Two SCEF Staff Members In Iowa on Speaking Tour

By Frances E. Hawthorne
"Desegregation in public transportation is only as strong as the nerve of the Negro is strong."

This was the statement made in a luncheon interview Monday by two interracial staff members of the Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc., Ella J. Baker, special consultant, who works out of the Atlanta, Ga., offices and John Salter, Jr., field organizer, who works out of the Raleigh, N.C. offices.

The two are on a speaking tour of four states seeking "grass root support for strong civil rights legislation and to tell the story of the freedom movement."

Seek Iowan Pressure

Both indicated that in their tour of Iowa which will take them to Ames, Davenport, Fort Dodge and Clinton, they have a special interest in building grass root pressure on Senators Bourke Hickenlooper and Jack Miller in order that they vote for cloture in the event of a southern filibuster and vote for a strong civil rights legislation.

Transportation

On the subject of transportation Miss Baker stated, "The releases from the office of the U.S. Attorney General indicating that desegregation is opening up in public transportation is often misleading. Even though the signs are down in waiting rooms

Negroes are still asked out of the waiting rooms and if their nerve isn't very strong, they go.

Hoodlums

"There are many cases where white hoodlums will form a ring around Negroes in the waiting room and beat them up. The police just turn their backs and permit this. In other cases you are refused tickets or asked by the bus driver to move back. The realization of personal danger at 2 a.m. doesn't make it easy to stand up and sit on our rights."

During the interview Miss Baker and Salter touched on angles of the civil rights question.

Beaten and Jailed

Salter, who has been beaten and jailed many times said "There could be bloodshed in the hard core areas of the south if there is no civil rights legislation passed. For instance, in Mississippi it considers itself a country unto itself and each county thinks of itself as a little country. Even the six policemen hired by the mayor in Jackson are denied the right to arrest white persons. The library desegregation is a surface thing only. Progress in voting is slow and tedious and no single public school in the state is desegregated, nor is there public accommodations for Negroes."

Rules Against Expelled Members of Mt. Olive Baptist Church Tuesday

Sioux, City, Ia.—The plaintiffs who won the first rounds in the civil suit against the Mt. Olive Baptist church here, lost the battle when the Iowa Supreme Court reversed the decision of a lower court. In doing so it ruled that the expulsion of several plaintiffs from the church in September 1961 was legal.

The church fight began on that date when plaintiffs, Robert Brown (now deceased), Timothy Jackson, A. C. Evans, C. W. Tillman, Eddie Jones and Elder Owens (also deceased), were expelled from Mt. Olive Baptist church.

Injunction

They immediately filed for an injunction against their ouster and on Oct. 15, 1961 a temporary injunction was granted by District Judge M. E. Rawlings of Woodbury county. On Nov. 15, the defendants, Mt. Olive Baptist church, Rev. William Phillips, Allen Robinson, and Larry Ganaway, moved for another church trial against the 'expelled members'. The case was tried on its merits Aug. 27-30 and the court ruled in favor of the plaintiffs, restoring them to membership.

Appeal

The defendants appealed to the Iowa Supreme Court and the case ended Tuesday with the high court decision.

In an opinion by Judge Norman R. Hays of Knoxville, the Iowa Supreme Court said that when the District Court discovered that a majority of the church members were present at the meeting in which the vote for expulsion was taken that the jurisdiction of the court stopped and "the expulsion should have been upheld."

One of the lawyers for the plaintiffs was Atty. Henry McKnight of Des Moines.

Ebony Fashion Fair to Feature Fabulous Creations Nov. 26

This brown check coat dress by Mingolini Gugenheim introduces the belt collar to Ebony Fashion Fair viewers. Coat has two vents at hemlines, long sleeves with slits at wrist.

The Hi-Span Club is presenting EBONY Fashion Fair Americana here, Tuesday evening, Nov. 26, at the Hotel Ft. Des Moines Ballroom. Curtain time is 8:00 p.m.

