Iowa Power Features Betty Furness As New Service and Idea Center Is Opened

Betty Furness, one of the nation's best known women in television, Wednesday highlighted Iowa Power and Light Company's second day of continuing open house at the firm's new Service and Idea Center in downtown Des Moines. Miss Furness greeted all visitors in the main exhibition area of the Iowa Power headquarters building at 823 Walnut Street from 1:30 to 4 p.m. She is appearing as another "main event" in the utility firm's week-long schedule of public activities surrounding rededication of its remodeled building.

Miss Furness will act as master of ceremonies for public presentation of the latest ideas in kitchen planning and appliances. Twenty-two displays of Westinghouse equipment are being shown in actual home settings at Iowa Power's first-floor Service and Idea Center.

Background

Long established as a television personality, Betty Furness in 1952 was named the nation's outstanding woman announcer, and was cited as the "Woman of the Year" by Variety magazine, following her TV activities at the Republican and Democratic conventions that year.

She now moderates a daily New York television panel show, "At Your Beck and Call," for WNTA-TV, and also carries out promotional activities for Westinghouse Electric Corporation, her first sponsor.

Force Mother, Children To Live in One Room

New York—A mother and five children are reportedly living in one room in Brooklyn because they were evicted from their quarters at the Army base and were unable to find living quarters elsewhere.

Mrs. Cora L. Harris and her five children, ages 1 through 10, were packed and ready to sail to Germany with her husband, Sgt. Floyd Harris, when she was told at the last minute she could not accompany him.

Mrs. Harris returned to their quarters at the Army base in Ft. Eustis, Va., only to be evicted. She has contacted agencies that aid soldiers' wives, but to no avail. She has been refused living quarters because she has five children.

Criticized by Both Sides For 'Statements' After He Reinstated Letter Carrier

New York—Responding sharply to Postmaster General J. Edward Day's attack upon W. W. Law, Savannah mailman and president of the Georgia State NAACP, Association officials and friends this week denounced the cabinet officer as unfit for his high office.

Reprimanding

In a statement released on Oct. 24 announcing re-instatement of Mr. Law who had been dismissed from the postal service on trumped-up charges, the Postmaster General said he was "severely" reprimanding the letter carrier and reinstating him with "great regret" in order to avoid making a "martyr" of him.

"I would not want a person with Law's record of conduct delivering mail to my family's home," he said. He further charged Mr. Law's supporters in Congress were motivated by "political reasons."

Cleared of Four

The Postmaster General acted after a departmental grievance com-

Describing himself as a civil rights leader, not an actor, Dr. King told newsmen here that the role "could not be of any significance in advancing civil rights."

Lawrence, Kans.—More than 50 Negro students marched to the office of Chancellor W. Clarke Wesco during the noon hour recently to lodge a protest against the University of Kansas housing policy.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Field foundation recently awarded a grant of $40,000 to a center for training of Negro leadership, set up in McIntosh, Ga., by the Southern Leadership Conference.

St. Louis, Mo.—Chester E. Stovall, who came to St. Louis, in 1934 to start a Negro newspaper, took the oath of office last week as the city's director of welfare. He is believed to be the first Negro to hold a top cabinet office here.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Electors of the 10th District initiated recall proceedings against Councilman Joseph Hollingsworth last week.

Detroit — William "Wild Bill" Owens, an atomic age cowboy, is only 23 years old but he has already chalked up six years along the national rodeo circuit. He is the only Negro cowboy in Michigan.

Bill Doggett to Headline 4-F Twilight Dance at Val Air Ballroom on December 3

The Fighting Fund for Freedom committee of the Des Moines Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will sponsor its annual Twi-light dance at the Val-Air ballroom on Sunday evening, Dec. 3. Bill Doggett and his band will highlight the evening's entertainment and provide dancing music, which is open to the public.

The quota of $1,000 set by the national office, has been accepted by the local branch, which has successfully met its quota in previous years.

