Senate Passes Civil Rights Bill, 73-27

Expect President LBJ To Sign Statute July 3; Hickenlooper 'No.'

Washington, D.C.—Nine days after it voted its historic move on cloture—the first time on a civil rights issue the U.S. Senate passed the sweeping civil rights bill, on Friday night, June 19, 73-27. The passage came exactly one year after the late President Kennedy first sent the proposal to Congress. It also came after 83 days of debate and attempts to water down or amend it.

Hickenlooper

Contrary to his surprise "yes" vote on cloture Iowa's senior Senator, Bourke B. Hickenlooper, joined six Republicans and voted against the measure. Also voting "No" as he announced the day before was Sen. Barry Goldwater, Ariz., who is seeking the Republican nomination for president. Sen. Goldwater also voted "no" on cloture.

Back to House

The bill went back to the House for concurrence in the changes made by the Senate in the House measure passed last Feb. 10. The bill is expected to reach President Johnson's desk for his historic signature no later than July 3. House leaders have indicated the Senate revisions are acceptable to them.

Authority

The Senate measure would provide unprecedented new authority for the federal executive and courts to prevent racial discrimination in voting. SEE PAGE TWO

Slate Silent Civil Rights March Sat. In Waterloo, Iowa

Waterloo—The NAACP in cooperation with the Citizens' Committee have projected a civil rights silent march for freedom for 11:00 a.m. Saturday, June 27, starting point Lane at Vine and terminating at City Hall after marching through the downtown area.

The march coincides with the NAACP membership drive which has just gotten underway and is also a memorial to Medgar Evers of Mississippi who gave his life for the cause of civic freedom.

Organizations

Several organizations of Waterloo and Cedar Falls are supporting the Silent March and will have representatives in the march. The pastors of several Waterloo churches will lead the march with some members of their congregations participating with them. All of the churches of Waterloo, civic organizations, officials of city and county government, and all individuals interested in the cause of civil rights have been and are being asked to participate in the Silent March. Children under 12 have been asked to be accompanied by their parents.

At the conclusion of the march at City Hall several of the ministers will present some long standing grievances to the mayor.

The chief of police will provide a police escort for the marchers. Rev. I. V. Tolbert, vice-president of the NAACP, is coordinator of the Silent March.

NEW TAX-EXEMPT FUND ANNOUNCED BY NAACP

New York—Establishment of a new NAACP Special Contribution Fund which has been granted tax exemption by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service was announced here this week by NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins.

Under provisions of the Internal Revenue Service ruling, foundations and large individual contributors can now give to the NAACP Special Fund and be permitted to deduct the sum from their federal income tax. The fund will be used to finance the Association's legal, research, educational and voter registration programs.

The new ruling came as the result of months of painstaking efforts on the part of the Association's general counsel, Robert L. Carter. He said the NAACP must observe strictly the Internal Revenue regulations which prevent the monies in the special contribution fund from being mixed with the regular funds. They may not be used in any sort of lobbying for any legislation.

Cpl. Jonathan Brewer

Southern California (FHTNC) — Marines Lance Corporal Jonathan L. Brewer, brother of Mrs. Marcella Durden of 936 10th Street, participated in an extensive sea assault exercise called "Operation Pine Tree" off the coast of Southern California May 20-28 while serving with the First Marine Division.

The exercise, involving 20 ships of the Pacific Fleet and 9,000 Marines from the First Marine Division at Camp Pendleton, Calif., consists of direct assaults on simulated enemy held beach positions.

500 Delegates from 7 States Attend 4-Day Midwest Elks Convention; 5,000 See Parade

Dispersing the rain and cloudy gloom with their colorful fezzes, mantles and sashes, more than 500 Elks and Auxiliary delegates came to town and added their pomp and pageantry to the local scene. The event was the Midwest Elks Association convention hosted by the Hawkeye Elks Lodge No. 160 of which Gil Randle is exalted ruler.

Presiding over the four-day session at St. Paul A.M.E. church was Russell E. Smith, Denver, Colo., president the past two years.

Delegates from 23 lodges in seven states and parts of Canada attended the convention.

Drum, Bugle Corps

Following registration the convention got off to a "fast-stepping" start with the Antler Guard competitive drill Sunday afternoon at East high stadium. Four colorful, uniformed Drum and Bugle Corps—Omaha, Waterloo, Des Moines, and Minneapolis-St. Paul—went through their precisioned furious paces. The Hawkeye Drum and Bugle Corps emerged as champs.

