S.C. Minister Kidnapped in N.Y. Had Just Won Delay In Extradition Case

New York, N. Y.—A wife's screams for help here Friday foiled the bold daylight attempted kidnapping on a busy street of her minister-husband who had fled his southland home because he feared for his life. The victim, the Rev. Walter M. Cavers, 51, had just come from the courthouse where minutes before he had won a further delay in his case to fight extradition to South Carolina. He quoted one of his attackers as warning him:

"If you be quiet, we won't kill you here. We're going to lynch you."

Rev. Cavers said the second man said, "Don't kill him here. We'll kill him as soon as we get him out of here."

Extradition

Rev. Cavers has been fighting extradition to Rock Hill, S. C., where he is under sentence of 18 months for reckless driving in a traffic accident that killed a white man. Originally, a minister in Charlotte, N.C., Rev. Cavers on Mar. 18, 1958 was driving his car when it collided with another in York, S.C. and William S. Dickson, 83, was killed in the accident. After his conviction, Rev. Cavers was freed on $5,000 bond pending an appeal. When the appeal failed Rev. Cavers failed to report for beginning of his sentence and South Carolina authorities obtained a fugitive warrant.

Fled to N. Y.

Rev. Cavers, meanwhile, came to New York last May. His wife and daughter joined him here. The minister was picked up last month on the fugitive warrant. Extradition proceedings were begun by South Carolina but postponed the first time last Jan. 17 to permit an appeal to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. Rev. Cavers returned to court Friday and his lawyer asked a further delay, saying Rockefeller had not reached a decision. Judge Peter T. Farrell continued the minister in $3,500 bail and postponed his case to Feb. 23.

Gained Delay

After gaining the delay, Rev. Cavers had stepped from the courthouse to his car where he was set upon by his attackers who dragged him from his car, one of them punching him in the face while a second brandished a gun. A third man, said

E. FREDERIC MORROW

Morrow was named a special assistant to the manager of the city's Veterans Benefit office.

During his stay at the White House, Morrow earned $18,500 a year and was in charge of a special projects group.

Rev. Cavers was seated at the wheel of a station wagon, into which the pair sought to drag him. He said the station wagon had South Carolina license. Rev. Cavers said he recognized the pair as friends of the dead man. Rev. Cavers was assigned a bodyguard.

Among honored guests in Des Moines last weekend to attend the eighth annual Foreign Students Weekend was Dr. J. B. ored guest a Roosevelt club annual game dinner.

Named Special Presidential Assistant

Washington, D. C.—Frank D. Reeves, Democratic National Committeeman for the District of Columbia, has been appointed by President Kennedy to be a special Presidential assistant.

He has long been active in Democratic politics, serving in 1952 and 1956 on Governor Stevenson's Presidential campaign staffs. Reeves seconded Senator Kennedy's nomination and travelled with him throughout the campaign.

1st Negro

In May 1960 he was elected Democratic National Committeeman for the District of Columbia, becoming the first Negro to hold that position.

Reeves is Washington representative for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and since 1948 has served as a member of the National Legal Committee of the NAACP. Earlier, from 1940 to 1942, he was assistant to Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the NAACP.

Cum Laude

Reeves, 44, was born in Montreal, Canada, and came to the District of Columbia in 1928. He graduated cum laude from Howard University in 1936 and received his law degree from there in 1939. He has served on the staff of the University's law school at various periods since 1943.

High Court Asked to Strike Virginia Anti-Integration Law

Washington, D.C.—The NAACP went to the U.S. Supreme Court this week to challenge a Virginia state law that could break the back of the school integration movement. It would bar the NAACP from sponsoring any litigation.

The statute seeks to drive a wedge between Negro parents seeking integrated schooling for their children, as allowed by the High Court's 1954 school integration ruling, and their NAACP attorneys.

NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter emphasized that the Virginia statute not only jeopardizes NAACP interests, "but is adverse to sponsorship of litigation by any group."

Runner

Under the Virginia law being challenged, NAACP lawyers would face suspension and revocation of their licenses on grounds that they have received cases from a "runner" or a "capper." A "runner" or a "capper" according to the Virginia law, is "any person, corporation, partnership or association acting in any manner or capacity as an agent for an attorney."

