Frances Cuie's New Job As Head of Stock for Notions at Younkers Requires Traveling

This is the 53rd in a series of articles featuring Negro firsts, leaders and outstanding personalities in Iowa who are excelling in civic, professional, business, religious, educational, fraternal and entertainment fields.)
By Mrs. Frances Hawthorne

"If people show they can do, and are willing to do, the opportunity is there," is the way Mrs. Frances Cuie sums up the employment policy at Younkers department store where she is head of stock for notions.

Mrs. Cuie, who was offered the job six months ago, really began her career at Younkers in 1949 when she began as detail clerk in the dress department. Later she was transferred to selling in the notion department which she held until she landed her present position.

Checks Branch Stores

In her job Mrs. Cuie has to check the notion stock of the local branch and handle all reordering and also checks the stock of all branch stores, seven in Iowa, one in Omaha, Neb., and another in Austin, Minn. "I go to each branch store about every two months, and of course that includes traveling expenses," she said.

She said her reception at other branch stores "has been fine," adding proudly, "Of course, the Younkers policy would have it no other way."

Some Selling

In the Des Moines store she still does some selling but not on a commission basis as formerly. She works with the assistant buyer of her department and shares joint offices on the second floor. There stock is set up on a two-week basis and of course has to be checked within that period "which makes for quite a job because there are so many items in notions," she said.

Education

A native of Des Moines Mrs. Cuie is a graduate of Roosevelt high school and attended Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo. "I lacked a semester of graduating," she smile. "But I was so much in love."

"There have been times when I have regretted not finishing, she added. "It is rather difficult to get back into things once you quit, but some day I may."

Assault with Crow Bar, Pistol Share Crime Spotlight Last Week

Last Wednesday, Feb. 18, crime was notably in the news when a man allegedly hit another over the head with a crow-bar and a woman shot her husband in the stomach. In two separate incidents. Both accused will appear at hearings set for Mar. 4 in municipal court.

Crowbar

Wednesday morning Joseph Kelley, 58, of 1011 W. 11th Street was accused of hitting Henry Baker, 48, of the same address, over the head with a crowbar. Baker was taken to Broadlawn General hospital. His condition was not serious.

According to authorities Kelley struck Baker after the men had an argument in the 900 block on 10th Street. Kelley pleaded not guilty to charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, and is being held in jail in lieu of $800 bond.

Shot in Stomach

Hours later Mrs. Marilyn Johnson, 20, admitted shooting her husband, Robert Johnson, 22, after an argument in the bedroom of their home at 915 Grove Street. Johnson was hospitalized at Broadlawn General with a wound in his stomach from a .22-caliber pistol.

Mrs. Johnson pleaded innocent in municipal court to charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm and was released on $800 bond.

Right Make Might

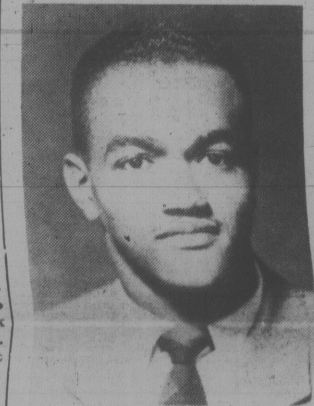

Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it.

By Val Washington

Director of the Minorities Division of the Republican National Committee Washington, D. C., — The AFL-CIO publishes and sells a pamphlet entitled "Discrimination Costs Too Much." Blurb describe it as "a discussion of the problem of racial discrimination as 'an ugly luxury which America cannot afford.'" In the Feb. 14 issue of the AFL-CIO News, an article carries the headline: "Unions in Virginia Back Free Schools." The story goes on to quote an AFL-CIO official as pledging all sorts of union held to the beleaguered Virginia school system.

Awarded Ford Foundation Grant

Dr. Eddie V. Easley, assistant professor of business administration at Drake university, has been awarded a grant by the Ford Foundation to attend a month-long faculty seminar in business administration next August.

Dr. Easley joined the Drake faculty in September 1957 and teaches classes in marketing and statistics. The seminar is offered by the University of Chicago School of Business and at Williamstown College, in Williamstown, Mass.

