New Unique Legal Suit Filed In Public Accommodations With U.S. Supreme Court

Washington — Attorneys of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund today filed a public accommodations brief in the U. S. Supreme Court which, if successful, would vindicate thousands of sit-in demonstrators.

In a unique legal move, a battery of 18 attorneys seeks to make southern states take an affirmative obligation to protect Negroes protesting laws and customs brought about by state action.

Combines 3 Cases

The brief points out the improbability of punishment for sit-in type conduct in any of the Western European democracies or in England or any of the British Commonwealth nations.

This brief is a combination of three cases involving student sit-in demonstrations, two in South Carolina, the other in Maryland.

Legal Defense Fund attorneys further point out that the states have affirmative responsibility to protect equal rights of citizens and argue that the southern states have not met this responsibility when they allow lunch counter segregation.

The brief also urges that constitutional prohibitions against racial discrimination must be applied to the public life of the community, but need not apply to the private and personal lives of citizens.

3 Patterns

Three patterns, by which southern states (South Carolina and Maryland in this instance) deny Negroes equal justice, are summarized:

State courts and public officials "are employed to enforce a scheme of racial discrimination originating in a nominally 'private' choice."

"Where a nominally 'private' act or scheme of racial discrimination is performed . . . because of the influence of custom, and where such custom has been, in turn, in significant part, created or maintained by formal law."

Where laws are maintained that place "a higher value on a narrow property claim" than it does on the claim of Negroes "to move about free from inconvenience and humiliation of racial discrimination."

New Points

The latter is one of the new points of law that hopefully will be decided by the court.

The Legal Defense Fund is urging that southern states have improperly decided to back store owners who cite local custom and state laws calling for jim crow treatment of Negroes.

The attorneys said "maintaining a 'narrow' property right, which consists of nothing but the exclusion of Negroes" should not be allowed "to justify a state in knowing support of public discrimination."

M/Sgt. Robert D. Phillips Awarded Army Commendation Medal in France

Verdun, France—Master Sgt. Robert D. Phillips of 1501 E. 29th Street, Des Moines, Iowa has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal according to a recent announcement made here by officials of Headquarters, 4th Logistical Command.

The Medal was awarded to Sgt. Phillips in recognition for meritorious performance of duty while serving as information specialist with the XXI U.S. Army Corps' Headquarters at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Pa., during the period April 15, 1960 to May 2, 1963. It was subsequently forwarded here for presentation to the sergeant, who arrived at his new overseas duty station June 29. Brig. Gen. Donald G. Grothaus, Commanding General of the Command made the presentation, while lauding the recipient for his achievement and dedicated devotion to duty.

Citation

The citation accompanying the Medal stated in part: "Sgt. Phillips distinguished himself by his outstanding performance of duty as Information Specialist. As a direct result of his interest, high degree of professional competence and untiring efforts, the Hometown News Release program for active Army and Army Reserve personnel and Public Information coverage in connection with the Corps' Marksmanship Program was increased by 70 and 85 percent respectively."

Pride

The citation likewise pointed out that Sergeant Phillips applied initiative and exceptional resourcefulness in all duty assignments. "His pride in being a member of the United States Army is continually demonstrated by his high standards of conduct and personal appearance, unceasing loyalty and cooperation", it continued.

20 Years

A veteran of more than 20 years service, Sergeant Phillips initially entered the Army in December 1942. He has since remained on active duty status, completing tours of duty at Fort Lee, Va., Camps Ellis and Grant in Illinois, Korea, Fort Benning, Ga., Fort Bragg, N.C., and Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. A graduate of Tennessee State University at Nashville, he also attended Drake University Law School prior to launching his military career.

Duties

Assigned to the 4th Logistical Command's Information Division, Sgt. Phillips is currently serving as Troop Information Supervisor. His duties involve the overall administration and supervision of the Command's troop information program as prescribed for its subordinate units located throughout France and the western portion of the Federal Republic of Germany. In addition, he is responsible for the preparation and dissemination to these units, quarterly troop information guidance plans.

