Drs. King, Abernathy Spurn Fine, to Jail 45 Days

Wilkins--Charges Dixie 'Bloc Votes' for 50 Years To Bar Civil Rights Laws

Jailed for Albany Street Demonstrations

Albany, Ga.—The anti-segregation movement which had seemed to be dying here recently flared anew with the jailing Tuesday of one of the South's most militant leaders, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Dr. King, who had just returned from the National convention of the NAACP in Atlanta, and a fellow minister, Rev. Ralph Abernathy were jailed for 45-days for leading a street demonstration without a permit. Both leaders live in Atlanta.

Choice

They were given a choice of paying $178 fines or serving the jail terms after they were convicted by recorder A. N. Durden of a December violation of a city ordinance on streets and sidewalk assembly.

Branding both the ordinance and the City court as unjust, Dr. King and his companion in non-violent integration activity spurned the fine.

Wrong

"I would be as wrong as the court if I paid a fine under the circumstances," said Dr. King.

He also reiterated that he was not seeking "martyrdom or publicity." After kissing their wives the two men went to the City Jail to await issuance of prison clothing and assignment to a street work detail.

Mass Meeting

A crowd of Negroes around the City Jail were turned away when a bailiff informed them after the 35-seat capacity of the 'court room' was filled, no others would be allowed. Immediately leaders of the Albany integration movement called a mass meeting for Shiloh Baptist church there.

Pursuit of Education Scatters Family From Coast to Coast

Iowa City, Iowa.—The H. McFarland Thompsons aren't using their Jackson, Miss., home this summer, not because they are on vacation but because they've gone to school. Vacation plans are not part of the picture for the Thompsons, a family of unusual talent and a devotion to education that has led the members to widely separated points in the nation.

Mr. Thompson, a mathematics teacher and coach in the Jackson public schools, is at Cornell University this summer, and in the fall will begin work under a National Science Foundation grant.

Special Institute

Mrs. Thompson, a professor of education and psychology at Jackson State College, is attending a special institute at The State University of Iowa and will be in Iowa City until mid-August.

The Thompson's 18-year-old son, Henry, is an honor student at Morehouse College, Atlanta, Ga., and he accompanied his mother to the SUI campus. Henry is enrolled in summer classes at the University while his mother attends the SUI Institute for College Teachers of Psychology.

Daughter

The fourth member of the family is a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, 22, who teaches in the Los Angeles public school system. Mary had earned a B.A. degree by the time she was 18, and last year she was graduated from the University of Denver with a master's degree in English.

Doctorate

Professor Thompson has been recognized in many ways for the years she has devoted to teaching and to teacher education. In 1961, for example, her alma mater, Alcorn A. & M. College, Alcorn, Miss., honored her as "Alcornite of the Year." She received a bachelor's degree there in 1932, and according to the Alumni records is the first woman graduate in the field of education to earn a doctoral degree. She earned the Ph.D. at Cornell University in 1960.

Dr. Thompson served at Alcorn College for four years, and was on the faculty of Tougaloo College. The majority of her career has been spent at Jackson State College.

Negro Judges Double in 10 Years to 68 Now in Nation

The number of Negro judges in the U.S. has more than doubled in the past 10 years, reports Ebony, the national Negro magazine.

There are now 68 Negro jurists in posts ranging all the way from municipal courts to the second highest in the land, the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and prophets have predicted that President Kennedy will appoint the first Negro jurist to the U.S. Supreme Court, Ebony notes.

However, 68 Negro judges in the U.S. still constitute only one per cent of the 5,500 judges estimated by the American Bar Association, Ebony says.

Six of the nation's 413 federal judges are Negroes, including two lifetime Negro district judges, James B. Parsons of Chicago, and Wade H.

McCree of Detroit.

Judge McCree characterizes Negro federal judges as "the Jackie Robinsons of the judiciary," and adds: "Our extra job, in addition to the judicial business of the United States, is to accustom people to seeing Negro judges on the federal bench."

