Woman Are Also in Forefront---Glantons Tell Audience at YW

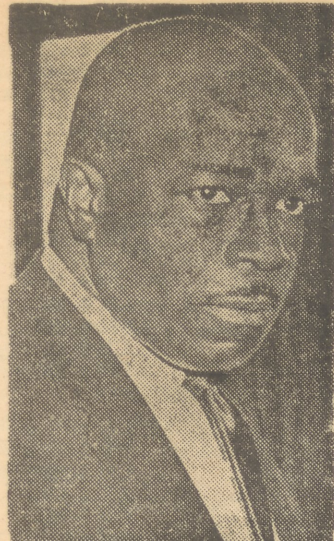

Why don't more Negroes come to our country as missionaries or with the peace corps? This was the burning question repeated over and over again to Judge and Mrs. Luther T. Glanton, Jr., as they made their way over the African continent in a four-month U.S. State department tour.

Judge Glanton, said "I answered them this way. We (The American Negro) had our own fight, too. We are in sympathy with your problems but we have not had time to come and help you, but . . . soon we shall be able to do so."

This was a portion of the vivid, verbal picture of African, "The Wonderful World of Differences," that the Glantons presented to an enthusiastic audience of nearly 100 Sunday afternoon at the YWCA in "Accents on Africa," sponsored by Phi chapter of Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

Women

Of particular interest to the women who outnumbered the men in the audience, was Mrs. Glanton's talk highlighting the women in Africa.

Mrs. Glanton noted that many of the African women are handicapped by lack of education and cooperation of the men (heads of tribes). However, SEE PAGE TWO

First Book of Des Moines Woman Due Off Press This Month by Boston Publishers

By Frances E. Hawthorne

A Des Moines woman who began writing when she was in high school and whose life-long dream is to be a playwright, has reached her first and most difficult milestone. She is Mrs. Dorothy Randle Clinton of 1530 Maple street. Her book, "The Madening Scar," will be published this month and copies will come off the press and should arrive in Des Moines any week.

Family

A Drake graduate, Mrs. Clinton is the wife of M. S. Clinton, also a Drake graduate. They are parents of an 11-year-old son, Jerome Boyd, who plays flute and piccolo in the elementary school band. Both Mr. and Mrs. Clinton hold the distinction of being one of the few husband-wife teams working as clerks in the Des Moines postal system.

Mrs. Clinton's first fiction contribution in the writing field is a mystery and is being published by Christopher House, in Boston, Mass., publishers for over 50 years.

In an interview Mrs. Clinton showed us a letter from her publishers acknowledging receipt of her signed contract received Mar. 5, 1962. She received page proofs of her works over two weeks ago.

About July 27 she will make a business trip to New York City in connection with her book. She also expects to make contracts and negotiations for her second book, also a mystery, which is more than half finished.

Quiet Life

Aside from her family Mrs. Clinton spends a quiet life, which she describes as almost reclusive. "If I had not, I would never have gotten my book written," she said.

"I discipline myself," she related, "I usually try to write at least a paragraph every day. On my days off I sometimes write whole chapters. I make my first draft in long hand, think about it and make any revisions or corrections, before putting it into the finished, typed final draft."

Poems

Besides her book Mrs. Clinton has written many poems and had them published. In addition she proudly presented a copy of Robert Oberfirst's anthology of short stories, in which her "Roderic's Decision," is included.

She also admitted writing many of the political speeches of her father, Gilbert Randle, when he first began in politics.

Taking care of her family, writing and holding down a full time job doesn't leave much time for hobbies but Mrs. Clinton says she enjoys one, rock collection, and pointed to various specimen, some mounted, in her den where she writes.

Her mother is Mrs. Carrie Randle and she is one of nine children.

Mrs. Clinton, who has long dreamed of writing a play and insists on doing quality fiction writing, says of her accomplishment, "This book (her first) may not reap too much financially, and then again it may, but I think it will help me get a foothold in the fiction field. I have already learned a lot from my experience and hope to capitalize on it."

33 Nation's Large Employers Sign Non Bias Job Pledge List

Washington, D.C. — Thirty-three more of the nation's largest employers in White House ceremonies Friday pledged to carry out equal employment policies without regard to race, creed, color or national origin.