Grand Exalted Ruler

The Elks joined the Auxiliary for the Educational banquet Sunday night, and the Grand Ball at the Val Air Ballroom Monday night with the Grand Exalted Ruler, Hobson R. Reynolds, Philadelphia, Pa., leading the Grand March. Mr. Reynolds addressed a business session of the Elks Monday morning.

Parade

Monday afternoon nearly 5,000 persons congregated along the parade route to watch the colorful parade, which included a float, the various drum and bugle corps and major-

Mississippi Gets 1st Negro U.S. Marshal

Jackson, Miss.—Following NAACP requests to the U. S. Department of Justice, James Middleton was appointed the first Negro U. S. Deputy Marshal in the State of Mississippi this week. No Negro has ever held this position here before.

Last June at the time of Medgar Evers' funeral, his brother, Charles Evers, now NAACP Mississippi field secretary, consulted with Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy concerning the appointment of a Negro as U. S. Marshal.

Further NAACP correspondence with officials in the Department of Justice resulted in the appointment of Middleton.

Maintains 'Brotherhood Morality' Will Help Implement Rights Bill

Frances E. Hawthorne

A leading New York attorney and Republican official took his fellow man to task here Tuesday, in a hard hitting speech highlighting the Midwest Regional Elks Association convention.

Atty. Grant Reynolds, assistant counsel to the national chairman of the Republican National committee, addressed the civil liberties meeting Tuesday afternoon climaxing the four day convention which opened here Sunday at St. Paul A.M.E. church.

History

Referring to the civil rights bill, Reynolds stated, "During the past week we have seen history written; we have seen cloture voted for the first time on civil rights issues."

Reynolds praised Senator Hubert Humphrey and several other senators but added "the real hero of the senate, ladies and gentlemen, is Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois."

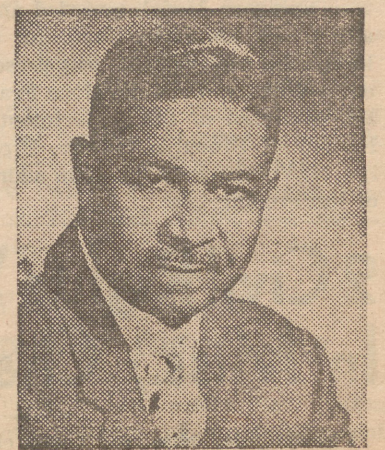

Hero of Senate

Noting that Sen. Dirksen was recently defeated in the Illinois primary, Reynolds added, "Here was a man who owed the Negro nothing, who had been defeated by them in his home state. Yet when 26 votes were needed to insure cloture, he did one of the finest things for a man to do—and worked to get them."

Two Concept

"One of the things we have to learn is to support our friends irrespective of party affiliation and punish our enemies . . ."

"There are two words we have to keep in mind as we move beyond the civil rights bill, for it will solve nothing if not enforced; first there is the concept of morality and the second, the concept of brotherhood and responsibility. We must remember these two concepts if we are to implement the civil rights bill—not for Negroes but for America.

Demonstrations

"We (Negroes) have served America for 350 years and have put more into this nation in terms of blood and sweat than any other minority.

"Turning to the civil rights demonstrations Reynolds maintained, "Let us demonstrate and after that let us parade to city hall or to the registration voting place. To me an unregistered Negro voter is an undeserving person. And this is my challenge I give because we have a responsibility to use our vote with a degree of intelligence.

Washington — Approximately 2,000 delegates were expected to attend the 55th annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, in session this week until Saturday at the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

Major attention of the convention focused on political action and the problem of poverty. Delegates also are concerned with education North and South, employment, housing and financing the NAACP.

Major addresses during the five-day meeting were delivered by Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP who delivered the keynote address Monday night; Carl Rowan, director of the United States Information Agency; Jack Greenberg, director-counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc.; and Mrs. Medgar W. Evers, wife of the slain NAACP Mississippi field secretary.

Political

An entire day Tuesday was devoted to the problem of political action. In the morning delegates heard from Hubert H. Humphrey (D., Minn.), Majority Whip in the U.S. Senate; and Thomas H. Kuchel (R., Calif.), Minority Whip in the Senate.

In the afternoon delegates, assembled in regional workshops, discussed various aspects of political action including ways and means of accelerating the Association's nationwide voter registration drive.

On Wednesday delegates turned their attention to the problem of poverty with major addresses by Sargent Shriver, special assistant to the President, and director of the President's Task Force on the War Against Poverty; and Dr. Vivian Henderson of Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.

