Jackson's death which came Friday is the first resulting from the civil rights campaign that began in Alabama almost six weeks ago.

A Senior at Valley, Colleen transferred last fall from East High school in her home town, Wichita, Kans., after she and her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Paul M. Bowser came to Iowa last Colleen Bowser

May to scout schools around Des Moines. They settled on Valley High, whose team had just missed being able to compete in the girls tournament the last two years.

Sharp Disparity Between Treatment, Services for Negro and White Farmers

Washington, D. C.—Negroes in the rural South have been consistently discriminated against and segregated in four major Federal programs administered by the Department of Agriculture, according to a report to the President and Congress released today by the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights.

Sharp Disparity

The 136-page report, EQUAL OPPORTUNITY IN FARM PROGRAMS, cites corrective action recently initiated by the Department but documents the agency's prevailing practice of following "local patterns of racial segregation and discrimination in providing assistance paid for by Federal funds." This practice, the Commission reports, has resulted in sharp disparities in the amount and quality of services provided white and Negro farmers and their families by four agencies which serve rural residents at the county level.

98 Per Cent

The Commission reported that 98 percent of Negro farmers in the United States live in 16 Southern States. The four agencies studied were the Federal Extension Service, Farmers Home Administration, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, and the Soil Conservation Service.

Biased Areas

Unequal treatment reported by the Commission included inequities in the size and types of loans; segregation in staff structure and training; limited access to such activities as 4-H clubs and informational meetings; the virtual exclusion of Negroes from policy-making positions; and a tendency to limit the aid given to Negro farmers because some officials have had "low expectations" of the capabilities of Negro farmers.

Recommendations

In light of its analysis of programs in 16 Southern and border states, the Commission recommended that the President direct the Secretary of Agriculture to (a) end discriminatory practices in the administration of Department programs; (b) encourage and extend full and equal participation to all clientele, particularly those not previously reached, and assure equal opportunity to participate in all elections and on all decision-making boards. (c) assure equal employment opportunities in agricultural programs; and (d) establish methods for reviewing and evaluating the implementation of equal opportunity policies.

The Commission concluded that until the Department makes basic changes in its programs designed to aid rural Southerners, "the South will continue to place a brake upon its own progress and that of the Nation."

U.S. Justice Dept. Appeals Dismissal Ruling in Case Of Mississippi Rights Slaying

Jackson, Miss. — In an unusual move the Justice department filed formal notice Tuesday that it is asking the U.S. Supreme court to rule on the dismissal of the most serious charge against 17 men arrested in the Mississippi civil rights trio killing.

Felony Dismissed

Judge Harold Cox dismissed last week a felony indictment against the

Orders 17 to Trial In Mississippi Slaying of Three

(Earlier Story)

Meridian, Miss.—Federal Judge Harold Cox ruled Friday that 17 persons indicted in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers last summer near Philadelphia, Miss., must stand trial on a misdemeanor charge of conspiring to violate the workers' civil rights. No trial date was set.

Sheriff and Deputy

Cox also said that only Neshoba County Sheriff Lawrence Rainey, Deputy Cecil Price and another police officer can be charged with actually violating the workers' rights through the use of their powers as law enforcement officers. All 17 had been charged on this count, as well as with conspiring.

The judge's ruling follows by a day his dismissal of felony indictments against the 17 on the grounds that no federal law was embraced by the felony indictment and that therefore his court didn't have jurisdiction.

1870 Statute

U.S. District Attorney Robert Hauerberg said the Justice Department wants the Supreme Court to decide if the offense is punishable under an 1870 statute passed during Reconstruction days after the Civil War.

The government also said it would appeal Cox's ruling in which three counts of the misdemeanor charge were dismissed against 14 of the 17 men.

NAACP Civil Rights Atty. Becomes the First Woman President of Manhattan, N.Y.

New York City—New York State Senator Constance Baker Motley, civil rights lawyer, was elected Manhattan's first woman borough president. A Democrat, Mrs. Motley, will succeed Edward R. Dudley, now a State Supreme Court Justice, in the $35,000-a-year post.