Both of these items sound fine and good. But recent specific developments show them to be meaningless generalities. On local levels — where it counts — the AFL-CIO seems to be shot through with both tacit and aggressive racial segregation. The statements written, published and circulated by union leaders are glittering, but the content falls flat when specific incidents are examined.

Front Royal

I refer to the situation at Front Royal, Va., where white parents are boycotting the high school rather than obey a moderate, court-ordered plan for desegregation. In such a situation, according to the national AFL-CIO, one would expect to see the local AFL-CIO people assisting the court in all possible respects.

In actuality, however, a private school abetting the segregation movement is supported largely from $1,600 per week collections taken up and contributed by members of Local 371 of the AFL-CIO Textile Workers Union of America.

Go Too Fast

Charles Leadman, business agent of the local, tells the press: "The colored wanted to go too fast." He is a leader in the pro-segregation move. The local's union hall is made available for the private, segregated schooling designed to thwart the desegregation order.

Judge Glanton, Jr., Is Brotherhood Speaker In Fort Dodge Program

Fort Dodge, Iowa—Guest speaker at Fort Dodge's observance of Brotherhood Week Thursday afternoon at the First Congregational church was Judge Luther Glanton, Jr., Des Moines municipal court judge and Iowa's only Negro judge. The local observance of Brotherhood Week—a Brotherhood Tea—was sponsored by the National Congress of Christians and Jews.

No group has done so much in the field of brotherhood—politically, civically and humanly—as the National Congress of Christians and Jews, Judge Glanton told an audience of more than 150 persons of various faiths and races, who had gathered for the observance of Brotherhood Week.

Way of Life

"Our American way of life is founded, rooted and nourished upon the principle of Brotherhood," Judge Glanton declared. "And what is Brotherhood? Simply doing to others as we would have others do to us."

A few years ago, Judge Glanton recalled, it was said that a Negro couldn't make it in baseball—that his feet were too big, he was not agile enough, could not think quickly enough. Those years are forgotten. The Negro has measured up in the field of sports as in many others, Judge Glanton asserted.

America Leads World

"It is America who leads the world in the matter of Brotherhood," said the speaker, "and I hope by constant effort will be able to keep that leadership."

The afternoon program was opened with a piano prelude by Mrs. John C. Brown followed by the invocation pronounced by Mrs. Morris Mulmed. Allan M. Collins, baritone sang a group of songs including "Water Boy" and "Let Freedom Ring."

Mrs. Harold Bergeman, general chairman of Brotherhood Week in Fort Dodge, introduced the speaker.

Works, during which time he was mainly concerned with the design of sewers and sewer appurtenances (regulators, manholes and the like). He also did much work on the Bowery Bay Sewerage Treatment Works Extension there, which is one of the largest sewage treatment plants in this country.

Currently, Wilbekin is a professional engineer with the Division of Engineering for the City of Cincinnati. Here, he has participated in design of various structures, with emphasis upon design and detailed work on expressway structures. Other projects upon which he has worked locally include: The L & N Bridge Connection; Martin Street Grade Separation, Third Street Distributor; and, currently, plans for the "Elbow" Section of the Mill Creek Expressway.

Wife

Oh, yes Wilbekin is also involved in drawing plans for another home which he plans to construct in the Virgin Islands.

Cleata Proctor Wilbekin is the popular engineer's attractive and personable wife, a native of Des Moines, Iowa. (She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Proctor, of 1111 W. 11th). Mrs. Wilbekin is a soror of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. They met while Mrs. Wilbekin was completing graduate work at the Graduate School, Columbia University, New York City. The couple are members of Immanuel Lutheran Church in Avondale.

Affiliations

Wilbekin is Strategus of the Cincinnati Alumni Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, president of the Credit Union, and financial secretary of his church and choir member.

Somewhere between mapping the impressive plans for his home, complete with swimming pool, and working the numerous plans on behalf of the city, Wilbekin finds time to indulge in his hobbies, including: Reading, building high fidelity equipment and photography, including movies.

He has stacks and stacks of color slides, many of which he took during their holiday trip to his home. There they spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Wilbekin.

But maybe their next holiday will be spent beside the swimming pool around which they plan their Kennedy Heights home.

Youth Of The Week

This is the 31st in a series featuring youth, 13 to 21 years, in the community and in Iowa who are setting a good example in wholesome living and achievements in their homes, schools, churches, sports and civic activities.

