the recommendation of her boss, Malcolm B. Higgins, executive secretary of the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights and Job Discrimination, and the approval of other commission members, she attended as a delegate, the 12th annual conference of National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials held in Pittsburgh, Penna., Nov. 19-21. One other delegate accompanied her, Mrs. Edith Webber, a rights member.

Grown in 10 Years

Mrs. Hubbard returned last week full of information and glowing reports of the activities and discussions of the three-day session attended by more than 300 persons from all over the United States.

"I was surprised at the size of NAIRO," she stated. "In the past 10 years the organization has grown from a membership of 50 to over 300 including private local-public and state-public intergroup organizations."

Surprised at Interest

"However, I was surprised even more at the interest shown in this matter of intergroup relations and equality of opportunities," she revealed. "And they are such high caliber persons, educated and conscientious... experts in their fields."

She reported a packed schedule throughout the conference, with workshops following dinner meetings and program, every night, lasting until nearly midnight."

Open Housing Market

"The main interest was housing. More than half of the conference time was spent on housing and families," she said. "Several years ago, the emphasis was on employment. They still are concerned with equal opportunity for jobs, but they were particularly concerned with the establishment of open housing markets in all states and cities," she noted.

Mrs. Hubbard pointed out, however, that New York and New Jersey are far ahead of other areas in the nation with their legislation backed housing program.

National Speakers

Among national speakers at the confab were Morris Millgram, open-occupancy housing pioneer from Philadelphia, Pa. and Frank Horne, executive director of the Commission on Human Rights in New York City. (Mr. Horne is an uncle of Actress Lena Horne and is one of the few Negroes heading local rights group.) Also, attending were Gordon Tif-

At 3-State Meet in Chicago

Two members of the Iowa Advisory board of the Federal Commission on Civil Rights returned to Des Moines from a three-state meeting in Chicago, Ill., much impressed by the thoroughness and well-informed members of the national group, and also with a clear idea of what Iowa can contribute to the overall picture of human rights.

Atty. J. B. Morris, Sr., Bystander publisher and Atty. W. Lawrence Oliver members of the Iowa group, noted that the one-day conference held Friday concentrated on housing, education, public accommodation and voting problems.

Wilkins Presides

Presiding over the conference was J. Ernest Wilkins, commission member, which was held at the Chicago Bar Association headquarters, 29 La Salle Street. The two other states participating were Illinois and Wisconsin.

Because education and voting do not present serious problems in Iowa, emphasis was placed on public accommodation, employment and local administration of justice, Morris said.

Impressed by Commission

"I was surprised to find how much Iowa could play in the whole picture of civil rights," Oliver stated. "There are several areas we would not normally think of until we get into a meeting such as the one we attended in Chicago."

"I was also impressed by the thoroughness of the national commission and how well informed they are," he went on. "Even staff members could relate what happened in Iowa in the last two months. They knew about the incident of the Detroit resident being refused at Iowa motels; also about the urban renewal controversy here."

New York Meeting

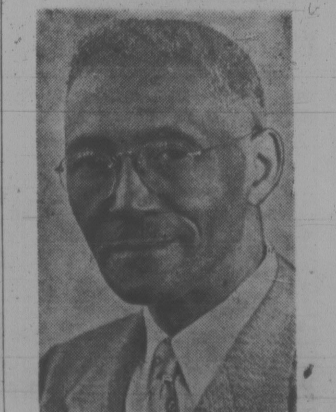

Acknowledging the "terrific housing problem which is nationwide Morris and Oliver reported the next meeting will be held in New York Feb. 1-2, 1959 to "discuss housing and how it affects the educational problem."

First hearing of the national committee will be held Monday, Dec. 8

Globetrotters Plan Jet Jaunt Overseas

New York City. — The Harlem Globetrotters are going around the world faster and faster.

That, at least, is the promise of Abe Saperstein, owner-coach of basketball's most celebrated and widely traveled team. The inauguration of Trans-Atlantic jet travel means the Trotters will be flying back and forth across the ocean twice as fast and twice as much.