NAACP Attorneys Carter and Oliver Hill, of Richmond, Va., argue in their petition, filed Jan. 31 that the state is using the guise of "regulating the practice of law" as an excuse to stop Negroes from seeking their constitutional rights.

Freedom

Messrs. Carter and Hill further argue that NAACP members have the right to freedom of association "and to take lawful action to secure the lawful objective of equal citizenship privileges for all persons without regard to their race."

"The NAACP is not a legal aid society," Attorneys Carter and Hill assert. "It does not give assistance to Negroes merely because they are Negroes or because they are indigent."

Not Essential

"Membership in the Association is not essential for aid to be forthcoming. The NAACP concerns itself solely with the validity of racial discrimination where resolution of the question involved may affect Negroes in general."

This represents one of the last legs of Virginia's "massive resistance" plan to thwart school integration. The plan was composed of a network of laws enacted in 1956, most of which have been struck down.

Commission Asks Power to Subpoena Witnesses in Cases Involving Rights Violations

In a resolution Wednesday, Feb. 1 the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights asked the city council to authorize subpoena powers for the group for hearings investigating alleged civil rights violations.

The action followed a statement by Edward E. Shelton, executive secretary of the commission, who told the group that he is powerless to uncover proof of violations of the city's rights ordinance without that power. Shelton said those whose testimony is essential need only disregard his request to appear in order to avoid testifying under rules now governing the commission.

Among executive board members attending the meeting will be Dr. R. P. Beshears of St. Joseph, Mo., and Dr. Richard Layne, of St. Louis, Mo., vice president elect of the organization.

Shelton pointed out that the city legal department has ruled that the city council may authorize subpoena power for the group for hearings involving violations of civil rights complaints.

Steering Committee

The commission also voted to authorize Shelton to organize a steering committee as the first step in organizing "broad-based public support" for a "fair housing practices" ordinance, which the commission proposes to recommend to the city council in April.

Commission Chairman Harold Goldman proposed that the rights group set up a plan whereby individuals

Major League Ball Clubs Ask Bias Dropped in Training Cities

Spurred by Demand of Negro Players; Hotel Owners Remain Silent

Miami, Fla.—Owners of major league baseball clubs who spring train in southern cities, went to bat this week for Negro players on their team who are denied hotel and dining room facilities.

President Dan Topping of the New York Yankees took the lead in the movement after Dr. Ralph Wimbush of St. Petersburg, Fla., a Negro leader there for several years, suggested it was time for the Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals to take steps to end segregation.

Yankees

In reply to Topping's proposal that the entire Yankee team should be housed under one roof, the manager and assistant manager of their headquarters hotel (Soreno) issued identical statements that "we hope to have them with us for many years to come." The Yankees' hotel and that occupied by the Cardinals are operated as part of a big chain. Its president was not available for comment. Another team was said to have cancelled reservations because of a ban on Negro guests.

100 Negroes

According to sources, Negro major leaguers, who will number about 100 this spring, are sick and tired of the daily insults and deplorable conditions which they are forced to live with from day to day in order to condition themselves for the regular summer season. They want action, he said, to insure that they will be accorded the same treatment as white ballplayers—to be able to sleep, eat and enjoy other privileges along with their teammates, instead of having to put up in flop houses, etc. Those who are married, especially, want equal treatment for themselves and their families.

Outspoken of Conditions

Many of them, including Elston Howard of the Yanks, have been outspoken in their dislike of these conditions. Why, for example, should major league teams extend their training schedule to towns like the one where one Negro major leaguer said he and other Negro players couldn't find a decent place to eat and were forced to buy a loaf of bread and some cold meat from a store in order to sustain themselves. Larry Doby, a farmer major leaguer and the first Negro to play in the American League, was typical of those holding this view, when he said: "In the early days—in the early 50s—we had the same feeling. At that time, however, we didn't think it was wise to bring up the question. But this is a new day, and the right time to bring it up."

Not NAACP

The Negro major leaguers, are not looking to the NAACP to solve their problems. They feel that the club owners, though not responsible for their plight, can bring more direct influence to bear upon the situation if they would act more firmly.

