Nine Selected in Model Cities Election

Rev. Leon Sullivan Named
56th Spingarn Medalist

A record-breaking vote by the Model Cities Citizen Board, Saturday, presented nine candidates with posts in the Model Cities area, announced Marion Williams, election chairman.

Winning at-large posts on the 24-member board were Helen Lynch, 905 Laurel St., an employee of the Model Cities expanded use of school project; and David F. Pickett, 51, of 1120 Fourteenth Place, a contact representative of the Veterans Administration. Pickett polled 770 votes and Miss Lynch 753.

The third candidate, Stan Rowe, of 2312 Forest Ave., polled 408 votes.

The winners of the two youth-at-large posts were Arthur Higgins, 19, of 1106 Tenth St., an employee of the Des Moines Model Cities staff; and Charlene Smith, 17, of 1434 Sixteenth St., a junior at Technical High School studying computer programming. Higgins polled 740 votes and Miss Smith 738 votes to outdistance the two other candidates — Floyd Epton, 20, of 1615 Jefferson Ave., and Leonard Bradley, 14, of 1157 Thirteenth St., both write-in candidates.

The election drew 1,257 voters, the largest turnout ever in a Model Cities election, Williams said.

In addition to the two at-large and two youth-at-large candidates, one candidate was elected in each of the five even-numbered precincts.

Those elected were: Precinct 2 — Jesse F. Taylor, 45, of 1612 Lincoln Ave., an employee in the mailing room at Meredith Corporation, the only announced candidate.

Precinct 4 — James P. Mitchell, 46, of 1197 Fourteenth St., a mail handler for the U. S. Post Office.

Precinct 6 — Mrs. Mary E. Moore, 48, of 1407 Eleventh St., the incumbent.

Precinct 8 — Ralph Guisinger, the incumbent, who has worked with the Model Cities program since its inception.

Precinct 10 — Don Clouse, 34, of 306 College Ave., who is an employee in the tool and die department at Economy Forms, Inc.

Board members serve two-year staggered terms. Representatives from odd-numbered precincts, one adult candidate at-large and one youth at-large will stand for election next year.

The board also has eight members who are appointed by the mayor, most of whom live outside the Model Cities area.

Black Caucus Prepares For Nixon Meeting

WASHINGTON D. C. — Representative Charles C. Diggs Jr. was scheduled to meet Thursday with White House Assistant Clark MagGregor who is the Presidents liaison with the Black Caucus. The meeting is preliminary to the May 17 date set by the Caucus for a reply by President Nixon to the 61 demands which they presented to him on March 25.

These included specific recommendations for action in the areas of housing, employment, justice, welfare, crime and foreign policy. On Wednesday, Diggs, who is the chairman of the Black Caucus, and five others

'Black Odyssey' Seen On USS Independence

Crewmembers assigned to the USS INDEPENDENCE were recently afforded the opportunity to view the history of the black man portrayed on canvas.

The exhibit, called "Black Odyssey," was brought to the ship in Norfolk by its creator, George Norman, who served in the Navy during World War II as a musician.

Over 400 panels and dozens of paintings, sculptures and busts comprise the exhibit of black history from Biblical figures to the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.; from tribal art in Africa to its rediscovery in 20th Century cubism. Additionally, it features black soldiers and sailors who distinguished themselves in each of the country's succeeding wars.

The purpose of the exhibit is to show the role blacks have played in making the world what it is today.

NEWS In A Nutshell

IOWA CITY — A two-week Institute for Afro-American Culture has been announced at the University of Iowa to bring two of the three most influential 20th-century black writers in the U.S. to the campus to help discuss the third.

"Richard Wright: His Work, His World, and His Influence" is the theme of this third annual U of I institute, for which Ralph Ellison and James Baldwin have been invited to give talks.

NEW ORLEANS, LA — Students from Dillard University literally ran off with the national Readers Digest-Negro College Fund Creative Writing Contest. Of the 31 winners, nine, or almost one-third, were from Dillard, according to an announcement by Dr. Ulysses S. Saucedo, chairman of Dillard's Division of Humanities.

Program To Eliminate Wild Hemp

A two-pronged pilot program aimed at finding ways of eliminating wild hemp weed, or marijuana plants, from farmland was announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs of the Department of Justice is cooperating in the program, and will underwrite the $85,000 cost of the two efforts.

Ten states will be involved in a program of sharing with farmers the costs of eliminating the weed from non-cropland areas. Cost of this program is estimated at $68,000. The pilot program is being conducted to see how effective cost sharing might be in encouraging farmers to eliminate hemp weed on farms.

Champaign County, Ill., is being granted $17,000 to supplement its existing weed control program.

NEW YORK — The Rev. Dr. Leon H. Sullivan, spiritual leader, social activist and business pioneer, has been named to receive the 56th Spingarn Medal. Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, announced here today, May 11.

The coveted medal will be presented to the Philadelphia clergyman by Andrew Brimmer, a Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, at the 62nd NAACP Annual Convention in Minneapolis, July 6.

Pastor of the Zion Baptist Church in Philadelphia, Dr. Sullivan, in cooperation with other clergymen, organized a selective buying drive in 1962. The campaign leveled racial barriers in 24 of the city's major firms. To train ghetto workers for the new job opportunities he founded the Opportunities Industrialization Center. Last January he became the first black director of General Motors, the world's largest industrial corporation.

