NEA Initiates Two-Pronged Civil Rights School Project

Washington, D. C.—The National Education Association has initiated a new civil rights project to help educators, in both North and South, accommodate their school systems to conditions created by the civil rights movement.

The project on Civil Rights and Continuing Education has two targets: the suburban school systems of the New York metropolitan area which are either all-white or suffer from de-facto segregation; southern teachers faced with a recently-desegregated school system and the new civil rights laws.

Workshop

The suburban project, a two-month workshop to explore ways of teaching democratic values in all-white schools and heading off explosive racial crises, will take place at a Long Island campus this summer. Workshop participants will be teams of teachers and administrators drawn from about 30 school districts in the metropolitan area.

W. Burghardt Turner, formerly a social studies teacher at Patchogue High School, Long Island, New York, and recently-appointed head of the NEA civil rights project, called for an "integrated school experience" for suburban schools.

Effects

The problems faced by Southern educators include: the effects of initial integration of student bodies and faculties; the disparity between the educational standards of Negro and white teachers colleges; and the still-segregated professional teachers organizations in 11 states of the South.

Negro Teachers

The Southern side of the NEA project will be directed mainly toward Negro teachers: counseling centers at Negro colleges; workshops, similar to the one planned for New York, in areas where there are concentrations of Negro and white colleges; integrated workshops on human relations, considering the causes and effects of discrimination; and a critical analysis of textbooks and teacher training courses.

Costs

Turner will coordinate the two aspects of the program, and will also seek foundation support. The NEA has granted $16,300 for initial administrative costs.

A graduate of Kentucky State College and Columbia University, Turner has taught social studies in the public schools of Negro areas in New York City and in the city's suburbs. He organized and served as first president of the Patchogue branch of the NAACP, and was chairman of the NAACP New York State Conference Program Committee.

Arrested, But Continues Fight

New York, N. Y.—The leader of two massive racial boycotts against New York City public schools in 1964 says he'll continue his current campaign to shut down a school for maladjusted children—despite his arrest and a court injunction.

The Rev. Milton A. Galamison, Negro Presbyterian minister, was taken into custody Wednesday for urging absenteeism at a Brooklyn school that handles unruly children.

He has announced plans to close all 15 of the city's schools for emotionally disturbed children by Feb. 3. He wants to close them, he said, because they provide inferior education and have inadequate facilities and untrained teachers. Most of the pupils are Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

Cole entered the hospital Dec. 8 for cobalt ray treatment. His singing engagements have been canceled for several months.

Parents of 61 Negro Pupils File for Desegregation of 'Dual-Standard' Systems

Moss Point, Miss.—The largest number of Mississippi Negroes ever to register a complaint for desegregation of a school system was filed here Friday, Jan. 22.

The NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund representing the parents of 61 school age Negro youths urged the United States District Court for the Southern Division of Mississippi to give immediate consideration to their charges against the "segregated, dual - standard" school system of Moss Point.

Small Town

This small Mississippi town, having only 6,000 elementary and high school enrollment, is the fifth Mississippi school system where the Defense Fund has sought action enjoining Boards of Education from discriminating.

Approving budgets, making available funds, approving employment and construction contracts, and approving policies, curricula and programs which are designed to perpetuate segregation.

21 Negroes Among Victims Of Wichita Jet Air Crash

Wichita, Kas.—Twenty-one Negroes, out of a death toll of 30 were killed here Saturday, Jan. 16, when an Air Force jet tanker crashed into a quiet residential section of northeast Wichita, destroying 15 homes and damaging 50 others.

Untold numbers were injured and shocked.

Of the 30 dead, seven were crew members and 23 were civilians who only moments before the crash felt that they were safe and sound in their own homes. Two of the civilian dead were white and 21 Negroes. At least 10 of the victims were children. Many of those killed were sleeping late on a Saturday morning.

The world has heard by now of the havoc created when the KC135 tanker crashed into a row of frame houses in northeast Wichita, taking a heavy toll of life.

