Narrowly Escapes Death in Fall

An argument over non-payment of rent resulted in the death of one man Saturday night and another was charged with his murder. Victim was Norman Perry, 40, of 1155 9th street, who was shot in the left temple. Charged in the fatal shooting was Henry Tate, 58 of the same address.

Rent 'Unpaid'

Police Sgt. Cliff Cunningham said the owner of the apartment building in which Tate and Perry were living called Perry Saturday and told him he would have to leave because of failure to pay his rent.

Cunningham said Perry went to see Tate, argued with him and then threatened him. Cunningham said he was told that Perry said Tate "was in with the landlord in trying to get me out."

About 11 p.m. Perry returned to the Tate apartment and again he threatened Tate. Cunningham said. Tate's wife and daughter were with him in the apartment. Cunningham said, while Tate "pleaded" with Perry to leave.

Gets Out Gun

Cunningham said he was told Tate then got out a gun, a .22-caliber pistol, and shot Perry.

Tate was taken to the City jail.

Cunningham said no charges would be filed until investigation is completed.

Services for Perry were held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at St. Paul AME church, with burial in Glendale Cemetery.

Perry was employed as a laborer for the Great Western Railroad until his retirement.

He is survived by his wife, Norma; a daughter, Sherry Perry of Des Moines; his mother, Mrs. Thelma Headspeth of Des Moines; his father, Lycurgus Perry of Des Moines; a sister, Mrs. Betty Lou Wright of Venice, Cal.; and seven brothers, Richard, William, Junior Lloyd and Leonard, all of Des Moines; Wayne of Los Angeles, Cal.; and Eugene Headspeth and Steven Headspeth, both of Des Moines.

Wants Rights Bill As Is With Commas Says Wilkins

New York — The Negro wants a strong civil rights bill, such as that now being debated in the Senate, and is "not willing to concede even a period or a comma," to weakening amendments, said Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, on the ABC-TV program "Issues and Answers," Sunday, April 26.

Interviewed by news commentator Howard K. Smith, Wilkins said the bill should have been voted on and passed by the end of April.

Referring to the aborted stall-in at the World's Fair, which a rebel wing of another civil rights group attempted, the NAACP chief commented:

"... if they accuse us of stalling-in at the World's Fair, which is an amusement, the Senate can fairly be accused of a stall-in on the civil rights of 18,000,000 people and that's far more serious."

Federal Funds

When asked about Senator Albert Gore's objections to Title Six, which calls for the cutting-off of federal funds to projects which discriminate against Negroes, Wilkins replied:

"Our position is that federal grants and aids to the states in effect subsidize segregation and inequality. In 1962, for example, the southern states... received a total of $2,463,000,000 in various types of Federal grants and aids... Almost without exception, these funds are used so that Negroes do not get either any benefit from them or, if they do, very little."

"We do not believe the Federal government ought to spend $2,463,000,000... without saying you may not discriminate against the American citizens who live in your states and who happen to be black."

In his introduction, Smith described Mr. Wilkins as being "the head of the biggest and, despite all the noises in the streets, the strongest organization for Negro rights in the U.S."

Supreme Court Knocks Pins From Under 'DeFacto' Bias

Washington, D.C.—In a historic decision, almost as far reaching as the precedent-setting 1954 mandate, the U.S. Supreme Court Monday handed down a ruling on "de facto" segregation.

The Supreme Court refused to review and thus let stand lower court rulings that:

1. Rejected contentions by Negro children in Gary, Ind., that their constitutional rights are violated by a school system requiring them to attend the schools designated to serve their residential area and which they said resulted in "de facto" segregation (segregation in fact).

2. Upheld contentions by Negro children in Jacksonville, Fla., that they have a right to entire school systems operated on a non-racial basis, including the assignment of teachers, principals and other personnel.

Refusals

In each case, the Supreme Court announced its refusal to review in a brief order that made no comment. Such refusals to review do not necessarily mean the Supreme Court is in accord with the lower court decision. The issues involved may yet come before the Supreme Court in some other cases.

The high court's refusal to review the Gary case was a sharp disappointment, however, for those who contend that racial "imbalance" and "de facto" segregation must be wiped out under the court's school integration decision of 10 years ago.

Gary Case

The ruling in the Gary case was

Fair Housing Backers Begin Sitins at City Council Following Demonstrations

Exponents of fair housing for all races and creeds in Des Moines put into action an avowed plan to "sit-in" at the City Council meetings until that civic law-making body passes a fair housing ordinance.