John H. Johnson, Publisher of EBONY Magazine announced the sixth annual presentation of EBONY FASHION FAIR which opened September 18 in Wildwood, New Jersey, will be the best yet. Johnson admitted that the shows originally planned in 1958 were to put on a series of outstanding fashion shows in several key cities which would feature some of the loveliest Negro models in fabulous creations from world famous designers. By the time the shows were underway they covered manifold interests—the biggest of these was charity. Outstanding civic or social organizations are selected by EBONY as sponsors in each city. The sponsoring organization is required to donate net proceeds to a worthy charity.

National Acclaim

The shows have received national acclaim from civic and social leaders as well as the national press. The very nature of the shows and the high caliber of the viewing audiences which include social and civic leaders, professional men and women and the successful women of the business world make it vital that only the best and latest fashions be included. This highly select economic group represents a $20 billion Negro market.

10 Models

The show features 10 top female models and two male models. Some of these models appear in ads of EBONY magazine and Negro newspapers throughout the country. The entire troupe of 20 travel by chartered bus, which is renovated to accommodate the more than 200 garments, 60 pairs of shoes and scenery.

The Americana theme has been selected for this year's show. There will be designs by top American designers and also some exciting collections from young Negro designers. Along with American creations there will be garments from such world famous designers as Christian Dior, Nina Ricci, St. Laurent and many others.

The proceeds received from the show will benefit the Club's Scholarship Fund.

Tickets may be purchased at the Utica box office and through members of the Hi-Span Club.

Sojourner Truth

"Hi, Jeri. Your mind sure was in outer space just now. You looked right at me without seeing me didn't you?" Carole kidded her friend in the beauty parlor chair.

"Sorry, I was thinking how I 'goofed' making introductions at church, Carole. I'll bet Emily Post and Gloria Vanderbilt together couldn't figure that one out," Jeri exclaimed.

"What have you done now, Jeri?" Carole asked.

"You know I belong to an integrated church, Carole. I think I did o.k. when I introduced two speakers to our adult class. I introduced the man without saying Mr. because it seemed less formal. The other members of the team was a Negro woman. I automatically introduced her as Mrs. Should I have said Mr. when I introduced the man who is white?" Jeri looked questionably at Carole.

"Is that all you have to worry about?" Carole demanded.

"No, it gets stickier as it goes along," Jeri admitted.

"After church I introduced the speakers personally to members. If they were my personal friends, I omitted the title from their names. Most of the time I didn't say Mr. when introducing the man speaker unless to someone whom I didn't know well. I was careful to say Mrs. when introducing the Negro speaker. This seemed a little stuffy. So I dropped the title with my friends."

"What's wrong with that?" Carole questioned.

"You're a big help. That's what I'm trying to find out now," Jeri replied.

"I think all I could hear this morning was those two speakers addressing one another as Mr. S and Mrs. B," Jeri declared.

Celeste tilted Jeri's head, scrutinized her profile and commented on the problem at hand. "Wait 'til Gloria and I publish our book—The Etiquette of Token Integration."

"Did you say WAIT," Jeri exclaimed. She threw her arms up in dramatic horror. "Save us all!"

"STRIKES WITHOUT WARNING": SAYS VICTIM OF TUBERCULOSIS

Having recently been a victim of Tuberculosis, I know the fears, loneliness, heartbreaks and hardships this dread disease can cast upon a person and members of his family.

It all happened just 13 months ago. The Christmas Seal X-Ray Mobile Unit was at my place of business giving free chest X-rays for all who wished to participate. I was feeling on top of the world that day, in fact, I felt so good I almost didn't stay in line to get my chest X-rayed.

More Tests

However, at the request of a fellow worker I did stay and four days later, after additional tests, I was admitted to Broadlawn TB Hospital with ACTIVE TUBERCULOSIS.

I have volunteered my services to this year's Christmas Seal Campaign with hope that my story will motivate all adults in Polk County into having a free chest X-ray on the Christmas Seal X-Ray Mobile Unit.

"Christmas Seals helped save my life . . . and they might possibly help save yours or one of your loved ones in the very near future."

$70,000

To maintain and operate an expensive piece of equipment such as the X-Ray Mobile Unit and to continue supplying all Schools in Polk County and Des Moines with the new improved Tuberculin Time Test, your Polk County Tuberculosis and Health Association must raise $70,000.

