Police Raid Linked to Girl's Death

Welfare Worker Fired Twice; Appeals

Welfare Board Accusations Are Unfounded

A Black Council Bluffs social welfare worker was fired from his job twice because of his alleged involvement with a white welfare recipient.

Jackson Graham's first firing came on Nov. 2 after a district court decree said Graham was involved with Mrs. Shirley Claycomb, a white divorcee who is a welfare recipient.

Graham, 47, also divorced, denied the accusation and appealed his dismissal by the Pottawattamie County Social Welfare Board to the Iowa Merit Commission. The commission ordered Graham reinstated on Dec. 16.

Fired Second Time

The Pottawattamie board fired Graham the second time on Dec. 24, again citing the district court decree plus a charge of interfering with the administration of justice which had been filed against Graham after he was originally fired.

The action was taken with the comment from an official of the board, "We'll try and get rid of him by any legal means possible."

Graham again appealed his dismissal to the Iowa Merit Commission in a public hearing, Jan. 14.

The commission has not yet made public, their decision concerning the second reinstatement of Graham.

During the hearing, the Pottawattamie board claimed that Graham's behavior was unbecoming a public servant.

Reaction to Firings

Graham's reaction to the two firings:

"It's a result of my involvement with the rights of the poor and welfare recipients."

The community is hostile toward welfare programs.

Fair Trial for Davis Demands NAACP

NEW YORK — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has called for "a fair trial for a young, black woman who admits to being a member of the Communist Party." — Angela Davis.

Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood, chairman of the NAACP Board of Directors, today released the text of a resolution on Miss Davis adopted at the Board's quarterly meeting here January 11.

The full text of that resolution follows:

"We are appalled at the obvious effort to deny the presumption of innocence and thereby convict Miss Angela Davis of murder long before the first witness has been called. We are deeply concerned that the American judicial system provide a fair trial for a young, black American woman who admits to being a member of the Communist Party."

"Our long history demonstrates that we do not share Miss Davis' adherence to that political group. Similarly, our program and platform show that we abhor with all other responsible Americans the misguided efforts of a few among us, ANGELA DAVIS

"Income is Up" NAACP Wilkins

NEW YORK — In his "State of the NAACP" address at the Association's annual meeting here, Jan. 11, Executive Director Roy Wilkins reported "good news about the 1970 financial picture of the NAACP."

"This year," he said, "we had a small surplus of $68,145.47, but in this business, in this particular year, any surplus is news. This year our total NAACP income was $1,540,196.01 and our expenses, $1,472,050.54. We spent about $45,000 less than in 1969."

"Branch officers and members should be very proud of the fact that in 1970 income from branches alone was $776,624.76 against $667,582.53 for 1969 . . .

"Parts of our program not related to lobbying for legislation or to purely partisan political activity are supported by the NAACP Special Contribution Fund, gifts to which are deductible for income tax purposes. In 1970, the S.C.F. received a total of $2,308,682.63. Of this, $793,830.39 was in restricted funds, earmarked for particular programs, and $1,514,852.24 was in general funds."

"On our 1970 membership total we were not to beat the Nixon unemployment figures, the general inflation and a 100 per cent increase in the annual basic membership fee. Even so, our total was about 40,000 members better than our estimate a year ago when we knew that inflation plus an increase in the fee would affect our total. The 1970 figure is 361,000, compared to 462,000 for 1969. Miss Lucille Black, secretary for membership, and her assistants, including Edward B. Muse, in charge of life memberships, and Theodore Meekins, deserve our thanks and commendations for an excellent job in the face of tremendous difficulties. With hard work in the face of growing unemployment we estimate full recovery in 1972, which President Nixon, no less, predicts will be 'a very good year.'"

Minority Pupil Population is On Decrease

Iowa's minority pupil population is small — in the 1970-71 school year totaling 13,742 or 2.07 per cent of the public school enrollment of 661,790.

Of these, 9,804 were Afro-American, 2,234 Spanish-surnamed, 721 American Indian, 680 Oriental, with 193 listed as "others."