Mrs. Motley was chosen by the Manhattan Members of the city council. She had the backing of Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Mrs. Motley, a veteran member of the NAACP legal staff and later chief assistant special counsel of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Wednesday became the first woman president of the Borough of Manhattan, the world's richest municipality.

Twice in a Year

This makes the able civil rights lawyer a double within a one-year period. She became New York's first woman senator less than nine months ago, and Wednesday followed another former NAACP legal staff member, recently elevated to the New York Supreme Court Justice Edward R. Dudley, as president of the Borough of Manhattan.

Married

Mrs. Motley is married and has a teenage son. Her husband is a real estate broker and they live in upper Harlem near Columbia University. The attractive, soft-spoken attorney is admitted to practice before the U. S. Supreme Court and has appeared in behalf of NAACP clients and causes in courts throughout the nation for the past score years.

Her predecessor, Justice Edward R. Dudley, was a legal staff member of NAACP along with Mrs. Motley before his appointment as Ambassador to Liberia; judge of the Domestic Relations Court of New York; president of the Borough of Manhattan and now Justice of the New York Supreme Court.

Negro Sit-in at Wilkins Office

New York, N. Y.—Six militant teen-age Negroes, angered by a refusal to support the boycott of public schools, staged a noisy sit-in Tuesday at the office of Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The youths refused to let him out for lunch.

Wilkins had just spent two hours trying to explain to the group why local chapters of the N.A.A.C.P. would not support the boycott. "We feel this is not an effective technique," he said.

The youths were dissatisfied and demanded a "concrete statement." Wilkins stayed in his office until the youths departed at around 4 p.m.

Malcolm X Laid to Rest After Quiet Rites Held Under Heavy Police Guard

New York, N. Y.—Malcolm X, militant leader of the Afro-American Nationalists, extremist group, was laid to rest here Saturday morning following a quiet funeral heavily guarded by hundreds of police. There was no violence at the service in Harlem at Faith Temple Church of God in Christ, a converted motion picture theater, or at his burial site in suburban Hartsdale, N. Y.

Playwright

Ossie Davis, the Negro actor and playwright, who delivered the eulogy, said that "Malcolm was our manhood, our living black manhood. In honoring him we honor the best in ourselves."

A native of Omaha, Nebr. Malcolm was murdered last Sunday at a rally of his organization of Afro-American Unity.

It was a bitter cold day but several thousand people jammed the sidewalks Saturday morning behind police barricades to watch the procession of friends and relatives into the church. Hundreds more pressed against the window panes of the red brick and wooden tenements across the street or stood shivering on their fire escapes.

Heavy Police Guard

Police were all over, on the street corners and on the rooftops.

His voice cracking, Davis said, "Harlem has come to bid fond farewell to one of its brightest hopes, gone forever."

Davis also said that an organization calling itself Concerned Mothers was raising money for Malcolm's widow and four children. "Those who want to continue what you so generously began" should send contributions to the group at Post Office Box 1024, Church Street Station, New York City, he said.

There were about 15 white mourners, although most were Negro women.

Attending

Among others attending the services were James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality; Bayard Rustin, who organized the civil rights march on Washington in 1964; Wally Dukes, the basketball player; Dick Gregory, the comedian, and James Foreman, executive secretary of the Student Nonviolent Co-ordinating Committee.

Elsewhere, the greater majority of store owners in the heart of Harlem's main artery of business—125th street—remained open in disregard of a request to close in memory of Malcolm X.

Virginia GOP Names Negro Insurance Exec As State Assistant

Richmond, Va. — Clarence L. Townes, Jr., insurance executive, was named special assistant by Republican State Chairman Robert J. Corber of Arlington, becoming the first of his race to hold a top party post in the state in modern times.

Townes voted against his party top ticket last fall in the general election. His appointment is regarded as a bold move by the state G.O.P. to woo the growing minority vote away from the Democrats.

In addition the Democrats are also breaking tradition in an effort to win the Negro vote. During the annual fund-raising Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner about 15 Negroes attended, dining without discrimination compared to one lone Negro who attended a year ago and dined alone at a table for two.

HEALTH FOR ALL

EASY (?) AS BREATHING

"Getting old, I guess" . . . "Going soft" . . . "Smoking too much—wind can't take it."