Segregation Fight

Money raised for the Four F fund assists in the fight segregation in the south, north, east and west. "Segregated" and "Desegregated" have different meanings in different communities. When the sign reads "reserved for Negro patrons," it is an insult to the Negro. In Prince Edwards county, Virginia, where Negro children have had no formal edu-mittee had cleared Law of four of the five charges against him and on the fifth had recommended only a reprimand. The committee, after a hearing on Sept. 29, by a 2 to 1 vote, decided that the charges did not warrant dismissal. Nevertheless, J. W. Askew, the Post Office Department's regional director in Atlanta, rejected the findings of the grievance committee and sustained Mr. Law's discharge. An appeal then was submitted to the Postmaster General.

Disdain

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins denounced the Postmaster General's attack upon Law as "unconscionable and unprecedented disregard for the record in the case. It reflects Day's contempt for Negroes as well as disdain of fair play. In light of this action, it is apparent that he is no longer an asset to the Kennedy Administration."

Vicious Statement

The Postmaster General's statement was branded as "vicious, insulting and misleading" by NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter who, together with NAACP attorneys Frank D. Reeves and J. Francis Pohlhaus of Washington, represented Mr. Law at the departmental hearing.

"If Law is as unfit for service as the Postmaster General alleges, the charges against him should have been sustained," Carter said. "Not to do so is cowardly and dishonorable." The NAACP general counsel expressed the opinion that Day's statement had raised "grave doubts as to his suitability for the cabinet post he holds."

Smear Tactics

In Washington, Clarence Mitchell, director of the Association's Washington bureau, charged that Day "now reveals that he will use his cabinet post to smear the reputation of a mail carrier who dares to take a stand against discrimination. Day shows by his action that he is unfit for the office he holds."

Sit-in Case Argued before Supreme Court

Asks Reversal of Louisiana Convictions Against 16 Students

Washington—The staid and historic chamber of the U. S. Supreme Court was the scene last Thursday of oral argument on the first southern "sit-in" cases which the Court has agreed to review.

The cases involve conviction of 16 Negro students in three lunch counter demonstrations in Baton Rouge, La.

Asks Reversal

Jack Greenberg, NAACP Legal Defense Fund General Counsel, asked the Court to reverse the Louisiana convictions. The students were arrested for breach of the peace in April, 1960, and sentenced to 30 days in jail plus a $100 fine, or, in lieu of the fine, another 90 days.

The Supreme Court chamber was filled with interested spectators, including U. S. Solicitor-General Archibald Cox and NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins. John Johnson of Cullen, La., and Kenneth L. Johnson of Baton Rouge, La., two of the arrested "sit-inners," were present. They are both currently attending Howard University in Washington, D. C.

No Substantiation

Greenberg told the Court that the Louisiana trial court record did not substantiate a charge of "breach of the peace" in any of the cases. He contended that the students were arrested by Baton Rouge police Captain Robert Weiner, who "operated a flying police squad" which made arrests in these cases simply because the Negro students were sitting at lunch counter reserved for whites.

Greenberg argued that such arrests were "essentially state action to maintain and preserve racial segregation, and such use of state power is expressly prohibited by the Fourteenth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution."

WILKINS GETS PLAQUE FROM KANSAS NAACP

Topeka, Kans.—A plaque honoring his 30 years of service with the NAACP has been presented to Secretary Roy Wilkins by Dr. C. B. Roque, more, state president, in behalf of the Kansas units of the NAACP.

Wilkins, addressing the final session of the state convention here on Oct. 22, told the predominantly Topeka audience that the famous 1954 school desegregation decision, known officially as "Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka, Kansas, 347 U.S. 483" had been a second Emancipation Proclamation.

He said that although Topekans had the honor of naming the famous case through alphabetical luck, they should be "proud of the impact their effort and that of the plaintiffs in the other four cases has had upon the fight for equality here and throughout the world."

DuBois Library Given To Fisk

Nashville—An 1889 graduate of Fisk University, Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, has made a gift of his private library and personal papers to his alma mater.

DuBois, first Negro to receive a Ph.D. from Harvard university—in 1896—came to international attention when he took issue with Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee Institute, over the role of Negroes in the U.S.

The collection consists of six steel files of manuscript material, unpublished writings, letters; several large boxes of pamphlets and rare fugitive publications collected over three-quarters of a century, some 2,000 books, many of which are out of print, and scores of miscellaneous items.

