Knox Is Held on Murder Charge

Seeks to Cancel Dig Defense Govt. Contract

WASHINGTON — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has called upon the Federal Government to withhold awarding a $380,000.00 contract to the Anchor Hocking Glass Corporation pending an investigation of the corporation's hiring policies in its home city of Lancaster, Ohio.

In a letter to Assistant Secretary of Labor Arthur Fleming, J. Francis Pohlhaus, NAACP Washington Bureau counsel, cited a report that the company, with a work force of 4,000, employs only four Negroes, three of them in menial capacities.

"If this is so," Mr. Pohlhaus said, "we feel that this situation can only be explained by a pattern of racial discrimination followed by this company. Accordingly, we urge that the Office of Federal Contract Compliance take steps to hold up any contracts to Anchor Hocking pending an investigation of its employment practices."

The company was bidding for a contract in glassware needed by the Atomic Energy Commission in Oak Ridge, Tenn. Grant Grogans, president of the Lancaster-Fairfield County NAACP Branch, brought the company's discriminatory policies to the attention of the Washington Bureau.

NEA Files Brief With Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 13 — The National Education Association today filed a friend of the court brief with the U. S. Supreme Court in the Charlotte, N.C., case which involves the extent to which elementary pupils may be bused to achieve desegregation.

New York Demos Drop Powell

New York, N. Y. — The Council of Black Elected Democrats of the State of New York last week announced its endorsement of State Assemblyman Charles B. Rangel for the 18th Congressional District, and commissioned a delegation to request Congressman Adam Clayton Powell to withdraw from the November general elections.

The strong and unprecedented action, unanimously approved by the Council, came at a special meeting held at the White Plains Hotel in White Plains, New York. It was the first time in the Council's history that it requested a candidate to withdraw from an election.

NEA is urging reversal of the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals' decision last May. The circuit court vacated an earlier ruling of the U.S. District Court in respect to desegregating the elementary schools of Charlotte-Mecklenburg County. The appeals court asserted that a plan ordered into effect by the district court was not a "reasonable means" of desegregating the elementary schools. However, the circuit court did uphold the court-ordered plan for desegregating the junior and senior high schools.

Supports Lower Court
The NEA is supporting the lower court's Feb. 5 decision ordering the use of zoning, pairing of black schools with white schools, and cross-town busing to achieve desegregation at the elementary school level as well as the higher grades. In asking leave to file its brief, the Association quoted from a resolution of its Representative Assembly which notes that acceptable desegregation plans necessitate "a variety of devices" such as those mandated by the district court in Charlotte.

Mitchell Urges Senate To Amend School Bill

WASHINGTON — Testifying in support of a bill to provide $1.5 billion to improve education in racially impacted areas and to assist school districts in meeting problems incident to the process of desegregating elementary and secondary schools, Clarence Mitchell, director of the NAACP Washington Bureau, proposed a series of amendments to strengthen the measure.

Citing recommendations of the Association's 61st annual convention, Mr. Mitchell told the members of the subcommittee on education of the Senate Committee on Labor and Welfare, August 11, that school systems which have voluntarily desegregated should receive financial assistance as well as those which have belatedly begun to desegregate under pressure of court order or legislative or executive measures.

Police Chief Billy Busby said a white man was being held in connection with the shooting at a grocery store parking lot, but that he was withholding the name pending completion of an investigation.

Thomas was one of five Negroes charged in the March bombing of the Clay County Courthouse here.

Racial Violence Noted North and South

A racial conflicts occurred in several cities last week involving the killing of one man and the jailing of several Negroes; the wounding and arrest of others.

Southside Brawl Ends In Merrion Jones' Death; Funeral Held Wednesday

A South Side man, Merrion M. Jones, was shot Saturday afternoon during a fight with Raymond Knox, who was not a part to the original fracas.

Des Moines police made two arrests Saturday in connection with the shooting: Raymond Knox, 54, of 1120 Nineteenth St. was held without bond in the City Jail on a charge of murder. He was arrested by police about 1:20 p.m., Saturday at 223 Raccoon St., the scene of the shooting.

He appeared before Judge Harry Grund in Municipal Court Monday and entered a plea of not guilty. Bond was fixed at $10,000.

Clayton Troupe of 1401 Stewart St. was apprehended by authorities about 3:20 p.m. and is free on $25 bond on a charge of intoxication.

Witnesses told police that Troupe and Jones were fighting in the front yard at 223 Raccoon about 1:15 p.m. when Knox came from the building, apparently to break up the fight. Witnesses said Knox and Jones then started to fight and Knox pulled a pistol from his pocket and fired three or four shots at Jones.

Jones was taken to Broadlawn Polk County Hospital by a Fire Department rescue unit, where he was pronounced dead on arrival at about 1:30 P.M.

Services for Jones were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Shiloh Baptist Church with burial at Glendale Cemetery.

Salute to the Champ Detroit's Finest Hour

DETROIT, MICH., August 13 — A host of sports greats, a galaxy of entertainment stars and many public figures were among the over 8,000 friends of Joe Louis Wednesday night of Detroit's "Salute to the Champ - Joe Louis" in Cobo Arena.

The spectacular tribute to the former heavyweight champion climaxed months of planning and work by the volunteer committee led by Mrs. Rosa Owens, who initiated the project. Events that evening also climaxed the all-out efforts of the Motown Record Corporation, led by Motown President Berry Gordy Jr., honorary chairman of the tribute to his fellow boxer and friend, Joe Louis.

Highlights of the official portion of the program included the presentation of several special proclamations and resolutions to Mrs. Martha Louis, who represented her famous husband in his absence.

In Vets Hospital
Louis is still recuperating in a Veterans Administration Hospital in Denver after being hospitalized last Spring for an emotional disorder.

Detroit Mayor Roman S. Gribbs presented Mrs. Louis a special proclamation designating August 12 as "Salute to the Champ - Joe Louis Day" for all Detroiters.

Highland Park Mayor Robert B. Blackwell was in Cobo Arena to present a similar proclamation from Detroit's neighboring community. Blackwell had been active on the volunteer committee that had initiated plans for the tribute.