Benny Joe Bueford, 16, graduated from Washington Irving Junior high school at mid-semester and started in at senior high at Des Moines Tech. Although most his childhood he has had to refrain from many physical activities, because of an asthmatic condition, in school as well as in the community, he still has created quite an impressive record for himself.

In junior high school, he was hall monitor and head movie usher and maintained a grade average of 2.5, which may go toward securing a scholarship when he graduates from Tech.

National Contest Winner

During his elementary school days at Crocker school, he served as president of the student council when he was in the fifth grade, was patrol captain and served as president of various classes from time to time.

While he was at Crocker he was the only pupil among 25 winners in a national coloring contest in 1954, and of course the only winner at Crocker school. His prize was a bicycle.

He still likes to paint once in a while, enjoys fishing and spectator sports, football and basketball.

Career

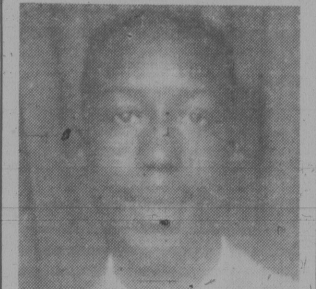

Although Benny is just beginning his senior high school education, he still is pretty definite about what he wants to do for a career. His core area at Tech is food and clothing, which he hopes will help to support him when he graduates and take a 18-month training course for X-ray technician.

Parents

Benny says he has been helped tremendously by science of x-rays and would like to be able to help others.

A member of Gospel Hall, Benny is the youngest of six children of

NAACP Set Goal for 500,000 Members

New York.—A campaign to enroll a half-million members in the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People during the Association's 50th anniversary year of 1959 was announced today by Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins.

Mrs. Daisy E. Lampkin of Pittsburgh, a member of the Association's Board of Directors, has been named national chairman of the campaign, the spring phase of which

Negro Boy, 14, Only Junior High Student With Atom Permit

(From Christian Science Monitor) Houston, Tex.—Like most 14-year-olds, Willie Robert Porter dreams about spaceships. But Willie is thinking about designing one himself—a nuclear-powered job—and already has a permit to handle atomic materials.

"Never can get that child to eat," his mother, Mrs. Lenora Lenzie, said. "He's too busy reading."

The shy, slender Negro junior high school student currently is reading "Theoretical Nuclear Physics," written by two professors of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He earlier explored electronics, chemistry, and astronomy.

Early last month Willie thought the Atomic Energy Commission had lifted his license to practice in atomic fields because a projected experiment was dropped. But an AEC spokesman in Washington gave him a vote of confidence Jan. 30.

Willie probably is the only junior high school student licensed to handle the stuff.

Last May he wrote the AEC that he needed a license for his experiments. "I plan to expose white mice to uranium and show the effect it has on animals," he wrote. He planned it as a club project for a school fair.

"Willie, the AEC replied, was licensed to possess "up to one pound of atomic source material for experimental work," but teachers had him drop the idea as too advanced.

Willie wants to enter the United States Naval Academy and later study at California Institute of Technology.

Spaceships are high on his list. "He just naturally wants to find out what makes things tick," his mother added.

will be launched on April 1 and will continue through June 30. There will also be a fall campaign, Sept. 15 to Dec. 15, in cities not participating in the earlier drive. State and local campaign chairmen are being designated.

In 1958

Membership in 1958 amounted to 326,200. The 1959 drive seeks to increase that number by 175,000 including 100,000 youth members. Among goals accepted by state and local units of the NAACP are Philadelphia, 50,000; Virginia, 50,000; Illinois, 40,000; Missouri, 25,000; and Kansas, 6,000.

New York.—America is undergoing a "constitutional revolution," which is, "remaking its social and economic fabric," in a short time under peaceful conditions, Lloyd K. Garrison, great grandson of the Abolitionist leader, William Lloyd Garrison, said in the keynote address at the 50th anniversary observance of the founding of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The ceremony was held here on Feb. 12.

Warning of setbacks, Mr. Garrison, chairman of the Association's national legal committee, went on to point up a positive future. "The new American democracy," which will be the truest and best ever known, "is already in sight and no man or group can stop its coming or dim the splendor of its image," he said.