Family to Join

Sgt. Phillips' wife, the former Evelyn Brooks of Des Moines and their son, Robert, 14, are currently residing at the E. 29th Street address. They will depart the states the latter part of September enroute to France, where they will join the sergeant for the remaining portion of his overseas tour of duty.

Thirty-five Iowans can say . . . "they were there!!" A bus load of Iowans were represented and participated in the heralded civil rights march on Washington, D. C., yesterday as thousands came by bus, plane, train, cars and on foot to focus attention for support of President Kennedy's civil rights proposal to Congress.

The air-conditioned chartered bus, complete with toilet facilities left Des Moines at 7 a.m. Monday with 35 persons aboard. They ranged from high school students, college students, ministers, a farm wife, and other professional and lay persons interested in civil rights.

Mrs. Marion Williams, 6215 Windsor drive, and wife of a Des Moines pharmacist, served as co-ordinator for the drive to secure representatives to make the trip and also served as trip chairman and captain of the bus.

Attending

Mrs. Williams reported the other Iowans as Ernest Russell, executive director of the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights, Leon Jones, Jr., and Harold Kennerly, students at Parsons college, Carole Kennerly, a June graduate of the State University of Iowa, Mrs. Beverly Trout, an Altoona housewife, Mrs. Stanley Griffin, chairman of the Des Moines CORE group, and her two daughters, Linda and Phyllis, Rev. Washington, D.C.—A historic moment in the realm of civil rights was recorded here Wednesday when nearly a quarter-million persons, members of all races, converged on this nation's capitol for a demonstration march to focus attention on the need for congressional action on civil rights issues.

Among the first vanguard of buses, planes, trains and other vehicles to arrive was the bus carrying the delegation of 35 Iowans.

Director

Serving as director of the march was A. Phillip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood Union of Sleeping Car Porters who appointed William H. Johnson, Jr., as chief marshal. Some 1500 members of 16 Negro civil service fraternal organizations and the six major civil rights groups served as volunteer marshals during the demonstration. They had no jurisdiction only over the marchers.

At 7:30 a.m. central time the leaders of the march met at the Capitol with congressional leaders then the marchers assembled at the grounds of Washington Monument an hour later and began marching at 9:30 a.m. to the Lincoln Memorial.

Main Program

The main ceremonies began at Lincoln Memorial with Marian Anderson singing the National Anthem. The marchers heard brief speeches from the leaders of the sponsoring organization.

Negro Must Become More Responsible When Bias Ends Negro Author Says

New York—The Negro must become "a much more responsible citizen than he now is" after integration has been achieved, a leading Negro author declared today.

Writing in the current issue of Look Magazine, Louis E. Lomax asserted that Negroes, on the whole, "are not ready to assume the responsibilities that are inseparable concomitants of the freedoms we seek."

Underdeveloped

When visible, legal segregation is ended, Lomax said, "Negroes must come to grips with the fact that they are an underdeveloped people."

"There are reasons for this," he added, "and the Negro's 'cultural gap' has everything to do with what has happened to the black man in America since his reluctant migration from Africa."

"But that was almost 400 years ago. To be sure we are still scarred by what happened then, and since, but democracy is as demanding as it is infectious, and the Negro is by no means relieved of the imperative

Must Be Taught

"The American Negro must be taught and is ready to be taught."

Lomax, author of "Negro Revolt" and "The Reluctant African," said in Look he doubts that the present Negro leaders can do the job within the Negro community they are now doing against the white establishment.

"They are too protest-minded, too caught up—and rightly so—in removing segregation. But a younger crop of Negro leaders who can do an intracommunity job are already waiting in the wings," he declared.

Des Moines Family Holds Interracial Picnic In Their Spacious Yard; 80 Persons Attend

For a number of years a Des Moines couple has been promoting an integrating movement of their own, an annual daylong picnic in which parents and children of both races in their neighborhood are invited to come and enjoy games, good food and warm fellowship with one another.

The couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Madison, 1017 Shaw street, who are the parents of a grown son. The Madisons got the idea for the picnic because they felt the need of getting better acquainted with their neighbors. They began having the picnic in the front yard of their home situated on a spacious lot.

