Officials of the agencies sponsoring the freedom march and human rights rally today emphasized that the events are being conducted "merely to focus attention of the citizens of the community upon questions facing Americans today."

Mother of 7 Shot Down in Daylight at Busy Intersection

A 32-year-old Des Moines mother of seven children was killed in a daylight shooting at a busy intersection here last Friday morning.

The victim was Mrs. Anna May Jackson, of 922 School street. The hand accused of pulling the trigger of the 45 caliber revolver belongs to Edward J. Miller, 25.

The shooting which took place at E. 14th and Court avenue, touched off a four-hour search for the killer. When the car he was reportedly driving, a 1953 Pontiac, was located in front of 1159 8th street, police launched a house-to-house search of that vicinity on 8th street and then on 9th street.

Later, following his arrest, Miller told police that he shot Mrs. Jackson because of an argument that they had been having. The argument started several days before the shooting and was continuing in the car just before the shooting, Miller told police.

Saw Shooting

Mike DeAngelo, who operates a fruit market at 1351 E. Court avenue gave this account of the fatal shooting:

"I was looking up this way (east). This Negro couple was in a car coming down the street (Court avenue) and all at once the door opened and the woman jumped out or was shoved out.

"The man, a big, tall colored fellow, stopped the car, got out and walked around to where the woman had fallen in the street.

"Gun in Hand"

"He had a gun in his hand, and as he walked up to the woman I heard her cry out, 'Don't do it.'"

"The man then fired twice, got back into the car and drove on west on Court avenue."

DeAngelo said that he ducked behind a tank as the man (killer) drove westward along Court avenue, because he (DeAngelo) feared a shot might be taken at him. He also

U. S. Civil Service Team Conducting Survey in D. M.

The United States Civil Service Commission Monday announced details of its plan for conducting a community review of federal agency employment practices and job opportunities in the Des Moines area. The review at Des Moines is one of a number of similar reviews in the commission's nationwide program for a community approach to equal opportunity, scheduled to be conducted in a number of employment centers throughout the country.

Under the plan, A. H. Sonntag, director, of the St. Louis region, met Monday with heads of federal installations here to insure an understanding of equal employment opportunity in the federal merit system, underline its importance, and review federal employment statistics and employment prospects.

A 4-man team of civil service commission representatives working out of the St. Louis regional office under the direction of F. V. Yanak will remain in Des Moines to conduct the review. This will include consulting with agencies regarding their staffing requirements in the immediate future; review of the various lists of eligible candidates for adequacy; determination as to the need for re-nouncing examinations; assuring that all interested and likely qualified people in the community are informed of any examinations; studies of agencies' employment practices; and assisting local agencies with their equal employment programs.

Washington, D.C.—The House Judiciary committee Tuesday voted 20 to 14 against a tough civil rights bill and by the same vote, favored a new milder measure with broader bi-partisan support. The vote was viewed as an overwhelming victory for President Kennedy who had intervened personally to block the stronger bill for fear it could not win the bi-partisan support needed to make it law. It had been drafted by Judiciary Subcommittee and strongly supported by civil rights groups.

New York—A full line of Negro greeting cards will be on the market in time for Christmas it was announced last week by the Dorothy Lee Greetings corporation, a newly formed Negro-owned company. It will also issue Negro greeting cards for every occasion including birthday, anniversary, get-well, Valentine's day, and Easter.

East St. Louis, Ill.—Twenty of 24 members of the executive committee of the East St. Louis branch of the NAACP resigned last week in protest over the firing of a militant white youth leader assigned to the area early this summer. James Peake, a 24-year-old white paraplegic, had become a subject of controversy in a factional dispute within the branch after he led militant demonstrations here against a local bank allegedly without authorization of the national office or the knowledge of the local NAACP.

Tampa, Fla.—In the second paternity suit filed against him this year, nationally famous blind singer Ray Charles was accused of being the father of a 12-year-old girl born to a Tampa woman, Mrs. Louise Green, in 1948.