The 22 largest school districts have enrolled 13,051 of the 13,742 pupils or five percent of their total enrollment. Districts with 100 or more minority pupils enrolled include:

Des Moines, 4,198; Cedar Rapids, 752; Davenport, 1,993; Waterloo, 2,572; Sioux City, 615; Council Bluffs, 387; Iowa City, 180; Burlington, 298; Fort Dodge, 303.

Also, Mason City 349; Clinton, 122; Muscatine, 234; West Des Moines, 138; Ames, 112; Fort Madison, 262; Keokuk, 169. This information was in the Fall 1970 Elementary and Secondary School Civil Rights Survey required under Title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Progressive is the By-Word For Oakridges Gladys Trumbo

GLADYS TRUMBO

MEET GLADYS TRUMBO... top notch employee... member of the Board of Directors for Homes of Oakridge... bowling enthusiast.

In 1966, when the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) designated Des Moines to be a base for Community Action Programs, Gladys Trumbo was one of the people who worked very diligently to start the wheels turning.

Earned GED in Oakridge

While serving as a member of the Polk County Community Action Council (forerunner of Greater Opportunities, Inc.), Gladys earned her General Education Development (GED) Certificate through High School Equivalency classes offered at Oakridge Opportunity Center, then located at 13th and Center Streets.

Gladys resigned from the action council to become clerk-typist for the Neighborhood Youth Corps for school-age teenagers. Beginning this job as a trainee in the federally funded Work Experience Program, set up, mainly, for mothers who were heads of households and receiving public assistance allotments. She made many progressive changes in that office and soon her name became a "by-word" to co-workers and youth involved with the NYC Program.

Many Programs Offered

Gladys' "rise through the ranks" was made possible through the many programs offered through the local community action agency and her determination to improve her skills. For instance, she started with pre-clerical training in classes at Woodland Opportunity Center, then located on High Street. She continued with advanced clerical training at Des Moines Technical High School Adult Education classes. It was during this period that she was promoted to Administrative

Secretary for NYC.

Mrs. Trumbo attended shorthand classes at Area XI, West Des Moines, and a refresher course in bookkeeping at Des Moines Community College in Ankeny.

She's Now With Tiny Tot

Last August, Gladys resigned her position at NYC to become Administrative Assistant for Tiny Tot Comprehensive Child Care, Inc. Now in charge of all fiscal operations.

In spite of a harried work load, Gladys finds time to serve as an active Director on the Board for Homes of Oakridge, where she also is a resident. She also serves as Treasurer of the Credit Union of the employees of Greater Opportunities, Inc.

An avid bowling fan, Gladys enjoys this sport as a regular on the "carpetbaggers," a team in the Walnut Hill Bowling League. In addition, she coaches for a Junior League on Saturday mornings.

If your bath mat's too heavy to dry quickly, try covering it with a used towel every time the kids take a bath, so it won't get soaked through. The towel is easier to dry -- and much easier to launder.

Don't get into the habit of chucking clean-but-soggy towels into the laundry just so you can keep the bathroom neat. Give each child his own towel bar fixed at kiddie height so he can spread his towel out to dry each time he's finished with it.

NAACP Reports

NEW YORK — In a wide-ranging review of the 1970 activities of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and of developments on the racial front generally, NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins, sounded an optimistic note.

He cited as highlights of the year Negro participation in the November elections; positive legislative action; the emergence of the NAACP-sponsored National Afro-American Builders, Inc.; the struggle against continuing Jim Crow in housing, employment and education; defense of black servicemen; and multiple programs carried out by local NAACP units throughout the nation.

Working within System

Reporting at the Association's 62nd annual meeting Jan. 11, Mr. Wilkins said that results of the elections revealed that "the overwhelming majority of Negro Americans have chosen to work within the framework of the American system. They have grievous complaints. Some of them are being harassed, persecuted and murdered because they fight for their rights with vigor, determination and skill in the courts, in protest demonstrations and at the ballot box."

