Negro Newspapers Note 138th Year

75 Publishers, Editors Plan Pilgrimage to New York 'Birthplace'

New York, N.Y.—More than 75 of America's outstanding Negro editors and publishers will make a three-day pilgrimage, today, Friday and Saturday to the birthplace of the first Negro newspaper, FREEDOM'S JOURNAL, founded in 1827 in New York City.

138th Anniversary

The National Newspaper Publishers Association, in commemoration of the 138th anniversary of the Negro press, will conduct services at 5 Varick Street, the last known printing site of FREEDOM'S JOURNAL, and also at the John B. Russwurm School, 135th Street and 5th Avenue named for the first Negro editor. New York Mayor Robert Wagner and other government officials will participate in the commemoration ceremonies. Mayor Wagner also will officially proclaim Negro Newspaper Week, March 14-20.

Other Ceremonies

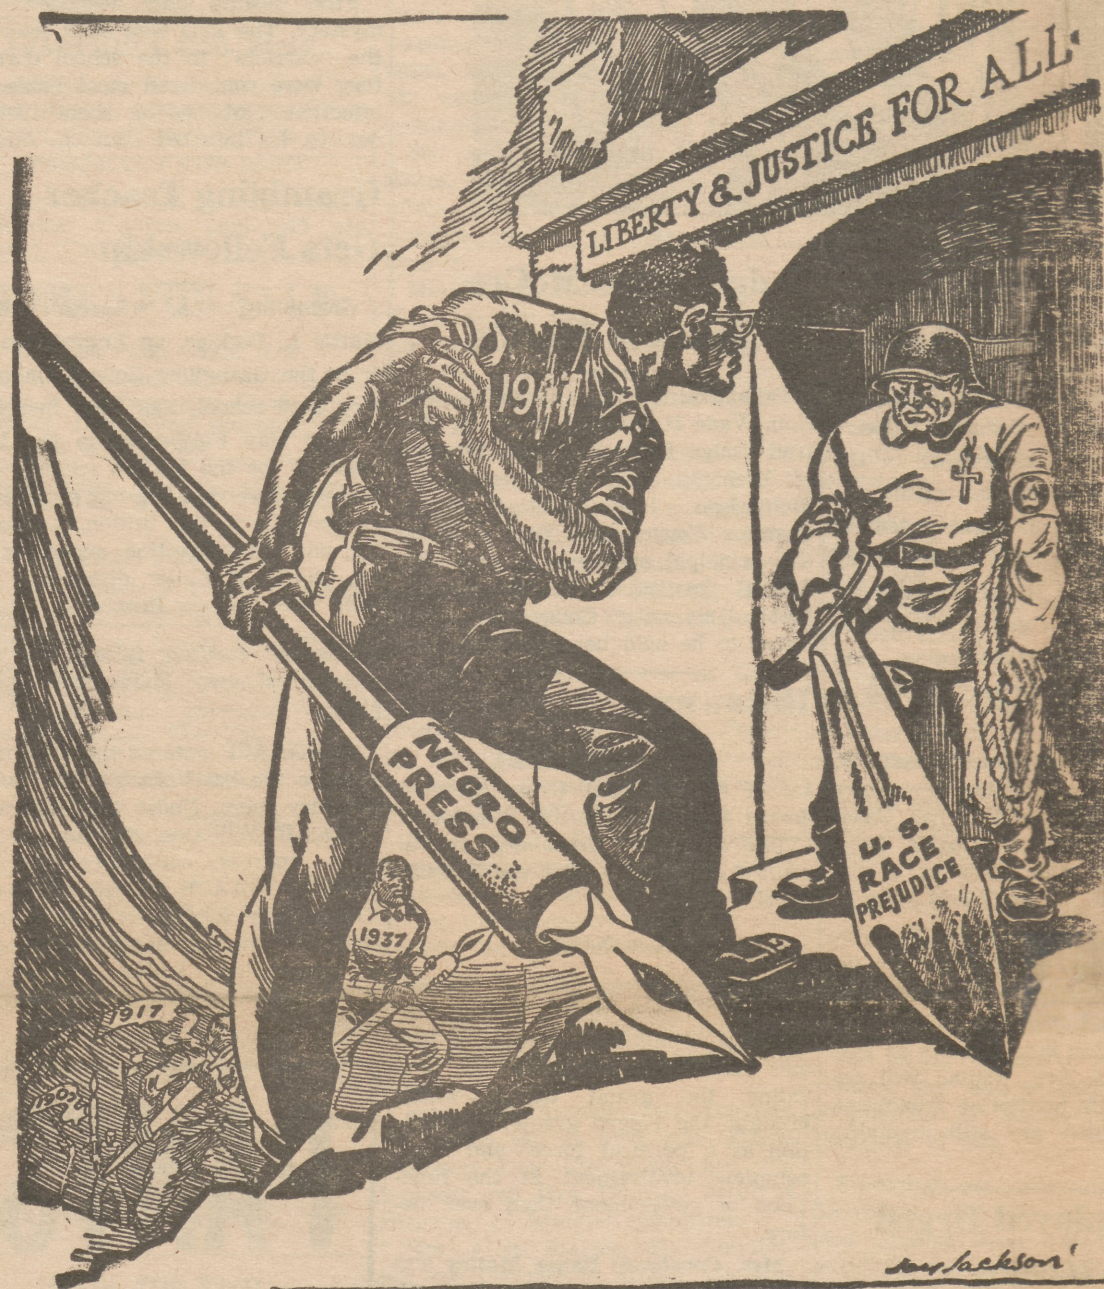

The Pilgrimage will begin in Washington, D.C., on March 11, with the publishers travelling as a group to New York City the same evening.

In addition to FREEDOM'S JOURNAL commemoration, ceremonies in New York City on March 12, the publishers will be luncheon guests of the National Urban League and also witness a premiere of "Major Dundee" at Columbia Pictures Corporation.

Saturday, March 13, NNPA will visit the World's Fair, where it will announce the 1965 "Russwurm Award" winners at its Awards Luncheon.

That evening they will see the Broadway hit, "Golden Boy" at the Majestic Theatre, featuring Sammy Davis, Jr., and cast.

NNPA embraces some 168 Negro-oriented daily, bi-weekly and weekly American newspapers. Frank L. Stanley, publisher of the Louisville (Ky.) Defender, is president.

President Johnson, 3 Slain Rights Workers Named 1965 Russwurm Awards Winners

Louisville, Ky.—President Lyndon B. Johnson and the three slain civil rights workers headed a list of distinguished Americans presented the annual John B. Russwurm Awards of the National Newspaper Publishers Association.

The Awards, the highest honor of the NNPA, are given annually for persons or organizations who have contributed substantially to the preservation of the democratic ideal. The Awards were announced here by Frank L. Stanley, president of NNPA and Howard B. Woods, chairman of the association's public affairs committee.

Posthumous

The three slain rights workers were cited posthumously for their devotion to the cause of freedom in making the supreme sacrifice in the Mississippi voter registration drive. They are Andrew Goodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goodman of New York City; James Chaney, son of Mrs. Fannie Lee Chaney of Meridian, Miss.; and Michael Schwerner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Schwerner of Pelham, N.Y. The Parents of the three youths have been invited to the luncheon.

Unanimous Choice

