Herbert Brewer, Drake Grad, Returns to Liberian Home

When Herbert Brewer of Liberia, Africa came to Des Moines to enter Drake university five years ago, he was a stranger. When he left Monday, his departure was hailed as a distinct loss to the community by his numerous friends, acquaintances and civic organizational leaders.

Following his graduation from Drake Law school last month Mrs. Elinor Robson, co-ordinator of the Iowa Board of the International Education, held a reception in his honor at her home at 3305 Easton blvd. Mr. Brewer was presented a plaque as the first president of the Des Moines association of the IBIE. In addition a citation was presented him by John Swift, present president, which read: "In appreciation for his example as a foreign student, his leadership in the Des Moines community and for his friendship." Before he left hundreds of friends had autographed it.

Receptions

In the last several days before his departure from the city Mr. Brewer was honored with an informal reception in the office of the Iowa board in the Royal Union building, appeared as guest on Don Sollday's Closeups on KRNT-TV, was guest at a luncheon of the Uptown Kiwanis and a series of luncheons by friends. "Many of them had to be canceled," said Mr. Brewer in an interview Saturday, "because we had to get our things packed."

Mrs. Robson

"People and friends have been so nice to me during my stay here," he continued. "But, I especially want to pay tribute to Mrs. Robson. It was she who mainly helped me to make my contacts in Des Moines." "We are very proud of Herb," Mrs. Robson said earlier. "We feel there are big things in store for him in the future."

Red Carpet Rolled Out for Africans Arriving from Kenya In U. S. on Scholarships

(From Christian Science Monitor) New York, N. Y.—With the Soviet Union paying increased attention to visiting Africans, the red carpet has just been rolled out here for a group of 82 African students who arrived Sept. 9 from Kenya on a special plane, chartered through the efforts of Tom Mboya, Kenya nationalist leader.

Before they dispersed Sept. 11 to 40 colleges throughout the United States which have granted them scholarships, the young African men and women will not only have seen New York and met leading Africanists, a prominent Negro playwright and a famous ballplayer, but will have been briefed on the American labor movement, on race relations, and higher education in the United States.

Wrote Letters

Most of the group received their scholarships just by writing letters to the colleges and universities involved. Some even had homes lined up where they will get free room and board. But many were stuck for transportation until Mr. Mboya on his last American trip in the spring succeeded in getting his friends to contribute for the chartered plane, arranged by the African-American Students Foundation. Jackie Robinson, New York restaurant chain executive and former baseball player, provided $4,000 for the venture and was on hand to greet the students.

Local NAACP To Meet Tuesday

The opening fall meeting of the Des Moines branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will be held Tuesday, Sept. 22 at Wilkie House, 900 17th Street. The executive-board meeting at 7:30 p.m. will be followed by the membership meeting at 8:30 p.m.

Dave Crenshaw, acting postmaster of Des Moines, will be guest speaker. A film on a micronized post office will also be featured. In view of the new policy permitting women to take civil service examinations for postal clerks, the question and answer period promises to be of great interest.

To Pella, Ia.

Speaking for the groups on arrival, Mbayah Mungal, who will study in New York, said he and his fellow students realized they had heavy responsibilities ahead and in view of Kenya's probable emergence into nationhood they expect to be called on for public service when they return home.

Eight different African tribes are represented in the student group, including the Masai, described by John Gunther in "Inside Africa" as a "fierce, proud, and lonely people" who "live almost exclusively on milk and blood from their cattle." Geoffrey M. Ole Maloy, who said he thought he was the only member of the Masai tribe ever to visit the

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

Farmville, Va.—The white children of Prince Edward County went to school but the Negro children found themselves with no place to go. This is because the whites have decided to let go of public school education even though it means a hardship. They have instead hired the best brains and proceeded to raise over $300,000 to put up a good private school.

Prince Edward County—which is about 90 miles southwest of Richmond, quickly shut down its schools rather than submit to integration. It also refused to levy taxes for schools—and thereby became the first in the nation to take these tactics.

One of the group, Cyrus Gakuo Karuga, a Kikuyu, said he had recently spent five years in detention due to his teaching in a school run by Jomo Kenyatta, recently freed Kikuyu leader.

