Heart Revived During Surgery,
African Student Dies Three Days Later in Sioux City, Ia.

Sioux City, Ia.—A 37-year-old Morningside College student from Southern Rhodesia died Friday, June 8, three days after his heart was revived during minor surgery in a hospital here. Jasper Machiri, had undergone minor surgery for a pulled tendon on Tuesday, June 5. His heart stopped and doctors massaged it for 35 minutes before it was revived during the operation. He had pulled the tendon seven weeks before while playing baseball.

No Heart Trouble

According to doctors, Machiri, who hailed from Mutambora, had no history of heart trouble. He was well known here for his talks in fluent English before various organizations. He came to Morningside under a church-school program for African students sponsored by the Methodist church. Machiri's father, the Rev. Jonah Machiri, is a Methodist minister in Southern Rhodesia.

Machiri, married and the father of six children, was in the first year of a three-year course leading to a bachelor of arts degree. He lived here with his wife and two of their children. The other four children lived with the couple's parents in Africa.

Youth Beaten in Savannah,
NAACP Calls for Boycott

Savannah, Ga. — The NAACP launched a selective buying drive against the Tropical Market here this week following the brutal beating and stomping of a 14-year-old employee. Young Robert Lee Bolden is still confined, battered and bruised, in the Memorial Hospital.

Stomped

He was seriously beaten, kicked and stomped by Buck Overstreet, proprietor of the market, who accused the lad of stealing meat. Although the store has many white employees, none was questioned when the alleged discovery was made.

Overstreet immediately charged his lone Negro employee with the theft. Robert, a quiet, studious youth, was struck in the face and knocked to the floor. He was then kicked and stomped.

Begged for Mercy

When the child begged for mercy, Overstreet picked him up bodily and threw him into a back room and locked the door. He returned twice to further question the lad who consistently denied the charge.

After verifying the action, the NAACP, under leadership of W. W. Law, president, and Mrs. Ester F. Garrison, secretary, called a mass meeting. Mrs. Marion Green Bolden, mother of the youth, addressed the meeting and reported full details. Mr. Law cited other instances of mistreatment of Negro customers.

Decision

The meeting, after 1 hour and 31 minutes in session, unanimously reached the decision to withhold patronage from the Tropical Market. Persons working nights patrolled the area the next day advising would-be Negro customers of the Association's decision.

The following night, only 11 Negro customers entered the store, which is open 24 hours a day. The next day, Saturday, only 14 Negroes crossed the picket line, and on Sunday, no Negroes crossed the line. Law said that the boycott has been 99 per cent effective since that point. More than 90 per cent of the Tropical Market's customers are Negroes.

Bertha Willis Charged with Assault with Intent to Murder; $25,000 Bond Set

Mrs. Bertha Willis, 44, was charged with assault with intent to commit murder Tuesday afternoon in connection with the Sunday night shooting of her husband, Ernest (Sweetie Pie) Willis, 41, who remained in critical condition at Broadlawn Polk County hospital with five bullet wounds in the stomach, chest and shoulder.

Mrs. Willis was being held in Polk County jail after failing to post $25,000 bond. Preliminary trial has been set for July 2 at 1:30 p.m. She was arraigned before Municipal Judge Howard Brooks.

Mrs. Willis told police she had gone to the Disabled American Veterans club, 803 12th street, where her husband was working as bartender, shortly after 6:30 p.m. Sunday and that Willis told her to get out. She said he fired at her once and she ducked, pulled a .38-caliber revolver out of her purse and shot five times.

Gave Self Up

Mrs. Willis then went to the home of Patrolman Robert Webb, 1131 18th street, where she was arrested. Patrolman Webb, who was off duty, said Mrs. Willis had been staying with him and his wife at their home. He said Mrs. Willis borrowed his car saying she was going to pick up some clothes so she could go to work. He said she came back later, handed him a gun and said, "I've just shot Sweetie."

Patrolman Webb said he called police headquarters and officers came out and arrested Mrs. Willis.