They could, for instance, demand equal treatment for all their ballplayers to Southern towns under the threat of moving to training bases with less restrictions, it is felt.

NAACP Appeals Case of Staff Members Arrested for Aiding Tennessee Negroes

Brownsville, Tenn.—Appeal of the breach of peace conviction of NAACP Field Secretary Phillip Savage, who was arrested while surveying needs of Haywood and Fayette County Negroes, comes up this week.

Savage was held incommunicado the night of January 26 following his arrest while questioning Negroes to determine to what extent they are registering to vote in these oppressed counties.

Deputy Sheriff George Sullivan charged that Savage, notebook in hand, was talking to Negroes lined up in front of the registrars' office and "causing confusion." The appeal will be heard Feb. 8.

Governor

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins wired Tennessee's Gov. Buford Ellington asking Savage's release. Gov. Ellington wired back

Nat Cole Cancels Sullivan Show Over Choice of Songs

New York—Nat King Cole, who cancelled an appearance on CBS-TV's "Ed Sullivan Show," for Sunday night January 29, said this week that he did so to protect his rights as an artist.

The famed song star, currently filling a personal appearance engagement in Boston, asked out of the weekly variety program, on Wednesday, January 25, when Sullivan and producer Bob Precht asked him to substitute a "better known song" for the new tune he had scheduled, song selection does not affect the continuity of the show.

"When a variety show begins to dictate what songs an artist of recognition and stature, can or cannot do, it is time for that artist to call a 'halt' to the proceedings," said Cole.

"I can understand the concern over song selections in a show with a theme, a 'special,' but I cannot reconcile the desire to force an artist to do only songs to a producers liking, on a variety program, where song selection does ????"

Groundhog day, 1961 surely will not be easily forgotten by most local Iowans since it turned out to be the day when the big snowfall of the season fell. According to tradition our little annual spring forecasting friend is supposed to be still above ground awaiting an early spring. Meanwhile, we can help the passing of time until spring by planning for our outdoor gardens or outdoor home recreation areas. And of course if you want to step into premature spring itself, visit the annual Home and Garden show which will be held at Veterans auditorium in a couple of weeks. That will make you blossom all over with ideas and spring-time vitality.

Speaking of spring outdoor gardening, naturally we have a few plans of our own that we would like to implement. Last year we had little opportunity to experiment with new flowers and hardly take care of our regular perennials. However, we did try out a few petunias and coleus to the right of our doorsteps and discovered that petunias, not only are easy to grow (from plant seedlings) but that they require very little care and can stand lots of hot sun. In addition they seem to bloom profusely all summermaking for an array of beautiful color when all others perhaps are in dormant stages or wilting from the excessive heat. So naturally this year we are anxious to try a larger bed of them.

You cannot help anticipating the first green shoot of spring flowers or shrubs. It is such a pronouncement of rejuvenated life after a period of rest.

After a 12-day stay in Lutheran hospital fighting bronchial pneumonia our baby, Valerie, who will be seven months Feb. 22, was released by the doctor and joined us again at home to the delight of our other youngsters. However, as for Valerie, she had to look everyone and everything over as she had forgotten the familiar faces and rooms in the house. This disappointed her brothers and sisters but they understood and worked hard at reminding her who they were and soon had her laughing again as of old.

Before we forget, we would like to remind all mid-year graduates who plan to have their pictures and writeups in our annual page Feb. 23, to do so as quickly as possible. We would appreciate your not waiting for the deadline, although you may take up to the time if you wish or need to do so.

In addition we may have unintentionally missed a graduating student from Des Moines Tech, who do not list students by race. If we missed anyone please contact us at once and we will be glad to talk to you. We are looking forward to a large group of graduates for our feature page, Feb. 23. But remember the deadline is Feb. 17.

IOWA GOVERNOR
ON HIGH GROUND

Speaking before the National Conference of Lutheran leaders at Ft. Wayne, Ind., Gov. Norman Erbe gave practical examples of "The Christian in Government" with particular reference to voting scandals in the last election, the denial of the ballot to voters because of their race and unwillingness of leaders to stand up and be counted against wrongdoing.