Dr. Sullivan is cited for "the inspiration and resourcefulness with which he transmuted the social gospel into economic progress for his people . . . his role in preparing his constituents to take advantage of the opportunities won by mobilizing their economic power for group advancement . . . and for the singular steadfastness with which he has melded religious leadership and social vision for the advancement of black folk."

Last year the medal was awarded to Jacob Lawrence, the distinguished artist. Earlier recipients include Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, Associate Justice Thurgood Marshall, Senator Edward W. Brooke, Jackie Robinson, Duke Ellington, Roy Wilkins and Clarence Mitchell.

The award was instituted in 1914 by the late J. E. Spingarn, then chairman of the NAACP Board of Directors, who, annually until his death in 1939, gave a gold medal to be awarded to a Negro American for distinguished achievement during the preceding year or years. Mr. Spingarn left a fund sufficient to continue the award "to perpetuate the lifelong interest of my brother, Arthur B. Spingarn, of my wife, Amy E. Spingarn, and of myself in the achievement of the American Negro."

Stabilization and Conservation Service, with assistance from the Extension Service, will administer the cost-sharing program in the pilot counties. Cooperative Extension Service will oversee the Champaign County project.

Both programs will get underway in the next few weeks to take advantage of the most effective control period — from early May until late July.

Counties in the pilot program will be Henderson, Ill.; Kosciusko, Ind.; Mitchell, Iowa; Marshall and Reno, Kan.; Jessamine, Ky.; Cass, Mich.; Meeker, Minn.; Andrew, Mo.; Moody, S. Dak.; and Walworth, Wis.

'Minority Enterprise Works'

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Despite the economic downturn and the apparent difficulties of "black capitalism" in other cities, this upstate New York city has demonstrated that large scale development of minority enterprise can work.

In the past three years, an economic development corporation backed by the city's major industries and financial institutions has assisted in the establishment of more than 80 minority-owned businesses. Furthermore, the vast majority of these businessmen have shown that they can stay in operation even in perilous economic times.

Enlarge Opportunities
Rochester Business Opportunities Corporation, established in 1968 as a community wide effort to enlarge opportunities for inner-city people, provides prospective black and Spanish-speaking businessmen with help in financing their enterprises and continuing assistance with technical, managerial and marketing problems.

At RBOC's recent annual meeting, W.R. Priester, the organization's general manager, reported the expansion of a program of follow-up assistance to the businesses during the last fiscal year. Priester also discussed increased efforts to find markets for the minority businesses within the general economy and his hopes that in the future RBOC will be able to assist in the formation of larger firms able to serve an even broader clientele.

$2.3 Million Capital
The present RBOC-assisted businesses are operating with capitalization totaling more than $2.3 million, largely arranged by the development corporation. RBOC lends some money from its own resources and arranges additional loans from banks and loan guarantees from the federal Small Business Administration.

Major corporations have researched some of the prospective business ventures, provided initial and continuing consulting services and serve as customers for the products and services of the inner-city firms. There are numerous examples of corporations and individuals sharing their professional experience and expertise with the new minority businessmen.

Priester says that it is vital for a community to have an organization such as RBOC to help blacks and other minority citizens own their own businesses.

"The battle in its broadest sense is not between minority groups and non-minority groups. It is between the 'haves' and the 'have nots'," he said. "The 'have nots' — many of them minority individuals — must not only have an opportunity to get a good education, decent housing and a worthwhile job but also have a chance to enjoy a piece of the economic action."

Appointment of Allen J. Meier, legislative director of the Iowa Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, to the Great Plains States Regional Manpower Advisory Committee was announced this week by Secretary of Labor J.D. Hodgson.

Meier, whose home is at 1831 Ellis St., Cedar Rapids, is one of two representatives of Organized Labor on the member panel from four states. The chairman is Dr. Henry H. Albers, University of Nebraska.

Regional Manpower Advisory Committees are appointed by the Secretary of Labor under authority of the Manpower Development and Training Act. They function as advisory bodies to the Regional Manpower Administrator of the Department of Labor and the Regional Director of Health, Education, and Welfare. Regional Committees serve as associate bodies of the National Manpower Advisory Committee.

Each includes representatives of labor, management, agriculture, education, training, and the public. They normally meet twice a year.

Judge Cited Navy's Race Strides, He's Come A Long Way, Too . . .

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS — Judge William Sylvester White, Jr., 56, exudes a grandfatherly air of outgoing familiarity in dealing with people. But his manner belies a stern, committed character befitting his job as presiding judge of the nation's oldest juvenile courts.

Cook County Juvenile Court — a bleak building complex on Chicago's southwest side — has been likened to a crowded airport terminal at holiday time. But any trace of a festive mood is lacking.

'Heartbreak Court'
Some people who work there have labeled it "heartbreak court." Judge White describes it as a kind of social clinic.

"We're in the business of treating people who are in trouble," he said. "We don't have all the answers for why these kids show up here but we try to make the best decisions possible to keep them from coming back."

The greatest impediment to the success of that philosophy Judge White concedes, is the ever rising workload of the courts. An estimated 25,000 youngsters will have been in the court in 1970 and the figure will be higher in years to come.