Thirteen girls were in the arriving group. One of them, Dorcas Boit, said up to now only three African girls from Kenya had ever studied in the United States. Several of the students will go to Little Rock, Ark., to study at Philander Smith College. One, Frank Nabute, said he "especially wanted to get that troubled place." He said he had read much about Little Rock in newspapers back home.

Mboya

The newcomers said they chose to come to the States to study chiefly because of Mr. Mboya's initiative. Kenya, a British Crown colony and scene of 1952 Mau Mau trouble, has not yet made higher education available to all the Africans seeking it. Another Kenya leader, Dr. Gikonyo Kiano, said on a recent visit here that he would like to see 500 to 600 young Kenyans studying in the States. With the new plane load the number here, around 200, is about double what it was before.

After leaving Des Moines by car he spent several days in Chicago and New York before leaving for London, England by plane. He plans to spend a week visiting his father, George T. To Drake Actually, Mr. Brewer had been in the United States since 1953. He had been living with his father, who was ambassador to Haiti. His father decided to send him to the U. S. to further his education so he entered Howard university in Washington, D. C. in 1953. A year later he transferred to Drake.

Youth Of The Week

This is the 45th in a series featuring youth, 13 to 21 years, in the community and in Iowa who are setting a good example in wholesome living and achievements in their homes, schools, churches, sports and civic activities.

"I have always wanted to be a nurse," is the way our pretty young candidate Miss Georgia Louise Bell 21, phrased her ambitions.

Last month she had completed the hardest portion of her training preparations when she was graduated from the school of nursing at Mercy hospital. She was the only member of her race in the graduating class, in fact in the whole school.

Next week, Thursday and Friday she will take the state board nursing exams, to become a registered graduate nurse. However, Georgia wants to realize her dream and go into public health nursing.

"There is such a need for nurses in that field. I wish more Negroes would go into it," she said.

High School

Back in 1956 Georgia graduated from Saydel High School, formerly Old Woodside High, where she had been active in school affairs, including vice president of her class two years, secretary, one year, member of student council, and participated in Pep club and other musical groups. In her last year she made the honor roll.

A member of All Saints Catholic church, she attended church at the hospital while she was in training. She also was a member of the Iowa Student Nurses association and was social chairman of her class.

Requirements

Georgia explained there is a little more than just wanting to be a nurse and putting in an application to a school. She noted, "after filling out the application you take a pre-nursing test at Drake University which takes a day. Of course you must pass the physical examination. They want you to be in general good condition with no handicaps, that would hinder you as a nurse."

Of course, if you should have a handicap, they take you to the hospital and take you through the routine. If your handicap does not hinder you, they will let you in the training class, she added.

"Too, we have to take a three month course in psychiatric nursing at St. Bernard hospital in Council Bluffs and a year of basic science courses at Drake at the same time during your first year of training at the hospital," she went on.

Parents

Before she entered nurses training Georgia worked a summer at Central Life Assurance company.

GEORGIA BELL

She lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bell of 4530 Cornell Street. However, she plans to move to Denver, Colo., sometime in the near future, to live permanently. For hobbies she likes sewing and makes many of her own clothes. She also likes to read anything that strikes her fancy in addition to medical and professional manuals and magazines.

Announce Engagement Of Elva Lucy Slaughter

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Slaughter of 1056 11th street announce the engagement of their daughter, Elva Lucy of Minneapolis, Minn., to Mr. James Irvin Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stephens, Franklin, Va.

Welcomed by Wilkins

New York—The report of the United States Civil Rights Commission has been "welcomed" by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People as "an important advance in the continuing efforts to extend the frontiers of freedom."

In a statement on Sept. 8, NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins said that the Commission's recommendation for the appointment of federal registrars to replace prejudiced state officials who refuse to register Negroes is "particularly significant."

If acted upon, Mr. Wilkins asserted, this recommendation "may provide the answer to present vexing evasions through which registration of Negro voters is kept at the minimum in some areas of the South. This proposal should be immediately implemented in order to assure southern Negroes the right to vote in the presidential and congressional elections next year."

UNDERSTANDING IOWA CHILDREN

SPONSORED BY THE IOWA CHILD WELFARE RESEARCH STATION

Written by Lloyd Lovell, SUI Assistant Professor

DRIVER-EDUCATION ROLE

My father once remarked while he was driving and slowing down behind a car that was obviously making a right turn, "never make any assumptions about what the other fellow is going to do. Always drive as if the other driver is not very smart. That will help you keep out of accidents."

