She plays on a tennis team and will participate in the Hilltop Des Moines Open tourney next week. Her hobbies are swimming and sewing. She has an older sister, Rhoda, who is a junior at Drake university.

Plan Sunday Luncheon

All persons interested in Polk County History are cordially invited to a get acquainted (dutch style) luncheon in the Indian Room, Bishop's Cafeteria, 711 Locust St. at 1 o'clock p.m., Sunday, July 30th.

Rules Iowa Cities Cannot
Legally Pass Anti-Bias
Law for Private Housing

Civil rights leaders in Des Moines were dealt a severe blow Monday when Iowa Atty. Gen. Evan L. Hultman ruled that cities in Iowa have no legal right to ban discrimination in private housing.

Hultman pointed out that neither the state housing law nor the general police powers granted to cities "constitute sufficient basis for enactment" of such ordinance.

Rights Commission

Chief backers for the anti-bias ordinance for private housing in Des Moines has been the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights. Edward E. Shelton, its executive secretary, declined comment until he has had a chance to read Hultman's opinion. However, the Commission's drive for a private housing ordinance had received firm, public support from many civic and church leaders and groups in the city.

Denman

When the Commission had repeatedly asked the city council to pass such an ordinance banning bias in private housing, and with the snowballing support it received from the public, the city in turn, through State Representative William F. Denman (Dem., Des Moines) asked Hultman for an opinion on the legality of the proposal.

Cannot Enact

"The city of Des Moines cannot enact an ordinance relating to matters of discrimination in the sale, rental, leasing or financing of private property without express statutory enabling legislation," the attorney general said.

"This doesn't in any way deal with the merits of the question," Hultman explained. "It is merely the legal matters involved. My staff and I are as opposed to discrimination as anyone else."

Federal Law

Hultman pointed out that discrimination is prohibited by federal law in urban renewal and public housing projects as a condition to federal aid. Des Moines has an anti-discrimination ordinance for urban renewal.

The human rights commission sought to go further in order to cover all private housing in the city. Rights spokesmen urged the council to make an official declaration against discrimination, regardless of state and federal requirements.

Hultman said all cities in the country that have such anti-discrimination ordinances are in states which have specifically provided such authority or which have home rule

60,000 Negroes Resume
Shopping in Savannah after 15
Month-No Buying Drive

Savannah, Ga.—This city's 60,000 Negro citizens began shopping in 18 downtown stores this week after an absence of 15 months, marking a high point in NAACP history here.

The "no buying" drive, sponsored by the NAACP, was launched in March of last year after several Negro students had been arrested for staging sit-ins against segregated lunch counters. These counters have now been integrated.

Lunch Counters

A citizens committee, appointed by Mayor Malcolm Maclean, negotiated with NAACP officials under leadership of W. W. Law, president of the local and state NAACP units. Law also serves on the Association's National Board of Directors. A settlement opening the lunch counters to all customers was agreed upon.

Mrs. Mercedes Wright, co-chairman of the "Committee for Withholding Retail Patronage" reported that the Negro community is "extremely happy" and that 3,000 attended the victory mass meeting at St. Phillip's AME Church last week.

By Products

The 15-month NAACP drive in this 228 year old seaport city, the population of which is one-third Negro, has had many by-products:

—Negro voter registration is climbing and now stands at 12,500.

—Two Negro bus drivers have been hired for the first time.

—Jim Crow signs have been removed from buses.

—NAACP members have seated themselves in the front of buses without incident, thereby encouraging the rest of the Negro community to follow suit.

—City park facilities have been opened on a non-segregated basis following arrest of seven Negroes for playing basketball in previously all-white Macon Park. This action followed an NAACP petition of protest.

City Council

—Rev. Oliver W. Holmes, NAACP official (uncle of Hamilton E. Holmes, first Negro to enroll at the University of Georgia) was named by the city council to a five-man park commission.

—One downtown variety store has

A lovelier summer with pleasing temperatures and abundant sunshine, could not be boasted in Des Moines than this year. It has been ideal for picnics, park outings and travel, and Iowans have taken full advantage of them. Just a little sad note though, it is hard to believe that only a month remains now before youngsters will have to trek back to their school rooms and books. If it is possible we think they have enjoyed the summer and out-of-doors the most, as only youngsters can.