White, the second black to hold the presiding judgeship at juvenile court, volunteered for the assignment two years ago and he says he doesn't regret the decision.

"I asked for this assignment and I haven't lost my enthusiasm for it. I think I can do some good," he said.

White won a bachelor's degree from the University of Chicago and graduated from the University of Chicago Law School in 1937. He practiced law privately for the next two years and then served 16 years as an assistant attorney except for military service.

One Of First Black Officers
In 1943, White joined the Navy and the following year was one of the first 12 Negroes to be commissioned as officers in the history of the Navy.

Of his early Navy experience, he observed that: "I thought it was a little strange for all the Negroes to be put in one camp. I grew up in Chicago where there was some integration but even in the induction place all the Negroes ate in the basement, while the other recruits ate upstairs."

"The basement was nice but the whole idea of it was not really conducive to good morale."

He said he thought conditions soon began to change and offered as evidence the commissioning of blacks as officers as one sign.

White was discharged in 1946 as a lieutenant junior grade and returned to the U.S. attorney's office in Chicago.

Chicago Attorney
In 1955, he was hired by the Cook County state's attorney to work in the appeals section of that office. From 1957 to 1961 he worked for the city of Chicago as attorney for the department of investigation.

Former Illinois Governor Otto Kerner appointed White director of the state department registration and education in 1961, a position he held for three years until he ran successfully for Circuit Court judge.

New York Politics Rally For Evers

JACKSON, MISS.—Charles Evers—the first Negro to run for Governor of Mississippi—announced May 4 that political leaders and clubs from throughout the New York metropolitan area have agreed to conduct a massive volunteer operation to recruit skills, resources and funds for his historic campaign.

The announcement came at a press conference held at Freedom House, New York City. Attending the press conference were more than twenty political leaders in the greater New York area whose organizations are participating in the effort.

Under the aegis of a national committee now in formation, Mayor Evers noted, the New York political groups will provide professionals and technicians to train local Mississippians to conduct their own political organizing, canvassing, vote pulling, etc. The plan calls for clubs in the New York area to "adopt" a county in Mississippi and to mobilize teams of professionals to spend several weeks in Mississippi conducting the training, to follow-up periodically with technical assistance and to raise funds in their communities for the "adopted" county organizations in Mississippi.

"This is the first time," Mr. Evers said, "that a systematic effort is being made to bring political skills to the people of Mississippi. In the past, volunteers have come for short periods, worked energetically in a campaign, and left."

Besides the state-wide race for Governor, Mr. Evers said, "the principal objective of this campaign is to bring out 300 or more black candidates for a wide variety of local offices from sheriff and county supervisor to state legislature. Already over 150 have announced to run. We have between 15 and 25 counties with a Negro majority registered and we aim to elect a sizable proportion of black candidates next November. That will make Mississippi the leading state in terms of the number of blacks holding elective office," he vowed.

Of the twenty counties that have been accorded top priority in the campaign because of their heavy black voter registration, Evers noted, eleven had white registration totals in excess of 100 percent of the eligible vote and one — Sharkey County—had 333 percent of the white potential, according to figures provided by the Delta Ministry of the National Council of Churches.

Evers, who is mayor of Fayette, Miss., announced the appointment of Gilbert Jonas of New York City as National Coordinator of the committee which will recruit volunteers and aid from across the nation for the campaign. Jonas heads a

The complaint by Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson alleged the company discriminated between employees on the basis of sex by paying some of them at rates less than the rates at which it paid employees of the opposite sex.

The complaint said the employees performed equal work on jobs which require equal skill, effort, and responsibility, and which are performed under similar working conditions.

Paul A. Lynn, area director of the U.S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division at 210 Walnut Street, Des Moines, said the injunction sought would bar future violation of the Act, and require payment of back wages to those employees discriminated against.

For half a million young recipients of social security benefits the beginning of summer is a critical time. These are students, between 18 and 22, who must notify the Social Security Administration of their intention to return to school.

Howard Sladek, district manager of the Des Moines social security office says that failure to report their intentions to return to school in the fall may lead to a delay in receiving payments for the summer months.

Ordinarily, benefits to children of disabled, deceased, or retired workers stop at 18. But beneficiaries who continue their education in an accredited university, college, high school, or a vocational school approved or licensed by the State are eligible for monthly checks up to the age of 22.

For these students, benefit payments can continue during a vacation period of not more than 4 months if the student was a full-time student before the period started and intends to return to full-time attendance after the period ends.

By completing the Students Statement Regarding School Attendance form, normally sent to student beneficiaries about a month before the end of the school year, the student Saturday, May 8 the church dinner chairmen were Mr. and Mrs. King.

Union Baptist Church
Rev. L. J. Jordan is pastor of Union Baptist Church.

The Mothers Day sermon was delivered by Rev. C. I. Jordan on the subject of "A Good Mother."

Highlights of the message were: the proper dress for Christian mothers and daughters, who represent their mother's home training, stressing that hot pants are not the proper dress for Christians.

The generation gap was emphasized as a gulf between mother and daughter that should exist. Mother's shouldn't try to be in competition with their daughters. There is no equilibrium in mother-daughter or father-son relationships.

