Glanton Becomes First Negro Judge in Iowa

Selected by Governor To Fill Vacancy on Municipal Court Bench

Christmas 1958... was the best ever for a Des Moines attorney and his lawyer wife.

The morning after Christmas he received word of his appointment to fill a vacancy on the municipal court bench. Tomorrow morning (Friday) he will be sworn in becoming the first Negro judge in Iowa history.

In a filmed television appearance Glanton expressed his appreciation: "I am very happy for this appointment especially for my wife. I will do all in my power to prove worthy of the confidence placed in me by the Governor."

Means Great Deal

"It will mean a great deal to the people of Iowa... especially the Negro people," he continued. "I feel that the progressive thinking people are completely behind the appointment."

In a personal interview Glanton reiterated his belief that Negroes were especially pleased over the appointment of a member of their race. His wife, Willie, an accomplished attorney in her own right smiled happily, saying, "We are very happy... it was the nicest Christmas ever."

"We feel this all came about through the hard work of our friends who helped us when Luther ran in the municipal election several years ago," she added.

Well Wishers

Meanwhile, the phone rang almost incessantly from well wishers and friends in the city, around Iowa and some came from out of state newspapers requesting photographs. For a while right after the appointment, the phone rang so continuously that even the governor's office could not get through to him.

Editor's Note: "WHO'S WHO IN IOWA", which usually appears as a separate article in this paper will be dedicated to Iowa's newest, distinguished citizen, which our series would not be complete without his life story. To avoid repetition in a later article we are presenting Municipal Judge Luther Glanton, Jr., as the 45th in our weekly series.)

Segregationists Lost Ground, Wilkins States in Year End Inventory of Race Relations

By Roy Wilkins, Executive Secretary
National Association for the Advancement of Colored People

New York, N. Y.—The election returns of Nov. 4 may well prove to be the most significant development in the area of race relations in the United States during 1958. The number of avowed advocates of civil rights elected to both Houses of Congress enhances the opportunity for the enactment of additional human rights legislation during the 86th Congress. A revision of Senate Rule 22 to make it possible to stop a filibuster by majority vote also seems probable as the result of the election.

Southern Liberal

Outside of the South, liberals of both parties were elected to office. The returns may be interpreted as indicating a trend away from stand-pat conservatism not only in civil rights but also in social welfare legislation. Even in the South, Senators Albert Gore of Tennessee and

Ralph Yarborough of Texas, both moderates, were elected over opponents committed to defiance of the United States Supreme Court's desegregation decrees.

Court Reaffirms

On Sept. 29, the Supreme Court handed down a sweeping decision reaffirming and clarifying its historic ruling of May 17, 1954, banning segregation in public education. The decision spelled the doom of the "massive resistance" to desegregation by some Southern states. The Court held unanimously that "the constitutional rights of children not be discriminated against in school admission on the grounds of race or color... can neither be nullified openly or directly by state legislation or state executive or judicial officers, nor nullified indirectly by them through evasive schemes for segregation whether attempted 'ingeniously or ingenuously.'" The court banned the use of public

BY FRANCES HAWTHORNE

It was two days before Christmas and brotherly good will engendered by the holiday spirit mellowed the atmosphere. But in one section of Des Moines it was not so. White owners had invited a Negro to a meeting in an effort to persuade him not to buy into their neighborhood. The Negro was offered $1,000 not to move into the home at 3107 W. 57th Street, which he had bought. Four days later a cross of oil-soaked hay was burned on the yard of a white minister who had sold the home to him.

Tells Story

In an interview Sunday the Negro, Harold Carr in his present home at 1029 W. 17th Street, told this story: "There people out on 57th Street, invited me to a meeting Tuesday evening. They told me I could bring a policeman along, but I said, 'Why should I need a policeman?' so I went alone."

Carr said the meeting had been scheduled at a church but when he got there a "grim-faced sentry was waiting" and told him the "meeting had been changed to a real estate office on Ingersoll," he said.