Nevertheless, he said, "they are forging ahead. They used the election last November to signal that they have not withdrawn from the contest. They marshaled the voter strength and sentiment needed to reject the nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell in a campaign spearheaded by the NAACP with the aid of labor and other groups active in civil rights."

Secures Voting Rights

In addition to the defeat of Judge Carswell, the NAACP, with the skilled guidance of Washington Bureau Director Clarence Mitchell and the support of an expanding black electorate, was effective in securing a five-year extension of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 and enactment of a measure lowering the voting age to 18.

Landing the role of youth in the NAACP, Mr. Wilkins said, "has been a

"We know that nothing continues unless young people grow into replacements for adults. With an organized body this means youth carries on the program and the traditions. Without a youth section organizations die. The NAACP has had the largest youth department in the organized civil rights movement. A total of 55 youth groups was chartered in 1970."

"Under Mrs. June Shagalloff Alexander, education director, the NAACP conducted comprehensive programs in every section of the country against any and all types of discrimination in public education," Mr. Wilkins said.

Success of Builders

On the employment front, the NAACP leader hailed the success of the nationwide consortium of black builders conceived and initiated by Herbert Hill, the Association's labor director. "We can now report," he said, "that the NAACP is breaking the stranglehold of powerful banks and insurance companies, that have for generations refused to provide surety bonds for black builders... The total value of bonds secured for the affiliates of the NAACP-sponsored National Afro-American Builders, Inc., was $28,918,201. These surety bonds covered more than $878 million worth of construction."

The NAACP attack on restrictive zoning policies and practices in the suburbs, initiated by Housing Director William R. Morris, has begun to attract substantial support from outside sources, including Federal and state governments and national organizations and institutions.

The Association's legal department, the Wilkins report noted, "has been rebuilt by Nathaniel R. Jones, general counsel. There is a growing staff of lawyers, an augmented clerical force and, as usual, more cases than we have personnel or resources to handle. Cases on the significant and vital issues of school desegregation, housing, employment, and the general administration of justice, including our old adversary, police brutality, fill the time of the general counsel and his staff."

Pony Express To Ride Again

The Pony Express Riders of Iowa, a statewide organization whose motto is "We Ride That Crippled Children Can Walk," have announced their official "1971 Saddle Up" meeting in preparation of the annual event to take place April 9 and 10.

Horsemen and other interested individuals from throughout the Corn State will gather at Camp Sunnyside (Iowa's Crippled Children's Camp) in Des Moines, on Sunday, Jan. 24th, at 2:00 p.m. The meeting will be held in the Main Lodge where ride routes will be announced along with information pertaining to route chairmen, special events, time elements, etc.

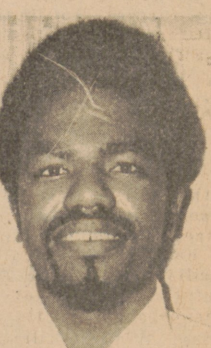

President of the organization, G. M. "Pete" Peters of Belmond, has announced the public is cordially invited to attend the issues and statement - "We sincerely hope that all Iowans, whether they be horsemen or not, will aid us in the 1971 Pony Express Ride For Crippled Children. Our goal is to see the smile in the eyes of a crippled child through the efforts of their fellowman. Join us on January 24th, at Camp Sunnyside, and become a part of this wonderful event to aid those less fortunate than ourselves."

Kitty D. Weston Named To Project Class

Miss Kitty Denise Weston has been appointed Administrative Assistant in the Drake University office of the Consortium of Higher Education for Special Students (Project CHES), Dr. Paul F. Sharp, President of the University, announced last week.

In her new post, Miss Weston will assist Charles E. Sims, Drake's Minorities Student Advisor, in his work as Director of Project CHES at Drake. For the last three months, she has been a counseling assistant in the project. The project is a federally funded cooperative agency among Drake, Grand View College, and the Des Moines Area Community College to provide educational and counseling services for their disadvantaged and physically handicapped students.

from Drake. While a student, she was active in the Drake/Black Afro-American Society, serving as secretary in the spring of 1968 and as a member of its executive board in 1968-69. She also was active in the Women's Recreation Association and Morehouse dormitory activities.

