Convictions of Pickets Set Aside by High Court

Rules 8-1 on Pilot South Carolina Case Involving Students

Washington, D.C.—The conviction of 187 Negro students on charges of breach of the peace resulting from anti-segregation demonstration on the South Carolina Capitol grounds was set aside by the highest court in the land. Regarded as a test case of its kind, civil rights leaders welcomed it as an overwhelming victory.

In an 8-1 decision the U.S. Supreme court cleared the pickets who were from college and high schools of breaking the law.

Rights

Stewart's opinion said that "in arresting, convicting and punishing the petitioners (the demonstrators) under the circumstances disclosed by this record, South Carolina infringed the petitioners' constitutionally protected rights of free speech, free assembly and freedom to petition for redress of their grievances."

Joining Stewart in the majority were Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justices Hugo Black, William Douglas and Tom Clark.

69 Junior High Students Attend Youth Forum at Willkie

Sixty-nine junior high school students from Washington Irving and Callanan schools attended the Youth forum Monday, Feb. 18, at Willkie House, who co-sponsored the forum with Phi chapter of Delta Sigma Theta sorority. The response came from mailed invitations to students at the two schools.

Followup

The event was so successful that a followup was held Monday, Feb. 25 at the same place.

The session began with a warmup by Jesse Taylor followed by the showing of a film, "When I'm Old Enough, Goodbye," by Robert Blank, of the U. S. Employment office. A discussion followed led by Rev. Jesse Hawkins, Polk County juvenile officer and Olaf Anderson, of the Des Moines Child Guidance center.

Purpose

Purpose of the forums is to encourage youth to think of the problems facing them regarding their education and careers and to offer resources of interested persons to assist them.

Refreshments were served by Willkie House. A meeting is slated on Mar. 2 for parents of youths who have expressed interest in the project by involvement of students, parents and community. It is hoped that some will be motivated to remain in school and get their diplomas.

Mrs. N. R. Ophlin is president of Phi chapter and Mrs. Helen B. Stevens is executive secretary of Willkie House.

Preliminary Hearing Fri.; James Boone Found with 2 Bullet Wounds in Head

A preliminary hearing on an open charge of murder will be held Friday, Mar. 1 at 1:30 p.m. for Mrs. Lucille Lena Boone, 40 in connection with the Sunday night shooting of her husband, James Lee Boone, 47.

According to police officers Boone was found slumped in a chair in the living room of their apartment at 1512 Center street, with two bullet wounds in his head. A .38-caliber pistol was laying on a table nearby. Mrs. Boone was taken to police headquarters where she was arraigned Monday on an open charge of murder before Municipal Judge Luther T. Glanton, Jr. She is being held without bail pending the hearing.

Police investigators said Mrs. Boone told this story. She left the city last July and did not return until about three weeks ago. Last Friday, Feb. 22 she left the apartment and did not return. Her husband finally found her Sunday about 4:30 p.m. and brought her back to the apartment.

Mrs. Boone told police she and her husband began quarreling. She said a gun was laying on the dining table.

She said her husband lunged for it, but she managed to wrest it from his hands.

The couple had been married 14 years and had a record of numerous quarrels over the years, some of them resulting in police attention.

The body of Mr. Boone was taken to Estes and Son Funeral Home pending funeral services.

Preston Cobb, 16, Scheduled To Die in Georgia Electric Chair Friday; Seek Reprieve

Atlanta—In a last minute effort to save a condemned 17-year-old boy from execution, ordered for March 1, his NAACP attorneys this week prepared to file an application for a writ of habeas corpus in the United States District Court here.

Preston Cobb, Jr., the doomed youth, was 15 years old two years ago when he was convicted by an all-white Jasper County jury of the slaying of Frank Coleman Dumas, 70-year-old white farmer. He was sentenced to death and his execution set for Sept. 22, 1961.

Refused

At the request of his mother, the NAACP entered the case and retained Donald L. Hollowell, an Atlanta NAACP attorney, who filed a motion for a new trial. Mr. Hollowell and NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter carried the case through lower courts up to the United States Supreme Court which, on Jan. 7 of this year, refused to review the judgment of the lower courts.