Governor's Proclamation
Michigan's Governor William G. Milliken presented Mrs. Louis with his document proclaiming Wednesday, August 12, as "Joe Louis Day" in Michigan. In his brief statement, Governor Milliken emphasized Louis' personal integrity and gentlemanly conduct outside the ring that won the Brown Bomber the respect and admiration of all Americans.

The audience at Cobo Arena had an opportunity to re-live some thrilling moments in the fabulous career of Joe Louis during the showing of two film clips of historic fights by the ex-champion.

Bill Cosby
Playing his role as emcee straight and close, TV star Bill Cosby introduced the Four Tops after officiating the presentations to Mrs. Louis. The Four Tops - Levi Stubbs, Renaldo Benson, Abdul Fakir and Lawrence Payton - set a fast pace for the entire show and demonstrated the polish and showmanship that have made them internationally popular.

When Cosby took charge once more he took time out to introduce several prominent persons in the audience on hand for the tribute to Louis, who began his boxing career in Detroit.

Top Athlete
Boxing great Sugar Ray Robinson and basketball star Bill Russell were both called on stage by Cosby to address the audience in praising the Brown Bomber and his influence on sports and American youth. Robinson and Russell had both arrived three days earlier to assist in gathering support for the program through local radio and television appearances and press interviews.

The entertainment resumed with the great Mahalia Jackson, and the hilariously funny Redd Foxx.

Billy Eckstine set a change of pace from the pulsing rhythm of "King of the Blues" B.B. King, with the smooth and lyrical style that has made "Mr. B" so famous. Teaming with the show's musical director, H. B. Barnum, Eckstine drew the full potential of the big band as he sang "My Way," a dramatic song that allowed Mr. B. to show his vocal mastery in a stirring delivery.

TIME TO GO BACK TO SCHOOL

Opportunity is here, enabling young people to enter the field of their choice. Industry, finance and government have come to recognize that young Negroes, who prepare themselves, must be provided a place in the scheme of things. Des Moines business has done just that, as has been the case in many other communities. Examples in this Back to School Display, the sponsors who have hired or promoted, and many others have succeeded because these people went back to school or remained in the jobs which brought results in the field of banking, insurance, merchandising, labor — the foundation of America's economy. See Editorial on Page 8.

CRYSTAL D. JACKSON, Check Encoder, Iowa-Des Moines National Bank

Crystal D. Jackson graduated from East High in 1968 and is presently attending Drake University nights. She was employed at another bank in Des Moines for one year after graduation and is now employed at the Iowa-Des Moines National Bank as a check encoder.

Crystal believes that education and training are essential for taking advantage of the excellent opportunities being offered today.

DELORIS M. DAVIS, Teller, First Federal State Bank

Prior to that she was manager of one of the Barbara Bakeries. She is very active in church, social and fraternal affairs.

"I am very enthusiastic about people preparing themselves for the opportunities that may come their way. Staying in school and getting a good, sound education is the best way to be prepared."

works afternoons as a participant in the New Horizons program for junior high students. This job has given him experience in filing systems, office supplies, printing as well as being a messenger. This summer he has worked at Home Federal on a full-time basis. The son of Mrs. Eleanor Helmon, 1289 E. 19th Street, he will attend Des Moines Tech this fall and under the "co-op program" will continue his part-time employment. has worked in the handbag department on the first floor since May 1970. She is presently attending Concentrated Employment Program (CEP) for her high school equivalency and in training to attend junior college. She is the niece of Jesse Taylor, who is also her guardian.

Miss Powell says, "I think there are lots of job opportunities and that even with a high school diploma it is still hard to find jobs without additional training. I would advise anyone who is thinking of stopping school to at least complete high school."

DEBBIE TAYLOR, Supervisor of Research, Blue Cross-Blue Shield

He is married, has 4 youngsters. He likes to fish and bowl.

LOU PROCTER, Personnel Service, Meredith Corporation

Anything worth having usually doesn't come easy and that goes for getting an education. In my work as manager of Personnel Services at Meredith Printing I talk to job applicants every week who don't have a high school diploma. The best jobs go to those who do. Houston, Texas Teacher Heads AKA Sorority

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Mrs. Mattella B. Grays, a Houston, Texas school principal, took over leadership of the nation's largest organization of college women founded by blacks, here Friday (August 14), at the end of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority's 44th convention. She pledged to make the organization that was founded in 1908, more deeply involved in current affairs that concern minorities and the poor.

Mrs. Grays will serve as president of the 40,000 member women's service group for four years. Other officers elected Friday will serve until the next convention which is scheduled for Denver, in 1972.

Personal Excellence
The newly elected president follows Mrs. Larzette G. Hale of Langston, Oklahoma, in office. She announced the priorities of her administration at her installation before 1000 delegates. Personal excellence to achieve broader public social goals is AKA's challenge, she said.

Programs already underway will be stepped up, and new opportunities for service will be sought, Mrs. Grays said. The sorority presently operates a Job Corps Center for women in Cleveland, under a contract from the Labor Department. It has published three booklets on contributions of contemporary women to black heritage, and several more are scheduled. It has a program of scholarship grants for foreign and domestic travel for outstanding high school graduates, and maintains a leadership training project and information services on career opportunities and Federal programs of interest to members.

Senator Brooke Honored
The convention was preceded by a public meeting Sunday, at which Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, was presented the Anna Eleanor Roosevelt medal for excellence and service. The award is named for the former First Lady, who was an honorary member of AKA. It is the organization's highest honor. An audience of 2500 witnessed the presentation in the Municipal Auditorium.

The sorority also elected Mrs. Kathryn Dickerson of Chicago, an honorary member. Mrs. Dickerson is a volunteer in civil rights, social welfare and health care organizations, including the American Medical Center, the World Service Council of the YWCA, and the Chicago Urban League. The latter organization recently named her "Man of the Year."

Mrs. Dickerson is the wife of Earl B. Dickerson, president of Supreme Life Insurance Company of America.

College Consultant
Mrs. Grays has served as a master teacher in the Houston public schools, and as a consultant to the University of Houston in connection with training teachers of disadvantaged children. She and her husband, Horace, have a daughter, Karen.