Annapolis, Md.—The death sentences of three Negroes convicted of raping a 16-year-old white girl were commuted to life imprisonment on Oct. 24 by Gov. J. Millard Tawes. He granted clemency to James Giles, 22, his brother, John, 24 and Joseph E. Johnson, Jr., 25.

Chicago, Ill.—Al Benson, a popular disc jockey here for 16 years until his retirement recently, threw another bombshell in the investigation of the controversial Negro Labor Relations League, an organization accused of engaging in a civil rights shakedown racket, when he told the Cook County Grand Jury he acted as a go-between and paid the League $600 not to picket the Italian Swiss Colony Wine Company.

Albion, Mich.—A daughter of a slave, Mrs. Julie Galloway, celebrated her 100th birthday last week. Blind and bedridden, she has 99 living descendants.

Akron, Ohio—A court decided here last week that being called an Uncle Tom was a charge serious enough to warrant legal redress. Mrs. Bertha M. Moore, a civic leader, who sued a newspaper for $80,000 after it ran an article that referred to her as an Uncle Tom, was awarded a $32,000 judgement. The paper is published by William O. Walker.

Negro, Religious Leaders Vow All Is Not Lost; Just Lost 1st Round, Not Battle

The Des Moines City Council Monday turned its back on two versions of a proposed ordinance that would have banned discrimination in housing. In doing so it temporarily dashed the hopes of Negro leaders and turned a deaf ear to the sound reasoning of some two-dozen speakers and the majority of some 600 persons who attended a public hearing and indicated their favorable attitude toward the passage of the ordinance.

At its meeting Monday the council began on a deceptively positive note with Councilman William Leachman making a motion to approve the stronger version of the ordinance and Councilman Jens Grothe making a motion to approve the weaker one.

Losing Battle

During the 45-minute debate Mayor Charles Iles, who had gone on record earlier, as favoring the weaker versions (which would have exempted owner-occupied apartment buildings and religious institutions from the ordinance) fought a losing battle in trying to stave off voting that day.

Lineup Different

In each case the vote was the same, 4-1; only the lineup was different. Mayor Iles voted for the weaker version and Councilman Robert M. Buckley voted for a stronger version with no exceptions. Iles voted against the so-called strong version and Buckley voted against the so-called weak version. Councilmen Leachman, Grothe and George C. Whitmer voted against both versions.

Doubted Sincerity

Mrs. Jack Cleveland, in the statement by the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights, pointed out that the council had asked the commission to draft a proposed ordinance and that the commission assumed the council intended to pass an ordinance.

"To believe otherwise would be to doubt the sincerity and good intent of such a request," she said. "To believe otherwise would label our endeavor a monstrous waste of time and strike a monstrous blow to the hope born anew in the hearts of untold numbers of Des Moines citizens."

Jail and Fine

Under either ordinance proposal, the penalties for racial discrimination in housing sales or rentals would have been a maximum of 30 days in jail and a $100 fine.

Demonstrations

Public Hearing Notes

By Frances E. Hawthorne

They came last Wednesday almost 600 strong to voice their views and to give support, or withhold it, to the proposed housing ordinance that would ban discrimination in housing in Des Moines. They were standing five and six deep all around the auditorium of the Des Moines Armory Building and in the various halls and alcoves.

Orderly

When it began, the meeting was orderly, but one could discern the undercurrents beneath the calm exterior. The meeting opened with Mrs. Jack Cleveland, co-chairman of the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights, explaining the birth pains and delivery of the ordinance. Then in 30-minute periods each, first opponents and then proponents came forward to the mike to state their views.

Majority in Favor

It did not take long for anyone present to discern by the volume of applause that the majority of persons in the audience was in favor of the ordinance. It also was not difficult to note that the proponents came prepared most with written statements and that the opponents were just a little disorganized. Some ventured the conjecture that their speaking zeal was dampened because of a desire not to be aligned with three main speakers who are members of the right-wing John Birch Society—John Dilley, a businessman, Norman W. Richardson, a watchmaker and Charles E. Bailey, a factory mechanic.