Wreckage

But only those close to the situation and those who saw the wreckage and the charred bodies, almost unidentifiable, realize the deep tragedy, hurt and feeling of helplessness and despair that came over Wichita which until now had prided itself as "the air capital of the world."

The plane plunged down into the Injured

The number of injured was undetermined. Eight persons were taken to the St. Francis hospital and six were treated and released. At least that many more were taken to Wesley hospital near the crash site. Many of the injured suffered burns on their feet as they ran from the blazing neighborhood.

Robert Jackson, 12, was severely burned but hospital officials said death probably was averted because his jacket melted to his body and kept the flames from his skin.

3 Minutes After Takeoff

The disaster occurred only three minutes after the big jet tanker took off from McConnell Air Force base at the southern edge of Wichita, the home of three aircraft factories.

The Rev. J. E. Mason, associate pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, was one of the first at the scene following the crash.

ONE-TIME GIFT OF $300,000 EACH TO MOREHOUSE AND SPELMAN IN ATLANTA

Atlanta, Ga.—President Benjamin E. Mays of Morehouse College and President Albert E. Manley of Spelman College have announced the receipt by these sister institutions of a one-time grant of $300,000 each from Miss Doris Duke of New York City. The purpose of this generous grant is "to upgrade the brightest students we can find from the 10th, 11th, and 12th grades in this area," according to the proposal submitted to Miss Duke by the presidents of the two colleges.

The educational program to be financed by the grant will enlarge and extend a project launched in the summer of 1964, when Morehouse College (for men), and Spelman College (for women), both located in Atlanta, Georgia, received $225,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation and cooperated in conducting an eight-week Intensified Pre-College Program designed to help academically talented Negro students who had just completed the 10th, 11th, or 12th grades to become better prepared for college work by improving their scholastic skills, enriching their educational background, sharpening their intellectual curiosity, and broadening their intellectual horizon. Sixty-four students (22 girls and 32 boys), all residents of Atlanta, were accommodated in this initial project—in the summer of 1964. This program is to extend over the next two summers, with about sixty students participating.

Intensify Alabama Vote Drive Dr. King Remains on the Scene

Selma, Ala.—The massive voter registration drive spearheaded by Nobel Peace Prize Winner Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., intensified as it continued into its second week here.

On Monday a Negro woman stepped out of the line and struck Sheriff James G. Clark in the face, after the sheriff had grabbed Dr. King's arm and ordered him back to the

Attorney Asks Retrial For Ex-Secret Service Agent Bolden

Chicago, Ill.—An attorney for a former Secret Service Agent, Abraham Bolden, first known Negro to hold the position of help guarding a U. S. president, says he will ask for a new trial on grounds that a government witness lied. Bolden was convicted of trying to sell confidential government documents, last year.

The claim of perjury was made Jan. 20 by Joseph Spagnoli, 31, a prosecution witness against Bolden.

On Trial

Spagnoli is on trial in U. S. District Court with eight other defendants on charges of conspiring to counterfeit $450,000 in U. S. savings bonds and Bank of America travelers checks.

Spagnoli testified that he gave false testimony regarding dates and his former employment during the Bolden trial. He said he did so at the suggestion of Assistant U. S. Atty. Richard T. Sikes, the government prosecutor.

Spagnoli did not recant his testimony that Bolden had tried to sell him secret government documents for $50,000. He said Sikes suggested he lie about some dates and about former sources of income "so I would look good in the jury's eyes."

curb. The woman, reported as weighing 6 pounds more than the 226-pound sheriff, was struck on the head with a club, wrestled to the ground by deputies and then taken to jail with two handcuffs on.

Brutality

The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, who was standing a few feet away, called the sheriff's action "absolutely uncalled for and absolutely unnecessary."

"We have seen another day of brutality," King told a Negro audience a few minutes after the violence. "We still have in Dallas County a sheriff who is determined to trample over Negroes with iron feet of brutality and oppression."

He called for massive demonstrations on the courthouse "and if necessary fill up all the jails of Dallas County and every surrounding county."