High Court Acts to Assure NAACP Trial in Alabama

New York—One more step toward returning to activity in the State of Alabama was made possible this week by a ruling of the U. S. Supreme Court that Alabama courts must give the NAACP a hearing by Jan. 2 or Federal courts will hear the case.

The NAACP has been barred since 1956 from soliciting members or contributions or from carrying on any program of activity in Alabama. A temporary injunction halting the NAACP was issued by a state court, but since June 1, 1956, the state courts have refused to hold a hearing on the merits of the case.

State's Frustration

Robert L. Carter, general counsel of the NAACP, who devised the attack and directed the strategy in the Alabama case, commented that the latest Supreme Court ruling on Oct. 23 is one "to make certain that state authorities do not continue to frustrate the NAACP's five-year effort to test the legality of the injunction."

Heads Book Drive

Ike Smalls, well known civic leader, who has won numerous awards and honors for volunteer service, has been named chairman of a "Books for Israel" committee. The committee hopes to collect 5,000 books on such subjects as chemistry, biology, physics, history, scientific philosophy and the like.

SMALLS

Smalls, a national vice president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is also life membership chairman for the Des Moines NAACP, and State Conference of Branches and honorary life member of the state board.

Paul Thompson, president of Iowa Power, "because she symbolizes the American woman's desire for the newest and best in home appliances. Our initial exhibition is dedicated to presenting just such ideas to the people of Iowa."

Expanded Service

Thompson emphasized that expanded services to the community and to each of the firm's 171,766 electric customers and 92,437 gas customers will be reflected in a continuing series of displays and exhibitions.

1921 Ruling

In calling for Alabama to give the NAACP a hearing, the high court cited a 1921 ruling which asserted: "The [Constitution] requires that every man shall have the protection of his day in court and the benefit of the general law—a law which hears before it condemns, which proceeds not arbitrarily or capriciously but upon inquiry, and renders judgment only after trial."

Significant Victory

The Supreme Court ruling was hailed by NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins as "a significant victory in the Association's struggle for survival against the determined assault of the Dixiecrats. It is a great tribute to the skill, persistence and sagacity of Robert L. Carter, our general counsel, who has three times carried this case to the Supreme Court despite the apprehension of some who thought it a fruitless undertaking."

POSTMASTER

Law, was a witness at the hearing before the departmental grievance committee. He testified that he had been informed by a high postal official that Mr. Law was going to be discharged even before formal charges had been made against him.

N. J. Senator

To Senator Clifford Case (R., N.J.) the Postmaster General's statement was "shocking, offensive to decency and utterly without regard for fair play . . . a cruel, deliberate effort to besmirch without justification."

The New Jersey Senator, acting promptly on Sept. 15, the day of the dismissal, called upon the Postmaster General for "an immediate report on the circumstances leading to Law's dismissal." In his statement this week Senator Case indicated that he intended to pursue the case further.

Regional Director

Meanwhile in Atlanta, Mrs. Ruby Hurley, NAACP regional director, charged that the Postmaster General appears to be "sympathetic to those who would deny Negroes their rights and supports those who would use repressive, retaliatory measures against Negroes who dare resist oppression . . . He is hardly the type of man to fill a responsible cabinet position in these times."

The current exhibition will be open to the public for the next two months.

CITY LIVING

OFFERS ADVANTAGES

When our family moved to the city, I found the responsibility of the "big city" parent essentially the same as that of a parent in a rural community. The parent is still accountable for the over-all growth and development of his children.

Harry, our oldest son, found city children to be far more alert than his old friends raised in a rural environment. He also found that city children knew more about the country than he had thought.

Surrounded by Words

Our children found themselves surrounded by words—in daily newspapers, on magazine stands, in large libraries, and through a wide selection of radio and TV stations. Stimulated by this, they began to read more and seemed to progress much faster than they would have if we had remained in a rural environment.

Lacking the open spaces of the country did not seem to provide a handicap for our children. Mary, for example, found the YWCA, Girl Scouts, public recreation centers and church youth organizations more than enough to occupy her time.

Continuity

We concluded that the initial move to the city may hinder a child's sense of continuity, but that, in the long run, the city provides an atmosphere highly conducive to good child development.