Among those making a trip to Lake Aquabi last Sunday for picnic and fun on the beach were Linda Walker, 1131 9th street, and a group of relatives and friends. She has also been among the hundreds of teen-agers who have been attending summer school. Let's hope August will be as pleasant and summery as these past two months, so they will be able to relax and enjoy themselves before having to return to the process of advancing their educational knowledge.

Another summer event has been the weekly singing program, known as the "Community Sing," at Greenwood park. According to reports from Negro residents who have attended, very few Negroes patronize the musical events. This Sunday evening the well known Richard Allen chorus of St. Paul A.M.E. Church will participate. It would be well to make plans to go and support this musically talented group. See front page for story.

Mrs. Rosa E. Mrs. Cason, unconscious on the floor of her home and had to rush her to the hospital where she was critically ill. Mrs. Cason is now convalescing at the home of her mother.

Omitted from the list of persons extending Mmes. Cason and R. Wilton courtesies during their California visit were Mrs. Audrey Herbert and Mrs. Delores Hemphill who took the Iowans on a picnic, sightseeing tour of Hollywood, Chinatown, and Griffith park and luncheon at Ferndale park.

When we wrote the story on Miss Carole Kennerly winning the National Foundation scholarship we learned that Mrs. Luther T. Glanton, Jr., is also a member of the local committee of he foundation which selects and send in names of aspirants for the scholarships. She is the only Negro on the group.

Did you see the picture of the news carriers who were ready to board a bus for a tour which they won for their outstanding salesmanship as news carriers? There was a Negro youth among the group. If

IOWA'S CIVIL RIGHTS COMMISSION

Considering Gov. Norman Erbe's selection of members of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission, the makeup as well as their residence are significant. From a standpoint of race and geographical location all groups and sections of the state are represented: business, labor, the clergy, education, public officials and lay people who are in a position to bring the body views which cover every segment of Iowa life.

It is especially helpful that many of these people come from areas where there are no Negroes. And it is in these areas where it has been difficult to get people to realize the necessity of positive action—particularly in the legislature—when matters involving civil rights are under consideration.

At the first meeting, an executive committee was appointed but unfortunately, no Negroes are included on it. This is a mistake and it should be remedied. The late Bishop Jones of the Methodist Church once said "I am suspicious of any meeting called for my benefit to which I am not invited." Most of the problems the committee will face involve Negroes and without them in on matters officially, action satisfactory to that group can not be adequately considered without the benefit of their counsel.

While this commission has no staff or funds with which to operate, the governor has agreed to supply some of this from his own staff. The By-stander congratulates the governor on his excellent selection of membership, hopes for the best and stands willing and ready to cooperate when and if needed.

RETARDING EFFORTS FOR HOUSING ORDINANCE

Atty. General Hultman, in an opinion rendered at the request of Rep. Denman of Polk County, ruled that cities and towns in Iowa did not have the authority to pass ordinances barring discrimination in private housing. Such provision is already included in urban renewal where federal funds are involved.

While this is but an opinion of the attorney general—which may or may not hold water before the supreme court—it has served to retard the efforts of those who have spearheaded the movement for such an ordinance. It has taken some members of the city council off the hook by offering the excuse of why pass a law which the chief lawyer for the state says such a law would be invalid.

The attorney general pointed out that this opinion had nothing to do with the merits of such an ordinance or the views of his office as to whether such a law is needed.

It is peculiar that it requires so much hedging and ducking to get something done to stop racial discrimination; or to get public officials to stand up to be counted when the chips are down. If this is law, of course we shall abide by it. But we shall always feel that the request for an opinion was instigated by forces who don't want any such ordinance on the books. Of course, this is their privilege as American citizens, and no man should be denied the right to take such legal steps as the law permits in order to protect his rights.

WHY NOT WORK FOR RELIEF?

The Polk County board of supervisors is studying a proposal that able bodied people on relief be required to perform some type of work in return for their grants in aid. Rising costs due to lack of employment and the practice of some chislers to get something for nothing have prompted the study.

Aid to people who are unemployed must go on; aid to dependent children likewise. And the fact that some people abuse these programs is no good reason to discontinue them.

On the other hand, there are many people today without jobs—mostly unskilled—who must look to the state for sustenance. There is no good reason why these people should not be required to earn their grant by performing some type of work not in competition with the normal labor market.

Des Moines covers a lot of ground, has many ugly sights including alleys which, if cleaned up, would add much to the beauty of the city. Walnut Woods park, a good recreational center, is not being used because it is too expensive to maintain. It needs a cleaning up. Projects like these would be valuable to the taxpayer and provide a means of letting a fellow earn his keep.