In his concluding words Rev. Jordan said a Christ, like a mother, sacrificed his all for the love of mankind. Christ returned to his disciples to assure them of his presence. One candidate was accepted for baptism.

The Crusaders will be in charge of the church field day at Island Park, May 15.

Erect Crosses At Jackson State
JACKSON, MISS. - Jackson State College students Monday night erected 12-foot wooden crosses on the sites where two young blacks were killed by police gunfire during disturbances on the campus a year ago.

The ceremonies opened a week-long memorial service that student leaders said would give the black community an opportunity to "reflect, so it won't happen again."

Approximately 500 students stood in a light rain to take part in the activities, which included the singing of spirituals and a candle-lighting ceremony.

ordinary voter who is the main reason for the election of so many black office holders, will have a chance to become involved.

The goal of the June 18 dinner is to raise a major portion of the $250,000 which has been estimated to carry on the program of the Caucus. This will include hiring staff, conducting research, holding local congressional hearings and creating an information instrument.

Comedians Bill Cosby and Dick Gregory and singers Billy Eckstine and Nancy Wilson are among the leading stars who will lend their talents for the occasion.

James Booker, a New York public relations consultant, who has been working with the Caucus, said that since the White House has been leaking news about its reply to the Black Caucus demands, he would turn the tables and "leak" the information that Stanley Scott, a New York reporter for CBS, is slated to join the staff of White House press director, Ron Ziegler.

Scott is the son of C. A. Scott, publisher of the Atlanta Daily World. On May 16 Diggs, Congressman William "Bill" Clay and Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm will be the guests on NBC's "Meet The Press."

YOUR professional hairdresser knows the answer...

Was haircoloring first done in Africa?

Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions...to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.

Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairol® Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.

Today black pride brings you closer to the cultural ways of your African heritage. Haircoloring is a part of black history too. Ask your professional hairdresser about changing your hair color with Miss Clairol...and be more beautiful than you already are.

Ft. Dodge Sears Named In Equal Pay Injunction

A injunction complaint alleging violation of the Equal Pay Act by Sears, Roebuck and Company at its Crossroads Center store at Ft. Dodge, Iowa, was on file today in U.S. District Court there.

The complaint by Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson alleged the company discriminated between employees on the basis of sex by paying some of them at rates less than the rates at which it paid employees of the opposite sex.

The complaint said the employees performed equal work on jobs which require equal skill, effort, and responsibility, and which are performed under similar working conditions.

Paul A. Lynn, area director of the U.S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division at 210 Walnut Street, Des Moines, said the injunction sought would bar future violation of the Act, and require payment of back wages to those employees discriminated against.

'A Critical Time For Young Social Security Recipients'

Howard Sladek, district manager of the Des Moines social security office says that failure to report their intentions to return to school in the fall may lead to a delay in receiving payments for the summer months.

Ordinarily, benefits to children of disabled, deceased, or retired workers stop at 18. But beneficiaries who continue their education in an accredited university, college, high school, or a vocational school approved or licensed by the State are eligible for monthly checks up to the age of 22.

For these students, benefit payments can continue during a vacation period of not more than 4 months if the student was a full-time student before the period started and intends to return to full-time attendance after the period ends.

By completing the Students Statement Regarding School Attendance form, normally sent to student beneficiaries about a month before the end of the school year, the student can ensure the continuance of his benefit payments during his vacation.

However, students who don't receive one of the forms by June 1 should contact their nearest social security office. If they fail to do so, their checks may be delayed.

A student's earnings from a job or self-employment may affect his benefit payments. The general rule is that a student can receive full benefit payments for all months of a year in which his earnings totaled $1680 or less. If he earns more than this, some benefits will be withheld.

more power to you

Electric power lawn tools are growing in popularity every year. People are finding it easier and easier to take care of their lawns with such pieces of equipment as the electric power mower and hedge trimmer.

If you are the proud owner of any electric power lawn tools, here are a couple of tips to keep in mind:

1. Be sure to familiarize yourself with the instructions before ever starting the machine.

2. Never operate equipment when the grass or hedges are wet.

3. Keep your feet and hands away from blades.

4. When finished, disconnect the cords and store equipment in a dry place.

IBM'S MARKETING REPRESENTATIVE, PRESTON LOVE, appearing opposite page 102 in Ebony was a pleasant surprise as I leafed through the May issue! The article featuring Love states he "is helping kids learn to use computers." This was accomplished by his development of a method by which many terminals may use a common computer simultaneously, thereby overcoming the inability of some schools to own a computer. The arrangement is termed "time-sharing".

"NEW KIND OF GAME: To make the children's work lively," says Preston, I suggested they play simulation games with the computer." Breaking up into groups, each group governs a country," continues Love. "And the computer gives them problems to solve, like depressions, pollutions, bumper crops. It's a fascinating way to learn about computers," he says "and typical of the kinds of problems I solve in my job as a Marketing Representative for IBM."

PRESTON LOVE IS ONE OF THE YOUNG EXECUTIVES whom NAACP President Dempsey Scott Harrison has drawn together to augment his imaginative leadership. Harrison, too, is an IBM man.

IBM IS A RECOGNIZED 'EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER', and employs approximately nineteen blacks in the City of Des Moines.

