Major Sit-Down Victory Won in N.C.

43 Shaw University Students Acquitted

Raleigh, N. C.—A major victory in the lunch counter sit-in demonstrations was won Friday when the 43 Shaw University and St. Augustine College students were acquitted by a Raleigh, N. C. superior court.

The students were arrested in February on the sidewalk of Cameron Village, the largest shopping center in Raleigh, while waiting for the F. W. Woolworth store to re-open. It had been closed to exclude student protesters. This is the first major legal break-through in the student sit-down situation.

NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund attorneys were prepared to take the case to the highest court. Attorneys representing the 43 students were Samuel Mitchell and George Greene of Raleigh, N. C. and Jack Greenberg of the Legal Defense Fund staff in New York City.

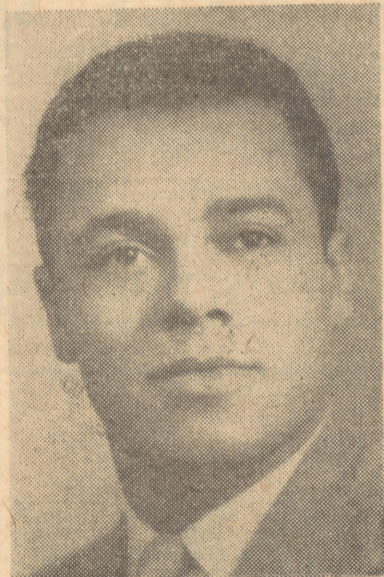

CORE Members Beaten

Columbia, Mo.—Members of the local chapter of CORE (Congress of Racial Equality) were physically assaulted by the owner of the Minute Inn restaurant during a sit-in. Blakemore, the restaurant owner, had used the head of CORE member Jim Nunnally to batter open the door of the restaurant as he forcibly ejected Nunnally, Robert Hansom and U. S. Grant Prince. Prince is a

BOTTLE BRUSH

Add a bottle brush to your equipment for washing porch, garden, and patio furniture. Dip it into thick soap or detergent suds, then use it to coax dirt from the seams and crevices of plastic or canvas cushions, the interstices of plastic or rope lacings and webbings, and the nooks and crannies of wicker and wrought iron furniture.

NEWS In A Nutshell

Winnfield, La.—Four Negro teenagers were jailed here last week for trying to secure library books for themselves as a means of helping them better their education.

Associated Barbers Of Iowa Organized

The Associated Barbers of Iowa was formed at an organizational meeting Sunday at Waterloo with about 35 barbers attending. Elected president was Rozenting Hardaway of Des Moines who is also president head of the local organization of barbers.

As Executive Secretary of Des Moines Commission On Human Rights Here

With confident expectations Edward H. Shelton, 42, early this week took over his duties as executive secretary of the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights and Job Discrimination. One of his first jobs was to tackle the commission budget which must be ready Friday.

Shelton, who arrived in Des Moines over the weekend from Pittsburgh, Penna., where he had been field representative for the Pittsburgh Fair Employment Practice commission, said, "I got the job more by accident than design."

"I was looking for a new job. I happened to read a copy of NAIRO that the Des Moines position was open. So I took a chance and wrote a letter; the commission wrote back asking for a bibliography and the next thing I knew I was asked to come for an interview," he explained.

"I was especially impressed by the commission here. They have a grasp of the whole field of civil rights and an interest in community problems. They have done some things on their own. For non-professionals, I think, they have done a whale of a job," he continued.

Warm and Friendly

In his brief residence in Des Moines, Shelton has found it "warm and friendly" and has had a "wonderful reception" from the various city officials, civic leaders and citizens that he has met.

"I anticipate a year of better understanding of the work of the commission, which will be shared by all citizens, both white and colored," he said.

"There will always be an area of mistrust as long as one side believes there is nothing wrong and the other side believes everything is wrong. There is a middle ground.

"We want people to understand what an organization like this can do for them. Many times people are discriminated against. They complain to their friends or neighbors, but not to us, who can do something about the complaints.

Community Projects

Having 10 years of experience with similar problems in Pennsylvania behind him, Shelton likes to approach the problems of community projects with a "social work philosophy" in which the human rights group works to help the community help itself for the benefit of all groups.