Proponents List

A list of speakers for the proponents was given to the Council members by Atty. James B. Morris, Jr. Of this list those who spoke were Lloyd Bock, certified public accountant; Dr. William Eckhardt, clinical psychologist who read a statement co-authored by 12 other psychologists; Eugene Krauss, executive director of Family Service Travelers Aid; Ruth Hoffman, associate professor of sociology at Drake University; Dr. Eddie V. Easley, associate professor of business administration at Drake university; Rabbi Edward Zerlin of Temple B'nai Jeshurun; Rev. E. P. Williams, St. Paul A.M.E. church; Father Patrick Best, Christ the King Church who also submitted a petition signed by 1,200 Catholics; Mrs. Helen B. Stevens, executive director of Willkie House; Mrs. Emory Jackson, 3101 Amherst, housewife.

Others

Others who spoke were Robert Lewis, 1150 18th street; Donald J. Brown, 4124 Ovid; Earl Coverdale, 200 S.W. Hughes and Maurice Perkins, 1062 12th street and Karin Becker, 7300 Meredith. The latter two are officers of the Des Moines Youth for Better Relations, described Waterloo, Ia.—An East High junior will head the Iowa Association of Student Councils for the coming year.

Charles Derden, 16, son of Mrs. Catherine Derden, 426 Oliver St., Oct. 21, was elected president of the association at the state convention held at Iowa State University, Ames.

The East High student, who earns nearly a straight "A" average, was one of six district winners who were candidates for the presidency. He gave a campaign speech to about 1,000 delegates prior to his election.

As chief executive of the student council association, Derden will preside over meetings during the coming year which include planning sessions for district and state conventions and the summer workshop. A student council workshop is held for a week during the summer at State College of Iowa.

Likes Languages

He has been a home room representative on the East High student council since coming to the school from McKinstry Junior High. While in junior high, he was vice president of the state Junior High Association of Student Councils.

The junior student, who participates in choir, is interested in foreign languages. He studied Latin in junior high and is taking Spanish and French in senior high.

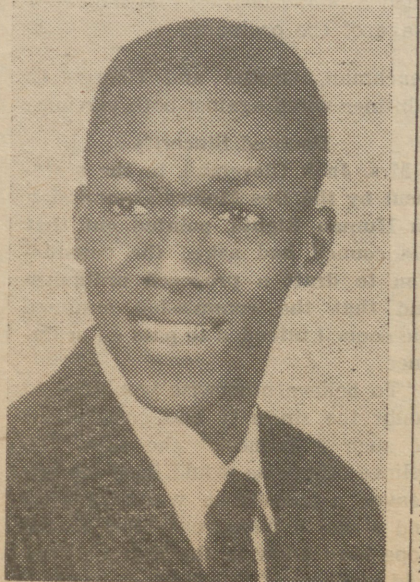

Approximately 250 schools were represented at the state convention at which Derden was elected.

vote, Atty. Rober Wright, president of the Des Moines branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), issued a statement saying he would call a meeting "immediately" of the Des Moines branch and all groups interested in civil rights to start a series of demonstrations. (Such a meeting was scheduled Wednesday at Willie House).

MAYOR ILES

"We're inviting all organizations to participate in picketing and other forms of direct action to force attention upon the dire need for a fair housing ordinance for the city," Wright said.

Commend Mayor

Wright also commended Mayor Iles for his fight to postpone voting Monday and perhaps insure the passage of an ordinance by a new council. At least three new councilmen will be elected in next Tuesday's general election.

of assuring that there is a common understanding of the importance of the national policy of non-discrimination in federal employment. It is part of the commission's continuing effort to assure that all citizens are given equal opportunity to compete and receive consideration for available federal positions on the basis of merit and fitness regardless of race, creed, color, national origin, or other irrelevant considerations.

No Rule Change

Sonntag, the director of the St. Louis civil service region, emphasized that there has been no change in the commission's rules and regulations governing selection for appointment. Standards have not been altered and the quest for quality continues. This means that in the search for talent all sources in the community, including minority groups, must be informed.