Jammed Church

King told a throng of Negroes which jammed a church Monday night that the voter registration drive will continue. He urged Negroes by the hundreds to march on the courthouse again even though a U.S. marshal said the federal court injunction allowed only 100 prospective voters to be given numbers on a first-come-first-served basis.

Injunction Terms

On Saturday, U. S. District Judge Daniel Thomas had issued an injunction barring Sheriff Clark from "intimidation, harassment or the like of the citizens of Dallas County legally attempting to register to vote."

However, the injunction also limited the registration line to 100, and Judge Thomas said the order should not interfere with the proper law enforcement by Sheriff Clark.

'Frying Pan into the Fire

Book Relates Negro's Life, Experiences in Soviet Russia

BY MRS. LOUISE GLASS

The following is a review of "Black Man in Red Russia," by Homer Smith (Chatwood Hall).

In 1932 when thousands of people all over the country (young and not so young) were bewildered and frustrated because of the financial collapse plus the ever present racial trouble, Homer Smith, age 22, Minneapolis Negro, decided to try his fortunes in Russia as a foreign correspondent for newspapers.

No Discrimination

Fifteen years had passed since the world shaking Red revolution (1917). Millions of eyes were focused on Russia because many world-weary souls believed it the Promised Land.

As pictured there were no rich, no poor, no high, no low. Truly a classless society. Whatever one could have, all could have. Lack, too, was shared alike by all. Above all, there were no race lines hence no racial discrimination.

Delightful

A few other Negroes went at the same time and they found a few others who had been there for years.

At first it was delightful to go where they pleased—publicly—to be served and treated just like any other human being. But before long they became aware of other restrictions just as galling as those built on race. It began to look as if they had leaped from the frying pan into the fire.

Scattered

Russia was so spacious and the few Negroes so widely scattered they did not see much of one another. But they did get together now and then. Of course, they compared notes. Their experiences were about the same but their reactions were different. Some thought seriously of returning to the frying pan. Others found the 'fire' more endurable. One of the number thought that even though the Russian people had accepted them with open arms, they should maintain their racial identity. This idea met a strong (and hot) protest from the others.

Secret Police

Free speech as it is known in the United States is not tolerated in Russia. Criticizing the Russian officials is foolhardy. An informer might be within earshot. If so the critic might vanish without leaving a trace. Often secret police called at night. No one could be sure to whom he was talking so extreme caution was just plain common sense.

Balanced Report

Not long after his arrival Homer Smith was asked to write for publication, an article telling of the situation of United States Negroes. He wrote what he considered a balanced article pointing out both the advantages and disadvantages. He requested that it be published just as he wrote it and in toto. It was never published.

Planned Film

Russian officials decided to make a film called "Black and White" exposing the race situation in the United States to be shown all over Europe. With the help of burnt cork, etc., they would use Russian actors. Then it was decided that the genuine article would be far more effective so they sent to the United States for Negroes to play the parts. A group of Negroes with experience in theatre was sent. When they arrived the Russians were taken aback. These well-dressed, sophisticated people were not the frightened, half starved creatures they were expecting. Besides their hands were soft, not the hands of workers.

Examined Script

Examining the script Langston Hughes, one of the group, said flatly it would have to be re-written because it was so distorted. The Russians objected. After a hassle Langston won his point but the film was never produced. Finally all except two of the group came back to the United States.

During his fourteen years stay in Russia, Homer Smith had many broadening experiences, ranging from the very pleasant to the terrifying. He points out that altho the Communist party runs everything many Russians are hostile toward communism and the effort to stamp out religion has not been successful. He also points out that much of Russia's best machinery, technical assistance, engineering projects, have come by way of capitalist nations. Outgoing and incoming reading matter is strictly censored so the people have only a hazy idea about the rest of the world.

He found the people warm-hearted and friendly. But this does not apply to the officials.

In 1946 he decided that he had had enough of Russia so he accepted a position in the newspaper field in Ethiopia, where he and Marie, his Russian wife, lived until 1962.

Then he and Marie and their two children came to the United States which he says was "for her the Promised Land."