President Johnson became the unanimous choice of the nominees and the selection committee. His work in behalf of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, together with his great moral leadership in the field of human rights makes him an outstanding choice.

Others Cited

Also cited for one of the awards were three leaders among the major civil rights organizations. They are Whitney Young, Jr., executive director of the NAACP; Martin Luther King, Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and Coretta Scott King, widow of Dr. King.

Says NAACP Will Miss Editor Roscoe Dunjee

New York—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will miss Roscoe Dunjee, editor and publisher of the Oklahoma City Black Dispatch weekly newspaper who died March 1, at the age of 81, declared NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins.

In a telegram to the late newspaperman's niece, Mrs. Caroline C. Kelly of Oklahoma City, Mr. Wilkins expressed the Association's "deepest sympathy" at the passing of her uncle, and declared:

"For more than a quarter of a century Roscoe Dunjee stood with the leaders of the NAACP as a member of its national board of directors and as a vice-president. His mind, his energies and his voice made vital contributions to the policies and programs of the Association and he backed them up tirelessly and effectively both as a hometown citizen and as a nationally known publisher and editor."

NEWS In A Nutshell

35 Injured Sunday; 1500 Defy Court Order, Halted Again by Ala. Troopers

Selma, Ala.—Eclipsing the Vietnam crisis and its dire implications of an atomic war, the Selma, Ala., tense racial situation erupted into explosive violence here Sunday when Alabama State troopers wielding whips, night sticks and tear gas, broke up a voter registration march to Montgomery—the state capital.

The march, led by Dr. Martin Luther King's Assistants, had moved along to the bridge that would take them to Highway 80 and to Montgomery, when the troopers, some 200 strong, attacked, chasing those who were able to stay on their feet, back to Brown Chapel Methodist church, from which the march had emanated.

35 Injured

When a quasi calm, broken by the moans and cries of the injured, had been restored by the troopers, who

Schedules Civil Rights Protest Vigil Here at Post Office Friday

A 24-hour protest vigil will begin at sunrise Friday morning, Mar. 12 at the main postoffice, located at 2nd and Walnut streets.

The Des Moines chapter of Congress of Racial Equality wishes to provide an opportunity for every man, woman, youth and family to peacefully assemble in protest against police terror and violence in Alabama, and to urge Congress, the U. S. Justice Department, and President Johnson to restore order and protect the people who are now trying to register to vote.

had their ranks strengthened by additional members, at least 35 needed to be treated at a Catholic hospital.