On Feb. 19, Superior Court Judge

New Date

George S. Carpenter in Jasper County set the new execution date for March 1. Contending that young Cobb has been improperly detained, Hollowell prepared to file the application for the writ of habeas corpus seeking an order from Federal District Judge Frank M. Scarlett releasing the youth.

The original death sentence imposed on Cobb aroused worldwide concern because of his youth. Georgia law permitted the execution of children as young as 10 years old. Since that time the state has moved to raise the minimum age to 16.

HOT OFF THE PRESS . . .

Washington (Exclusive)—The nation's capitol, this week and last was seething with political "potpourri" that struck an all-too-familiar note: They're not after his, Adam's apple—Actually, they're after Adam; It's a political game of scrapple And it will cease—Heaven knows when!

It didn't matter whether Negroes in nearby Maryland (in Baltimore because of Race. The fact that Fidel Castro was marching his armed strength and showing off his military might for all the world to see—got only the comment, "Castro hasn't indicated that he wants a war with the U.S." And when another Negro's try for entry into Ol' Miss was ignored, it was not Page 1 news . . . but, on the floor of the House of Representatives, it became evident that Republican Senator John J. Williams was after Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr.'s political scalp. This, mind you, was more important to both the Senate and House representatives than Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace statement, that he had asked the legislature to include in its budget for the next fiscal year special funds for contesting anti-segregation law suits. In Alabama, it's "Segregation forever."

While on more than one occasion Congressman Powell has announced that he'd retire from political wars, who can deny that Harlem's favorite son, No. 1 minister and odds-on favorite to win against anyone seeking his seat, will always retain "their Congressman and leader" to Harlemites? Brickbats, political or otherwise—mean naught.

This thing could go on and on . . . SPORTS OF SORTS: The New York Yankees pitcher Marshall Bridges, who made a wild pitch at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., recently, has been placed on the waiver list. The pride of the Yankees?

Theatrically: Nipsey Russell, the comic, who has been a mainstay at The Baby Grand, in New York's Harlem, and an outstanding performer on Jack Paar's TV show, is currently vowing diversion seekers in San Francisco. He appears at the Oakland Auditorium on March 2 . . . Sammy Davis, Jr., topped the star studded NAACP show in N.Y.C. on last Tuesday midnite . . . Harold (Feet) Washington, one of the bright stars of yesteryear, critically ill in the Polyclinic Hosp., in N.Y.C. (Ward 701). Joint the Heartline, drop him a Get Well card! . . . Al Vigil, who now makes his home on the west coast, made the trip to N.Y. town to cop third prize at the Beaux Arts Ball at the Waldorf Astoria . . . Jerome Rhea, that charming fellow who was linked with the Duke Ellington Orchestra as a public relations man—long before Madison Avenue became the p.r. source, died after a lingering illness, here in Washington, last week. Duke Ellington telephoned to the Rhea residence to express sympathy all the way from Germany where he is now appearing . . . Another Gotham item has our friend Ralph Cooper back on the boards as em cee at Harlem's Apollo Theatre. Coop tops 'em all!

Charles Sumner (Chuck) Stone, AFRO AMERICAN editor here in the nation's capital, has been named to a $14,000 post as head of the United States Information Agency in Tanyanyika.

Dick Tiger, the Middleweight champion, and Gene Fullmer, the Mormon mauler, the pair that went 15 bloody rounds in Las Vegas, Nevada, last Saturday, will do it one more time. That last called "a draw" indicated that Fullmer changed his style completely as Tiger had whipped him decisively in the previous go.

Personally Yours
By Frances Mulhorne.

By the time you read this I will have descended from my queenship perch and again come down to earth . . . but it was good while I was up there as "Queen for a Day." I am talking about my Feb. 25th birthday which was celebrated on Sunday, with my family giving me the day off, with nothing whatsoever to do. The day began luxuriously with breakfast in bed and later they all collaborated to get a wonderful birthday dinner, including a luscious chocolate birthday cake. During the singing of the traditional "Happy Birthday" song our 2-year-old declined to sing being more interested in sampling the frosting with a practiced finger.

We had a mouth watering conversation with Mrs. Clara Bayles who spoke at an African dinner on Saturday, Feb. 16 at the State University of Iowa. At the Sunday brunch given by Prof. and Mrs. Frank Seiberling (he is head of the Art department), Mrs. Bayles described some of the sumptuous dishes, asparagus wrapped in bacon, shrimp and oyster casseroles just to name a few.