Gov. Romney to Be GOP Speaker

Michigan Gov. George Romney, one of a handful of Republican governors to survive the November landslide, will head the list of speakers at the annual Republican Party Lincoln Day Dinner in Des Moines Feb. 10.

The $25 a plate dinner will be held in the Veteran's Memorial Auditorium, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Officials said the event would close at 9:30 p.m. sharp.

GOV. ROMNEY

Romney, a successful businessman who rose to the presidency of American Motors before he ran for governor in 1962, was elected to his second term last November.

Joining the governor at the speaker's table at the prime rib of beef dinner will be Iowa's U. S. Sens. Bourke B. Hickenlooper and Jack Miller, Rep. H. R. Gross, and Iowa Republican State Chairman Robert D. Day, Des Moines. Because Congress will be in session at the time of the dinner it is possible that the press of duties might keep the Senators and Gross in Washington.

Ray will introduce dignitaries at the head table.

MARCHING MOTHERS

Volunteers for the Mothers' March on Birth Defects will call on their neighbors during the January March of Dimes for support of more than 50 Birth Defects Centers across the nation, and to finance scientific research seeking causes and ways to prevent defective development before birth. They will distribute informative leaflets about birth defects to each household called on. More than a quarter of a million infants are born in the U.S. each year with serious birth defects.

FIRST COAST-TO-COAST PHONE CALL CROSSED IOWA OVER 50 YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago, on Jan. 25, 1915, the nation's first transcontinental telephone call was placed. It traveled over wires strung across the country on poles extending from New York to San Francisco—3,400 miles through 13 states, including Iowa.

Ceremonies in New and San Francisco opened the line. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, inaugurated the coast-to-coast service with a call to Thomas A. Watson, who had been his assistant in 1876, when the telephone was invented.

Stormproof

Today's stormproof cable and radio relay routes can handle thousands of simultaneous telephone conversations and radio and TV programs. In the early days there were about three coast-to-coast calls a day. Now three west coast states send and receive about 30,000 calls a day to and from New York alone.

Transcontinental

Now a transcontinental call can be connected in about 24 seconds. Early calls required about 23 minutes to connect because they had to be relayed through switching points in Chicago Omaha and Salt Lake City.

In 1915, a three minute coast-to-coast call cost $20.70. Today a call may cost as little as $1.00 if placed after 9:00 P.M. Starting February 1, the dollar rate for transcontinental calls becomes effective from 8:00 P.M. to 4:30 A.M. and all day Sunday.

CONVICTION OF MISS. NAACP HEAD VOIDED BY HIGH COURT

Washington—The U. S. Supreme Court on Jan. 18 set aside the conviction of the president of the Mississippi NAACP State Conference who had been found guilty of a morals charge by a white Mississippi jury.

Dr. Aaron Henry had been convicted of charges of making immoral advances towards a teenage white boy. He was originally sentenced to six months in prison and fined $500.

NAACP attorneys defending Dr. Henry appealed the case to the Supreme Court on the grounds that he had been unlawfully arrested, that his automobile was unlawfully searched, that the affidavit on which he was tried in the lower court was illegal and defective, and that there was no corroborating evidence to support the charge against him.

Remanded Case

In setting aside the conviction, the Supreme Court remanded the case to the Mississippi Supreme Court

Same Symptoms

In commenting on the civil action, Legal Defense Fund Attorney Derrick Bell said: "Moss Point suffers from the same symptoms most hard-core segregated towns are afflicted with—absolute segregation, overcrowding of Negro students, better trained white teachers, poorly paid Negro teachers, less teachers for Negro students and more money spent to educate white students than Negro students."

The Legal Defense Fund is seeking a Court-supervised desegregation plan for the fall of 1965.

which had failed to decide federal issues raised before it. The Mississippi Court was ordered to decide whether during the original trial Dr. Henry had knowingly waived his right to challenge the use of illegally seized evidence.

The Court was directed to review the case in light of the prior U. S. Supreme Court decisions relating to the waiver issue.

