Zoe Mitchell 'Wow' Select Audience with 'Mad' Fashion

By Frances E. Hawthorne

If you measure the quality of enthusiasm and the quantity of applause and not the size of the crowd who entered "Zoe Mitchell's Mad, Mad World of Fashions" last Saturday night, the former homemaker made a resounding hit at the opening debut of her fashion creations.

In the words of the petite but glamorous designer - commentator, "With elegant, beautiful material, you don't need anything else. It's easy. You just take a piece of material, drape it around a model, and you have your creation."

Too Modest

But Mrs. Mitchell was being too modest. Even to the untrained eye, the painstaking detail, original designs and flair for making simplicity look fabulous, was apparent. Add to this models who wear the beautiful creations as if they were made for them, and you have a show worth seeing anytime. All fashions modeled except the swim suits and furs, were designed and sewed by Mrs. Mitchell.

From beginning to end, the show had all the earmarks of the professional, from the zany cocktail party for guests prior to the show and music Sheri Berns and company, to

cade, worn with a detachable side-split long skirt; Candy Hill, wearing a two-piece black French crepe with side-split; June Price, black cut-velvet slim line strapless formal on rose; Bi Bi Williams in a stunning martini eyelash strapless gown; Zoe Mitchell, in a puff-sleeve yellow chiffon and fox furs, holding bouquet of roses presented from "an admirer"; Merri Frances in a pure white French crepe two piece formal that will be beaded around the V-front; Effie Williams in a cerise and black damask two piece highlighted by a huge rose at the V-neckline; Walter Williams in formal tuxedo and Lula Barnes, in fabulous turquoise lace and pead de sole torso formal that will be shown by Zoe Mitchell at the Waldorf Astoria later this month. Local CORE Holds 24-Hr. Silent for Missing Workers

The Des Moines chapter of Congress of Racial Equality held a 24-hour "silent vigil" to express sympathy with the three civil rights workers who disappeared over a week ago in Philadelphia, Pa. Participants in the vigil, held on the Walnut street side of the Main Post-office, handed out leaflets urging that wires be sent to President Johnson and Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy requesting them to send U.S. marshals to Mississippi for the protection of civil rights workers there.

In addition the leaflets urged readers to "contribute to the Iowa student bail bond fund and disclosed that eight Iowa students are already in Mississippi for various civil rights projects.

It was noted that $400 has already been contributed and the Des Moines chapter of CORE will advance $100 from its treasury. Trustees are Marion Williams of Des Moines and Richard Boyd of Grimes. Mrs. Stanley Griffin, chairman of the Des Moines chapter, noted the reactions of passersby, said, "All Negroes passing by were pleased and their pleasure was visible, one way or another. But the response of white persons was much more varied, ranging from approval, to ugly remarks and epithets directed at the white participants, particularly later at night."

"Come and Go"

"This was a come and go thing. Persons were asked to give as much time as they could. There were four or five delegations from Iowa State university in Ames, including professors and students of both races. "The youngest was a three week old baby. The parents took turn participating during the heat of the day. The first Negro to arrive there after me was Mrs. Freda Stone, 1130 9th street. Our highest number of participants came about midnight Monday when about 30 people were there.

The "silent vigil" was held from sunrise Monday to sunrise Tuesday.

W.D.M. Man Shoots Through Glass Door; Shotgun Blasts Hits Woman in Face, Side

A 59-year-old West Des Moines man was charged with assault with intent to commit murder early Sunday in connection with the firing of a shotgun blast through a glass door and injuring a woman in the face and side.

Jessie Taylor, 59, of 825 Maple street in West Des Moines pleaded innocent before Police Court Judge Rodney Ryan and hearing was set for 10:30 a.m. July 11. Taylor was released from jail Sunday afternoon after bond was reduced from $5,000 to $2,500.

Taylor is accused of firing a 20-gauge shotgun through the glass in the front door of a house occupied by John Freeman at 1009 Maple street in West Des Moines. Ruby Smith, 48, who police said lives in the 100 block of 10th street in West Des Moines, was lying on a sofa directly across the room from the front door and was struck on her left side and face by the shotgun pellets. She was taken to Broadlawn Polk County hospital where her conditions was reported as fair.

Police said Taylor apparently had made a previous visit to the Freeman home and asked to see Mack Oldham of 108 6th street in West Des Moines.

