Rights Comm. Seeks Firing In GO, Inc.

Reinstatement and Back Pay Sought For Woman

The Iowa Civil Rights Commission has asked for the firing of two Greater Opportunities, Inc. employees and the reinstatement of a third.

The commission asked that Mrs. Joyce Maskrey receive compensatory back pay and be placed on six months' probation. Mrs. Maskrey was receiving $11,354 a year as training officer for GO.

The commission also recommended to the Board of Supervisors, the dismissal of Alfred Brown, director of GO, and Charles E. Harvey, co-ordinator of research, planning and training. Brown receives $16,974 a year and Harvey $11,803.

Mrs. Maskrey was first suspended from her job for several days for allegedly lobbying. This is a violation of Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) regulations.

She charged, informed sources said, that she was discriminated against on the basis of sex.

Brown was suspended five months after he was hired over his actual having a master's degree as stated in his application.

The Civil Rights Commission has asked that a new director be hired from outside the GO organization rather than Robert Jackson, deputy GO director being promoted to the director's position.

Bystander Editor Presents Documents At Guard Chapel

The newly completed Chapel of the Iowa National Guard at Camp Dodge was dedicated Monday. Army Chaplain, Major General Francis Sampson, a former resident of Cherokee, Iowa, gave the principle address on the lawn near the Chapel.

Governor Robert Ray received the building from the architects in behalf of the people of Iowa.

Brig. General Joseph G. Flatt presided. Music was furnished by the Thirty-fourth Division Band from Fairfield, Iowa.

Guns and ammunition used in all wars along with documents authorizing the Chapel and other war memoirs comprised the collection on display in the Chapel.

In the course of his speech Governor Ray announced that at the suggestion of the Major General Joseph G. May, Adjutant General of the Iowa National Guard, a copy of the order commending the 366 Infantry Regiment issued by the late Brig. General Billie Mitchell on their return voyage home on the Steamship Aquitania in January 1919, would be placed among the documents in the museum.

The 366th Infantry composed of about 3600 Negro men was stationed at Camp Dodge from November 1917 to June 1, 1918. James B. Morris, a lieutenant in the regiment, presented the documents.

'Reign Of Terror' Must End: NAACP

NEW YORK — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has called upon the Department of Justice to "remain actively on the scene in Drew, Miss.," where Joetta Collier, 18-year-old Negro high school graduate, was shot down in cold blood within hours after commencement, on May 25. Three white men have been arrested and charged with the murder.

In a telegram to Attorney General John N. Mitchell, NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins cited two other recent killings of black citizens by white men in that section of Mississippi and warned that "There is no predicting what will happen if the Negro population regards itself as abandoned with only its own resources for protection from unrestrained murderous assault."

Meanwhile, Aaron Henry, president of the Mississippi State NAACP, sent telegrams to President Nixon and to the attorney general urging them to use their influence "to halt this reign of terror before the black community feels compelled to retaliate against the whites who commit these crimes." Mr. Henry named as the two male victims Edgar Higganbottom of Ecu and Eddie McClinton of Sumner.

The full text of Mr. Wilkins' telegram follows:

National Association for the Advancement of Colored People urges most strongly that agents of the Department of Justice and of the Federal Bureau of Investigation remain actively on the scene in Drew, Mississippi. Black citizens of Drew cannot appeal to their Governor, their Senators or their Representatives in Congress in the wanton murder of a Negro girl high school graduate by gunshot from an automobile occupied by white men. Tensions between the races would be strained to the breaking point if the Federal Government should fail to make a visible and continuously active appearance in the present tragic circumstance. The additional charge that two recent killings of black citizens by whites in that area are part of the terror designed to wipe out the voter registration and political participation of Negroes must be a concern of the Justice Department since this intimidation seeks to nullify the Voting Rights Act of 1965. There is no predicting what will happen if the Negro population regards itself as abandoned with only its own resources for protection from unrestrained murderous assaults.

At the same session, Dr. Malcolm Moos, president of the University of Minnesota, Mr. Wilkins' alma mater, will bring greetings to the convention.