After Sunday's shocking, brutal violence, which flashed across the nation in national TV hookups and by radio broadcasts and newspaper headlines, Dr. King returned to Selma, issuing a call for ministers and religious leaders from all over the nation to come to Selma and give sympathy by their participation in a second march scheduled for Tuesday. Hundreds answered.

Injunction

Meanwhile, an injunction banning the march was issued by U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson, Jr., which gave federal weight at least temporarily to Alabama Governor George C. Wallace, who had ordered nearly 600 troopers onto the scene to prevent the march.

Mid-Afternoon

Tuesday about mid-afternoon, Dr. King, his civil rights assistants and hundreds of clergymen, many of them prominent nationally in their respective faiths, moved out from the church, proceeded through the Negro district, through the downtown section and then to the bridge that led to Highway 80. Across the bridge, hundreds of blue helmeted troopers blocked the highway. The commander ordered the march to stop and turn back. Dr. King tried to discuss the situation but was not heard, only ordered to turn back. The marchers were led in prayers, and turned back.

Both sides were calling it a victory. Dr. King said another attempt would be made, but he did not say when.

Selma, Ala.—Religious leaders and ranking clergymen of all faiths from around the nation including at least one Des Moines pastor, answered the "Macedonian call" of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and converged Monday night and Tuesday morning on this city of 30,000 to participate in a massive attempt in a second march on the Alabama state capital.

Far Away

They came by train, by cars and planes, from as far away as Washington, D.C., Boston, Mass., and New York City. Most knew that they might face similar violence as vented on marchers two days before by state troopers. All came because they held the deep conviction that they had to come.

Court Order

The march, which had moved out in defiance of a federal court order, was stopped just across the bridge on Highway 80—some 250 feet further than the marchers had gone on Sunday.

Many ministers had come with overnight bags, and kits, preparing to stay overnight. The march held

D. M. Pastor Flies to Selma, Ala. to Aid Freedom Marchers

Rev. Kenneth McNeil, pastor of Burns Methodist church left by plane Tuesday morning to take part in the Freedom March.

Torn between loyalty to family and his belief, Rev. McNeil stated "Mouth witnessing alone is no good; one has to act, and at the place where the brutal treatments of Negroes are taking place. That in itself is cause to go and put my faith into action."

Rev. McNeil is at Burns Methodist church for three years. He and his wife are the parents of two boys. The family residence is at 917 16th street.

not violence for anyone Tuesday. But violence awaited at least three white ministers Tuesday night.

3 Ministers Beaten

They were the Rev. James Reeb, 38, of Boston, who was given emergency treatment then taken into surgery. The other two were Rev. Clark Olson of Berkeley, Calif., and the Rev. Arlof F. Miller of Boston, Mass.

The three were attacked by five white youth when they left a cafe after eating. The Rev. Mr. Reeb was hit on the head. A neurosurgeon was called in for the operation.

Sympathy

All day around the nation sympathy demonstrations were held: many Negroes and white persons sat down in hallways, in the streets and even rolled under cars and taxis.

President Johnson issued a statement decrying the Alabama violence and at the same time asking the marchers to desist. The U.S. justice department was reportedly in close touch with the tense situation in Alabama all day. Telegrams flooded the Justice department, congressmen and the White House, where a demonstration was held also.

WRIGHT, President of the Des Moines Branch, NAACP and Chairman of Region IV, NAACP called today on leaders of both political parties as well as Iowa's Governor for remedial legislation and rulings to help end racial discrimination in certain areas of Iowa's economic life, especially in the area of insurance practice, insurance law and insurance departmental action.

Governor

Wright's message, which went to Democratic Governor, Harold E. Hughes; Democratic State Central Committee Chairman, Lex Hawkins; and Republican State Central Committee Chairman, Robert D. Ray, called for significant changes. Most of the actions Wright called for are

- (2) Several anti - discrimination statutes affecting a broad range of activities.
- (3) A ruling affecting certain forms and reports furnished to licensed insurers.

29 SOUTHERN HOSPITALS CHALLENGED IN SECOND COMPLAINT FILED UNDER TITLE 6 OF NEW CIVIL RIGHTS ACT

Washington—The Department of Health, Education and Welfare today received its second group of complaints—this time against 29 southern hospitals, under Section VI of the Civil Rights Act.