Highest

Highest ranking Negro jurists in the U.S. are federal judges William H. Hastie and Thurgood Marshall (the latter serving a recess appointment and awaiting Senate confirmation) of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Judge Hastie was the first Negro federal judge, being appointed district judge for the Virgin Islands by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1937 for an eight-year-term.

Municipal

Biggest concentration of Negro judges is on the municipal level in big cities with large Negro populations. New York City has the most Negro judges—13 city judges, in addition to two state judges who sit in Manhattan. Los Angeles has five, Chicago four, Cleveland three and Philadelphia three.

Ebony cites two recent appointments.

Mrs. Bertha Willis Bound over to Polk County Grand Jury

Mrs. Bertha Mae Willis, 44, of 1352 15th street, accused of fatally shooting her husband five times on June 10, was bound over to the grand jury in Municipal Court Monday, July 2 on a charge of murder.

She had been originally ordered held without bond, but Judge Harry Grund after hearing character witnesses presented by her attorney, set bond at $10,000. Mrs. Willis made the bond and is out on bail pending trial.

Prosecution

The prosecution presented only one witness in Monday's hearing. Mrs. Marie Heard, 829 Sixteenth st., testified that she and her husband were in the Disabled American Veterans Club, 808 Twelfth st., the night Willis was shot.

She said Willis was behind the bar when Mrs. Willis came in. Willis was manager of the club.

Argued Over Money

She said the couple argued over money. Then Mrs. Willis fired five shots at her husband, Mrs. Heard said. The .38-caliber bullets entered Willis's stomach, chest and shoulder. He died five days later.

Mrs. Heard testified she went behind the bar as Willis pleaded "Someone help me." She said she stooped beside him and a gun fell out of his hand. She gave it to a man, who turned it over to police, Mrs. Heard testified.

Atlanta—As urgent as the problems of civil rights are in this country, the issue of world peace is even more vital and compelling, Ralph J. Bunche, Under Secretary General of the United Nations, said at a mass meeting during the 53rd annual NAACP convention which closed here Sunday.

Most Acute

Addressing an audience of nearly 4,000 on July 6, Dr. Bunche called the status of the Negro "American society's number one problem of social injustice; it is the most acute and pressing problem because it is a problem of humanity in the mass; and because it is our most costly problem, internally and externally."

Top Priority

The Nobel Peace Prize winner said that "in every national administration this problem should enjoy a top priority all its own, in legislation and regulation, and in the heart of the Executive. It is yet to be fully appreciated, I believe, that strong and

Atlanta—Southern politicians who decry "bloc voting" by Negroes are the leading practitioners of this kind of political action, NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins charged in the closing address of the week-long 53rd annual NAACP convention here Sunday afternoon.

Spingarn Medal

The final convention session also witnessed the presentation of the 47th Spingarn Medal to Robert C. Weaver, Administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, for "distinguished public service to his city, state and nation."

Theme

Re-emphasizing the convention theme—the battle of the ballots—the NAACP leader called upon the delegates to "go back home, register, pay your poll tax (if your state has one) and vote. Such a course, if pursued diligently, will get rid of the leading gremlins in city halls, state houses and in Congress."

Morris Reports on 7-Day NAACP Confab in Atlanta

"The most important thing that came out of the convention it seems to me, is a broadening of policies of the (NAACP) association; a new mass approach to the problem of segregation in the use of well organized teams to go into communities and survey and examine conditions, then frame a program of action, litigation, peaceful protests and pushing for legislative actions."

Des Moines Delegate

This is the impression, put into words, by Atty. James B. Morris, Jr., delegate for the Des Moines NAACP branch of which he is president, and of the Iowa Conference of Branches, who spent seven days at the 53rd national convention of the organization in Atlanta, Ga. He returned to the city by jet-airliner Sunday night.