"OLD CHARTER" SCHOLARS MAJORING IN PHYSICS, PRE-MED AND MATH AT UCLA

Los Angeles, Calif.—As the result of a program which has been described by the National Urban League as "a contest of singular uniqueness," three students are moving about the vast campus of the University of California at Los Angeles in separate fields of study, but with one prevalent factor that combines them. All are "Old Charter" scholars.

Popular Vote

The Old Charter Community Leader Awards and Scholarship program has been sponsored annually at Los Angeles by the subsidiary of Schenley Industries, Inc., since 1955. The program involves an award through popular vote to the outstanding citizen who has contributed the most "in spirit and deed toward the betterment of the community, or to the welfare of his fellowman."

gested on a national TV hookup, was reiterated in remarks by Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the Association's national board of directors, who presided at the meeting.

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins added that weight of today's equality struggle is being borne by the Negro himself in comparison to the early days when white persons dominated in the NAACP.

"These dear, dauntless, brave people have lifted themselves literally by their own bootstraps," Mr. Wilkins asserted of the Negroes who have made their way through, "lynching, proscription, hardship and humiliation, often with their gov-

What Your United Campaign Did Today

(No. 1 in a Series)
By Uncle Charlie

I wasn't there right when it happened, but you don't take very long to get Johnny-on-the-spot when you hear the crash of flying glass.

The little girl lay inside the big store window, shattered glass all around her. The wheels of the bike she had just fallen from turned around and around, just as if nothing had happened.

But the blood shooting in spurts from her arm told you differently. And the anguished look of helplessness written all over the pathetic little face gave you the queamies. At least it did me. But one young lad—must have been 14—knew what to do. He whipped out a handkerchief, made a tourniquet and stopped the little girl's arterial bleeding.

Later, after she had been placed in the ambulance, the attendant told the boy he possibly had saved the girl's life.

Learned in Scouts

"Aw, it was just something I learned in Scouts," the boy replied. That might have been the last of it. Somehow, the boy "forgot" to tell the folks at home. But your old Uncle Charlie felt like shouting so all Des Moines could hear.

At least, I'm mighty proud the people of this City gave in last Fall's campaign so outfits like the Boy Scouts can keep going.

And I'm proud of a program that turns out such boys who can do a masterful job and consider it just another daily good turn.

What's the wonder of a telephone?

Remember 'way back to the first time you held the 'phone to your ear? A familiar voice said "Hello", and you heard it but you couldn't speak. You were lost in the magic of that voice in your ear.

That's the great wonder of a telephone—the reason there's no service anywhere, at any price, that's quite the same. Only a telephone can carry your voice across the miles to one single person—the one you called—and carry his voice back to you. So clear you can hear every word; so true you can hear a tear or a smile, all the warmth that a human voice can hold. Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

UNDERSTANDING IOWA CHILDREN

SPONSORED BY THE IOWA CHILD WELFARE RESEARCH STATION

Written by May P. Youtz, SUI Associate Professor

CHILDREN LERN BY TRIAL AND ERROR

Children as well as adults learn by trial and error and by trial and success. Even though the child may fail, his behavior seems rational to him at the time of behaving.

A friend told this story of one small boy's learning by trial and success: Pete, age three, was having dog trouble. Although he loved the family dog, Rex, dearly, it seemed that nothing in this world could induce Rex to love him. Daily Pete would try his best to make friends with the dog to no avail. First he tried chasing Rex. This brought about either complete aloofness on Rex's part or, worst of all, complete disappearance.

Having failed at this, Pete tried sneaking upon Rex, grabbing him, and hugging him for dear life. This resulted in a yelp and again disappearance.

Baffled

Pete was baffled. These tactics which he had employed on Rex had always worked wonders on Mom and Dad—why wouldn't they work here? Finally, Pete hit upon the idea that if he couldn't get Rex to love him, he'd at least touch the dog to satisfy his desire for companionship. This he did, and to his surprise, Rex didn't move a muscle! Pete had scratched Rex's ear and they were friends forever!

Pete had discovered to his surprise that humans and animals have to be loved and treated in a different way.

Shreveport, La., broke ground for a new junior high school building last Nov. 25. (The article and pictures appeared in the Feb. 17th issue of the church magazine, "The Free Methodist.")