Interracial
Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority originally comprised one all black chapter at Howard University, in Washington, D.C. It now has whites in several chapters, including one in Florida with only 10% black members.

$260,000 Grant To Minority Students

A grant of $260,000 to strengthen technician training programs at three predominantly black colleges and provide financial assistance to minority students at 12 other colleges has been made by International Business Machines Corporation.

The grant will be administered by the Technical Education Consortium, Inc., a nonprofit association of 17 colleges, headquartered at the University of Hartford. The Consortium provides equipment, course materials and other support to keep the colleges' two-year technical programs abreast of the latest developments in science and technology. The two-year programs lead to an Associate in Applied Science (A.A.S.) degree, qualifying graduates for immediate openings as technicians in government and industry.

"The need for technicians today is urgent. The U.S. Government estimates that by 1975 an additional one million technicians will be needed in the United States."

"Because many minority students have not had the necessary background in science, they have shied away from careers in technology. With the three-year IBM grant, we have embarked on a program to immediately bring hundred of black and minority students into the field."

Most of the funds will be used to establish two-year training programs at three schools: Alabama A & M, Florida A & M and Texas Southern.

Consortium assistance to these schools includes teacher workshops, remedial education for students, scholarships and development of stronger recruiting activities.

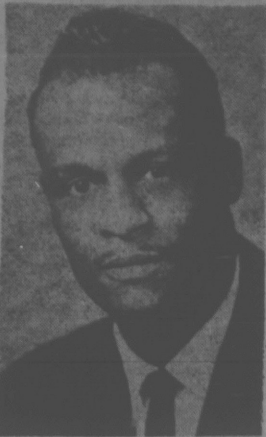

In the three-year period, a total of 135 scholarships will be granted to students at these schools.

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

"Until now, bathroom fixtures were designed for the plumbing industry rather than the consumer," remarks Donald R. Meckstroth, general manager, American Standard Plumbing and Heating Division. "We're changing all that with our new bathroom concepts," he notes.

Reverend Walter Jones, Executive Director of St. Paul Opportunities Industrial Center and pastor of St. John the Baptist Church of

Mason City, Iowa has started a Maintenance Program for heroin addicts with St. Paul Ramsey Hospital.

Dr. James Kincannon, director of the drug dependency service at the hospital said emphatically, "It is OIC's program and they are going to run it." Rev. Walter Jones, executive director of OIC, was instrumental in getting things started.

"THE OIC project will receive a service from St. Paul-Ramsey Hospital. OIC furnishes the work training program and the supportive services to the Methadone Maintenance program," he said.

Rev. Jones and his OIC people welcomed the idea as did the St. Paul-Ramsey Hospital medical men when it was broached to them.

All of the heroin addicts in St. Paul are not in the low-income group. This addiction, according to a St. Paul-Ramsey physician, has spread out to the young persons in the middle-income category. It is a growing menace.

METHADONE has a number of qualities that make it valuable. Not only is it cheap but it apparently suppresses the addict's craving for heroin. It enables him to function in a job and in some kind of normal daily life.

Reverend Jones who was born and raised in Des Moines, Iowa is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jones, 950 W. 17th Street. For the past three years he has been working with addicts and correctional clients. He also directs a basic education and vocational school.

SUMMER SLUMP GOT YOUR LAWN LOOKING TIRED?

Do you accept a tired, dead lawn as part of an inevitable summer slump? Don't. It's true that many grasses, especially "northern perennials" do most of their growing during the cool, spring days. In summer, when it warms up, growth slows up.

But too little food and too many bugs are a summer lawn's worst enemies. Frequent, thorough watering, especially during dry periods, will do wonders for most lawns. And a good, slow release fertilizer will keep them looking green longer, too.

Summer is bug time. Even if grass plants don't always like hot weather, bugs do. Frequent watering is one good way of keeping bugs in check, because insects like it dry. A more reliable insect control is regular spraying.

Select an insecticide which will control all lawn pests. Spectracide, containing Diazinon, is one product often recommended by the National Audubon Society as a "broadly effective, short-lived" garden chemical.

President Nixon Urges Support Of ARC Disaster Fund Drive

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Aug. 17, 1970 — President Nixon has urged all Americans to support the American Red Cross effort to assist the thousands of victims of Hurricane Celia which struck the Central Texas coast on August 3.

"The tragic consequences of Hurricane Celia have once again called forth the skills and the resources of the American Red Cross," President Nixon said in a message to E. Roland Hariman, national Red Cross chairman, who announced a $6 million nationwide emergency campaign for hurricane relief last Tuesday.

"Your response to the victims of this disaster must open the hands and the hearts of all Americans to the injured, the hungry and the homeless," President Nixon added.

"All that America is, results from the courage, the compassion and the spirit of cooperation which inspired our forefathers to build a nation. It is vitally important that we now prove still again that we are worthy of this great heritage by working together to rebuild the spirits and the lives of our compatriots.

"The immense task of assisting the thousands who are suffering today demands the help of every one of us. By contributing to local Red Cross chapters, we can all join together once again to assist those whose lives and families have been disrupted and whose dwellings and means of livelihood are wrecked or damaged. I am confident that our response to your appeal will enable the Red Cross to continue to aid our hurricane-stricken fellow citizens."

Over 100,000 persons in the area around Corpus Christi have received Red Cross mass care since the hurricane struck. The fury of Celia's 160 mile-an-hour winds caused damage to the property of some 65,000 families.

MONTGOMERY WARD

TIME TO GO BACK TO SCHOOL

JUSTIN MORTON, Americare Intern Trainee, American Republic Insurance Company

is a graduate of Lincoln High school and lives at 4510 Wakonda parkway. She will enter Drake this fall on scholarship.

Miss Morton says, "Obtaining a good education today is vital in our fast moving and complex society, where social standards have placed such emphasis on one's educational accomplishments."

"Opportunities are open to qualified people in many occupational fields. Education plays a big role in the struggle for self-esteem and also in the betterment of society. By staying in school you not only will be benefitting yourself, but the society in which you live."