No Employment Boom

The attention being given to recruitment and placement in Des Moines does not mean there is an employment boom in the federal agencies here, the commission said. Rather it is a community approach to insurance that all citizens who wish to apply for a government job are given that opportunity on an equal basis, and that agencies will make selections to fill positions from among those qualified on the basis of merit and fitness.

Kennedys Opposed on Softer Civil Rights Bill

Buffalo, N.Y.—Addressing an NAACP rally here on Oct. 24, Roy Wilkins, the Association's executive secretary, disagreed with the Kennedy Administration's estimate that not enough Republican votes can be mustered to pass a strong civil rights bill.

He cited the House Republican vote in 1956 for a civil rights bill which embodied Part III authorizing the Attorney General to intervene in cases involving denial of a citizen's civil rights. Also, he pointed out, a majority of the Republicans in the House had supported an FEPC bill in an earlier vote.

Appeasement

The NAACP leader recalled President Kennedy's "past attempts to appease the Southerners" and asked for a show of greater political courage on the part of the Administration.

"The maneuver now seems to be to pull the teeth of a bill before you even get a chance to chew," Mr. Wilkins said. "The Kennedys want to remove all the obstacles before there's even a test."

Wide-mouth noticed the vacant seat at the table for four in the O-Be Joyful bar and yielded to the temptation to "needle" the three VIPs from CORE.

"Look who we have here! Three big shots. Did anybody say, 'Good evening, Wide-mouth. How are you?' Not a soul. Now that the benefit is over and CORE's got money in the bank, the big shots sit by themselves and don't even speak."

The three ladies stood and bowed low to Wide-mouth. "Won't you join our special celebration? You know we were saving this extra place especially for you," Carole added, as they all sat down for another round of beer.

Jeri glanced at Knot-head sitting alone at the bar. "Come on, Knot-head, don't sit there lookin' like bad luck! Pull up a chair. I'll move over a little." Knot-head eagerly joined the group and called for service.

"What are we celebrating?", he asked.

"The East High-Tech game last Friday night", the three mothers answered proudly.

Knot-head looked at Jessie Mae in surprise. "I didn't know you had a son in high school".

"I don't, Knot-head. I'm celebrating the biggest news of the month—the integrated cheer leaders squad. Those young people really put on a show that even I could see without my bi-focals."

"You know, Jeri interrupted, we ought to congratulate the schools, the young people and their leaders. It's the truth. The only time they hear from us is when there's trouble."

Jessie Mae reached for the biggest joke of the season, known as her 'suitcase' and took out some post-cards.

"Let's do it right now before we forget." She passed them around the table. Your daughter goes to Tech, Carole. What's the principal's name?"

"Mr. Williams at East High. Mr. Betz at Tech", Carole replied.

Wide-mouth reached for another postcard and repeated the same message to East High.

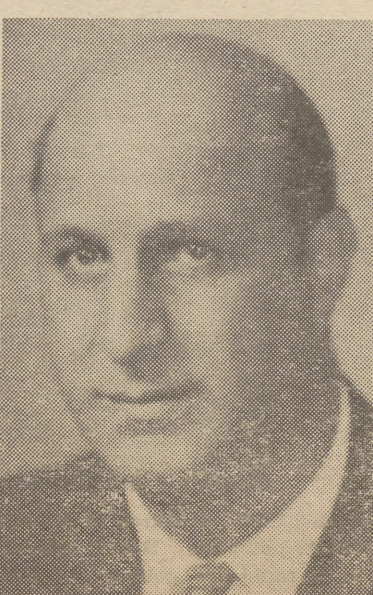

"I am proud of the game last Friday night with 11,000 people in the stands to see my son's team win. I am most proud that there were no fights afterwards. My biggest thrill was watching the young ladies in the integrated cheer leaders squads. I thank you".

SOCIETY

Personally Yours
by Frances Mathorne.