For the second time, a commerce and industry show will run concurrently with the convention. This exhibition will be open to the general public and will feature displays by more than 200 businesses and government agencies. The center of the exhibition area will be

Late Rights Leader Gets Degree

For the first time in its 217-year history, Columbia University awarded an honorary degree posthumously — to the late civil rights leader Whitney Young Jr.

His honorary Doctor of Laws degree will be accepted by his widow, Mrs. Young will join composer Aaron Copland, artist Georgia O'Keeffe, ecologist Russell Train and eleven other honorary degree recipients in the University's 217th commencement exercises.

Traditionally, a Columbia honorary degree may not be awarded in absentia. The recipient must be present or the degree cannot be conferred. Today's break from tradition was made "to help us express our appreciation of the fundamental role Mr. Young played in changing and improving American life," said Dr. William J. McGill, president of Columbia.

On March 1, Dr. McGill had written to Mr. Young inviting him to accept an honorary degree. Mr. Young, who was executive director of the National Urban League, replied March 8, the day before he died in Nigeria. His letter to Dr. McGill said, in part: "I am honored to have been selected to receive a degree. . . It is a pleasure to assure you that it will be possible for me to be present."

Davis Directed to Determine Need for Busing Co-Ordinator

Des Moines' voluntary busing program, which started three years ago, will continue and expand for elementary and junior high school students next fall, the Des Moines School Board decided Thursday, May 27.

Supt. Dwight Davis was directed to determine the possibility of hiring a full-time co-ordinator for the busing program, to work with parents, teachers and students.

Association With Other Students

The program enables students to associate with other youngsters from different cultural and racial backgrounds. Merle F. Schlamp, board president, noted that tests have shown no significant differences academically or in the attitudes of the students who participated in the program.

Although a few white students are bused to predominantly black schools, the majority of the program's 360 participants this year are black children who are bused to predominantly white schools.

The anticipated cost for the program next year is $250,000; since its inception, however, the busing program has cost the district $1 million.

Supt. Davis felt that the relationships between the elementary students was heartening but recommended on May 18, that the board discontinue the junior high busing program.

He did, however, change his mind Thursday and recommended the continuation of both programs on the condition that black sixth-graders currently being bused, be allowed to attend the junior high school next year that their white elementary classmates will attend.

3 Schools Not Eligible

Under Davis' plan, three predominantly black schools, Irving, Hiatt and Callanan, will not be eligible to receive black students because of the present enrollments.

The current enrollment for Irving, Hiatt and Callanan for blacks is 61.7 per cent, 28.2 per cent, and 23.5 per cent, respectively.

The school board ok'd Davis' recommendation by a 5-0 vote with Ora Niffenegger abstaining.

Norden Gentry, Mrs. Jack Spevak, Dr. George Caudill, Mrs. Kate Goldman and Merle F. Schlamp voted for the recommendation.

Niffenegger contended that the program would not eliminate de facto segregation and was only "mere tokenism."

Gentry, Mrs. Spevak and Mrs. Goldman agreed that efforts to eliminate racial imbalances should be speeded up.

To eliminate some problems and misconceptions that arise when children from different cultural and racial backgrounds are mixed in school for the first time, Gentry suggested that school officials put more of a "human aspect" into the busing program.

League Warns Of City Unemployment

The board of trustees of the National Urban League, meeting in New York in May, sounded a serious "unemployment alert" in the major urban centers of the country this summer.

James A. Linen, president, and Harold R. Sims, acting executive director, in referring to the unanimous and strong warning of the board, stated that conditions in our cities are at an all-time danger level.

"A full year of an increasingly depressed economy has resulted in the highest level of unemployment in seven years, and the first increase in the number of poor people in over a decade," that statement said.

"With the closing of schools and the concomitant lack of jobs, the unemployment of all teenagers 16-19 will be at the awesome level of about 20 per cent. Reflecting the Black community crisis, Black teenage unemployment rate could reach over 40 per cent," the statement added.

Linen urged the pulling together of community, industrial, governmental and economic forces, including the ones used in the past but with additional resources thrown against this serious problem in order to meet it effectively. The Federal government, he said, should take special, unusual steps to appropriate adequate funds to deal with the problem. He expressed fear that without genuinely responsive measures a critical mass situation will develop during the coming hot summer.