Witnesses

Detective James Thompson who began investigating the case along with other officers, said witnesses told a different story of the shooting incident in the D.A.V. Club.

He said eye witnesses told this story. Mrs. Willis came into the club and asked her husband for money. About the same time another man came in and wanted to talk to Willis; they retired to a back room and after a few moments, Mrs. Willis followed the two men. Shortly after, all three came out of the back room and Mrs. Willis walked toward the door, as if she was going out, then she stopped.

Detective Thompson said witnesses related Mrs. Willis told her husband, "You put me in jail; now I'm going to put you in jail."

Pulled Gun

Willis made no answer. Then Mrs. Willis made another remark, pulled a gun and shot between two patrons at the bar. Willis fell to the floor behind the bar. Everyone ran out but several persons who had hid behind club furniture.

The witnesses related Mrs. Willis then walked around the end of the bar and shot four more times.

Willis, who has remained unconscious since the shooting, has been unable to be questioned by investigating officers.

Personally Yours

It is that time again when we present you another anniversary edition of the Bystander, shock full of anniversary greetings, pictures, news, sparkling features and especially the high school graduates. Hope you will overlook our enthusiastic back slapping, and enjoy your copy.

Among our various tidbits and communications in connection with college and high school graduates, we received the following letter which we publish for your enjoyment. It is from Mrs. Barbara J. Williams of 810 School street, and one of the June graduates from Drake. She wrote:

"I have just finished reading this week's Bystander and especially your column, in which you ask for information about June college graduates. Since I am a rarity (a native of Des Moines over 30) and even more rare (started college at the age of 31) I thought perhaps I would really splurge and write to you about my own graduation from Drake.

"I am married to Arzonias S. Williams (a native Iowan, too) and have a six year old son, Arzonias, Jr., who attends Sabin school. I was organist at Corinthian Baptist church for 15 years and am now director of music there.

"I graduated from Drake with a bachelor of music education degree with a piano major, a voice-organ minor and an English academic minor. I am a member of Mu Phi Epsilon professional music sorority and Delta Sigma Theta social sorority. I also give piano and voice lessons when I can squeeze in a minute or two, to several pupils.

"As to future plans, I have already signed a contract with the Des Moines public school system for a year as a full time vocal music teacher (a first, I believe), which job will begin in September.

"This summer I plan to put in a few hours on my master's degree which I will complete at leisure.

"I think this sums up the story of my life for the past three years (yes, I completed the four year course in three years exactly by attending summer school every summer).

"I am usually reticent about sending in items about myself or my family (you couldn't guess it from this letter, could you) but am so elated over having completed what seemed at first to be impossible, that I am celebrating."

We would like to extend to Mrs. Williams most hearty congratulations, and future success.

Naturally we extend to all graduates our most heartfelt best wishes for success in their endeavors, but a special token of recognition, we extend to Des Moines Tech high school graduate, Linda Marie Frazier White, who graduated in the top three per cent of her class. (see graduate page) We are singling her out, because she wrote one of the most outstanding letters to us (for her writeup) that shows uniqueness, command of grammar, sentence and paragraph constructions and transitions of paragraphs. You don't find many youngsters nowadays who can write that, especially a business letter.

We present here her opening paragraph; the remainder we combined in her writeup on the graduate page: "It is a pleasure to be invited to have my graduation picture in your anniversary edition, as it is a happy occasion for both of us. I would like to extend my congratulations to you and the staff of the Iowa Bystander and best wishes for a successful, growing and prosperous future."

We wish we had space to print the letter in its entirety, but one thing is certain, she would make some boss a most capable secretary.

Henrietta Dixon ended her write-up by saying, "I would like to thank my parents for all the wonderful things they have done, and only wish to make them proud of me."

One young lady, Beverly J. Johnson of 1068 17th street, was listed as a graduate from North. When we called her mother, Mrs. Erma Thomas, informed us it had been a printing mistake, that her daughter is not scheduled to graduate until June, 1963.