IT IS IBM'S TWO MEN, PRESTON LOVE AND JOE MILLER who are collaborating with the United Black Federation in the proposed IBM computer programming and key punch classes, according to information provided by Shirley Woods (Mrs. Edward C.) UBF's college Information Director.

SHEILA MANLEY (MRS. LEONARD) who so graciously helps me untangle stray bits of news from time to time was the source of one of the best stories I shall ever relay! I phoned her home only to learn that she was at Iowa Methodist Hospital! So the story she told was of the April 28 arrival of Julianne Louise Manley, a 9 lb. 9 1/2 oz., 20 in. little sister to join Jay 4 and Jennifer 2. Julianne's favorite lullabies will be crooned by popular songstress on the night club scene, Dora Mackay (her Auntie)!

MET EDDIE PACK, A YOUNG LOCAL ARTIST, whose work in all media is worthy of the interest of all art lovers! Eddie was delivering a lovely portrait of Claudette Drain. He tells me that his favorite model is Laureen Hall, college student. Pack is a handsome young man with an engaging smile. I asked if he were a local person, adding that I had not heard the name. "Pack". He smilingly informed me that there was a houseful of Packs on Eighth Street. Meeting Eddie led my husband and me to be most desirous of seeing more of his work and of meeting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Pack! Many University Avenue businesses display his commercial art.

ON WEDNESDAY EVENING BEFORE LEAVING THE OFFICE, I phoned my husband, who informed me of the tornado warning issued for 6 p.m. - 10 p.m. Hurrying home I noticed that Gemkraft, a favorite haunt of mine (also of Judge Luther T. Glanton) was still open. I had to park and enter. There Ken introduced Miss Diane Peterson a film maker of Iowa City, Iowa. She had just purchased one of Ken's loveliest creations - a ring set with multicolored in a petal-like, floral arrangement. Celebrating the successful closing of that day's work, Ken took us both to a taco dinner at a nearby eatery. Fully aware of the impending tornado, we dined merrily on delicious tacos covered with hot sauce!

Black Political Rise In Survey

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A recent nationwide survey by the Joint Center for Political Studies (JCPS) indicates continued increase in Blacks elected to public office in the United States.

Areas in which Blacks made significant gains during the past year were in the top municipal positions — mayor, vice mayor, councilman, and — or alderman.

Previous Study

A previous study, made by the Metropolitan Applied Research Center (MARC) in February, 1970, listed a total of 1,469 Blacks holding elective office in the United States.

According to the JCPS survey, there are presently 1,860 Black Elected Officials, an increase of 22 per cent since the 1970 survey. JCPS functions as a research, informational, and service program designed to provide technical assistance to Black Elected Officials.

Dr. Frank D. Reeves, Executive Director of JCPS, interpreted the new data and roster of Black Elected Officials as "evidence that Blacks are gaining clout more and more in the nation's electoral system."

Dr. Reeves, who also serves as a professor of law at Howard University, noted that in spite of recent gains, Black officeholders represent only three-tenths of 1 (one) per cent of the total of 522,000 elected officials in this country.

"The increases in Blacks elected to public office represent an encouraging and significant trend," Dr. Reeves said, "but Blacks still have a long way to go before they realize their full representation in government."

Increased From 48 To 81

Since the first survey, the number of Black mayors and vice mayors have increased from 48 to 81. Of these 81, 38 are located in ten southern states. There are 69 Black mayors and 12 vice mayors.

In the 11 states of the old confederate south, the broadening scope of Black political involvement is reflected in the increasing number of Blacks elected to public office in these states.

The February, 1970, survey listed 563 Black officeholders in the South. The current figure of 711 is an increase of 26 per cent.

South Carolina, during the past year, registered the largest and most dramatic increase of any southern state. The South Carolina total increased from 38 Black officeholders in February of

Black Teen Makes Mark On Environment

NEW YORK — An American teen found out anyone can do something about bettering her environment — even if she's living in faraway Taiwan.

Seventeen-year-old Vivienne Gordon — a resident of Taipei, Taiwan, where her father has been stationed over the past year with the Air Force — entered Seventeen Magazine's SAVE competition "to improve the environment in your community." and learned she could do much to ameliorate the conditions of a local leper colony.

Not only did her endeavors earn the Headquarters Support Activity Taiwan Navy Exchange teen board, which she represents, a $500 third prize in SAVE — an annual event open to some 565 teen boards in stores both here and abroad — but won Vivienne a four-day whirlwind trip to New York as well.

Highlight of her visit to the States was a special awards ceremony at the United Nations, where she and five other teen-agers were presented with their prizes by Ambassador George Bush, U.S. Representative to the UN.

USDA Proposes Changes In School Lunch Regulations

A proposed revision in National School Lunch Program regulations governing fund matching requirements for States has been issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The change would implement a provision of the child feeding amendments passed by the 91st Congress.

Those amendments require that appropriated state funds shall constitute a prescribed portion of program outlays. At present federal cash support, provided under Section 4 of the National School Lunch Act, must be matched on a 3 to 1 basis by funds from sources within the state. In some states this matching requirement has been met entirely by local funds and the amounts children pay for their lunches. Starting in the 1972 fiscal year 4 per cent of this matching amount will have to come from funds appropriated by the State legislature. In fiscal year 1974 the matching percentage will rise to 6 per cent, in fiscal 1976 to 8 per cent and in fiscal 1978 to 10 per cent.