President Kennedy, Vice President Johnson, chairman of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity, and Secretary of Labor Goldberg, Committee vice chairman, commended the companies for their programs of equal opportunity. Top officials of the companies signed Plans for Progress with the Vice President, as chairman of the Committee, bringing to 85 the number of the nation's largest employers participating in the Plans for Progress phase of the Committee's program.

Specific Plans

Companies joining in the Plans for Progress program of the President's Committee set out specific policies they will follow and specific steps they will take to insure equal employment opportunity without regard to race, creed, color or national origin. The program is designed to supplement and broaden the overall program of the Committee under which all government contractors are required to offer equal employment opportunity, the Vice President explained.

Prior to Friday's signing of Plans for Progress, 52 of the nation's largest employers and government contractors had signed such plans with Vice President Johnson.

Approached by 2 Others Outside Downtown Bank Offering to Share $10,000

"I don't know why I fell for this. I'd read about it and heard about it, but it sounded so good! I just don't know . . ." These were the words of Mrs. Nannie Wilson, 1246 11th street, who was "conned" out of $900 of her savings Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Wilson, who had $10,000 in the bank received from a sale of her property condemned for the freeway, had gone to a downtown bank to make a deposit. She is buying the house at the 11th street address and is making payments from rent and roomer receipts.

"I was saving the $10,000 for a rainy day, in case the roomers stop coming or something else comes up," she said.

19 Year-Old Girl

Mrs. Wilson was leaving the bank when she was stopped by a young woman, about 19, wearing a lavender dress. The girl told her she was worried about carrying a large sum of money and was planning to bring her mother to Des Moines, after buying a house. She then inquired about an attorney for her business affairs.

Another Approached

Mrs. Wilson said she advised the girl strongly to put the money in the bank—and not carry it around with her. As they talked another woman, about 55, wearing a peach-colored flowered dress approached them. She told them furtively that she had found an envelope in a phone booth, containing $10,000 and a note to the effect that it was tax income money.

Willing to Split It

The older woman said she was willing to split the money with the girl and Mrs. Wilson, if they would put up some money of their own to show "good faith." The three agreed to meet in the bank lobby after Mrs. Wilson got her $900.

Bank Interest

When Mrs. Wilson went to draw out the amount a bank clerk called her attention to the fact that if she left the money in she would draw $18 in interest the next day. Mrs. Wilson didn't think the $18 loss was much, considering she was to get a $3,000 split out of $10,000.

After withdrawing the $900 the three met in the bank lobby and there

Governor Suspend Florida Constable

Perry, Fla.—Following indictment by a Federal grand jury in the fatal shooting, on May 5, of a 19-year-old Negro, Constable Henry Sauls has been suspended by Gov. Farris Bryant. The indictment for the slaying of Joseph Dumas came as the result of intervention by the Department of Justice on the basis of affidavits submitted by the NAACP Florida state organization. Previously, the constable had been freed by a Taylor County grand jury which refused to indict him.

GOVERNOR'S COMMISSION ON CHILDREN AND YOUTH

The Governor's Commission on Children and Youth announces its fall conference, "Focus on Youth," to be held Sept. 28, in the Memorial Union on the campus of Iowa State University at Ames.

The conference will include workshops designed for adult participation, student participation, and some that will interest both youth and adults.

NAACP Charges Job Bias In Oil, and Chemicals

Washington—Charging racial discrimination by four Texas oil and chemical companies, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People on Thursday, June 21, filed complaints on behalf of more than 100 workers with the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity.

Named in the complaints submitted by Herbert Hill, NAACP labor secretary, are the Socony Mobil Oil Company refinery at Beaumont, and the Texas-U.S. Chemical Company, Goodrich Gulf Chemicals, Inc., and the Neches Butane Products Company, all of Port Neches.

55 Negroes

In addition to complaints filed on behalf of 55 Negro employees at the Socony Mobil refinery, Hill filed a complaint in the name of the executive board of the all-Negro Local 4-299 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, AFL-CIO. The local charged collusion between the company and Local 4-243, composed exclusively of white workers.

The company, the complaints allege, refuses to promote Negro workers on a non-discriminatory basis, pays them lower wages, and systematically violates their seniority rights.

Agreement

The Socony Mobil Oil Company, Hill pointed out, has signed a "Plan for Progress" agreement with the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity.

