For James McDaniels With Gift; Note Said 'Glad to Have You'

Two boxes of groceries and a note "From the Folks around the Block" changed a paint-smearing incident into a public welcome for Mr. and Mrs. James McDaniel who were moving into an all white neighborhood in Northeast Des Moines last week.

On the eve of their moving day the McDaniels had been working in their new home at 2544 Morton Avenue Wednesday evening, July 22. They left and upon returning the next day found a crude sign scrawled in green and black paint which read, "Coons Unwelcome Neger."

With their moving spirits slightly dampened, the McDaniels proceeded to scrub off the lettering, but some paint splatters remained on the side of the recently finished house. On Friday, as the couple moved in they beheld the boxes of groceries and the note signed anonymously, but friendly, "From the Folks around the Block."

"Glad to Have You"

The note read: "We're sorry someone among us acted like a fool. Maybe this will help make your moving days easier. We're glad to have you here and hope we can be good neighbors."

"What a wonderful thing to do, said Mrs. McDaniel. 'I can't get over it. The good far outweighs the bad. We don't know who did this so we want to thank everyone. When we picked out this house, we thought

2 Negroes Register At Central High In Little Rock, Ark.

Little Rock, Ark.—Two fathers of students who helped integrate Central High school in 1957, appeared at the school Tuesday to enroll their daughters, but registration went ahead peacefully as the first bid was made to reopen the schools in September.

Oscar Eckford registered his daughter, Elizabeth, 16 and A. L. Mothershead, his daughter, Thelma, 17. They were the only Negroes to register at any one of the three previously all-white schools.

A law, by which Gov. Orval Faubus closed the schools last fall, was declared unconstitutional last month by a federal court and a new school board moved to open the schools with minimum desegregation under a state pupil placement law.

Welcome Gifts from Friendly Neighbors

Mrs. James McDaniel, smiles happily at anonymous gift of groceries and note "From the Folks around the Block" welcoming her and husband to their new home at 2544 Morton Avenue. Iowa-Born Al Hoosman Is Former Boxer; Had Bout With Joe Louis, Movie Role

(Last of two articles)

Munich, Germany—Al Hoosman, formerly of Waterloo, Ia., and founder of "Hilfe fur Farbige und Elternlose Kinder" (Help for Colored and Parentless Children) says he was a baby when Satchel Paige was a young man, and that he was a boy when Archie Moore (ageless boxer and light heavyweight champion of the world) was a young man. To pin his age down a little further he claims to have been born between the first World War and the second. Having had the misfortune of also being a youngster during the heyday of Joe Louis (whom he later fought), Al became infatuated with the manly art of self defense and chose it as a profession and means of earning a living. Al won numerous titles and distinctions in boxing during his travels over the world but readily admits that the fates were never kind to him. He says that in the boxing world the fates are too sharply and keenly guided by an army of culprits who usually feast on your carcass after an evil-eyed opponent has also had his taste of your hide.

Golden Gloves Champ

A Los Angeles and Pacific Coast Golden Glove's champion, Al garnered a perfect professional record as he answered the call to military service. In Australia his philanthropic bearings came to light, along with exceptional boxing talents by winning the military heavyweight title and the Australian heavyweight title. Al traveled on boxing tours and singing tours for many Australian communities and troops, performing for the troops and kids he feels was his greatest service to his country during the hectic war years. Out of the army Al beat Lee Savold in Madison Square Garden and was once rated number six in the world in a Jack Dempsey rating book and number eight in Nate Fleischer's RING Magazine. Once had a string of five straight knock-outs to his credit and seemingly was headed in the direction of a title fight.

Exhibitions

Coming to Germany after a fiasco bout with Joe Louis in Oakland, California in December 1949, Al admits that his most bitter memory is the fight with Joe. He had been told it was an exhibition bout and not to hit Joe and Joe wouldn't hit him, but fifteen minutes after he had been awakened and the fifth round had been long ended, Al realized he had again missed the boat. In three years of boxing in Europe Al met numerous fighters in several countries and fought against several European champions during this time. The physical blows and mental punches he has received over the years he claims have taught him to smile, be happy, and try to help others though you yourself might be hungry and hurting all over; To know supreme happiness through the smile in some one else face and heart.