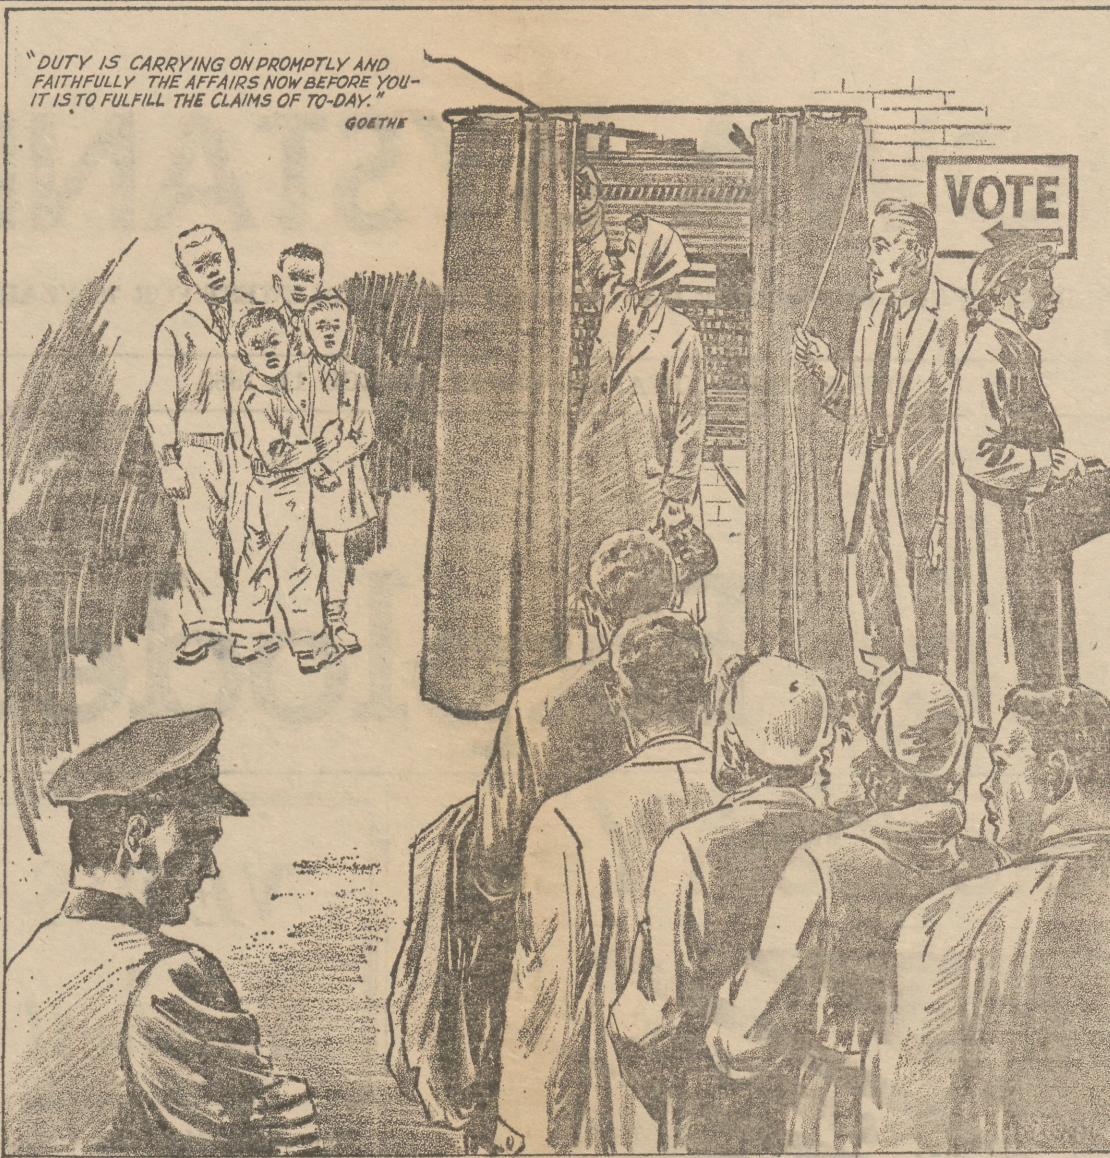

This second group, like the first (Feb. 15th), was filed jointly by the NAACP and the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, two separate, but closely associated organizations.

Jack Greenberg, director-counsel of the Legal Defense Fund and J.

Francis Pohlhaus, counsel of the NAACP's Washington Bureau, again filed the complaints.

The attorneys asked to be informed of the results of investigations "as well as the opportunity to participate in hearings and other proceedings held to effect full compliance."

The 29 hospitals cited all receive federal funds for public assistance or hospital construction programs, all administered by HEW.

Hobbs Gets 10 Years For Cafe Break-in

Clifford Hobbs, who allegedly burglarized a Des Moines cafe while police officers watched, pleaded guilty Mar. 4 to a charge of breaking and entering and was sentenced by Polk County District Judge Wade P. Clark to 10 years in the state penitentiary at Fort Madison. Hobbs, 33, of 1132 10th street, and three other persons were accused of participating in the break-in of the Bavarian Haus restaurant, 5216 N.E. 14th street on Jan. 10.

Sheriff's deputies said they watched Hobbs and Lewis Oliver Busch, 26, of 1220 12th street, break open the restaurant's safe and take money from it.