For further information on this subject, I recommend reading "Understanding the City Child," by Dorothy Barclay.

Mrs. Alexander Is Recovering at Home

Mrs. A. A. Alexander, 2220 Chautauqua Parkway, is recovering from a sprained wrist caused by a fall at her home. She was confined in Mercy Hospital.

After raining buckets and buckets of rainwater, the weather cleared up and presented an ideal night for the waves and waves of ghosts, and goblins, beggars and all little roving people on Trick or Treat night here Monday.

For many it was a packed day. In the afternoon there were the annual Halloween costume parades around the schools in the brisk air and then back to the school rooms for the party surprises that various home room mothers had prepared in their brief absence. Mrs. Jackie Taylor and your truly did the honors for the enthusiastic third grade pupils of Mrs. Wilma Johannsen at Nash school.

They began to rove early that night in search of sweet treasures offered by householders. Unlike last year, when prepared treats in many homes in our neighborhood, went begging, there was such a large influx of "begging" youngsters that many soon ran out in less than an hour, and had to replenish by going to a neighborhood store.

The masks and costumes were in most cases, original, and in some, very unusual. We accompanied our three youngsters on their rounds, with the baby going along for the stroller ride and at one house where their mother had gone to get treats, our youngsters costumed as devil, skeleton and space girl, gave the other youngsters quite a scare. After they spoke, the other youngsters recognized them as classmates. There were some very amusing acts, usually made more funny when the youngsters got shy and refused to do so only after repeated coaxing from accompanying parents or older sisters or brothers.

One group did a complete production with each age group doing its own number, capped by the older four girls doing a "specialty", "The Old Soft Shoe."

BY ALL MEANS,
VOTE TUESDAY

The voters of Des Moines go to the polls on November 7 to elect three members of the City Council. The six candidates in the race have appeared before many groups explaining the issues and certain proposals that are being considered by the present administration.

Charles Iles led all candidates in the primary. Since he is the only incumbent in the race, some say his vote represented an endorsement of the present administration. With this the Bystander does not agree. Iles is a well known popular official. However, our view is that the council has been weak, vacillating and in many instances seemingly unconscious of some of the smelly things that have gone on in recent months.

Included among the candidates to be voted on Tuesday are some substantial citizens—some who have a real interest in helping Des Moines off dead center in its effort to secure more industry; in its program to provide better low rent housing; in the requirement that it accord employment on the basis of merit without regard to race or color; to recognize legitimate complaints in the field of civil rights and job opportunity and not treat them or its Commission on Human Rights as a side issue. In these, the present council has not done very well.

The Bystander is particularly interested in George West, a vigorous able young man who can bring to the city hall progressive ideas and is willing to stand up and work for the best interest of all the people.

Undoubtedly, there will be a good vote at the polls, a desirable situation which has not prevailed in elections recently. As a citizen who helps maintain the city government with his tax dollar, every eligible voter should turn out and help elect the councilman of his choice.

NEW SCHEMES TO PLACE SANCTIONS

Postmaster General Edward Day certainly proved himself to be a weak cabinet officer in his reason given for reinstating a Negro postman, W. W. Law, in Georgia, who had been discharged by a postal inspector notwithstanding the fact that a majority of the board which investigated the charges had voted otherwise.

Negroes in Georgia, New York and other places cannot afford to support other Negroes when they fail in their responsibility. On the other hand, it is the duty of Negroes and such organizations at the NAACP to support and defend those who are prosecuted because of their color.

The NAACP has stood behind Law from the beginning. Over the years this organization has not been in the habit of defending Negroes whose cause did not deserve it. They have not done it in this instance.

It is difficult to get a clear cut statement of the facts—even from such a far reaching media as our own Des Moines Tribune which said editorially that had a white man done the same thing in Iowa he would have been discharged. With this we do not agree.

Some statements say Law had committed indecent exposure on property on his route; that he had ruined a lawn of another. Both acts were crimes punishable by law but nowhere in the reports has it been indicated that charges had been filed against him by state, county or city officers.

Certainly, Negroes in Georgia who do these things don't escape arrest and conviction. As to the charge of visiting other buildings during working hours, this just does not seem to hold water for if he did it only once, dismissal would be unjustified; if it was a habitual practice surely some of his superiors would have called him to task long ago.