States will be required to disburse these State funds insofar as practicable in the same proportions as other federal child feeding funds are disbursed to schools within the state.

Ford: Bring Us Together

Opportunities for black college students in business will keynote discussions as Ford Motor Company executives meet with students, faculty and administrators from Morgan State College in Baltimore, Md., April 28 to 30.

The campus visit is the first College Cluster Roundtable Program, a series of informal meetings and seminars which will bring together company management and members of the black academic community.

"In addition to telling the Morgan State College community about opportunities in industry, the purpose of this program is to acquaint them with our management, our ways of doing business and our place in the economic, social and public affairs realms," said Tillman Dozier, Ford educational affairs programs coordinator.

"We also want to learn what these students and instructors think about Ford and industry in general."

The executives and academicians will discuss the topic "Industry - Education: Relevance Today" in panel discussions, speeches and question-and-answer sessions. Specific seminars are titled "The Individual and the Corporation," "The Corporate Citizen," "The Product and Profit" and "Interviewing Skills and Communications."

The Ford Roundtable group

BACK TO THE CAMPUS — Three Ford Motor Company executives "hit the books" as they prepare to meet with students, faculty and administrators from Morgan State College in Baltimore, Md., April 28 to 30. Preparing for the campus visit are Robert L. Hart, (left), personnel planning specialist, Product Development Group; Leonard H. Isabelle, business management specialist, Ford Marketing Corporation, and Thomas B. Richardson, financial analyst, Finance Staff.

will consist of 10 executives from marketing, finance, labor relations, personnel and organization, product development and other staffs.

In addition to Morgan State College, Ford is assisting 13 other black colleges through equipment donations, scholarships, funding of special educational and career development projects, summer employment programs and lending resource consultants.

IN FM STEREO... Naturally.

You've got a new car. We've got a new car gasoline.

This year almost all the new cars have been designed to get top power and performance on gasoline made with no lead.

Most owner's manuals recommend lead-free, so we make a lead-free: Lead-Free Amoco.

Because it's made with no lead, there are no lead deposits to foul your spark plugs. And no corrosion caused by lead fluids to chew up the exhaust system. Both can last twice as long.

But that's not all. With no lead, there's no lead pollution to foul the air.

Your new car... our new car gasoline.

Keep Authority in the Right Perspective

Whenever emotional situations arise, misinformed people talk about and often some, who know better, broadcast conclusions that are not correct.

A case in point is the Angela Davis situation. They confuse the handling of the Lieut. Calley Case with that of Miss Davis.

They say President Nixon ordered the lieutenant out of confinement but not free to leave the barracks. His case involves army laws while that of Miss Davis involves the violation of state laws.

Thus, President Nixon has no authority to release or in any way enter her case. That is up to the state of California. He does have the last word in such cases as that of Miss Davis.

Reviewing a bit of history, during World War I, Negro soldiers of the 24th Infantry started a riot in Houston, Texas, in 1917 in the process of which several white people were killed. Acting on his authority as commander of the military district during war time, the commanding officer convened a court martial immediately which convicted many of these soldiers and condemned them to death. Several were hanged before the outside public knew what was going on.

Negroes and their friends protested to the then President Woodrow Wilson contending that these men were gaoled into starting the riot. President Wilson ordered the hangings stopped. Thereafter several soldiers were convicted and sentenced to various terms in prison in Leavenworth, Kansas. Some died in prison. Others were released eventually.

During the administration of President Theodore Roosevelt, the 25th Negro regiment rioted in Brownsville, Texas. The President discharged all of the participants without further proceedings. Several unsuccessful efforts were made headed by Senator Foraker of Ohio to reinstate them but without success.

The matter was closed and nobody was prosecuted.

In these cases the President did have jurisdiction and this should be kept in mind as the Angela Davis case proceeds and don't blame President Nixon for something he has no authority to do.

Helping Those Who Would Destroy Us

Protesting anti-war demonstrators gave the public an eye full of how not to champion a cause. They disrupted traffic and citizens going to and from work; they vowed to stop the normal conduct of government operation.

And in doing so, they refused to quit or move when officers requested them to. It was then that the protesters were arrested. If they submitted peacefully there was no trouble. Those that did not were dealt with using such force as was necessary to take them to jail.

While everybody wants the war stopped, those with sound judgment do not want the job done by illegal means. Nor do they wish to encourage those who would resort to such tactics.

The President and other federal and local authorities have commended the excellent manner in which guards, local and army, did their job. On the other hand, there are those who are critical of the conduct of these officers. Some are threatening legal action against them. They are those who use every opportunity to disrupt the orderly pursuit of our daily life making it difficult for everybody in these troubled times.

Unfortunately in every movement there is protest, nothing done in the past is right. These protesters are not the kind who will make such a contribution to the job of building a better world.

Some Officials Still Operate in the Past

When human rights and job discrimination commissions were getting under way, many public officials had an idea that they were pointed at business only, and that they still had the authority to carry on racial discrimination even though it was illegal at the time.

The welfare department and some other officers in Pottawattamie County evidently have not gotten over that notion for they have used their position to punish and fire a Negro employee, not because he was unable to do his job, but because of some social views he had which had nothing to do with the job but because of the narrow racial views.