In the afternoon regional workshops again heard discussions by the delegates on ways and means of combating poverty.

Pilgrimage

Attention will shift today to Arlington Cemetery. Delegates will make a special pilgrimage to the graves of Medgar W. Evers and President John F. Kennedy. Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood, chairman of the NAACP Board of Directors, will officiate at ceremonies at the Evers graveside.

The Youth Freedom Fund Banquet is scheduled for tonight. Jackie Robinson will present the annual NAACP youth awards at the banquet.

Rose Temple No. 33, Elks Entertain Midwest Ladies

Adding their touch of beauty, as only women can, was the Woman's Auxiliary to the Midwest Elks Association which convened here June 21-24, at St. Paul A.M.E. church hosted by Rose Temple No. 33.

Presiding over the Auxiliary session was Mrs. Arretta Butler, Sioux City, Ia., president for the past several years over the organization which comprises seven states and parts of Canada.

Queen Contest

Among highlights of the Auxiliary was a Queen contest, won by Mrs. Elsie Robinson of Des Moines. Her first prize is a round trip fare to the Grand Lodge in Miami, Fla., next month. The Auxiliary joined the Elks for the annual parade which is a colorful event for all regional Elks conventions. The Auxiliary made a float, on which rode the Queen and a group of children.

Parade

Besides Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Robinson, other Auxiliary dignitaries in the parade were other officers, Mrs. Victoria Hendricks, past Midwest president and District Deputy of Iowa, Mrs. Emma Turner, P.G.D.R. A visitor also rode in the parade. She was Mrs. Anna Bailey of Kansas City, Mo., a former member of the convention.

Banquet

The Auxiliary also held its arts and craft display, items and souvenirs created by members themselves and sold to help defray convention costs. Most of the details and planning for the educational banquet held Sunday and Grand Ball held Monday at the Val Air ballroom, were handled by the Auxiliary, which also held a Past President's Fashion Show on Tuesday. Mrs. Norman R. Olphin was banquet speaker.

On Tuesday morning Hobson B. Reynolds, Grand Exalted Ruler, Philadelphia, Pa., appeared before the Auxiliary.

Officers

Officers attending the convention were Mrs. Butler; 1st vice pres., Mary Anne Tyler, Omaha, Neb.; 2nd vice pres., Venora Grayson, Tulsa, Okla.; Rec. Sec., Lurena Mathews, Denver, Colo.; Acting Fin. Sec., Della Collins, Denver, Colo.; treasurer, Polly Kirkpatrick, Oklahoma City, Okla.; conductress, Geraldine Williams, Omaha; Assist. Conductress, Edith G. Simmons, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada; Chaplain, Debra Dickerson, Oklahoma City; Doorkeeper, Classie Brown, Sioux City, Ia.; Gatekeeper, Aquilla Simpson, Ia.

Rights Bill

in use of public accommodations and government-run facilities, in education and in employment.

Not only would it ban discrimination in hotels, motels, restaurants, service stations and theaters, but it also would allow the government to sue on its own motion in federal courts to break up "patterns" of discrimination in these establishments.

A similar power to initiate suits would be granted to the attorney general in voting rights and job discrimination cases.

Last Effort

Federal judges would be given authority to enforce anti-discrimination orders in all these cases by jailing offending parties for contempt of court until they comply.

In the case of voting rights, they could also punish offenders, without a jury trial, by fine or imprisonment even after the disobedience to a court order had ended.

G. Reynolds

Reynolds continued, "We are building some dangerous images for ourselves, by herding ourselves into one political party. We ought to build a strong base in both parties to keep them in line.

"We have a responsibility to exert more control over our own destiny. Politically we have got to tell the power structure who are our leaders instead of it telling us what to do or who our leaders are.

Education

Turning to education Reynolds declared, "Send your child to school to meet the challenges of tomorrow no matter what the sacrifice. Prepare them for the opportunity already opening up.

"Finally, let us learn to make jobs for ourselves. The FEP clause in the civil rights bill will not guarantee you a job, but it will guarantee you not to be discriminated against.

"However, when we have machines that can do the jobs of 500 people, and 10 white persons are waiting for every job, where are you going to get the job in the first place? We must be prepared.

Challenge

Paraphrasing the late President Kennedy's "ask not what your country can do for you," Reynolds spurred

Evan Hultman

Shortly after his one-hour speech Reynolds graciously took leave of the meeting, explaining the pressure of time needed to catch a plane for California. He was eloquently introduced by Atty. Gen. Evan Hultman, who spoke of Reynolds as "a man of service and my personal friend."