BERNARD MORRIS, Customer Engineer, IBM

graduated from Des Moines Tech high school in 1962. He entered Grand View College in 1963 and a year later entered Ohio State University. After two years in the Army, he started with IBM in December 1967. He has been promoted from Trainee to Associate Customer Engineer and then to his present job. Today he services IBM machines at Dial Finance, Iowa Power, Central National Bank and Iowa-Des Moines National Bank.

Mr. Morris advises "an education is necessary in the competitive world as we know it today. With the increasing need for well-trained technical people, an education is a must. A basic building block in education is a high school diploma. The next step is college or a technical school. The more education you have, the more competitive you are in the business world."

is a graduate of North high school and will enter the University of Iowa this fall on scholarship.

Education, in relation to members of the Black community, means two things: The acquiring a certain basic skills without which no one can progress, and the discovery and development of any and all inherent talents.

Basic skills such as the ability to read well, reason logically, express oneself orally and on paper, and calculate mathematically to a fair degree are definitely needed. These skills form the base from which all other capabilities spring.

If any one Black individual fails to get this minimum education, he is denying his community his potential for success. Because of this the community goes backward, not forward, and Black communities have done this too many times for too long.

EUGENE WHITE, Apprentice Lineman for Iowa Power and Light

"highly advocates that all young people stay in school and get as much education as possible. If they can, they should go on to college or to a trade school. In this day and age, knowledge is king and education is the avenue to success."

"Naturally, some kids think school is just one big waste of time, and to a kid who's making $1.75 an hour working part-time it may seem senseless to keep going to school. But believe me, that $1.75 isn't worth dropping out of school for; and it won't help when you get laid off because there's someone to replace you who has more education."

"In a nutshell, my advice to kids going to school is simply: stay in and get that degree. It really pays off in the long run."

good gardening

by Rich Hansen
Worth Repeating

The guest speaker at last week's garden club meeting reminded me of something Philip Alampi, New Jersey's Secretary of Agriculture, said recently. He was talking about farming and the use of modern pesticides, but it made a lot of sense to a weekend gardener like me.

"Problems are not created by the use of pesticides," he said, "but by their misuse." Indisputable evidence leads to the conclusion that pesticides can be used safely based on directions and their intended use."

The conversation at our club meeting on safe use of garden chemicals was much the same. Here's what was said:

Read the label on insecticide package before doing anything else. Note mixing instructions and any precautionary information.

Never mix new spray chemicals with any "leftovers" in the sprayer. Use a clean sprayer.

Measure all chemicals carefully. If directions say three tablespoons of Spectracide, for instance, don't assume seven or eight will give better control. They won't.

For accuracy, reserve a special measuring cup; keep it out of children's reach and strictly for insecticides.

Never spray on a windy day. Any spray that blows away is wasted and could injure plants for which it is not intended. Early morning when the air is calm is a good time to spray.

Spray until there is a light drip from the leaves. This indicates good coverage. Be sure to spray under sides of leaves as well as the tops.

Immediately after use, clean your sprayer thoroughly with laundry detergent and water.

Plants should be sprayed at regular intervals of about 10 to 14 days during the growing season. In wet, rainy weather spray weekly.

Good advice, even if I didn't say it first. When used properly—and that means according to directions—insecticides are an indispensable garden tool.

SUMMER BUGS can give your lawn that brown, tired look. Control them with regular applications of a non-persistent spray like Spectracide.

Walker was a Peace Corps Volunteer at the Kingston, Jamaica Boy's Town during 1965-68. He is now counselor for special projects at Northern Illinois University. In a series of radio and television appearances in the Washington, D. NEW YORK (ED) — Summer-time and the living really is easy. But it can also be harsh — those days at the beach, picnics, barbecues, and just summer heat have a way of drying out skin. A woman needs a special night cream to replenish moisture, and one of the best is Satura Algene's Conditioning Face Cream. The skin absorbs it within minutes, and almost as quickly wrinkles are minimized and your skin is smoother looking.

Inside Rhodesia

Tells Blacks to Work On Farms, Pick Cotton

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — The other day I was trying to be charitable to the Rhodesian Government by asking a government Press officer in the Press Club here in Salisbury what I should tell readers overseas the government was doing for the blacks.

He was prompt in his reply: "Tell them about the improved health facilities, education that was started from scratch," and then he paused. "Justin, you must remember that you people, with due respect, were plain savages until we came to give you all these benefits like education and employment."

Realizing I was still far from being convinced, he added: "It is only the educated agitators like yourself who can never thank the white man for the good he has brought you."

Bad Overshadowed Good Of course this was not the first time such things had been pointed out to me, and I have almost always acknowledged the benefits the whites brought to the Dark Continent, as Africa has always been referred to by the civilized nations of the western world. But I pointed out to the government press officer that the good the Rhodesian Government was doing for the blacks was often overshadowed by the enormous amount of bad. When I asked him to defend the recent announcement by his government that out of 83,000 African primary (7 years of education) only 10,000 would find places in the secondary school to continue their education, and that the rest would be thrown into the streets to become social problems, he asked to be excused because the subject was becoming political.

I could not see anything political in statistics given by the government, to point to a problem posing serious consequences for the future. But the government press officer had to excuse himself.

It is indeed true that the blacks in Rhodesia, and for that matter in the whole of Africa, were savages before the advent of the white man. But they knew no better. What they did was regarded as morally right.

Among the benefits brought to Africa by the whites was education in a very broad sense. The whites asked the blacks to take after their own way of life, and the blacks accepted this arrangement.

But today I ask my white countrymen what good it is to give the blacks any education and then deny them

No Opportunities

The figures I have given above represent those who leave school after what might be regarded as an elementary education. But there are those who are denied jobs in this country, not because they are not qualified but because they are black. At the end of this year there will also be an additional 5,000 to 6,000 school-leaving blacks with secondary school certificates, i.e. high school education. These, too, will have no prospect whatsoever of getting placed into suitable jobs. And there will be college graduates.