Jet Jaunt

Saperstein himself set the stage for future Globetrotter European dashes when he left here last Tuesday via British Overseas Airways on a jet jaunt to London. He is the first American sports dignitary to make such a trip via jet, aboard the sleek BOAC Comet IV.

First Sports Group

The Globetrotters are expected to be the first American sports organization to fly to Europe by jet. The first such trip will probably be made next spring when they fly overseas for their annual European tour. Saperstein flew over the other day to set up the 100-game European schedule.

"Our toughest job," said Saperstein laughing, "is to try to figure out how we can squeeze all of Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain's 7-feet of height into one of those jets. We'll figure it out somehow."

Ray Mitchell Golf Tourney Set for Feb.

Miami, Fla. — The 6th annual event of the Ray Mitchell North-South Winter golf tournament will be held Feb. 10-13 at Miami Springs Country Club, according to an announcement issued this week by promoter-pro Ray Mitchell from New York City.

Golfers from all sections of the United States are expected to be in Miami for the star-studded attraction which has developed into the outstanding winter golf tournament of the year. Defending champions Charlie Sifford, Los Angeles pro, amateur Joe Roach, St. Louis, and Myrtle Patterson, New York, women's champion who was runner-up in the 1958 United Golfers Association's national tourney at Pittsburgh, will defend their titles.

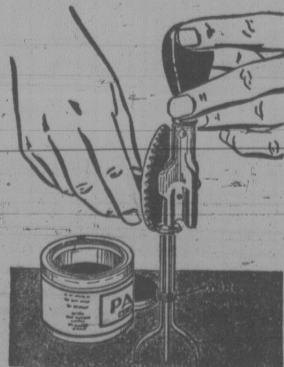

Teachers in Georgia Issues Statement Against School Closure

Atlanta, Ga. — About 250 faculty members of Emory University (Methodist educational school) issued a statement Saturday expressing strong opposition to closing of public schools anywhere in the United States.

The statement said that prolonged closure could result in the loss of an entire generation of specialists, transfer of established industries and reluctance of new business to come to such a section.

How to Even Up Chair Legs

WHEN a chair is out of level, one method of evening the legs is to trim the legs which are too long. A simple method of performing this tricky operation is described in Family Handyman.

Form a tube of paper, fastening it together with paste. Now slip it over one leg, cutting off the tube at the exact tip of the leg as the other end rests on the rung.

To assure getting each leg the identical length, slip the tube over each one in turn, marking them as you go. Now adjust the length of the tube to the shortest leg and mark all others for cutting.

Negro Firemen Lose Appeal Case For Union Membership

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Fourteen Negro firemen lost an appeal bid for admission to the Brotherhood of Local Firemen and Engine-men, the U. S. court of appeals ruled the decision of a lower court, which ruled the union is a labor organization and had the right to determine its membership.

The Negro firemen said they were denied membership because the union constitution limits membership to "white born" applicants. They appealed a lower court's decision on the grounds that "denial of membership in the duly elected bargaining representative, based upon race, is inherently incompatible with the rights afforded by the Constitution."

This is not an appropriate case for interposition of judicial control."

Two Justices

Although three judges heard the appeal, only two—John D. Martin and Shackelford Miller, Jr.—made the ruling. The other judge is Potter Stewart, who was appointed associate justice of the U. S. Supreme court before the decision was reached.

The appellate justices limited their consideration of the Negro firemen that exclusion from membership in their collective bargaining representative would be a denial of their rights as a matter of law.

Second Time

The decision marked the second time within two weeks that Negroes have been on the adverse end of federal court decisions. On Nov. 24 an Alabama pupil placement law to be administered by local school boards was declared unconstitutional by the U. S. Supreme court.

Membership Policies

S. District Judge Paul Jones, handed down the lower court's ruling, said, "the brotherhood is a labor association whose membership policies are its own affair, and

a. Solon Urges to Save 1,000,000 Propaganda Fund

Tallahassee, Fla.—A Florida legislator who urged the raising of a million-dollar fund to spread pro-segregation propaganda in the North has been told "to save the money."

Representative W. H. Reedy, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, during the course of a mass meeting at a mass meeting of the Miami NAACP branch on Nov. 23.

