Fire Destroys Home, Furniture

4-Year-Old Boy Rescued by Uncle From Upstairs Room

Because of the bravery of his uncle, Freddie Daye, 21, 4-year-old Russell Daye is alive and well, and able to enjoy the forth coming blessings of Old St. Nick.

Russell was upstairs playing with his pet Boston Terrier dog at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David James, 802 S.E. 8th street when fire broke out in the house during near sub-zero temperatures.

Screams for Help

Dense smoke quickly enveloped the stairway as Russell stood at the top screaming for help. His uncle made his way to him and started to carry the boy down the stairs. He fell, but was able to push Russell into the living room of the burning house. The boy was grabbed by Ollie Tolson, also of 802 S.E. 8th street, who got the boy outside.

One Hour Fight

Firemen fought the blaze for more than an hour in frigid temperatures. The fire gutted all but two rooms of the 2-story frame house. Freddie Daye said "every piece of furniture" was lost. He said he and his three brothers lost most of their clothing, in the fire which he said apparently "started from defective wiring in the kitchen."

Joneses at Work

Both Mr. and Mrs. Jones were at work when the fire occurred. Mr.

Flame Fruit Cake

Flame your fruit cake for dramatic holiday serving. Old English fruit cake from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department is easy to flame by soaking sugar cubes in lemon extract for about five minutes. Place sugar cubes in soft drink bottle caps covered with foil. Place four or six cubes around the cake plate and light.

"Knock-down drag-out" fight ensued, with Scott throwing Hayes out of his home onto the sidewalk.

Unconscious on Ground

Police found him unconscious on the ground and took him to Broadlawn General hospital where he died later.

At first Hayes' address was unknown but investigations revealed he had lived in Rolinfort, Miss., before coming to Des Moines.

The victim's body is at Hammit-Robinson Funeral home. No funeral services had been arranged at press time.

She said that as she ran across the back porch she heard another shot. She told a neighbor, Willie Richmond of 526 Quincy St., that Mrs. Riley had been shot.

Running Around

The shooting apparently happened about 5:40 p.m., and the police received a telephone call about the shooting from Richmond at 5:41 p.m.

Four minutes later, at 5:45 p.m., Riley turned himself in to Waterloo police and told them of the shooting.

Riley reportedly told police that he shot his wife because she had been running around with other men during their estrangement. When he was booked he gave a Chicago address to Waterloo police.

Police said that Riley had apparently had two shells in his shotgun at the time he returned to the Matlock home. Police added that he has no Waterloo police record.

Mr. Wilkins said it would be a mistake to think that Little Rock, bombings and discrimination present "a true picture of America's treatment of its Negro citizens. We have no desire to gloss over or excuse these practices, but it is accurate, we believe, to emphasize that they do not represent either national policy or the sentiment of the vast majority of white Americans."

The message, dispatched on Dec. 1, pledges "our continuing interest and our cooperation in such ways as may be feasible and effective to the end that subjugation, exploitation and discrimination based upon race and color may be abolished."

POWELL TELLS HOW HE WAS OFFERED PRES. OF BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN POST

New York — (CNS) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell has not slowed down in making revelations. Last week he brought out how he had been offered the job of Manhattan Borough President — the job Hulan Jack got.

White Candidate

According to Powell, Tammany Moss De Sapio had in mind a white candidate. But the Republicans selected a Negro, Elmer Carter and the Liberal Party in New York picked another Negro, Rev. James Robinson. So De Sapio decided he would follow suit. He had in mind Thurgood Marshall, Councilman Earl Brown and Powell.

Then Jack, as District Leader, held an important hand on the balance of power that would give De Sapio what he needed to name the next Mayor of New York. He had to consult with Jack, and Jack sold him on picking him for Borough President of Manhattan. The other possible candidates were never approached, as the story goes.

WITH DELORES CALVIN

New York. (CNS). THINKING OUT LOUD... All the publicity Miss Rose Morgan—the former Mrs. Joe Louis—received, didn't help her business that much. Even the additional new batch now that the annulment is in its final stage—made few additional customers to her beauty salon. In fact, as she puts it, business has not been so good.