Continue Intensive Search In Miss. Town; Student Workers Pour into State

Jackson, Miss.—President Johnson ordered 100 more sailors into Philadelphia, Miss., to aid F.B.I. men, 150 other sailors and Mississippi police authorities in the intensive search for three civil rights workers who 10 days ago disappeared without a trace, with the exception of a burned out station wagon.

River Dragged

The muddy Pearl river was dragged over the weekend but no bodies were found. Searchers said the numerous muddy, winding swamps are too shallow to hide any bodies. The nearby hills of Nehoba county is the heart of the search and racial tensions.

Workers

Meanwhile, another wave of more than 100 volunteer civil rights workers left their training school in Oxford, Miss., and headed for the strife-torn state in bomb proof cars. They have gone, in groups of threes and fours, to their various assignments in the state. None, however, have been sent the southwest portion of the state where armed warfare and terror are rampant.

400 Students

Officials and leaders of the Council of Federated Organizations, which is co-ordinating the rights activities in the state, said about 400 student volunteers are in the state, but none are being sent to the southwest portion of Mississippi because the area is patrolled by white terrorists armed with automatic rifles and grenades.

President Johnson

President Johnson reiterates that everything will be done to assist in the search for the missing men. This promise to assist in the search is also vocally supported by Gov. Paul Johnson of Mississippi.

Since the disappearances of the three men reports have disclosed that at least five Negroes, maybe more, have been killed in the past six months.

Meridian, Miss.—Three civil rights workers who vanished following their release from jail in nearby Philadelphia late at night on June 21st are believed to be dead.

"I think there's almost no hope that they are alive," said CORE National Director James Farmer after he, John Lewis, chairman of SNCC, Dick Gregory and CORE Task Force Worker George Raymond returned here from Philadelphia where they conferred with the sheriff and other county officials. "If our present fears are grounded, mass protests are probable."

Meanwhile, CORE-initiated mass picket lines were forming at federal buildings in a number of major cities urging full federal protection for civil rights workers involved in the Freedom Summer project.

The three civil rights workers who vanished are James Chaney, a CORE Task Force worker and a native of Meridian; Michael Schwerner, who since January has directed the CORE community center here and Andrew Goodman, a student who just had arrived in Meridian from the summer training center at Oxford, Ohio.

On their way to Longdale to investigate the recent burning of Mt. Zion Methodist Church, they were picked-up on a speeding charge by a deputy sheriff, held in jail for over four hours and released at 10:30 p.m.

Station Wagon

Two days later, FBI agents found the civil rights workers' station wagon wrecked and burned in a swamp on Bogie Chitto Creek. CORE still owes $1,700 on the 1963 station wagon.

Former CIA Director Allen Dulles was dispatched here by President Johnson in an effort to solve the case.

GOP Votes Down Rights Motion; Morris' Walk Out

When the Polk County Republican convention voted down a motion to commend Iowa congressmen who had voted for the passage of the federal civil rights bill, Atty. James B. Morris, Sr., and his son, Atty. James B. Morris, Jr., walked out on the convention.

The incident occurred last Friday at Hotel Fort Des Moines, scene of the convention. Morris, Jr., made the motion for commendation.

Calling the motion a "direct slap at Senator Hickenlooper, Gerald Borden and will open again for business on Monday, July 6 at 9 a.m.

gan, public relations counselor and formerly a member of the Washington, D. C. staff of Senator B. B. Hickenlooper, made a motion to kill the Morris resolution. The vote was 79-78. Later after parliamentary maneuvers, the previous vote was sustained by 80-68.

"Walking out on the convention does not mean leaving the party," said the Morrises. "There are reactionaries in all parties.

"We prefer to remain in the Republican party which traditionally is the human rights party but also to support some of the fine candidates for Polk County and state offices."

It was difficult for the judges to make a choice.

Record Total Attends 55th NAACP Convention

Washington—More persons registered for this year's annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People than ever before in the group's 55-year history, with 2,810 persons registered as delegates, alternates and observers to the week-long meeting which began on Monday, June 22.

This number far surpasses any previous attendance at an NAACP annual convention.

49th Spingarn

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins was awarded the 49th Spingarn Medal here at ceremonies and was presented to Wilkins by Dr. John Hope Franklin, chairman of the History Department of Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, N.Y., cited the NAACP leader as "a great American who has made a distinctive and immeasurable contribution to the advancement of the American people and the national purpose."

American Nazi Routed

An attempt by a self-styled American Nazi to disrupt an NAA-

CP banquet proved unsuccessful last week at Jackie Robinson and NAACP youth routed the bully from the hall.