I think this advice illustrates that you as a parent play a large role in driver education. The effectiveness of various safety campaigns varies from time to time. Gimmicks and schemes are thought up to reduce traffic accidents and fatalities. But in the long run it is the parent who drives with a child in his car who can reduce or ultimately increase travel costs in life and limb.

Basic Rules

There is more to driving a car than the mechanical operation of a vehicle. Courtesy, willingness to take chances, care of the auto, regard for traffic laws and general philosophy of driving are constantly being taught to young people as they see their parents do the job of driving. This is a basic driver education.

Of course, good instruction in driving through driver-education courses can help and can sometimes correct parents' misguidance. But in the long run it is the incidental, long-standing attitudes learned over the years and trips that will be passed on to our children.

Pre-School Years

This kind of driver education does not begin two years before your youngster is ready to learn to drive. It begins in the pre-school years. You teach your child how to regard an auto: as a status symbol or as a tool, a piece of necessary transportation equipment. You teach him that driving is a cinch, or that it is a serious business.

You teach him that safety is for the other fellow who is usually in the wrong, or that driving is a potentially dangerous activity about which you must always be on the alert. The ways in which you talk about driving and the other driver are examples that are not lost on the young people driving with you. You, as a parent, are the most important driving teacher your child will have.

A postscript also arrived from Marie Ross of the Kansas City Call, which read, "Seeing the sights in Maryland and Washington, D. C." Until then some time had passed since we last heard from her although she very thoughtfully sends us local copies of the Call when there is a special story in it not covered extensively by the national edition.

Next time, if things go all right, we will have a story and picture of the unusual begonia.

During an interview with Mr. Herbert Brewer of Liberia, Africa we decided to satisfy our curiosity about his name which is rather common in the United States. He told us that in Liberia all African names are Anglicized. His wife's name is Elizabeth Woods Brewer. We also recalled that a Rodney Cole of Liberia was a classmate at our old alma mater.

Mr. Brewer also said that you can usually tell what country on the continent that Africans are living. He explained that "Okoro" is Nigerian.

NEW YORK'S
JUVENILE PROBLEMS

New York City is experiencing a series of crimes among juveniles that shock the whole country. Not only have there been wars among gangs themselves which brought death to some of their members, but also adult passersby have been murdered for such trivial thing as being jostled.

Much of this juvenile delinquency is among Negroes and Puerto Ricans. Both groups live in the most squalid sections of the town surrounded by conditions which breed crime and delinquency.

Public officials, including the governor and mayor, and many interested citizens, chafing under those most embarrassing and unfortunate conditions, have set about to devise some means of curbing these juveniles.

Of course, these acts of juvenile delinquency did not begin all at once. The areas where these people live have long been pointed to as hatcheries for juvenile delinquency but evidently, very little was done to remedy the cause.

And as long as the depredations were committed among each other, they were not particularly important. Certainly, citizens frowned on crime, but raised consternation as the conditions spread.

Unfortunately, juvenile delinquency is on the increase in most places. Much of it is due to coddling by the very persons charged with reducing and correcting the evil; much to the unwillingness of parents to carry their responsibility.

Now that the situation has reached this critical stage maybe responsible citizens will go about the job of removing some of the causes which breed juvenile delinquency and thus help individual families do a better job carrying their side of the job.

New York is not the only town with juvenile problems for they only show up larger because New York is a larger city.

CONGRESS TALKS BUT FAILS TO ACT

Speaking in behalf of a proposed civil rights bill in the senate September 12, Senator Javits of New York called attention to the scandalous conduct of voting officials in Alabama which were exposed at hearings before the Civil Rights Commission. He pointed out that the commission report recommended that federal registrars be appointed where those seeking to vote for federal offices are denied the right to register and vote by state officials.

Senator Javits said that by inference, the most severe indictment of the failure of Congress to pass major civil rights legislation since 1957 is to be found in the recommendation he further states: "How much longer can we side-step the issue and the underlying demand for meaningful civil rights legislation."

"How much longer is the Senate of the United States going to ignore the fact that 2,100 school districts in a total of 16 southern States are taking no steps to meet the Supreme Court's order for desegregation in the public schools—or the fact as the Civil Rights Commission states "that substantial numbers of citizens qualified to vote under State registration and election laws are being denied the right to register, and thus the right to vote, by reason of their race or color?"