Mrs. Madison prepares for the festivities by cooking two days in advance, she prepares all kinds of meats, various vegetables from her own garden, pastries and other baked goods and delicious items, as only she can prepare them.

This year some 80 parents and children came and enjoyed races, games and sports of all kinds. Many came from as far as Ames, Ia.

The Madisons who have enjoyed the annual picnics as much as their guests have modestly refrained from making public the event. This story was made possible from friends who enjoyed this year's picnic so much and felt it should be brought to the attention of the public.

Personally Yours by Frances Hawthorne.

The lazy, vacationing summer days draw to a close as school bells poise to ring the summons for thousands of boys and girls back to their desks and studies for the next nine months.

... We had a delightful three months that, looking backward, seem like one month instead, what with our trip to Texas, then three of our sisters coming for a visit and the past week our mother and brother ... In these last few days we, like hundreds of mothers, are putting last minute touches on school wardrobes for our youngsters and getting ourselves in order to be ready for the daily morning "rush hour" of getting them off to school on time ...

Among mid-August vacationers are members of the George Robinson, Jr., family, 1134 14th place. Mr. Robinson and daughter, Linda, accompanied by Mrs. Robinson's mother, left last week for Corpus Christi, Tex., to visit Mr. Robinson's mother. Mrs. Robinson remained at home with their son, Kirby, but over the weekend she was left alone when he went to Minneapolis, Minn., where he visited with another brother, George, an engineer with the Honeywell company there. Mrs. Robinson said she planned to fill in some of the lone hours by having her niece stay with her.

Last week was a very busy week and it prevented me and our four youngsters from enjoying the annual cookie party given by Mrs. Bernice Richmond in her spacious yard, at 1232 13th street. I stopped by later with my mother, Mrs. Pauline Wat-

MISUSING AUTHORITY BY PUBLIC OFFICIALS

Some years ago, the police and fire departments succeeded in pushing a measure through the Iowa legislature giving the pension boards of the respective services the responsibility of giving the oral examination for their department. This includes many angles including the physical examination.

This bill of goods was sold to the legislators on the ground that this authority would help maintain the pension funds and the selection of candidates who would make good officers.

Ordinarily, this would be true should the authority be administered properly. Unfortunately it has not, for in addition to the requirement of passing a fair examination, like the apprenticeship committees in most plants, these boards have on occasions, used their exalted position to deny some candidates a passing mark on superficial grounds.

The Bystander has criticized these boards for years because some have used their positions illegally as was demonstrated in 1961 with the police pension board.

Over the years, some members of the civil service commissions have resented this criticism arguing that the Bystander knew personally of their honesty and integrity. We know that this is true. But as long as these boards constitute a part of the civil service commission, its members must bear the responsibility, and see that fair play prevails. It would make some amends. To date, the atmosphere is bad.

DIFFERENT METHODS OF OBTAINING CIVIL RIGHTS

For the past few weeks, Negroes in Omaha, Nebraska have conducted a series of marches and sit-ins protesting racial discrimination in employment and their exclusion from some semi-public accommodations. Ministers seem to have led the movement and were ably assisted by various organizations and individuals.

The campaign got heated at times but the protesters stood their ground with the result that the facility, Peony Park, (a team from that park competed in meets at Good Park for years) dropped segregation and several stores, including S. S. Kresge and Company, Hinky Dinky, Safeway and few other establishments agreed to hire and in some instances increased the number of Negroes in their employ.

Considerable publicity has been given the Omaha protest and the results. They deserve it.

Here in Des Moines, the Human Rights Commission, N.A.A.-C.P. and other groups, by negotiation, have succeeded in opening new jobs with the Anderson-Erickson Dairy, Katz Drug and others. Employment for Negroes has increased at Armstrong Rubber, John Deere and Firestone Plants. It did not require sit-ins, pickets or marches to get this job done.