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission entered the case at a rather late date and used all the tools available to this man which the law provides, but not used by him. Neither did the discharged worker handle his part of the proceedings with finesse knowing he was being hounded because of his racial views.

A hearing in Council Bluffs was stopped by a district judge by disqualifying the civil rights officers and the hearing officer from proceeding further partly because the county attorney complained that it was a costly and unnecessary expenditure of the tax payers money.

Just what the next step will be is problematical but we hope these Council Bluffs people will not be allowed to get away with their narrow administration of justice.

NEW ENGINES TO FIGHT POLLUTION

Car exhaust is the chief cause of air pollution in this country.

Now experiments are underway to supplant the internal combustion engine. Little battery-driven cars are one possibility. So are other car engines that run on the principle of the steam engine.

Experimental models of electric cars have been developed by two major American auto companies. A recent opinion poll shows that as many as 50 million Americans might be interested in buying an electric runabout, especially if the cost is under $2,000. At the moment, however, there are real disadvantages to the electric cars. They can travel only one hundred miles at a stretch. And they can go only 60 miles per hour.

When the batteries run down, they can be recharged overnight by plugging the car into an electrical outlet. And the electric car—which causes no air or noise pollution—can be useful for short trips within cities, where pollution is heavy.

Another kind of nonpolluting car will be mass produced by a Japanese company. The company expects to sell 100,000 of these cars in the United States by 1972. The engine works like a steam engine but uses a chemical called Freon, widely used as a cooling agent in refrigeration, instead of water.

The engine, the manufacturers claim, has almost pollution-free exhaust and emits less than one part per million of deadly carbon monoxide, compared to about 25,000 parts per million

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

AAU Meet

One of the surprises at the national AAU gymnastic meet, which was held in Cedar Rapids, was a black competitor. As we recall, he didn't make it to the final round of competition, but his presence was something to us.

There have been a couple of fellows that we knew who were interested in gymnastics, but that was about all that we ever knew. There must have been more, because of the countless black YMCA's around the country, but we just never saw them.

We are not sure, but we would guess that a fellow needs an early start to do any good in that sport. We missed a chance to meet Cleveland's John Johnson, former Iowa All-American basketball player.

Just can't be in more than one place at a time, and so we miss a few things.

Asche Loses Again

As we write this, we see where Arthur Asche has lost yet another match to those Australian professional tennis players. People ask us if he is slipping. Well, we might say that Arthur has his troubles.

One can't concentrate on tennis when one has to serve in the military, and take part in a number of other activities.

The trouble with most of our Americans in just about any sport is that we play it to the hilt for awhile, then we get involved in other things, like various business ventures and such, or social movements. Their mind is taken off the sport just enough to keep them from really concentrating on it. So they stand still in their ability.

So, the other fellows who live a particular game such as tennis come on and beat them more than they would if the Americans lived, slept and drank the game.

Local Example That happens in sports around town also. One can see fellows who are without a doubt the best there is in town at certain sports. Then they go to work, have families and get into other things. They become has been at an early age. Guess that's typical of America.

Iowa Football

One would have to say of Iowa's spring football game last week, "now, what?" The team is hard to really evaluate because the first team played the second team, and most of those games are usually no contests unless a coach happens to have a really good second team.

Most of us knew that Mitchell Holmes, and Penny would be tough behind a good line. We all think they will do all right no matter who the Hawks play, if they can get started.

There just wasn't any way to figure out the defense. You can be sure that the Hawkeyes will have a hustling team, but how much defense they will play is anybody's guess. But the boys are working hard and have that desire to win that they need to come up with a good season.

Last Year

But, shucks, they had a real desire to win last year. Maybe the new coach's philosophy will soak into the players, and they will come up spitting fire. How many games will the team win? Not even the coach knows that or has any idea, and I am sure I don't.

Iowa State

At Iowa State, they expect great things of Jerry Moses. Now, again, if he can get started, he may make some Cyclone fans mighty happy. This team probably gave onlookers a better preview than did Iowa U. They uncovered some good pass catchers, and some pretty good defensive linemen and backs, who may do pretty well in the Big Eight. But, then again, everybody else is going to be tougher too, so where do you go from there? But, no matter what one might think of the chances of Iowa's two major teams, it was a lovely day to both watch and play football.

Someday we are going to find a way to get from Des Moines to Iowa City via Cedar Rapids, in two hours flat, without landing in jail. Then, we shall see everything we want to see.

Basketball

There has got to be something wrong. This year's all league basketball team has the names of only Lew Alcindor and Dave Bing of Detroit.

The second team is an all brother team, take away Alcindor, and they might beat the first team. They might do it in a series of games, although we doubt if they would win the series. But, they might, they might!

into the boycott. They were instructed to go to work right away in light of the fact that a wide gap developed not only between the Black players and the coaching staff but also between the Black players and the white players. The statement most frequently published from the 29-page report is quoted: "The Committee concludes that racism in the Syracuse University Athletic Department is real, chronic, largely unintentional, and sustained and complicated unwittingly by many modes of behavior common in American athletics and long-standing at Syracuse University."

On this Vice Chancellor Jim G. Carleton, an ex-officio member of the Investigating committee, said: "The boycott has much farther reaching importance than just a violation of football practice. We have looked into campus prejudices for some time and unfortunately haven't done as much as we should have."