The three Port Neches companies, against which complaints on behalf of 76 Negro workers were filed, were charged with maintaining racially separate seniority lines of promotion. This arrangement, incorporated in the collective bargaining agreement with Local 4-228 of the Oil and Chemical Workers union, restricts Negro workers to segregated common labor departments, victimizes them with inaccurate job classifications, and denies them promotions into production and craft occupations, the complaints allege.

These conditions, Hill told John Field, executive director of the President's Committee, are "typical of the pattern of racial discrimination in most of the oil refining and chemical plants operating with Government contracts in the Gulf area."

Kennedy Urges Negroes to Join Up with Peace Corps

Washington, D.C. — Negroes who join the Peace Corps would be "serving their country and their people in the best sense of the word," according to President John F. Kennedy.

Mr. Kennedy made the statement in a question-and-answer period following an address to the Peace Corps staff in Washington earlier this month.

The question came from a prominent Negro Peace Corps official, Franklin H. Williams, Chief of the Division of Private Organizations.

Not Satisfied

Williams said that "some of us have not been satisfied with the number of Negroes and Mexican-Americans and others who have presented themselves for consideration in the Peace Corps" and asked the President if he had anything to say to "those potential Peace Corps Volunteers that might point out to them the desirability of service in the Peace Corps."

The President replied that "it's quite natural that, growing up surrounded by endless problems, they (Negroes) would not be as concerned about the opportunity to serve abroad as they would be about the very difficult problems they face in their own lives, their families' lives, and in their neighborhoods."

ever she pointed out there were many market women and professional women, the latter mostly teachers, but some lawyers, judges and legislative leaders.

Bright Future

During a question and answer period the Glantons noted that "Africa has an extremely bright future, and in the next 25 years will be one of the leading nations of the world."

Race relations are good in the west (Ghana, Nigeria, Sierra Leone) but rather tense in other areas such as the Congo, Nyasaland, Kenya and the Rhodesias.

The Glantons who leave this week for Washington, D. C., where they will make their first oral and written report to the U. S. State department of their trip, also noted that there was no juvenile delinquency due to tribal control.

Teachers

"Africa is a teacher's paradise," said Mrs. Glanton, "because all the children want to learn over there."

Warns Against Play Around Mail Boxes

It is reported by John P. McNeerney, Acting Des Moines Postmaster, that lately a number of small children have been killed or injured by postal employee operated vehicles. Many of these children were under five years of age. The accidents often occurred as rural, mounted or parcel post carriers had made deliveries and were driving away.

Patrons who permit children to visit the box for mail are strongly urged to caution them to stay clear of the carrier's vehicle. McNeerney also added that employees driving vehicles are constantly reminded to exercise extreme caution in every effort to avoid such tragedies.

UNDERSTANDING IOWA CHILDREN
SPONSORED BY THE IOWA CHILD WELFARE RESEARCH STATION

Sponsored by The Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, S.U.I.

CHOOSING A NURSERY GROUP

Many a parent of a young child seeks assurance that an available nursery group can benefit his child. Iowa provides licensing only for a minimal group care, not for nursery schools. Some publications provide information concerning the nursery school standards, but most parents must make their own evaluations of nursery groups they are considering for their children.

Thrown on one's own resources, what should one find out about a group? Assuming that the building, its environment and supervision are such as to protect and conserve a child's health (and this is not a small order), the teaching staff is important above all else. Teachers should know, through training, the characteristic behavior of young children—that they love little children is not enough.

At least one staff-member should have graduated from an accredited four-year college with a major in early childhood education and she should have had a minimum of one year's experience under the supervision of a qualified preschool teacher.

Tempting though it may be to accept some other experience or training, that of kindergarten teacher or registered nurse, for example, this is not adequate. Not only should the particular characteristics of the preschool years be the basis for planning the school program, but the individualization of guidance in these years requires specific training and skill developed under supervision.

Before deciding on a school, a parent should visit for an entire session, leaving his own child at home. He should interview the teacher outside of group hours, should observe such program aspects as amount and variety of material, and should look for encouragement of child initiative and lack of regimentation (but not lack of the planning which recognizes individual differences). A planned program of communication between staff and parent should be provided.

A child's welfare requires as much protection, planning and skill at this age as later. Appropriate provisions are as costly as for later schooling. It is difficult to profit financially from a well-operated group for young children.

both at the same time, if possible.