NAACP Moves For Rehearing of Voting Case

WASHINGTON — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has filed motions in the Supreme Court of the United States for a rehearing of the 18-year-old vote suit and for leave to intervene.

The motions, filed on Jan. 14, on behalf of Dawn P. German, 19, of Dallas, Tex., contend that under Article 1, Section 8, the Congress has the power to enact legislation lowering the voting age to 18 in state and local balloting as well as in Federal elections.

NAACP Files Brief

The NAACP raised this issue in a brief amicus filed in the original suit by the Association's department of military and veterans affairs. But the Supreme Court, in a decision handed down Dec. 21, 1970, ignored it and upheld the constitutionality of the act only as it applies to Federal elections.

The NAACP brief contends that under the "war powers" provisions of Article

I the Congress has authority to enact legislation covering voting rights at all levels of government.

Needs Warrant Power
"The national defense needs and conditions that exist in the nation can reasonably be held to warrant the exercise of congressional power to grant the vote to 18-year-olds," the Association maintained in its original brief amicus. The new brief cites cases in which the Supreme Court and lower Federal courts "have sanctioned Federal invasion of states rights in various ways under the national defense power."

In State of Oregon v. Mitchell the Attorney General refused to raise this issue and has since been unresponsive to an NAACP request to move for a rehearing of the case.

Consequently, the NAACP filed the present motions on behalf of Miss German. The motions and brief were filed by NAACP Attorneys Nathaniel R. Jones, Clarence Mitchell and J. Francis Pohlhaus.

"On balance, however, on the first opportunity of this Board to consider this matter we must warn the State of California that we shall watch closely its trial of Miss Davis and we invite the whole nation to do likewise."

grams and recipients." The catalyst for Graham's first firing was a supplemental decree issued in Mrs. Claycomb's divorce proceeding. Her divorce from Gerald Claycomb was granted on May 4, 1965.

Custody Award
Gerald Claycomb had petitioned the Pottawattamie County District Court for a modification of the divorce decree, asking for the custody of the two boys — Larry, 12, and Chris, 8.

Claycomb maintained that Mrs. Claycomb had given birth to an illegitimate child after the divorce and that she was having sex relations with Graham.

District Court Judge Harold Martin ordered Cliff Erickson, an investigator in the county attorney's office, to check into Graham's character.
At the State Merit Commission hearing on Dec. 3, Erickson testified that his investigation included questioning 11 of Graham's welfare cases.

No Indication Found
"I found nothing to indicate immorality on the part of Mr. Graham," Erickson testified.

Graham visited Mrs. Claycomb's home on numerous occasions which was beyond call of his duty as a social welfare caseworker.

The court ordered that both boys be awarded Mr. Claycomb.

The decree was presented to the Merit Employment Commission by the county welfare board as cause for the firing of Graham. Graham introduced his own witnesses and the commission found:

"Testimony indicated that Graham's relationship and association with Mrs. Claycomb in the decree action was due to their interest and involvement in civil rights rather than on an amorous or sensual basis."
Testimony showed that Graham and Mrs. Claycomb were both active in an organization called Social Concerns, Inc., formed to advance the rights and benefits of welfare recipients.

Lucky Leftovers Are Sauced With Canned Gravy

Why is it that leftovers are always associated with turned up noses and mediocre dishes? They certainly don't have to be. In fact, with an assist from canned gravy, you can flavor up leftovers and create fun and fancy treats.

Take a can of beef gravy, for instance, add to it 1/2 cup marmalade and you've made a luscious sauce for leftover meats. For quick company fare, top slices of ham with a combo of canned mushroom gravy and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard; or add crumbled bacon to canned chicken gilette gravy to make a snappy sauce for sliced chicken or turkey.
Try this fancy leftover idea: Combine leftover turkey with cooked shrimp, artichoke hearts, seasonings, and creamy golden, perfectly blended canned chicken gravy. Then spoon mixture into patty shells for an elegantly easy entrée.