That is why it's so important that everyone does his or her part. Remember, the sole support of the Christmas Seal X-Ray Mobile Unit—School Tuberculin Testing—Health Education and Research is through Voluntary contributions to the CHRISTMAS SEAL CAMPAIGN.

Please send your gift of good health today. If for some reason you did not receive Christmas Seals and you wish to help save lives, please call 288-3349. Your voluntary contribution in any amount you choose to send will be deeply appreciated.

My heartfelt thanks . . .

JUSTICE AND EQUALITY ERODING SEGREGATION

With the constant pressure being put on segregationists and their program by Negroes and those who have concluded that the program is wrong, a number of important events during the past few days pinpoint that pins are being cut from under them. And those events are not attributable to so-called outsiders only but also southerners. It is an encouraging sign.

The University of Texas, which today is the No. 1 college football team in the nation, will accept Negroes in their athletic program beginning with the 1964-1965 season. The Southwest conference schools, of which Texas is a member, generally guide on that institution. Similar announcements may be expected from others.

The retiring dean of the law school at the University of Mississippi last week said that academic freedom did not prevail in that school and anyone who dares attempt it in matters of race found someone looking over his shoulders threatening dire consequences. Undoubtedly, the association to which Mississippi belongs, will be looking into academic freedom at the school and students may find themselves without accreditation thus jeopardizing their chances to do advanced work in other schools.

The National Broadcasting Company has announced that it will not carry the Blue-Gray Football game this year because Negroes are excluded from participation. The sponsor has agreed. This means that a two hundred fifty thousand dollar purse goes down the drain. No other national broadcasting company would dare do otherwise.

These blows hit pretty hard and are sure to bring a change in the way things have operated in the past. And they give encouragement to the many southern white people who want their states to have a better record in observing the law of the land and more equitable treatment of Negroes in their area.

FOOLISH CALCULATIONS BY REPUBLICAN LEADERS

A recent sampling of Republican state and county chairmen indicates that Senator Goldwater is the preference to get the nomination next year. This is not particularly surprising in that the senator stands just the opposite to President Kennedy on many issues.

But these political leaders forget that there are far more registered Democrats than Republicans; that any candidate they hope to elect must appeal to the independent voter.

Then too, they gloat over the fact that Senator Goldwater can carry several southern states but fail to realize that he would alienate several of the large northern states where the electoral vote is large and Negroes play a great part in carrying the election.

This situation is somewhat analogous to the late Senator Taft who went to the Republican convention with the largest block of pledged delegates but as the battle waged on he was unable to pick up additional votes to win the nomination. It was true in 1940 when Wendell Willkie, an unknown quantity, took the nomination from the political hierarchy.

Recently, the Republicans in Mississippi polled a big vote basing their fight on opposition to President Kennedy's actions and policies with regard to the Negro. This, of course, is terrible. We want no part of a Republican who opposes full rights for the Negro and that is just what these southern Republicans advocate.

The forces leading the Republican party must not deviate from the principles of the party in order to gain a few people who came not because they believe in what the Republican party stands for but are in quest for some haven which opposes it.

These Republican leaders should realize the bad guess they made that Kennedy would lose the South in 1960 because he is a Catholic. The majority, even though they may not have liked it, stayed with the Democratic party, the old historic opponent of the Negro. In other words, they trusted the Democrat rather than the Republican party as the party of the South.

Hawkeye's Dad, Fans Thrilled by 27-14 Win; But Cyclones, Bulldogs Go Down to Defeat

By Staff Writer

Iowa City, Ia.—Quarterback Gary Snook broke open the floodgates that had dammed the scoring of Iowa Hawkeyes with three touchdown passes against the Minnesota Gophers here Saturday and sent 59,300 fans home filled with jubilation that neared the overflowing levels. When the Hawks left the field they were victorious, 27-13.

Snook, a hometown product, who made good and Iowa's No. 2 quarterback in previous gridiron contests this year, completed nine of 21 passes for 164 yards.

It was Dad's day and—the Hawks gave their dads something to shout about, who watched as the team recaptured Floyd of Rosedale, the trophy that has always gone to the winner of the Iowa-Minnesota contests, one of the oldest rivalries in the Big Ten.