The power of suggestion is quite forceful when you stop to think about it. That was demonstrated to us last week as we sat visiting briefly with Mrs. Othello (Opie) Knox, 1418 Maple street.

Several days before we had read about the baby lion being loose and being found in the back yard of Mrs. Floyd Bowman, 715 Boyd street. Last Friday morning we had read an item about the small lion being loose again. Anyway, as we talked to Mrs. Knox we espied an animal that at first glance looked like a half grown lion. Startled, we stopped in mid conversation; a second later we rejected what we were about to ejaculate: "Isn't that the lion that was loose?"

You guessed it. It was a large tawny dog on a chain, padding around his assigned area with its back to us. After a shared hearty laugh Mrs. Knox informed us that the dog had some qualities of a lion, "giving the appearances of viciousness."

We stopped in at Mrs. Samuel Jenkins, 622 S.E. 5th and she showed us some of the art work and drawings that her son, Billy, 12, does. His teachers at Smouse elementary school have informed Mrs. Jenkins that the boy is quite talented artistically.

One of Billy's legs is affected by cerebral palsy but it doesn't prevent him from participating in activities at school or with neighborhood friends. He also likes to put model cars and other trinket together. In addition he won a scholarship to the Des Moines Art Center last year.

In a conversation with Mrs. William London, 2318 Maury street, we learned why Miss Carolyn Rhem has not been sending the news in regularly from Manly, Ia.

Mrs. London, a former resident of Mason City where all her children were raised, told us that the Rhem family, also living in Mason City, have been shaken by bad news lately.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rhem learned that their eight month-old daughter, Angela Dee, has leukemia (a type of blood cancer) and doctors give her less than six months to live.

The Rhems are parents of a son, John Rhem, Jr., and of course, Carolyn.

We, along with hundreds of other PTA members and mothers, and a sprinkling of fathers and school principals spent a busy two days at the Iowa State Congress of Parents and Teachers at Hotel Fort Des Moines last Thursday and Friday. The sessions were stimulating, interesting and very informative. The speakers, particularly the national president who brought the keynote speech Thursday afternoon and the banquet speaker, Thursday night, were dynamic and well informed. The workshops were spiced with the time allowed for question and answer discussions.

We won't go into naming names of delegates we saw or talked to during the sessions. The list is too long and we would not like to miss any. Those who are named will be in separate news stories submitted by the various PTA organizations.

In the midst of the busy week last week our oldest son brought home the news that he was the only one chosen from Moulten school to participate in the Saturday science classes for academically talented sixth grade students to be held at the various junior and senior high schools. We were told by the school principal that nearly 30 students were turned down for the first sessions which will be held through next March because of the lack of space and facilities.

The reaction to our son's selection is that it is an honor shared by his school and teachers as well as his parents and family.

We suppose that you are sufficiently recovering from the onslaught of the various neighborhood "witches and hobgoblins" who cavorted about your doorsteps last evening on their annual treks, "trick or treating." At least you can breathe again until this time next year.

TRUMAN IN ROLE OF BACKSLIDER

During the time of Harry Truman as president of the United States, he was strong for civil rights. It is said that during his inaugural parade, he turned his head the other way as the Mississippi and Alabama contingents passed him. He enjoyed strong support from Negro voters to the extent that Carl Rowan, ambassador to Sweden, called him the best friend they had in the White House since Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Truman spoke at Grinnell College last week before a group in practical politics. Naturally, a question period followed. In his cocky self-styled fashion, he answered most of the questions some in such disappointing fashion that many of his friends wished had not been said.

Asked about the racial difficulties in the South, Mr. Truman said that outsiders should let the South solve its own problems. "They always have," he said.

Thus, the former president was talking out of a different side of his mouth than while seeking votes, passing as a liberal. Of course, Mr. Truman is wrong for without outsiders the solution of the race problem would be a hundred years back of what it is today.