Robinson, a member of the NAACP Board of Directors and a featured guest at the Youth Banquet held here during the Association's 55th annual convention, assisted some of the youth delegates in ejecting the invader from the ballroom.

The Nazi entered the room waving a swastika armband and shouting "Go back to Africa." As he was propelled out of the room, he began scattering papers labeled "tickets to Africa."

Clerics Told

The director of the National Council of Churches' Commission on Race and Religion said Tuesday, June 23, that the time has come for ministers to practice "a new kind of interpretative ministry" in the midst of what he termed today's "freedom movement."

To assume this new interpretative role, declared the Rev. Dr. Robert W. Spike, ministers must leave "the safety of a comfortable pulpit." He said "We must be willing to risk losing our acceptability with the power structure of our city or state, if the solution of a knotty problem requires us to take a stand that offends that structure."

Oklahoma City Youth

The NAACP Oklahoma City

Youth Council received the Ike Smalls Award during the Association's 55th annual convention here, marking the third time the Council has been cited for its special and outstanding contribution to the work of the Youth and College Division of the NAACP.

Humphrey and Kuchel

Two leaders of the 75-day Senate fight to secure passage of the civil rights bill were given standing ovations by the 2,600 delegates attending the convention.

Addressing the political action session of the six-day assembly on June 23, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, majority whip, and Senator Thomas H. Kuchel, minority whip, both credited the success of their endeavors to strong bi-partisan support backed up by an aroused public opinion. They paid tribute to the role of the NAACP and particularly the hard, consistent performance of Clarence Mitchell, director of the Association's Washington Bureau, and Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins. Also cited were organized religion—Protestants, Catholics and Jews—; the AFL-CIO and its constituent unions; women's organizations and other civil rights supporters.

CONTINENTAL FEATURES

Now that the weekend is over with all its myriad events, we can get down to a few personal tidbits here and there from various residents in the Capital City.

While on a fishing expedition in the city, young Nolan Grant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Grant, 1216 10th street, had an unusual and painful accident. He accidentally caught a fish hook in his jaw, which not only called for a couple of stitches but also a tetanus shot. After a few hours of rest and sleep he was as good as new again and ready to play with neighborhood playmates.

Planning to make a trek to the New York's Fair are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jacob, 666 25th street and their four youngsters. Mr. Jacob is an employee of the Greyhound Bus Lines and he and his family have year-round passes, which means their travel to and from the World's fair will be free.

Also taking advantage of the same "travel free" because of employment will be the Grant family who will be leaving in several weeks for Mrs. Grant's hometown, Dallas, Tex., to spend a week with relatives and friends.

There is an old saying, "A successful man is not without honor save within his own hometown." We are not sure if that's the exact quotation but I suppose it goes both for women. Take for instance, Mrs. Zoe Mitchell, the former Zoe Williams, who was born and reared in Des Moines.

Before she left Des Moines in 1938 she was widely known for her talented sewing fingers. Last Saturday she returned to give her first big opening of her fashion show in her hometown.

It was a grave disappointment to her and to her friends who attended to see so many who were absent. She had preferred to grace her hometown with the opportunity of seeing her show first. The many empty tables were so conspicuous but she was not entirely daunted promising, "I will be back again next year. Maybe the house will be filled then."

It was such a beautiful show, everything done with a professional touch. And the clothes were out of this world; she belongs in the professional class with any and all top notch designers.

Those who attended also had an additional treat, to see Esther Preston, sister of Alonzo Preston, Des Moines city employee, model some of the lovely garments. (For additional details see separate story elsewhere in this issue.)

On the recovery list of Des Moines convalescents (although we aren't sure she likes being written as such) is Mrs. Jack Parker, 1219 15th street, who recently lost her baby in a miscarriage. She and her husband are parents of five youngsters, including one who is very talented on the violin. Mrs. Parker is a very busy woman and we have always wonder how she got the energy to participate in all the activities plus taking care of her family, rental units, and hold down a job at Iowa Lutheran hospital where for the past 13 years she has been secretary to the director of nursing.

Among the recent Des Moines beautiful weddings was the Beuford Carter at St. John Catholic church. However, it was marred slightly by the whirring of four large fans which prevented most of the audience from hearing the ceremonies, even though the officiating minister had the use of a microphone.

We talked recently to Mrs. Geraldine Draffin, 921 16th street, who told us her daughter, Barbara Balck, who moved to Minneapolis, Minn. following her graduation from Drake university, spent last year teaching in one of the public schools there. Interested in commercial art she still plans to get into her "first-love field."