It seems almost incredible that in the face of flagrant violations of the plights of Negroes in some parts of the country that Congress sits idly by and allows a few members to control legislation designed to bring into harmony our declaration of that principle. Congress sheds a lot of crocodile tears over oppressed people in other countries and winks at oppression right under their noses at home.

Althea Becomes First
U. S. Woman to Win
Pan-Am Tennis Title

Chicago—Former Wimbledon Negro champion, 32-year-old Althea Gibson of New York, is still a top-notch in the tennis world, including the Pan American Games competition.

Last Thursday, Althea became the first U. S. woman to win a Pan-American singles tennis crown. To do so, she came from behind in the second set to win five successive games for the set and match.

Althea was pitted against Yolanda Ramirez of Mexico in the championship bid, which at the opening of the second set had her trailing 2-5. However, she rallied with the old spirit of "win for the dear of U.S.A." defeating Yolanda 6-4, 7-5 at the Lincoln Park tennis club.

May Turn Pro

Following her triumph, Althea disclosed she had no "immediate plans to turn pro, but if the offer is attractive enough, I will accept." She said her present plans call for a return "to my year of retirement which is not up until after the Forest Hills event.

Rumor Robinson
May Be Manager in Third Major League

Chicago—Jackie Robinson, the first Negro to play in organized baseball, may be the first Negro to manage a big league team.

A Chicago sportscaster hinted at the possibility of Jackie getting a managerial spot with one of the teams in the new Continental league on his radio show recently.

The sportscaster said his information came from "unimpeachable sources" in New York where William (Bill) Shea, chairman of the new league's founding group, met with baseball commissioner Ford Frick last week.

Branch Rickey

Branch Rickey, the man who broke baseball's color line by signing Robinson to play for the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1946, was named president of the new league.

Rickey, according to reports, is definitely in favor of a Negro moving into the big leagues as manager and has said that he thinks Robinson is of managerial caliber.

Smart Move

Bringing in Rickey as president of the league was a smart move in its fight for recognition from the American and National Leagues, according to the sportscaster.

"It follows," he said, "that the next move would be something definitely spectacular like bringing in Rickey's protege, Robinson, in a managerial capacity."

"Robinson is one of the biggest names in baseball even though he is retired," the sportscaster concluded.

Knicks Cage Contract

New York—Big Willie Naulls, former cage star at the University of Southern California, has signed his new 1959-60 contract with the New York Knickerbockers. The season will be Naulls' fourth in the National Basketball Association. Last season he led the Knicks in rebounds.

Willie Mays Plans
A Barnstorm Tour

San Francisco—Willie Mays, outfielder of the San Francisco Giants, announced last week that he will head a barnstorming tour through southern and some western states after the end of the Giants play this season.

Willie said he intends to include on his team the following players: Hank Aaron, Wes Covington, Sam Jones, Brooks Lawrence, Don Newcombe, and Bill White.

are making or trying to make political hay of his visit rather than giving credit where credit is due."

HEALTH FOR ALL

Bathroom: People-Proof

Friend of ours is going around these days looking as though he went ten rounds with the champ. Fact is, he lost a bout with the bathtub. Slipped getting out, cracked his chin on the edge, cut his forehead on the faucet and chipped his elbow on the wall. We've sent him a rubber mat for the bottom of his bathtub as a "get-well" present.

The bathroom certainly can be a dangerous place. Falls in the tub or shower are the most common hazard. In addition to a rubber mat, a solid handhold set in the wall at a height convenient for grabbing can prevent a tumble in the shower or help you stand up safely in the tub. Keep the soap in sight, though. Not even a rubber mat can save you if you should put your foot down on the soap.

Medicine Cabinet

The medicine cabinet offers its own perils. Please, always open your eyes and put the light on before helping yourself to anything from the cabinet. Don't put pills or liquids in unlabeled bottles or switch them from their own bottles to others. And to hang that cabinet way out of the reach of children, remembering that the little ones know all about climbing on chairs to get a thing. Thousands of children are poisoned every year as a result of eating aspirins, laxatives, and other tasty items.

Labels

When using any medicine, it is a good idea to follow the hospital nurse's rule: look at the label when you take the bottle out, again when you remove the pill or pour the liquid, a third time when you replace the bottle. Then administer the dose. That way, you're less likely to make any mistakes.