Mr. Amison was on leave from the Langley Air Force Base, Langley, Va. At present, Mrs. Amison is employed by the Spiegel Company of Chicago, Ill. She will join her husband in Virginia next month.

Another recent wedding was that of Julia Reddick and Walter Naylor. Mr. Naylor works at Iowa Beef Packers, and Mrs. Naylor at Hormel's.

Lately, there have been quite a few excursions from the city:

Mr. and Mrs. Robert White recently returned from a trip to Meridian, Miss. They enjoyed seeing their relatives and friends, and visiting the city. The trip was a pleasant one without any mishaps.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mosley and their two children spent Christmas in Meridian, Miss. They found their family and friends in the best of health.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Pickett received an urgent telephone call to come home at once. Mr. Pickett's mother was quite ill. After arriving in Meridian, he had to take her to the doctor. However, she seemed to improve quickly, so their visit was short.

Mrs. Agnes Patterson should arrive home soon from her trip to Los Angeles, Calif. She left on Dec. 26, in order to be with her daughter, Beverly, and family.

A new name was added to the roll of Second Baptist Church. Mr. M. P. Brown was baptised last Sunday. Also, the Youth Christian Fellowship is meeting each Sunday night, with Mr. Charles C. Williams as speaker. On Sunday, Jan. 31, the Missionary Department will put on a program consisting of religious films, which will be shown by Mrs. Harold Bergeman.

Mrs. Harry Merliwether is convalescing nicely at home following surgery two weeks ago.

HEALTH FOR ALL

CASE OF THE MISSING STATISTIC

If you contributed to the recent Christmas Seal Campaign to combat tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases, you helped fight a menace that's even worse than the official figures indicate.

TB, you probably remember hearing, is one of those "waning" diseases. Trouble is, it has practically stopped waning. Government health statistics report that there were 54,045 new cases in the country in 1963—a slight rise over the previous year indicating that the long-continuing advance against the disease is at a standstill.

Not Whole Story

But that isn't the whole story—not by a very large bundle of bacilli. The Public Health Service doesn't list a case as "new" when it happens to somebody who has had the disease before. Yet there are about 10,000 people in this country each year who, having had TB in the past, relapse for various reasons, such as failure to take care of themselves, into the active disease again. They get just as sick as the first-timers—but they don't get into the statistics.

Active Cases

So the number of active TB cases that occur in the United States every year isn't 54,000 plus; it's more than 64,000. And although modern anti TB drugs do a relatively fast and efficient job of healing, the Health Service estimates the number of Americans with active TB at present as about 110,000. Add another half million who are highly vulnerable—for example, people who have had contact with patients with active TB—and you've got a formidable health problem.

Christmas seal associations all over the country, in concert with the National Tuberculosis Association, are getting ready for a new, intensified attack against this stubborn scourge. Your Christmas Seal contribution is helping to furnish the tools and man-

Jehovah's Witnesses Conclude 3-Day Meet

Jehovah's Witnesses concluded their three day circuit assembly in Newton Sunday, with a total of 1,030 in attendance at the final session.

Louis Cutwright, Jr. of the Walnut Creek Unit of Jehovah's Witnesses, who lives at 642 26th Street, stressed that Jesus set the example of integrity keeping and pointed out that the path of the true Christian today is smoother than it was in the day of Jesus.

Conflict of timing for the use of the YMCA pool proved no deterrent for the Witnesses, as they used a huge tank to immerse 16 new ministers into their organization. The baptism followed the ordination ceremonies conducted at the Roller Rink on Saturday afternoon.

Magic Ice Cream for Bridal Fare

THERE ARE PROBABLY MORE SHOWERS RIGHT NOW than at any other time of the year—bridal showers, that is. They are a traditional prelude to the Perfect Wedding! If you have a shower on your party-giving schedule, you'll want light, easily-prepared refreshments—pretty party sandwiches, individual aspic salad, tall, tinkling-cool glasses of iced coffee with whipped cream, and, of course, fresh strawberry ice cream and cookies. For that special partyish touch, try this homemade strawberry ice cream made with sweetened condensed milk. With this failure-proof recipe, you'll find it an easy matter to make several trays of ice cream, especially since you need only take it out of the refrigerator once for heating.