Among other platform dignitaries were Mrs. Kate Goldman, Republican candidate for state representative, who lobbied for Iowa's FEP bill, and Russell E. Smith, retiring president of the Midwest Elks Association, Roy W. White, Omaha, Neb., Association director of civil liberties department, presided over the meeting.

2 Civil Rights Workers Vanish In Miss.; Charred Car Found

Philadelphia, Miss. — Three civil rights workers—who white men from New York City and a Negro from this state—have vanished without a trace after they were released from jail Sunday night. The car in which they had been riding was found Tuesday—charred, still smoking near a backwater swamp here. It was feared they had come across foul play.

In the latest development, President Johnson ordered former Central Intelligence Agency Director Allen Dulles to Mississippi after FBI agents found the car.

Missing were Andy Goodman, 20, and Mickey Schwerner, 24, both of New York and James Cheney, 22, of Meridian, Miss.

Goodman was one of 175 who arrived in Mississippi last weekend to take part in Negro voter registration and education projects after training in Oxford, Ohio. Schwerner, a CORE field worker, had been working in Meridian since January where he was active in establishing a library and a community center. Cheney, another CORE field worker, had been active in civil rights work for less than nine months.

1964 NAACP REPORT

Convention Delegates Told Negro Struggle Stirred Imagination of the World

New York—Civil rights activity in the centennial year of the Emancipation Proclamation touched every segment of the population in this country, attracted the attention and stirred the imagination of the entire world, according to the NAACP annual report for 1963.

"It was a year of hope and work and sacrifice with no time for relaxation and far too little for reflection," the report says. "It was a year of unrelenting struggle from dawn until nightfall, from January through December."

The 128-page report, entitled "In Freedom's Vanguard," was released here and in Washington by NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins on the eve of the Association's 55th annual convention in Washington, June 22-27.

Banner Year

Contained in the report is a chronicle of the Association's "banner year" in activity, membership and income. Also included are two special chapters, one on the tragic assassination of Medgar Evers, NAACP Mississippi field secretary, and the other on the March on Washington, "a day not only of sunshine and hope and dedication (but) also a day of pride and dignity."

Highlights include the variety of campaigns conducted at the grass-SEE PAGE SIX read a small copy he had written in a Washington paper: "If more people would read their Bible things would be much better," meaning we would understand more about integration. How to win a battle without so much bloodshed and hatred. Dr. Martin Luther King is a man whom God has sent forth to make a world; for all the people to live in. Some have given their lives already. Some have and are still marching. Some have given a great sum of money. I say we have come short. We are letting Dr. King down. How many have offered a whole day or sacrificed one hour or a half hour straight for prayer. We have opened our door for an all day service just for a prayer of peace.

Oh I remember so well when mothers and wives, grandmothers all over the world whose sons, husbands, and dads were out on the battle front. The church doors were open all over the world, for a whole day of prayer. There was standing room only. Oh, people of America what about the world? Come out of your shells let us back this man of whom God has chosen to lead the people. Oh, when hatred starts it will spread like forest fire. Just because our children are safe, we hope are protected: that's all right. Well Dr. King doesn't think that way. He is out and very deep into it, so that all the children can enjoy the freedom of America and better world to live in. Stop, I say, people of our nation.

Moses, a holy man of God couldn't lead the people without God and prayer to keep them they had to put up a sacrifice. Some gave up their last lamb to God. But our God fixed that. He gave up his only son. Now, we can offer a day of sacrifice by only fasting and praying for the word of peace as our late President John F. Kennedy was hoping for.

We, the New Jerusalem Church of God in Christ, given permission by our beloved pastor, Bishop M. W. Goodman, are open to an hourly prayer at your convenience each Tuesday from 9 to 3 p.m. Starting June 30th. All are welcome.

Another 168 hours and a lot of water has fallen from the skies since we last sat down to chat with you. Visitors and vacationers are keeping up a rapid pace as they shuttle in and out of the city. And the lovely strings of weddings and receptions begin.

We wished that our particular vacation time was here as we listened to a vivid account by Bystander secretary, Shirley Fulbright, who just returned from Oklahoma where she visited relatives and friends for a week. Like all visitors bound southward, she ran into some extremely hot temperatures.

Also leaving the city indefinitely are the family of Sgt. David Savage, 1312 11th street. They left Tuesday to join him in California where he will be stationed for a while.