No matter how good a quarterback is, he usually is only as good as his receivers. And last Saturday Snook's receiver was End Cloyd Webb, who played one of his best games, making two brilliant leaping catches of the pigskin.

The Hawkeyes garnered 163 yards running to 119 for Minnesota. Thus, Iowa totaled 327 yards. They met Mighty Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Cyclones Defeated

Norman, Okla.—The Iowa State Cyclones scored a two-touchdown victory in the first half here Saturday

Well, it may not have any effect on the National ratings but the Iowa Hawkeyes won a really big one for them. They got things going for them at just the right time and really looked like a ball club. But actually Iowa hasn't been really run over all season. They just haven't scored any points. If they can take Michigan, they could end up with a winning season.

We thought Iowa State was going to pull an upset but the Oklahoma team wasn't to be put off. Even so, they will have to make room for Tom Vaughn of Iowa State on the list of potential All-American fullbacks.

Drake's coach, Bus Mertes, must still be talking to himself after that game last week. But, he still has won a lot more games than the critics said he would. Then he has this big guy, Cranford Traylor, who could play with anybody. So the Bulldogs might give Iowa State a good game.

High School

Did you see the all city high school team last week? We don't know who did the voting but we suspect it was someone who didn't see all the games. Marv McGuire was without a doubt the best all around end in the city we don't know how he was beaten out of one point by two other guys. Tech's Lee Massey never did turn in a bad game even when his team was swamped by Lincoln. We aren't taking anything away from anybody but we always figured that any all-star performer had to go the entire schedule with his club. Durability was a must requisite! But this all city team had a couple of guys who missed about half their teams' games. Well, maybe there is a new method of picking all-star teams now.

Basketball

As football turns the corner, basketball comes out of the wings. There is a league at the YMCA that has some interesting teams and one can see some really good games.

Bud Collins is trying to keep from playing and is coaching a team. One of the members on Bud's club is our chesty friend, Sonny Mitchell. Sonny

Some of those states will name electoral votes which will not go to the Democrat or Republican candidate, hoping, in the final selection, to trade them for concessions from the successful candidates.

Iowa delegates to the 1952 convention left much to be desired in the nomination of a candidate. It is hoped that the same mistake will not be made in 1964.

but the Oklahoma Sooners, veteran gridmasters, that they are, weathered the storm, roared back with a couple of TDs of their own plus a field goal and defeated the Cyclones 24-14.

It was 0-0 when Tom Vaughn rocketed 73 yards on a punt return against the Sooners plus another TD that was jammed into five minutes of the second quarter.

After the Sooners recovered from shock they began a drive of their own which culminated in a TD, leaving the first half, trailing 14-7. In the second half the Oklahoma gridironers began where they left off.

The Sooners racked up 137 yards on the ground and 61 yards via the airways. Iowa State was limited to 69 yards rushing and a measly 6 yards in passes.

Drake Sputters

Macomb, Ill.—The Drake Bulldogs defenses let up a little too soon here Saturday because West Illinois snapped back, scored twice in the final nine minutes of the game and shaded the Bulldogs 14-12.

A homecoming crowd of 8,500 held its breath in suspense wondering if their favorite team could wipe out a 14-0 deficit. With nine minutes left the Bulldogs were slapped with a 27-yard pass interference at the goal line. In a furious passing show, which eclipsed Drake ground offense, Western Illinois scored its second TD, and made the extra points which was the difference between the two teams.

says they are going to win that league, but they better tell the other guys that so they won't play too hard against Sonny's gang. They finished a close second in their first game last week. Don't know how they came out this week yet but if they are to win the championship they had better start winning some games.

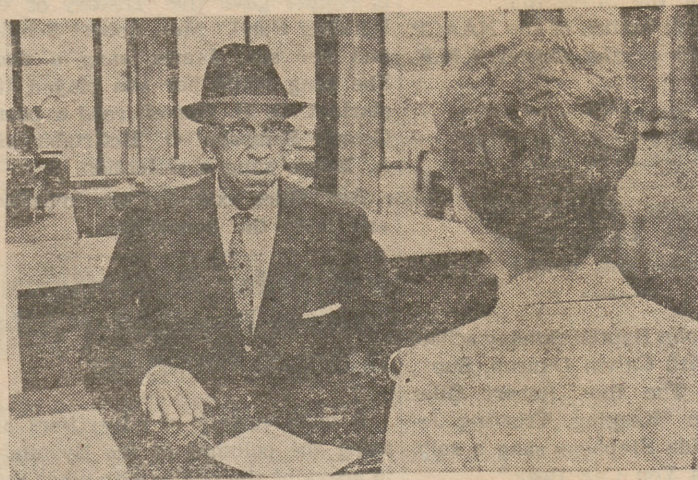

Don't know what the local high schools will have this year. They will be starting pretty soon and then we shall see.