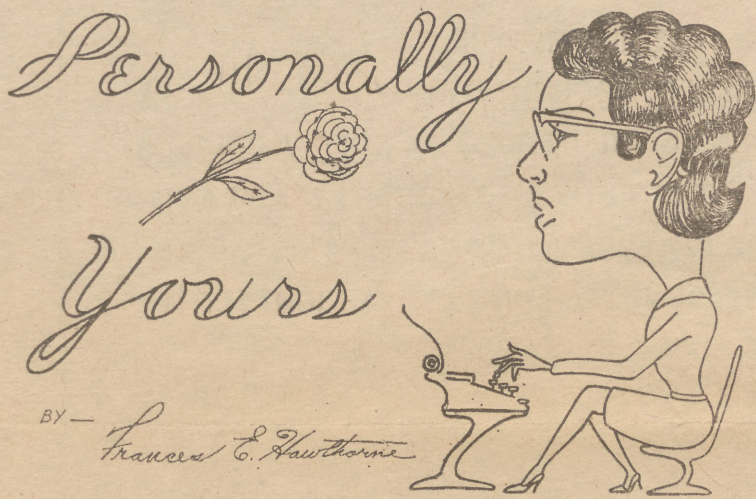

The sweetened condensed milk, which should not be confused with evaporated milk, gives you ice cream that is creamy and rich without any of those pesky little ice crystals that frequently crop up in some homemade ice creams.

FRESH STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

$\frac{3}{4}$ cup ($\frac{1}{2}$ can) sweetened condensed milk
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water

1 cup crushed strawberries
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar, about
1 cup heavy cream

Set refrigerator control at coldest point. Combine sweetened condensed milk and water. Chill. Sweeten strawberries to taste. Stir into milk mixture. Whip cream to custard-like consistency. Fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing tray. Cover tray with waxed paper. Freeze to a firm mush (about 1 hour). Turn into chilled bowl. Break up with fork then beat with rotary beater until fluffy but not melted. Quickly return to tray, cover tray with waxed paper. Return to freezing unit. Freeze until firm. (ANS)

Hope that all of you were able to negotiate the icy sidewalks and streets over the past weekend without any major mishap. Many who had said I would rather see it rain than snow had more than cause to regret the glib statement as the rain froze as it fell. You can say what you will somehow it never looks like winter unless there is snow on the ground, or the dangerous ice as we had last weekend.

Happily it came on a weekend when many barring emergencies or perhaps yielding to a desire not to let the glistening stuff conquer them, went out to prove that they could not be stopped. Sounds something like the U.S. mail slogan... neither rain... nor hail... nor sleet... or, well you know how it goes.

Many were caught short handed on ice melting salt or sand. And any who went to a sand pile of a neighboring friend, (we know of one such case) sadly found the pile frozen so hard as to resist shovels, spades or any other manmade equipment pushed by even the biggest or strongest muscles.

Despite the sleet and snow, life went on almost as usual around the capital city. Many fathers took their young sons to Vets auditorium where to their delight the Drake Bulldogs conquered the Cincinnati Bearcats. Others went to their jobs or went on a hunting trek... if they dared. Members of the distaff side of the family continued their household chores and some dared to invade the various stores downtown where there were plenty of clerks to wait upon them, for once on a Saturday.

But, one, Mrs. Mary Jane Dixon, 2719 Center street had a party honoring the birthday of a friend, Mrs. Inez Jones, 1233 13th. And more than two dozen ladies negotiated the streets to attend. For as the lady who reported the news said, "to miss a get-together at Mrs. Dixon is really to miss a treat. Because she is such a charming, comfortable hostess to be around and her ideas of serving a party are really a sight to behold. Her table decorations are magnificent and her food is really from the old school. Her entertainment is to be enjoyed by all."