"As long as there is equal access in all areas of opportunity there will be better civic support. If a man has a poor job due to job discrimination, he is more food conscious than civic conscious. If he is forced to live in housing ghettos, it costs more for police and fire protection, and juvenile delinquency increases, therefore the tax load for those outside the ghetto are higher. It all comes down to a dollars and cents proposition.

No Overnight Changes
"However, there can be no overnight changes, in the civil rights pictures, not only in Des Moines, but anywhere. Equal opportunity has been denied so long to minorities that the incentive for self preparation is gone. Why train for an engineer when all you will be able to get is ditch-digging?"

"Consequently, we must find a means for incentives for our young people to stay in school, prepare themselves, and look for jobs that will be basic in the future.
"Automation demands higher caliber persons. Even in industries lowest job, there is a long range view of how an employee will fit into the top rung 10 or 15 years from now. English, math, physical sciences are all prerequisites in the apprentice training program.

Social Aspect
"Then there is the social aspect. To me equal opportunity carries with it, duty and responsibility. It is no longer adequate to be the best Negro in anything. A person's capabilities must be stacked up with all comers—the most qualified, getting the job," he ended.

SEE IN STARS

WITH DELORES CALVIN

New York City—There are many new movies with the racial angle . . . "The Fugitive Kind" which opened on Broadway this week by Tennessee Williams is another southern story—interweaving Negroes into the plot . . . A white man who sold liquor to Negroes has his winery set afire by angry whites—and died attempting to save it . . . In "Killers of Kilimanjaro", Robert Taylor stars in a dramatic story of an African safari . . . and there are many scenes with natives—their customs and habits filmed right on the spot with no rehearsing.

Woody Strode

Biggest part for a Negro is "The Trial of Sergeant Rutledge" where Woody Strode, a lanky-giant ex-football star, does a beautiful job . . . Woody had a long time waiting for breaks and now he seems to get them right and left . . . Once, he was sent to Bermuda to play in a film being made there . . . Before he got to the camera the company folded and Woody was flown back to Hollywood where he had another long wait . . . Always a "character"—Woody would play his guitar anytime anyone asked—sort of like Jack Benny and his violin . . . In fact, for a while, he never went anywhere without the guitar . . . A slow talker but one who could always hold and captivate an audience—Woody is now in the big time and we sure hope he will always be the same—and not forget all the friends who helped him along.

Civil War Days

The "Trial of Sergeant Rutledge" is the exciting story of Civil War days—it touched on prejudice but just enough to flavor the story . . . None of the thrills or suspense is over-shadowed . . . Strode is a Negro trooper accused of rape and double murder . . . Strode, in this role, dominates the film and gives a fine performance . . . The film is supposed to be based on an original story of the U. S. 9th and 10th Cavalry of Negro troopers, commanded by white officers . . . They fought bravely and cleverly with the Apaches in Arizona after the Civil War . . . The Commanding Officer had a daughter who was raped and murdered and witnesses swear it was Strode . . . A victim of circumstantial evidence, Strode fights for his life . . . Evidence piles up when it is proven his friendship with the girl, his panicky desertion to the army and his subsequent capture . . . However, Strode looms as a hero when testimony is given by a white girl he had saved from an Indian ambush.

Juano Hernandez

In another good part is Juano Hernandez, veteran Spanish actor who plays many Negro roles . . .

Hernandez always brings dignity to his performance and here he plays an old trooper, born a slave . . . Though the court scenes scream rape and give gory details, it is a picture for an adult family—but not recommended for teenagers . . . The action, which keeps you in sympathy with the "framed" Woody, makes it a must to see.

Odetta

Odetta, the African songstress who made such a hit with Harry Belafonte on his TV spectacular and later with Ernie Ford on his TV show, has a "Ballard for Americans" album out for Vanguard which has a powerful punch backed by the Robert De Cormier Chorale . . . Sarah Vaughn has a new one out for Mercury—"Our Waltz", a beautiful ballad with "Some Other Spring" on the reverse.

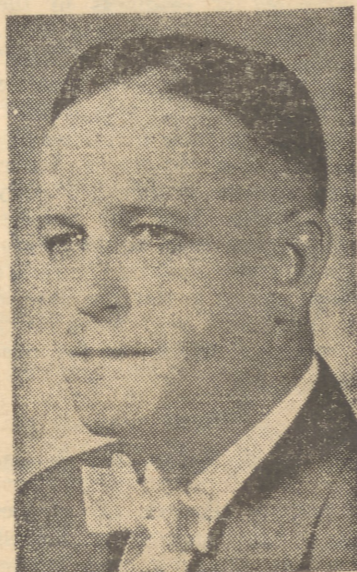

Josephine Baker

Josephine Baker back in town, ready for more engagements . . . The star interrupted her American tour to make a promised date in Europe.