Des Moines has been far ahead of Omaha in some areas of employment; behind in others. Here are presented two approaches to the elimination of segregation and discrimination: Omaha the spectacular demonstrative kind; Des Moines the quiet negotiating step.

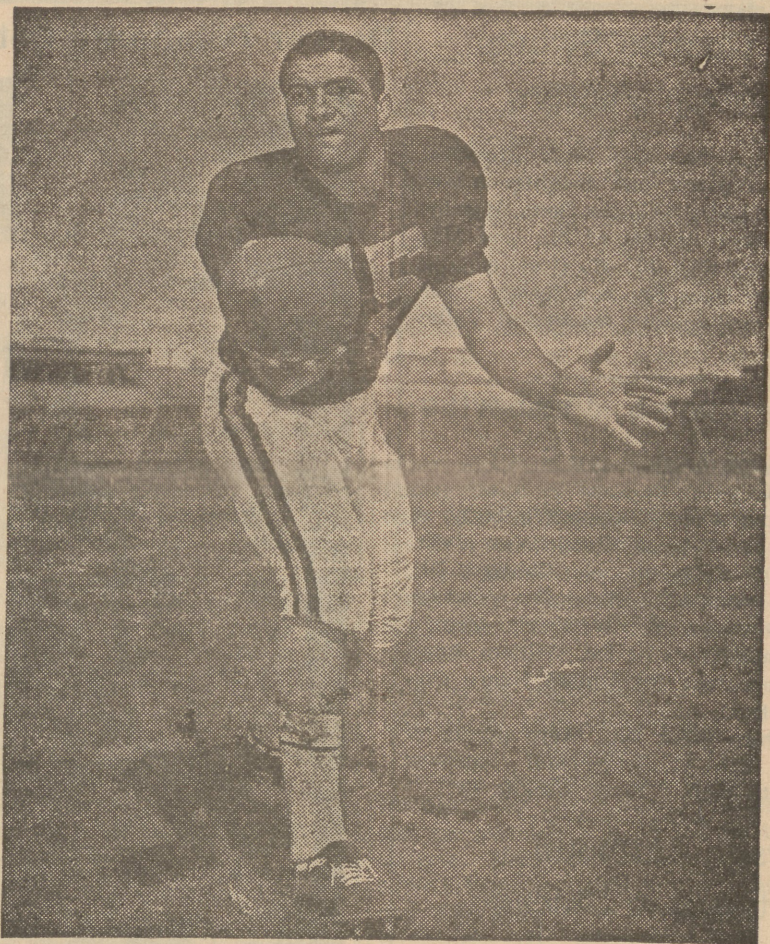

While both get results, the demonstrative approach gets more support from the masses for they can see action—see that their leaders are trying to get a job done. But without demonstrations, the public generally is not fully informed that progress is being made, and the masses raise doubts that their leaders are doing a good job.

Of course, if these problems can be settled without sit-ins, marches and other forms of demonstrations, it is more satisfactory. If not, their complaints must be made known by such protest a swill get results without the use of force and the violation of the law.

ALL NEGRO PARTY
CAN'T SURVIVE

Periodically, some forces get the idea that they can accomplish their ends by organizing a political party. Labor did so many years ago and it died; the Socialist party has never made much headway. President Theodore Roosevelt tried it years ago with the Bull Moose party; Henry

Wilkins Faces Trial
In Miss. Case Sept. 9

Jackson, Miss.—The trial of Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, on charges of interfering with trade has been tentatively set for Sept. 9.

Wilkins was arrested here on June 1 as he led an anti-segregation demonstration sponsored by the NAACP branch in Jackson. He was released under $10,000 bond.

Invoked 1st Time

The charge against the NAACP leader is a felony and was invoked for the first time during the demonstrations with his arrest. Arrested with Wilkins and charged with the same offense were the late Medgar W. Evers, NAACP field secretary for Mississippi, and Miss Helen Wilcher.

The three were carrying placards urging people not to buy from merchants on Capitol Street because of their discriminatory practices. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of $10,000, considerably stiffer than for the previous charges of trespass and breach of the peace.