Those are the defensive phrases with which so many of us shrug off the symptoms of RD. RD? The initials stand for "Respiratory Disease" an easy handle for a group of ailments that affect the breathing system.

RD has become one of our most serious health problems. In its various forms it's a major cause of lost hours from work and school. And it gains fast headway by wearing innocent-looking disguises: chronic coughs and shortness of breath. The first step in dealing with the menace of RD is to find out when coughing and feeling breathless are normal occurrences, and when they're dangerous.

Checked

A cough should be checked if you've had it a month or more. Then it's a chronic cough, whether you think it's from smoking, postnasal drip, or whatever. Even if you cough only in the morning or in bed at night—only during the winter and not in summer, face it, you still have a chronic cough. And you have reason to see your doctor.

The shortness of breath that signals RD is just like rapid breathing that comes from normal causes like running up a flight of stairs. But it's sneaky; it develops gradually. Most people can't tell when they're starting to get a little more out of breath than they used to. So—all too often—they don't know that anything is wrong until they're gasping for breath.

See Doctor

If unexplained shortness of breath occurs—whether slight or severe—take a tip from your Christmas Seal association and see your doctor. Informative leaflets on Chronic Cough and Shortness of Breath, published by the National Tuberculosis Association, are available free from your County TB & Health Association or the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association, 1818 High Street, Des Moines, Iowa 50309.

Part of the profits are retained by each troop to support its projects. Money is used to finance training, day camping, troop camping, camp development, and established camping.

March, the traditionally controversial month, sneaked in during the night and bowled mid-westerners over with a mighty sweep of its paw . . . dealing out a bitter portion of freezing sleet, temperatures and snow and a little soupy fog to muddy the weather picture even more. Iowans, who had gone complacently through a relative mild winter before February, thought that the 28 days of the month just retiring had given us more than we were willing to swallow cast a dismaying eye as the lion of March stalked into the picture.

People who chronically complain about newspapers mistakes—daily and weekly—should have voiced a loud, long one at radio land Tuesday morning when they released a premature story about schools being closed. It threw many parents into confusion when later there was no mention of it on TV and belated excuses were broadcasted that the announcement had never been official. Many parents, hearing the first news announcements—did not get their youngsters ready for school—and when they became aware of it, it was too late. Perhaps more than usual it also tied up school phones and school officials at the various buildings who were already battling with problems engendered by the snowstorm.

More than a dozen girl scout troops, from Pioneer - Riverview neighborhood, presented a very entertaining program last Thursday evening at St. John Catholic church, Harding Road and University avenue. The troops including Brownies, Juniors, Cadettes and Seniors presented dances, songs, skits portraying other lands such as Mexico, France, Thailand, Hawaii, Denmark and other countries.

Three members of Senior Scout Troop 82, smartly attired in full dress uniform and white gloves snappily led the flag ceremony which began and ended the program. The troop is led by Mrs. Samuel Payne, scout leader, of 1409 2nd place who has brought the group all the way from Brownies through the ranks of Juniors and Cadettes; some are still in the Cadette stage.

Troop 362 of Trinity Methodist church performed the Mexican Hat dance. Among those performing were

If there's going to be a wedding at your house or if you want to delight one of your friends who's going to be married, here's an idea: make a bride's cake of white cake mix.

It's a lovely cake, quick, easy and beautiful. And inexpensive, too. Just figure it out for yourself—three packages of Instant Cake Mix, three and a half cups of milk, and sugar and egg whites for frosting. It cuts into pieces enough for 25 or 30 people, downy light and delicious, a bride-cake masterpiece.

After you've frosted the cake smoothly, you can decorate it with flutings and curls put on with a pastry tube, and for extra trimming add a few little birds or flowers sold for cake decorating. Practice with the pastry tube by squirting a sample of your frosting on a piece of waxed paper. You can scrape up the practice frosting and put it back in the tube to use again, so no waste is involved in perfecting your technique.

WEDDING CAKE (Two-tiered oblong cake for 25 to 30 people)

Preparations. Line 13x9x2-inch pan and 9x9x2-inch pan on bottoms with paper. Start oven for moderate heat (350°F.).