Film Role

Retiring from boxing Al made his first start in the film world playing the role of an ex-GI father who did

New York—(Bulletin) Three thousand persons, many of them from the entertainment world, turned out Tuesday afternoon for the final rites of the Great blues singer, Billie Holliday, who died last Friday in a New York City hospital. About 2,500 persons filled St. Paul the Apostle Roman Catholic church and another 500 stood outside. Honorary pallbearers included such musical figures as Benny Goodman, Gene Krupa, Teddy Wilson, Juanita Hall and Mary Lou Williams.

New York City . . . (CNS)—As the news spread around, each little group began reminiscing about Billie Holliday—the girl they called "Lady Day" and how untimely her death came at 44 on July 17. And yet, as the old pros related, such life in showbusiness—you live fast and die young and at least you get the headlines when you go . . . And that much was true for Billie Holliday's death was headline news and even though everyone knew her worst faults and habits, all who saw those headlines stopped a second to feel sad and unhappy that such a great yet tortured soul was gone.

Rush for Record

At first there was a rush for her records—her newest album had showed a difference in her voice but her fans stuck to their guns that Billie was the greatest anyway . . . Her single releases and albums made during her heyday will be collector's items now—and just about everybody, whether they liked her as a person or not, wanted a song to remember Billie by . . .

For she was one of those rare people who always had a rough time—never had a completely sunny day—and just when things looked darkest and a promise of a new start was in view—she died . . .

That's the way Billie's life always was—one bad break after another . . .

Had Courage

That's why she could sing the blues with so much command—she lived them. Her whole life was one blues after another . . . But she had courage—even the nurses at Metropolitan Hospital couldn't believe the

Wilkins to Democrats: Talk Sense to Southern Members Or Get Rid of Dixie Control

New York—The time may come, possibly in 1960, "when Negro citizens, sick and disgusted over the Dixiecrat committee chairmen in the House and Senate, may have to decide to try to vote the party out of office which permits these men from another age to choke us to death," Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, warned in an address at the closing session of the Association's 50th anniversary convention here Sunday at the Polo Grounds.

Legislation Needed

Legislation is needed to speed action against lynching, Mr. Wilkins declared, citing Poplarville, Miss. But open this fall," was urged by Senator Hubert Humphrey (D. Minn.) in an NAACP address. Senator Humphrey deplored the "wasting of our greatest human resource in the diplomatic field—our Negro citizens. It is a sad fact that in a world two-thirds colored our Negro leaders are almost totally unused in the diplomatic field."

YOUTH RALLY

Some 4,000 persons heard the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King point out advantages of non-violence over violence during the NAACP 50th anniversary convention. On the same program, Dr. Charles H. Wesley, president of Central State College, Ohio, called for a national resource center "for publicizing facts which are creditable to Negro-Americans."

Both spoke at the Youth Night mass meeting in the gigantic Coliseum, Friday, July 17, and addressed themselves to the theme, "Tomorrow's NAACP Leaders."

such action, he pointed out, "is being held up by the committee of which Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi is chairman. It is not too much to say that lynchers in Mississippi feel safe as long as they know that their senator is chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. This is an intolerable situation."

Recognizing that "there are many fine Democrats in the House and Senate" including "some of the bravest and most sincere soldiers in the civil rights army like Paul H. Douglas of Illinois and his fellow stalwarts in both Houses," the NAACP leader nevertheless declared that "Negro citizens cannot stand by while men are lynched and their killers go free because of the sabotage of federal legislation by Dixiecrat committee chairmen."