He said "Many Christian people have read with great concern about the tenant Negro farmers in Tennessee who apparently have been dispossessed because they sought to register to vote. Until relatively recently, the problems of denial of the ballot box to the Negro people have not been looked upon as a problem of particular concern to the Christian religion.

"I submit that this is of prime concern to the Christian in government. In the first place, equality of rights of man is a fundamental precept of Christianity.

"Today in New Orleans, the single man standing up for what he believes is morally right faces social and economic ostracism and possibly even physical danger to his person, home or business.

"I believe that the Christian in government has a duty to help secure equality of rights, and in particular, I believe that Christian in government should be concerned with the problem of the right of every American to vote, regardless of race, creed, or color.

"Not only is this important as a moral issue, but it is also important because as Americans we must be concerned with the fact that our entire foreign policy is affected by such problems."

Gov. Erbe takes a high ground on this important question of race relations. And he did so before lay leaders who, after all, pretty well make the policy of the church.

All too often, the church has handled this problem as a matter of charity rather than that one of according every man his human rights, complete freedom and equal opportunity to attain any heights to which one may aspire.

Even though much has been accomplished in race relations, results would come faster if men in high places offered more bold leadership in that direction. Fortunately, younger men today have had experience in schools and the army which gives them a different attitude toward all men with a result that vast changes have come about during the last decade.

Iowa governors have been slow to speak out boldly on the race question and thus provide the leadership necessary for a more progressive state in the field of human relation. Few have given proper representation to Negroes in the distribution of political consideration which, after all, speaks louder than words.

Gov. Erbe has made a good beginning by his utterances on human rights. We hope he continues so that others will not fear to speak out.

He seems to have translated this high ground into action at the state house by the appointment of William Parker as a member of the board of parole.

WHAT LINCOLN DID WAS IMPORTANT

Few Americans have been written and spoken about more than Abraham Lincoln. This has been done because, in spite of the division between the people over slavery, he held the union together and abolished human bondage. Much of what he said and accomplished was not appreciated until later years.

In an effort to sell their cause against integration, some of the southern states have been financing the White Citizens' Councils which send speakers to northern communities to spread their hatred. (Some Iowa communities have been guilty of inviting their unAmerican messengers.) Some of these speakers have taken a few isolated remarks Lincoln made showing that he favored the separation of the races, all of which were made prior to the adoption of the fourteenth amendment.

Even if Lincoln did favor the separation of the races, the important thing is that he abolished slavery thus started the Negro on the way toward becoming a first class citizen.

Of course, like Lincoln's speeches, this freedom has grown here and elsewhere for human dignity of all men in the hearts of people everywhere and thus those living where this is denied or abridged are restless.

As we come to another birthday of Lincoln, February 12, it is important that his Gettysburg address be read again and again and the great admonition in it be followed as a guide in dealing with one another.

Guydon Fires Bulldogs
To 86-76 Win Over
No. 3 Bradley Braves

By Staff Writer

Peoria, Ill.—Gus Guydon caught fire Monday night and the blaze spread to his teammates as the Bulldogs defeated No. 3 Bradley 86-76. In doing so Guydon racked up 35 points in shaking a slump that had shackled him the past several games.

Furthermore, Drake wrote a little history of its own by ending a 46-game streak of Bradley on their own home court. In addition, Guydon received help from teammates, especially

Gus Guydon
Slump Ends, and How!

lally Jerry Foster who totaled 24 points. Chet Walker scored 30 points for Bradley.

Bradley's defeat will probably topple them from their share of the lead and likely will give the conference crown to Cincinnati.

Whatever else we were going to write about will have to wait until next week. The Drake upset of Bradley on the latter's home court where they hadn't lost in three years would just about be the top news of the week.

Listening to the game on the radio we got the impression that it was wild and rough in the closing minutes. We guessed that Marv Torrence, who played a great defensive game must have stayed about halfway down the court and cut off those fast break passes. Then Gus Guydon's 35 points didn't hurt a bit. This guy Walker for Bradley played himself quite a game, too. Well, the Bulldogs don't need to win another one all season. That was their season, beating Bradley at Peoria.

Iowa Hawks

Iowa got done in by Cincinnati who is fast becoming one of the nation's best teams and might get it again at Indiana this weekend.