Undoubtedly, Postmaster General Day found himself in a dilemma, having been caught between the complaint of those who wanted Law's activities in behalf of civil rights in Georgia curbed and the NAACP and others who insisted that every citizen is entitled to work for the full enjoyment of what America has to offer.

The Bystander believes that if Law's so-called crimes are real, he should be discharged. But in view of the fact that he was not prosecuted by the state of Georgia for the things for which he is charged, we have serious doubts that even the postmaster general felt justified in firing him.

FINE YOUNGSTERS

Our hats are off to the youngsters who called at 955-17th St. on Trick or Treat Night. They were polite; they were not noisy; they did not streak any windows. They turned no garbage cans over. They deserve a pat on the back in the light of what is reported in other spots.

Purdue Inundates Iowa in Rain, 9-0;
Rain and Mud Slide With Boilermaker

By Staff Writer

Lafayette, Ind.—Iowa lost to Purdue 9-0 in the rain. The rain caused it. At least the rain was the most potent contributing factor. It was a heart breaker; for the loss marked the first for the Hawks this season and brought to an end their scoring 78 consecutive games.

Iowa's razzle-dazzle, scooting offense entails ideal conditions. That is to say a dry field and a dry football. Saturday's situation at Purdue was ideally un-ideal. The rains poured, the water flowed like wine and stirred the turf into a treacherous mudslide. It made the ball slick as ice and just as wet.

Boilermakers

But the Boilermakers played with the same ball and on the same field. They scored while Iowa did not. Their passes clicked where Iowa's failed. They scored nine points, Iowa none. So all that can be drawn in the final analysis is that a team must adapt to the conditions if they are to win. This, Purdue did.

Bogged Down

The Hawks tried but each time their sustained drives bogged down in fumbles and intercepted passes and penalties. Some say they needed Wilburn . . . Wilburn Hollis, that is. But Wilburn couldn't play. They needed power plays, plays that Wilburn was good at. No the Hawks can't play in the mud. Unless perhaps mud cakes. In some respects football should be like baseball . . . the game should be called off when the weather is wet or the field is bad. Nothing would hardly stop the Hawks then.

Impending Doom

The impending doom that was to be Iowa's was forecast when the Boilermakers won the toss and contrary to precedent, chose to kick off to Iowa rather than receive. This strategy paid off. And on the fifth play they intercepted one of Matt Szykowny's aerial passes and ran themselves to pay dirt. Another Iowa miscue, set up a field goal. Iowa's claim to offensive fame this day failed with a rash of penalties, intercepted passes, fumbleitis and ineptness in the mud.

They must regain their composure next week to accentuate the positive with their multiple offense, and eliminate the negative, which is Ohio State at Columbus.

Sad Sam Jones and Felix Mantilla Go
To New NL Teams

Cincinnati—Pitcher Sam Jones of the San Francisco Giants and Felix Mantilla, Milwaukee Braves outfielder were among the 45 National League sold to the Houston Colts and the New York Mets, in bargaining required to staff the two new NL entries with substantial major league talent. Jones, a workhorse, was bought by the Colts, while Mantilla, Joe Christopher of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Elio Chacon of the Reds were obtained by the Mets.

Hoppman & Iowa State
Sail Past Kansas S. 31-7

By Staff Writer

Ames, Iowa—Iowa State University's electrifying halfback Dave Hoppmann, just recuperated from a virus illness, put his best foot forward here Saturday against Kansas State and help defeat them 31-7.

Displaying a marvelous array of talent Hoppmann reeled off long touchdown runs of 71 and 69 yards, passed 40-yards for another and broke his own individual rushing record of 224 yards by some 47 yards.

It was the third conference victory for the Cyclones after losing two tough ones to Kansas and Missouri. The Cyclones play a non-conference tilt at Boston College next week.

In Homecoming Tussle
Drake Beats Bradley
Again 24-13, Saturday

By Staff Writer

Drake continued its mastery over Bradley here Saturday 24-13 in a Homecoming tussle before 7,000 elated fans. This was Drake's seventh straight victory over the Bradley squad.