Talk Sense

He called upon the Democratic leadership to "talk sense to its southern members" or face a movement to "try to get some new committee chairmen from a different party. No one enters a Democratic party family fight unless he wants to get hurt and we, therefore, have nothing to say about the criticism of the Democrats in Congress by National Chairman Paul Butler except that so far as civil rights legislation is concerned, Democrats in Congress have produced a big round zero. And zero is not much of a platform on which to ask for votes."

Republicans

Negro citizens know that "the Republican party is not perfect and that it has its shifty operators also," Wilkins observed. "These have traded with the enemy and have failed

Youth Of The Week

This is the 45th in a series featuring youth, 13 to 21 years, in the community and in Iowa who are setting a good example in wholesome living and achievements in their homes, schools, churches, sports and civic activities.

Our candidate this week successfully mixes a very pleasing personality with level-headed intelligence. She is Ada Mae Triplett, 20, who last week was one of two delegates to represent the Des Moines NAACP Youth Council at the national convention in New York.

Thrilled with her first trip to New York and to a major convention, Ada enjoyed the sights and tours of the nation's largest metropolis. She was as equally thrilled with the Youth division sessions of the convention which had headquarters at Henry Hudson hotel, where she and Miss Irene Hayes, the other delegate, stayed.

Dedicated Worker

A member of the Des Moines Youth Council since its organization two years ago, Ada is one of the dedicated workers and leaders of tomorrow's organizations. She enjoys the work and sees the purpose, and also she feels the faults.

"One of the criticisms we had at the convention about the youth groups was that they put all ages together. We felt there should have been some age division," she said.

"When we all met together the

younger teenage groups had little to say and yet our supervisor said they were quite expressive when they had one meeting alone," she went on.

Have to Learn

"In addition we felt that we should be given a little more free rein to establish committees and work on them. We understand we need some supervision and after all, adults far more experienced than we are, but we do have to learn," she stated.

"At the convention I was thrilled when I was placed on a National Youth Work committee; its purpose is to assist Herbert Wright, our national director, and to take over Freedom Fund campaigns, dinners, memberships, and publicity for youths. We will hold our first meeting in Washington, D. C. in October," she continued.

Church

A member of Corinthian Baptist Church, Ada is a member of the Chorale and Junior Usher board. She belongs to the Skating club at

Too Few Technicians; Many Degree Holders Are Carrying Mail

(From the Wall Street Journal)

Tuskegee, Ala.—Dr. Luther Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, the famous Negro college here, edges forward in his chair and complains: "Of the 425 seniors who graduated here this year, six out of ten tried to go into teaching. We've got to change the emphasis."

Dr. Foster's concern seems well founded. In El Paso recently, 281 would-be Negro teachers applied for one job opening. In Waco, 150 Negro teachers vied for a single vacancy. So great is the surplus of Negro teachers that they spill over into such prosaic jobs as mail carriers in New York, Washington, Nashville and St. Louis. In Jacksonville, eight of ten Negro mail carriers hold college degrees in teaching.

Growing Problems

These figures point up a growing problem for the South's Negro colleges: They continue to channel students into old grooves—teaching, the ministry, the law and embalming—where in the past Negroes have been able to succeed by giving services to fellow Negroes. They are failing, however, to train enough students for new job opportunities, in such fields as engineering, opening up for Negroes in some quantity for the first time.

This stumbling by Negro colleges comes ironically in the midst of the school segregation battle. While Negroes are struggling to improve educational facilities at the grade and high-school levels, via the integration route, Negro colleges are missing a big opportunity to move ahead, their critics claim.

The impact is not confined to the South. Graduates of Negro schools frequently migrate northward where demand for engineers and other technically-trained graduates is keen but where holders of teaching degrees are more plentiful. The South, however, is more deeply involved.

No Negroes

Listen to an officer at the Martin Co. missile plant at Orlando, Fla.: "We have no Negro with an engineering degree on the payroll. If a Negro candidate met the job requirements, he'd be hired like anyone else."

Searching for engineers this year, Martin representatives talked with five Negro graduates at Howard University, in Washington, D. C., which has the only accredited Negro engineering school in the nation. None of the candidates measured up to Martin's requirements, the firm reports.