"Every dish had meat in it and everything was just delicious," she said.

Mrs. Bayles and her husband, and Mrs. Helen Lemme, also attended a reception given by Prof. and Mrs. W. Wallace Maner (he is foreign student advisor at SU) given in their top suite at the International Building, following the foreign student dinner.

Due to the last minute decision to have only four pages, we had to postpone publication of mid year graduates, scheduled for last week, to this edition. We had no sooner contacted the January graduates when the schools began sending out copies of lists of the June graduates. Again Miss Lynda Walker, scheduled to graduate in June from Des Moines Technical, is assisting us by indicating the Negro students. Lynda, who worked in the office for the past year, has transferred to the library this semester.

Speaking of capable, conscientious youths, Macedonia Baptist church has one of the youngest reporters in the city in Miss Juanita Whitney, junior at Roosevelt high school and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whitney, 913 24th street.

Back to Mrs. Bayles for a moment. She was speaker for a monthly meeting of the teenage group of the Des Moines chapter of Jack and Jill

SOME LEGISLATORS
SHOW LACK OF
COMMON KNOWLEDGE

The Iowa Legislature has before it a fair employment measure which has been the case for the past four sessions. Considerable work has been done by interested individuals to enlighten the legislators on the provisions of the measure and how such legislation has operated in other states and in some cities.

Some members favor the measure as written which includes punitive enforcement powers; some prefer not to go that far feeling that conciliation of complaints and education will at least be a start in the right direction; some favor no bill at all.

Some opponents of the measure have stated objections which, to our way of thinking, make them unfit to serve as legislators showing clearly that they are not acquainted with the Negro situation in Iowa. They state that there is no discrimination in employment in Iowa. This, of course, is ridiculous and it shows that such people not only fail to look around to know what is going on under their feet but also fail to avail themselves of the reports and surveys which prove that discrimination in employment of Negroes in Iowa and other states as well.

Other critics follow the line of those weak-kneed individuals who feel that the Negro is pushing this quest for his rights too fast. Such people forget that the constitutions of the United States and of Iowa define the rights of citizens. Negroes are only asking that their rights be accorded no different from those of other citizens. These great documents make no deduction nor do they provide for the degrees of time to begin.

RICE INSTITUTE
SEEK CHANGE IN BENEFACTOR'S WILL

Rice Institute in Texas was established by a wealthy benefactor whose will restricted admission to white students and that no tuition should be charged.

The cost of education has become so high that under the terms of that will, the trustees find it difficult to make ends meet. Then too, Texas is one of the southern states which has done a good job integrating the schools and thus, under the terms of the will, Rice could not participate in this social change.

The trustees decided to do something about this road block to the progress of Rice Institute, so they have gone to court and asked for an interpretation of that will in the light of present school conditions.

In the application, in addition to citing the need for more income in the way of tuition, the trustees said that no school could be a great institution unless it admitted qualified students without regard to race, color or religion. This is definitely true.

The exclusion of a group from a school or athletic team naturally keeps out some good scholars and athletes. And for either to be the best among all, they must not exclude some for purely superficial reason. The trustees of Rice Institute are to be congratulated.

Dissent

Clark's dissenting opinion said that the demonstrators "of course had a right to peaceable assembly, to espouse their cause and to petition."

But, he added, "in my view the manner in which they exercised those rights was by no means the passive demonstration which this court (the majority) relates."

N.A.A.C.P. View

Jack Greenberg, New York attorney for the Legal Defense and Educational Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), told the Supreme Court that there was no violence by demonstrators or on-lookers.

"If it could be seen that there was a threat of violence by onlookers," he argued, "it was the duty of police to proceed against the aggressors, not their duty to gratify the aggressors by proceeding against the demonstrators."

We were a bit saddened by the news that this year's meet in Chicago may be the last of the tournaments of champions as it was called. Mounting expenses and other minor details, chief of which was the rule headguards mandatory for amateur boxers, helped do away with the meet.