Emergency employment legislation approved by the Senate and now being considered by the House would only provide for 150,000 jobs in the public sector sometime after July 1, and thus would not answer the critical employment problems in the major urban centers, Mr. Linen said.

Navy to Announce New Opportunities For Black Men

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — New opportunities for blacks in the U. S. Navy will be announced at the 31st annual convention of the National Newspaper Publishers Association, June 16-19 in Atlanta, John H. Sengstacke, president, said last week.

The Navy announcement will be made by Admiral Elmo R. Zumwalt, Jr., Chief of Naval Operations, who will address the convention during a luncheon on June 17. This occasion will be used, a Navy spokesman said, to reach a wide audience.

"Signs of increased new opportunities for blacks in the Navy are already appearing," said Mr. Sengstacke, publisher of the Chicago Daily Defender and other newspapers. As an example, he pointed to the promotion of Captain Samuel Gravelly, Jr., to Admiral, "but," he added, "much, much more remains to be done."

Other features of the convention will be discussions of the goals of the "Black Caucus" by Congressmen William L. Clay, Charles C. Diggs, Jr., and Ralph H. Metcalfe; civil rights by Roy Wilkins, Ralph D. Abernathy of SCLC, and Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president-emeritus of Morehouse College; unemployment by Assistant Secretary of Labor Arthur Fletcher; OIC Founder and Chairman Leon H. Sullivan, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Chairman William H. Brown, III; and Mrs. Elizabeth D. Koontz, Director of the Women's Bureau.

Herbert G. Klein, White House Communications Director, will review "The White House and the Black Press." Other speakers will be Mayor Sam Massell and Vice-Mayor Maynard H. Jackson of Atlanta; Dr. Vivian W. Henderson, president of Clark College; Benjamin H. Holman, Director of Community Relations Service; and Harold R. Sims, Acting Executive Director of the National Urban League.

Also in depth discussion of advertising will be led by the heads of such agencies as Leo Burnett, Foote, Cone and Belding, and McCann-Erickson.

Climaxing the convention will be the presentation of the "NNPA Award" to Mayor Carl B. Stokes of Cleveland; and $1,000 "Merit Awards" to the top achieving newspapers and their staffs. These will be presented by such donor companies as: Brown & Williamson Tobacco Co., Carnation Milk, Coca-Cola, General Electric, Gulf, Humble, Pepsi-Cola, Philip Morris, and Sears, Roebuck.

George Mercer, a Black U. S. Postal Service visual information specialist, has designed a postage revalued symbol. Through the use of the design, the USPS continued selling two popular pre-stamped envelopes when new postage rates went into effect on May 16.

The revalued symbol will be printed in green on two 6-cent stamped envelopes which sold for 8-cents. They are the embossed Statue of Liberty envelope and the White House Conference of Youth commemorative envelope.

Committee to Aid Evers Is Formed

Sixty-three prominent Americans, headed by Mrs. Medger Evers and Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., have formed a national committee to aid Charles Evers in his bid to become governor of Mississippi. It was announced by the committee's national coordinator, Gilbert Jonas.

Known as the National Committee to Elect Charles Evers Governor of Mississippi, the ad hoc group's co-chairmen are Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts and Bishop Stephen Gill Spottswood, board chairman of the NAACP and a leader of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church.

Headquarters in NYC The committee has headquarters in New York City.

"We hope, with this group, to recruit skilled volunteers, funds and lawyers for the state-wide campaign in Mississippi this fall," Mr. Jonas said, in making the announcement.

"Under the Committee's auspices, we have asked political clubs in the North and West to organize teams of experienced political technicians — about five to seven per team — who will be assigned a county in Mississippi with which to work in training local Mississippians to set up their own continuing political organization," he noted.

"Finally, the National Committee has set up a Lawyer's Committee, headed by former JFK aide Ted Sorensen, former NAACP General Counsel Robert Carter, former U.S. Assistant Attorney General John Doar and civil rights attorney Joseph Rauh, Jr. to recruit lawyers to act as observers on November 2nd," he added. "These out-of-state lawyers will help us to assure that the ballot casting and counting is fair and to minimize irregularities which in the past have denied black candidates victory," he observed.

Whites-Blacks Start NAACP; Blacks Most Powerful Tool

By Marshall G. Hood
Copy Editor

DES MOINES — A national civil rights organization initiated by white people is the Negroes' most powerful tool in the struggle for civil rights.