Hobbs was wounded in the left leg in attempting to flee when officers called out to the men to surrender.

Suit Over Funds

In a civil suit subsequently filed in District Court, Judge Dring D. Needham has ruled that $670 taken by deputies from Hobbs' clothing at Broadlawn Polk County Hospital belonged to Bavarian Haus.

Hobbs' companion, Busch, has been sentenced to 10 years in the State Penitentiary for his part in the break-in.

Pending before the Polk County grand jury are breaking and entering charges against Donald Laughton Johnson, 25, of 1175 3rd street and Carrie J. Logan, 32, of 1220 12th street. They were arrested in a car

HEALTH FOR ALL

THE GERM THAT CAME IN

Care for a good mystery thriller? Here's one that actually happened.

The time was a few months ago. The place, an industrial school for boys. The story title? Call it, "The Germ That Came In From the Cold."

The germ in question is a potential killer—the TB microbe. It was found causing active disease in the lungs of two lads at the school—meaning that the germ not only was in their bodies but had started causing damage and could infect others.

Contagious

Active tuberculosis can be highly contagious, especially among groups of school age children. Once the breakout was discovered, the forces of medical law and order went into action. First objective: to find out who, if anybody, had "caught" the germ. A tuberculin skin test was promptly given the entire school population.

First results only deepened the mystery. The kids who slept nearest the "carriers" in the school dormitory were considered most liable to infection. Not one of these turned out to be infected. But 25 others were. Which raised a crucial question: Why these 25? What was the pattern of contagion that had to be solved if continued spread of the infection was to be cut off?

Carriers

Scrutiny of the sick pupils' living pattern yielded an answer. One of the "carriers"—the two boys who had acquired active TB—sang in the school choir. So did 20 of the 25 boys in whose bodies the germ had newly lodged. Not only proximity, but common activity of a certain kind, was involved.

The lessons learned? First, a renewed warning that TB infection can be carried by mouth or nasal spray such as might be generated by singing. Second, a fresh reminder that TB can still be very much a menace. For timely information on that subject, published by the National Tuberculosis Association, write to your County TB & Health Association or the Iowa TB and Health Association, 1318 High Street, Des Moines, Iowa, 50309.

Grambling Teacher Gets Fellowship

Grambling, La. (Special)—Mrs. Hattie L. Perkins, an English teacher in the Grambling College Laboratory high school, has been awarded a John Hay Fellowship in the Humanities for the 1965-66 school year. She will receive a stipend equivalent to her salary, full tuition, a health fee, and transportation, according to Dr. Charles R. Keller, director of the John Hay Fellows Program.

Previously accused falsely for the murder of two Manhattan career girls.

The NAACP entered the Whitmore case on the basis of reported bias in the jury room. Under the leadership of Ray H. Williams, chairman of the legal redress committee of the Brooklyn NAACP Branch, the Association has fought to gain a new trial for him and has also protested a "confession" which resulted in Whitmore's indictment for another murder.

Sgt. Greenfield In Fleet Training

Silver Lance—Marine Sergeant Donald D. Greenfield, son of Mrs. Gladys Greenfield of 718 Laurel St., is participating Feb. 23-March 12 in a major fleet training operation called "Silver Lance" off the coast of California while serving with the Fifth Marine Regiment, First Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Because the youth's "confession" in the double murder has been discredited, the NAACP has challenged the validity of all confessions attributed to him.

Sunlight and Snow Make Dramatic Pictures Easy

FLOWING brooks bordered by snowy banks have won an endless array of ribbons and prizes in photographic contests. Snow pictures, whether taken for artistic effect, or to show people having fun with winter sports... on vacation trips or in your own backyard... are pictures you shouldn't overlook. The subject material can make any of us an artist with the simplest camera if we treat it right.

Snow comes to life under bright sunlight. It isn't photogenic in the usual sense on dull days. But when the sun sets it aspartle—that is certainly time for picture taking. On days like that, snowy landscapes are filled with contrasts, offering ideal picture-taking conditions for either black-and-white or color film.

Sunlight and shadows bring out the texture of the snow and add appeal to your pictures. Don't just snap a picture and let it go at that. Look over your snowy landscape in the viewfinder of your camera... look at it from various angles, to see what forms the best picture.

Concentrating on what is framed in the viewfinder is important—just as in any type of scenic shot. If you shoot too fast, you may be disappointed. You may expect the camera to see everything that you saw with your eyes—and it can't, not all in one picture. Your eyes move, sweep the scene. The camera's eye doesn't. It sees just exactly what you can see in the viewfinder. Keep that in mind and make beautiful snow pictures this year.

G.O.P. Eyes Minorities Panel

Washington, D. C.—Republican leaders concerned with reclaiming the Negro vote are considering setting up a national panel on minority policies headed by Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke.