Then in later years since 1950 we could sense a change in the general attitude of the boxers, sponsors and the public. In the beginning fellows sponsored the meets in various cities with no thought of getting the money back. What started out as a promotion gag for newspapers snowballed into one of the biggest things in the country. Kids from towns that were just a wide spot in the road came into Chicago and likely or not lost their first fights because they tried to see all the city in one day.

Sponsors

Sponsors enjoyed seeing the boys battle and in a lot of cases we personally know of, insisted that the money be put back into amateur boxing. We know of a few local fellows who became pretty fair fighters because the Golden Gloves sponsors outfitted a gym for a former boxer and put him in charge. The fellow happened to be a dedicated boxing teacher and really taught his pupils the fine points of the game. Then when a fellow was working and made the team, the sponsors saw to it that he didn't lose his wages because of the trip. One team we accompanied to Chicago, Ill., had three married guys on it and not a one of their families suffered because Daddy was in Chicago for a few days.

In later days that changed. Some were guys who said that doing such things as taking care of the family of a married boxer, giving kids who fought on cards a few bucks was making them pros, so we better stop that and keep all the money. Now at that time amateur athletes were allowed up to seven dollars a day for expense money and none of those kids got over five professionals.

Then the kids began to change; fist fights became rare and few fellows wanted to spend much time in a gym learning how to protect himself. Just became easier to shoot or stab the fellow.

Did you see the pro game at the Vets auditorium in this social change? There isn't much we could say that the daily papers didn't say.

Little League Tickets
For Rodeo Carnival
Go On Sale Here

Ticket sales start this week for a rodeo and carnival June 7-16 at Sec Taylor Stadium for the benefit of Little League baseball teams of Greater Des Moines.

Plans for the event were announced Saturday by Austin E. Wood, West Des Moines, district director of Little League Baseball.

Tickets will be sold by parents of Little Leaguers and by members of four locals of the Teamsters Union, sponsor of the show.

Known as the Greater Des Moines Little League Festival, the event will feature a professional rodeo and carnival and television personalities. Producer of the shows is Glosser Productions, Hot Springs, Ark.

Proceeds

The Little Leagues' share of gross proceeds will provide needed funds for uniforms, equipment and operating expenses of the young baseball teams, Wood announced.

The Greater Des Moines Little League Association has opened offices for the festival at 414 Savings and Loan Bldg., and telephone and mail orders for tickets are being handled there.

This will be the first time a city-wide money-raising event of this nature for Little Leaguers has been held anywhere in the nation, Wood said.

Interracial Pair
Walks 50 Miles,
Then Bowl 431

Columbus, Ohio—An interracial pair took President Kennedy at his word. They used their off day on the birthday of another president—Abraham Lincoln—to prove their fitness by hiking 50 miles.

Curtis Grace, 33, and his white companion, 22-year-old Ronald Kekes, completed the test—from Defiance, Ohio to Toledo—in 13 hours and 15 minutes.

Sipping orange juice and smiling wearily after the end of a journey over snow-covered highways, Grace said.

"I'm going bowling at 6:30." So after a hot bath and dinner he joined his teammates on the lanes and rolled 431.

He recalled that 20-mile hikes in Korea were worse than the trek he took with Kekes, a 6-footer. Grace stands 5'6. He is married and has six children.

A nonsmoker, nondrinker, he keeps himself in shape by daily calisthenics. He even leads his five older children through the exercises when they get home from school. Walking miles, however, is an everyday occurrence with Grace. He is a rubbish collector for the city and chucks up many miles each day.

TEN COMMANDMENTS
OF HUMAN RELATIONS

1. Speak to people. There is nothing as nice as a cheerful word of greeting.
2. Smile at people. It takes 72 muscles to frown, only 14 to smile.
3. Call people by name. The sweetest music to anyone's ears is the sound of his own name.
4. Be friendly and helpful; If you would have friends, be friendly.
5. Be cordial. Speak and act as if everything you do were a genuine pleasure.

6. Be genuinely interested in people. You can like everybody if you try.
7. Be generous with praise—cautious with criticism.
8. Be considerate with the feelings of others. It will be appreciated.
9. Be thoughtful of the opinions of others. There are three sides to a controversy—yours, the other fellow's and the right one.
10. Be alert to give service. That counts most in life what we do for others.
