Gov. Loveless Frees Man Wanted in Mississippi For Raping Florida Coed

Judge Say Defendants 'Lucky' in Clemency Plea

Accused of Shooting White Proprietor, Fled to Waterloo

After a hearing in his Statehouse office last Thursday, June 18, Gov. Herschell C. Loveless refused to sign extradition papers that would have sent a Waterloo man back to Mississippi to face charges of shooting a white man in Goodman, Miss.

Thomas C. Roby, 28, who has been in the custody of the Black Hawk county sheriff since his arrest in Waterloo May 13, now will be freed and may stay in Waterloo if he chooses. He is charged in Lexington, Miss., with assault with intent to commit murder.

Doubt Fair Trial

The appeal for denial of extradition was based on an argument that Roby would not be guaranteed a fair trial in Mississippi—that no Negro ever has served on a jury in that state.

Mrs. Luther T. Glanton, one of four lawyers obtained for Roby by units of labor and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the shooting occurred last December. Roby was involved in an altercation with E. T. Branch, the white owner of a Negro night club near Goodman, Miss. Roby lost several teeth in the fight and fled into the woods, she said.

Shot Fired

Sometime after the altercation, Mrs. Glanton continued, a shot was fired into the night club and Branch was wounded and because of the altercation, a charge was filed against Roby.

With the help of friends Roby was able to escape from Mississippi. He came to Iowa where he succeeded in getting a job in a food processing in Waterloo.

Polio Clinic Conducted At Willkie House

An anti-polio myelitis vaccination clinic got underway at Willkie House, 900 17th Street Tuesday with more than 700 persons receiving shots that evening. The clinic has been conducted three hours each evening since and will be held Friday evening also, according to Dr. James Speers, Polk County Health director.

A house to house canvas is being conducted also in the Willkie House area to promote the immediate taking of anti-polio shots. Miss Charlene Wharton, executive-director of Willkie House, is co-ordinator. The clinic there is intended primarily for the area bounded by College and Ingersoll Avenues and Harding Road and the Des Moines River. It is the "soft spot" in polio control because most polio cases have been reported there.

NEWS In A Nutshell

Tallahassee, Fla.—A Negro coed, on what punishment she thought should be given four men accused of raping her (prior to their trial) if they should be found guilty. in the 1949 manager election. Victory for the manager plan means that the question of changing Des Moines' form of government could not come up again until 1961.

Tallahassee, Fla.—Six days after an all-male jury convicted four white youths of raping a Florida A. & M. coed, a Florida judge imposed the maximum possible under the jury's verdict of guilty handed down June 14 with a recommendation of mercy.

Before pronouncing sentence, Circuit Judge W. May Walker addressed the four in a stern lecture, saying he had never imposed less than life imprisonment on conviction of rape. Life sentences were the maximum possible under the jury's verdict of guilty handed down June 14 with a recommendation of mercy. "You have been convicted of a very serious offense. It is an offense that is horrible and under horrible circumstances. The court feels sorry for you and for the prosecutrix (the coed). You are fortunate that the jury recommended mercy," he said. Without that recommendation by the all-male, all-white jury, a sentence of death in the electric chair would have been mandatory.

Defendants

Under Florida law, parole from a life sentence is possible after six months, but lifers convicted of rape customarily serve at least 10 years before being considered for parole.

The four youths are Willson (Ted) Collinsworth, 23, a telephone company lineman; David Ervin Beagles, a husky 18-year-old high-school senior; Patrick (Gene) Scarborough, a 20-year-old air force man, and Ollie Stoutamire, a skinny, pale-faced 16-year-old who dropped out of high school.

Whisked to Prison

Within five minutes after the sentencing, the four youths were hustled from the courtroom and placed in a car to be taken back to Raiford State Prison, 140 miles east of here. After being at Raiford since their conviction, they were brought here Sunday night for sentencing.

Youth Escapes Chair

Marianna, Fla.—Jimmie Lee Clark, 16-year-old Negro youth convicted of assaulting a 68-year-old white grandmother, escaped the electric chair Monday, Circuit Judge E. C. Welch granted Clark a new trial and the youth immediately changed his plea of guilty instead of innocent. He then was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Clark had been convicted May 27 without a jury recommendation of mercy which made a death sentence mandatory.