Complete your luncheon with sliced orange and lettuce salad, with coffee and ice cream parfaits for dessert.

PARTY PATTY SHELLS

- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 teaspoon tarragon leaves, crushed
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) chicken gravy
- 1 1/2 cups cooked shrimp
- 1 1/2 cups cubed cooked turkey
- 1 package (9 ounces) frozen artichoke hearts, cooked and drained
- 8 patty shells

In saucepan cook onion, tarragon in butter until tender. Add remaining ingredients except patty shells. Heat, stir now and then. Serve in patty shells. Makes 8 servings.

Q. What color of personal stationery is in best taste?

A. You can never be wrong with plain white stationery, since this is correct for ANY kind of correspondence. Colored paper, for instance, should never be used for really formal correspondence, and this includes letters of condolence, appreciation, application for employment, and the acknowledgment of formal invitations.

Q. Who pays for the corsages worn by both mothers at a wedding?

A. While in some communities the bridegroom usually pays for both, it is usually customary for the husbands to buy these corsages worn by their wives.

Q. Is it ever permissible under any circumstances to use the knife to convey food to the mouth?

A. Never, NEVER! The knife is for cutting only.

Q. When a girl becomes engaged, is it proper for her to show her ring around to her friends, or should she wait for them to ask to see it?

A. Who can question a girl's happiness over her engagement, and her eagerness to display her ring? There is no question of propriety here.

Q. Does a divorcee mail out engraved invitations to her second wedding?

A. Definitely not. This should be an informal wedding with only relatives and close friends in attendance, and the invitations should be either in the form of handwritten notes from the bride herself or her mother, or if the guest list is small, by telephone.

Q. When mailing birthday greeting cards to women whom my husband knows only slightly, am I supposed to sign both our names, or just mine alone?

A. Since these are your own personal friends, you need not include your husband's name.

Q. Is there any polite way to rinse your fingers at the dinner table when there is no finger bowl provided?

A. It is permissible to tip the water glass against a corner of your napkin, and then wipe your fingers on this damp corner.

Q. Whenever I have especially enjoyed a date with a young man, would it be proper for me to invite him to call me again soon?

A. I think this would be a perfectly natural and proper thing to do.

IOWA ASSESSMENT
LAWS NEED REVISING

The city assessor in Des Moines had disclosed that 26.5 of the real property in Des Moines is exempt from taxes. The exemptions include federal, state, county and city property, religious and educational, veterans exemptions, all of which cover a lot of territory.

It seems preposterous that large income producing property, owned by schools and churches, pay no taxes and yet they enjoy the benefits of police and fire protection, street lighting and varied services that are paid for by other property.

Boston, Mass. has the largest percentage of exempt property — 50 per cent — of any city in America. Des Moines is comparable to the average city.

Here is a place where the legislators might well reform the assessment law as a means of lowering real estate taxes. At least, some of this valuable property should be required to pay for city services such as police and fire protection, lighting and other services. They are more able than the fellow who owns a small house.

In spite of a campaign against it, exempt property rises and even in spite of the great building being done, property taxes continue to rise.

GO MUST NOT CHAFE UNDER CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM

There is some apprehension among the staff of Greater Opportunities that a large share of the requested budget for the coming year will be deleted thus curtailing some of the operations being carried on.

GO is being scrutinized all over the country today in order to determine whether results attained justify the large expenditure of funds. Naturally, anything so far flung, and in this instance directed primarily, in some cases, by those many inexperienced for whose benefit it is operated, is bound to get into difficulty.

These scares may be a blessing because the operation has been rather loose and the programs carried on as the emergencies of a situation arise. Surely, an operation so large should have been well planned from the top, guidelines laid down with experienced people provided to help local people make it work.