"Sell" the North

Representative Reedy, the NAACP executive noted, had "proposed that 1,000,000 be raised in the South to engage a public relations firm to sell the North on why the South is segregation. I advise Representative Reedy to save the money. The North is pretty well informed to what segregation means in South."

Bomb Murder

What would Representative Reedy do to the North? Mr. Wilkins said, "Would he sell the savage segregated justice represented by the Willis McCall, who shot a defenseless Negro prisoner as he was transferring him from Ralston to a new trial ordered by the Supreme Court? Would he sell the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore at Mims, Fla., on Christmas day, 1951, just because Harry Moore worked for the NAACP? Would he sell the slaughter of a Negro prisoner, already blinded by a bullet, to the North?"

Honor Piney Woods School Founder at Chicago Banquet

Chicago.—Dr. Laurence C. Jones, founder and president of the Piney Woods School, Miss., was honored at a birthday banquet Friday at the New Union auditorium hall here.

Dr. Jones, a graduate of the University of Iowa, 1909 class, founded the school in 1910. He and the Piney Woods Country school are known for their work in education and aid to the underprivileged Negro children of Mississippi.

The Chicago Piney Woods club sponsored the banquet.

Historical Building

She gives J. B. Morris, Bystander publisher, credit for securing the position for her. She had been at home following employment at the State Historical building where she had worked for seven years. Magazine Calls Tuskegee: Suicide Of Southern Town

Chicago, Ill.—Maintaining the white balance of voting power in Tuskegee, Alabama, despite the almost 6-1 majority of Negro residents, may mean the death of the city economically. EBONY Magazine predicts in a December story titled "Suicide of a Southern Town."

Booker T. Washington

Recounting the history of the current struggle for the ballot, and the early warnings of Booker T. Washington that wholesale disfranchisement of Negroes would injure both black and white, the story traces the events which led to gerrymandering of 414 Negro voters out of the city, the 18-month-old "boycott" of white merchants by Macon County Negroes, and the resulting rise in both the quality and numbers of colored businesses.

Economic Death

Despite the fact that Negro merchants now provide the community with the bulk of goods and services which it requires, the article contends, the white community has solidified its opposition, preferring economic death to relinquishing its tight hold on the ballot box.

Recently, investigators of the Civil Rights Commission were refused access to registration records which Negroes contend will prove their right to vote is being unconstitutionally denied.

Hearing Set

With hearings set for Montgomery, Ala., on this question on Dec. 8, knowing the background of the Tuskegee struggle becomes more important to every Negro. "Suicide of a Southern Town" is the proud story of a Negro community which forgot its class differences and has joined hands to demonstrate its desire for first-class citizenship.

Read Below for Unusual, Different Gifts to Give Children at Christmas; Also, What They Can Contribute Worthwhile to Holiday

Written by May P. Youtz, SUI Associate Professor

We all give gifts that are just for fun, though some of these have value toward learning.

Recall the most welcome gift you ever received. Does it "ring a bell" for your own Christmas giving to your children? Have you thought of giving a trip or an excursion to your school-age child? It will involve money and it may require that you conduct the trip. This might be to an airport, a bakery, a TV studio, a factory where possibly his bicycle was made.

Train Trip

Another gift much appreciated by children in one family were tickets to a play. A meal in a restaurant delighted the children in another family.

Have your children ever been on a train? A round-trip ticket to a nearby town might surprise and delight them.

"Do With" Gifts

As a general standard, things to "do with"—rather than finished products are best. So astute a student of child life as Lillian M. Gilbreth has said that if you plan to give tools, get real ones and see that they are sharp.

One mother kept several drawers in a chest filled with "properties" for amateur dramatics—these were usually added to at Christmas. Along with this she found a book of simple plays that the children could give.

Children have always loved indoor games: Chinese checkers, dominoes, checkers, parcheesi, checkers, ping-pong—make your own list—do give your child the fun of indoor games.

Contribute to Christmas

Let's turn for a moment from the gifts your child will receive to what he will contribute to Christmas. He will delight in helping trim the tree. One family stretches out its Christmas fun to last several days. The children begin early to string cranberries, popcorn, make ornaments out of colored paper for the tree. Together the family trims the tree. Shared work and play mean always much in a family.