Fund Seeks Supreme Court Ruling On Segregation in Georgia Park

Washington, D. C.—The NAACP Legal Defense Fund today asked the Supreme Court to consider an unusual case in which certain white citizens of Macon, Georgia, won lower court contests allowing them to re-segregate in a park that had opened to all in 1963.

Known as Baconfield, the park is located on land willed to the city in 1911 by Senator Augustus Actavious Bacon. In accordance with the will,

the park had previously been operated on a segregated basis by the city and an appointed Board of Managers.

In asking the high court to review the case, Legal Defense Fund attorneys asserted that the lower court decisions and the park operation involve state enforcement of racial discrimination contrary to the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment.

Whenever four generations of the family get together—it's picture time!

Don't Put Family Snapshots Off Until Tomorrow

TOMORROW is definitely too late for picturing people as they are today. There are some varieties of family snapshots that you definitely shouldn't put off taking.

Among these are the family groups, the four generation snapshots. Sometimes in our concentration on picturing the small fry and how they grow, we tend to forget about the grown-ups in the family. They belong in the family picture record, too.

Picturing the oldsters and the youngsters together is something that can be fun, and at the same time produce snapshots that will become family treasures.

Of course, when it comes to picturing a family group, it is always important to have a center of interest—something that all of your subjects can focus their attention on and not look at the camera.

In taking the three or four generation pictures that should be a part of every family record, the representative of the youngest generation makes an excellent center of interest.

Group the adults in a comfortable manner and let them be admiring the baby. Nothing could be more natural—and because of that it ought to be a sure-fire means of getting good expressions on the faces.

When you have a group like that together, don't take just one picture—the subject is too important to take any chances. Shoot several and you are bound to have at least one exceptionally good picture, and you'll probably have a whole series.

Have a Party for the Tiny Tots

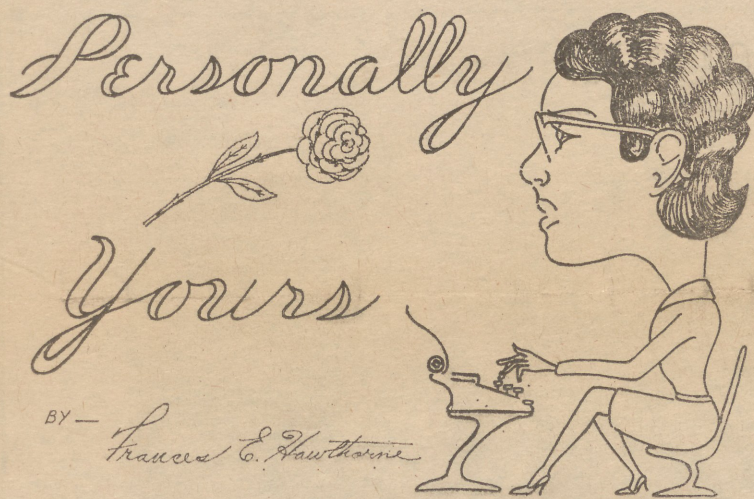

OF COURSE, IT'S ALWAYS A PARTY where there's ice cream and when you serve crunchy crisp molasses rings too. It's a ball. This ingenious mother has inserted a skewer into a rubber rabbit to hold the goodies. She drizzled real New Orleans molasses over the ice cream to give it that tart-sweet taste that children love and added chocolate milk to round out the festive feeling.

|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1 1/4 cups sifted flour | 1/2 cup real New Orleans molasses |
| 1/2 teaspoon baking soda | 1/4 cup shortening |
| 1/4 teaspoon baking powder | 1/2 cup granulated sugar |
| 1/2 teaspoon each cinnamon and ginger | |

Sift together dry ingredients. Combine real New Orleans molasses and shortening in a small saucepan and bring to boil. Cool. Combine two mixtures and blend thoroughly. Chill. When dough is firm enough to handle, roll out about 1/8" thick on lightly floured surface. Cut with doughnut cutter, or large and small biscuit cutters, to make rings. Roll punchout pieces. Arrange on greased cookie tin and sprinkle with sugar. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375°F.) about 8 minutes, or until done. Makes approximately 3 dozen cookies, depending on size cut. (ANS)

We go into the Lenten season, the 40 days before Easter, with the physical landscape looking dubious or paradoxical, depending on the point of view, or should we say the slant of the eye. You see if you are looking downward you see only the mud and the dirty snow; if you look upward, you behold the beautiful blue of the clear skies and the sunny yellow of the sun; however, you are looking level, straight out, in the distance you can behold both, thus retaining a good foothold on to the reality of Iowa's physical weather.

This is the time of year that begins to drag both on the emotional and physical capacities of human, the days before spring really sets in. Even though you realize it is the breakup of winter, the time drags heavy on your hands. Now is the time to try something different. Many do this by doing spring cleaning and remodeling early. Others make or buy a new dress or even a new hat. Still others turn to some active sport or hobby. It is wise, both for the mental and emotional wellbeing to get out of the rut. Few things can be more boring.