Mrs. Edythe Cawthorne, 3107 E. 7th street, returned to the city with exuberant reports of the Harvard commencement and her son's graduation. She says the ceremonies are the same as when the college held its first back in the 1800's. The pomp, ceremony, flair and dignity of the event, enhanced by the tall silk hats worn by graduates, are really something to see.

She also noted that an honorary degree was bestowed upon William C. Weaver, Federal Housing administrator. It had been kept a closely guarded secret until the day. He was the only Negro to receive the degree from Harvard.

The fast stepping, precision drum and bugle corps of the various Elks Lodges who performed in Monday's parade were really a sight to see. Endurance plus long hours of practice sessions lay behind their ability and capacity to keep up such a furious pace for the nearly three mile route. The smart uniforms added to the colorful event.

A letter arrived at the Bystander this week and because we know there are many friends and relatives of the writer, who are readers we decided to print it here for your pleasure. The writer is Mrs. Watson (Margaret Langford) Turner of 3816

SENATE PASSES

RIGHTS MEASURE;

ENFORCEMENT IMPORTANT

The Civil Rights bill has finally passed the senate. Its version will go to the house for approval which is expected to come within a few days.

There has been little doubt all along that the bill would pass the senate once it came to a vote on its merits. Southern opposition made a long but unsuccessful bid to prevent its passage conducting the longest filibuster of record. But a majority of the people wanted a civil rights measure passed.

Senator Miller voted for the bill. He said, "By and large, this bill gives the states an opportunity to carry out their responsibilities first; and then, if they do not do so, the federal government must step in."

"To those citizens who have been deprived of their constitutional rights, this bill is a national expression of good faith and trust that, upon securing their right, these citizens will reciprocate this good faith and trust with the full measure of responsibility which must accompany the exercise of those rights."

"The time for civil disobedience is over, for only through law can rights be secured—as they have been under this bill."

Senator Hickenlooper voted against the measure. He said, "In America a man must and should stand on his own feet—he should and must enjoy equality of opportunity but beyond that he is not entitled to preferred treatment and his ability, ambition and talents must measure his progress." Here the senator makes the best argument why he should have voted for the bill. He must know that the Negro has never asked for preferred treatment. He wants to stand on his own feet. On the other hand, he simply asks for the same treatment as any other citizens. The class he speaks of is not of his choosing but was created by others.

Senator Goldwater voted against the measure. This comes as little surprise. Most of his supporters say that while unfortunate, they admire him for standing by his convictions. Well, Hitler stood by his convictions and so did Al Capone. Time proved that these convictions were wrong. The followers of each were annihilated.

Practically every organization of any stature, most people with fairminded thinking wanted a civil rights bill passed. They realized that the Negro is not receiving his full status as a citizen in spite of constitutional guarantees and there should be no doubt of his position as a first class citizen.

Reasonable people know the bill cannot and will not cure all evils heaped upon Negroes. But it puts into law a moral standard for the citizens of America to follow. Its success will depend upon honest enforcement and aggressive cooperation by all races.

roots level of the Association "in the areas of public accommodations, legislation, employment, education, housing, voter registration, police brutality and the destruction in every area of American life of the Jim Crow stereotype."

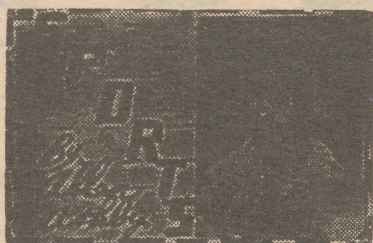

Membership

Membership was the largest in NAACP history—534,710 spread throughout its 1,762 branches, youth councils and college chapters in 49 states.

In many areas NAACP-conducted campaigns resulted in gains, both in the South and elsewhere. The report notes the gains made in Mississippi as "a result of NAACP mass action demonstrations and the willingness of courageous citizens to protest unequal treatment and age-old racist practices."

Mississippi

Because of the NAACP drive in Jackson, "six Negroes were appointed to the police force and eight Negro women named as school crossing guards; some Jim Crow signs removed in public buildings; and registration of Negro voters facilitated. Meanwhile, a Capitol Street selective buying campaign proved

We were interested in a remark made sometime ago by Charlie Sifford, the best known of the Negro golfers. Charlie who wins a little money just about every time he starts, said that if more Negroes could get the necessary competition they could make it big in pro golf. Then we thought about other sports, tennis and such as far back as one or two Negro tennis players who might have made the big time if they could have got the competition. There was Reggie Wir, Tommy Walker, Rommy Campbell, Schoolboy Mitchell, to mention a few.