Civil Rights Lawyers

Morris, a Des Moines attorney also, went early to attend the annual two-day session of civil rights lawyers preceding the convention held at the Georgia Teachers and Educational Association building, which began Sunday, July 1 at 10 a.m. Presiding were Jack Greenberg, NAACP chief counsel and Connie Motley, his chief assistant.

Discussions

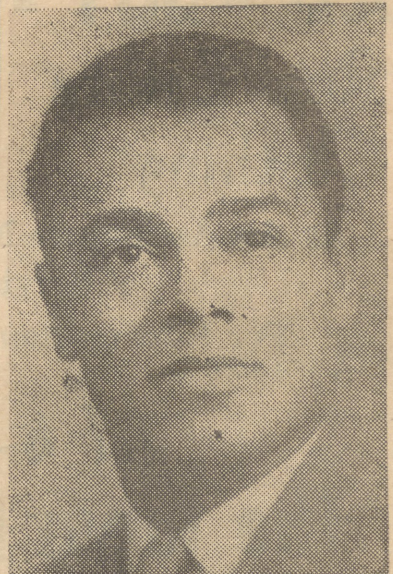

"Discussions included defense of the sit-inners and the techniques and angles of arguments that will be used by lawyers this fall in the first of the cases to come before the U.S.

Supreme Court. Robert Ming, of Chicago, one of the NAACP high-powered lawyers and Robert Carter, general counsel, also spoke.

Sidelights of Convention

DELEGATES PICKET

One-third of the 1,227 delegates attending the NAACP 53rd annual convention proceedings, took turns to throw picket lines around 16 local establishments. They were protesting the Jim Crow policies of the motels, hotels and restaurants. Their action was spurred by an emergency resolution introduced by NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins early in the convention, held here July 2-8.

EXPANDING NATL. BOARD

Plans to enlarge the NAACP National Board of Directors from 48 to 60 members, went into effect here this week during the Association's 53rd annual convention. It will take three years to implement the new plan.

HOWARD PRES. DECRIES

There is longer any significance to symbolic recognition of the Negro—the first or only Negro in some position of distinction—Dr. James M. Nabrit, president of Howard University, declared in an address to delegates and friends attending the 53rd annual NAACP convention.

"Do not tell me," he said in an Independence Day rally address, "about this Negro first or this appointment. I have been beguiled by these symbols too long."

ments as evidence of the "political power of Negroes in Michigan and California." They are the appointments of Justice Otis M. Smith to the Supreme Court of Michigan—making him the highest ranking Negro state judge in the U.S.—and Justice Edwin L. Jefferson to California's newly created District Court of Appeals.

None in 35

"In 35 states of the union, no Negro judge serves in a major court" and "in all the deep South no Negro sits even as a police court judge," Ebony points out. The magazine notes

"If you think by education or money or travel you can escape this curse of racial prejudice, you do not know the United States," the educator-lawyer warned.

ATLANTA INSURANCE HEAD GIVES $10,000

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and its Atlanta branch received contributions of $5,000 each from Norris Herndon, president of the Atlanta Life Insurance Company. Announcement of the contributions and presentation of the checks on behalf of Mr. Herndon were made by the Rev. William Holmes Borders, pastor of Atlanta's famed Wheat Street Baptist Church, at a mass meeting during the 53rd annual NAACP convention.

NAACP TO MEET IN DENVER IN 1965

For the first time, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will hold its annual meeting in the Rocky Mountain states area. Delegates attending the Association's 53rd annual convention here voted, July 7, to hold the 56th annual session in Denver, Colo., in 1965. Convention sites are chosen three years in advance. Next year the NAACP will meet in Chicago and in Washington, D.C., in 1964.

that there are no Negro judges south of Baltimore (with two Negro city judges) and St. Louis (with two Negro magistrates) since Miami's Judge Lawson Thomas left office.