The organization has done some good. It has provided jobs at headquarters for many who would never have been so employed otherwise. It has provided some classes that have produced trained employees in white collar areas, but little for the skilled trades where minorities are so sorely missing. Its tiny tot program has been excellent. Some of its programs have not been productive causing severe criticism even among some who are profiting by it.

Rather than sit idly by and complain that the agency is being persecuted, its staff should, with the assistance of outside citizens, study the things that have been criticized and work to correct them. It is the only way GO will survive.

CIRCUMVENTED STATE DEPARTMENT DIPLOMACY

Former Gov. Averell Harriman has been touring foreign capitals with Senator Muskie who is seeking the Democrat nomination for President.

Harriman has held many prominent positions including an ambassadorship to Russia.

During the course of an interview last week, he said the people of North Viet Nam wanted peace. Just how he could come up with such a conclusion in the light of what the North Viet Nam government is doing is hard to understand. In fact, it is an insult to the American peace delegation which has sat in Paris for the past two years without making a dent in bringing the war to a close.

Of course, Gov. Harriman seemingly was talking for Russia's benefit and a hint that America stands in the way of peace.

After all, we have a state department to carry on foreign affairs and an able delegation in Paris to negotiate.

Activities of the Iowa
Civil Rights Commission

We would like to take time out at this time of year to review some of the activities of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission.

One example of an outstanding case resolved by the Commission was the case of a black male who was hired as a sanitation trainee.

When he completed his training, he was denied employment even though there was a vacancy in the field for which he was qualified, and strangely enough with the same employer who trained him. He complained to the Commission that he was being discriminated against. An investigation by the Commission revealed a finding of discrimination. As a result, this man was hired, received back pay for the time lost, and remains to this day a permanent employee. One employee who was a supervisor, quit rather than work with a black. Where is he employed now? The State hired him. This case points out that you can't always wipe out bigotry, but you can keep it loose and moving so that it doesn't settle in.

An unusual complaint investigated by this Commission was the complaint of a black family returning from an out of state visit. This family stopped at a service station in a small Iowa town. They purchased gasoline and received automobile services, but when they requested to use their rest room facilities, these were denied.

The handling of this complaint by the Commission left a great deal to be desired. This family crossed the street to the Standard Service Station and used the rest room facilities. Standard must be okay, huh.

The Commission in the handling of this complaint, it was agreed that this station would open all of its facilities to the general public, and that it would not discriminate in the future.

We have visited this station several times in our many disguises and have been treated properly. Some improvement, we hope.

On June 13th and June 27th, the Iowa Civil Rights Commission held two educational conferences. One at Ames, and one at Iowa City. The purpose of these conferences was to make people aware of discrimination and the problems experienced in combating it. The conference was a success, but needless to say, the attendance was much less than desired.

The Commission has held a total of nine public hearings in the past year. The number is not large, and yet it is an improvement. Prior to this year, the Commission had only one public hearing, and it lost that.

While small, the number nine is significant in that it

It was quite a weekend. Drake hasn't gotten off to that big winning streak yet.

Right now, one game would be a big streak.

Iowa State continues to have troubles handling big men, and yet, we still think they will surprise a lot of teams.

Iowa U. can't get off the losing track in defense of their Big Ten title. They blow close ones, but they do blow them.

NORTH LOOKS GOOD

Here at home, North seems to be gradually showing to be the best of the lot. Maybe it is a little late, but the Polar Bears have an excellent chance to finish on top of the Metropolitan heap. Where they will wind up in the state meet is anybody's guess. The North siders got a big life from East last weekend.

Even though Hoover had a couple of key guys missing, the win by East had to be a good one. But, then East began to believe the stuff they read in the papers and got whopped by North.

But what really got our brain to working was a scholarly discussion in Sports Illustrated as to why black athletes seem to dominate such sports as football and basketball, as well as the sprints in track. It was quite a lengthy article and had

Court to Hear Ali

NEW YORK, N.Y.—The Supreme Court (Jan. 11) agreed to hear Muhammad Ali's appeal from his conviction and five-year sentence for refusal to submit to induction into the Armed Forces.