Following a demonstration Saturday in which 120 persons marched around City Hall and the Statehouse, spokesmen, Rev. Ed Heiningner, campus minister at Drake university and the Rev. Joseph Gaines, St. John Baptist church, called for the series of sit-ins. Eleven persons, including a 3-year-old boy, initiated the "sit-ins" which will be done in small groups each Monday.

Marchers

The demonstrators sang freedom songs and paraded around City Hall, then marched east on Locust street to the Statehouse.

They marched around the Capitol, then gathered on the west steps to sing more songs and hear talks by civil rights leaders.

Many of the marchers were college students, Drake had a delegation of about 35. About 20 from Iowa State University at Ames and three from Grinnell College also took part.

Leading the way were two young girls—one white, the other Negro—who walked hand-in-hand.

Most of the marchers carried signs. Among them were these:

Fair Housing for Iowa. I Believe in Fair Housing. Hickenlooper—For and Against Civil Rights. Enough Double Talk—Pass Civil Rights Bill. I Say There IS a Problem.

Drops 70-Ft. Down Sheer Cliff to Ledge Above Cedar River While Climbing

Mount Vernon, Ia.—Seymour Gray, Jr., narrowly escaped death Sunday when he fell 70 feet down the face of sheer rock cliff at Palisades-Kepler State Park about four miles north of here. A senior at the State University of Iowa in Iowa, Gray was taken to St. Luke's hospital in Cedar Rapids with rib fractures, possible chest injuries and cuts and bruises. He was listed in fairly good condition Wednesday.

Landed on Ledge

Don Cole, park custodian said Gray landed on a narrow rock ledge about 15 feet above the Cedar River.

Cole said Gray was in a party of other young men and at least one girl who had been climbing on the cliffs most of the afternoon.

Cole said he did not learn the girl's name but she told him this about Gray's mishap:

Wearing a climbing "harness," and using ropes, Gray had descended to the foot of the cliff and had climbed most of the way back up.

Others of the group were at the top waiting for Gray. They saw his head appear over the edge. Then his head disappeared and he yelled.

Cole said the girl came to his house to report the accident. He said he called Dr. Robert Sautter of Mount Vernon, who arrived in about 10 minutes.

Go by Boat

Cole, Dr. Sautter, Cole's assistant, Douglas Franta, and the girl went up river in the patrol boat to within a few feet of the ledge where Gray was lying.

"Getting him over land would have been almost impossible," Cole said.

He said Gray was able, with help, to walk a few feet down a sloping bank to the boat.

SUPREME COURT REJECTS DE FACTO SEGREGATION THEORY

The U. S. Supreme Court refused to review a decision of the U. S. Circuit Court in Chicago rejecting the contentions by Negro children in Gary, Ind., that their constitutional rights are violated by a school system requiring them to attend the schools designated to serve their residential area and which they said resulted in "de facto" segregation (segregation in fact).

The Circuit Court had said that unless gerrymandering in order to segregate Negroes by the school system could be proved the (the case arose in Gary, Ind.) system was not unconstitutional.

As much as integration of the races in public school is desirable, and as much as inadequate schools in ghettos are abhorred, the Bystander has always believed that the theory of the de facto segregation is unsound law. We cannot disgrace with the ruling.

The ruling passed the responsibility back to the parents and the school systems to insist that schools in these areas be brought up to standard and the physical plants made to be equal to those in other areas.

This, of course, is a slow painful job, requiring hard work, thoughtful planning and intelligent use of the ballot.

NORTH AND SOUTH NEGRO HATERS JOIN

Richard Wilson, head of the Washington bureau of the Register and Tribune, writing about the drive to cut the Wallace Indiana Democrat vote explains why the Alabama governor would poll a big vote.

He said "Indiana has not had many racial disturbances, but the tension over jobs and housing has extended to the industrial areas of Gary, East Chicago and South Bend. This reflects the familiar collision between Negroes and immigrant groups originating in eastern Europe, Poles and others. The Wallace vote Tuesday was strongest in the large labor centers where these groups live.)

The tension is well known. Most of these immigrants or their parents came to America to escape religious, economic and/or political oppression. But once here, they not only oppose the efforts of the underdog—the Negro in America—to rise but also align themselves with people who are the Negroes worst enemies.