Many veteran gardeners use this time to either start plants from seeds indoors to be planted outside later. They draw up both physical plans for garden improvements and make notes and keep clippings on new flowers or plants to try their hand at when the weather turns nice.

Supreme Court to Hear Tennessee Rights Case

Washington—The U. S. Supreme Court heard argument here today as to whether a group of Nashville, Tenn. Negro college students should be cleared of charges stemming from an attempted sit-in of Oct. 12, 1962. The students were stopped at the door of Burrus and Webb Cafeteria by a doorman. They waited for 20 minutes in the vestibule until they were arrested.

Civil Rights Act

James Nabrit, III, of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund argued that enactment of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, subsequent to lower court convictions, but while they were still under direct review, is ground for outright dismissal of the case or, return to the state courts for reconsideration in light of the new legislation.

Attorney Nabrit pointed out that discrimination was permitted under Tennessee law at the time of the convictions and the students, "were prosecuted under a presentment that characterized their integration movement as an unlawful conspiracy."

To Make 'Classifiers'

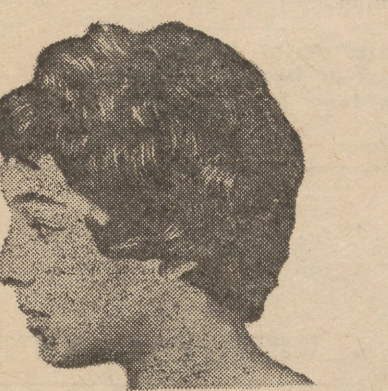

IN THE well-ordered home, there is ample opportunity to use "classifiers" in cabinets and drawers. Probably the simplest kind is the egg-crate type illustrated.

As shown, these pigeonhole classifiers are first-rate for a tool or storage cabinet. In a flat position, the same style of classifiers may be used in a drawer.

One-eighth-inch slots should be sawed into pieces of Masonite 1/2" Tempered Duolux, a strong, smooth two-sides hardboard which won't snag the finest fabrics and which wears indefinitely. Each slot should be cut half the width of the hardboard. To make the egg-crate construction, fit the slots together.

BRUTALITY AT ITS GREATEST EXTENT

It would be fair to say that if the United States sent the marines to Alabama instead of southeast Asia, far more good would have been done for world peace and human dignity.

Few instances of inhuman mistreatment of citizens have ever been shown on the television than that displayed by state troopers and sheriffs in Selma, Alabama Sunday.

Governor Wallace, the chief executive officer of the state, had issued an order forbidding the Negro protest march to Montgomery. The order attempted to deny these people their constitutional right of protest to the government. He knew that only with the aid of brutality would his order be carried out.

And to make matters worse, a federal judge issued an injunction restraining the marchers from making the trip. This, too, was illegal and only served as an attempt to uphold Governor Wallace in his illegal order. The conduct of Governor Wallace and his law enforcement officials has helped pave the way to a complete overhauling of voter registration and voting in those states which long have used all kinds of tactics and intimidation to keep Negroes from the polls.

Thanks to the advent of television, it has played a great part in bringing to the public the extent of injustices which have been heaped upon the Negro. They have been so repulsive that even many southern leaders are branding them as inhuman, unnecessary and a denial of the equal protection of the law as guaranteed by the constitution of the United States.

THE NEGRO PRESS;
NEGRO NEWSPAPER WEEK

This week, the Negro Newspaper Publishers' Association is holding its convention in New York City. It precedes National Negro Newspaper Week which is designed to emphasize the value of such publications and the necessity of support, particularly from those for whose benefit they are operated.

Unless subsidized by some outside force, newspapers get most of their revenue from advertising. Most of the businesses are owned and controlled by white people and thus are the supporters of Negro newspapers.

Advertising is used to draw customers or create good will with the readers—the public. And the more readers a newspaper has, the more advertising it can command.

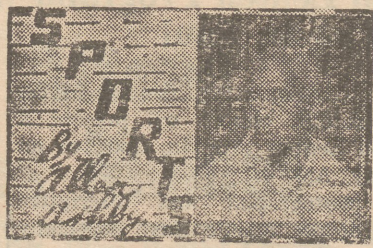

Beginning prior to World War II, advertising people carried on a campaign against weekly newspapers are weeklies—urging their papers are weekly—urging their clients that to buy such space is a duplication of circulation, more expensive and more work. The campaign worked for awhile, but has crumbled under changed attitudes brought on when it was shown that billboards and other media were a duplication also but newspapers had a niche in the minds of the people that should be fulfilled.

Thus, the home town weekly, the neighborhood weekly and the class weekly have an appeal which is close to the eyes and hearts of many people. This change of attitude has been a distinct help to Negro newspapers in that not only local but national advertisers are using them more and more.

The problem of circulation remains a big job and so does collection for it. Dailies have the same problem.