Training vs. Ability

At the Douglas Aircraft Co. plant at Charlotte, N. C., a company spokesman reflecting on skilled openings for Negroes comments: "During the spring and summer around graduation time we might have three or four Negroes a week applying for jobs as electronic tech-

I'VE BEEN AROUND NEW YORK

By TED YATES

The death of Billie Holiday silenced the voice of America's greatest blues singer since Bessie Smith. 44-Year-old "Lady Day" began her career in the early '30's at Harlem's highly appealing and highly popular Hot Cha Restaurant, the hot spot where Billy Daniels, Minto Cato, Jimmy Daniels, Billie Cortez, and many other star-studded entertainers delighted diversion seekers and the fabulous Clinton Moore was the congenial host.

Color Ban

While she had constantly and conscientiously fought the color ban that has disillusioned other Negro performers, it is a known fact that narcotics and alcohol took its toll of the star seemed destined for the heights attained by only two or three performers in a generation. But with half a chance, it is believed, the singer had a good fighting chance to lick them all.

Record Performances

Billie Holiday besides establishing record-breaking performances in theatres, night clubs and her own concerts was the first Negro vocalist to appear with a white band, Artie Shaw's. Her appearance at N.Y.C.'s B'way Strand Theatre with Count Basie's Orchestra has never been equaled. It is true that already her records are a collector's item.

nicians, tool machine operators, or tool makers. Their experience and training is limited. I'd call it sub-par." Then the spokesman emphasizes: "I'm not talking about abilities, but training. If the Negro meets the job we hire him. Race is no factor."

Behind Time

Negro colleges and civic groups candidly admit they're behind the times. Few are more outspoken than Julius Thomas, director of industrial relations for the National Urban League, a nation-wide group dedicated to social and economic problems in Negro urban communities.

Rustling through a file in his New York office, Mr. Thomas brings out these statistics: In the nation's 79 Negro colleges (77 are in the South) 70% of the 72,000 enrolled students in 1957-58 were in training as teachers. "This percentage has gone unchanged for 10 years," says Mr. Thomas, "and it shows a glaring weakness in Negro education—it's too lopsided."

A Steady Ratio

Mr. Thomas continues: Of the 26,000 engineers who were graduated from accredited schools in the class of '59, only 156 were Negroes. "This is about the ratio for the past decade."

Why don't Negro educators steer students away from the over-stockholders for all indebtedness due the corporation.

crowded teaching profession into technical fields? They say they run into resistance from both students and parents. Dr. Paul Clifford, stocky cigar-puffing registrar at Atlanta University, complains: "We have the facilities to double the enrollment in our school of business administration tomorrow, but students aren't interested. Yet, the number of requests we get for trained people is ten times the candidates available."

Other Reasons

Other reasons given why Negro colleges fail to train Negro students in new fields:

(1) Students don't want to change and neither do their parents want them to.

(2) Colleges generally lack placement services. Already overworked teachers and deans have to make the important contacts with employers.

(3) Colleges created under land-grant charters from the states are obligated by law in many cases to emphasize such trade-school courses as plastering, and dress tailoring.

(4) Students sometimes complain of lack of guidance from school officials.

UNDERSTANDING IOWA CHILDREN

SPONSORED BY THE IOWA CHILD WELFARE RESEARCH STATION

Written by Lloyd Lovell, SUI Assistant Professor

FACE DANGER CALMLY
Red Cross workers and other people who frequently offer emergency service in times of stress are concerned about the ways in which a catastrophe (or an individual accident) can be made worse by panic. When panic strikes, a person who might otherwise be able to think of and follow a course of action leading to safety is often so immobilized that he actually does things to make his plight worse.

Grownups Upset

Parents have had many chances to notice that young children when hurt or exposed to potential danger are often not very upset by the experience until they see that grownups or older children are upset. Many children seem to learn from other older people to react in frightened ways to circumstances that they might handle more effectively if the fright were absent.