Most of these people are Democrats. They have voted with Negroes in the great centers of population and in many instances controlled political machines. Ostensibly they are comfortable bedfellows. But, in the dark, in the sanctuary of the ballot box, they chose to stick the knife in the Negro's back.

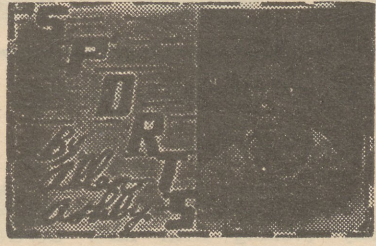

If these people are to be the bedfellows of the Wallace wing of the Democratic party it is time for the Negroes to take a hard look at those with whom they are sleeping.

FRIENDS OF DUNCAN FORM GROUP TO AID OLYMPIC BID

Jim Zabel, sports director of Station WHO and his assistant Randy Duncan and Bob Kerns have announced a plan to raise funds to help Clyde Duncan, Des Moines high school runner, and his high school coach to attend the tryouts for the Olympics. Others heading the movement are John Estes, Jr., Craig Schwab, and Tom Hand.

Duncan is an unusual athlete and a fine youngster. He has no funds with which to exploit his ability before the world. This group feels that he deserves a chance and has set out to help him. It is a fine gesture upon the part of these public spirited citizens. The movement deserves to succeed.

The Bystander wishes to emphasize that this project is a fine example for young Negroes in that it shows that if they work hard and make good, lack of finances will not block their progress.

We were all shocked to hear of the death of Jess Hill in a motorcycle accident. The big guy was one of the main cogs in one of Mike Augustine's May championship football teams at East High. We don't think anybody ever went to East who could throw a football as far as Jess could. He played basketball and ran on the track team. Then the follow had tremendous reflexes and remarkable coordination that made him one of the best of whatever he attempted... boxing, judo, pool, billiards, softball, you name it and Jess tried it and became one of the good players. It was said he was one of the best motorcycle riders in his club and that figures. Most of us admired him for his coolness under pressure. He never seemed to panic or lose his head even when really angry. We shall miss the "Rifleman" as he was called around the pool hall. The big guy with the dancing eyes and wide grin won't be around.

Clyde Duncan

We were pleased to hear that Clyde Duncan has decided to go to Texas Southern. We hope he does all right and we are almost sure he will. We knew that someone would start a fund drive to send the boy to the Olympics tryouts. We think his chances aren't too good for this one but that they will be great for the next one if the boy continues to improve. To give one an idea of what Clyde must do to make the team. He must run at least three races of :09.4 or better in two days. Nine-five or six just won't go in these Olympics sprints tryouts. The best ones are the ones who are on for that weekend. On another weekend the teams might be made of four different runners. We hope Clyde makes it but he is facing terrific odds.

Baseball

Still care to pick a winner in the two leagues? We will stand pat on our two selections earlier. The Yanks and the Dodgers. Right now their chances don't look too good but it is a long season.

Golf

Negroes are making a tremendous breakthrough in golf that makes two of them who have won meets and now this last one goes after a really big one this weekend. Good luck to Pete Brown.

Conversation Piece On Violence

"I don't know why it is, my whole personality changes and I want to smash somebody", Harriett confessed as she rode in the car with her aunt. A startled glance from the steering wheel revealed a dark-skinned 14 year-old girl looking straight into the future with hands relaxed in her lap.

"What do you say to a fourteen year old Negro girl caught in the stress and strain of the Negro Revolution?", Auntie 'So' asked herself as they drove in momentary silence.

"When do you feel this way, Harriett?", her aunt inquired carefully.

"Take this past weekend. I had a good time but at the dance I got the feeling I wanted to smash somebody there", a troubled and questioning expression contradicted the anger in her voice. "At school I get tired of boys and their 'coon lady' remarks". Next time I'm gonna smash 'em, Auntie. I'm just tired of all that", her niece exploded.

After another long silence, Auntie So Commented, "I know how you feel, I get that same feeling sometimes. I still find the best way to handle remarks is not to know they are meant for you. It's rough. I understand how really rough it must be almost everyday or especially when you're not expecting it".

"It isn't that I don't want to be a lady, Auntie So", Harriett replied to the unspoken alarm of her favorite relative.