Many bathroom mishaps result in no more than a few lively bruises. But it's worth taking the trouble to people-proof your bathroom, just to avoid the one accident which may have tragic consequences.

Integration

since opening day when public schools showed up with a strong enrollment, the makeshift private but all-white school has been lagging in students. To maintain existence as a segregated school, the private school needs more students. And so a battle goes on behind the scenes.

When the town's only high school closed last year because it was to become integrated, it lost 800 students to a hurriedly set up private school. This year, 289 white students first registered and the number rose to 342 at the end of the first week. The private school so far has only 125 who have agreed to pay in advance $220, tuition.

M. U. Tiger Threat

Columbia, Mo.—Mel West, chunky little junior tailback of the Missouri university Tigers, will be expected to play a major part in Coach Dan Devine's multiple offense grid machine this fall. West, one of the first Negroes to perform in a Tiger uniform, finished 12th on the NCAA rushing tables last fall, even though he was a secondstring performer. West, a Columbia, Mo., native who now calls Jefferson City home, looms as one of the chief threats to improve Coach Devine's record of 5-4-1 and second-place Big Eight conference finish of 1958.

The football season got under way with a history making North-East game first on the bill. That never did happen before. North came out second, but we think the Polar Bears will surprise someone before the year is over. They have size, speed and a good passer and leader.

East had better find a passer to help support Jerry Coolry, fullback and halfback, Dennis Obregon. Those guys can break up a ball game but the Lee township lads need a passer. Tech has a good size and great desire. They will suddenly get tougher to handle as the season wears on.

Bulldogs

At Drake the Bulldogs will tackle Iowa State in the first game for both teams. Ought to be a jim dandy.

We heard that the high school season was moved up because of the weather. Well, our only comment is that kids today must be as hasty as we were and we played in cold weather. Maybe, the powers will move the season back in the near future.

Semi-Pro Football

Now, we get it that there is a semi-pro team here that is about 60 per cent Negro. If the boys are willing to get in shape they might field a pretty fair Sunday team, but if they insist on playing before they are ready the team won't last long. We will wait and see.

Last year the howlers jumped all over us for not writing about them. So we decided that this year we will see some of the boys in action and see if they are as good as they tell us, they are. A couple of them did all right last year. Maybe they will do it again.

Tennis

Everett Mays gave us a blow by blow account of his trip and adventure at the National Tennis meet this year. You have to hear him to appreciate it.

IN THE STILL OF THE NIGHT

In the still of the night,
when the big cats prowled;
the screech owl screams
and the coyotes howl
The rats sneak around and the snakes all crawl,
then the bob-cat feeds,
and the lambs all bawl
When the pale moon shines, like a slab of chalk;
then the devil hushes,
and the ghosts all walk.
All the timid souls,
who will die of fright;
get their final scare,
in the still of the night.
There's a weird appeal,
when that white moon gleams,
and an eerie thrill,
if a night bird screams
in the still of the night;
filthy creatures stalk;
in the quiet hours,

all the demons walk . . .
When the waves are soft,
and it's dark on high;
let's us guard our own,
danger prowls near by . . .
Now the vandals creep,
and they spread their blight;
all the craven crawl,
in the STILL OF THE NIGHT!!!

Thoughts for Today

Every man should make up his mind that if he expects to succeed, he must give an honest return for the other man's dollar.—Edward H. Harriman.

custody the following day were E. A. Lauderdale, 48, lumber dealer and director of the segregationist Capital Citizens Council and J. D. Sims, 35-year-old truck driver.

Felony

All were charged with destroying property by explosives and held in lieu of $50,000 bond each excepting Lauderdale. Three Little Rock residents pledged $200,000 in property as bond for him.

Arkansas law makes destroying property by explosives a felony, punishable by imprisonment up to five years and or $500 fine. Three bombs exploded Labor day night damaging the Little Rock school board building, the business office of Mayor Werner C. Knopp, and a station wagon of Fire Chief Gann Nalley. No one was hurt.

Laugh Lines

A fellow complained to his psychiatrist that his wife was falling in love with an elephant. The doctor tried to calm his patient by reassuring him that his fears were ridiculous.

Convinced now, the husband started to leave, then added "I've got to run now. My wife is knitting sweater and she asked me to bring home 800 balls of wool."