3 packages Swans Down Instant Cake Mix
3 1/2 cups milk

Combine contents of two packages Swans Down Instant Cake Mix in mixing bowl. Add 1 cup milk. Blend, then beat 2 minutes. Add 1 1/4 cups milk. Blend, then beat 1 minute longer.

Four batter into prepared 13x9x2-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 55 minutes, or until done. Remove from oven and increase oven heat to 375°F. Cool cake in pan 10 minutes, then turn out on cake rack to finish cooling.

Place contents of third package of Swans Down Instant Cake Mix in mixing bowl. Add 1/2 cup milk. Blend, then beat 2 minutes. Add 1/2 cup milk. Blend, then beat 1 minute longer.

Four batter into prepared 9x9x2-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 30 minutes, or until done. Cool.

Frosting. Prepare seven-minute frosting, using 2 egg whites. Then place the large cake on an attractive oblong serving plate or tray. Spread top and sides of cake with frosting. Trim the 9x9x2-inch cake to measure 9x7x2-inches by cutting a 1-inch slice from opposite sides of the cake. Place on top of the frosted layer, centering evenly. Prepare another batch of seven-minute frosting and spread on top and sides of small cake, reserving some for decorating. With a knife, go over entire cake, making a smooth flat surface for decorating.

Decorating. Using a pastry bag or decorating tube, decorate frosted cake as desired with the reserved frosting. Place wedding bell or other suitable ornament in center of top layer, if desired.

Baptist Church. The church group served a variety of salads. Placing second was the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority marking the second straight year that they have placed in the competition. The third place ribbon went to Madame C. J. Walker Beauty Culture School.

RIGHTS COMMISSION STUDY
NEGRO FARMERS' PLIGHT

For many years prior to subsidies by the New Deal, the federal government has subsidized agriculture, pouring millions of dollars into various subsidies and also money for teaching farmers how to get most out of the land.

And although the whole system has been almost totally segregated, the fight against segregation generally has done little to aid the Negro farmers.

The Civil Rights Commission has been studying the situation delving into the practices of the administration, both nationally and locally, and also getting the views of local farmers as to the extent of their participation in the program.

A comparison of white and Negro offices in counties visited by Commission staff showed, however:

Gross disparities in size of offices and/or physical condition; White offices in Federal or Post Office building; Negro offices in private structures;

White offices with air conditioning and Negro offices without air conditioning or fans and heated only by portable heaters.

Where white offices were fully equipped and staffed, the Commission found:

Negro offices without telephones;

Negro offices without electricity;

Negro offices with part-time or no secretarial services; no janitorial services;

Negro offices without typewriter or office supplies and with inferior office equipment.

The most backward and illiterate Negroes in the South are those living on farms. They have been the ones needing the greatest amount of help. And in the farm and small community areas are the places where Negroes have fared worst and dared not fight back for the protection of themselves.

Thanks to the Civil Rights Commission and the Civil Rights Act passed in 1964, the public is being informed concerning the terrible conditions some segments of the Negro population live under; that with this information the administration has set about to correct the evils; that reasonable people in the country led by an administration which is willing to show the way, by acts or well as deeds, how to rectify the wrongs which Negroes suffer.

TACKLING PROBLEMS

WITH KID GLOVES

Sometime last year City Manager Chenoweth asked the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights to make a survey on racial and religious discrimination in employment in the city government of Des Moines.

Unfortunately, in contrast to other studies when an outside source has been called in to make the survey to improve the city, the Commission was asked to investigate other departments and thus a certain amount of timidity accompanied their investigation.

During the upheaval in the police department a few years ago, the Polk County grand jury, by accident, looked into some unsavory practices being carried on in the City of Des Moines. The report was shocking; we had complained to the city about it previously and yet nobody did anything about it. City officials never raised their finger to correct the conditions found to exist.

The investigation should have been made by a disinterested committee which included a Negro who would stand up and call spade a spade and say exactly what needs to be done to correct the evils that have continued to exist over the years.