We must, of course, teach children which objects and situations in their lives can be dangerous. This is a hard job in itself, for we obviously could never make an all-inclusive list of all the possible ways of getting into danger. Besides, there are so many cases of danger which no one could have predicted and which certainly could not have been prevented.

What To Do

But the need for knowing when and where danger may exist can be accompanied by some knowledge of what to do when the emergency arises. Even elementary first aid is often very valuable, and knowing how to escape or avoid certain dangers, like fire, can save a life. Perhaps one reason we are not more skilled in teaching our children these helpful things is that our own concern for their safety partially immobilizes our teaching efforts. We might try to bring ourselves to realizing that children must be helped to protect themselves, despite their emotional reactions.

The sight of blood is not very pleasant for most people—but despite the feelings the sight of blood arouses, we must do things to stop the bleeding. Perhaps we can help our children learn to operate more effectively if we explain the naturalness of their feelings, and show them things that they can still manage to do while they are upset.

Colorful Accents For Summer

by Genevieve Young

You can brighten up your life on any budget with a colorful wardrobe and cosmetics to match!

There's a rainbow of color at your fingertips in dress or make-up to help you sparkle from head to toe.

Be colorful, but beware of colors that do not complement your skin tones and your personality. Be certain that your favorite colors are the most flattering for your complexion.

How do you find out which colors do the most for you? In choosing a wardrobe and matching accessories, don't let your own judgment be your guide. Seek advice from friends whose opinions you respect. Trained sales personnel at your favorite store can be very helpful, too.

In choosing cosmetics you can let your freedom reign for example, America's largest selling hair dressing and line of beauty products has just recently introduced a complete line of Personality Lipsticks in six glamorous shades, especially formulated to beauty-treat your lips and "love-lite" your personality.

Miss Golden Girl, America's reigning Queen, chooses the new shade "Orange Flame" to accent her lips for cool summer formal.

One or more of these basic shades will be most flattering for you. With a variety of shades, you can follow out any color scheme, your mood, or your attire, dictates.

Referred to is the new Personality Lipstick by Royal Crown—soon to be available at your favorite neighborhood store in six glamorous colors—Pink Kisses, Bold Lilacs, Royal Red, Cherry Glow, Velvet Magic, and exotic Orange Flame.

During the weekend of July 10 more than 100 persons gathered in Des Moines for an unusual celebration. They were descendants of the late Lewis and Spencer Cary, pioneering brothers who moved to Iowa during the early 1900's.

The oldest living descendant is Mrs. Lena Brown, who makes her home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Price Page, of 2825 4th Street.

Mrs. Brown, now 77, recalls that it was around the turn of the century when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cary and uncle, Spencer Cary, moved to Iowa from Stanton, Va. She was six years old. Both coal miners, the brothers settled around an old mining town known as Mexcala, Ia. Later, they moved to the Old Buxton mining camp site. Then in August 1919—40 years ago—they all moved to Des Moines.

Mrs. Brown married French Brown, Sr., before she was 16 years old and they celebrated their 50th anniversary in 1948. Mr. Brown died two years ago in 1957.

Always a church worker and active in the choir, Mrs. Brown says, "I still attend St. Paul A.M.E. church every Sunday. I teach a class there that I have been teaching since 1933.

"I look at the choir and I have so many grandchildren and children singing in them."

Mrs. Brown has a son, French Brown, Jr., living at 933 14th Place. She boasts 17 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren. The youngest is a baby daughter born nine weeks ago to her granddaughter, Sandra Dawson, and husband.

At church Mrs. Brown also is a deaconess and was member of the stewardship board 12 years before being dedicated to deaconess. She is also treasurer of the Monogram club, oldest club at the church.

"I attend the meetings regularly. I used to belong to the Golden Agers, but I avoid crowds now because I have dizzy spells."

"I attended the reunion picnic in honor of my father and uncle and enjoyed it very much; there were two cousins of mine who sent their children from Chicago, Ill. I had not seen them since they were around 13 years old."