If you were walking along Walnut street Saturday afternoon chances are you were just a little surprised to hear the clip-clop of what sounded like hooves of horses. PASSING BY THOSE WHO SPEAK OUT

Last fall, President Kennedy appointed Thurgood Marshall judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Marshall's record as an able lawyer in the field of federal litigation is well known. Apparently the American Bar Association, which serves as a clearing group for judges, recommended his appointment as well as the justice department.

In fact, Marshall successfully led the array of lawyers who prepared one case after another attacking all kinds of racial discrimination culminating in the now famous school segregation cases of 1954.

To date, Marshall has not been confirmed by the senate. In fact, Senator Eastland, who heads the judiciary committee to which his nomination was referred, has failed or refused to hold any hearings on the nomination. One was called but attended by only one Republican member. Senator Eastland did not.

Several nominations for the federal bench, including Justice Byron White to the Supreme Court have been confirmed since Marshall's nomination. But to date President Kennedy has not used his prestige to get the job done.

It happens that all too often anyone who makes the fight for the rights of the Negro is passed over or when appointments are made efforts are put forth to block approval. In fact those appointed find it difficult to get the approval of confirming bodies. This means, of course, that Negroes themselves should help see that those who make the campaign for their rights should secure some of the reward which comes as a result of their efforts.

Of course, there are Democrats and Republicans in the senate sufficient to confirm Marshall but it is going to take some prodding to get the job done.

BETTER HEALTH
FACILITIES IN HOSPITALS

Duke University, one of the leading schools in the south, announced this week that Negroes would be admitted to all facilities of its hospital. Heretofore they had been restricted to sparse accommodations which did not afford full opportunity to use all the modern methods at the hospital's disposal.

In recent years, the federal government has made available great assistance in grants and loans to hospitals in order to modernize these institutions. The NAACP and the justice department have been needing them to offer full facilities to Negroes not only because they were public institutions but also because the federal government is putting large sums at their disposal.

Many studies have been made showing that the death rate among Negroes far exceeds that of whites. Much of this is traceable to inadequate hospital facilities for Negroes and their lower income status which helps to provide medical services.

The action of Duke University not only abolishes discrimination against Negroes but also helps to provide better medical facilities which improve their life span and bring their death rate more nearly in line with that of the nation as a whole.

ENLARGED INDUSTRY
HELPS DES MOINES

During the current week, the Iowa Paint Manufacturing Co. has been holding open house at its new plant at 17th and Grand Ave. It is a beautiful institution for Des Moines and the public should make it a point to make a visit.

Rather remarkable growth has been the lot of this institution which has advanced from a small place on Eighth Street to a modern plant with manufacturing and sales outlets not only in several spots in Des Moines, but also in many states.

Iowa Paint is the type of industry which Des Moines needs for its manufactures as well as sells and thus provides more employment.

And Iowa Paint has not passed up the use of Negroes in its organization—a feature which is especially interesting to the Bystander, and one without which we would have but little interest.

The Bystander congratulates the Iowa Paint Manufacturing Company upon the great strides it has made. Des Moines should be proud of such an institution.

Williams Promoted To Top
Post In Peace Corps

Washington—Sargent Shriver, Director of the Peace Corps, announced this week the promotion of Franklin H. Williams to chief of the Division of Private Organizations.

Prior to coming to the Peace

Some day the guys who describe our tennis meets around here will decide that Mrs. Esther Myers is a pretty fair tennis player. She was ranked No. 2 in the state and when the Hawkeye Open meet started last week, we were pretty sure she would have a rocky road to the finals. We wondered who they would import to set her back.

Well, they got a youngster from Peoria, who was just about tops for the time of the year. Mrs. Myers met one of the out of state hopefuls in the semi finals and won after a bristling three set duel.

This girl was seeded No. 2 which meant that if the meet ran true to form she would be one of the finalists; so as we see it Esther's win deserved at least a little more than a one line notice about her struggling past her opponent. If it hadn't been necessary to let the public know who the other finalist was the win might not have ever been mentioned.

