Presbyterians Elect N.Y. Pastor, 1st Negro Moderator

Oklahoma City, Okla.—True to expectation the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., elected Thursday the first Negro moderator in its history. He is the Rev. Elder G. Hawkins, pastor of St. Augustine Presbyterian church in the Bronx, N. Y. and who two years ago, missed being elected to the office by two votes.

Following his precedent-setting election the Rev. Hawkins delivered his first sermon to the convention which set aside Sunday for a day of rest before tackling the many business matters of the session.

The voting commissioners from 194 presbyteries gave the 55-year-old New York, N. Y. minister a 465-368 margin over the Rev. Alva Ray Cartledge of Erie, Penn.

The United Presbyterian Church has almost 3.3 million members in about 9,100 churches in the country. Only a minor fraction are in the southeastern states.

1,000 Members

The Rev. Mr. Hawkins has built St. Augustine Church at Prospect avenue and 165th street, from nine members to more than 1,000 in his 26 years as its pastor. The membership includes all races, and services are in several languages.

He is among those who instigated the creation of a special council on race and religion at the church's 1963 General Assembly in Des Moines.

Mr. Hawkins was born in New York and educated in its public school system. He is a graduate of Bloomfield College, Bloomfield, N. J., and Union Theological Seminary.

Mr. Hawkins said one of his concerns is to bring the full resources of the church to bear for passage of the civil rights bill in Congress.

He plans to visit West Germany and East Africa, and hopes to see Pope Paul VI in Rome.

Ed. Miller Gets 99 Years For 2nd Degree Murder

After conducting a four-day hearing, Polk County District Judge

Dring D. Needham sentenced Edward James Miller, 25, to 99 years in the State Penitentiary at Fort Madison on a second-degree murder charge.

Miller, who gave his address as 947 10th street, pleaded guilty May 15 to an open charge of murder in connection with the fatal daylight shooting of Mrs. Anna Mae Jackson, 25, of 922 School street at busy E. 14th street and Court avenue. This left the degree of murder to Judge Needham to decide.

Judge Needham said after the hearing, he "doubt" whether Miller "premeditated for even a moment... and deliberated as to whether he should not shoot" Miss Jackson.

In meeting out the stiff prison sentence, Judge Needham declared that Miller, "up to this time, has shown himself possessed of no redeeming features."

He said there had come from Miller "no word indicating any intention to abide by the laws of God and man if he ever regains his freedom."

Miller was described by Judge Needham as a "thief, robber, adulterer and murderer who admits that he has lived, as a matter of purpose and plan, off the illicit earnings of women who 'hustled' for their money."

Miller was to appear before Judge Needham later Monday on a second charge involving an escape Nov. 4 from the Polk County Jail.

The charge carries a maximum sentence of one year, with the term to begin after completion of an original sentence.

Last Call for Features For 70th Anniversary Issue

This is a last call to readers for information on some of the special features we plan to include in the Bystander 70th anniversary edition which will be published on Thursday, June 11.

We have received many answers to our call for the oldest subscribers and a few persons who graduated 15 to 25 years ago. However we have had no calls or correspondence from anyone in the state about residents who are 100 years or over. Neither have we heard from anyone with an interesting story or quip on Negro history in Des Moines or in the state. We are particularly interested in graduates, and what has happened to them.

If you have such information will you please take the time to sit down and write us a letter about yourself. Enclose a picture if you have one.

We are also appealing to all organizations and interested residents in and out of state, to participate in anniversary ads or testimonials. If you need additional information write or call the Bystander for same. Seventy years is a long time for any newspaper to be publishing. The Bystander has achieved this distinction without missing an issue.

NAACP, CORE Delegation Meet with Police Chief; Investigations Suggested

Court disposal of arrest cases, investigations and recommendations for same and conferences between civic leaders and public servants are continuing in the aftermath of an early morning "full scale" riot on Center street on May 16. About 100 persons were involved in a "grudge" mob that threatened police, broke shop windows in several businesses and some in automobiles, in a brick-bat, throwing melee shortly after midnight.

On Wednesday night, May 20 at a special meeting the executive board of the Des Moines branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, recommended two separate investigations of the Center Street disturbance. It asked its Legal Redress Committee, chaired by James B. Morris, Jr., to probe the incident and also voted to ask the City Council to conduct its own separate investigation by appointment of a Citizens Committee which would be directed to report its findings to the council.