Another annual reunion—or more specifically, a picnic was scheduled for Wednesday at MacHenry park. It was the annual city-wide Golden Agers picnic. Willkie House was in charge of the program with Miss Charlene Wharton as chairman. Among the song renditions and entertainment was camp songs by the Willkie House day campers and also a rendition by a group of children under the direction of Mrs. Catherine Atkinson, of Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

Day camp will close next week and a big family picnic is planned for July 31. Willkie House activities will close the same day but will be open the first week in August when the staff will be finishing up work and several clubs hold meetings there. The center will reopen again after Labor day.

Catherine Daniels Is Hostess to Socialites

The Socialite club met at the home of Catherine Daniels, 986 24th Street. During the business session Mrs. Gladys Hurt, president, appointed Mrs. Theresa Lee Edwards, chairman of the social committee. Mrs. Marguerite Avant as chairman of the grievance committee and Mrs. Virginia Carroll as her assistant.

The next meeting will be July 31 at the home of Mrs. Edwards, 2104 Olive Street.

Mrs. Iva Hayes

Savory Skillet Chops With Vegetables

This pork chop recipe has extra appeal as an "easy meal." Cook the chops and vegetables together in the same utensil. A fancy skillet will allow you to take it from stove to table. An electric skillet can be used conveniently. After the vegetables are put in the skillet, browned pork chops are attractively arranged over the golden corn and white rice. Each browned chop is garnished with a tasty piece of tomato.

INGREDIENTS:

- 4 to 6 pork chops depending on servings wanted
- 1 large clove garlic, finely chopped
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1 No. 303 can tomatoes and juice
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- 3/4 cup uncooked white rice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups water
- 1 cup whole kernel yellow corn

METHOD: Trim some of the fat from the chops. Fry out this trimmed fat in a large skillet. Remove pieces of fat and add the pork chops. Brown well on both sides. Stack the chops to one side of the skillet. Add the garlic and onions. Cook, stirring occasionally, until yellow. Add additional fat only if necessary. Place the chops over the bottom of the skillet. Drain the juice from the tomatoes into a measuring cup. Add water to make one cup. Pour over the chops. Sprinkle with the 2 teaspoons salt, pepper and thyme. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Stack the chops to one side of the skillet. Stir in the rice. Sprinkle with the 1 teaspoon salt. Arrange the chops over the rice. Pour on the 2 cups of water. Bring to a vigorous boil over a high heat. Turn the heat down. Cover with a lid and simmer 25 to 30 minutes or until the rice is tender. Add water if the mixture cooks dry. When the rice is tender, stir in the corn. Break up the tomatoes and arrange over the pork chops. Cover and simmer about 10 minutes to heat the corn. Add water if necessary. Most of the water should be absorbed before serving. Serve at the table from the skillet, if desired. This recipe makes 4 to 6 generous servings.

NOT ALL STORMS
ARE BAD

Last week, Des Moines had another unpleasant incident growing out of the purchase of a home by a Negro couple in a heretofore all white neighborhood. Under cover of nightfall, some coward splashed green paint on the house located at 25th and Morton Avenue.

Nobody saw the hoodlums. The police department made profuncatory trips around the neighborhood. But fortunately for all concerned, the Register and Tribune gave wide publicity to the incident and interviewed neighbors, most of whom expressed favorable attitude concerning their new neighbors.

These pesky incidents have their value. Scattered over a wide area, they point up the fact that Negroes are not bunching up in any one section; that it presents an opportunity for a lot of homeowners to test their Christianity and democracy.

Of course, Negroes have a responsibility of being good neighbors and to prove that their coming does not lower property values and/or make otherwise undesirable. Generally speaking, this has not been the case with those who have made moves into new neighborhoods for they have kept up their lawns, improved homes and maintained the areas around them clean. And as their white neighbors have seen this, they have taken a better attitude toward the newcomers.

All too often, opposition to the coming of Negroes into so-called white neighborhoods grows out of the habit of putting all Negroes into one class. They, at times, have been a poorly kept home, yard or street in a predominantly Negro neighborhood and vision that the coming of a family in their area will produce the same situation.