Like Vigilantes

"When I walked in, it was just like the vigilantes—men standing around the walls, every chair taken but one—left for me," Carr continued. "They were 20 strong to my one, but I didn't care." "They offered me $1,000 not to move into the house," he stated. "I told them, 'You can't talk to me at $1,000. They asked me what I would take. I told them 'make me an offer and I'll consider it.'"

Questioned

Carr said a real estate man and a loan company man were at the meeting. He said he was asked all kinds of questions about his "personal life and family" but that the questioners kept referring to their original offer.

Carr's attitude toward the incident of the burned cross, typifies his philosophical outlook. "It hasn't bothered me in the least. The McCraes have taken more abuse than Co. 'A'."

after it was learned he had sold his home to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carr of 1029 W. 17th Street. There had been threats against the Rev. Rights Meeting

At the special meeting of the Human Rights Commission at the Armory building Monday, the group proposed four specific steps to the city council in an effort to eliminate racial discrimination in housing. These steps are:

1. Council passage of an ordinance to prohibit racial discrimination in housing in urban renewal areas and in city-sponsored low-cost housing for persons displaced by the urban renewal project.

City Planning

2. Adoption by the city plan and zoning commission of a policy that new real estate development plans be approved only if the developers agree that the new homes will be available to any citizen regardless of color, creed or national background.

3. That the city council send Frank Price, city housing co-ordinator and urban renewal director, to a national builders workshop on integrated housing next month in Chicago, Ill., and that the council make information on integrated housing available to the housing industry.

New Staff Member

4. That the council add another fulltime, paid staff member to the rights commission.

5. That organizations, churches and other ethnic groups and all fair-minded responsible citizens volunteer their services toward eliminating housing bias in the city.
Higgins commended courageous individuals who have spoken out against housing bias and the cross burning incident, saying, "fair-minded people who think that by remaining quiet, that they are helping, but they are only impeding the progress of a free housing market for all.

New Year's Eve party sponsored by the Knights of Pythius Ferguson Lodge No. 5, and held at Larry in LaPorte City.

Many out of town guests and officers including the Grand Chancellor Commander of this jurisdiction attended. Tommie Henderson was the chairman of the entertainment committee. Tommie Green is the Chancellor Commander of Ferguson Lodge.

The Negro Women's Civic Club, as a Christmas project, gathered and distributed clothing for the needy children in the community. Money was also presented by the club to needy families.

Pack 12 of the Cub Scouts held its monthly meeting, Sat. at Grant School. Representatives of seven dens with their parents attended the meeting. Harold E. Culpepper, Cub Master presided. Chester Bagsby, Den Chief, conducted the opening of the program. A short skit was given by Den seven under the direction of Mrs. Eli Austin.

Bob Cat pins were presented to Larry Collins, Raford Bagsby, and Randall Middleton. Randall Middleton was also awarded dinner stripes. Chester Bagsby received a pair of trousers as a gift from the Sympathy Club for his service to them in their recent pie sale. Bishop Burt, Boy Scout Commissioner, concluded the evening with a short talk.

Many are now inquiring as to securing the Bystander. Subscriptions can be bought from Mrs. Thelma Johnson, 708 Mobile Street or your columnist.

A circulation system has also been set up and the following boys deliver the Bystander each week:

Dwight Webster—1127 Linden Ave.

Charles Lawrence Kincaid—1016 Beech Street

Anthony and Obert Tisdale—123 Ash Street

Chester Bagsby—1020 Mobile St. Randall Middleton—120 Chestnut Street.

Two of our local businesses are also aiding in the circulation plan. They are the Clarence Frazier Barber Shop, 516 Dane St. and Hubert Smith's Nu-Lite tavern.

Quadruplets Born To Navy Man's Wife

San Francisco.—The 22-year-old wife of a Navy machinists mate gave birth Tuesday, Dec. 16, to her fifth child . . . and sixth . . . and seventh . . . and eighth.

Her 20-year-old husband admitted that he was "pretty shook" by the news.

The mother was Mrs. Mae Cunningham, formerly of Houston, Tex. She and the quadruplets—three boys and a girl—were doing well, according to doctors at Letterman army hospital.

The father, Delano, said they were told in September they could expect a multiple birth.

"I almost fainted when they told me," he said. "You can't say you want such a thing—but when it comes about, you're pleased and happy."