Woman

A woman arrested in a May 9 incident at 12th and Center streets, which is believed to have triggered the melee a week later, testified in Municipal court Monday that she did bite Detective Ray Steiner and tear his sport coat. She is Evelyn Johnson, 22, of 1261 Stewart street, who was found guilty of intoxication and disturbing the peace. She went to jail four days when she failed to pay $50 in fines. She was found innocent of resisting an officer.

Detective Steiner

Detective Steiner's struggle with Miss Johnson on May 9 was protested by onlookers along Center street as being "police brutality." It was Detective Steiner who tried to break up a fight on May 16 between two Negro men at 10th and Center street. Steiner arrested one of them, Harold Lee, 27, of 1046 10th street. Lee jumped out a window of the patrol car, landing on his head, and the crowds began spilling out of taverns, threatening Steiner and two other officers who arrived at the scene. Steiner pulled his revolver, then a riot-gun and shot in the air, when brickbats began filling the air.

Also appearing in Municipal Court Monday in connection with the May 16 incident were two other persons, Archie Lavern Martin, 25, of 1320 16th street, who was fined $25 or two days for interfering with an officer and $25 or two days for disturbing the peace. Martin went to jail for four days when he failed to pay his fines.

Delegation Meets With Police Chief

Atty. Robert A. Wright, president of the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights, Mrs. Stanley Griffin, chairman of the Des Moines chapter of Congress of Racial Equality and Ernest Russell, executive secretary of the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights, met Tuesday afternoon with Police Chief Vear Douglas and Capt. Dwight Nichols on the subject of conduct and procedure of law enforcement on Center street.

Chief Douglas introduced statements made by Negro police officers and a member of the Center Street Improvement Association that neither "officers or detectives used undue force during the incident" on May 16.

Procedure

Atty. Wright stated that he did "not wish to criticize the whole department but that our concern is that law enforcement procedure on Center street be the same as in any other area in the city."

Mrs. Griffin said, "We are concerned about the steady stream of reports of abuses of the rights of Negroes on Center Street and in some cases, other parts of the city. We are concerned that due process and procedure shall not be violated, that guilt and innocence be established by the courts."

Russell emphasized that "many cities find orientation courses in human relations to be the most effective way of curbing police abuses."

Walking Patrolmen

The group discussed at length the subject that white police officers be temporarily withdrawn from Center street.

Chief Douglas stated that "the department intended to withdraw white walking patrolmen on Center street."

16th street, was fined $10 or one day for disturbing the peace. She paid the fine.

Several other persons were charged in connection with the May 16 melee and Municipal Court hearings are pending.

Asks for 5 Extra Federal Judges in Mississippi to Protect Voter Registrations

Atlanta, Ga.—A civil rights leader in Mississippi has asked for the appointment of five extra federal judges in his state to protect voter-registration workers during the summer. Five United States marshals would be assigned to work under each of the extra judges.

The request was made in a petition by Lawrence Guyot to Elbert P. Tuttle, Chief Judge of the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, who resides here. Guyot acted through Attorneys Joseph Jordan, Norfolk, Va., and Len W. Holt and Simon L. Cain, both of Washington, D. C.

Guyot who lives in Hattiesburg, Miss., told Judge Tuttle that more than 1,000 and possibly 2,000 students will come into Mississippi to conduct voter education and registration during June, July, August, and September.

The Petitioner said he is employed by the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) and the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO), both of which are trying to eliminate racial segregation in Mississippi and secure the vote for Negroes.

Guyot declared that only three

HEALTH FOR ALL

Funny Notions

A little bit of camphor tied around the neck doesn't keep out disease. Rock candy won't cure a cough or cold. There's no such thing as "brain food." And shortness of breath isn't "natural" in middle-aged or elderly people.

Most of us by now have learned to disregard the first three of those once-popular myths. But when it comes to the fourth, many are still floating contentedly in the romantic mists of medical superstition.