Iowa State's victory sure ought to rate some all-star teams, in spite of the Cyclone record. The Drake-Iowa State game wasn't the best played game we ever saw, but one of the most exciting.

Boxing

This is really larceny. The National Boxing something or other takes away Archie Moore's light heavyweight crown and gives it to a man Moore has beaten four times. They took away the title because Archie Moore hadn't signed to fight the guy a fifth time. Those mental giants dethroned Ray Robinson and then had two guys he had already beaten fight for his title. Actually, most of the writers who saw the Robinson-Fullmer fight say Robinson beat the trunks off Gene and will probably do it again.

Ray made the fight fathers look a little better by his rather sorry showing against Paul Pender who may be tougher than most of us think. And in the meantime heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson and ex-heavyweight champ Ingemar Johansson get ready for their date to see who is the ex-champ this time. Ought to be an interesting bout, to say the least.

MOORE

Willkie House Loses
To Minneapolis, 81-63

A game but unlucky Willkie House basketball team lost their initial tilt with Phyllis Wheatley House of Minneapolis, Minn., here Saturday evening, 81-63.

The Willkie House team will seek revenge on Feb. 18 in a return game in which they hope to duplicate the same dishonor on the Minneapolis five on their home courts at Minneapolis.

A chartered bus will take the team and others wishing to make the trip. Round trip fare is $9 and one way is $5. Anyone under 17 years must be accompanied by parent or other adult.

Archie Moore and
Poitier To Star
In Fight Film

Hollywood—The money will stay in the family for light heavyweight boxing champion Archie Moore and actor Sidney Poitier, who have been assigned starring roles in the upcoming fight picture, "The Iron Man", for Columbia Pictures.

Archie is brother-in-law to Poitier by virtue of his marriage to the latter's sister, Joan Hardy.

In the flick, Archie portrays a boxer, while Sidney plays his manager.

German Sprinter
Who Snubbed
Owens Suspended

New York—Armin Hary, the cocky German sprinter who snubbed former Olympic champion Jesse Owens after Hary had broken Owens' long-standing record in the 100 meters event at the 1960 Olympics at Rome last summer, was suspended by German sports authorities recently, the Associated Negro Press learned.

Suspended Year

Hary was suspended for a year for padding his expense accounts. It was learned also, that there was talk that the International Olympic Committee would demand the return of the two gold medals Hary won at Rome. However, there was no official word on the latter and it is likely that Hary would be permitted to keep his laurels.

Recall Owens Incident

Hary was charged with saying "I haven't the time to fool with him," when told by a newspaperman that Owens, the three gold medal winner at the 1946 Olympics, was visiting Villaggio Olimpico and wanted to interview him. Owens, who lives in Chicago, was "covering" the Olympics for the Chicago American, a daily newspaper.

Later, Hary sought out Owens and apologized for his rudeness, but the damage was already done.

Owens, who confided that he doesn't like Hary, was not misled when Armin recanted. He recognized the apology as a face-saving gesture spurred by pressure from a higher

Cannot Enroll at Iowa
State Until Next Fall;
Works in Des Moines

Ames, Ia.—Vinnie Brewer appeared before the committee on student conduct last Wednesday, Feb. 1, and heard the decision to prevent his re-enrollment at Iowa State University before the fall quarter, 1961.

An outstanding basketball player last year, Brewer has not been in school this quarter after he and Fred Capalongo, a freshman wrestler, pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. Capalongo did not appear the committee. Brewer has been living and working in Des Moines.

Floyd Patterson
Loses To Palmer
For Hickok Belt

Rochester, N. Y.—Although he made boxing history by becoming the first man to regain the heavyweight title, Floyd Patterson of New York was voted a distant second to golf champion Arnold Palmer in a poll of sports writers and broadcasters for the 1960 Hickok Belt.

$10,000 Belt

The $10,000 diamond-studded belt is awarded annually to the professional athlete of the year. Palmer won the U. S. Open and Masters Golf championship during 1960. He is a resident of Latrobe, Pa. He received the award at the annual dinner of the Rochester Press and Radio Club.

The overwhelming majority of the writers and broadcasters who voted in the poll is white, as is Palmer. Patterson, of course, is a Negro.