In Iowa, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People celebrated its 56th birthday this year — having been initiated in 1915.

Problem Reflective Of Country

Robert Wright, director here of Region IV, of which Iowa is a part, sees the problems of Negroes in Iowa cities reflective of the problems of Negroes in the entire country.

"The same old pattern of discrimination, which is practiced in this country, is practiced in Iowa," explained Wright.

With a total population of two million people in Iowa, 27,000 or one per cent are black. Ninety-five per cent of Iowa's Negro population lives in Des Moines, Waterloo, Davenport, Cedar Rapids, and Sioux City. Of this, forty per cent reside in Des Moines.

Through the efforts of the local Iowa branches, the fight against segregation and discrimination and the fight for educational opportunities and political rights have been carried forward.

Local branches are in Waterloo, Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Council Bluffs, Davenport, Des Moines, Ft. Madison, Keokuk, Marshalltown, Mason City, Ottumwa and Sioux City.

Cutting the hair does not make it grow faster, but it makes it grow costlier.

Each branch has a president to coordinate the activities of the branch. Most cases handled by the branches deal with an attempt to eradicate segregation.

Thwarting Discrimination The Iowa NAACP, as part of one of the seven national regions, exerts much energy, as do the regions, in the direction of thwarting discrimination in employment, housing and education.

Previous to 1968, there were no Negroes in the trade unions of Iowa. There were some in apprenticeship programs, however.

The Iowa State Employment Securities Commission has been a thorn in the side of the NAACP because of its previous failure to direct potential black job seekers to various jobs, Wright said, adding that the U.S. Department of Labor was requested last year by the NAACP to investigate the commission actions.

"Housing is our last frontier," explained Wright. Apartment renting is a major problem, according to Wright, for out of 20 apartments advertised, 17 usually will not be rented to blacks because of race discrimination.

The Iowa NAACP has sought prosecution in several cases of violations of the state Civil Rights Act, securing convictions in restaurant and tavern cases in Des Moines, Davenport and elsewhere. Discrimination in public accommodations is not as prominent as it was; and is usually exhibited by slow or sloppy service for Negro customers, Wright said.

Legal Redress Councils

The NAACP is in the process of establishing regional legal redress councils to handle the barrage of court battles. Attorney Thomas Kelly Jr. of Davenport, coordinates legal activities. Kelly also is president of Region IV which includes Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Minnesota, Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado, Montana and South Dakota.

Although Director Wright did not recall any incidents of lynchings in Iowa, he feels few people realize that more than 3 million Negroes were murdered or lynched at the "ruthless hands" of The Ku Klux Klan Parade of 1928, in which judges and police participated, came to his mind.

The local Des Moines branch was faced with a unique case in the fall of 1947. A Negro woman, mistaken for white by two Des Moines policemen because of her fair complexion, had been arrested while walking on a downtown street with a Negro man. She was charged with disorderly conduct. She sued for damages and for the first time in 40 years a discrimination case was taken before the Iowa Supreme Court, which upheld the verdict of the Polk County District Court awarding the plaintiff $650 damages.

120,000 Youths Register Thru Nation

NEW YORK — In a Vote-18 registration campaign, the Youth and College Division of the NAACP registered 120,000 young people across the nation. Announcement of the results was made here this week by James Brown, Jr., the Association's youth director.

Mr. Brown reported that information from the United States Youth Council indicated the NAACP registration campaign to be the most productive youth-oriented program to date.

"Although our national registration campaign officially has ended," Mr. Brown said, "we are encouraging our youth units to continue voter registration and education efforts." He also urged units in states which have not ratified the Vote-18 Amendment to the Constitution to seek to persuade their states to do so promptly. Before the amendment becomes law, 12 more states must ratify it.

In the voter registration effort, campaigns were conducted in 67 cities. Those with the largest number of new voters were Philadelphia with 31,817 and Greensboro, N.C., with 10,285.

Corinthian Breaks Ground For New Church

Rev. F. W. Strickland lifts a spade of dirt Sunday afternoon, May 30, at the ground breaking for the new Corinthian Baptist Church as W. Lawrence Oliver, who presided, looks on. At right is a portion of members and friends who attended.