The principal of the country's only university, Prof. Terence G. Miller has said: "There is growing frustration among African students who find they can reach high degree levels only to be denied jobs that are given to less qualified Europeans. I have fully documented examples of racial discrimination in the recruitment of my graduates since UDI (unilateral declaration of independence) - and this is dangerous."

Recently, the country's National Sunday paper, The Sunday Mail, published a self-explanatory story under the headline: "Passports to Disillusionment." A reporter had visited an employment agency and found well-qualified Africans who had never obtained jobs since getting their precious little certificates. It has to be remembered that blacks here make strenuous efforts to pass rigorous examinations - the same by which the whites are judged, the only difference being that the whites do get the jobs.

Although trade sanctions are affecting the country's normal economic expansion, new jobs are being created everyday as a result of diversifications in the products now offered in commerce and industry. But who gets these jobs? The white immigrant for whom the Ministry of Information, Immigration and Tourism has launched an intensive campaign to bring into the country. The government's argument for encouraging white immigrants is that they employ Africans, thereby decreasing unemployment among the blacks.

The picture makes me sad. While black men with wives and children are trying anything to earn a living, screaming for jobs, white Rhodesians are affording themselves the luxury of a working husband and wife, the latter generally doing a job that previously belonged to the African. I have heard it said that the white employers are dismissing blacks as a retaliation against Harold Wilson's Government and trade sanctions against Rhodesia.

During a recent budget debate a government minister suggested that unemployed blacks should seek work on the farms, picking cotton. I say, really, college graduates picking cotton?

Sun and fun are equivalent. More than once, however, I've found myself with more of a tan than I bargained for. It's only realistic to know you can't get a three-months tan in one day, but everyone tries. One of the best protections against harmful rays is Givency's Sun Lotion. It has the advantages of being unscented and containing moisturizers that help retain natural skin oils. Working on that perfect tan is great only if you protect yourself from harmful sunburn.

Horse Shows at Iowa Fair

Des Moines, Ia. — Iowa State Fair's western horse show is adapting a few events from its society counterpart to show that Quarter horses and Pintos can perform with éclat and elegance.

That is the word from Wilbur L. Yount, Altoona, superintendent of the horse and pony department, which has $36,000 in cash prizes and trophies for skilled riders, drivers and horses.

This western influence, Yount said, is gaining nationally, not only in Iowa, but too far from the one-time open range.

A new jumper class for the western show includes registered Quarter Horses, Pintos, Appaloosas, Ponies of America (P.O.A.), Welch or Palominos. Because they still are being schooled, jumps are set somewhat lower than for a Thoroughbred. Welch ponies, however, have a longer history as jumpers and can sail over a post-and-rail obstacle more than 4' high.

NAACP Branch Aided Texas Hurricane Victims

NEW YORK — August 15, 1970, The Corpus Christi, Texas, Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People performed yeoman service in aiding the victims of Hurricane Celis, Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive director, said here this week.

Mr. Wilkins' appraisal was based on information received in the Association's National Office from the NAACP branch in the Texas city which bore the brunt of the hurricane's fury. Twelve deaths were reported in Texas and damage was estimated at $233 million.

The Corpus Christi NAACP Branch was the first local organization to become involved in emergency relief work the day after the storm struck. August 4. Members of the branch led by Irvin Brown, president, distributed food and other needed supplies to hurricane victims. The food and supplies were made available by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The relief work, Mr. Brown reported, was on the whole harmonious although he felt that the food distribution center and the information bureau should be housed jointly rather than in separate parts of the city. The emphasis, he said, seemed to be upon rehabilitation of business rather than on salvaging of people. He also reported that President Nixon's personal representative had not been available in Corpus Christi.

Regular watering is one good way of keeping bugs in check, because insects like it dry.

A more reliable insect control is regular spraying. Select an insecticide which will control all lawn pests. Spectracide, containing Diazinon, is one of the products often recommended by the National Audubon Society as a "broadly effective, short-lived" garden chemical.

Irregular dry, yellow patches or a generally ragged lawn are two tell-tale signs of insects. Chinch bugs top the list of destructive lawn pests—especially since some strains have developed resistance to certain insecticides.

Perk. Serve a variety of fancy coffee accoutrements, such as whipped sweet cream, scalded milk kept hot on an electric trivet, and perhaps confectioners' sugar. Prepare coffee cakes and strudels a day ahead, ready to bake as guests begin arriving.

If your back-to-school gathering will include more than 3-4 friends, hiring a baby sitter to entertain your guests' pre-school children in the backyard would be especially thoughtful. (Room mothers could create enough goodwill to last all year by hosting such a coffee.) In any case, set the party mood as extremely casual, so guests won't feel pressured to dress up on a hurried morn.

Summer Lawn Slump? This year, don't accept a tired, dead lawn as part of that inevitable summer slump. Remember, too little food and too many bugs are a summer lawn's worst enemies.

Frequent, thorough watering, especially during dry periods, will do wonders for any lawn. And a good, slow release fertilizer will keep it looking green longer, too.

Unfortunately, summer is bug time. Even if grass plants don't always like hot weather, bugs do.

2. Read your recipe. Assemble the utensils and measure ingredients before you start.
3. Set out room temperature ingredients an hour before mixing.
4. Use a rubber spatula to guide the mixture into the beaters.

MET PETITE JOYCE VAUGHN on a summer nursing assignment at an Estes Park summer camp. She asked if I knew the Hendreds, Manala and Myles, daughter and son of the Silas Ewings. Of course, I do, I happily replied. She and Manala had attended the university together!

HAVING HEARD THAT THE HIPPIES' FAVORITE READING fare was Steppenwolf by Herman Hesse, I purchased it and with my vacation leisure promptly completed it. I could use a bit of enlightenment, but it sharply clarifies why it is so warmly recommended by the hippies! Old as the book is!