Since 1870

Negroes have served on the judiciary ever since the 1870's, the Ebony article notes. The nation's first Negro jurist was Judge J. J. Wright, a native of Pennsylvania, who sat for seven years from 1870 to 1877 on the Supreme Court of South Carolina. The first Negro lawyer in the U.S., Macon Allen, was admitted to the bars of Maine and Massachusetts in 1844. There are now 4,000 Negro lawyers in the U.S.

Kennedy Urges Joint Anti-Bias Efforts

Atlanta—To achieve a "society unmarred by racial discrimination" will require "a combination of government action, organizational effort and community leadership, all within the framework of our democratic processes," President John F. Kennedy said in a message of greetings to the 53rd annual NAACP convention.

"As we approach the Centennial of the Emancipation Proclamation," the President said, "this is a time for looking back at the long road we have traveled and at the steps which have made progress possible. But it is also a time for looking forward, to the day when every citizen will have a voice in his government, when every family will live in decent housing of its own choice, when every child will have an equal chance to develop his abilities and when every worker will be employed on his merit."

COLLEGE HOUSING LOAN OF $630,000 TO LINCOLN UNIV.

Lincoln University in Jefferson City, Mo., is to receive a College Housing loan of $630,000 for construction of two residence halls, Commissioner Sidney H. Woolner of the Community Facilities Administration announced today.

Total cost of the project is estimated at $787,000, with the University supplying the difference between the CFA loan and the total. One residence hall will house 136 men students and will adjoin the existing Tull Hall. The other building will house 134 women students and will adjoin Bennett Hall. An apartment for a housemother will be included in each structure.

HOLINESS CONGRESS HEAR O. T. JONES REVEALED

Detroit, Mich.—The International Youth Congress of the Church of God in Christ met last Sunday in a climatic session with more than 5,000 delegates jamming the masonic Temple Auditorium to hear its President, Bishop O. T. Jones, Sr. of Philadelphia, deliver his annual address.

The Congress, an auxiliary of the largest Pentacostal denomination among Negroes, expected an inspired message and got one, not from Rev. O. T. Jones, Jr., who asked to speak on what he called a "Spiritual Revelation."

Seek Marshall Confirmation, And Audience with President

Atlanta—NAACP leaders were instructed here this week to "seek and obtain an audience with President Kennedy" in an attempt to secure confirmation of the appointment of Thurgood Marshall to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

Resolution

A resolution passed at the Association's 53rd annual convention here called upon the Association's president, chairman of the Board of Directors and executive secretary to seek the audience with the President.

Judge Marshall is former director-counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund. He was named to the court last September by the President.

Delaying Tactics

However, delaying tactics on the part of the Senate Judiciary Committee have blocked confirmation.

The 1,500 delegates attending the convention, July 2-8, concluded that "the only reasons for the delay are Judge Marshall's race, and his long, successful professional service in behalf of freedom."

The delegates then directed their state organizations, local branches and members to make their views known to their senators and representatives.

STOP! LOOK! AND LISTEN TO YOUR CHILD

It was a temper tantrum all right, I told myself as I watched my two-year-old kicking and screaming on the floor. She had been out playing and had come in suddenly, screaming and crying so that I couldn't make out a word.

"Oh-h! A temper tantrum." I finally thought in recognition. And with this explanation, a label of sorts, felt better. "Maybe she couldn't have her way about something. I must try to be calm until she quiets down."

Observant

Luckily, one of my neighbors was less calm and more observant—she found gravel under the child's eyelid while I stood there with my handy label, ignoring her problem. In her pain and confusion the child could not explain how or where she hurt, and in my anxiety—grabbed a label which blinded me. She could not talk and I could not see, and in the cruel impasse—a tantrum.

Seldom do parents so prematurely close their eyes and ears to a child's physical hurt, but this experience has reminded me, at other times when a child has become inexplicably tempestuous, to "look for the gravel."