Officers for 1959 will also be elected.

Marriage

Do certain personality traits go with being happily or unhappily married? Does it make a difference to marriage success whether a wife is a methodical or an erratic worker, for example? Are husbands who find they are happy in marriage daydreamers or alert individuals? Or are traits of this kind associated with

During the Christmas season we are asking our subscribers to help us get some new subscribers. You can make a further contribution by sending the Bystander to a friend, a neighbor, a youngster away from home as a Christmas gift. And every week as the paper is read it will be a reminder of your Christmas gift.

Smarten Guest Towels With Crochet

GUEST towels are welcome shower or wedding gifts. With touches of handwork, they indicate thoughtfulness and special pleasure in giving. For a fine linen towel, a delicate edging crocheted of fine cotton makes a nice decoration. Heavier linen calls for thicker borders. And the rough texture of Turkish toweling, is enhanced by crocheted flower motifs centered and sewed to the towel. Directions for making these guest towel decorations are available. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Home Sewing Department of this newspaper, and ask for Leaflet No. 4044.

Vegetable Beef Pie

Truly a meal-in-a-dish is this hearty beef stew topped with a golden biscuit crust that invites you to cut on the dotted line.

Beef stew is always a specialty in restaurants that cater to men. Why not make it a specialty at home, adding a cover of flaky biscuit? Biscuit topping dresses up beef stew and also makes it more economical. Roll the biscuit dough out to fit the size of your casserole. Then, with tines of a fork, press squares, or other design, into biscuit dough before baking. The result is a professional look for your casserole dish at no extra cost!

Four people can eat heartily of Vegetable Beef Pie for as little as 30 cents a serving. It's a wonderful way to get essential food values, since enriched biscuit has protein, B vitamins and food iron to add to those of meat.

Accompany Vegetable Beef Pie with a tossed green salad garnished with tomato wedges, and cold milk, and the main part of your meal is complete. For dessert, plan on fresh pears and Camembert cheese.

VEGETABLE BEEF PIE

4 tablespoons fat or suet
1 pound boned beef stew
(cut in 1 1/2 inch cubes)
1 cup water
1 cup sliced carrots (6 medium)
1/4 cup enriched flour

Melt fat or suet in stewing kettle. Brown beef well. Add water, cover and simmer 1 hour. Add carrots, cover and simmer 1/2 hour longer. Mix together flour, salt and pepper and make into paste with a little of the vegetable liquid and water. Stir into kettle. Add remaining liquid and Worcestershire sauce and cook until thickened, stirring constantly.

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 cups vegetable liquid and water
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup cooked peas

Add peas. Pour into ungreased baking dish, 8 x 8 x 2 inches. Roll out Rich Biscuit Topping into 8-inch square, 1/2 inch thick. With finger, press 3 parallel lines in dough in each direction, making 16 small squares. Prick along dividing lines with fork. Place on top of meat mixture. Bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) 30 minutes.

Rich Biscuit Topping

2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut or rub in shortening until mixture is crumbly. Add milk to make a soft dough.

1/2 cup shortening
1/4 to 3/4 cup milk

Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 30 seconds. Makes 4 servings.

Advisory Rights Members Return

Two members of the Iowa Advisory committee to the Civil Rights commission returned to the city after attending a three-state conference in Chicago, Ill., Friday.

Atty. W. Laurence Oliver of 1047 13th Street made the round trip by plane returning to Des Moines Friday night. After the session ended in Chicago Atty. J. B. Morris, Sr., went to Gary, Ind., where he spent the weekend with his son-in-law and family, Dr. and Mrs. G. Kenneth Washington and children. Atty. Morris arrived in the city Sunday evening.

After congratulating us for "a very nice article," Mrs. Wharton also called our attention to several errors we made in her story. She was director of the Oakdale community center and not the Oakdale housing project; also she served as overseas service club director in Ie Shima one of the numerous South Pacific islands, and not the famed Iowa Jima, where correspondent Ernie Pyle met his death.