If you have not been by Waveland park recently, during the past week, we mean, and you have been worried about the chances of your child be-

FULL PARTICIPATION
GOES WITH POSITION

Ceremonies in high government places in recent years have found Negroes participating on top levels.

When President Theodore Roosevelt entertained Booker T. Washington for lunch at the White House, he shocked the conscience of many American people denoting it an act of social equality which should not occur.

Nowadays, Negroes participate in everything in accordance with their official position and standing.

Television and newspaper pictures showed the public that inaugural ceremonies were for all the people and that citizens should and did participate without regard to race or color. These conditions go with the job and one who dislikes them can stay home.

And those people who wish to leave the Negro at home for fear of social equality are no longer able to call the tunes at the dances.

CONGRATULATIONS

SCALISE ADD GENTRY

Atty. Gen. Lawrence Scalise is to be congratulated on the appointment of Nolden Gentry as an assistant attorney. It gives recognition to the Negro in higher echelons of government.

When David Countryman was attorney general, an assistant general job was offered a Negro lawyer. Governor Hoegh, did the same in a legal post in the public safety department. In those days the salary was inadequate for lawyers with years at the bar.

Today, the situation is different. The salary is much more in keeping with a man's training who has spent years in college.

Scalise reached out and secured a young man who was educated in Iowa but employed elsewhere. It showed that he was determined to get a good officer even if it required that he go outside the state.

Gentry's appointment helps to keep students educated in Iowa working in Iowa. It is an example for youngsters striving to reach higher places in their profession.

YMCA WEEK

Special weeks and days observing various organizations have become so numerous that most of them are noticed only by people directly involved in them.

This week YMCA week is being observed. It is an organization which touches many people here and everywhere and does a tremendous job helping young men and boys find themselves and provide tools to develop their talents.

Few boys who participate in "Y" activities wind up in juvenile courts. Of course, participation in "Y" activities is no cure-all but its record of helping youngsters is good.

Fortunately, Des Moines has an excellent YMCA. It has the facilities to do a good job. Visit it during this period or anytime. You will see a charity at work which justifies its place in the community.

REPUBLICANS MAKE

UNITY MOVES

Dean Burch is out; Ray Bliss is in as chairman of the Republican National Committee. Senator Goldwater takes full responsibility for the Republican defeat at the polls Nov. 3 and vows to stay with the party. Senator Thurston Morton of Kentucky told the committee that the Negro vote was alienated last year and that this should be corrected.

It is a good start, after defeat, to admit the errors and not commit them again; unite and move ahead. The Republicans seem to be on the right track.

Rochester, N. Y.—Fullback Jimmy Brown of the champion Cleveland Browns of the National Football League was named winner of the S. Rae Hickok Professional "athlete of the year" award Sunday. The presentation of the $10,000 diamond-studded belt trophy was made at a banquet Sunday.

The voting was the second closest in 15 years. Brown, 28-year-old rushing champion won by seven points over race driver A. J. Foyt, the Indianapolis 500 champion.

Of Churches Dinner

The annual dinner meeting of the Des Moines Area Council of Churches will be held Monday, Feb. 8 at Veterans Auditorium. This year the program will be shorter, scheduled to begin at 6:30 and end at 8:31 p.m. A business session will precede the dinner.

Featured speaker at the dinner, attended annually by some 2,000 church laymen and ministers, will

If you watched the pro basketball games last weekend you were probably surprised as we were to count an all-Negro starting five in the World champion Boston Celtics lineup. We counted the guys four times before we were convinced. All of which simply goes to show that the big timers don't care who or what you are if you can deliver. The other guys had some good Negro ball players too, but didn't have five out there at once.

Size

Then on Saturday we watched the Michigan-Purdue game and we were impressed with the size of the Wolverine team. Time was when all you heard was the height of a player; weight didn't matter. Why Saturday that Michigan starting five was big enough to form a football defense unit. In fact the football coaches probably fooled around with the idea of using the cage time as an alternate defense unit if things even got too rough. We think of those slender six-footers who were called ideal basketball players. Now they would merely be shoved out of the way in a scramble for the ball.