In its brief order granting certiorari, the court limited its consideration to the issue of whether Ali should have been granted a draft exemption because of his conscientious objection to participation in war. Had the court declined to hear the case, the heavyweight boxing championship fight between Ali and Joe Frazier scheduled for March would not have come off. Ali would have been in jail, serving out his sentence for draft evasion.

NAACP Handling Case
The NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. (LDF), which successfully brought suit to obtain Ali's license to fight in New York State, is also handling his present appeal to the Supreme Court.

Ali had originally applied for a draft exemption as a Black Muslim on the grounds that the teachings of the Lost Found Nation of Islam prevented him from participating in any war. At the recommendation of the Justice Department, however, an all-white draft board rejected his claim on the ground that Ali's Black Muslim beliefs were "political and racial" and thus did not qualify him for the statutory exemption.

facts by people who are supposed to know about those things.

One of the points that was considered significant was where the ancestors of the blacks came from in relation to parts of Africa. Then, when the name of a black fellow who went against their argument showed he was branded an exception. But we would guess that the writer of the article forgot a rather important fact. There aren't very many blacks in this country who can trace their ancestry back to Africa. Our theory as to why these blacks are outstanding in sports like basketball, football and maybe baseball and some track events differs a little. We subscribe to the theory of hungry athletes, because there are some hungry white boys too, and they battle like hell to make the grade, and often do.

Black Pros Are Best

But we would guess that most of the black athletes in professional competition are the cream of the crop. Mediocre white boys may slip through now and then, but not a mediocre black. If he isn't good, he may as well forget a pro contract.

And he may be good, but he may have trouble making the grade because of what may be called a poor attitude. That could be anything from refusing to be the butt of ill-humored jokes or pranks to standing up for what he thinks is right. Of course that doesn't play as big a part in the handling of blacks as it once did, but the idea is still there. It crops up in college whenever some coach of long tenure is faced with a black uprising.

Decision: Right of Wrong

So often the coach will select the fellows he considers to be in tune with him to return and kicks the rest of them off the team. But, as long as he does it himself, and accepts full responsibility, you have to respect his decision, whether you agree with it or not.

But to get back to the reasons why we are supposed to be faster runners or better players in some games than white boys, what do you think? We believe that as soon as a crop of white boys comes along who can hold their own with these super black athletes, the whole thing will promptly be forgotten as it was a few years ago. Then we were supposed to have longer legs and different shaped feet, though our feet had ten toes too. But when guys came along who beat us running sprints or jumping and such, nobody brought up the argument again until now.

Health for All

Beer isn't exactly a cure for mental illness. But, say some psychiatrists, it helps a lot.

Beer therapy—complete with checked tablecloths, nurse-waitresses, and TV—is a booming success for older patients at Boston State Hospital. But beers are limited to one each.

Mental hospitals are filled with geriatric patients who are too debilitated to tolerate tranquilizers and anti-depressants.

The Living End

THE LIVING END — Los Angeles Rams defensive end David Deacon Jones gives pointers to young Christopher Knight in the "Our Son, the Man" episode of Paramount's "The Brady Bunch," beaming Friday, January 22, 7:30 p.m. ET over ABC-TV. Deacon filmed his gueststarring role during a day off from practice with his team. Chris is an avid football fan and hopes to play ball in high school and college. Deacon soon will retire from pro ball and become an actor and singer.

agreed to consider Ali's appeal in light of its own recent decision that makes it clear that conscientious objector treatment cannot be denied because it is not based upon traditional religious beliefs. Thus, the court will decide whether the Selective Service System must treat Black Muslims who are conscientiously opposed to war on the same basis as registrants who belong to other faiths.

The decision may have significance for the treatment generally of Black Muslims in the eyes of the law, as well as for the many who have refused military service because of their beliefs.