Sonny Liston Silent On South African Exhibition Offer

Johannesburg, South Africa — World heavyweight champion Sonny Liston remains silent on whether he is willing to go to segregation-loving South Africa to participate in exhibition bouts, despite the fact that a newspaper here reported that he has been granted a visa to visit that country.

The newspaper Die Vaderland made the disclosure, but pointed out that Liston would be permitted to box (Black or "Colored") Africans only. A local promoter had reported that he was trying to get Sonny to box exhibitions in South Africa.

Liston's only comment last week-end was on braggart Cassius Clay. Sonny said he was fearful of the damage he would inflict on the "Louisville Lip" in their proposed December bout.

In Louisville, Clay repeated his charge that "The big ugly bear is afraid of me."

My World Tomorrow

And what shall be my part
In the vague world of tomorrow?
Is it enough that I may show
Two childish hearts the way of peace,
Of "give-and-take" and neighboring—
And by our lives together what
"Home" means—

The fun of work when each one does his part,
The comfort of the crackling logs
With old tunes sung by firelight?
And that I strive with Truth to answer,
"Where did I come from?" "Who is God?"
And hear with understanding smile
Quaint childish philosophies?

And might I thus, in passing,
Leave as great a thing
As though I wrote a famous book
Or some gay song that men will sing?

Within Yourself, The Way

"Where is the door that leads to happiness?"
I asked a kindly sage upon the way.
"Think happy thoughts," he said,
and when you pray
Have faith, believing God, whom you address,
Will answer, will not leave you comfortless.
You will have your desire, if day by day,

You pray for its fulfillment, give full play
To each emotion that will come to bless
Your being with uplifting wholesome joy.
Cast all your doubt and fear aside;
press on
And let no scoffer's jest or taunt destroy Your trust in God. New days will surely dawn;
From pain and weariness you'll find release;
The light of Truth will floor your heart with peace!"

March on Washington, stated, "It was just another milestone. It was good . . . in that it involved new groups like white church leaders; but I have fear that the new people involved will go back home and say "Now I have done my part," and be willing to rest on that record as having been part of the march."

Major Objective

"The major objective of SCEF," explained Salter, "is to involve white southerners in an attempt to solve the racial problems but they have worked closely within the freedom movement."

"It's a terrible thing when you realize with the exception of Episcopalians and Catholics no other white church in Jackson accepts Negroes as members or worshippers. Negroes have been arrested and sentenced to long jail terms just for walking up to the door of a white church. If the church doors are closed what hope is there really?" he continued.

D.M. Appearances

The two arrived by plane in Des Moines late Saturday evening and spoke at First Unitarian church Sunday morning. Sunday afternoon they met with the Des Moines chapter of Congress of Racial Equality who sponsored their Iowa appearances, at the home of CORE president, Mrs. Stanley Griffin, 1608 44th street. The two spent Monday morning with students at Grand View college. Monday afternoon they spoke at Central Presbyterian church. While here they were given hospitality at the parsonage of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

conferences and negotiations, that is why I am here today; but, if need be, on the picket line, where I may be tomorrow. The pursuit of new job opportunities extends also into the offices of advertising agencies."

Standards

The NAACP, he told the advertising agencies' officials, does not set quotas or advocate the lowering of reasonable standards. However, he pointed out, the NAACP "rejects tokenism in employment as in other areas. The answer is a thoroughly non-discriminatory policy in employment and promotions based on individual merit."