HAPPY NEW YEAR EVERYONE!!! If you have made a list of resolutions for 1959 may you have the perseverance to stick by them throughout the year... or at least longer than I have been able to do in former years.

Included in the last minute splash of last year's holiday parties was the annual affair of the Des Moines chapter of Links, Inc., with Connecting Links as guests at the home of Mrs. A. Alexander, 2200 Chautauqua Parkway; also, the party of the Parliamentary Law and Culture which was called one of the prettiest of the holiday season held at Willkie House. The Elks Junior Herd held an annual dance at Willkie House Saturday. Nearly 100 children representing Willkie House, attended the parties given by KCBC Radio station and Local 7, Packinghouse Workers, respectively.

Among our many cards of holiday greetings was a very nice one from Marie Ross, former columnist-new editor for the By-stander. She penned a promise "to write us a letter" soon along with some comments and materials from cards for our column. I know you join me in waiting for her missives. We also had a very lovely card from Mrs. Leah Morris whom we have not had the honor of meeting.

Hope that our story on the Socialite club adopting the men-patients at Parker Nursing Home will inspire some other clubs to bend their thoughts on a similar project. Besides nursing homes, there are persons bedridden in homes, hospitals, mental institutions, adoption and foster home agencies, detention homes and institutions of incarceration.

We did not mention it in the story but Mrs. Irma Parker will be giving up the home later this month due to her inability financially, to make improvements to meet standards set up for nursing homes. Mrs. Parker

GLANTON APPOINTMENT
A SIGN OF PROGRESS

Progress has a way of coming in stages, and those stages do not appear all at once but follow a succession of preparations for which somebody, some group is always responsible.

Since 1928, Negroes in Des Moines have come a long way in economic and political advancement. Up until that time, little had been accomplished. But soon the political atmosphere was such that a Negro served as district court commissioner in garnishment, later as attorney for the County Sanitary Board, as assistant city solicitor, later assistant county attorney.

In the meantime Negroes began to be hired in the state tax and commerce commission offices and chemical laboratory of the Department of Agriculture.

As Negroes began to partake more fully in building their respective party organizations, they demonstrated their ability to hold higher and better offices.

The big victory won by the Democrats in November was fully participated in by Negroes votes. The campaign strategy included the work and advice of some intelligent Negroes and it was the reward for their effort did Gov. Herschel Loveless appoint Luther T. Glanton judge of the Municipal Court.

The appointment was made from a list of seven lawyers—the other six being white. Frankly, the Bystander, did not think Gov. Loveless had the courage to make the appointment. In fact, it had criticized him during the recent campaign for doing so little for the Negroes who had supported him.

But Gov. Loveless did make the appointment for which the Bystander has all praise; he did appoint a man of excellent character, well prepared and who had shown in a race for the post in the 1956 election that a lot of people think the same way. In this campaign, the Bystander supported Glanton and it has had no reason to change its opinion.

Congratulations to Gov. Loveless for a fine spirit of fair play and congratulations and good luck to Judge Luther T. Glanton.

RACE BIGOTS RUN
TRUE TO FORM

It would have been like an ostrich sticking its head in the sand, to conclude that Des Moines was free from racial bigotry and/or those who profess to believe in equality of all mankind as long as they are not bumped into it.

Judging from the very unsatisfactory housing situation which prevails for Negroes in Des Moines—and a few towns North or South do much better—it has been clear all along that a strong movement has kept them pretty well penned in a few areas.

Several years ago, a cross was burned on the lawn of the late police officer, L. A. Garland when he moved to a new address on Jefferson Ave. A few legal skirmishes occurred when the late A. A. Alexander purchased a property in Chautauqua Parkway. But both disturbances cleared away quickly and little in the way of forced resistance has been shown in recent years.

With the relocation of many families to make way for the Free Way and Urban Renewal project, Negroes have found it necessary to find homes; some in better surroundings than from which they are leaving. The controversy over the relocation site, which among others including the Bystander, does not think adequate, made resistance against Negroes greater in some instances and benefits from some who believe first class citizenship includes the right of a citizen to buy or sell as he chooses.