POWELL RETURNS TO NORMAL LIFE; HOPES FOR COMPLETE CASE DISMISSAL

New York City—As hundreds of members of the Abyssinian Baptist Church welcomed Adam Powell, their pastor, back with open arms—his attorney planned to approach Federal Judge Bryan for a direct verdict of acquittal, dismissing the charges against Powell.

10-2 Vote

The Judge, under Federal Court, could have ruled dismissal even when the 8 woman and 4 man jury returned hopelessly deadlocked. They later stated they were 10-2 in favor of Powell but could not convince the remaining two.

"We tried awfully hard to come to an agreement and felt awfully bad that we couldn't," one woman juror said. "But nobody got bitter—and we wanted to be fair." They agreed on one thing: the fact that Powell is a Negro never figured in the case at all.

UNDERSTANDING IOWA CHILDREN

SPONSORED BY THE IOWA CHILD WELFARE RESEARCH STATION

Written by May P. Youtz, SUI Associate Professor

HELPS IN FORMING GOOD HABITS

Psychologists tell us that when a situation arises in a child's life for which he has no inherited or learned response ready, he arrives at an acceptable solution by trial and error. Habits are defined as a disposition, acquired by frequent repetition, to act in a certain way. Too often in the past, habits were thought of only as "bad" habits which must be "nipped in the bud." And good habits were supposed to be acquired by endless repetition—never allowing an exception to occur.

Today we have several fundamental principles to guide us in encouraging formation of good habits.

Readiness

First is that of "readiness." Children can do some things more readily at one stage than another. Anyone in touch with modern schools has heard of "reading readiness." The principle of readiness in the life of children at home—the baby, the young child, indeed in an older child as well, is something that we as parents need to take into account. Second, satisfaction in performing a task helps us master it faster. Children learn more quickly if they get satisfaction from the process. This satisfaction must be the child's, not the parent's. Noticing the child's successes, giving praise for even a small start, will help much more than calling attention to his mistakes.

Timing

Third, timing of learning periods Mrs. Delpha Barnett, all of Des Moines; four brothers, Lowell, Arthur, and Curtis of Des Moines and Myron of Oskaloosa, Ia.

is important. Short drills each day have proven more effective than long drills. Frequent short practice with praise has been proven more effective than long, tiring practice.

Habits as skills are learned as suggested above.

A sense of responsibility, consideration for others, truthfulness—all useful attributes of character, desirable in us as well as our children—are learned in relationships with other family members and adults in the child's environment. A beloved teacher, a favorite aunt or uncle, a parent who gives a child time and thoughtful attention may exert much more influence toward desirable habits than all other training.

Hulan Jack's Troubles Increase; Facets Retrial

New York City—With a sorrowful face and less support from city officials than he had last time, Hulan Jack relinquished his duties as Borough President of Manhattan to face investigations for the second time on violating the city charter and conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Meanwhile, Jack's capable attorney, Carson de Witt Baker, has been busy preparing to ask Court of Appeals Judge Fuld for permission to appeal to the highest court. He is hopeful it will be granted. If not, he will ask for a speedy trial as Jack has already suffered throughout the ordeal.

Staff Workers

Staff workers at Jack's office—who last month welcomed him with flowers and speeches on his return to office, were sad but not disheartened. They share their boss' belief that he will be vindicated. Hogan, the District Attorney who pushed for a retrial after the case was dismissed last month, has been cited as deliberately going after Jack because he is a Negro. Many cases where whites had pleaded guilty of far worse crimes were aired in forums and on public opinion polls

Tampa Case Sets New Pace For Desegregation of Public Schools in Deep South

Jacksonville, Fla.—Attempts by southern states to maintain segregated public schools was blocked last week by a decision of the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. The decision involved the public schools in Tampa and Hillsborough County, Florida.

The court ruled that state authorities are "duty bound to devote every effort toward initiating desegregation and bringing about the elimination of racial discrimination in the public school system."

Since 1955, Florida and several other southern states have adopted pupil assignment laws which provide that individual students may seek reassignment and may have their reassignment requests granted if they meet "psychological, sociological, religious, ethical, cultural, health, safety and good order tests" prescribed by the pupil assignment statute.