Certainly, there can be no quarrel with one who wants to maintain a decent neighborhood and dislikes to live around people, white or Negro, who show little pride or self respect in the care of the place they call home.

The Bystander congratulates the new neighbors of the McDaniel family for their general attitude has been shown to be good. Undoubtedly, the McDaniels will be ambassadors of good will.

NAACP COMMANDS
STRONG SUPPORT

A parade of outstanding Americans representing capital and labor, most religious faiths, leading political parties, educators etc. spoke at the NAACP convention in New York. This is a far cry from the few liberals who spoke at the early meetings in the organization's infancy.

They included Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, Premier of Eastern Nigeria; Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, Under Secretary of the United Nations; Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Mayor Robert F. Wagner; Jackie Robinson, Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College in Atlanta, and spokesmen for the three major faiths—Most Rev. John J. Maguire, auxiliary bishop and vicar-general; archdiocese of New York for His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman; Rabbi Max Davidson, president, Synagogue Council of America; and Dr. Eugene Carson Blake for the National Council of Churches of Christ, U.S.A., Gov. Rockefeller, former Gov. Harriman and Senators Humphrey and Javits.

The speakers did not engage in generalities and nice platitudes but, on the other hand spoke approvingly of the NAACP program. These outstanding citizens recognize that the program of the NAACP is one aimed to bring about simple justice for minorities, a proper observance law and order, an opportunity to work at the job of one's chance.

Thus, in spite of some criticism of the NAACP by a few spineless Negroes and weak kneed white people, most citizens recognize that this organization has dared to challenge the race haters with weapons provided by the constitution and have won one battle after another declaring and establishing the rights of all citizens. It has challenged Congress, which has not had the courage to pass enforcement laws, by taking the problem to the courts.

The NAACP is a great organization with a program for all America. It should have the support of every Negro (all benefit by its efforts) and those white people who are interested in helping make a democracy a fact as well as theory in America.

SATCH PAIGE
BACK IN NAL

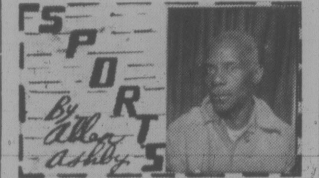

Louisville, Ky.—Leroy "Satchel" Paige, the oldest active pitcher in baseball and one of the most fabled, is back for another fling in the Negro American League.

The lanky huer, who has defied both age and tradition to remain a standout for more than two decades, will pitch for the Cuban Giants against the Baltimore Elites of the Negro American National League in a game at Fairgrounds Stadium, Sunday afternoon, July 19.

Paige reportedly started pitching in 1925. He crashed the major leagues late in his career, but helped pitch the Cleveland Indians to the American league pennant in 1949.

First Negro Wins
National Golf Title

Denver, Colo.—Bill Wright of Seattle, Wash., became the first Negro in history to win a National Public Links golf title. He came out victorious Saturday with a 3 up victory over Frank Campbell, of Jacksonville, Fla.

As we watched the televised track meet between the Russian and Americans Sunday we wouldn't have been a bit surprised to see some Negro Russians. Certainly, they could have used a few of them in the dashes and hurdle races where American Negroes finished one-two in about every race. The girls didn't do too badly but people over here will have to go in for girl's track in a big way if we hope to match those other groups.

Golfing First

Bill Wright of Seattle, Wash., wins the national public Links Golf title. Slowly but surely Negroes are hitting the big time in all the sports. There have been a few who could play the big circuit in tennis and do all right and there are probably some now who can, but the two tennis bodies have their own meets and it is hard to play in both of them at once.