No Pay Increase
For Sad Sam Jones

San Francisco—Although he was the biggest winner on the San Francisco Giants pitching staff the past two years, right-hander Sam Jones failed to get an increase in salary in his new 1961 contract.

The Giants announced that the curve-balling ace, who won 18 games last season, had returned his signed contract. It is estimated that he will receive $25,000, about the same amount he received last year.

Jones won 21 games in 1959, but last season he saw service more often. The Giants "work horse," he doubled both as starter and reliever. On an average, he pitched with only two days rest between assignments.

Dixie's First Judge

Miami, Fla.—Miami's Municipal Judge L. E. Thomas, and retired police officers Clyde Lee and Alexander McDowell of the Miami Police Force, were honored by the Adolphus Club of Miami last week. Judge Thomas cited in recognition of outstanding service as the first Negro judge of the city of Miami, had the first Negro to become a judge in the entire south.

A bit of prose... a line or two of poetry... a letter now and then to express thoughts in the minds of our many readers.

THERE IS GOD

There is God... in all things
In the Spirit of Life that unifies nature
In the seed and the soil.
All through every drop of the ceaseless sea:
The heart of a maid, or the lamb on a hill,
There is God.
In the wild wide places, where the wind blows free
And the concrete jungles, walled with masonry:
On the stark, bare deserts; where grim death
Is night, there is God.

AND NOW I CAN SEE

And now I can see, what the world will not learn;
That there's more to this living than what you can earn.
There are pleasures and palaces, no treasure can buy;
More precious than rubies, is our future on high.
I've crossed all the oceans and sailed every sea;
And all of the countries are well-known to me.
No language nor color can alter one fact;
Each race and each nation, there's one thing they lack.
Though each had some god that they worshipped each day,

They did not have peace nor knew how to pray.
The sad state of man was a puzzle to me,
Until I found Jesus, and NOW I CAN SEE.

Thoughts for Today

Poise is a big factor in a man's success. It can be developed.—F. Edson White.

It is never too late to do the right and the wise thing.—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

Be civil to all; sociable to many; familiar with few; friend to one; enemy to none.—Benjamin Franklin.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Going Up?

You slide the thermometer under your tongue, hold it there for three minutes, take it out and check to see how far up the mercury has gone. 99.4°! Horrors, fever? Not necessarily. There isn't any one normal temperature may differ from one person to another, and for the same person at different times of the day. There's a normal range from about 97.2° to 99.5°. Temperature is lowest early in the morning, highest in the late afternoon.

Brain Injury

You can't tell your temperature by the way you feel. You can have a fever and feel chilled for a while, rather than hot.

With the exception of fever following brain injury, heart attack, sunstroke, there's no need to take anything to bring down a fever. The ordinary kind of fever which follows infection can't hurt you, and it often helps a doctor follow the course of an illness. Fever has a purpose. It prods the body into producing more white blood cells and antibodies to fight germs. There's also some reason to believe that fever increases production of the hormone ACTH, which helps the body combat the stress of infection.

Fed and Watered

A fever should be fed and watered, not starved. Fever hikes metabolism, increases the need for food and fluids, so easily digested foods are in order.

No need to pile on the blankets and heat up the room. The body's trying to get rid of the extra heat. Why make it tough? Fever calls for a cool room and light covering.

Ordered To Rent To Negro

Boston—The Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination ordered Anthony J. Colangelo, owner of Glen Meadow Apartments, to rent an apartment to Maurice Fowler or face contempt of court charges. In August, Fowler, a contract negotiator for the United States Air Force, was refused an apartment allegedly because he was a bachelor. On the same day several white CORE testers, also bachelors, were offered apartments. Fowler then filed a complaint with the MCAD.

Negro Nurses

Nashville—The last hope of maintaining a training school for Negro nurses in this state died last week. The State Department of Education turned down a request that the Meharry Nursing School be taken over by Tennessee A&I State University, two Davidson County legislators reported. Sen. Tom McGrath and Rep. Thomas H. Shriver said Joe Morgan, state commissioner of education, told them that no money was available at this time for the state to operate a nursing school for Negroes.