Negroes Reassigned

Following enactment of these laws, southern school authorities in Florida reassigned all Negro children to the Negro schools which they previously attended. When sued by Negro parents for compliance with the Supreme Court's decisions, the school authorities would defend on the ground that the Negro child involved had not met the requirements provided by the pupil assignment law.

School Board

The court's ruling last week provides that individual Negro children need not first apply for reassignment nor first exhaust the administrative remedy before bringing suit to desegregate the schools, since the duty is on the school board to initiate desegregation.

The court's ruling made it clear that if the tests prescribed by a pupil assignment law are used, they must be applied by the school board to all children in assigning them to classrooms and not just to Negro children seeking assignment to "white" schools.

United Church Women Will Distribute 2,000 May Baskets

Members of the evening unit of the United Church Women made 2,000 May baskets. They will bring them to the First Methodist church Friday evening where they will be filled with candy and then delivered Saturday afternoon and evening April 30 to all the nursing homes, Veterans Hospital, Home for the Aged, Bishop Drumm Home, School for Girls at Mitchellville, Juvenile Home, Rose Palsey home and Mrs. Kennedy's School for Handicapped children.

A small group of entertaining young ladies got together a little over a year ago to form a group known as the "Fashionaires". They are both a social club and a modeling group. Many times they had heard the need discussed for a group that would make appearances for clubs and organizations to model clothes and the latest fashions. So they decided to answer that need.

They knew they would need instruction on the fine points of modeling techniques, charm and grace in walking and sitting, tips on fashions, and etc., so they went to someone who has had professional training in the field. . . Mrs. Norma Jean Carter. As it happens Mrs. Carter had set something of local history mark herself, by becoming the first of her race to be graduated from the Betty Bonn School of Modeling. There have been several others since but Mrs. Carter was the first. In addition she had additional professional training outside the city and has also modeled in public appearances outside Des Moines.

Since the organization of the "Fashionaires" they have made four group appearances, two of them outside Des Moines. They have modeled for a club in Omaha, Nebr., twice.

Their latest appearances came at the Easter spring dance-party given by the La Femme club. You will hear about another appearance scheduled for next month at the Brotherhood center.

Members of the Fashionaires are Minnette Copeland, president; Barbara Garrett, vice president; Ada Triplett, secretary; Lula Schuler, treasurer and Corlotta Olphin, assistant secretary; Alma Jean Gilmore, Berniece Quick, Bertha Lewis, Carolyn Washington, Karen Piggee and Gail Gaddis.

All are high school graduates. Some have taken additional educational training. All have good jobs around the city. Furthermore, in all public appearances they are dressed prettily, very correctly, complete with gloves and even hats.

Their advisor is Mrs. Ruth Cole and commentator is Mrs. Gloria Miller.

From time to time when they feel need for modeling tips they go to their instructor Mrs. Carter individually or have her come to them at club meetings. In most of their public appearances the group has modeled clothing from their own wardrobe and they feature anywhere from 35 to 50 changes in a two-hour show. However, the up coming show will be store backed and they will have children models included.

8,000 D.M. Women Collecting for Cancer Fund This Week

8,000 Des Moines women will make calls on their neighbors this week for the American Cancer Society's annual educational and fund-raising Crusade.

Mrs. Bernard Kirke, Jr., Metropolitan Des Moines Residential Chairman urges that every citizen read the educational pamphlet that will be left with them to learn the seven danger signals of cancer and the importance of regular physical examinations.

Budgeted Needs

The budgeted needs of the Iowa Division of the American Cancer Society are $950,000.00 and the Polk County quota is $100,000.00. These funds are budgeted as follows: National Research 23.16%, Public Education 31.62%, Service to cancer patients 9.51%, Professional Education 6.14%, National Educational and Informational Programs, 11.12%, National Fellowship programs, 2.87%, State Administration 2.64%. Fund raising 5.40% and Capital Reserve 6.89%.

Then wash the sponge often in clean hot soap or detergent suds, rinse, squeeze, and hang by the loop to dry.

YOUR GREEN THUMB
Most of the things you don't like are things that don't like soap—including mealy bugs. A little soap will help to protect your house plants from these white, cottony-looking insects. They can be removed easily with a soft brush or a cotton-tipped toothpick dipped into soapsuds.