Exertion

How "natural" it is for people in their forties, fifties, even sixties to get short-winded when they haven't been putting out any exceptional effort? Answer: Not the least bit. After trotting briskly up a flight of stairs, hauling a heavy table across a room, or running a 100-yard dash, anybody's entitled to puff and pant a little. But when it comes to just ordinary exertion—walking around, doing light household chores, or working normally at a job—age is no excuse for failure of the breathing apparatus to function properly.

Mississippi

lawyers in the whole state of Mississippi are "willing to handle a racially controversial case and to assert the necessary constitutional defenses. In each instance when an integration worker is arrested the matter is racially controversial."

Not Enough

Guyot asserts that the three lawyers cannot be everywhere in the state to try to protect the voter-registration workers. He says that even the 50 lawyers being sent into the state by various groups will not be enough to cope with "massive and official repression certain to be inflicted" on the registration workers.

President Johnson

Because of vacations, Guyot says, there will be only one federal judge sitting in Mississippi most of the time during the summer, and this is not enough to protect the people who will be working in that state.

Last week end in Atlanta, the board of the Southern Conference Educational Fund (SCEF) called upon President Johnson to protect the workers in Mississippi with federal marshals, "augmented by fed-

Rationalizing

And yet we've all heard the home-made explanations: "Getting on in years—gotta stop and catch my breath!" Or, "Wind ain't what it used to be when I was 25!" Maybe it isn't, but doctors stress that this is not a natural development. A healthy person's wind is adequate—at 17 or 70.

In short, the complaint that one is "too old" to breathe properly may be a way of rationalizing—instead of facing—a symptom of disease.

Guide

Old medical superstitions make quaint conversation pieces but thoroughly dubious guides to health. A better guide is the one now being voiced throughout the land by the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated groups in their May 1-June 15 Alert against respiratory diseases: "Short of breath? Cough too much? Don't take chances with Respiratory Disease. See a doctor."

—Information Service of Polk County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

would cure; he feels Negroes must earn the rights rather than depend on laws to enforce them. He believes the civil rights bills could mean civil wrongs, and will be impossible to enforce. He is adamantly opposed to Title III, which gives enforcement power to the attorney general, and Title VII on fair employment. He believes that states should pass their own employment laws.

Gracious Miller

Mrs. Grider felt that Senator Miller was very gracious and friendly to the delegation. He pledged to support the civil rights bill with amendments which improve and strengthen it. He prefers that the bill be considered very carefully, title by title. He also suggested that more mail favoring the bill would help him; especially mail which reflects informed opinion, since he judges his mail by quality rather than quantity. Senator Miller is opposed to giving the attorney general as much power as he is given in the present bill; if this is modified, Miller will probably vote for cloture on a title by title basis.

Expect Record Total of Voters In 'Important' Primary Mon.

An expected record number of voters in Polk County will go to the polls Monday to cast their ballot for the "candidate of their choice" in the June primary in which a record setting total of 47 candidates are running for state representatives from Polk County. Since this is a national election year a large number of balloting is expected. Polk County residents will have an opportunity to select from a total of 419 candidates for various offices, local, county, state, and national, and will thus narrow the competitive field for the November general election.

Andrews, 3815 6th avenue and Ralph J. Tapscott, 3310 Henry street. All are Democrats. Orville E. Armstrong and Kenneth E. Slack, All are Democrats. They are challenging incumbent Dan Figgins, a Republican.

UNCF Reports $7 Million in Donations; Largest Since 1944

New York, N. Y.—The United Negro College Fund distributed $7,000,000, the largest single distribution since its founding in 1944, to 32 member colleges and universities in 11 Southern states. In his announcement, Dr. Frederick D. Patterson, president and founder of the Fund, said this is the first distribution of funds raised by the national committee of the Emancipation Centennial Campaign initiated by President John F. Kennedy in September, 1963. Recognizing the need for broadened educational programs to prepare Negroes for new job opportunities, Mr. Kennedy asked Charles C. Mortimer, chairman of General Foods Corporation, White Plains, New York, to become national chairman of the centennial campaign. Mortimer recruited 35 leading citizens from all sections of the country to work with him on the campaign's national committee. Within six months leading corporations, foundations and personal trusts had contributed $30,000,000 in cash and pledges.

MONDAY PRIMARIES
IMPORTANT ELECTION

Monday, the voters go to the polls to nominate candidates of the Republican and Democrat parties for state, congressional, county and township office. Here, leaders of the respective tickets will be chosen to carry the banner in the fall.