After Fifty
Years At Hampton

By James B. Morris

There are some events which come once in a lifetime. My family insisted that I attend the 50th anniversary of my class at Hampton Institute, Virginia, and my 47th at Howard University in Washington. So my good wife packed my bag.

I arrived at Patrick airport in Newport News, Va., Friday and was driven by limousine service to the Hampton campus which I had not seen for 48 years. The first stop was Stone Building where I roomed but which is now an office building. It is near the Wigwag (building) where Indian students lived. (There are no Indian students now.)

Smokes—A Surprise

As I registered at Holly Tree Inn, the guest house, my eyes met a cigarette vending machine. Students were expelled for smoking in my days. My roommate was W. T. Coleman of Philadelphia, whom I had not seen since graduation. He was designated leader of the 50 year group.

Saturday evening, we attended the senior prom—a beautiful affair. Here, too, the students smoked and generally performed as any formal off campus party. (They did the twist beautifully.) It closed at 12:30. Folk dances only were allowed in our time and taps were at 9 o'clock.

Alumni Session

Saturday, the annual meeting of the Alumni Association was held. Dr. William L. Watson, a teacher at Petersburg, Va. A & M College was re-elected president and Alvin A. Taylor, Jr., Secretary.

Sunday morning, Mrs. Jerome Holland, wife of the president, gave a breakfast for the 50 year class. Six attended. Each was asked for a brief recital of his activities since leaving Hampton. They included teachers, boys club worker, agricultural extension worker, a chicken farmer, apartment house manager, a dentist, housewife and lawyer.

I visited old friends, walked around the water front, athletic field, dining room (which is now self-service rather than waitresses as in the old days) and visited with old girl friends, all of whom are married but it was fun.

Baccalaureate Service

The academic procession assembled on the lawn Sunday morning and marched to Ogden Hall where the baccalaureate services were held. Dr. Daniel Hill, Dean of Religion at Howard University, who served in the 17th Provisional Training Regiment at Fort Des Moines in 1917, was the speaker. A minister of wide experience as a social worker, pastor and college professor, he delivered an able sermon exploring the graduates to not only work for success in their chosen fields, but also join in the struggle for human rights.

In the afternoon, the annual alumni banquet was held at Cleveland Hall. Tables were arranged so as to seat classes of each 5 years from 1912 to 1957 with the senior class as guests. Singing of the Hampton grace (it is beautiful), was followed by the announcement of contributions by alumni to the school. The 50 year class brought the largest delegation proportionately. I came the farthest distance. The oldest graduate present graduated in 1892.

Dr. Jerome Holland, all-American football star at Syracuse University, the president, delivered the address. He recited the growth in all areas of operation of the school and predicted new and better improvement. Finances were sound and his work with the Board of Trustees was cordial and cooperative. Dr. Holland is well liked, seems to have his feet on the ground and is destined to be come one of Hampton's great presidents.

During my student days, all members of the trustee board were white. Now Negroes predominate, which includes three alumni trustees. This was true with respect to the faculty. Bernard Young of Norfolk, Va., was recommended by the Alumni Association as one of the alumni trustees.

The graduation exercises were held Monday with Carol Rowan, Assistant Secretary of State, as the principal speaker. Musical numbers by the choir were rendered at this as well as other services with the audience joining in such as it done in no other place.

Rowan emphasized the need for more and better training in all fields of endeavor and the necessity of thorough preparation in order to meet keen competition of today.

Following the exercises, Mrs. Holland gave a dinner reception at the president's home—a beautiful historic place overlooking the water-front.

Off to Washington

Later, Rowan and I were whisked to Newport News where we boarded a plane for Washington. Stopping at the Willard Hotel downtown, I visited the Veterans Administration for a client, stopped in Senator Hickenlooper's office where he gave me the details of the Iowa primaries; Senator Miller's office (He was out but visited with his office staff)—and also spent a short time in the senate listening to a speech by Senator Sparkman of Alabama. (He was the only senator on the floor.) I passed the office of Senator Stennis of Mississippi—only to have unpleasant thoughts run through my mind.