Wilkins and Miss Wilcher will be represented at the trial by NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter of New York City and Jack Young, NAACP lawyer in Jackson.

Wallace with a progressive party. Both are dead.

The American people have kept the Republican and Democrat party for a hundred years. They cover the territory pretty well.

Recently, a Negro lawyer has announced the organization of an all Negro party. It is doomed from the start and simply detracts from the Negro's strength in the Republican and Democrat parties.

1500 Hear Speeches
On Bias in Davenport

Davenport, Ia. — More than 1500 persons of both races attended a civil rights rally here Friday night sponsored by the Davenport branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Purpose of the demonstration was to dramatize and focus on the problem of Civil rights in the Quad-Cities and the nation.

The rally began with a peaceful march by about 400 persons through part of downtown Davenport to Le Claire Park, site of the two-hour rally.

Not Satisfied

Mel Pettis of Rock Island, Ill., a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and the Quad-Cities Council on Civil Right, told the gathering that Negroes in the Quad-Cities have made accomplishments "but we are not satisfied with the progress that has been made."

The biggest Negro problem he said, is finding adequate Negro housing. He placed the blame for this on real estate salesmen, the lending institutions and public administrators.

North

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. D. Conway of Davenport noted that discrimination in the North "is a little nicer, a little more hidden, a little more genteel."

The featured speaker was John Howard Griffin, a white who colored his skin and spent several months in the South posing as a Negro.

The Traveling Brothers

Two men came to town,
One was white, the other one brown.
Brothers they were you see,
One like you, the other like me.
Into a restaurant they did walk,
Full of gay anxiety and talk.
They owner looked, but did not smile.
He hesitated there for a while.
They he walked up to them,
And said, Sir, I can't serve him.
Brothers always we shall be,
If you can't serve him, you can't serve me.
Turning in anger to and fro,
He said to his brown brother shall we go.
Into the car they both jumped,
Up the road they went bumpy,
bump.
Then they saw a sign saying room for rent,
Up to the door they both went.
A little old lady came to the door,
She looked, and said, we only have room for one more.
Looking at one another and nodding their heads,

That's okay, we're brothers, we can share the same bed.
The little old lady was very wise,
Saw they needed rest and was glad to oblige.
Bright and early the next morning they did leave.
In their car, their map, they did read.
Seeking their distance, and time they need,
To keep in limits of the speed.
Four hundred more miles they had to go,
Their fuel was getting a little low.
Stopping in the next town to check their car and eat,
They found it to be friendly, fine, and discreet.
Once again they were on the road,
Having checked their car and their load.
Smiling gay and singing songs,
Down the road they traveled along.
Finally reaching their campus site,
They thought this was to begin their fight.
They vowed to stay with one another,

And let all know that they're true brothers.
Into the college they did walk,
Many stopped to stare and talk.
After getting settled in this old school,
They unpacked their clothes and went over the rules.
This school was integrated now you know,
But this was the first brown skin who ever tried to go.
They bunked together in the old dorm,
And never once did any crowds perform.
They were accepted, both of them,
And now they had plenty of friends.
The old school was different from their point of view,
They expected it to be prejudiced, of course, there were a few.
So this is my story, I've now let you know,
Of the two traveling brothers who went up the road.

LEADERS ARE BORN

THEN MADE

In our complex world, the "born leader" isn't enough. He needs training so he will possess the knowledge, technical skill, and the culture and vision that distinguish the leader from the rank-and-file.

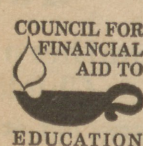

These assets are, for the most part, the product of higher education. In fact America must count on college-trained leaders to hold our position in many areas . . . in science and invention, in business, trade, and jobs, in our living standard and moral influence.

But there are danger signs. Higher education is in trouble—some colleges face shortages. The big test is just ahead when applicants at colleges will double. To maintain our world lead, we must maintain our colleges—with enough classrooms, laboratory facilities and competent teachers.

College is America's best friend. Support the college of your choice.

If you want a clearer picture of how the college situation affects all of us, write for a free booklet to: HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, N.Y.