It was the final home appearance of the season for the Bulldogs who now boast a 4-2, won-loss average. They go to North Texas next Saturday night, then finish up the campaign at Wichita and Omaha University.

ACP SPEAKERS

Miami Beach, Fla.—(Special)—Charles J. Smith III, director of public relations at Florida A&M University, is scheduled to be one of the speakers at the 37th annual meeting of the Associated Collegiate Press which convenes at the Fontainebleau Hotel, Nov. 2-4. "The Role of Student Publications in an Institution's Public Relations Program" will be the subject of Smith's talk. Representatives of more than 1,000 college and university publications are expected to be in attendance at the confab.

The roof fell in last weekend. Just about half of the teams picked by the experts as winners did win. But, the big one for us here in Iowa was the Purdue upset of the Hawks.

Actually, the win of one team over another can't be called an upset. Both teams fielding the same number of men, all other things being equal, team number one should win. But, if something turns out not to be equal among all the other things, team number one doesn't have to win. The big equalizer Saturday was the muddy field.

Playing for Breaks

We think that in this day of offensive football modern teams are inclined to forget that in a field like that one Saturday, the best defense is constant kicking and playing for a break. Kicking on first or second down, never trying to carry the wet ball has won a lot of games and will again for the team that adopts it in bad weather.

Of course, as the man said, Iowa didn't get too many breaks, but maybe had they kicked oftener, they could have got more. This is not trying to second guess the game but an impression of our honest opinion of football in the rain.

4 Rough Ones

With four rough games coming up Iowa will need all the luck and players they can get to gain an even break from now on in.

Iowa State was awfully tough against Kansas State and had a big day. Maybe, the Cyclones could give Iowa U. a real game and might get out. They are getting tougher by the years.

Drake is having a great season and no matter what happens the rest of the way, the Bulldogs have

CHILDREN OF THE SON

The children of the Son
Shall hide in mountains high,
When the vultures red—hunt
innocents,

Rain death from out our sky .
For once the die of war is cast,
And cast that die—they will.
They can not let us live!
And their creed is take and kill!
If just one Yank shall live,
One with the heart and brain,
The bear could still be dropped,
Never to kill again.
Our way will never die,
As long as we shall strive;

And our thinkers now prepare,
So that someone can survive,
Through nations fall to dust,
And race on race are done,
Americans are all free-born,
Their hearts will fight as one!
We're the children of the Son,
And we love our good green earth.
If the Devils' spawn spread holocaust,
We will resist the plague;
Resist and prove our worth.
In God we put our trust
That shall live, eternal be;
The hope that lights the world today,
Beams from our liberty.

—Glenn A. Gallagher

Thoughts for Today

Where man goes hereafter depends to a great extent on what he goes after here.

There's a great difference between good sound reasons and reasons that sound good.

The past year saw thousands of people die of gas. A few inhaled it, a few more lit it, most of them stepped on it.—S. E. Mekeel.

other side of the fence, you can bet
the water bill is higher.

enjoyed a successful season, and people have turned out to watch them. So the school has made some money. Hear they are counting on a real basketball team.

High School

Tech high knocked East out of a chance for the city series title. Seem as if the two East seasons were reversed. The Lee Townshippers are the year this time that we thought they would have last year. This was the year we thought they would mop up. They say that Tech's Larry Thomas is hard to stop because he runs under the defense instead of through or over it. He will likely be all city. North just can't get on the right side. The Polar Bears have a fine backfield but just can't seem to get going. Some critics blame the coach, but there must be something else wrong also. Wish we knew.

NEW URBAN LEAGUE HEAD
WARNS OF BIAS DANGER

Dayton, Ohio—The Annual Conference of the National Urban League heard Whitney M. Young, Jr., its new Executive Director, call upon America to face its greatest hour of challenge. America, said Mr. Young, will have a meaning and attractiveness to the world's population only to the degree that the non-white citizen shares equally in its opportunities and rewards. He warned that even after the fight for equal rights is won, Negroes will face a battle against hidden prejudice and discrimination.

Young, formerly dean of the Atlanta University School of Social Work, succeeded Lester Granger, who was the Urban League's director for the last twenty years.