Just prior to the ground-breaking ceremony, an appropriate worship service packed the sanctuary of Central church. Dr. O. C. Simpkins, well-known Negro dentist of Shreveport acted as master of ceremonies. A talented male choir of the C.M.E. church provided special music and the Rev. Gaius Thibodeaux, a general officer of the A.M.E. church, brought greetings. The Rev. L. W. Northrup preached the sermon, after which he made a formal presentation of $10,000 raised last year by the department of Inter-racial Evangelism to start the new junior high school building.

Human Relations

The mathematical equation of human relations might seem complicated but the simple formula to the solution is brotherly love, tolerance and understanding. Apply it on "A Day of Brotherhood," Feb. 16.

Reminiscences of the Association's early days were presented by Arthur B. Spingarn, national president and oldest living active officer, who compared the NAACP budget in those days with the present. Mr. Spingarn also recalled the role of the early officers of the Association.

L. T. Club to Meet

The L. T. Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Leona Jordan on Wednesday, Mar. 4.

Friday, Feb. 13 as we stated in our column. We asked her about possible candidates from the store for our feature, "Who's Who in Iowa." She asked us to give her several days. However, before she called us we talked to several others who eventually led us to Mrs. Frances Cuie's mother, Mrs. Ovel Carter.

Mrs. Carter assured us her daughter had a good position at Younkers, but what was more interesting to us, Mrs. Carter, said, "Why don't you know my daughter? She went to Lincoln University while you and your husband were down there. She said she knows both of you, when you first came here (seven years ago). So that's why we were really looking forward to our interview with Mrs. Cuie."

When we arrived at the office there was a message from Mrs. Ojnes. She had called in Mrs. Cuie's name Friday morning, hours before we had ever heard of her.

Personally Yours
By Frances Hawthorne.

A flurry of events annually celebrated in February are now past history. Presently in progress is the 11th annual Home and Flower show at Veterans' Auditorium. There you can enter the lush beauty of flowers and plants and tour through an ultra modern designed home and drop the cares of winter. It is one of the most beautiful preludes to spring in Des Moines and in other cities which sponsor such events. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whitney of 913 W. 24th Street were among more than 9,000 sightseers who made it on opening day. Their comments, "It's so beautiful, you just can't afford to miss it."

Commanding the major portion of attention of persons before the afternoon Brotherhood events at Beth-El Jacob Synagogue Monday, Feb. 16 was the centerpiece for the refreshment tables. Dominating the luscious and eye appealing cakes and goodies was a rectangular loaf cake, topped with a garden of frosting pastel roses. Borders included smaller roses interspersed with miniature flags of the world. In the center of the "garden" was a world globe, made from a ball-shaped cake frosted with white icing and depicting the continents of the world. The name of each continent was written in gray colored frosting on the globe.

Other artistic touches gracing local events last week were featured at the annual dinner meeting of the Board of Directors of Willkie House, held Wednesday, Feb. 18. Placed at intervals along the tables were plastic styron globes on styron bases, painted in gold to simulate world continents, topped by miniature flags. The artist, was Mrs. E. P. Jackson, a part-time worker at the Center in charge of music and crafts. The globes also depicted the late Wendell Willkie's idea of "One World."

The beautiful floral centerpiece flanked by luxuriant running green plants, at the speaker's table was provided by a board member, Mrs. Edward Glazer. She was unable to attend, and sent the flowers in her stead.

Taking the place of a printed program was a unique "bulletin board" painted by Judy Smith, which listed the event, the featured film, "The Living City, and the din-

SUPREME COURT CRITICS
BEAR WATCHING

The governors of the American Bar Association have approved a report criticizing recent Supreme Court decisions related to Communism. The report is highly critical of a long list of decisions. It urges congress to reverse them.

The Bystander carries no brief for the communist cause. But it is suspicious of the wholesale criticism of the Supreme Court based upon what the governors call aid to the communists, when the personnel of that group suggests that there other axes to grind. It is composed of Peter Campbell Brown, former corporation counsel of New York City and former member of subversive activities board; Julius Applebaum, Miami, Fla.; James S. Cremins, Richmond, Va.; Egbert L. Haywood, Durham, N. C.; Ray Murphy, Saratoga, Cal.; Louis B. Nichols, New York; Kendrick Smith, Butte, Mont.; Henry J. Tepaske, Orange City, Ia.; Jackson A. Wright, Mexico, Mo.