THE NEW WILLIAMS PHARMACY, MORT'S BARBER SHOP AND BEAUTY SHOP, MILDRED'S Beauty Salon, Crescent School of Beauty Culture, Williams Market, Hardaway's Tonsorial Parlor, Hardy's Restaurant, the Record Shop, and Ebony Lounge all come to mind when I dream of what "the block" as the area is sometimes termed, could be were we to decide to help create the rich business area which it can become! Seeing Denver's Larimer Square, an area - or a part of which - had a high percentage of black business as it is now reconverted to its former importance, brings our University Avenue to mind! The University Avenue story and Larimer Square are not identical but comparable - to me! Larimer Square dates the period when the pioneers landed, began their frontier town of storefronts with adjacent homes. The area is being renovated, some buildings restored to some of their former grandeur, much of the original architecture and even brick walls restored; lamp lights renovated and used. The merchandise is new (our's could be our new African or soul styles); there are new and some old arts and crafts (why not the works of Charles Boston, Marvin Elliston, Henderson Davis, Jr., the girl dress stylists and all the others you can name for better than 11); old candies and candles; old methods in silver smithing, leather and all crafts are carried out.

SOUL FOOD COMES TO MIND as a big, big venture after dinner at The Bratskellar (still talking about Larimer Square) patterned after early German cafes. The interior is candlelit only! An outdoor eating area has only the sky above! Thus enabling diners to view passersby above on the sidewalk encircling the cafe. Oh yes, oh yes at about this point in my visit, as I took in the surroundings from above we heard the sound of screeching tires, cars being bumped, as a young addict careened down the street, striking a crippled woman damaging other cars before his apprehension. Listening I envisioned hub caps like flying saucers sailing down from overhead! But it turned out we were safe! Now back to some interesting details concerning this eatery; there are only 5 Bratskellar in the United States; Chicago's is the original; One in San Francisco; two in Los Angeles. It is not a chain affair but is owned by five young men. The rustic furnishings have been garnered from about the world. The food is superb; the service most courteous. As one leaves, the waitress and bus boys smile and thank you for having come; the trim young major domo asks if all was well and invites you to come back! (Girls, at that moment I didn't want to leave!) As talented cooks and sharp young men as are in our numbers, what do the above few lines bring to mind? Something new and shining I hope.

Anti-Clutter Tool Saves Time, Tempers

Nothing is more annoying than looking for something you need in a hurry and not being able to lay your hands right on it, especially in the kitchen where most of your work is done. How much easier it is on your nerves to have everything clearly identified - saves steps, saves time!

Have you ever turned your house upside down and topsy-turvy looking for a particular item in a hurry, or rummaged through a catch-all drawer of accumulated clutter? You fret and fuss, and wear your temper to a frazzle.

Consider what professionals in business and industry do. Office managers and production supervisors, who can't afford to lose their cool, have found an answer to the problem of clutter.

Have you ever turned your house upside down and topsy-turvy looking for a particular item in a hurry, or rummaged through a catch-all drawer of accumulated clutter? You fret and fuss, and wear your temper to a frazzle.

Now, the idea of systematic organization has been adapted for home use. Dymo has developed a tiny tool called the Label-ette that, like the bigger models used in industrial applications, produces colorful, easy-to-read embossed labels. You simply click out the letters you imprinted on pre-

Hawkeye Elks Antler Guard Picnic

The Police Unit Co. A. of the Antler Guard Dept. of Hawkeye Elks held their annual picnic Sunday, August 16, at Ewing Park. An enjoyable day was spent playing games. Prizes were won by adults and children. Free refreshments were served.

Round out your "cooking" with a classic summer salad, a bakery-fresh Italian bread and a light, tangy dessert. Or make the salad the main part of your meal, filling and festive Salute Niçoise, featuring canned tuna fish, black olives and pimiento strips, added to your favorite greens and dressing. Another Barbara Mahoney idea that we like is once-a-week cooking.

Face Shapers and Savers

It seems as if you have this nose... and there it is sitting in the middle of your face, and you can't stand the shape of it (it's too big, too little, too too) and you've begged your parents to send you to a plastic surgeon but they (the old mechanics) refuse, saying "Your nose is perfect, there's nothing wrong with it... I can't understand you kids, today." And you don't know what to do except sit in front of the mirror lamenting your nose (or your cheekbones, or your chin or your...).

Well, take heart. If you're not satisfied with the way your face shapes up, why not re-structure it yourself. All it takes is the knowledge that dark colors recede, white colors come to the forefront plus some RealGirl Blusher.

Starting with that nose, take some of the RealGirl Blusher Shadow and put a stripe down the middle of it. Blend it in with your makeup and just like that, your problem nose is diminished. If you fancy high cheekbones and that hollow look favored by models, simply suck in your cheeks and where the hollows appear, shade with RealGirl Blusher. If you're not happy with your chin, use a little RealGirl Blusher on your chin. You can also use it brushed over your entire face for a shimmering, pearly glow or to bring out a receding chin.

RealGirl Blusher is the little makeup can that isn't it? And when someone asks you why you're looking so good lately, all you have to do is smile and blush prettily.

SPORTS

Last year, the Bystander printed a "back to school" sponsored page which brought praise from personnel and management of many Des Moines' business institutions.

The ad emphasized the importance of going to school, staying in school, getting the best education possible for no matter whether the desire is to become a journeyman carpenter, a stenographer, an electric lineman, a banker, an insurance employee, a bookkeeper, a professional man or ditch digger, the best trained person gets the chance, and generally has the foundation upon which to build and gain promotions.

The interesting thing about the examples of employees in the sponsored ad on page 2 is that 30 years ago, Negroes held none of the jobs these people hold now even though all the sponsoring companies were in operation at the time.

Thus, it can be seen that as incentives have developed which urged youngsters on to prepare themselves and as business, prompted by the desire to practice equal opportunity along with pressure from government both federal and local, great changes have come about. Many are responding to the times, opportunities are here, many youngsters are taking advantage of the chances offered them.

In these days of tensions, fears and doubts, it is refreshing to see that mutual understanding in Des Moines has helped bring results; that while not among the larger cities in America, its citizens, black and white, are working together for improvement; those who try are not denied a chance to get an education, to get training and make for themselves a comfortable living for themselves and a chance to enjoy it.

MORE ACTION — TOO MANY SURVEYS

In the process of studying the status of Negroes in a number of midwestern cities, a graduate student from the University of Iowa selected as a target project for a doctoral thesis "Negroes in Waterloo." They refused interviews contending that they had been studied enough, that now was the time for action.