The program began as the choir lead in singing as the congregation marched from the church to the south side of the building where the program was held. Greetings were extended by John Murray, executive assistant of Gov. Robert Ray. Rev. John Donovan, executive minister of the Des Moines Area Council of Churches and Rev. Harry Coulter, Regional Minister of the American Baptist Convention, Rev. George Parrish, president of the Iowa Baptist State Convention gave the benediction.

1971 GRADUATES OF VARIOUS SCHOOLS ARE AGAIN urged to send their pictures and stories to the Iowa Bystander for publication in our June Tenth Anniversary Edition! If relatives and friends can be of assistance to graduates, this would be very welcome, also. Deadline is next Monday noon, June 7! Hurry! Hurry!

MANALA HENDRED, A 1971 GRADUATE OF IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY, generously responded to my urgings that she give us a picture and story of the completion of her college career! Her plans at the time were that she would be teaching in the Urbandale School System this Fall. The latest word, however, is that she is now teaching at Urbandale's Elementary School! Another lovely lass, escorted by the stork, stepped down from her teaching post, thereby making room for our Manala! Congratulations and best wishes in your blossoming career!

SEEING TUUM BOSIAKO AGAIN OVER THE WEEKEND was a pleasure! Tuum graduated May 15 from the Open Bible College. He has considered obtaining a Master Degree which would prepare him for the role of educator, and a Doctor of Divinity would prepare him to teach on the college level. Bosiako prefers, however, to return to Kumasi, Ghana, and study ministry. He is eager to enter the ministry! He has wonderful plans and is making every effort to hasten the day when they reach fulfillment.

WITH TUUM WAS MATHEW ABRAHAM, of Ranny,

Kerala, India. A fine young man, and meeting him was most enjoyable. Particularly, when he shared pictures of his lovely wife, Mercy Mathew, and eighteen month old son, Jennings — so named by a missionary. Mathew, too, is enrolled at The Open Bible College. He has completed a year and a half of a four year course. He plans going the full four years and is certain that Mercy's and Jennings' arrivals sometime in late Fall or early winter, will speed his progress! We wish him the very best!

MET A VERY PRETTY TEENAGER! SHE WAS MICHELE BURSE. Strolling down Locust Street, she presented a most striking picture. She is a red head, was clad in a chocolate brown and white mixed denim hot pant jump suit; wore dark brown leather lace-up sandals and carried a dark brown fringed, leather hippie bag! Her only jewelry were large silver earrings which she had fashioned! She graciously responded to my greeting as I sought to make her acquaintance. (Needed someone to bring beauty to "Lines"!) Michele, a Tech High School sophomore, hopes to some day go to California, and there become a model. We wish her the best in this field and feel she has a great deal going for her! She is the daughter of Bill and Betty Mash!

ONE HUSBAND SMUGLY REPORTS that his beautiful wife, when asked what type diamond ring would she like, responded that she prefers a bicycle! Exercise increases one's beauty, certainly! She is to be admired. Each of us — many of us, that is — could use much more!

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. When I am a guest for several days in a friend's home, am I supposed to make my bed up every morning?

A. Yes, this is the polite and considerate thing to do.

Q. When a divorced couple has reconciled and decided to remarry, is a large wedding with all the trimmings in good taste?

A. No. Such a remarriage should be performed as quietly and with as little display as possible.

Q. Would it be a proper idea for me to enclose stamped, self-addressed postcards with my wedding invitations to insure receiving acknowledgements?

A. Admittedly, there are too many people who aren't considerate enough to acknowledge such invitations — but still and all, such a reply card enclosed with the invitation would NOT be in good taste.

Q. I've been dating a young man for some time, and now he has invited me to his home for dinner. Is it proper for me to take his mother some kind of gift, such as perhaps a box of candy?

A. While not improper, this is not at all necessary, nor expected.

Q. When I am a dinner guest at someone's home, do I properly open my napkin into my lap as soon as I have been seated at the table?

A. No. Correctly, guests wait until their hostess takes up her napkin before attending to their own.

Q. When, after a wedding invitation is received, one wishes to send a check as a wedding gift, to whom is it mailed and to whom is it made out?