Negro Approves

A Tallahassee Negro leader, the Rev. David H. Brooks, hailed the developments in the Clark case and the coed case as big steps toward equal justice for members of his race.

Brooks, Episcopal Church pastor and president of the Tallahassee chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he wasn't surprised at the Tallahassee sentences in view of "world opinion and Judge Walker's previously demonstrated sincerity of purpose."

"It was a very unusual experience, one hard to explain unless you had gone through it," Mr. Harris said. "When I was invited to participate I had no idea what it would be like. In fact I had in mind the usual conference."

No Outside Contact

"But, this was totally different," he went on. "We had no outside contact with anyone or anything, with the exception of those who were participating."

New York City (CNS) FETCH-

IT IS BACK... Stephen Fetchit, who many years ago was the "laziest man around", has returned to the scene—lazier than ever but much smarter.

He's been a feature of the week on the Jack Parr TV show at night and whereas his material is not the funniest, he gets a few laughs.

Seems like he's using the same format which made him popular many years ago but such a shuffle is hardly the manner the teenagers are used to so we aren't too sure he'll meet with their approval.

Just the oldtimers get laughs from Fetchit's famous antics—especially his scratching his bald head.

Of course Fetchit's style of comedy went out with the bustle—as far as race relations are concerned but since it's the only thing he knows—we hate to see him lost out on it when there are a few around who find it comical.

The big question is—why did Jack Parr give him the chance and where did he find him from?

Sarah Vaughn

Sarah Vaughn, now at the Apollo, has many all-stero recordings out and still goes to her favorite church in Newark, N. J. whenever she's nearby.

"Imitation of Life" still leading first and second in most areas. The quotes the press boys are using to bully her "Porgy and Bess" getting more disgraceful every day.

They're trying to portray it as an all-stero drama with Bess more as a streetwalker than a girl in love with "Porgy".

The beautiful LP albums featuring Louis Armstrong, etc., which they waited so long to put on the market to sell at the time of the premiere—are going for less than $10 and beautifully bound and printed—a real buy.

Sammy Davis, Jr. coming in for the premiere—as many other of the top players.

Ella Fitzgerald

It cost $10 just for dinner opening night at the Waldorf and if you wanted to hear Ella Fitzgerald go through the 1 hour show of songs.

Only spot not quite sophisticated for the Waldorf was Joe Williams' singing of the blues though white audiences eat him up.

Ella, wearing her hair reddish these days and trying hard to get thinner, looked good.

Dieting when on the road and so much energy is needed to do those many shows and since her world travels and gas overcome most of her shy habits.

she can even converse with first-hand knowledge of famous landmarks which is saying much considering she was just a scared back-woods girl left with a big responsibility when her tutor, Chick Webb, died many years ago.

In for a month, Ella leaves Bessie there when Tommy Sands replaces her.

Duke Ellington Named 44th Spingarm Medalist

New York—Edward Kennedy (Duke) Ellington, noted composer and orchestra leader, has been chosen as the 44th Spingarm Medalist, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, announced here today.

Presentation of the medal, awarded annually to a Negro American for distinguished achievement, is usually made during the Association's annual national convention which this year, will be held in New York City, July 13-19. Because of Ellington's out-of-city schedule, however, this presentation may have to be postponed.

Music Compositions

The musician was selected because of his outstanding contributions to American music over a long period of years. Among his better-known compositions are "Mood Indigo," "Solitude," "Harmony in Harlem," and "A Portrait of Bert Williams." He wrote the score for the current film, "Anatomy of a Murder" based on the novel of that name by John D. Voelker, a Michigan jurist. In 1957, Mr. Ellington's creation, "A Drum is a Woman," was produced for network television. His works have received world-wide recognition as representative of the best in American music today.

Instituted in 1914

The Spingarm Medal was instituted in 1914 by the late J. El Spingarm, then chairman of the NAACP Board of Directors, to call attention to outstanding achievement by American Negroes, to serve as a reward for such achievement.