SOCIAL SECURITY

QUESTION: Is it true if a person works 10 years (40 quarters) under social security he can draw maximum benefits at retirement?

ANSWER: No. Ten years work is the maximum amount of work to be "fully insured." (You can be "fully insured" with a less amount of work depending on your age.) However, having a fully-insured status means only that certain kinds of cash benefits may be payable—it does not determine the amount. The amount will depend on your "average" earnings.

The admission rate for psychiatric patients in the over-65 age group, in fact, is now twice that of all other age groups combined.

Dr. Ching-Piao Chien tested his beer therapy approach with 40 male patients averaging 73 years of age at the hospital. On all counts, the beer group did best — compared with others who got fruit punch plus assorted soothing drugs. The beer group showed marked relief from depression, less mental confusion, and better interpersonal relationships.

The congenial pub-like atmosphere helped, says Dr. Chien, but it was not the whole story. The psychosis of the aged, he says, is most often due to atherosclerosis, and alcohol tends to dilate the blood vessels and increase blood flow to the brain. Dr. Chien is so heartened by the results of beer therapy that he plans to make a daily beer ration available to any patient who wants it.

Beer is no cure-all for mental illness. But there is a very effective treatment for another disease that affects some old people, particularly poor ones—tuberculosis. A drug called isoniazid is used to treat active disease; the same drug can also prevent a tuberculous infection from developing into active disease.

For more information about all kinds of lung disease, check with your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. And to lift your sagging spirits—well, that's up to you.

QUESTION: I am a widow and receive benefits for myself and my three young children. I am going to remarry next month. Will my children keep getting benefits?

ANSWER: Yes, the children will continue to get their benefits. However, your entitlement to benefits will end.

QUESTION: How will I report my marriage?

ANSWER: Make a checkmark in the appropriate item on the reporting card that was given to you when you filed for social security and mail the card in. Or you may contact your nearest social security office.

QUESTION: I teach a social science class in high school. Whom do I contact to get pamphlets and other informational material?

ANSWER: You should contact the nearest social security district office servicing your area. Most Post Offices have posters displayed giving the address. Social security can also furnish films and speakers, in addition to pamphlets, bulletins, and posters.

QUESTION: Have social security benefits for widows been improving over the years?

ANSWER: Yes, benefits for widows have been improving. From 1939 to 1961, widows received 75 percent of their late husband's check. Now they get 82½ percent. In 1939, widows could start receiving benefits only at 65. In 1956, the age was lowered to 62, and in 1965 to 60 (with reduced benefits). In addition disabled widows 50 or over became eligible in 1968 to some social security benefits.

QUESTION: My father broke his right arm and cannot sign his social security check. What can he do?

ANSWER: If he places his endorsement by mark (X) and it is witnessed by two persons who can write, giving their places of residence in full, the check can be negotiated.

Earmuffs For Soldiers?

An investment of $6 per man could be saving the hearing ability of many U.S. soldiers undergoing combat training and would likely also save the government thousands of dollars in compensation payments for the hearing losses being sustained by these soldiers, according to the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation.

Sponsored by Beltone Electronics Corporation, world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments, the crusade is designed to make everyone aware of the hazards of noise pollution and of the steps each can take to protect his precious hearing ability.

The modest investment could furnish soldiers with protective earmuff devices similar to those worn by ground crews at commercial airports. These earmuffs effectively screen out the excessively loud noises of artillery, tanks and jet engines, while allowing the user to continue hearing normal sounds.

Hearing losses among troops in certain types of combat training are so common that more than three quarters of the men undergoing this training sustain measurable hearing losses. Unfortunately few soldiers are equipped with earmuff-type protective devices. Even use of Army-issue earplugs helps alleviate the situation, but many soldiers simply do not use them, substituting cigarette filters. When the filters are inserted into the ear canal they frequently are more comfortable to wear than the ear plugs.

Sound

At very high altitudes, air thins out to a point at which there are not enough particles to transmit sound. It is estimated that audible sounds are not heard at altitudes of 80 miles and higher.