Althea Gibson

Althea Gibson tried it and from what we hear, she wasn't welcome in the A.T.A. meet as a competitor. The players seemed to think she ought to leave that one to them. Maybe, we will see tennis meets open to everyone after the manner of our Hilltop meet. By the way that thing begins Aug. 6 and runs through the 9th. We have one defending champion, Esther Myers.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Jack Spratt, Mrs. Spratt, and Fat

We're willing to bet that Jack Spratt, who ate no fat, outlived his wife, who, if you remember, ate no lean. While they both licked the plate clean Jack no doubt kept his boyish figure, staved off arteriosclerosis, and avoided a heart attack. Mother Goose doesn't say, but Mrs. Spratt was probably overweight and may very well have had a fatal heart seizure when she was comparatively young.

Jack wasn't so very smart in avoiding fats completely—but he was smarter than the missus. Actually, the whole story about fats in the diet isn't known yet. But the evidence seems to point to time for a change in the American diet.

Saturated Fats

The body manufacturers cholesterol—which has been linked to hardened arteries and heart disease—from fats of animal origin, called saturated fats. You can't and shouldn't avoid animal fats completely, but if you're a housewife, try cooking oils of vegetable origin, containing unsaturated fats, like corn, cottonseed, peanut, and olive oils.

Americans, used to get an estimated 30 per cent of their daily calories in fats, now they get 40 per cent from fats. A reduction to 25 per cent—half animal fat and half vegetable oils—would be smart.

You don't have to give up milk and meat and degeas altogether. But you and your family will be healthier if you cut down on the fats—and you'll stay lean, too!

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by Polk County Tuberculosis & Health Assn.

Balanced Change

The change should be one of balance, shifting from hard fats of animal origin to cooking oils of vegetable origin, from whole milk to skimmed milk (at least for grown-ups), from fatty cheeses to cottage cheese, from rich gravies and ice cream to plainer, simpler food.

High-fat diets, doctors say, increase the danger of blood clots, the commonest cause of heart attacks.

Althea to Play in Negro Tennis Tourney

Big Wage Gain for Cleveland's Jim Brown

Los Angeles, Calif.—Jim Brown, steamrolling fullback of the Cleveland Browns professional football team, has received a raise to $20,000 in his third seasons contract with the Cleveland outfit, the signing of which took place recently in team's office at the Cleveland stadium.

The greatest gate attraction in the league, Brown gets the highest salary of any member of the team since the days of Otto Graham. Last season Jim cracked the league record for yards gained in rushing and tied the record of 18 touchdowns for a season.

In the yardage gained from scrimmage department Brown covered 1527 yards. He also gained the most yards in one game, 237 in 31 carries. In 1957, Brown's freshman year, he won the "Rookie of the Year" award.

We know about this partly from observing diabetics. In the days before the use of insulin, when overeating was frequent among diabetics, hardening of the arteries was common even among diabetic children.

Durrelle Bout Postponed

Montreal, Quebec—A telephone call Monday from a San Diego, Cal., doctor sent Archie Moore, lightweight weight boxer, to be at the bedside of his wife, who underwent surgery for a non-malignant tumor. Her condition was reported satisfactory Tuesday.

Because of her illness, Moore's July 29 scheduled fight with Yvon Durrelle was postponed to Aug. 12 at the Montreal Forum.

The postponement was the second. The initial postponement from July 15 came when Moore suffered a bruised heel.

Pumpsie Green Brought Up From Farm Club
By Boston Red Sox

Boston, Mass.—Pumpsie Green was brought up Tuesday by the Boston Red Sox from their Minneapolis farm club to play with the team. He becomes the first Negro to play with the team. All 16 major league baseball teams now have Negro players.

Green was in spring training for the club earlier this year but at the start of the baseball season was returned to the farm club for "additional seasoning." Because of the move various groups accused the Boston club of discrimination.

BLESSINGS

Last night as I knelt down to pray, My grand-son knelt there too. He turned his little head and said "Please can I pray with you?" "Now I lay me down, "I heard His voice was soft and low "I pray the Lord my soul to keep" The rest I'll always know.

AND kneeling there, besides my bed As I heard him pray that night If I could be that close to God My world would be all right. And then I thank God on high For his blessings and love divine I knew that I have been closer to him In prayer with that grand-son of mine.