Here appears a group which is whipped up by their former jobs aimed to ferret out and put down un-American activities and another by those who oppose the line of decisions declaring the rights of Negroes more favorably than had been the case in the past. Thus, the anti-communists tell the anti-Negro that if you help me, we will help you. This is what congress has done over the years and thus failed to pass any civil rights laws.

There has been entirely too much sniping at the Supreme Court even by some of our so-called friends. Undoubtedly, a great battle will be waged in this session of congress to limit the jurisdiction of the court. It began in the last session. One measure passed the house but failed by one vote in the senate.

The supporters of this sniping of the Supreme Court seem to be waiting. Their interest in a decent life in America for all people is on shaky grounds.

REAPPORTIONMENT IN IOWA SHOULD BE MADE

Reapportionment has been before the Iowa legislature for several sessions. And while a shift in the population from rural to urban centers has increased considerably, no change has been made in legislative districts. This has not given urban centers representation in proportion to their voting strength.

For this reason, rural and small town communities have continued to control the legislature and of course no agreement has been arrived at which, in any way, changed the balance of power.

Several reapportionment bills have been introduced at this session. Surely, justice dictates that a bill reasonably acceptable to both ground should pass.

It has been suggested that any bill for reapportionment should provide districts within the larger populated counties. In counties with more than one representative, candidates are voted for at large. This should be changed since people living in some sections never get a candidate even nominated. The system is somewhat like Des Moines city government where all candidates are elected at large.

Unlike judicial appointments, when a vacancy occurs between elections the governor does not appoint a successor but calls a special election to fill the post. And since neither party has placed a minority on its legislative slate, none gets elected.

Should a reapportionment bill be passed, provision for election of representatives from districts in the larger counties should be provided for.

FURTHERING GOOD

Hundreds of Des Moines citizens in a Statement of Conscience which appeared in a full page ad in the Des Moines Tribune Friday, said "Let's Open the Doors in Des Moines". The statement reads:

"We welcome into our neighborhood any residents of good character, regardless of race, color, religion or national origin. We have signed this statement to indicate that we believe in brotherhood and welcome the opportunity to practice it at our own neighborhood level."

This list is interesting in that it includes a good cross section of the city. It indicates that many people desire to do the decent thing in their relation with other races and are willing to say it publicly.

Congratulations to the signers, those who got the job done and those who paid the bill.

MOORE-ROBINSON
MAY MEET IN JUNE

Miami Beach, Fla.—Archie Moore and Sugar Ray Robinson will fight for Moore's light heavyweight crown, probably in June, if they can come to terms on splitting the purse.

That was disclosed Friday by Truman Gibson, president of the dissolving International Boxing club of New York.

Preliminary conferences were concluded here Friday night among Gibson, Middleweight Champion Robinson, Jack Kearns—Moore's manager, Robinson's advisors George Gaimford and Harold Johnson, and Jim Norris—former Boxing czar.

Gibson explained: "Robinson said flatly he wanted to fight and that he wanted to fight Archie Moore. 'This was the first time he had made it clear on both points; that he wanted to fight and that Moore is the person rather than Carmen Basilio (ex-middleweight champion)."

Robinson's 160-pound title would not be at stake in the 15-round fight for Archie's 175-pound crown. Sugar Ray said he believed he could build up to about 164 pounds for the bout without sacrificing speed.

SPORTS

BY ALLEN ASHBY

As the cage season comes to its yearly tournament climax with different teams trying for meet bids, we consider the plight of one of the top ranking teams.

The Mississippi state College students believe they have the best basketball team in the country and they might have. But they will never get a chance to prove it because the legislatures down there don't want these boys from raucous Northern high schools competing against Negroes. Other teams from all over the country may do that but good Ole Mississippi stands firm. No Negroes will get to be on the same basketball floor with their boys. Why that would contaminate the whole state!

Tragic

If it were not so tragic, it would be ridiculous. But it simply reflects the trend of thinking in those states who have passed those laws. It seems to be the young students who want to prove that they are best, if they have to wade through a whole army of Negroes to do it and the old politicians who reap votes by those smelly laws. We have always argued that sports will straighten the whole mess out and now we are more sure than ever.