Federal Judge Kills Faubus' Power to Close Arkansas School

Little Rock, Ark.—A ruling handed down by a three-judge federal court invalidated Gov. Orval Faubus' power to close the schools and possibly has paved the way for the public school, closed by the Arkansas head last September, to be reopened.

The court reminded the Little Rock school board that it is under a "continuing mandate" to carry out a previously approved plan of integration for schools here. The ruling also declared illegal companion act, to the school closing law, which called for transfer of public funds to others to which displaced pupils transferred.

Judges
The unanimous ruling was handed down by Circuit Judge John B. Sanborn of St. Paul, Minn., and District Judges Axel J. Beck of Elk Point, S. D., and John E. Miller of Fort Smith, Ark. Faubus said he might appeal the federal court ruling but he would have to study the decision first.

Under a 1959 state law—still to be tested in the courts—the schools could be closed again, but only by a vote of the residents of the school district.

A student at Washington Irving junior high school she is the daughter of Mrs. Effie Mae Williams and Caroline Ann Williams the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chaney.

By the time you read this, my family and I will be in Houston, Tex., visiting my husband's parents, sisters and their families and other close relatives and friends.

Needless to say, the past few weeks have been hectic ones indeed but we came through without undue wear and tear on our nerves, thanks to advance planning and the invaluable aid of the Bystander office staff and readers and my family. As you know preparations for both the 65th anniversary edition of the Bystander and for our trip came along at the same time. As far the anniversary edition we learned all newsstands were sold out of their usual quota (plus extras), less than a day after the papers came off the press. That indeed, was gratifying to know. In addition many persons called us to let us know how much they enjoyed the paper.

We had been doing some shopping, necessary to any long trip, from time to time when we got a chance, but right after the anniversary paper came out, we turned our complete attention to finishing shopping and travel plans, which to our surprise was more than we thought we had to do.

In addition there was some sewing to be done, a copy of a dress we had seen in a store window made up in blue nylon organdy trimmed in lace, for our three-year-old little girl. (It was a copy of one displayed in a downtown store window with an unmentionable price tag.) Summer pajamas were made for all the youngsters and playsuits, and of course, some mending. The children were taken for booster polo shots, also.

Plans were also made for ways to keep the children occupied on the trip. Coloring books, crayolas, pencils, several favorite story books, for

Buxton Club Meets At Elks Club

The Buxton Club No. 11 met at the Elks Club June 20 with the President, Mrs. Sadie Taylor presiding. There was some discussion on the Casual Cocktail Party July 3 (See Advertisement) and the teenage dance.

all, paper doll cutouts and scissors for the girl and small spiral notebooks for the school age boys to keep "notes" and write "stories" about all the things, places and scenes of interest so they can re-tell it to classmates next fall.

Too, there were all the other usual details to be checked before departure, a request with next door neighbors to watch the house, notifying fire and police department, the paper boy, milk man and other little things too many to mention.

The Sunday before we left we treated the head of the house to very special considerations on "Father's Day"—breakfast in bed before he had awakened good, undisturbed rest, with the exception the little ones who wanted to peep in from time to time to see "What Daddy was doing," and of course, all his favorite dishes and dessert at dinner.

In between we prepared news stories and copy for this week's paper and all the usual regulars in advance to hand to our boss before leaving . . . and made a quick-dash to our regular beautician.

Then we departed on Wednesday (June 24) around 5 p.m. and were due to arrive in Houston about 2 p.m. Thursday.

In our absence, all social, church and front page news for the July 2 edition (with the exception of Who's Who, Youth of the Week, Nutshell, Seel's Stars, Children's column, Personally Yours, Health column and a few other items) will be written and prepared by the office staff and Mr. Morris. You can help them by getting your news in early. If you have it on Monday, do not wait until Tuesday to send or call it in. It will help them more than you can know.

Just before we left a letter came from my mother in Missouri telling us they would all be up sometime next month for a weekend visit; also, that our uncle in San Francisco, Calif., who makes infrequent trips east every five years or so, will come for a visit and probably stop here to visit in Des Moines.