We don't like to hit a sour note, but as you know, they also come in the package of life. Last week our attention was called to an item in Harlan Miller's column published in the Nov. 21 issue of the Des Moines Register. Mr. Miller reported that "several football fans of his told him Willie Fleming and Bob Jeter remind 'em of Gold Dust Twins." In our opinion there was no excuse at all for the publication of the comment. It not only reflects poorly upon the Hawkeyes and all their teammates, but upon all sports and especially upon the poor taste and judgement of the writer.

We would like to remind you of our wish to publish a pictorial review of clubs and organizations celebrating anniversaries during 1958. We plan to publish this in the Christmas issue which comes out Dec. 18. Some of the clubs we know that held special celebrations (private or public) were Mary Church Terrell Club No. 2, Severettes club, Des Moines chapter of Links, Inc., Hawkeye Elks and Rose Temple No. 33, Iowa Association of Colored Women, Hardaway Tonsorial Parlor. There are others, and we plan to contact you by phone, so be listening for us.

This week's sentence sermon: "Be anxious for nothing, be prayerful for everything and be thankful for anything."

Now, that the big Thanksgiving holiday weekend is over most local residents along with other American citizens have turned their minds to Christmas. A lot of cooks spent hours getting the traditional bird ready for their family tables. Mrs. Gladys Roper had a bigger problem than most of us. On the Tuesday before Thanksgiving she began preparing a half dozen turkeys in order to be ready for the annual Thanksgiving dinner at the YWCA where she works. The Y dinner was on Wednesday. Mrs. Corine Adams had the job of preparing traditional dessert.

Among Des Moines cooks who are getting their Christmas baking underway is Mrs. Leola Hubbard of 1130 W. 11th Street. Every year she has prepared from scratch enough homemade fruitcakes for her parents in Kansas and the families of her six sisters and brothers who are scattered around the midwest, with enough left over to entertain friends who drop in.

Not too long ago we were talking to Mrs. Dorothy Holmes of 1328 Jefferson, who is often a daily bus companion on weekday mornings. She talks tantalizingly of succulent shrimp filled rolls accompanied with shrimp sauce. Or instead of shrimps use crabmeat. We have been trying to get her to write the recipe down but although, we haven't succeeded yet, we still have high hopes.

We were passing the time of day with Mrs. Stanley Proctor of 1111 W. 11th Street right after the holidays. She informed us neither of their two daughters will make it for either holiday this year. Her oldest daughter and family, Mrs. Harry Wilbekin of Cincinnati, Ohio will be spending Christmas at the home of her husband's parents in the Islands. Her other daughter, Mrs. Imogene Long of Hampton, Va. and her husband are expecting their new baby sometime soon and hence, there are no immediate plans for traveling.

Incidentally, we had talked to Mrs. Proctor many times over the phone but it was our first time to meet her in person.

Miss Charlene Wharton, executive director of Willkie House reported the presentation of a lovely new electric percolator to the center by the Youth Council of the Des Moines Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The presentation was made by the group president, Gordon Wolder. The young people especially wanted to express their appreciation for the use of the community center during the past summer for their meetings and other activities.

TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION

The U. S. Court of appeals at Cincinnati, Ohio, has upheld a decision of a lower court which held that unions were private organizations and had the right to determine who their members shall be.

The case was brought against the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers by 14 Negro firemen who said they were denied membership in the union which has a provision in its constitution limiting membership to white born applicants.

Limiting their ruling to purely technical grounds, the court held that such exclusion did not violate the 14th Amendment to the Constitution.

But there is more to this situation than appears on its face. The brotherhood is the bargaining unit of these railroad employees and to exclude employees from membership deprives them of proper representation and a voice in voting for the representatives who bargain with employers and the Railway Labor Board.

Then too, the operating expenses of the Railway Labor Board are furnished by the federal government out of taxes paid, in part, by Negro employees which amounts to taxation without representation.

It is perfectly ridiculous that in this situation the federal government is abiding the unions in the exclusion of Negroes from becoming a part of a bargaining unit. A provision barring labor unions which practice racial discrimination from the facilities of federal departments should have been passed long ago. The federal government should have no part in such an arrangement. At least organizations dealing with the federal government should not be allowed to practice discrimination which serves the interest of those seeking to block a man from securing employment.