Grown-up Kind

A more grown-up kind of tantrum one day when my daughter was older produced slamming of doors, kicks for the dog and rudeness to anyone who came near her. I was getting angry, and there was a ready-made answer. "You've been too easy on her. You've got to get tough." But some dim memory halted the harsh words I was about to use. "What's wrong, honey?" I asked.

Charitable

She began to cry, as if her world had come apart. "Everything," she said. Well, "everything" is a pretty big load, and I felt more charitable as she told me a bout it. Then as we considered the constructive things she could do, she put aside, almost gratefully, the destructive conduct. Haltingly, this time, I had heard through the static. I was glad I hadn't gotten "tough" first and made it "Everything, plus mother."

Methodist Youths Plan Park Picnic

Friday, July 6 the social committee of the Methodist Youth Council held its meeting while dining at Bishop's cafeteria. Plans were made for the annual picnic which will be held Sunday, Aug. 19 at MacRae Park.

$5 MILLION OFFERED TO SOLVE RACE PROBLEM

Chicago, Ill.—An anonymous Eastern millionaire wants to spend $5 million to help solve America's race problem—but he can't decide how to spend the money, reveals Ebony, the national Negro magazine. Negro leaders, to whom he took his unusual dilemma, cannot decide either, according to Ebony. The millionaire, whose desire to solve a problem seems to have created a different one, started it all by offering to sink $5 million into "a project that would most effectively benefit the American Negro as a whole."

HEALTH FOR ALL

Not Unusual Enough

Last year, Jim, a college student, was trying to move a refrigerator in the kitchen of his campus apartment. Suddenly he coughed and blood came up. He sat down to rest but the blood kept flowing.

He thought of tuberculosis but dismissed the idea. After all, he hadn't

Services Held for Rufus Parker, 75

Services for Rufus Parker, 75, of 819 Boyd avenue, were held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, at Union Baptist church with the Rev. Seymour Gaines officiating. Burial was in Glendale cemetery. He died at home Wednesday, July 4, after a two-year illness.

Born in Blockton, Ala., Mr. Parker had lived in Des Moines 50 years. He was a fireman at the Royal Union Building before his retirement. He was a trustee of Union Baptist church and was a member of the choir.

Surviving are his widow, Lela; a stepson, Irvin White of Des Moines, three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Hammit - Robinson Funeral Home were in charge of arrangements.

Among out-of-town guests attending the services were Mrs. Essie Steward of Ft. Smith, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paschall, Mrs. Etta Bailey, Mr. Robert Bailey, Mrs. Mabel Beasley, sister, nieces and nephews of Kansas City, Mo.

felt weak, or coughed up any blood before. He hadn't been running a temperature, nor had he lost any weight. He didn't even have a cough. But obviously something was very much wrong. He went to a doctor. The diagnosis? A well-advanced case of active tuberculosis.

Convalescence

It took months in a TB hospital and a long convalescence before Jim was well again. When he returned to his classes, he took more than usual interest in the poetry of John Keats, who died of TB at an early age.

Jim's story isn't as unusual as it should be. In a recent year there were almost 55,500 new active cases of tuberculosis reported. All told, there are 250,000 cases of active TB in the U.S. right now.

Treatment

TB could be wiped out in this country if we could find all the people ill with active TB and get them treated adequately. It is urgent that we detect and treat all active TB cases now, because TB germs resistant to the anti-tuberculosis drugs are developing rapidly. In a few years it may be too late. We shall have lost our chance to wipe out this dread scourge. If tuberculosis is found in its earliest stages, it is easiest to cure.

You can do your part. Get an annual TB check-up—tuberculin test or chest X-ray—for yourself and your whole family.

Des Moines residents are so busy going or returning from vacations that it is hard to keep up with who is still in town or leaving it. Those who do remain suffered through the kind of mid-summer heat that was only a mirage six months ago. Some welcome, though brief lived cool hours, came as a result of a storm Saturday night which caused major damage outside of Des Moines and some minor damage in some local homes, including the Fred McAliley home where strong gusts of wind toppled over a lamp causing some glass breakage.