We had a couple of fellows around here who would have ranked pretty up in the local lists if they could have played somebody other than each other. We all got into the meets around here because we figured we were holding the door open for some kid who would really make it. That was the main reason for our Hilltop open. We thought that out of our meet would come a Negro champion. We were nearly right. Esther Myers is the champ but no fellow has been willing to work hard enough to have a chance to break through. For a while there were a few but now they have gone and there is no one left. What happens when the vets are gone? Who will follow Mrs. Myers? There are one or two promising people who could be but we aren't sure they will.

At least in this area one can get the competition one needs to become tough but the kids won't work at the game. We don't know how it is in other sports but we guess the chance are more of them are there.

A fellow could get into most of the golf meets around here and become pretty good. We don't think that is possible on a national scale so maybe Mr. Sifford is right.

We were annoyed at a pro-football coach's raving over Wilt Chamberlain's pass catching ability. Did anybody ever see a basketball player who couldn't catch passes. Catching a thrown ball is one of the basic fundamentals of basketball.

almost 100 per cent effective."

Importance

Of prime importance during 1963 was NAACP action through its Washington Bureau on behalf of passage of a comprehensive civil rights bill. Executive Secretary Wilkins made two important appearances before Congressional committees testifying in behalf of the bill and the NAACP kept careful watch on its progress during the year.

Civil Rights

The report notes that "burgeoning civil rights activities" necessitated an intensification of the NAACP legal program. "Direct action protests, increased demands for equal opportunity in employment, and expanded attacks against segregated school conditions required the development of a strategy of defense to insure freedom of association, protect the right to picket peacefully and secure equality of opportunity for Negroes in education and employment."

The drive to end de facto school segregation was pressed vigorously as NAACP branches and state conferences "mobilized their full resources . . . in more than 70 city and suburban school systems in 19 states."

Crucial

The crucial problem of Negro employment continued undiminished during 1963. In efforts to close the gap between white and Negro unemployment, the NAACP used "every legitimate technique at its disposal . . . to expose widespread discrimination by employers, trade unions and apprenticeship training programs and to increase job opportunities for the Negro labor market."

Back To The Igloo?

Consider the Eskimo—for warmth or for cooking, he builds a fire right on the floor in the middle of his igloo. The smoke goes straight up and out through a hole in the top. Usually this businesslike arrangement works fairly well. For the most part, the Eskimo breathes clean, warmed air.

But sometimes in the spring, just before breakup, wet snow will fall into the fire or some special weather condition will prevent the "chimney" from functioning. Then the inner wall gets black with soot, and the Eskimo and his family must put out the fire or go choking and stumbling into the fresh air outside.

Resources

Civilized nations, with all the scientific resources at their command, naturally are doing a more efficient job than the Eskimo. They are smoking up not single dwellings, but whole cities. The smoke that pours out of home and factory chimneys renders them harmless and is more noxious, automobile exhaust pipes, bonfires of burning leaves, and tobacco in its various forms, is filling the air with hydrocarbons, sulphur dioxide, and other noxious gases. So full, in fact, that only a moderate flight of fancy is needed to predict a day when we'll have to go choking and stumbling into outer space. Unfortunately there's no air there, either.

Individual courtesy in disposing of our aerial refuse isn't really enough. Super-burning of gaseous wastes efficient, but the necessary chimney attachment seems expensive to a lot of people. Clean air legislation is as necessary now as were laws providing clean pure water fifty years ago. Check your own furnace, chimney, and car exhaust first; then do what you can to make it a community clean-up. If there is a cleaner air committee in town, find out how you can help its efforts.

HIS CHANCE

I'm his chance; It came to me While he was sitting on my knee.

I seemed to see the distance glow With all the things I wished to know.

What will he do in future years? What will he be when age appears?

What is his chance in life? What joy Or sorrow now awaits my boy?

I've faced the world. I've played it's game, I've seen its scarlet side of shame

The crowning will take place near a display of Soap Box Derby cars.

And tramped its many winding ways In my remembered yesterdays. And I was true and I was brave According as my father gave.

He fitted me as best he could To meet life's trials as I should.

He struggled that I might possess The knowledge needed for success;

He showed me by example fine The character that should be mine.

He sacrificed himself that he Might give the best life held to me.

My chance to meet the tests alone Was in the father I had known.

Now I'm his chance! And he shall rise

Not by the strength that in him lies, But by the lessons that I give

I shape the life that he shall live; The man that he shall someday be Shall speak the best or worst of me. As I have taught, he shall advance.

God grant I shall not spoil his chance!