Much was heard about the right to work laws during the recent campaign. The opponents argued that they are designed to weaken and finally destroy labor unions.

Here is an instance where labor unions, by their own constitution, have created a condition denying men a right to work—the very situation they are supposedly fighting.

Undoubtedly the case will be appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court. It is not easy to predict what the outcome will be. Here is a situation which the NAACP should pounce on with both feet for its success has serious implications. And this is particularly true for should such legislation come before the next Congress, it is doubtful if a law can be passed to correct the abuse since labor leaders, though most of them give general support to anti-discrimination causes, will oppose any such restriction on the operations of their organizations.

SOUTHERNERS SPEAK ON SCHOOL CLOSING

More than 250 faculty members of Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia released a manifesto Saturday opposing the closing of public schools anywhere in the United States. They said such interruption, if prolonged, could result in the loss of an entire generation of specialists.

This call comes from a Methodist co-educational university in the deep south and constitutes another blast at the ridiculous program of the politicians and die hards who want segregation continued at any cost. Undoubtedly, other groups, including parents, will follow likewise for they know that such a program is bound to hurt their youngsters in their effort to get an education.

CIVIL RIGHTS ADVISORY COMMISSIONS

When Congress passed the civil rights law earlier this year, it created a commission of six to investigate discrimination on the basis of race, creed or color and report its findings to that body in September, 1959.

President Eisenhower submitted nominees for the commission and the staff to Congress for confirmation but the Senate, whose approval was required, took its own good time completing the job. Thus the commission finds itself pushed for time to get their work completed.

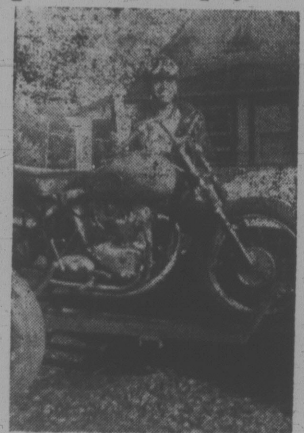

Advisory committees in thirty-seven states, including Iowa, had been organized as of November 29. It was at an organization meeting in Chicago of committees from Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois that plans were perfected to get the work done in this area.

The committee appointments, the commission stated, were not made from recommendations of any group or particular organization but from independent information gathered by their own staff.

The Iowa Committee will gather material on housing, employment, education and judicial injustice, while other states will report on these or other types of discrimination which fit the particular area.

All the work will be an effort to gather information upon which further civil right laws may be based. Certainly the present weak law which confines the commission to the field of voting does not go very far. However these reports will give Congress an abundance of material upon which to work.

Eugene Brown, 19, of 1202 S. E. Scott Street who worked to earn enough money for his first motorcycle several years ago, participated in the Greater Des Moines drag strip races during the summer and won a first place trophy in one event.

He also participated in the State Championship scramble held two miles beyond the airport but did not win a contest.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Brown.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHEY

How do you go about picking an All-American team? How can you say that these are the 11 best football players in the country? True, you can select a group of young men who have been consistently outstanding all season, but that is about it. When he was not injured Don Clark of Ohio State was the equal of any back in the country. Yet, he has to hustle to make the second Big Ten team. And by the way this is one of the few times the second all-star team would likely beat the first selection.

Colorado

We didn't hear much about Colorado's Wooten but he must have been a top notch performer all season. And so it goes with a lot of the fellows. We think that choosing a first, second, and third all-star team is outmoded and should be done away with.

We would rather see a selection of a group of the boys honored or a group for their good work on their respective teams and let it go at that. The list would probably include a hundred or so fellows and then a lot of deserving ones would not get left out.

Negro College

We recall that one year we were selected as a member of an All-American collegiate all star board to help pick a Negro collegiate star team for that year. Well, we hadn't seen a Negro college game for a number of years and certainly didn't feel qualified to pass judgement on

HEALTH FOR ALL

The early sunsets of late fall and winter should be recognized as an additional traffic safety hazard of the season, the state safety department warned today.

"The sun is low in the west these days right at the time thousands of Iowans are driving home from work," said Frank Ullish, safety education director.