When corporations sought to correct some of their hiring policies following prodding by Commissions of the Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson administrations, they admitted their unfair labor practices and set out to correct them by direct action. In fact, they went out and found people who could do a job. If the city means business; if it means to carry out its stated policies of fair play and laws, they will take direct action and get the job done. So far they are simply throwing up dust and blinding the eyes of the most people about this matter of equal employment.

This is not to defend the guys who were supposed to have been caught messing with a basketball game for less than $50. But it makes one ask some questions. We wonder what the college football or basketball players think of when he knows his university takes in from a quarter to a half-million dollars each Saturday afternoon. He plays his heart out and goes home to find his wife, and baby ill needing a doctor. Then there are other bills. Of course, if he can just hang on, the rewards will amply justify the present sacrifices.

Child

But try and tell that to a year-old child who needs medical attention right now. And you probably are still paying for his birth. Well, a lot of guys stick it out and get out into where they can make their time pay off. The weaker ones drop out and get a job that they wish they hadn't taken in order to support the family. But all that dough taken in each weekend and if a guy in any way got enough of it to pay his baby's hospital bill, he would be dropped from the school and the school probably would refrain from playing the other conference schools.

Basketball

Now let's turn this over to basketball where they payoff isn't quite as big, but is still huge. From $15,000 to up to $30,000 twice a week. Football is a much harder game to fix than basketball so the boys who bet go after the easier one to fix. And one of the fellow needs money badly enough to fall in with the scheme and ruin the career of himself and his teammates, he can talk into going along.

Family Needs

You can argue that the players are intelligent enough to know right from wrong and we will agree. You can call them morons, leeches and what not and we won't always agree. There are a few who like the idea of making a fast buck. But what would you do if you had a family and needed money and someone offered to lend you say $100? Someone you had been around for a while; we all say what we would or not do. But until we have been in the other boys shoes, let's wait and learn more about the deal. About the $100? We would do about like the guy who said he would not accept it. But we wouldn't lie about it. We certainly would like to see those kids cleared if they are at all innocent. Maybe they are.

Boxing

Oh well, the Clay-Liston thing is on again and the promoters are talking about a five million dollar gate. With than kind of money laying around boxing is dead? We should be so dead.

Golf

Noticed that Charlie Sifford has never finished out of the money in his last four meets. The guy shoots good golf in the low 70s and high 60s but he can't match those fantastic scores his opponents have been making.

Partisan Rooters

Among her most partisan rooters are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parks, 1629 Buffalo road in West Des Moines, with whom she is living while attending Valley as a tuition-student.

With basketball practice, two hours each day after school, plus two games a week, some requiring travel out of town, Colleen has little time for hobbies or extra-curricular activities at school or in the community.

Likes Golf

However, being a sports enthusiast, she is looking forward to joining the school's golf team. She acquired a penchant for the turf game from her chiropractor-father and has played the last three summers. She also plays a good game of tennis. She emerged city junior champion in 1963 in Wichita.

Cazzie Russell, Lou
Hudson Top Big
10 Basketball Team

Chicago, Ill. — Cazzie Russell of Michigan and Lou Hudson of Minnesota were unanimous choices on the all-Big Ten basketball team named by the Associated Press Monday.

Iowa's Chris Pervall was selected on the second team. Hawk George Peeples gained honorable mention.

Dave Schellhase of Purdue missed being a unanimous choice by one point on the first team rounded out by a pair of high-scoring giants—Bill Buntin of Michigan and Skip Thoren of Illinois.

Plans College

In family chronology, Colleen is sandwiched in between an older sister, Mrs. Sandra Brown and a younger brother, Kenston who attends High school in Wichita.

Following graduation in May Colleen plans to attend college in Texas or at Iowa Wesleyan. Whatever she decides it must be where she can play one of her favorite sports—basketball.

DID YOU EVER?

Did you ever step outside of yourself
To watch yourself pass by,
To try to see how you look to yourself

When no one else was nigh?
Did you see the faults that others see
When they look with the critical eye?

Or were you so blinded by love of self
You saw only perfection pass by?

A veteran sergeant was lecturing his new recruits. He finished his promptly orientation saying, "Remember, men, no matter how dirty you always have the right to the last

The sergeant paused for a second