Rose Morgan
Miss Morgan is not settling down to going out again incidentally and has been seen constantly as the companion of Frenchman, Joseph LaRiviere. She calls him a "nice guy" but nothing more for the present. Meanwhile, Joe's officially back in Chicago—runs into New York occasionally but the Joe-Rose phase of his life is all behind him. All we wonder is why that host of publicity and limelight didn't mean more money to the Morgan enterprises? Could it be that many thought she didn't need their business and therefore stayed away from the salon?

Tommy Fales
The Tommy Fales are having their own troubles. He was asked to leave his job at a mid-town shipping firm in New York after the news of his marriage to Josephine Premice hit the headlines.

Unusual couples have to expect those things. They go through tests that are almost superhuman to bear. The point is—can they take it? If they can, they know more how to build a true marriage better than most of us out here. If they aren't strong public opinion will tear them asunder.

Pert Ruby Dee—whom we remember last in the "Jackie Robinson Story"—has been signed opposite Sidney Poitier for a drama "Raise in the Sun" which is scheduled to open in New York on February 10th.

Clark Gable
Now, why does Hollywood allow good talent to rot after it develops it? Many a good Negro player who has clawed his or her way to a point, gets dropped from the roster after one good role. And yet Hollywood is so star conscious that once they've built a name they will spend thousands, sometimes millions, to keep that name in the public. Clark Gable is as old as the hills—but there's so much money invested in his name as the dashing hero—the boy who conquers all dangers—that commercial Hollywood has no intention of letting a thing like age sagging cheek lines—slow him down.

Negro Name
But a Negro name—if it gets anywhere, will be lost forever if they can do it. For no Negro seemingly, is allowed to take a hold on a studio so that with each role he can command more money. Sidney Poitier is one of your few exceptions and that's why he gets the credit and deserves it so—for he can demand of Hollywood the money he would like to have because his name means something.

Discipline in Terms of Learning—Not Punishment Helps Parent Not to Spoil Children

UNDERSTANDING IOWA CHILDREN

SPONSORED BY THE IOWA CHILD WELFARE RESEARCH STATION

Written by May P. Youtz, GSI Associate Professor

As one reads history, one finds that a question parent ask today was in reality asked several generations ago: "Why does my child always want his own way? Will I spoil him if I give in to him?"

Early in the 19th century appeared the idea in the United States that the baby was innately good, that if the right environment were given him, he would not be spoiled. Then, how not to spoil him? Be aware of his growth pattern, and learn flexibility in his care. The new self-demand feeding philosophy gives us a clue. Along with this is the idea of "controlled permissiveness" which may sound like a contradiction in terms.

Discipline and Learning

Discipline, yes—in terms of learning, not just viewed as punishment; and early awareness of the young child's urge to be independent—"himself do it," one small boy insisted. The spoiled child often has not been allowed to be independent, has been kept a baby too long. There are more happy babies today in America than ever before. This can be explained, in part from the greater permissiveness exercised by parents now—in feeding, in schedules, in more loving attention from parents.

Dr. Spock

Parents have said they were confused over strictness or permissiveness. Quoting from Dr. Spock on this: "I may as well let the cat out of the bag" and say that strictness or permissiveness is not the real issue. Good-hearted parents who aren't afraid to be firm when it is necessary can get good results with either moderate strictness or moderate permissiveness.

Poor Results

On the other hand, a strictness that comes from harsh feelings or a permissiveness that is timid or vacillating can each lead to poor results. The real issue is what spirit the parent puts into managing the child and what attitude is engendered in the child as a result.

In general, freedom within appropriate limits will prevent our spoiling a child.

Now comes one of the busiest and most exciting periods of the year for both young and old. Mothers and wives are getting out the old Christmas tree decorations, examining them with a critical eye, planning holiday foods, candies and loads of cookies . . . and selecting gifts for the family. They are also planning some activities for their children who will be out of school a week before the Big Day.