Blinding Glare

"With crowds of motorists driving against this blinding glare, the chances of pedestrian accidents, and intersection traffic accidents are greatly increased," Ullish warned.

He warned pedestrians to be especially cautious crossing streets and roads in front of westbound traffic.

Setting Sun

"Just don't assume that the approaching driver can see you against the setting sun," Ullish said.

He added a special warning to all drivers to watch for slow moving farm machinery on primary highways and secondary roads.

"Your best protection is reduced speed, especially during early evening," he said. "Every time you come over a hill or come around a curve, imagine that a piece of farm equipment may be just ahead."

"Have your car under control at all times," Ullish said. "Be prepared to stop in time."

50,000 Expected to See Annual Orange Blossom Bowl Classic

By Charles J. Smith, III

Miami.—The Orange Blossom Classic and Festival, sponsored annually by Florida A & M University at Tallahassee, is without a doubt the outstanding public relations venture sponsored by an institution of higher learning in this country. And for sheer public relations aspects, the classic rivals any other PR venture people we hadn't seen. So we told them so and declined with thanks. Our nomination to that particular board made about as much sense as do some of these all American selections.

Basketball

Of the all-Negro all-American basketball team of last year only Boozer of Kansas State and Robertson of Cincinnati are left. Both seem to have taken up where they left off and will likely repeat this year, barring injuries. Now don't think we have changed our opinions of all-American teams. In basketball such a team is even more ridiculous when you select about five or ten players out of the thousands playing and say those are the best five. One could probably scout around and pick a team of five unheard of fellows who could give your first selection fits.

Iowa and Drake

Iowa and Drake are going to lean heavily toward their Negro players this season. We hope the kids can come through for them. Can't see any conference titles for these schools but we would settle for a good won and loss record.

IN HIS SIGHT

Who cares what race, what color or creed
When He, who is Creations' seed:

Grades All by their faith, their thought, & deed?
When Deaths' dark angel hovers night

And a brother makes it pass on by,
In battle, illness, storm or strife:

When a stranger saves another's life
Who asks the color of the skin

What church or mosque they worship in?
One sees the need, and asks not why

Takes time, risks life: and gives a try.
Be they yellow, red, black or white:

WHEN HE WILLS

Deep in the night—my darling, my love,
When the trumpets have sounded and faded above:

I'm wrapped in the mantle of silence, dear one,

The eyes of my heart: are seeking the Son...

—Glenn A. Gallagher

From the longing, unquenched through the years flowing by,
Across that great span of the miles: hear my cry.

The wail that is muted, the hunger of heart:
That can never be sated, while we toil, far apart.

No matter if all the world does go wrong,
The way back together, is dreary and long:

In our memories' garden, we know we shall be,
Together up there—when He wills it to be...

Chicago Cub's Ernie Banks Wins M.V.P. Award Overwhelming Choice Over Mays and Aaron

Chicago.—Ernie Banks, the Chicago Cub's stellar shortstop and home run hitting king, topped the list by a vast majority early last week as Orlando and then to Tampa and in 1947 to Miami.

The game has "become of age" or matured in Miami, and now in attendance ranks number five in post-season games, topped only by the Rose, Sugar, Cotton, and Orange Bowls.

40,000 Attendance

That the "classic" has become the most successful Negro athletic event of all time is hardly a statement for debate. For the past five years attendance has averaged 40,000 and one year, 1954 topped 43,500 paid admissions. One of the remarkable aspects of the classic attendance is the fact that half of the attendance each year is composed of white spectators... about 20,000... no where else in America or perhaps the world is this situation duplicated.

International Flavor

The "classic" is rapidly becoming even more of a national institution with people from virtually all over America coming to Miami to see the game. The '57 contest took on an international flavor when the Chief Justice of Ghana attended. Also in the stands for the game was Cab Calloway of stage, screen, radio and television fame. Joe Dimaggio, the ex-New York Yankee baseball star, saw the game from the press box.

Founded in 1933

The "classic" was founded in Jacksonville in 1933 with less than 5,000 persons in attendance at the inaugural game between Florida A&M and Howard University of Washington, D. C. During the years that followed the site was shifted first to