There comes a time when the action of a state or nation must be curbed as was done during the Civil War, as in Germany and numerous nations where their conduct does not square with efforts toward world peace. Educators and religious leaders came from the 'outside' after the Civil War and taught Negroes how to read and write, how to become good citizens and it is because the South insists on blocking the path of Negroes to live as first class citizens that there is further requirement that outsiders have been asked to come in and help solve some of these problems.

The city council is in the process of selecting a new city manager. It would be well to let the public know who the candidates are. Let's not have another Elder Gunter.

SOME CANDIDATES

WORTHY OF SUPPORT

Des Moines goes to the polls Tuesday to select four members of the city council: two for a four year term; two for a two year term. Four judges, a bailiff and clerk of the Municipal Court will be chosen.

Prior to the primaries, the By-stander called attention to the somewhat lack of able candidates in the race for the city council. The situation, of course, can not improve under the circumstances.

The By-stander has been called upon in many instances to suggest the best candidates to support. It has refrained from the practice in most instances because there has been a better field from which to choose.

However, in this instance, an exception is being made because some candidates who are being suggested have failed in some vital issues. For the four year term are candidates Grothe and Whitmer who voted against the anti-housing measure and yet they are substantially favorable to the things for which Negroes are working. They should be supported in spite of that vote.

For the two year term, Nahas and Buss loom as best suited to support the issues which the By-stander has advocated and thus, we believe, should be elected.

It is seldom that a candidate meets the bill 100 per cent, but if his fundamental thinking and action are sound that's about all that may be expected. Men are bound to disagree at times over methods but that disagreement must not be allowed to prevent them from accomplishing sound objectives.

It is mighty important that the voters turn out and express their views by electing the candidates of their choice. To complain after election day is too late.

COUNCIL DISHONORS ITS COMMITMENT

As had been expected by close observers, it was obvious that the City Council would defeat the fair housing ordinance. The vote was 4 to 1 against both versions. Strong moral and religious forces worked hard to convince

Hawkeyes Fizzle, 14-0; Cyclones Blow, 7-0; But Drake Bulldogs Roll On, 26-7

By Staff Writer

Lafayette, Ind.—The Iowa Hawkeyes continued to suffer from a "Split-personality complex" as its impotent offense failed to match its tough defense for the second straight weekend.

As a result their victory hopes died as the Purdue Boilermakers never lifted the lid in a 14-0 shutout before 47,921 fans.

It was homecoming for the Boilermakers and dazzling Quarterback Ron DiGravio and company came home on the gravy train. The Hawks outplayed Purdue in statistics but that was their only reward.

The inept Hawks compiled 107 yards in rushing to 100 for Purdue and 140 yards in passing to 115 for their opponents. However, Quarterback Fred Riddle who was having his trouble with his passing arm completed only 7 of 16 passes while DiGravio completed 11 of 21.

Contrary to prediction the contest was a low scoring one, a game of defense. Thus in the past two games Iowa has allowed its opponents only three touchdowns and a field goal, yet they have been on the losing end both times, while scoring only one themselves.

Iowa must wrestle with tough Ohio State at Ohio Saturday, traditionally their nemesis.

CYCLONES LOSE

Ames, Ia.—Believe it or not the Iowa State Cyclones held mighty Missouri to 54 yards, 18 of them on the ground—and still lost, 7-0, here Saturday.

The Cyclones outplayed the Tigers in the air, on the ground, and on defense, yet a pass theft was their undoing. The score was 0-0 with 10 minutes remaining in the football game. On third down Larry Switzer came in to replace Ken Bunte at quarterback. On the first play he fired to his right, after a bit of feinting in which he passed off, got the ball again and threw. The ball sailed perfectly right into the arms of Missouri's Gus Ott, who romped untouched for 50 yards and a Missouri TD.

When the coaches met at midfield the council that the measure was needed and that it would help improve the moral tone of the community. But the members yielded to the pressure of reactionary groups which have consistently held back progress in the community.

Several weeks ago, the council asked the Human Right Commission to prepare an ordinance. The request was complied with. But when the proposed ordinance was submitted to the council one member—Leachman—had the gall to suggest that the commission not become so involved in the matter.