As usual, I stopped at the office of the Cowles publication enjoying a chat with Clark Mollenhoff. As I strolled the street one evening I met James R. Locke, one of Senator Miller's executive assistants. During my stay from 1912 to 1915 the law school was downtown but the great physical improvement program carried on under the administration of Dr. Mordici Johnson, now retired, includes a model building on the campus. Commencement had not begun but all students except seniors had left for the summer.

Howard Campus

Prof. Dorsey Lane, conducted me through the building and told of the growth and importance of the law school and the successful careers of many of its graduates.

A tour of the engineering school (they had none during my time) was inspiring. Two hundred engineers are graduating, many of whom are foreign students—many white students. The registry book indicated that many large corporations had sent representatives to look for good material.

Hung in the library is a life size picture of the late A. A. Alexander who at the time of his death was a trustee and often lectured at Howard.

Decided Change

Besides seeing old friends, the greatest single factor of the trip was change from what was. People are different, are moving ahead, have more and are enjoying a fuller life. Public accommodations are more liberal, Negroes have more and better houses and jobs in Washington and elsewhere.

As I traveled, I met numbers of students bound for assignments abroad. It's surprising the number of such opportunities other than the Peace Corps and Fulbright scholarship, that are available. I visited with two from Ames who marveled at 50 years out of school and a group of grownups from Ft. Dodge headed by James Breen bound for a five week tour of Europe.

This is possibly the most interesting trip I ever took for I met so many people, many of whom I had not seen for fifty years. It made me feel like going again. I recommend it to graduates who have lived long enough to qualify.

IPALCO Presents
"At Your Service"

A highly unique, wide-scope presentation of Iowa Power and Light Company's complete people-to-people customer services in the firm's entire Central Division service area was officially set into motion Monday at Iowa Power's Des Moines Service and Idea Center. Aptly titled, "At Your Service," this complex exhibit features fascinating displays designed to tell a story of complete service from hundreds of skilled Iowa Power employees to thousands of customers in Central Iowa.

As a special feature for children visiting "At Your Service," Iowa Power has planned a coloring contest for youngsters 3 through 10 years of age, with valuable prizes to be awarded in each of three age categories.

Focal point for presentation of "At Your Service" is the Exhibit Hall, a part of the firm's first floor Service and Idea Center.

We listened to the oldtimer as he talked about the good old days of athletics. Now take baseball. These guys go up to the plate wearing a plastic helmet. They dig in and get set to swing for the fence. If a pitcher lets one get away and it came within a foot of his head the pitcher is worried. The hitter thinks maybe the guy was throwing at him. Heck, when I played ball you didn't have to guess. You knew good and well that the pitcher was throwing at you and you didn't have any plastic helmet either.

You go into a base now and you better not come close to an infielder, with your spikes. We had infielders so alert and fast you couldn't get near them with spikes and it wasn't because we weren't trying.

I guess this helmet thing is a good idea. It would probably have saved the life of at least one major league player and that alone would have made it worth wearing.

We steering the talk around to tennis. The old fellow said that in his days a lot of points were scored in net play by letting a hard one go right at the other fellow's belt buckle. Said we'd be surprised how many fellows didn't care for a shot aimed there. But, then we thought of the lightning fast reflexes of Paul Woods and wondered how one would hit his belt buckle. We never could and we shot at it a lot of times. He'd get the racket around in time no matter what. But, we thought the theory of the old timer was good and reasonably sound for his type of tennis.

We got the guy wound up in boxing, billiards and wrestling. It made for an interesting hour of discussion. The fellow isn't sure Sonny Liston is going to become the next heavyweight boxing champion. Floyd Patterson is too fast when he really wants to fight and he will really want to this time out. The veterans also said that there wasn't a man alive who couldn't be knocked down and that went for Sonny Liston, also.