In the Polk county races, the voters have a wide choice for more candidates, more able candidates are in the field this year than has been the case in many years. This provides the voters a wider choice, creates more interest in the election and in the final analysis brings more people to the polls to vote.

During the past fifteen years, the total possible vote has slipped in many communities. People are free to vote. If required to register, that can be done with the expenditure of very little time. There are no barriers, except as to residence which applies to all alike.

In some communities, citizens are conducting legal proceedings in order to vote. Here, Iowans vote without restrictions and yet the total vote is far below the average.

Voters should remember that they elect officers who serve the government. If they are bad or inefficient or dishonest the voters are to blame for placing them in these positions. If they make bad laws the same thing is true. It is too late to complain once undesirables are chosen—until the next election.

Monday, voters have the opportunity to nominate worthy candidates for office. The sure way to get the job done is to

COUNCIL FIRM ON HOUSING ORDINANCE

The city council has passed the first and second reading of a proposed fair housing ordinance. The third and last reading comes up Monday and it is fair to assume that the ordinance will be passed.

Last ditch efforts are being made by the real estate interest to beat the measure. They secured hundreds of signatures to petitions asking the council to put the measure to a vote. However, the council has stood firm in its determination to pass the ordinance refusing to be stampeded into backing down.

Naturally, the ordinance does not suit everybody. But it is a modest beginning. It provides tools for pulling the cover of race prejudice from the heads of many who endorse, in public, human rights and stab it in the back under the cover of darkness or the sanctuary of the ballot box.

Many people who voted for Governor Wallace in Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland would never admit it in public. They know their position is unjust but don't have the courage to let their neighbors know they are unjust.

The council is to be commended for taking a firm stand on the ordinance they proposed.

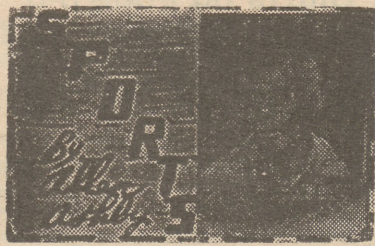

"OPEN VIRGINIA SCHOOL"—
SAYS HIGH COURT

The U.S. Supreme Court struck another blow at school segregation Monday when it ruled that Prince Edward County, Virginia must open its public schools which have been closed since 1955. Officials had taken this action rather than comply with a court order to integrate its schools.

In the meantime, white students have been attending private schools partly financed by the state while Negro students had no schools until 1963 when some type of private education was provided.

Some communities have gone to great lengths trying every conceivable means of defying the court only to be forced in the final analysis as was the case of Little Rock, Mississippi and Alabama.

We were among those present at Clyde Duncan's last high school show in the state track meet and the guy made it a good one. We still argue with the records on that 220 mark around a curve. The average mark was set by a great runner Chuck Hoyt of Greenfield. And they say it is 21.4. But what the people keep overlooking is that in those days time for races was measured in fifths of a second instead of tenths. And as we gather it that mark was listed at 21.4 for years and that did mean four fifths or eight tenths. Maybe someday somebody who counts will see the things in the light of this critic. But it was still a great show. We thought Clyde might have done a faster 440 but he seemed to be coasting from the back stretch.

Family

As the boy hit the tape in his last race the Duncan family rose as one person and filed toward the exit. For them the meet was over. They had come to see their son and brother run and that was that. There were some more pretty good Negro athletes from Des Moines out there too. Bob Grant of East who finished third in the 100 and anchored the 440 yards relay team to second. Tech fielded an all-Negro team of half miler took second in the two-mile relay. Then North had a couple of other boys who helped their team win the mile relay. Davenport's Gene Baker anchored winning half mile and quarter mile relay teams.

Then there was a long lanky fellow from Perry in Class A. Ron Davis who brought Perry home in front in the half mile and quarter mile relays and then broke the class A record for the low hurdles. This guy was almost the only Negro in class A competition.