Naturally, a committee charged with preparing a report has the right and duty to defend it. And as Mrs. Cleveland, a member of the Commission said, the final action in passing no ordinance indicates that the members were not sincere when they voted to ask the commission to prepare a document and then vote it down.

Of course, this is not the end in the campaign for a fair housing ordinance. It is apparent that some members had their eye on election day and teamed up with others who have fought every piece of liberal legislation which has been presented to that body. Mayor Iles stood fast for the measure. He is to be commended. As the new council goes in office, maybe better results can be had.

after the gun signaled the end of the game Dan Devine of Missouri expressed sorrow to Clay Stapleton over the 7-0 game his Tigers had just won.

The Cyclones will try Oklahoma State Saturday.

DRAKE WINS

Peoria, Ill.—Drake's 27-8 win over Bradley was the only bright spot in an otherwise dismal picture for fans who follow the three biggest schools in the state.

Freshmen Cranford Traylor and Ron Royer sparked against the Bradley eleven here before 6,500 fans at Peoria Stadium. Traylor romped 125 yards on 25 carries and scored twice, once on a 30-yard burst.

Quarterback Royer directed the Bulldog's I-formation attack from beginning to end, completed nine of yards rushing and passed for one 16 passes for 132 yards picked up 20 touchdown and ran for another.

The Bulldogs tangle with Idaho State Saturday.

It looks like a long season for the Iowa Hawkeyes. Ohio is up and ready and maybe the boys can come back. Then comes Minnesota, one of the games we think the Hawks can win.

But the guys just don't seem to be able to come up with the key play. Their defense is tough. But they need some method of cashing in on scoring chances. Maybe Coach Jerry Burns will solve that one.

Iowa State dropped a tough one that they might have won. The pool hall quarterbacks are saying what the Iowa State coach should have done, but as we see it about the only thing he needed to have done was have someone who could outrun the guy who intercepted that pass. Even in defeat Tom Vaughn stood out and will likely rate high on the pro draft list.

Drake had a ball and now they are talking about going all the way. How optimistic can a team get? But, they are already three up on the fellow who said they wouldn't win a game. We were glad to revise our predictions and give the Bulldogs a couple or more games than the three we said they would win.

Little League Football

A title playoff game is scheduled for action in the Little All American Football League to break the tie between the East and West squads in the heavyweights.

Last weekend's results were: Lightweight; West beat North 13-0 to win the city Little League lightweight football title. In the other game, East beat South 26-7. In Heavyweight; East beat South, 28-0, and West downed North, 6-0, to finish the season in a tie.

Lightweight

In lightweight action, Murry Sauerbrei ran 11 and 9 yards for West's touchdowns. Mike Burns ran 76 for an East score. Other East touchdowns were by Mike Burns (27 yards), Jim Jewett (4 yards) and Mark McMurry (14 yard pass from

High School

If you saw the East-Tech game last weekend you saw just about the best played high school game since the year Roosevelt with Randy Duncan beat East with Jimmy Clark and Chuck McQuerry. As we saw it East played their usual game of ball control and Tech defended on lightning thrusts to score and that was just about the way it went. We haven't heard even the most rabid Tech supporter say the best team lost. The stubborn East defense was able to come up with the big defense play everytime but once. For all the fierce rivalry there was among the teams, it was a remarkably clean game with not too many penalties.

Boxing

We read a supposedly funny piece the other day. The guy was trying to say that one had to be an ex-convict to become a successful boxer.

We thought of fellows like Dick Tiger, Harold Johnson and a few others like him and we guess the guy was wrong. So far wrong that we failed to see the humor in his article. Sure, Sonny Liston, did time but shouldn't a guy be judged on his merits and he did flatten Floyd Patterson twice, instead of what he used to be.

Personally we would hate to go under the rug in the lives of a lot of pro-athletes or other successful men. There might be some dirt there. We honestly believe the guy is trying hard to be what he thinks the public wants a champion to be. But with a limited education and probably not