Naturally, Christmas preparations are more enjoyable when the youngsters can also participate. Besides helping with the cookies and other baking, they enjoy decorating the family Christmas tree. Youngsters with their imagination can help in other room decorations. How about whipping up a batch of suds-snow in a jiffy. All you need is a big handful of packaged soap (or detergent) and a little water. Mix and whip with a rotary beater or an electric mixer. Remember, you don't have to measure exact proportions—just add either more soap or more water, as required for the right consistency.

For drifts of snow, beat the mixture to a stiff-meringue like consistency. A thicker, clay-like mixture makes marvelous snowballs and snowmen—for mantles or table centerpiece.

Suds-Snow trimmings are excellent for windows, and mirrors, the Christmas treat, wreaths, snowflakes and any novel ideas you make incorporated. Not only is Suds-Snow inexpensive to use lavishly, but it creates no mess. What's easier to clean up than soap!

Mrs. Leola Hubbard, of 1130 W. 11th Street told us of a novel idea for a holiday wreath. Basically, its candy and nuts on a coat hanger . . . and patience. The hanger is bent into a circle, lined with wax paper or aluminum foil, then fine wire is used to attach the cellophane wrapped pieces of candy and nuts.

Mrs. Hubbard reports she has made one each year to hang in the doorway of the Human Rights office where she works. Along side the wreath a pair of scissors were hung, by a string, with the tips stuck in a cork. As clients and visitors left the office, they could help themselves to a "piece" of the wreath.

For the first time in 24 years the W. Lawrence Oliver home celebrated

Thanksgiving without either daughter. Mrs. Oliver, who is recuperating slowly from recent surgery, said they talked to both daughters, Beverly and Barbara, by phone from Detroit, Mich. Beverly, a student at Central State College, in Ohio had gone there to spend the brief holiday with her sister and grandmother. Mrs. Oliver who had been ordered not to cook by doctors, said her husband prepared the Thanksgiving dinner including a big turkey. After praising her husband's cookery she added Beverly said she planned to spend Christmas in Des Moines with her parents, Barbara, who is a graduate student at Wayne University is not sure yet if she will make it.

Among those attending the United Nations-Human Rights luncheon, Wednesday, Dec. 3 at the Hotel Kirkwood were Mesdames Marshall Smith, Stanley Griffin, Major Humphrey and Peter Hawthorne, Jr. Also, Attorneys J. B. Morris, Jr., and Luther Glanton Jr. Among the high school monthly guests was Ed Carter, outstanding student at North High school.

For the past five weeks or so Mrs. Nellie Esters, of 1423 Center Street has been ill at home. However, she is feeling much better, now. Her grandson, John Corthorn will be among the influx of holiday visitors to the hometown.

Mrs. Korinne Jackson, of 1155 Enos Street was in quite a dilemma Tuesday. She had accepted the pres-

A LOOK AT REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS

Studying the results of the election last month, political leaders are taking stock of the outcome and charting a course leading up to 1960.

Last week the Democratic National Committee met in Washington to select a site for the 1960 convention and canvass its success. It was inevitable that the question of civil rights would come to the front for Northern Democrats had scored big victories in the densely populated areas while Southern Democrats had won on their opposition to civil rights. So the question naturally arises, which group will control the party?

The northern group has the votes, and at the meeting of its national committee, stood firm in opposition to any attempt to soften its stand on civil rights. And if this same position stands up in their convention, the Northern wing will have proved that they rather than the Southern Democratic wing, are running the party.

The position taken by Northern Democrats at this time poses a problem for the Republican party. At one time they had all the Negro vote. Too many candidates came to the notion that it is not important to do anything for the Negro; too many had the notion that they could build a competitive Republican party in the South by compromising on civil rights and playing the Negro cheap.

The big city Democrats in the North—many of them corrupt to be sure—took advantage of this laxity of the Republicans, gave the Negro a larger share of the spoils and thus have drawn him into their camp to the extent that in all large cities Negroes have voted the Democratic party by large majorities.

Iowa Republicans must take note of the new alignment and act accordingly. It's state and county chairmen must give intelligent Negroes more consideration in party circles, its officers must give Negroes more of the spoils and this does not mean janitors and cloak room attendants during the legislature, it's senators and representatives must quit trading off civil rights for party favors.