But the Hawkeye girls were happy we guess because Esther won final round in a well played match. Wish some of the other kids would work at the game as hard as she does. For years a handful of us batted our heads against a stone wall getting in every meet that was held in Des Moines. We knew our chances of ever winning a match were pretty slim, but we thought we could keep the gate open and some day somebody would come along and do what we never could do.

Well, the gate has been kept open and aside from Esther Myers we haven't shoved anybody into it yet. This might be our year. Our Hilltop Open meet comes up next month and we will see what happens then. Maybe we can get some daily paper coverage.

Baseball

The Des Moines Merchants finally went down to a pretty fair ball club. Some of the fellows on this club will be in organized ball by next year. Just proves that nobody wins them all. Some day we shall do a column on Negro baseball from its early days to the present. Our youngsters need to know that Negroes have always had pretty fair athletes, lacking only the chance.

We heard a young boy questioning some facts about Satchel Paige's story. He didn't think Paige had pitched against all those guys. Well, yours truly, was able to say we had seen some of those games and had first hand knowledge of a lot of others. That made the kid have a desire to learn more about such things.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Poison!

A helpful husband was doing the family wash in an automatic laundry. He'd taken his two little girls along with him to get them off his wife's hands. While he was busy with the wash, the children asked him for a nickel each to buy soda pop. Without thinking, he gave them the money. After a few minutes something rang a bell in his mind and he went looking for his youngsters to find out where soda could be bought for only a nickel. He found the children holding unmarked paper cups containing a clear liquid. The liquid was chlorine bleach. It had come from a vending machine in the laundry. Fortunately only one child had taken a mouthful of her "drink" and she had spat it out because it tasted nasty. So in this case there were no casualties.

Household products account for 20 per cent of all reported poisoning cases. And most of these cases are among young children. The clearest labeling won't protect a child. It's up to the adults in the family to make sure that a youngster doesn't get his hands on something that can kill him. Cleaning compounds, detergents, bleaches, waxes, insecticides should all be kept way out of a child's reach. Remember that children can get into all floor level cabinets, unless they're kept locked. A tightly fitting door isn't enough. Very high is the best. Children climb on chairs to get to things.

Never, even for a minute, leave something poisonous in a glass, cup, pitcher or pop bottle. Keep all household products in their original containers. If a label comes loose, either stick it back on or prepare another label. Then, should an accident happen, despite your precautions, you can tell the doctor what the child has taken.

Tan Pro Netter
Builds New Tennis Court

New York—Arnold E. Lynn, a 51-year-old athlete who claims to be the only full-time Negro professional tennis player, embarked upon a bold venture here last week.

Lynn, an instructor as well as player, opened three tennis courts in neighboring Springfield Gardens, Queens, for the avowed purpose of training young tennis players, particularly Negroes.

The building of the courts was financed by a loan from the Small Business Administration. Lynn had talked federal government agents here into loaning the $10,000 necessary to build the courts. He got it after representatives of the SBA checked closely on his tennis activities and were convinced the plan was sound.

Lynn feels that in building the courts he is bringing the game down to an economic level where more Negro youngsters can compete. The game is too expensive for most of them, and that is why you don't find them among the Wimbledon and national net champions, he explained.

IF I GAINED THE WORLD

By Kermit L. Wilson

If I gained the world, but had not Jesus
Who endured the cross, and died for me,
Could then all the world afford a refuge,
Whether in my anguish I might flee?
Had I wealth and love in fullest measure
And a name revered both far and near Yet no hope beyond, no harbor waiting

Where my storm tossed vessel I could steer.
Oh what emptiness, without the Saviour,
Mid the sins and sorrows here below!
And Eternity, how dark without Him!
Only night and tears and endless war.
What though I might live without the Saviour
When I were to die, how would it be?
Oh, to face the Valley's glow

without Him,
And, without Him, all Eternity!

After the open, Sifford packed his clubs and headed for Philadelphia, where he began play Monday in the Pro-Amateur tournament at the Aronimink Golf club, his major PGA tournament. Sifford's point total for the three days of play at the National Open was 303, 20 points off the pace. He came into the tournament highly reputed, after leading the nation's 150 qualifiers with a 137 point total and a course record in a qualifying contest in Chicago.

This Is No Fish Story!

Here's pictorial proof that not all the big ones get away.

Naturally, you won't find big fish like this in Iowa waters. You've got to get away to the ocean to get these big babies. Takes time and money, of course.