We fully agree with the Waterloo citizens for while it is fortunate to know about Negroes, material on the subject is in most libraries. However, the young man is in line with new black and new black that with ideas that have no merit. This recent gag is to collect funds in one state to elect Negroes in states a thousand miles away. This is preying on sympathy in the highest. If these candidates can't finance their campaigns among neighbors, they have no right to ask a stranger to pick up the tab.

SMART LIFE SQUANDERED

Last year, a young Negro woman, born in Birmingham, Ala., educated in some of the top schools in America, was hired as a teacher at the University of California at Berkeley.

It soon became known that she was an avowed Communist. Soon protests were lodged against her hiring by government and some school officials. However, the school administration came to her defense arguing that to fire her violated the principle of academic freedom. Support came from students and faculty.

At the time, the Bystander said editorially that it was foolish and dangerous to allow Communist teachers in our schools. And even though they might teach the same books as other teachers in a given subject, their influence has weight.

During the course of a trial a young Negro attempted to liberate one of his friends being tried in court. Five people including the presiding judge and the attempted liberator were killed.

Upon investigation, it has been determined that the guns used in the shoot-up were purchased under the name of this same young communist teacher. It is said she has gone to Canada.

Under California law, if these purchases are proved on her, she is equally guilty as the person who fired the shots.

This is a sad story. A brilliant young woman, misguided and coddled by a lot of smart people finds herself a martyr but for what. She has not used her education to advance the cause of herself or her race but has embarrassed her friends and made life miserable for a lot of people including her parents.

Tipton joins Craig Boller (245), Bill Brooks, (235) and Ron McIntire (235) in the Vikings front four. They traveled to Joliet, Ill., Sunday for their first game of the Midwest Professional Football League Season. The Vikings lost 41-6.

With Allen Ashby Reggie Unhappy In Oakland

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 — A's slugger Reggie Jackson is unhappy in Oakland and doesn't care who knows it. Reluctant to reveal his feelings until recently, Jackson tells in the current issue of SPORT Magazine of his disenchantment with his situation.

"There was a time I dreamed of being a part of a dynasty built by Mr. Finley (owner Charles O. Finley), begins Jackson, "of being a part of a team which got so strong it could just roll over other teams the way Baltimore does, and filling the empty Oakland Coliseum seats with excited fans. Now I just dream of going someplace where I can play in peace and perhaps become the player I should be."

Jackson's disenchantment with the A's stems from his periodic benchings, "seemingly senseless and arbitrary," according to Reggie, and from a series of fines levied against him which he feels have been unjustified. He feels that this treatment may have been provoked by his holdout status in the spring and complicated by his normal difficulties as a slow starter.

Last year, Jackson played regularly and smashed 47 home runs, while knocking in 118 runs. However, when he didn't hit early this year, Finley ordered manager John McNamara to bench his star. Finally, after an inordinate number of days on the bench, Reggie started and rapped a homer, inexplicably, he was benched four more days before he was allowed to return to the starting lineup. Reg responded with another homer in that game, yet was benched again, according to the SPORT article.

"I don't want to give up," says Reggie, "but the few years I've had in baseball are breaking my spirit. Already, a lot of the joy has gone out of playing the game."

As for the unjustified fines, Jackson says: "One time I went off-balance swinging at a ball and fell down. I was fined for not running out the grounder ... The same plays that bring me fines don't bring fines to others." As the SPORT article reveals, Reggie Jackson is unhappy and doesn't care who knows it.

HOW TO SAVE YOUR FAMILY'S SKIN

The cuts, rashes and burns which confront every family needn't get under your skin if you heed these hints that help scratch them from the list of household and outdoor hazards:

1. Inspect all rooms, and the kitchen especially, for nails or other protrusions that could lead to nasty cuts.
2. Be careful washing socks and trousers that may have brushed up against poison ivy plants; the urushiol oil can give you a rash.
3. Burns do not benefit from butter or cooking fat. Use a good burn ointment, or a first aid cream antiseptic. For a severe burn, add to this treatment as much liquid as your patient can comfortably swallow, and aspirin if he is uncomfortable.
4. If you don't already have one, put a first aid kit on your shopping center list. Several excellent general, emergency and compact kits are available at reasonable cost.
5. Choose a detergent that doesn't skimp on phosphates. These are needed to keep automatic dishwashing and laundry machines operating at top efficiency and for soil removal.

from dishes and silverware. The ability to clean bathrooms, kitchens, floors and walls would be sharply diminished if phosphates were eliminated. Among the requirements that this important ingredient meets are necessary cleaning performance, safety for people, compatibility with other ingredients, non-toxicity, stability, and safety for colors, fabrics and fibers.

6. Have a first aid cream or spray in the medicine chest, and choose one that doesn't sting, least children be loath to report injuries.

Health for All

Exercise can perk up most people. It can even help some patients with chronic lung disease.

One of the distressing symptoms of chronic obstructive lung disease is labored breathing. Any activity accelerates the struggle to breathe. Walking at an even pace can require enormous exertion. To avoid exertion, the person tends to do less and less. But the resultant inactivity creates a vicious cycle. The less the person does, the more effort is required to do anything at all.

A recent program for patients with severely labored breathing features a rather drastic activity: riding a stationary bicycle every day for 18 weeks. All the patients, ex-smokers, had smoked at least a package a day for 20 years — a factor which contributed to or actually caused their condition.

Keep Diary
Each patient kept a daily diary to record time pedaled.

Activities of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission

The never ending problems of employment continue to bear hard upon the poor and racially discriminated.

The union once heralded as the only savior of the poor, working class now represents a stumbling block to an even poorer working class.

The unions of today were founded on the fears, blood and tears of the working man of bygone years. They used as justification for their existence, the need to fight the money hungry employer. And, they called the employer the scavenger of the laboring man. One who profited from their low pay, intolerable working conditions and long hours. Justice was their platform and humanity their foundation.

Why then have the unions of today failed to open their arms to the minority. The jobless who otherwise might work. Unions have become so powerful that their very existence determines whether a man works or not and especially if that man is black or a member of some other minority group.