Speaking of California, one of my sisters, Miss Ora Belle Watson, made a two-week trip to Los Angeles about a month ago and enjoyed it very much. In her last recent letter she is talking all about getting married to a young man with whom she went to high school.

Our candidate for Youth of the Week (in this issue) is an outstanding young lady from Keokuk. Our story about her was written from information supplied by Mrs. Ruth B. Toomes of the same city.

A reader also called to let us know that we had erred when we reported there were no graduates from Dowling. She reported one graduate, Clyde William Allen of 1613 E. 18th street. We assured her we had checked with Dowling as with all other schools, and had been told there were no Negro graduates in the June class.

Well, this is '30' for this week. Remember, I will be back in the office Monday, July 6.

MANAGER PLAN
WINS ELECTION

The citizens of Des Moines voted overwhelmingly to retain the council-manager form of government at a special election Tuesday. A heated campaign was put on by the victors, backed by liberal finances and good organization which generally pay off at the ballot box. On the other hand, the alderman backers had little cash in the till and their loose organization was not capable of coping with the winners.

The Bystander took no stand editorially on either side partly because the present management did not live in Des Moines under the alderman plan.

The backers of the manager plan are those who have sponsored the good government movement. And while many opponents could be so classified, their program was for, by inference, bad government.

It is the policy of the Bystander to refrain from raising the race question wherever possible and yet based upon the situation existing in the city hall today, those in charge raise that question themselves. Writers on improved employment for minority groups say the state, county and city governments should take the lead in according them good opportunities as examples for business to follow. But Des Moines is just the opposite for Negroes, are far worse off at the city hall than in any town with an equal proportion in population north of the Mason-Dixon line. And citing examples:

- Judge Glanton is the only Negro man employed in the city hall today. Two women are employed.

- No Negroes have been on the fire department for two decades. The last ones went on under the alderman plan.

- There are no more Negroes in the police department than there were twenty-five years ago. No Negro has ever been promoted in the department. And every one on the force today had difficulty passing the pension board, in most cases the problems were trivial.

- There has been no Negro lawyer in the legal department since the advent of the city manager plan.

- Except for the Human Rights and Urban Renewal boards, no Negroes serve on any of the commissions—and there are many.

This, to be sure, is a dismal record made by the backers of good government.

That record has been challenged on numerous occasions but with little progress so far.

By all the rules of good government, civil service commissions and scientifically managed personnel set-ups are designed to assure every applicant a fair chance to gain what he seeks. But this has not been the case with the city government in Des Moines for a quarter century.

In most of the so-called ward heeler governed cities, Negroes have more jobs and more influence. And of course, the government which does most for minorities get their vote, while the good government administration in Des Moines gives them sweet platitudes and no jobs.

Under this record the city council should be ashamed of its position. And if the members are for good government, they and their backers should do something tangible to correct the dismal record which Des Moines continues to make at city hall.

ENLIGHTENED COURT
ACTION IN FLORIDA

Judge W. May Walker, who presided at the trial of the four men charged with rape in Florida, has sentenced each to life imprisonment. And judging from his remarks before sentence, they are fortunate that the jury had recommended mercy.

Certainly the court and the prosecution conducted a thorough trial with such decorum that they deserve commendation for the fair manner in which they carried out their responsibilities.

The trial gives some comfort and backing to many southerners who believe in fair play, and in justice in the courts but have had undue pressure heaped upon them by the rabble-rousers who carry a lot of timid souls along with them. It has been difficult for them to make their views known and influence felt.

IGNORE PRECAUTIONS,
BRING TOUGH PROBLEMS

Des Moines has experienced an early outbreak of polio this year. And primarily, the areas affected are located where most Negroes live. The rate of infections has been disturbing.

Fortunately, the city health department has taken prompt measures to provide polio shots, with charge, to all who had not had them or who needed booster shots. And judging from the large number of people who availed themselves of the service (there were over seven hundred at Willkie House the first night) many had neglected to take the precautions even in the danger of crippling infections.

There are some who have had the notion that polio was not prevalent among Negroes. There have been few in past years. Of course, experience has taught that this is not true. After all, the anatomy of people of all races is about the same; whatever affects one, affects the other.