NCNW Gets Heineman Grants

Washington, D. C.—The National Council of Negro Women, Inc. has received a grant from the Heineman Foundation to provide an eight week Mathematical Enrichment Program for ten selected Negro college girls at New York University.

The program underway since June 13, will continue through Aug. 1. The 10 girls were selected from Negro colleges. Each girl has completed her junior year, has successfully completed several Mathematical Courses and is motivated to pursue a scientific career.

UNCF College Grads

Join N.Y. Staff

New York, N.Y.—Three outstanding women students, graduating from colleges affiliated with the United Negro College Fund this month, won fellowships for their first year of graduate study.

Dr. William E. Cope, director of educational services for the Fund, announced that winners of Lasker fellowships are Lois G. Gray of Xavier University, New Orleans, La.; Carol Ann Scott of Knoxville College, Knoxville, Tenn.; and Mamie Lou White, Talladega College, Talladega, Ala.

Denver Family Visits Relative Here

Miss Katherine Shelton, 1129 11th street had the pleasure of a visit from her grandson and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd C. Shelton, Jr., and children, Karla and Kyle, of Denver, Colo.

The visitors left June 25 enroute to visit his brother and family, Robert L. Shelton, who is a flight commander with the U.S. Air Force at Nashville, Tenn.

To Represent IACW Prexy at Pre-Platform Democratic Committee

Mrs. Earl Spencer, Davenport, Ia., president of the Iowa Association of Club Women, has been invited to appear before the pre-platform committee of the Democratic State Central committee meeting. July 6-8 in Des Moines.

Mrs. Spencer, who will be unable to attend, designated Mrs. Joseph Wimberly, past president of the organization, to represent IACW.

The IACW was selected as representative of leadership of Negro women in Iowa. Members of the federated clubs throughout the state represent leadership not only in club activities but also in civic and religious affairs of their communities.

The Robert Burkes

Entertain Minnesotans

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burke, 1412 Walker street, entertained guests from Minneapolis, Minn., who were in the city last week to attend the Mid West Association of Elks and Auxiliary conventions.

The guests enjoyed a lovely dinner party prepared by their hostess, Mrs. Burke, who is assistant chef at Holiday Inn north.

Attending were Mesdames Lucille Woodward, Lola Gatlen, Ethel McIntosh and Geneva Jackson of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Pinkie Goode of Des Moines.

The Waterloo Branch NAACP and the Citizens Committee sponsors a silent civil rights march on Saturday morning, June 27. Approximately 500 persons carried banners and marched five abreast through downtown Waterloo. The march terminated at the city hall where the group met the mayor, Mr. Ed Jochumsen. Conditions in our city were presented to him such as job discrimination, segregated housing, unequal consideration with regards to loans, the need of equal protection under law and equal publicity. Participating in presenting the problems were Rev. Eugene H. Williams, Rev. I. V. Tolbert, Mrs. Ada Tredwell, and W. Warren Nash, president of NAACP. Mayor Ed Jochumsen responded. This was an orderly march and participated in by young and old alike.

David Bryant, your "Bystander" newsboy, celebrated his eleventh birthday on Saturday afternoon. On the lawn of his home at 1122 Mobile street, forty-two of his friends played games and enjoyed the refreshments. Acting as hostesses were his sisters, Jeannine, 15, and Marta, 13, and his cousin, Veronica Hollowell, age 11. The

New York—"The Summer Ahead," a CBS News Special Report on key aspects of the Civil Rights drive during the coming months, was broadcast Wednesday, July 1 (7:30-8:30 P.M., EDT) on the CBS Television Network.

The broadcast explored the status of the Civil Rights situation in six cities or states which reflect different aspects of the problem. REPUBLICAN PARTY AT CROSSROADS

It is generally conceded that the election of a president of the United States begins at the precinct level for it is closest to the people and affords freedom of expression more than is at succeeding conventions up to the national.

For years, the Democratic party has consisted of two elements each diametrically opposed to each other on the big question of human rights. However, it has prevailed in most recent elections because the influence of the liberal wing has overbalanced the reactionary wing.

Today, the Republican party finds itself divided with the conservatives on one side and the liberals on the other. The leading conservatives are those who cloak themselves with the argument of state rights and the curbing of the creation of bureaucratic government of local affairs from Washington.

The conservatives have condemned recent Supreme Court decisions and while too cagey to say so, they mean the decisions on human rights.