But in spite of the apparent growth in decent race relations, Saturday night produced a cross burning on the lawn of the home of a citizen who dared sell his property to a Negro. Generally, decent people, including members of the city council, have condemned this cowardly act in no uncertain terms.

Officers have traced the affair to five juveniles. The case has been referred to the juvenile court.

This was prompt action for which the police department is to be congratulated. But it must not be overlooked that in back of these kids are parents who hide behind their offspring too, who are a pack of cowards fearing to carry their own responsibility.

It is important that this case be dealt with promptly and such fashion that will serve as a lesson to others. This is not the work of pranks but young race haters who would not stop short of more violent action should they be given the least encouragement.

Mitchell Golf
Tourney Postponed

Miami, Fla.—The 6th annual Ray Mitchell North-South Winter Golf Tournament will be played over the Miami Springs Country Club's championship layout on Feb. 19-22, rather than Feb. 10-13 as previously announced.

The change in dates for the well-known tournament became necessary because of an advance in the date for the Apr. 10 opening of the major league baseball season, according to tournament promoter Ray Mitchell. In order that the baseball players might have their regular annual golf tournament in the week before the training season begins, Mr. Mitchell and his committee have released the period of February 10-13.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

Things for 1959 . . . who will win the major league pennant races. The Yankees and Braves again? How many home runs Ernie Banks will hit? Will Oscar Robinson, Bob Booser and Thomas Green be all American basketball players? You know what we think of those teams, but since they are going to pass honors around we will pull for the boys we would like to see get them.

How many games will Iowa U win this fall? Who will be Big Ten football champs? Who will be the standout at the Drake Relays? What sort of a baseball club will Des Moines have? When you find the answers to these and many other questions including who will replace Althea Gibson, let us know and we will become prophets.

Pro-Football

If you saw the football game last Sunday between the Baltimore Colts and the New York Giants for the professional league championship, you saw a clean hard well-played game. There were so many Negroes on both sides that it seemed they were running over each other. Tempers flared as wouldn't yours if you were playing for a thousand dollars apiece difference between winning and losing.

But the Colts poison snake seemed to be a two ton Negro named Lipscombe.

Notre Dame Coach

Now, you take the firing of the Young Notre Dame coach, Terry Brennan and listen to former Notre Dame star, Jerry Groom, and you realize that football isn't just a game. Schools get their budget greased up to that quarter of a million dollar monthly revenue and just have to have it. Pulling under that means you must have a winning team. So you see the pressure is really on a football coach in schools like Iowa. Football pays the way for several news paying sports, wrestling, gymnastics, baseball, tennis, and a few others. Now what will happen to those sports if Iowa has a few lean football years. That just must not happen. But it does. Ask Notre Dame.

HEALTH FOR ALL

"Be It Resolved . . ."

What happened to 1958's New Year's resolutions? How many did you keep?

Most of us consider ourselves lucky if we've kept ten per cent of our resolutions. What's the matter with us? Maybe, in our enthusiasm for the clean white page of the New Year, we make too many. This year why not boil them down to a few that will really make a difference.

Tremendous Difference

One that could make a tremendous difference is "Be it resolved that every member of my family have a thorough annual physical examination."

"Very" should mean just what it says. Not just the children, but parents, too. Father may be the most difficult member of the family to corral. He's "too busy." He's "never sick." Why waste the doctor's time? You could give a dozen reasons, but two will do. The family's welfare depends on his keeping well. Statistics show that he's in more danger than the rest of the family.

Tuberculosis

Take tuberculosis, for instance. (We hope you don't, of course, but it is an infectious disease.) There's more TB among men than women, and especially among men in the important middle years of life. TB doesn't give any warning. You can have it for some time without having any symptoms. When symptoms appear, the disease is usually well advanced. An annual physical exam will mean that TB, if it does strike, will probably be discovered early when cure is almost certain and relatively quick. Neglect may mean many months of treatment. It could mean permanent invalidism, even death.

If it's the only resolution you make this year, a resolution to take no chances with health will mean a better future for your family.

funds to support "private" schools.