A. Made out to the bride in her maiden name, and mailed to her home.

Q. May I properly use an attractive color of ink other than black for the engraving of my wedding invitations?

A. No; only black ink is properly used on wedding invitations.

Q. Is a man's fraternity pin a fitting or proper substitute for the customary diamond engagement ring?

A. If he and his girl consider themselves engaged, that's all that's necessary. Neither a ring nor a pin can make their pact more binding.

Q. Does the figure on a cameo ring properly face the fingertips, or the wrist?

A. Popularly, toward the wrist.

Q. When a public speaker is required to take a sip of water from a pitcher furnished on his lectern, must he excuse himself to his audience?

A. This is not necessary.

Q. Does a bride who is being married in an informal ceremony in a daytime frock carry a bouquet?

A. Not usually. She wears a corsage.

Q. When one has already given a gift to a newborn baby, and is then invited to the christening, does this mean another gift is in order?

A. No.

Fresh air is wonderful—it's healthful and invigorating, especially when a cool breeze is blowing. But in the winter, that cool breeze can cost you money. If you open a window to let fresh, but cold air into your house, be sure the cold air isn't cooling your thermostat. If it is, the thermostat will automatically tell your furnace the house is cold, and the furnace will turn itself on. You may find that the rest of your house, which was very comfortably heated before, is now being heated more than you want. Iowa Power suggests you "air out your house" one room at a time. That way, you'll enjoy the benefit of fresh air—and keep a check on fuel costs.

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...

Was haircoloring first done in Africa?

Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions... to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.

Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairol® Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.

Today black pride brings you closer to the cultural ways of your African heritage. Haircoloring is a part of black history too. Ask your professional hairdresser about changing your hair color with Miss Clairol... and be more beautiful than you already are.

School Board Acts Wisely
On Busing

The Des Moines school board has decided to continue and enlarge the voluntary busing program which was adopted in 1968. And this in spite of stiff opposition of some parents — white and black, based upon the old concept that a child should attend school in his own neighborhood, the desire to keep Negroes out of some schools, that Negroes would rather be to themselves and learn less when forced into predominantly white schools.

The board took this action in an effort to do away with the concentration of Negroes in some schools which produce de facto segregation. When racial segregation by law in the schools was being attacked in the South, these same arguments were being raised. And even since the 1954 school decision, stiff opposition continued but as time goes on, the school districts are bowing to the law.

The recent decision by the U. S. Supreme Court said that it was not unconstitutional to employ busing in order to achieve racial balance, in the schools. It is only a question of time when de facto segregation will meet the same fate. We might as well begin to solve the problem now. The board sees it and moves early to begin to meet it.

No Jobs For Model Cities People

A number of houses are being built in the Model Cities area. All kinds of work is involved in this construction, but as far as we have been able to observe, residents of the Model Cities area are not being employed in this work.

Admitting that few skilled workers are to be found in the Model Cities area, there are jobs that require just backbone and muscle, if nothing else.

It is a blot on the apprentice training programs that have been going on for years and spent a lot of money and the rule that citizens in the area should be given preference in work they have to offer.

What are the Rights Commissions doing about this type of hiring?

High Prices Lose Us
Business and Jobs

The news media is full of announcements of wage increases these days, particularly the larger ones. Each time a labor-management contract expires demands are being made and agreed to that are driving some business to the wall.

A recent article appearing in the daily press headed "Made in U.S.A. Radio Label Vanishing", and included the following paragraph:

"General Electric Co., last major manufacturer with extensive radio production in the United States, recently surrendered when it decided to phase out all domestic radio production and move overseas".

What this means is that thousands of workers have lost their jobs of making radios to Japanese and other workers. These companies are dumping electric articles in this country far cheaper than they are being made here. And these inroads are reaching into television as well.

This not only takes jobs from American labor but it helps put the government in a bind that other countries are selling more to us than we are selling to them.

As much as we may dislike it, the government is going to be forced to put a break on the continual increase in wages and prices or a drop to the bottom may strike us again.

Insurance Companies Hold
Keys to Help Urban Cities

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Insurance companies possess three tools — insurance, investment and national influence — that could be employed effectively in the struggle to make the cities more livable, the American Insurance Association was told at its seventh annual meeting in May.