Family Finances

A father of nine children who use 240 quarts of milk each month has found he can cut $30 to $40 from his monthly milk bill by using a dry milk mix.

Fresh milk costs him 24¢ a quart. Dry milk, which has almost all the nutrients, costs him 20¢ a pound in 100 pound bags. One pound of the dry milk mixes into four quarts of milk, and each three quarts of this milk is mixed with one of fresh to restore flavor and butterfat. Thus, he pays a little less than 10¢ compared to 24¢ a quart.

He mixes his milk with an electric mixer in a gallon pickle jar. Then he sets the jar in the refrigerator for an hour, until the foam has disappeared, and adds fresh milk. The milk is again set in the refrigerator before serving so protein particles can be absorbed and any "chalky" flavor eliminated.

THE ATMOSPHERE IS DIFFERENT

Last week, the Iowa State Republican convention, meeting in Des Moines, elected a Negro as alternate delegate to the National Convention in Chicago and adopted a strong civil rights plank in its platform.

This is a far cry from some of the past conventions when almost herculean efforts had to be put forth to get what was accomplished. Now it seems to come as a matter of course.

But now, the atmosphere is different. In other words, as Dr. Cecil Henshaw told the NAACP at its membership drive kick off, the iron is hot. It behooves those working in the field of better race relations to hit while the iron is hot for the public in a frame of mind and heart to improve old conditions.

This same admonition applies to participation in politics. Besides the satisfaction which one derives from political activity by performing his civic duty, there is the fruit in the way of opportunity for employment and influence for better laws and law enforcement.

It is particularly important that youngsters do their share. The Republicans are to be congratulated for doing better things somehow just naturally.

SOMEWHAT LIKE OUR PROBLEMS

The young people in South Korea decided that President Syngman Rhee's tactics in operating the government and getting elected by dictatorial methods had gone too far and if the country expected to make progress toward a full democratic nation, some changes must be made.

And they thought so strongly about this that they braved the bullets and guns of Rhee's police to the extent that more than a hundred people were killed. But they did not stop there. Their objective was to get rid of Rhee and his corrupt government. Aided by the moral pressure of the United States, the revolution succeeded.

While the set-up in the South is different, Negro students are fighting the same things: the reelection of old die-hards and the almost total inclusion from participation in government. These things have meant limited opportunities for education, employment and improved living conditions.

Results of the sit-in in the South will not come as quickly. The protests are not as violent. But come exclusion from participation in government. Already some enlightened communities have abandoned their policy of the exclusion on the basis of race.

STEALING FOR A GOOD CAUSE IS WRONG

Somebody discovered recently that a deputy sheriff who was operating as a dog catcher has been selling stray dogs to the hospitals for use in scientific experiments. And as wide open as the job must have been, nobody except those who bought and sold the dogs claim to know about it. In fact, the job appears to have been done at night—a black market operation.

The deputy attempts to excuse abuse of office by claiming that he was doing what public officials should have in that scientific experiments in health were being furthered by his program. Some have agreed with the plea arguing that it is alright to steal for a good cause.

Such a proposal is not tenable. It is just as wrong to steal for the church as to put money in the thief's own pocket. Certainly the plea that the deputy made no financial profit "smells" for he would not have gone to all the trouble without some financial gain.

"SAT OUT" SKIRTS

What won't they think of next? One answer is a nylon tricot petticoat with a satin latex seat panel. This stretches up and down when you sit, then returns to normal when you stand, thereby protecting your skirts against bagging. Another of this petticoat's advantages is its washability. Treat it to frequent launderings in soap or detergent suds, and it will remain as eye-appealing as it is shapely.

DETERGENTS

Manufacturers' research has developed soaps and detergents to keep pace with constantly improving laundry equipment, and with numerous new fibers and textile finishes. The result: the best, most efficient, and most effective soaps and detergents that have ever been produced!

Jack Terry Finishes 2nd in Bowling Tourney

Jack Terry of 1416 Fremont ave., finished second in the strike and spare classical tourney held at Strike and Spare Bowling alley in the Merle Hay Shopping plaza recently. He won a prize of $300. He bowled a four game series of 795.

PATTERSON WON'T SEE FIGHT FILMS

New York City—Floyd Patterson, the ex champ, just refuses to watch the fight films where he lost his crown. He's planning to see them a short time before the re-match comes off June 20th. Then he can get "just vicious enough" and stay that way till the fight.