Wages are higher than ever before in the history of this country and shortages of labor in the skilled crafts continue to plague our nation.

Yet, unions continue to recite, "If you are black, get back." Misleading programs are offered called Apprenticeship Training. Tests are given minorities can't pass. The white man is admitted when two of his friends vouch for him. The unions are full of carpenters, bricklayers, miles achieved, and comments — chiefly about daily life activities. As exercise continued, the number of activities increased.

Although the exercise did not improve lung function in every patient, all of them said they felt better from the activity. The director of the program at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, Dr. Harry Bass, said, "We believe that we are improving the patients and keeping them alive longer by improving their fitness and ability to withstand the stress of intercurrent disease."

Patients with lung or heart disease, of course, should consult their doctor before undertaking this kind of exercise.

To find out more about the lungs and how they function, check with your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and breath.

plumbers, and others who never took a test, got a high school diploma, or otherwise qualified.

They are journeymen today because their fathers, grandfathers, or uncles were members of the union. So ingrained is discrimination that it goes back that far. And how does it continue to flourish? By misinformation. Union members are told that limits must be placed on membership or many will be out of jobs.

The minorities are excluded because they are classified as inferior workers. They are also excluded for another reason so important to union. Minorities are not strong supporters of unions. How can they be when unions represent an obstacle to their livelihood.

More Stress must be placed upon the obligations of the unions not to discriminate. Positive immediate results must become evident and obvious for all to see. Tokenism must cease, and be replaced by constructive activism.

It is the duty of the Civil Rights Commission under the mandate given it by the Iowa legislature to eliminate discrimination wherever it is found to exist.

We have long sought to counsel and advise unions, to help them make the necessary changes. In some cases, this has been without results. We, at the Commission are not anti-union, but we are anti-discrimination. If anti-discrimination is anti-union then we have no choice for we have pledged ourselves to this end.

VETERANS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — I'm a Vietnam veteran with two years of service who would like to go to college, but I lack a high school diploma. How can VA help me?

A — You can receive from VA, G.I. Bill monthly payments for high school training without charge against your basic educational entitlement. After completing high school, you are still entitled to 36 months of further training.

Q — I will be released from active duty just before school starts this fall. May I apply now to VA for a Certificate of Eligibility?

A — No. You will need your discharge paper and you cannot obtain this until you are actually separated from active service. However, it is advisable to apply for school admission before you are separated to increase your chances of acceptance. You should hurry, as many schools have already completed their class enrollments.

Disabled Vets Get Raise

The new law also permits restoration to compensation rolls the remarried widows of veterans whose remarriages end in death or divorce. This provision becomes effective next January 1.

The VA Administrator said another provision, which would affect comparatively few veterans, would presume certain illnesses of former prisoners of war during World War II, the Korean Conflict, and the Vietnam era to be service-connected for purposes of compensation payments.

Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson said the eight to 12 per cent increase will be retroactive to July 1.

He said veterans will receive ceive their regular monthly checks for August on Sept. 1, computed at the old rate. Later, in early September, most veterans will receive another check which will reflect the retroactive increases for July and August. The following month — on Oct. 1 — regular monthly checks will include the increases.

Johnson stressed that since the increased payments are automatic, veterans need not contact the VA to receive them.

He said the 12 per cent increase goes to totally disabled veterans, including those who also receive additional compensation for such disabilities as deafness, blindness, and the loss of — or loss of use of — arms and feet.

Under the new rates, compensation to veterans with a 100 per cent disability rating will be raised from $400 to $450 a month.

Those with a 90 per cent rating will be increased from $226 to $250 a month; 80 per cent disability, $201 to $223;

70 per cent $174 to $193; 60 per cent, $147 to $163, and 50 per cent, $122 to $135.

(The additional allowances for dependents of veterans rated 50 per cent or more, also are being increased.)

Other increases are as follows: 40 per cent, $89 to $96; 30 per cent, $65 to $70; 20 per cent $43 to $46; and 10 per cent, $23 to $25 a month.

The Veterans Administration reported today that a bill the President signed August 12 will increase monthly compensation payments for most of two million veterans who incurred disabilities during military service.

HOW NOT TO GET INTO THE SWIM

Whether you own your own boat, or plan to use someone else's — you'll enjoy a broader horizon of cruising pleasure by heeding these tips on marine safety.

According to U.S. Coast Guard statistics, the greatest single cause of boating accidents is the "fault of the operator," and the most common operator fault is the overloading and improper loading of pleasure craft! Here's how not to get into the swim that often results.

1. When loading your boat, distribute the load—including passengers—evenly.

2. If your boat is small, don't let anyone stand up. Small craft can be very unstable even with just one person moving around. If moving is, for any reason, absolutely necessary—stop or slow the boat, keep low and move towards the craft's centerline.

3. Become thoroughly familiar with your boat's recommended weight capacities—in numbers of persons as well as number of pounds per person, motor, fuel and gear. Many manufacturers install a capacity plate showing these weights and, if your boat doesn't have one, get in touch with your craft's manufacturer for the vital statistics.

4. Follow the suggestion of the folks at Pepsi-Cola, who urge you not to throw litter overboard. Floating debris not only endangers the safety of your boat, passengers and marine life—it also diminishes the scenic beauty of your highway on the water. Take along a litter bag for soft drink empties and other disposables.

5. Be aware that the number of seats in a boat is not indicative of the number of passengers it can carry safely. Weather and sea conditions must be considered and, if adverse, the load should be reduced accordingly.

BEAUTY AND THE BLAZE

Where there's smoke, there's often a blaze, but the odds go down rapidly when draperies are bought with an eye to fire safety as well as beauty.

Dr. Irmagene Holloway, recently with the Consumer Education Office of Product Safety of the U.S. Department of Health, Education & Welfare, and now a safety consultant for Owens-Corning Fiberglas, thinks that the American homemaker will do just that, if she is acquainted with facts. Dr. Holloway was the first woman to be granted a doctor's degree in Safety Education; she has been interested in accident prevention ever since she had to spend quite a lot of time in the hospital as a result of one.