By the time many of you read this my family and I will be ready to leave or enroute to Missouri on our vacation, for a week with my mother, Mrs. Pauline Watson, and brothers and sisters in Eolia. So until a week later, the young ladies at the By-stander, Mrs. Muriel Boggs and Miss Edna Porter will be glad to take your news and be of assistance to you. We plan to leave behind a column, most of which will probably be the explanation of an idea for presentation of "Potential Debutantes" in Des Moines. Originator of the idea is Mrs. Ralph Parker who recently attended the fabulous presentation of 40 Debs in Chicago, among them her niece, Cornelia A. Allen, formerly of Ottumwa, Ia., and now of Gary, Ind. We think it best to wait until next week for her idea along this line to give it ample space, which we could not do this week.

Mrs. Parker returned with glowing reports and enthusiasm for the Debutante Cotillion as presented in Chicago. We present some of her description and sidelights here (in addition to the main story above) so many of you can at least see what can be done as well as what is being done by other organizations in other cities.

A four course dinner was served at the Cotillion, with 10 seated at each table with a waiter for each table. Before the dessert was served waiters filed in bearing individual cakes on a candle-light pedestal, followed by more waiters bearing the letters of "Cotillion" in silver. The cakes, called Links Fantasy, had an ice cream base with cream frosting, and over this was poured Saboyan Sauce, which Mrs. Parker described as spicy, pungent, similar to eggnog.

Lining the ballroom floor were the family tables in a circle with the circle turntable fashioned and decorated as a rose from which the Debutantes were presented. (See story). Fathers wore black and white tuxedos with red boutonnieres and the women wore formal floor length

TACKLING PROBLEMS
CLOSE TO HOME

At its convention in Atlanta last week, the NAACP proposed to launch a series of legal actions against school segregation, restrictive housing and unemployment practices against Negroes in northern and western cities. Heretofore, most of its actions have been in the south, but with the large increase in Negro population in the north, where they live in one area and thus produce segregated schools by mere chance of residence, the problem becomes different. Housing restrictions by manipulation have made the purchase of homes in better neighborhoods more difficult. Generally, unemployment and automation have placed Negroes on relief rolls far out of proportion to the general population.

Efforts have been made to correct some of these conditions by human rights commissions and various voluntary groups but the situation moves at a snail's pace. This is particularly true of unemployment among men.

There are areas where Negroes fare worse in the north in spite of their enjoyment of unhampered voting and public accommodation.

The Bystander thought much of this difficulty would be solved by the creation of a human rights commission in Des Moines but unfortunately it has been hampered by restrictive enforcement powers and the unwillingness of the city council to stand behind the efforts of the organization to do a good job.

After all, it is important that a man earns a decent salary in order to buy the things that go along with first-class citizenship, to meet his responsibilities to his family and the community. And even though the state does much to assure a minimum of food, clothing and shelter, this arrangement is simply a stop gap, a bridge to tide a family over rough spots. But it is not the type of living which is conducive to a good independent responsible citizen.

Intelligent attack on the things which breed second class citizenship certainly deserves the support of everyone who believes in giving every citizen a chance to earn, learn, develop and grow.

BUILDING INDUSTRY
BEFUDDLES PRESIDENT

With their ear to the ground from the resounding pledge by President Kennedy during his campaign for the presidency that an executive order would be issued by him immediately after election barring racial discrimination in public and federal financed housing and the insistence by the NAACP and other groups that the pledge be honored, the building industry has made a survey among its members as to their attitude toward such a program.

This survey shows, they say, that 42% of those responding to the questionnaire said they would build no houses under such a program; that building construction would slow up by 50%.

Undoubtedly this is a trial balloon sent up to determine if the adverse affects of such an order would slow down building construction and thus throw thousands of people out of work.