Sterling Tucker, executive director of the Washington, D.C., Urban League, underscored the need for a complete change in the allocation of national resources in order to stem urban decay.

Need Cold Cash

"Regardless of which of our urban problems happens to concern us most — housing, city schools, health care, or unemployment — any and all of these will require tremendous outlays of hard cold cash," said Mr. Tucker, who is vice-chairman of the District of Columbia city council.

"So we must come face to face with the question of taxes in our country — the need to increase tax revenues while instituting meaningful tax reform," he asserted. "If we are serious about solving our problems, we must be willing to tax ourselves more."

Mr. Tucker — in discussing the three main tools at the disposal of insurers — said the first obligation of the insurance companies is to "insure" — that is to insure everywhere, not just in "safe" areas.

Through your involvement in the development and implementation of the FAIR Plans you have indicated your understanding that the availability of effective insurance is one of the crucial factors which can make the difference between vitality or abandonment in any given neighborhood." "In the words of the Hughes Commission," Mr. Tucker said, "communities without insurance are communities without hope because they are communities without businesses, without amenities, and soon without property owners."

Private Investment

The second contribution, Mr. Tucker said, could be made in the area of "private investment."

"... the significance of investment lies not only in the direct benefits it can bring to decaying neighborhoods, to individual low- and moderate-income families in need of housing, to individual blacks seeking employment," Mr. Tucker said.

The third and most important tool at the disposal of the insurance companies, according to Mr. Tucker, is the "use of our tremendous prestige and influence, both nationally and in individual communities toward a reordering of our national priorities."

"I am convinced that what is required as a prerequisite to national commitment is a fundamental change which discards many of our most treasured and time-honored patterns of thinking. Change is in the air, and you have both the opportunity and the obligation to influence it and to help manage it."

One change needed, Mr. Tucker said, was in the patterns of thinking about poor people.

"Somehow," he said, "we cannot relinquish the thought that they are to blame for their poverty and are taking advantage of the rest of us to boot. Take the prevalent myths about welfare; the fact is that the average family grant for dependent children is $185 monthly, 43 per cent below the federal poverty line.

"Or, 'They all come to the city to get welfare'; the fact is that the typical rural migrant lives in the city for five years before applying for welfare, if he applies at all. These are the types of misconceptions which we must join together to dispel before we can apply ourselves unencumbered to the monumental task ahead."

The IOWA BYSTANDER has made arrangements with the Des Moines Office of the Social Security Administration to answer questions for our readers about social security and Medicare. Send your questions to Field Representative, room 293 Federal Building, 210 Walnut St., Des Moines, Iowa 50309.

QUESTION: I plan to hire my 17 year old son to help at my plumbing shop during summer vacation and after school. Do I have to report his wages on my quarterly social security report?

ANSWER: Wages paid to your son would not be subject to social security tax unless you have formed a corporation. Employment of a child under 21 for a parent is not covered by Social Security. Also, work done by a husband for his wife or by a wife for her husband is not covered employment.

embraces as the three runners put on. They knew that did it for them.

There were quite a few records set, and we are sure this was the biggest crowd we ever saw at a track meet except the Drake Relays. And they had without a doubt, the longest press box we ever saw. There were a whole gang of writers, and they were all on a level with one row of seats, and you know how long that would have had to be. Well, it was just that long.

Incidentally, Washington of Michigan State equaled the thirty five year old century mark set by Jess Owens three times. And some kid had the nerve to ask who was Jess Owens. About forty five people informed him.

Don Graves

Finally got to see young Don Graves' collection of medals and ribbons. He really doesn't have quite enough to paper a whole room, but he has quite a collection for a twelve year old. The one he is the proudest of is the one he got along with a certificate for the fifth fastest time in the United States for twelve year olds in the seventy five yard dash.

He doesn't have very many second or third place honors, except in the broad jump or long jump as it is called now. We asked Don what was his favorite race, and he said the hundred. He thinks he has a pretty fast start, and he likes to run a two - twenty like the bigger boys run a quarter mile.

Next year he will go to Meredith Junior High, and he is looking forward to some really keen competition in his races. But, the boy thinks he can run, and has the credentials to prove it. So we should be hearing from him within the next few years. As we listened to Don, we thought we could understand that each period was behind him, and he was getting ready for the next stage.