Negro newspapers have made a distinct contribution to the great advancement Negroes have made and in so doing helped themselves. They have supported the government in times of war and local and state programs of interest to all the people.

Many of the Negro newspapers, particularly in areas thickly populated by Negroes, have grown to become fine financial institutions. They are succeeding because more training and capital are available among them; also a desire upon the part of the public to read more about Negroes by Negroes.

We never got to know Sec Taylor, Register Sports editor, very well. He was about the only member of the sports staff that we couldn't seem to get through to although he always recognized us whenever we met whether it was at an athletic event or on the street.

We didn't always agree with his ideas on some phases of sports and a couple of times our versions of the same event differed widely. But we always thought his opinions were his honest thoughts whether they were good or bad.

Big Ten Team

"That was," as one guy said, "getting things back to normal," when Cazzie Russell and Bill Buntin of Michigan were picked for the all Big Ten basketball team along with Minnesota's Lou Hudson. Then Iowa's Chris Pervall made the second team.

Before the season started or had got underway good a friend of ours said Iowa would not finish last in the Big Ten and would spring some upsets before the year was out. Appears as if the fellow knew what he was talking about. The Hawks have been an exciting team to watch and have beaten some clubs they were not supposed to beat.

All American?

Who would you pick for an All American team? Well, there would be Russell, Bradley of Princeton, Schellhau of Purdue; Maybe, Buntin of Michigan and who else? There are only nine thousand top line college players in the country. Pull out any five and you have a tough All-American team. If you saw the pro basketball game recently you saw Drake's former McCoy McLemore, making the same jump shots he used to make for Drake.

High School

Looks as if the number one and two teams will have a chance to get together in the state meet. We would have to say that East Waterloo needs Don Ross too badly to beat a big well balanced club. But they haven't lost a game at this writing and may not.

Valley High

Valley of West Des Moines will have one of the few Negro girls to appear in the state girl's tournament. There haven't been more than five since the meets began. And a championship team has never had a Negro girl because we guess Negroes just don't live in the small towns.

Chicago Preps

There is talk of another of those all-Negro teams out of Chicago mopping up in the Illinois high school cage meet. There are so many good Negro basketball players in that city's high schools they are literally running over each other.

THREE NEGRO STARS NAMED TO LOOK BASKETBALL ALL AMERICA

New York—Three Negro stars—Boston College's John Austin, Michigan's Cazzie Russell and Wichita's Dave Stallworth—have been named to Look Magazine's ten-men All America team, picked by the United States Basketball Writers Association.

The All America selections, made by the writers' nine-man national awards committee representing the eight NCAA districts, were announced today in Look.

"There cannot be five better players in college than John Austin," declared Boston College coach Bob Cousy in Look, adding:

"He shoots as well now as anybody in pro basketball. He lifts the club simply by suiting up for a game."

Russell at Best

Russell "is at his best facing the severest challenges," the magazine noted, pointing to the Michigan-Wichita game in which Russell made the winning shot as the buzzer sounded.

Russell's teammate, Bill Buntin, was among the last players eliminated before the final All America selections, Look said. Buntin was voted to the NCAA District 4 team.

Stallworth won All America recognition as "the standout of the tough Missouri Valley Conference," although he played only 16 of Wichita's 26 scheduled games, his eligibility having run out on January 30.

Russell and Stallworth were repeaters from last year's Look All America basketball team.

Bowser Among Four

Colleen Bowser was one of four Valley High basketball girls named to the All-Suburban team as picked by the Des Moines and Register and Tribune.

Sankey has an average of 35 points per game and Bowser.

Clay Sets Home Base
Near Muhammad

Chicago — Controversial, talkative Cassius (Muhammad Ali) Clay, the world heavyweight champion, made it officially known last week that he was establishing residence in Chicago, the headquarters of his "Black" Muslim leader, "The Honorable" Elijah Muhammad.

While rumors circulated and police took strict security precautions against possible retaliation against Muhammad, and even against Clay, for the assassination of former "Black" Muslim spokesman Malcolm X, Clay made the announcement about residing here. In addition, he disclosed that he would devote his time to aiding youth by encouraging them to remain in school and live clean lives.

Though you think you have made a circle of your own,

Though your footsteps seem to tread a path you never can retrace,

Though your heart's key lies with a lover or with friend,

Ex-Athlete Convicted
Of Tax Bribe

New York—Frank Byrd, 61-year-old one-time Lincoln University athlete and an Internal Revenue Service employee, last week, became one of the major victims of a year-long probe of corruption in the IRS Manhattan offices when he was convicted on three counts of accepting bribes.

One of the top Negro staffers at the Manhattan office, Byrd, who plans to appeal the verdict, could receive up to 15 years in prison and a fine of $30,000.

Two tax employees and two accountants were arrested in the probe, but turned state witnesses. They testified against Byrd, who held track records in the 100 yards—high jump and broad jump at Lincoln in 1923.