We have heard several people argue that too many Negro baseball players aren't welcome in the American league. Some of the arguments sounds convincing and we have just listened although we would have to admit that the American league roster of Negro players doesn't come close to that of the National. We clipped an article from Time Magazine that gives those who argue along those lines something to yell about. Thought you might like to read it.

Time Mag Article
Since the Brooklyn Dodgers brought Jackie Robinson up from their Montreal farm club in 1947 to break major league baseball's color bar, the National League has had a virtual corner on talented Negro players. Seven of its top ten batters, its top four home-run hitters, is top four in runs-batted-in are colored; the American League has but one Negro among its top ten batters, New York's Elston Howard, none among the leaders in the other two categories. Though Negroes make up roughly 17% of the 200 players on National League rosters, this year's All-Star squad is 36% Negro. Last week, in the 30th All-Star game, their speed and power gave the underdog National League a 5-4 victory over the American League. Negroes rapped out nine of the National League's eleven hits, batted in five runs, scored all five as well.

Clemente
The first baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals, is joined by the Red Birds' Roberto Clemente and a sacrifice fly by Bill White of St. Louis, the second on Clemente's sacrifice fly (scoring San Francisco's Willie Mays), the third on a pinch home run by Chicago's George Altman. The American League tied the game in the ninth when howling winds turned the contest in San Francisco's Candlestick Park into a Little League affair—here were a record seven errors, a passed ball and a balk—and went ahead 4-3 in the tenth on an unearned run. But when Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm went to the mound, four Negro batters pushed across two runs to win the game before anybody was out. Milwaukee's Hank Aaron lashed a pinch single to center. Mays doubled him home. After Wilhelm hit Cincinnati's Frank Robinson with a pitch, Clemente lined a sharp single to right, and Willie Mays jogged across the plate. It was the third straight All-Star victory for the National League—and a good reason for the American League to recruit more Negro talent.

Boxing
Watched Cassius Clay, Olympic champ in his talented debut last weekend. The young man is 19 years old and gives himself two years to dethrone Floyd Patterson or whoever holds the heavyweight crown at that time. From what we saw last Saturday night young Clay had better hurry if he intends to keep his schedule. First he has to get a knockout punch. Then he has to shed a lot of amateurish habits that will probably get his block knocked off. Maybe he will make it.

vate housing. The state housing law which sets out standards and provisions for housing goes into such detail that it covers "the color of basement walls." Hultman said, but it makes no reference to discrimination in housing.

TIED TY COBB'S RECORD

St. Louis, Mo.—Bill White, star first baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals, is joined by the Red Birds' Roberto Clemente and a sacrifice fly by Bill White of St. Louis, the second on Clemente's sacrifice fly (scoring San Francisco's Willie Mays), the third on a pinch home run by Chicago's George Altman.

Bill, stellar first baseman for the Cardinals, led his team in sweeping two double headers from the Chicago Cubs, by tying two records. He garnered 14 hits for the four games tying the 45 year old record set by the late and great Ty Cobb.

And what's more—he only had a 45 minute nap in 24 hours to do it on. The Cardinals took the four games playing in two successive nights.

In slamming out the 14 hits, White raised his batting average to .317 and ninth in the league's list of leading hitters.

White lost his sleep when the first twin-biller went to 1 a.m. and by the time he got to bed it was 3 o'clock. Knowing he had to get up early to conduct a baseball clinic he couldn't sleep. At the clinic, Bill instructed until noon, had lunch and then went to the park. He had his 45 minute nap on a training table before taking the field for pre-game practice.

White's two day record included one home run, two triples, two doubles and nine singles.

HERE'S YOUR BOUQUET

Give them now: today, "the wise man said,
"Blooms to the living, God blest the dead."
To all those who care for the ill and the lame
Helping, soothing, and easing their pain:
Through the long, long hours, of a critical night
Their faith, love and skills, all enter the fight.
As they work in the wards and the rooms of the place,
Deft hands, soft words, warm smiles light each face:

Surely, the Lord . . . Our Saviour above, has filled
These dear hearts, with His bountiful love.
An armful of roses, a bouquet of verse
To the doctors, the aides, to each lovely nurse
And to all those who serve: these words I must say,
Blessings on all of you. Here's your bouquet.
—Glenn A. Gallagher