We had to listen to a fellow who was one of those loud talking poor grammar run fellows. He kept telling us how fast he had run various races and all of his marks were better than Duncan's finally we asked where he had gone to school. He told us and we remarked we could not recall his name in high school athletics. Oh well, he was never eligible because teachers wouldn't let him get by the way that guy does. We then reminded him and his friends that there is a fierce rivalry among the Des Moines high schools and if there were anything the least bit shady about Duncan's eligibility it would have been discovered in three years by one of the other

Iowa City, Ia.—With his father and seven brothers and sisters watching, Clyde Duncan, North high flyer, breezed to his "triple crown" title here in the Class AA track meet, setting two records.

Duncan, acknowledged as the fastest sprinter in Iowa high school history, closed out his high school career with a wind-aided 100-yard dash record of 9.5 seconds then followed with a :21.6 record for 220 yards around a curve and finished up with a 50-second flat 440-yard dash.

Ames romped off with its seventh team title since 1955, scoring 46½ points in Class AA, with North Des Moines nosing out Central Davenport for the runner-up spot, 29½-29, on a victory in the mile relay. Marshall-town finished fourth with 15 points.

Mt. Ayr Next

The Class A crown went to Eagle Grove on 41½ points, followed by Mount Ayr with 29, Clarinda's indoor champs at 24, and Perry with 22 points.

Other records posted by the more than 1,000 athletes included five Class AA standards and three broken and one equalled in Class A.

The other state meet records also were allowed during a day in which

'Baseball Has No Place for Retired Negro,'
Says Cardinal First Baseman Bill White

New York—"There is no place for the Negro in baseball after he retires from active play," says All-Star first baseman Bill White of the St. Louis Cardinals in the current issue of SPORT magazine.

"It isn't right," says White. "Surely, there must be a place for people like Jackie Robinson and Monte Irvin."

Bench Warmers

Continues the St. Louis first baseman, "There are few jobs in coaching, managing, sportscasting or the front office open to the Negro, though many could qualify for those positions."

In the outspoken article titled "A Man Must Say What He Thinks Is Right," White alludes to what he considers to be other forms of discrimination in and out of baseball.

Coaching Prexy,
Another to Be Honored in Sports

Kansas City, Mo.—Two men representing 62 years of college coaching and a former major league player will be inducted into the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Baseball Hall of Fame next month.

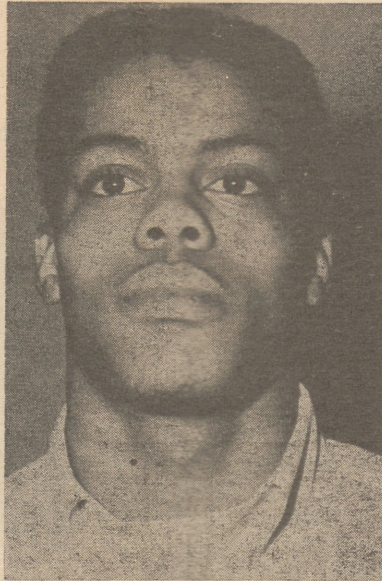

Announcement of the selection of the three men was made today by A. O. Duer, executive secretary of the NAIA, who added that two of the men would be honored during the NAIA Baseball Hall of Fame banquet, Sunday, June 7 at St. Joseph, Mo., and a third would be honored in August.

around the curves on the powdery, slow State University of Iowa track.

State marks set in addition to Duncan's were a :19.1 low hurdles time by Perry's Ron Davis, with wind gusting at 10 miles per hour at his back, and a 23-foot 3¼-inch broad jump by Ames' Tom Landsberg.

White points out that there are few Negro benchwarmers in the major leagues, suggesting that the Negro must be a regular, or is doomed to minor-league status.

Integration Fight

The Cardinal first baseman, who has never been reticent about demanding equal opportunity and treatment, led the fight for integrated housing and eating facilities during Spring training at St. Petersburg in 1960. By 1962, the Cardinals were all housed together at the plush Outrigger Inn, thanks to White's vociferousness, though certain swimming and eating restrictions were placed on the Negro players. However, by spring training this year, all restrictions were forgotten and all team members were being treated equally.

Coaching Prexy

The two coaches who will be honored at St. Joseph are R. W. E. Jones, president as well as baseball coach at Grambling College, Grambling, La., and Max Molock, baseball coach at St. Mary's College, Winona, Minn.

Officials at Grambling claim that their president is the only coaching president in American colleges and he has served in a dual capacity for 38 years.