Massive Resistance

Meanwhile, pursuant to the policy of "massive resistance," some 16,000 elementary and secondary school pupils, the vast majority of them white boys and girls, were locked out of public schools in Little Rock and in three Virginia communities by actions of Governors Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas and J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia. The makeshift private schools into which many of them have been herded, do not appear to be meeting the standards required for admission to colleges.

Desegregation Increased

Despite the school closings and other attempts to evade integration of public school systems in the South, the number of desegregated systems continued to increase in 1958 and now, according to Southern School News, amounts of 790 out of a total of 2,890 bi-racial school districts in the border and southern states. In 1908 there were more than 400,000 Negro students enrolled in desegregated school systems as compared with 350,000 in 1957. Meanwhile, another 2,500,000 colored children continued to attend compulsory segregated schools.

Churches Call

Four important religious groups voiced support of the Supreme Court's desegregation rulings during the year. In October the Protestant Episcopal Church's House of Bishops issued a statement calling for equality of opportunity in education, housing, employment and public accommodations "without discrimination and without separation." The following month, both the Roman Catholic Bishops of the United States and the Methodist Council of Bishops issued strong statements in support of the Court's anti-bias rulings. In November

Federal Activity

The year was marked, also, by increased activity of the Federal government in the civil rights field. Two forthright speeches by Attorney General William P. Rogers, es-

Glanton Appointed

$8,000 A Year

Glanton's appointment will fill the unexpired term of Municipal Judge Don L. Tidrick, who was elected to the Polk county district court, and will run through 1959. He was chosen from among seven candidates by Governor Herschel Loveless to fill the post which pays $8,000 a year.

Law Education

Born in 1913 in Murfreesboro, Tenn., where his father still resides, Glanton, graduated from Tennessee State University and Drake University School of Law. He took advanced studies at Northwestern University, Chicago, Ill., and La Corbogne university in Paris.

After graduating from Drake he served as president of the Des Moines Pan-Hellenic Council. Following admittance to the Iowa Bar in 1942 Glanton served five and one-half years as assistant county attorney for Polk county, a position Mrs. Glanton recently resigned.

Rights Activities

Glanton is well-known in civic activities, especially in the field of human rights. Since coming to Des Moines he has served as president of the state and local NAACP organizations, and the Des Moines chapter of ADA. He is also a member of the Governor's commission on Human Relations, the governor's committee on the United Nation and the Iowa branch of the A.A.U.N.; the Des Moines Human Rights and Job Discrimination, Des Moines Area Council Commission on Interracial Fellowship and the Des Moines Interracial Commission. He served as vice-chairman for the 1958 U.N. observance for the governor's committee.

"Keys To City"

In October 1957 he returned to his native state where he and his wife was presented the keys to the city of the state capital, Nashville by its mayor. Three years ago he was an unsuccessful candidate for municipal court judge losing by a little over 2,000 votes.

Glanton and his wife reside at 818 W. 15th street and are the parents of a two-year-old son, Luther III.

pecially, the one to the American Bar Association convention in Los Angeles, left no doubt that the government would take vigorous measures to secure enforcement of Federal court orders and to uphold the Supreme Court.

The Department of Justice moved expeditiously in the Little Rock situation, not only with extra U. S. marshals ready for service in Little Rock, but with briefs, petitions and arguments in the Eight Circuit Court of Appeals and in the U. S. Supreme Court.

BROTHERHOOD

Brotherhood is not just a nebulous idea, that is impossible to achieve or bring to reality. It is not a word to play around with, nor a subject to discuss and not work at, but an attitude to acquire and nurture.

Brotherhood must have determination to come alive and grow to full stature. The word has been used and misused for thousands of years, but it has not been established as universal, and will not be as long as man as a race remains; in the majority, uncivilized.

Brotherhood has been used as the theme of many books, plays and orations. In the same churches that preach on brotherhood; it is not practiced by the members.

When brotherhood is evaluated as to its great importance in relation world tensions; we know that only the full adoption of the principles of brotherhood will bring about world peace. When even the majority of the population of every race creed and color put into practice the full powers of brotherly love and friendship; there will be no further need for armies nor armaments . . . by Glenn A.