Golden Gloves

Golden Gloves time is here again. Our local entrants aren't as plentiful as they used to be but there will be a block of boys swinging away. Have to wait until the smoke clears

HEALTH FOR ALL

Danger in the Chicken House

In a small town in Alabama a father and two children were suddenly stricken with a disease that appeared to be a typical pneumonia. The children recovered, but the father died. Postmortem showed pulmonary histoplasmosis. To a hospital in Illinois went a man who had typical signs and symptoms of tuberculosis. Tests showed histoplasmosis.

Disease of Nature

What is this disease that can fool the experts? Histoplasmosis is caused by a fungus, histoplasma capsulatum. It might be called a disease of nature because its origin is in the soil itself. We have heard much in recent years of beneficial fungi, molds from which life-saving medicines, such as penicillin, have been developed. At the same time their unpleasant relatives that cause disease have become better known.

John Thomas, Boy Wonder of Boston Univ.,
Records Best High Jump Ever in New York

New York, N. Y.—John Curtis Thomas, 17-year-old boy wonder of Boston University, Mass., cleared the bar at 7 feet 11 1/2 inches, the best high jump ever Saturday in New York. The leap was made in an Amateur Athletic Union meet. However, this jump was not official world's record since only outdoor events are so considered. Official world-record holder is Yuri Stevanich of Russia at 7-1.

Elimination

Thomas, who is a freshman at Boston university, became a high jumper by elimination. When he first away before we can say too much about the fight. Several guys have been looking good and Mel Barber has given a lot of his time to this deal. Mel could like to win the team trophy. We thought he won last year but was counted out. Hope you make it, Mel.

Billiard Tournament

Willie Wells has started his billiard tournament with a couple of matches being played and a list of boys waiting to dust Morman Blagburn off. The thing looks like a toss-up with Del Baldridge, Buddy Bailey, Morman Blagburn, and Dor Jackson as possible winners. Bailey won the last one and would like to repeat.

Not Communicable

Doctors believe that many people have been treated for TB in the past when they actually had histoplasmosis or one of the other fungus diseases. Unlike TB, histoplasmosis is not communicable. Most of the cases have cropped up in the Mississippi Valley states. But apparently it's possible to pick up the infection just by driving through the area. Infection has been traced to caves, silos, and chicken houses. In the Alabama case, the source was found in chicken manure that the father and his children had collected from an abandoned chicken house and spread on a flower bed.

Doctors believe that chicken manure should always be regarded as a possible danger source. Wetting down the chicken house before cleaning it will cut down the chances of inhaling spores that may be in the soil. This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by: Polk County Tuberculosis & Health Assn.

Straddle Roll

Then his coach introduced him to the belly or straddle roll, and his form began to improve. During his senior year, 1957-58, John dominated the prep school high jump in New England. He established records in 8 major meets, including the National AAU indoor schoolboy meet in which he jumped 6-7 1/2.

In his first college effort, last December, during a dual meet with Harvard, he leaped 6-8 1/2 for a new Boston university freshman mark and won the 40-yard hurdles in the record-breaking time of 5.3. In rapid succession, at successive meets, he cleared 6-11, 6-11 1/2, and 7 1/2.

Birthday Mar. 3

John, who stands 6-4 and weighs 184 lbs. hasn't even turned 18 yet. His birthday is Mar. 3. But already he is a worldly and confident young man because of his experiences which have included a tour of Japan last Summer and regular jumping before huge crowds of 30,000 to 40,000 people.

THE CHURCH
CONSECRATION

O Church triumphant, may this be, Holy, Consecrated, Dear Lord, to Thee,
May it's walls forever stand
Protected by Thy powerful hand.
Grant that its foundation is so strong,
That it will stand what're the storm.
May each window bring rays of light,

Within by day and without by night.
May its doors ever swing open wide,
A cordial welcome to come inside.
May this building thus abound
Completely surrounded by holy ground.
Entirely dedicated to Thee, Dear Lord,
Supported by Thy Holy Word.
May its interior thus sacred be Consecrated Oh! God to Thee.
May its altar be sublime.
A holy place for power divine.

May each pew, be of spirit blessed,
For all who enter this haven of rest.
May every article of this holy place
Be consecrated by Thy Grace.
May every audience be spirit filled
Contending only to do Thy will.
May the service be for saving of men,