The survey by the industry may be accurate but those 42 percent pretty well represent the die hard opposition to the elimination of racial prejudice in the activities of American life. On the other hand, among the fifty-eight per cent which took no position against or approved such an order, is a large segment of the population which either believes in non-discrimination or has no adverse opinion but wishes to see America practice what it preaches.

So far, President Kennedy has not met this issue head on preferring to counter the criticism by announcing some of the commendable things he has done to prove his friendship toward Negroes. He has two hot potatoes in his hands: an executive order against discrimination in housing and the confirmation of Thurgood Marshall as circuit judge. It will be interesting to see just how far he will go to back up what he has promised in these two matters.

Thoughts for Today

We, like all others who spend our days dealing with the fundamentals of life—the growing of food, the rearing of children, the building of homes—have developed a philosophy that is one of the backbones as well as the wishbone. It is: "Expect the best; prepare for the worst; and take what comes, with thankfulness." That's a big order, especially the last two words.

Birmingham Barons Play Here Sat. Nite

The Birmingham Barons baseball club of the American League will meet the fast Des Moines team at Sec Taylor Stadium Saturday, July 14th at 8:00 p.m. The Birmingham club has been touring the midwest and will be on their way north after this game. The club has currently won 31 and lost 12 games meeting some of the best semi-pro clubs in the midwest. The team has a good mound staff, Charles Rosch a 6 ft. 3½ inch giant a graduate of Alcorn A & M College has a 14 and 3 record besides being a good hitter and plays the outfield too.

Good Pitching

John Fairly only 5 ft. 6 weight 140 lbs. is probably the speediest pitcher of the club. Larry Williams is the ace lefty of the club has a record of 10 wins and 5 losses. Clarence Palmer 6 ft. 2, a pitcher and outfielder has worked in relief only holds a 3 and 1 record.

Leading Hitter

Henry Elmore the leading hitter on the team is also leading in home runs with 15. He is a 1st baseman. Bill Bartens, 2nd base is hitting at a .315 clip and hails from Southern College of Louisiana. Shortstop Robert Cardwell is 2nd in home runs and leads in R.B.I.'s. Cardwell was in the Cub chain in 1961, Rufus Gibson probably the best known of the Birmingham players is a vet of the Negro American league. Manager Frank Evans who holds down the left field spot is also a vet Negro American League player. He was with the New Orleans Creoles and Detroit Stars. He played double A ball from 1955 to 1961. Alonzo Perry is the fleetest man on the team and leads the team in stolen bases with 19 to date. Charles Lacey is the regular backstop, 20 years old and is considered a prospect for organized ball. The Barons also have additional entertainment with a twist king and a combination comedy pair to keep the fans interested all through the game.

NAACP Delegates

answered yes, and said the department was conducting its investigation.

"The TV stations gave the convention good coverage, but they took on tape and film the entire speech of Marshall. There was good coverage in the newspapers, especially the Atlanta Constitution.

Picketing

"We picketed 16 of the major hotels in downtown Atlanta. There were more than the usual number of police the first few days; they wanted to watch to see what would happen because Klansmen in their white suits and tall hats were also picketing all around Convention hall, plus some fascist groups. The Klansmen called us some names when we picketed but they did nothing else.

Housing

"All delegates were housed in private homes or on the campus of Morehouse college. It was very inconvenient making the daily cab trip because where we stayed was in the northwest part of town, which was about six miles from downtown.

"Most of the restaurants are open to all races, but there were none close by the convention headquarters. Several had signs up saying 'closed due to repairs.' The stores are alright. I bought some things for Arlene and the children at Rich's, which is about the largest in the South.

Denver in 1963

"The Fourth Region was well represented. We were successful in getting the 1963 convention for Denver, beating out Los Angeles.