The Republican party grew up with the civil war; it became the party of Lincoln, the party of equality for all men before the law. Early, it included Negroes in the party structure and got most of his vote while the Democrats excluded the Negro from its party organization and got few of the votes prior to 1932.

Today, the Democrats have possibly more than 75 per cent of the Negro vote. They came over during the depression and have remained greatly because the Republican party leadership has not consistently created an incentive to return. In second Lincoln's second nomination for President, Fred Douglas said "the Republican party is the ship, all else the sea." But somehow, in an effort to create a Republican party in the South, in an attempt to follow the southern way of life, the majority of the Negro has remained Democrats.

Last week, two delegates to the Polk County Republican convention walked out because the delegates were unwilling to endorse the civil rights bill as passed recently by the Senate. In so doing, they refused to endorse the vote of Republican Senators who supported the measure 4 to 1, a vote which ties Republicans in congress to our endorsement of the measure.

Those senators who opposed it either don't want any civil rights bill and say so outwardly or cloak their opposition to the argument that it encroaches on states rights or that it creates more bureaucracy in making the federal government do what be local matters by local people.

If a man is wrong, the party is wrong. Men should have the courage to stand up and say so. The failure to strike down Hitler and his convictions early and insist that his theories of government were wrong, was the cause of World War II.

The civil rights bill will pass even without the conservatives. Opponents of it overlook the almost unanimous endorsement by leading citizens and organizations of the country. The survival of the Republican party for years to come will depend upon whether its leaders have the courage to stand up for what the party started out to accomplish.

COUNCIL MOVES TO HELP BEAUTIFY CITY

The City Council of Des Moines has created a new job. The duties will be a part of the Urban Renewal program designed to help neighbors beautify their surroundings and make for a more beautiful city.

This, the Bystander believes to be a fine move creating in the minds of the people the desire to do their part in cleaning up a neighborhood and keeping it presentable.

Des Moines can be a more beautiful city. It simply needs leadership in that direction. Many areas don't need the service, some need it badly. If the new director is given sufficient help to do a job, it can pay off. The Bystander is willing to help. All citizens are needed.

Sports Writer Salutes Duncan

We were among those who were disappointed that Clyde Duncan failed in his bid for an Olympic tryout spot. We weren't sure that he could make it. But we were hoping we were wrong.

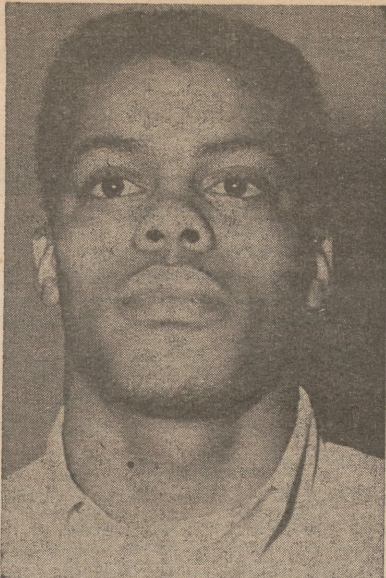

But we are glad he got his chance and we think a lot of thanks are due the people who made it possible for the boy to have his big chance. We imagine he feels rather bad about letting the people down as he would put it. But everyone knows Clyde did his best under the circumstances and that is all one can do.

It was the youngster's first venture into anything that big. We haven't asked Clyde but we would guess that was one of the very few times if not the first that he had been that far from home.

Then he was traveling in very fast company. And if he had made it would have become one of the only few high school boys to make the Olympic team. We have read the American Olympic roster from 1912 to the present and we can find the names of very few high school boys on any of the teams. Howard Drew, one of the first men to run a 100 in :09.6 was a high school boy and Frank Wycoff was another. That just about completes the list of fellows who weren't college athletes or at least of college age or better.

We can give Clyde Duncan a "well done" salute and predict in another four years he will have a good chance to make it.

We noticed with interest the argument that one runner had against our method of picking our Olympic team. The guy said the other countries already know who will be on their team and they are concentrating on the Olympics while we are wearing out our finest athletes just trying to select a team.

DUNCAN

"Well Done" Salute.

The fellow may have a good argument but most countries don't have the great number of fine athletes that we do. How else would you select a team from the hundreds of great track men around the country? A single meet involving all of the possible Olympic talent would probably last a week with the athletes on the go from dawn to dark. How many would care for that? One might take the best marks for the year and invite all of those fellows to compete but even that would involve a gigantic meet. Might set the standards pretty high, say only sprinters who had done a :09.5 in the 100 or a :21.3 in the 220 would be in the sprint tryouts. The other marks could be set accordingly and it would still be one helluva track meet.