"You know, Harriett, your mother and father will stand by you if you just have to smash somebody", Auntie So reminded her youthful passenger. "We really understand how it is". The thought soothed Harriett's wounded feelings and restored her confidence.

Auntie So drove with her eyes on the road ahead and her thoughts swirling in a turmoil of pride and anguish around her niece. The stress and strain of the moment magically dissolved in a quick touch of humor.

"If it would do any good, Harriett, I'd go to school and give every one of those boys you were talking about a hit in the mouth", Auntie So stated emphatically with a sly grin at her niece.

The image of her aunt clobbering boys to the right and to the left down the long junior high corridor turned Harriett limp with laughter.

Auntie So skillfully shifted gears and the focus of the conversation in that magic moment.

"Now Miss Freedom Fighter of 1964, after the principal, his staff and the Board of Education have been scraped off the ceiling, all we'll have to show for our effort will be boys with lumps on their heads, one auntie in jail and half the county talking about VIOLENCE instead of the evils of token integration!", Auntie So summarized the situation in good humor.

"Supposing your parents paid another visit to the principal. The problem of name calling is his... not yours. You, and only the Lord knows how many like you, are suffering the woes of token integration. Let's see if your elders can't help the principal to see that Freedom Now means he will stir himself to action on name calling in his school. O.K.?"

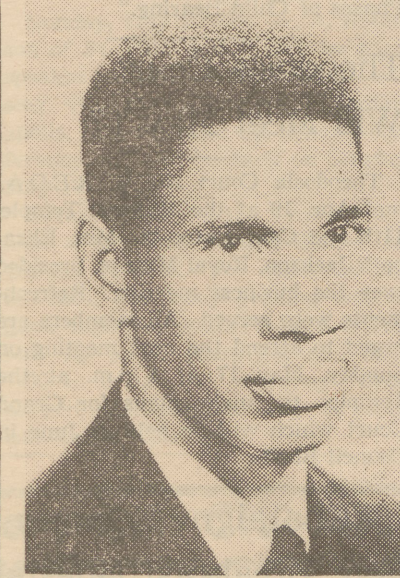

"O.K.!", Harriett beamed.

WILL PAY TRIBUTE TO MEDGAR EVERS

New York—The NAACP will honor the memory of its late Mississippi field secretary, Medgar Evers, who was assassinated on June 12, 1963, with a series of mass meetings and licitations during the week. The Association seeks 250,000 Memorial memberships in honor of the slain Mississippi leader.

In a call sent to all NAACP units this week Gloster B. Current, director of branches, stated "It is fitting that we... should pause in reverent tribute to one whose life was taken as he struggled for human values and civil rights for all of us."

With on thought of the dollars spent—Vacation!

For month our longing heart expands Regardless of our work's demands; We think in terms of the brook and rill,

Of distant sea or lonesome hill— Vacation!

Our vision paints us gay delights Of scaling dizzy mountain height, Of rod and reel, of trap and gun,

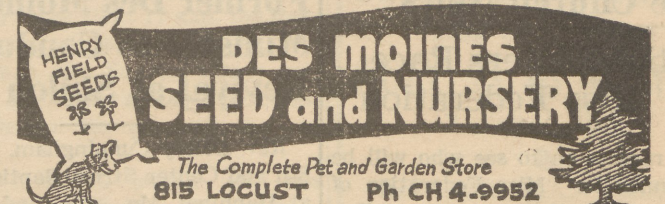

Of bracing winds and tanning sun— Vacation!

The auto's whizz, the paddle's swish, The relish of a camp-fire dish— And music 'neath the pale moonlight Conjure a dream of rare delight— Vacation!

For once a year the red gods call; We hate the city's deadly pall. The great outdoors before us lies— The primal man within us cries— Vacation!

What is electricity? AN EXTRA HELPER (OR TWO)

Electricity is the free time that a dishwasher gives you away from the kitchen. (And it can attract "volunteer" help, besides.) Electricity is the fun of a movie projector, the many stitches of a sewing machine. Electricity is probably 30 to 40 household servants right in your own home... five or six times as many as you had just a generation ago. With electricity doing so much for you, it stands to reason that your bill is higher today. But the actual cost of a kilowatt-hour of electricity is a full 30% lower than it was a generation ago.

Yes, electricity is many everyday wonders. At today's low rates, it's your biggest household bargain. Faithfully yours, from IOWA POWER AND LIGHT COMPANY and the 1300 people serving you.