Morris also had high praise for national known convention speakers, Roy Wilkins, Dr. Robert Weaver, Dr. Ralph Bunche, and Rev. M. L. King. Besides Morris, attending the convention was Mrs. Etta Grider of Sioux City and Mrs. Anna Mae Weems of Waterloo.

Wilma Keeps Title in Los Angeles Meet;
Named to Hall of Fame

Los Angeles, Cal.—Olympic champion Wilma Rudolph Ward easily defended her National Women's A. A. U. title in the 100-yard dash by winning the final Sunday night in 10.8 seconds.

In a morning semifinal heat, Wilma, apparently none the worse after a 6-month layoff, tied her own A. A. U. record with a :10.7 clocking. In another final, Leah Bennett of the University of Hawaii broke her own A. A. U. and American 880 record in 2:12.3.

First-and second-place winners will represent the United States against Russia in a meet at Palo Alto, Cal., July 21-22.

The evening before Wilma and Mildred McDaniel of Tennessee A. and L., and Earlene Brown of Compton, Calif., discus thrower, were named to the Helms Athletic Foundation's Women's Track and Field Hall of Fame.

Grambling-Led
Squad Arrives
In Nicaragua

Managua, Nicaragua—Seven members of the Grambling College basketball team arrived here as part of a 14-man American squad making a six week good-will tour of Latin America.

Cleve Oliver, tour business manager, called the tall American team "exceptionally strong with experience, shooting ability, balance, aggressiveness, speed and good all-over height."

The tour is under the auspices of the U.S. Department of State and the Amateur-Athletic Union.

Norfolk Soap Box
Derby Integrated

Norfolk, Va.—The old charge of racial segregation did not apply to Norfolk's Tidewater Soap Box Derby, scheduled for Sunday, July 8.

The derby, run at the Naval Amphibious Base overpass, featured two Negro candidates, who along with other teen-age competitors have built their own racer automobiles.

A few years ago the All-Star baseball team group got put out when a group of fans got together and voted in just about one whole team. So they took the voting away from the fans and let the players vote. Now, there have been several instances of players who should make the team being slighted. In justice to the voters it sometimes happens that a player gets hot too late to be voted on. But, such was not the case of the latest fellows, Jimenez of Kansas City and Roberson of Cincinnati.

Weakness

The only excuse offered so far on Jimenez is that he has a weakness for high balls. But, didn't say which kind. About Roberson, there is a large silence. But a friend of ours ventured the opinion that there were too many Negroes on the National league lineup.

Negroes

If it were handled right there could be as many as six Negroes out there at once. That would never do so the players pick the teams and they leave off good men for spite, a purely personal reason. Why not let the sports writers try a hand at it? Whoever does it is going to have the same problems, human beings being what they are.

If you were out to the baseball park last week and you saw a well played game with Satchel Paige doing his stuff for a while. His team had some youngsters who might make it in organized ball. The Monarchs were a settled team.

But it was a good game and even a good crowd. One look at the crowd and the teams knew they would be back here.

Last Rites Held
For Trotter Star

Chicago — Funeral services for James (Scully) Buckner, 51, former member of the Harlem Globetrotters basketball team who died in Veterans Research Hospital here, were held last week at the Griffin funeral home.

Buckner joined the Trotters after starring as all-city basketball center from Wendell Phillips High school from 1929 through 1931.

After leaving the Globetrotters, Buckner worked for the Illinois Central Railroad for 20 years. During World War II, he served in the Air Force.

Negroes Integrate
Williams Park

Macon, Ga.—City-owned Luther Williams Park here recently was integrated by a total of 12 Negroes, by simply purchasing tickets to a Macon-Asheville South Atlantic League and then taking seats in a section previously reserved for "white patrons."

There were no incidents, but about 20 white customers reportedly demanded and got ticket refunds.

Another sports star on the same team, known mostly for his basketball antics, was Goose Tatum, formerly with the Harlem Globe Trotters. The Stars tied the game in the eighth inning, 8-8, but lost on an error and a double in the top of the ninth.