Nowadays, no longer does the Democratic party need the solid south to win the presidency. They can tell the South where to head in and most of them will go along because the Southern Democrats have no other place to go.

If talk means anything, Chairman Butler and the Democratic National Committee have taken on an air of decent approach to civil rights. It remains to be seen if they carry through at the national convention. The Republicans can do no less. Otherwise, there may be a repeater of the 1958 election in 1960.

WHAT WE HAVE KNOWN ALL ALONG

During the course of the civil rights hearing in Montgomery, Alabama this week, election officials refused to produce their records for inspection of the commission, some took the fifth amendment, some even refused to be sworn in as witnesses while a judge who was subpoenaed to testify refused to show up.

They took this position upon the advice of the attorney general who is the present governor-elect. When Hoffa, Goldfine, et al flaunted constituted authority upon advice of counsel, they were indicted. Surely, these people can expect no better treatment.

Speaking for the committee at one point, former Governor Battles of Virginia, told the officials that their conduct indicated that they had something to hide and to continue to do so would give Northern congressmen a bad impression and reasonable grounds to press for a stronger civil rights law in the next Congress.

It is difficult to imagine the conditions which have been uncovered in some counties in Alabama. In Macon county, the site of Tuskegee Institute, even though hundreds of teachers, doctors, nurses and business people reside there, comparatively few are permitted to register. One witness testified that it took two hours to complete the registration questionnaire.

This same type of thing goes on all over the South in a greater and less degree. Of course, like all whites, all Negroes are not qualified to vote but what Negroes complain about is a different standard for them than that provided for whites and the intimidation encountered, in many cases, by those who try to vote.

This and similar injustices must be cleared up. It will not be done over night but as integration is proceeding peacefully in some places.

But no national administration worth a whoop can long stand by and see such things go on. If so, it won't stay in power, very long.

Assault Charges

Newark, N. J.—Pitcher Don Newcombe of the Cincinnati Redlegs pleaded innocent here to assault charges pressed by a former policeman.

However, Essex County Judge James Guiliano released Don in $1,000 bail and scheduled his trial for January 5 before County Judge Walter H. Conklin.

HEALTH FOR ALL

A Breath of Air

Fresh air fiends are out of fashion. The old days when icy blasts were prescribed for everything from tuberculosis to tattered nerves are gone. But we all know that a reasonable amount of fresh air is good for us and makes us feel good.

Notice how fine you feel when you leave a stuffy, overheated room and step out into the crisp December air. You take a few good, deep breaths and the cobwebs are blown right out of your brain.

Emphysema
But suppose you couldn't take those deep breaths? Lots of people can't—those who have emphysema, for instance. This unfamiliar word is unfortunately becoming more familiar every day. Shortness of breath is the typical symptom. The breath seems to get caught in the lungs and can't get out. Doctors are finding this distressing condition much more common than was once believed. It seems to be most common in people over 50, especially men.

Lung Failure

the many respiratory disease problems that are still unsolved by science. Although some of them, like the common cold, cause us only temporary inconvenience, they add up to the greatest cause of illness in the United States.

Basic Research

Basic research into lung function now being carried on with Christmas Seal grants of your tuberculosis association may give us some of the answers to emphysema and other respiratory problems. When you make your Christmas Seal contribution you help support this research which may someday help you get a breath of air.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by: Your The exact cause of this deterioration of lung structure and function is not known. Doctors can help their patients get some relief with medication and mechanical devices, but a permanent cure has not yet been found. Emphysema is only one of

THE RACE OF MAN

The sea is the mother, Our Father is God The atoms that make us, He placed in the sod The genes of each creature, contain just a trace

Of the secrets of life, that survives throughout space Though the pattern may differ, those who look always find The blood is the same, in each one of all mankind.

When the blind ones, the bigots, learn how to see Then the races called man, may attain unity.

The greedy, the stupid, that pollute every race Should know that man's value is not color of face:

But the strength of his faith, right from the start Believing in God, he keeps love in his heart.

The children of Christ can perceive His great plan: For one kind of people, the race we call man.