The story said that star running back Al Newton's involvement with the boycotters came as a shock to the Syracuse athletic department. "They thought I was going to talk players out of the boycott," he said. "Ben (Coach Schwartzwalder) tried to set me up as his 'boy'. He thought I wouldn't complain about racial discrimination because I had so much going for me. But I felt too strongly about the second class status we had in the athletic department."

Al was the leading ground gainer on the team and was in good position with backing from alumni and a big chance

VETERANS

Whatever your name is, when you write the Veterans Administration, be sure to include your full name, address and claim number, if you have one. It will speed up VA's response to your inquiry.

And, there's good reason for this advice from the VA because VA's master index file of 34 million names contains many duplicates.

The VA name file, one of the largest in the Federal Government, also contains such unusual names as "Love - n - Kisses Love."

If you're a racing fan try these — Christopher Runs Above, Clarence Everett Runs After and Gene Runs Close.

The normal name is spoken in about three seconds. If you have 10 seconds, the VA's computers flash this one — Samuel Kauionaleinaniokauakukalahale Kupihea. And, if you want another challenge, try "Lleiuisszuieusszszzes Hurriszsiszeizzi."

With Christmas bearing down on us in about seven months, you may want to get into the spirit of it as VA's file includes the "Claus Family" 950 times and the "Noel Family" 2,300 times. Also in this massive index are such names as Choice Christmas, G. I. Christmas, Nick Christmas and Saint Christmas.

Still the most popular of all names is Smith — 315,400 of them. Johnson appears 215,440 times; Williams 159,160; Jones 150,520; and Brown 149,000.

And, there are many other notable names in this file system. There are 1,800 named Robert E. Lee; 47 named Ulysses S. Grant, and 600 named George Washington.

Which all goes to prove that the VA, like more other Federal agencies, needs as much identifying information as possible to help speed the answers to inquiries.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q — I am a Vietnam serviceman hospitalized pending discharge. I recently applied for vocational rehabilitation, and understand I will be rated for service-connected disabilities by the Veterans Administration before I am discharged. Will this rating set the one-year period that I will have to apply for service-disabled veterans' insurance?

A — No. The one year allowed for applying for service-disabled veterans insurance begins with the date of the first notice of disability rating sent to you by the VA after discharge.

Q — Are there any income and credit requirements a veteran must meet in obtaining a Veterans Administration loan for a mobile home?

A — No, there is no set income requirement. The terms of repayment of the loan, however, must bear a proper relationship to the veteran's or serviceman's present and anticipated income and expenses, and he must be satisfactory credit risk.

Q — May a veteran who is receiving compensation from the Veterans Administration arrange to pay a policy loan on his National Service Life Insurance out of this monthly benefit?

A — Yes. It is a most convenient and relatively painless way to accomplish this repayment. VA Form 29-888, Insurance Deduction Authorization, available from any VA office, should be completed and sent to the office which has your insurance records.

Can you sing or perform? Volunteer to entertain at the hospital. (If you're shy, start with a small group in the children's ward.)

Syracuse Football Boycott Was Battle For 'Manhood'

Black athletes who boycotted the Syracuse University football team last fall, amidst charges of racial discrimination, said that recognizing their manhood was far more important than football or a college education.

"There's no choice between economics and my manhood," Greg Allen a wingback - tailback, told writer Eric Douglas in the June edition of BLACK SPORTS Magazine, which hits the newsstands in early May.

In a story titled "Manhood in Syracuse," the case of 10 Black players removed from University gridiron activities was further explored with person - to - person interviews, meetings with their friends, fellow students, wives and with a leading school official.

"I'll be rich with pride that I made a stand for what I know is right," said line backer John Logan. "I can't base my life on the dollar. My life style is based on pride — Black pride." Running back John Godbolt echoed his teammates' chant: "I must be treated as a man, first."

Most of the complaints and charges leveled in the Syracuse Crisis were directed at head football coach Ben Schwartzwalder and his coaching staff. The players said they talked about the racial situation as early as 1968, but all their pleas fell on deaf ears.

One of the most serious charges voiced by the boycotting Black players was leveled against the medical treatment and team physician. They had petitioned the white players to go along with them about inferior medical attention given the team, but the whites refused, the story said. There was talk about Ron Womack, who was cut from the team for being "mentally disturbed."

Ron, was reportedly one of the team's strongest players ("He could break a helmet with a forearm like it was nothing," they said), had been an epileptic prior to coming to Syracuse, but hadn't had an attack for five years.

"When Ron started speaking up against the conditions we were forced to play under," remarked D. J. Harrell, a wingback, "the medical department, under orders from the coaching staff, reduced his dosage of medicine under the pretense that it would make him peppier and would not be harmful. Womack's condition worsened until he was released from the team. There's nothing wrong with him now."

Jim Brown, the super great running back, took time from his movie making, at the request of the strikers, to make it up to Syracuse. While Brown softened the approach of the Blacks to a point where they were ready to compromise, he was met with a cold reception at the Field House, where Schwartzwalder's office is located, the magazine said.

Dr. John E. Corbally, chancellor of Syracuse University, appointed a committee, composed of students, faculty, trustees, and administration, to look