Total Economy

"A measurable increase in job opportunities for Negroes redounds to the benefit of the total economy. It does not mean fewer jobs for white persons. On the contrary, it means more jobs for the whole community. Negroes do not enjoy a reputation as hoarders of money. They spend perhaps a larger share of their income than do similarly situated white persons. New millions of dollars in circulation would create more jobs for all."

Personally Yours
By Frances Mulhorne.

We have rarely used this column for an impersonal vein. This week, however, we are deviating from our "personal" comments of comings and goings of people about town. This week we want to talk about newspapers, hoping that the foregoing information will be of enlightenment to some and benefit to all.

In the past few weeks either through mail, phone or personal conversations we and other members of the Bystander staff have come in for criticism, ranging from the light to serious vein. Some of it has been just, other quite unjust, which we believe is based on a misconception of newspapers, its functions and purpose.

When we (and from now on when the word "we" is used we are referring to the Bystander) make a mistake in spelling a name, have an incorrect address or misrepresent a fact, we are in error and we gladly welcome you (the reader) calling our attention to same.

We have many subscribers who through the years have consistently supported the paper. We have others who have supported it, but off and on through the years. There have been others who have wanted to do so but have not known how to go about doing so, or had not been approached by any staff member. We are proud of you and your support is invaluable. We know that.

However, being a subscriber like with any newspaper, you are not doing the paper a favor as such but you are subscribing to it because the paper has something to offer you the reader. It is a commodity on the market not a charity case. The significant difference is that a newspaper is dependent on the public goodwill because its contents are about the public . . . all the public. There are many who will conscientiously read the Bystander subscribed to by a neighbor or friend, but they will never think of doing a daily newspaper like that, and the daily costs as much as a month as a weekly might cost a year.

All newspapers should aspire to excellence in journalistic standards. The Bystander and a few other Negro papers have always attempted to reach that state. But it has only been in recent years that many Negro papers have overhauled their headlines, news writing and pictures to conform to top standards. Many of you know that often in past years when you have bought a Negro paper you have been ashamed to open it up and read it in public. That action was not taken solely because of news content but the treatment of the news and the bold black glaring headlines which shouted at you. This cannot be said of the Bystander.

When we speak of journalistic, there is a certain way to write news. News stories differ in language presentation than that of a club or organization yearbook, church bulletin or sermon from the pulpit. When you write in news you are to present all the facts, and the newspaper guarantees you only to print those facts but rewritten if necessary to conform with journalistic standards. It is a newspaper's right to see that its contents meet these standards.

Being a subscriber does not give readers right to demand that their stories must be published verbatim in the manner submitted. Many factors determine each week or day how a news story must be rewritten, deleted in portion or reworded. But one of these factors that is almost non-variable, is the time element. The present or near-present always takes precedent over the past. Examine any good newspaper and you will note this.

If an event is to take place in a day or so, it is journalistic standards to begin the story with this. Any prior meetings must follow.

We hear the charge of publishing "old news." Usually this means publishing news that has already appeared in a daily. When there are two or more newspapers in the same community they have access to the same news. However, with a weekly, they print all that has happened in the past week; a daily, all that has happened in the past 24 hours. If you have traveled or visited in any large city with two dailies or more you will note the same news in all papers. They are both in the same city and naturally have reporters who get the same news. The only difference is the treatment, angle or approach.

No newspaper survives by subscriptions alone. Advertisements bear the bulk of the expenses. However, subscriptions play a BIG part in helping any newspaper get better and more ads. Here again many businesses have failed to realize that you have to spend money to make money. Most look to make millions from pennies invested in an ad. Some will insert an ad but takes years to pay the bill.

We welcome news; and ads, too. No newspaper can survive without either. However, we do suggest that if you have news, write or call it in yourself. Too much misunderstanding can and does occur when a friend or relative calls in. Usually the news facts are not given, or names are omitted that the person wanted included. If you do have someone call or write for you, have a clear understanding what is to be submitted. There have been cases where staff members have been bawled out and blamed for something not their doing at all.

You don't have to be a subscriber to have news published. Many of you can testify to that. There is no charge for news. It only costs to place an ad, card of thanks or memorial, classified or pictures. Any attempt at making money to be published in a newspaper should be regarded as an ad. This does not eliminate charity or benefit events which usually have net proceeds not gross donated.