Muscles & Power

Seems as if the emphasis in just about all sports is running to muscles and power. Even in golf one sees Arnie Palmer who looks like an ex-coal shoveler and Jack Nicklaus who resembles another one. Baseball depends on its muscle men hitters and its fireball pitchers. Maybe it doesn't take so much brain power when you rely on muscle. Guys who shared know say it does. Even in tennis the thing now is to whom the ball so hard the other guy can't touch it. No more rallies, jockeying for the advantage positions. Just blast the other guy off the court and that takes brains. You simply draw back your big hat and swing from your heels and bam! There goes another ball game won by strategy. We could go on forever but why?

We are really sorry for the plight of a friend of ours, John Scigliano, a Dowling football player who was in-

Champion Says He May Quit If He Loses

Marlboro, N.Y. — Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson said Thursday he may quit the ring if he loses to Canada's George Chuvalo in Madison Square Garden on Monday, February 1.

Patterson hastily qualified the statement by saying it depended upon how "close the fight was."

PATTERSON

The ex-heavyweight king said if he beats Chuvalo, he wants to fight Cassius Clay next and also has a matter of a revenge meeting in mind with Sonny Liston.

Patterson said he was sharper now than ever before and has more confidence in his ability. He boxes four days of the week and does heavy road work as part of his training campaign.

He went two rounds with a pair of sparring partners Thursday, one with Charlie Powell, whom he beat in San Juan last month, and the other with brother Ray Patterson.

wonder. And we repeat, no man is guaranteed tomorrow. We are sincerely pulling for John to make it.

Boxing

Surprising how many experts pick the Canadian heavyweight Goerge Chuvalo to beat Floyd Patterson in their bout Feb. 1. They could be right. But, we think they are thinking of the Patterson who faced Sonny Liston at his peak. We are pulling for them to be wrong.

ON BUILDING
CHARACTER

To live as gently as I can,
To be, no matter where, a man,
To take what comes, of good or ill,
And cling to faith and honor still.
To do my best and let that stand
The record of my brain and hand,
And then if failure comes to me,
Still work and hope for victory.
To have no secret place wherein
I stoop unseen to shame or sin,

To be the same when I'm alone
As where my every deed is known.
To walk undaunted, unafraid
Of any step that I have made,
To be without pretense or shame
Exactly what men think I am.

previously all-white class. Each afternoon she anxiously questioned Malinda about her day, but she never mentioned her new classmate.

"How do you like the new girl?" she finally asked.

"I like her fine," Malinda answered, "but I don't like her coloring."

A tremulous sermon on the brotherhood of man followed.

"I know all about that, mother," Malinda said. "But when she colors it's always the same—yellow, blue and red."

A wallet designed to hold favorite snapshots is an excellent Mother's Day gift. Let the whole family join in helping her pick out just the right pictures for it.

Focusing on Mother

Mother's Day is one dear to the hearts of all families, and one which just naturally makes everybody think about pictures—pictures to take and pictures to give. Each family's own special way of honoring Mother is worthy of record. Your own version of the whole "Queen-for-a-day" story—from Dad's serving her breakfast in bed to the children's goodnight kiss—will make a series of wonderful pictures that Mother can enjoy over and over all through the year.

Among the gifts that Mother will treasure are pictures of various members of her family in an album especially compiled for her. So, this week is a good time to collect the family snapshots from their hiding places in odd drawers and boxes and make up an album as a surprise for Mother. Other gifts will be doubly welcome if they carry an extra dividend of pictures, too. A leather wallet for Mother will look twice as handsome to her if its transparent identification pockets hold snapshots of the family. And so will a locket or one of the new watch bands with place for tiny pictures of those she holds dear.

An enlargement of an especially good picture of Dad and the children—framed appropriately for her desk or dresser—is another gift that says "I Remember Mama" in a way that's sure to please any mother. Or perhaps you might want to take a series of small snapshots—one of each member of the family—and arrange them in a long narrow frame to grace her dressing table.

As you can see, the day set aside to honor Mother is one on which pictures really have their gifts will be doubly welcome if