Meanwhile, Ingemar has seen the pictures many times. He's been so busy with TV appearances and movies—he hasn't stopped to think of the possibility of losing this battle. But in the other corner Patterson is slowly and deliberately plotting to regain his title. He says he won't underestimate Ingemar again—"That's where I made my big mistake."

By the time you read this, fellows in short pants will be chasing other fellows in short pants around an oval cinder path in the 51st running of the Drake Relays. We like to recall the lovely days of the Relays. The College and universities used to have tents for their field headquarters.

Encampment

These tents were set up around the infield at the Drake stadium. So that the place resembled a big encampment with each tent topped with its school pennant, lending a lot of color to the scenes. In those tents athletes rested between races and were rubbed down or treated for injuries or whatever was necessary. Some schools even brought along their own drinking water.

Older Brother

Our older brother, Lucius used to use this occasion to dress in his best suit and make the rounds of just about all the tents. Passes to the infield weren't necessary then but if they had been he would have probably wrangled one. He knew somebody in each tent and we never did find out how he met and knew all those guys. We tagged along and thus we began to see athletes, the best there were; now you know the beginning of our athletic interest.

Old Timers

We recall some of the earlier Negro athletes who were standouts. There was the great big Benga Desmond of Chicago U., one of the great quarter milers of all time and barrel-chested Sol Butler who looked and walked like a building. It was well known that Sol had a younger brother who was quite a half miler. Wonder whatever happened to him? We recall Iowa's Ned Gordon, a great all-round performer in the hurdles and broad jumps. We also met the late Ortel Roberts of Iowa U., a great sprinter.

CLEANLINESS

Did you know that cleanliness is one of the chief assets wanted by prospective employers? So say two Chicago personnel executives who interview job applicants for some of the large companies there. Young, just-out-of-school job-seekers, can help their cause so much by always being soap-and-water fresh—from head to heels!

Charged in 2 Separate Incidents Involving Girl and Her Father

A former Golden Gloves boxer, Eugene Wesley Brown, 20, was freed on $100 bond pending hearing May 2 on charges growing out of two separate incidents involving a 16-year-old girl and her father. Brown was charged with assault and battery by Jack Jay of 3736 3rd Street and for molestation of his daughter, Judy. Brown filed a countercharge of assault and battery against Jay, 42.

Walking in Streets

Jay's daughter, Judy and Bonnie Travis, 16, of 3536 50th Street, said while walking in the street near North High where they are students a man drove up in a car, made remarks to them, brushed them with his car, then got out of the car and grabbed Miss Jay by the arm. The girl freed herself, ran through an alley and on arriving home called her father, giving Jay a description of the man and the car, and the license number of the car.

Jay, who was working at a service station at 510 University Ave., saw a car fitting the description pull up to the traffic lights at 6th and University Avenues. He ran over, identified himself and demanded that the driver, Brown go with him to police headquarters.

Lights Change

"The light changes, and Brown started to drive away. I jumped in the car and reached under the dash to pull out the ignition wires. The next thing I remember, I was trying to get up and Brown was hitting me," said Jay.

Brown denied molesting the girls. "They were in the street blocking traffic, he said. 'I yelled at them to get out of the way and they said something. I stopped, got out and asked them what they said.'"

WHY NOT THE TRUTH Why not the truth, though it cuts like a sword? Each time we lie, our prestige is lowered. No matter how callous our language may seem, We're cut to the quick, if we lose self-esteem. If we could but see, like a mirrored reflection. The opinions of others; why we lost their affection, Then we'd change our approach, to the subject of truth. And set an example, for our up-coming youth. Because we are weak, we do nurture evasion, When the truth might be blunt, on a certain occasion; So we slip to the point, where we don't hesitate, Instead of the facts, it's a lie we relate. It's a cancerous growth, the loss of veracity; It will weaken your skills, in any capacity. Why not the truth, in all we do? Then we'll have all the riches, the truth will accrue. The truth is a value, no riches can buy, So if you possess it, thank your Maker on high. Nations may falter, and kingdoms may fall; For lack of the truth, the Devil take all!!! Let's keep our loved ones in the bloom of their youth, Protect their rare virtues, just tell them the truth. —Glenn A. Gallagher

Few candidates have the experience and training he has. Successful in his own business, he is better able to succeed for the state. He can be depended upon to support what's good for Iowa including a civil rights bill which has been his program over the years.