We also saw a lot of other awards in various phases of scouting and YMCA work that the fellow had won, and we don't think he has let any of this have any effect on him in his every day life. We didn't ask who taught him to run, because that is a thing you can either do or you can't. Nobody can teach you to run fast, throw hard or hit a baseball. People can improve your technique, but you have to have the raw material.

So we would say that Don Graves has at least one of the attributes that coaches look for in professional athletes. It is a long way from grade school to the pros, but maybe the kid will make it with the luck one must have on his side.

Health for All

Drugs like LSD and speed trigger sensational trips. Drugs like isoniazid prevent and treat TB. The two drugs — and, usually, the people who take them — are worlds apart.

Thousands of Americans who have tuberculous infections take isoniazid every day for a single year to avoid developing active disease. Those with active disease take the pills to become noninfectious within a very short time. Isoniazid has revolutionized the treatment of TB.

Psychedelic drugs have wrought their own revolution. But for some people these drugs are already on the way out. They have discovered they can blow their minds without using drugs.

Researchers at the Foundation of Mind Research in New York City claim that "sensory overload" — in which subjects are immersed in dissolving, swirling patterns of light and sound — can effect profound mystical experiences for normal individuals. Altered states of consciousness — all brought about with drugs — are reflected in vivid fantasies and profoundly moving sensations.

One method used at the Foundation involves a metal swing that suspends blindfolded subjects and has them dangle in space. Resulting sensations are physically disorienting and mind-expanding, say the researchers. Guided meditation in which subjects are given ideas or visual images — such as concentric circles or a picture of their body becoming smaller and smaller — can lead people through symbolic experiences of death and rebirth. After the experiences, subjects often paint and write in creative ways unsuspected beforehand, says the Foundation.

Simulated psychic trips are getting more and more attention these days. But there is no simulated way to fight TB without drugs. Your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association has no information about psychedelic experiences but does have the facts about drug therapy and TB. Check with them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q — I am 20 years old, and going to college under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Program. I earned $800 last year, and wonder if that will prevent me from receiving benefits?

A — No. There is no limit on your earned income.

Q — I am attending the university under the GI Bill, and my wife and I are expecting a child later this year. Will I receive extra benefits for the child from the date of birth, or only from the date I inform the Veterans Administration?

A — You must inform the VA of the child's birth by submitting a copy of the birth certificate within one year from the child's birth, and you will then be paid from the date of birth.

Q — My wife is the principal beneficiary on my National Service Life Insurance policy with a lump sum settlement. If both of us were fatally injured in a car accident, but she survived me even by a few minutes, how would the proceeds of the policy be handled? How could expensive proceedings be eliminated?

A — If your wife survived you, she becomes the beneficiary under the policy. The Veterans Administration must pay the proceeds to her estate, and not to the contingent beneficiaries that you may have specified.

BY WALTER HOFFMAN

The Loner walks.
His mind, his thoughts gone.
A black cloudy haze hangs about the head of The Lone One.
He walks the highway of infinity
With each footstep an echo:
With each sigh a chill.
The black of night guides him:
Street lamps peer at him behind shields of milky fog.
The mist from unseen skies touch him like silverdust.
A friend to offer companionship —
This is what he wants
But he knows this can never be.
A tear for love, humanity, and brotherhood
Await its time to roll away down his sullen cheek.
The marred shadow of the Loner fades from sight.
The highway of infinity is his destination.

Probate could be avoided through the use of the "Common Disaster Clause," available upon request at the time the policy is issued, or later. This provides for a time lapse between the death of the insured and payment of the proceeds to the principal beneficiary. Thus, if the beneficiary fails to survive the specified period, payment of National Service Life Insurance proceeds will be made as if the principal beneficiary had died before the insured.

Here's a new wrinkle on how to look great when you get where you're going: Unpack the clothes you expect to wear first and hang them on the shower curtain rod over the bathtub. Then turn on the hot water and let the steam rise. Wrinkles will fall out after a half hour and natural fabrics will dry quickly and smoothly.

For traveling with a freer mind, the small premium for complete insurance on your luggage, clothes and personal possessions is a great investment.