Every family should see that all youngsters, at least, get their shots promptly. The older people are not immune and should avail themselves of the service also.

NYU Elects 2nd Negro
Captain in Row

New York—Tom "Satch" Sanders, New York university's All Metropolitan center, has been elected captain of next year's basketball team. Sanders, an agile 6-6, succeeds Cal Ramsey, Negro star of last season.

Last winter as a junior, "Satch" became the 12th NYU player in history to score more than 300 points in a single season. In 23 games, he tossed in 365 points and hauled down 25 rebounds. In two varsity seasons, he has accounted for 614 points and 512 rebounds.

During the 1958-59 season, Sanders hit on 131 out of 236 shots from the field for a 55.5 percentage, the fifth best in the nation.

His coach says the only fault he finds with him is that he doesn't shoot enough.

Sanders is a marketing major at NYU's School of Commerce.

Science of the Times
RELIEF FROM HYPERTENSION

HYPERTENSION—high blood pressure—is still pretty much of a medical mystery. Doctors know the immediate mechanical cause of high blood pressure—the constriction of the arterioles, the smallest branches of the artery tree. To force the blood through these narrowed passageways, the heart must work harder, thus increasing the blood pressure.

The question is: what causes the arterioles to narrow? Many diseases can cause artery constriction, and in such cases, high blood pressure is no mystery. In most instances, however, high blood pressure exists alone, or it leads to other diseases. In these cases, the underlying cause is still a matter of speculation.

A wide range of treatments have been used to combat high blood pressure, such as drugs to dilate the blood vessels, special diets and delicate nerve-severing operations. All these methods work in some patients, are ineffective in others.

Recently, a two-pronged approach to treatment of high blood pressure was announced at the Cardiac Clinic of St. Barnabas Medical Center, Newark, N. J. This involves a combination of two drugs, mecamylamine, a drug that blocks the passage of the nerve impulses that constrict the blood vessels; and the tranquilizing drug "Miltown," which acts to ease anxiety and tension, make patients more manageable and, in general, improve their outlook.

Used in this manner the two drugs brought a significant reduction in blood pressure to 35 of 37 patients, in some a reduction to normal levels, as well as a decrease in headaches and apprehension, common symptoms of high blood pressure.

The doctors report that the tranquilizing drug could not be considered of value in actually lowering the blood pressure, but that in some patients it appeared to add to the effect of the nerve-blocking drug. Its chief value, they emphasized, was in reducing the anxiety that normally accompanies a disease of this kind. In this respect, they added, "Miltown" has advantages over previous drugs used as aids in the treatment of high blood pressure, in that it is not habit-forming and lacks serious side effects.

The nerve-blocking drug, they point out, is superior to previous drugs of its kind in that its effect lasts longer, and that all of it gets into the blood stream to do its work, rather than being absorbed in other parts of the body where it is of no value.

The doctors caution that although the combination is definitely of value in reducing blood pressure and improving the patient's symptoms and outlook, it is too early to predict how this one-two attack on high blood pressure will change the course of the disease.

Aaron, Haddix Tie For Player of Month Award

Cincinnati—Hank Aaron power hitting and Harvey Haddix strong-arm pitching were major factors in the balloting in which they finished in a tie for the National League's first player of the month award for 1959.

Haddix recently became the first player in baseball to pitch 12 perfect innings of no-hit ball. However, he suffered a heartbreaking loss in the game with the pace-setting Milwaukee Braves.

Aaron is currently the major league's leading hitter with an average of .391 Sunday.

LITTLE HERMIT THRUSH

Little hermit thrush—crying in the brush, for what lost soul—do you make your plea?

When the sun goes down in a last mad rush, will you still be sad? Do you cry for me?

When your voice fades out, night sounds hush, your wistful soul has stilled its grief . . .

May you wake to gladness, little thrush, to an azure sky—to a new belief . . .

Will your soft—sweet cry have joyous lilt and blend with the sounds where children play . . .

A mock to the night and the grief it split, with a chuckling trill for the brand-new day.