Negro Job Hunt Changes; Bias Cases Double in 6 Months

The Negro's approach to job hunting has changed. This is the opinion based on observation of jobs sought by persons who have turned in complaints of job discrimination in Des Moines.

Ernest Russell, executive secretary of the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights noted that the organization has already received as many

Sifford Ups Golf Earnings In Buick Open

Grand Blanc, Mich.—After an impressive opening round of 75, Charlie Sifford, ranking Negro pro, rallied for rounds of 71-68-71 and a four-round total of 285 to capture fifth place and $2,700 in the Buick Open Golf tournament which ended here Sunday.

The $2,700 gave Sifford earnings totaling $5,675 in about three weeks. He recently won $2,975 in the Tunderbird Classic.

93 Baseball Players Have $2 Million Salary

The 93 Negro baseball players in the Major Leagues this year will earn in excess of $2 million, Ebony magazine reports in its June issue in a special baseball roundup.

The Negro monthly magazine notes that Willie Mays' $105,000 tops all players and estimates that Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves is second among Negroes with a salary of $80,000 annually, followed by Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Redlegs with $70,000.

Specifically, Ebony estimates the combined salary of the 93 Negro players at $2,114,000. Average salary will be slightly in excess of $22,800, the magazine reports. The breakdown also notes that there are 50 Negro outfielders; 23 infielders; 15 pitchers and five catchers.

Their years of service ranges from Minnie Mino's 14 years down to a whole crop of rookies serving their first year in the Majors. The average length of service for the Negro players breaks down to 4.3 years, Ebony notes.

The San Francisco Giants, led by Willie Mays, have the most Negro players with eight, Ebony reports. Pittsburgh Pirates are next with seven Negroes.

formal complaints in six months as it did all of last year. Most of the complaints involve skilled or semi-skilled jobs, Russell said. He said this may indicate a change in the kind of jobs sought by Negroes.

Awareness

"Negroes now seem to be applying for jobs for which they think they are qualified, rather than for jobs they think they can get," he said.

Russell attributes the increase in job complaints to a greater awareness in the city of the services offered by the commission.

"We think we're doing a more effective job in public relations," he said.

Russell also noted that trade unions are involved in some of the complaints. Since some unions face problems with automation, he said, they have more men than work available and sometimes "lack sensitivity" to Negroes seeking jobs.

He added, however, that the commission has, in most cases, found cooperation with the union reasonably soon after contacting them.

Arnie Tells Why Tan Caddie Quit

Washington—Golf's top money winner, Arnold Palmer, hinted in a statement at the caddie shop here that some motive other than tension, as claimed, might have prompted Eli Morrison to quit as his caddie on the eve of the National Open Golf tournament last week.

Morrison, 31, complained of too much tension and the inability to sleep properly, in quitting as Palmer's caddie and passing up the possibility of picking up a $1,000 check. The $1,000 check traditionally goes to the caddie for the winner of the Open.

Expressing surprise and giving his reaction to Morrison's decision to quit, Palmer stated:

"I figure maybe he (Morrison) saw me play in a pre-tournament contest and decided he'd like to get on another horse."

Palmer almost immediately was assigned a new caddie. He was William Bryant, a 6-foot five-inch, 230-pound former football player. Bryant said the tension about which Morrison complained didn't bother him the least.

"Arnie's Army (fans) don't bother me none. I've played basketball and football in front of big crowds. Besides, I got a cast-iron stomach," Bryant said.

The show was acclaimed by sports-writers and TV columnists throughout the nation after being telecast on NBC, Oct. 6, 1963.

My Garden Of Friends

My friends are like a garden
In which many flowers grow;
Everyone is different,
But they are all good to know
Some are a common variety—
As I met them with a friendly smile,
But soon forget the things they say.
Those who are very near to me,
The friends for whom I really care,
Are like beautiful roses—
Roses that are very rare.

May it have a winding stair

With a lover's landing,
Windows to let in the air
And light of understanding,
Faith to roof your house from storm
And every change of weather,
And love upon the hearth to warm
All your years together.
—From Scarf of Stars—FFT.
My hands are often pierced by thorns,

As I care for my roses each day;
My heart is often pierced by words,
Which my dearest friends did say.
The wounds on my hands are soon healed—
Not even a scar can one see;
But wounds on my heart can be healed
Only through God's Eternity.

May your house be strong of beam,
Firm of wall and rafter,
Built with timber of a dream,
Girded well with laughter.
