Louis Armstrong, Trumpeter, Dead at 71

His Talent Entertained for Pleasure
And International Goodwill

Jazz great Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong died in his sleep Tuesday at his home in Queens in New York. Death was caused, according to family members, by heart failure; Armstrong was 71 years old Sunday.

Armstrong, the trumpet player who blew and sang his way into the hearts of millions throughout the world, was born in New Orleans, La., on Independence Day in 1900.

After playing cornet in his early years, in New Orleans, he moved to Chicago and with his vast talent and revolutionary style, Satchmo began the era of "swing".

Satchmo got his name from the word "Satchelmouth" picked up when he was a teenager in New Orleans.

During the 1930's Louis had his own band playing night clubs from Harlem to San Francisco. In 1936 he got into movies as a musician and actor in Bing Crosby's "Pennies From Heaven". Through the next ten years, he increasingly turned to pop music hits as a basis for his jazz.

Mr. Armstrong "please the people" attitude has seen criticism in past years by certain black and white musicians that it made him appear to be an Uncle Tom.

"People might have called Louis an Uncle Tom," said trumpeter Miles Davis, known for his outspoken beliefs on the superior quality of black jazz musicians.

"Louis pleased the crowd by smiling and jumping around," Davis said.

"After you do it they call you a Tom, but Louis fooled all of them and became an ambassador of goodwill."

In recent years, Mr. Armstrong was plagued by chronic illness, that put him under intensive care last March in a New York hospital.

Just a few days before his death, Satchmo told newsmen he was feeling pretty good. To prove it he took out his trumpet and played "What A Wonderful World", and said he planned to go back to work.

Said Satchmo, "That's what life's all about, man."

Black Lawyers, Judges Convene In Atlanta, Ga.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In what is expected to be the largest and most significant gathering of the black legal community, the National Bar Association is convening black judges, attorneys, law professors and OEO legal service attorneys for extensive discussions on "Racism and the Law."

These discussions will be major highlights of the 46th Annual Convention of the National Bar Association in Atlanta, Georgia, from August 3-7.

This will be the first and founding convention of the Judicial Council of NBA, which consists of black judges from throughout the country.

Detroit Circuit Court Judge Edward F. Bell is president of NBA and Records Court Judge George W. Crockett, Jr., also of Detroit, is coordinator of the Judicial Council.

According to Attorney Donald Stocks, Executive Director of the National Bar Foundation, approximately 150 black judges, 100 black law professors and OEO Legal Service attorneys, and more than 750 NBA practitioners are expected to attend the historic "coming together of the black legal community."

Stocks said, "The idea of bringing into the organization of NBA all elements of the black legal community provides a new kind of unity and strength to NBA. The potential for program activity, relative to the black judge and lawyer and to the black community, is multiplied."

"Black lawyers and judges have come to realize that they have a constant fight to maintain whatever rights we have under the law and it is only by bringing black judges, practitioners, law professors, poverty lawyers, and even Black government lawyers together can we effectively develop strategies to force the legal system to respond promptly and equitably to all underprivileged people," Stocks said.

At the NBA Convention on Wednesday, August 5, all groups, the judges, practitioners, law professors and poverty lawyers will meet in a unique plenary session to discuss all aspects of "Racism and the Law."

"From these discussions," Stocks said, "we expect a symposium to be published in the Howard University Law Journal and other leading law journals across the country. These publications would be documented by actual case experiences and would form the basis for concerted effort to eliminate some of these instances of racism."

WILL THEY ABANDON HOPE THEY WILL BE RESCUED FROM POVERTY?

"A HURRICANE SWEEPS ACROSS THE LUSH LAND OF THE GULF COAST AND IT BECOMES A DISASTER AREA. A DROUGHT DRAGS ON IN THE MID-WEST, AND A DISASTER IS DECLARED. AND BLACK UNEMPLOYMENT FLIES UP TO 35% IN SOME CITIES AND IT IS DESCRIBED AS A RESULT OF A TURNDOWN IN THE ECONOMY AND GOVERNMENT DOES NOTHING."

SAID HAROLD R. SIMS, ACTING EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF THE URBAN LEAGUE

Muhammad Ali No Longer Under Cloud Of Federal Action

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Muhammad Ali has won his biggest fight outside the ring after sparring with the Federal government for four years.

The Supreme Court upheld Ali's appeal for reversal of a lower court conviction on draft evasion. Thus, Ali is a free man for his fight July 26th with former sparring partner Jimmy Ellis.

The bout, to be held at the Astrodome in Houston and telecast by closed-circuit, will be the first in which Ali will not be under the cloud of Federal action which has followed him since 1967.

In a unanimous decision of 8 to 0, with Justice Thurgood Marshall abstaining, the high court ruled that Ali was genuinely and sincerely operating in the beliefs of his Muslim faith when he refused to be drafted into the service.

After learning the news from a grocery store owner who had just sold Ali an orange, Ali commented "I am delighted and extremely happy. I am deeply grateful and I believe in Allah. I feel like a milestone has been lifted from my neck."

Officials of Top Rank and Astrodome Championship Enterprises, Inc., co-promoters of the July 26th fight, commented on the decision with the statement, "We are very pleased that this fight will be free from federal criticism."

"We believe that all sports fans as well as all citizens welcome this decision and we look forward to an exciting sporting event without any political overtones."

Moreover, the letter noted that the pattern of violence is likely to continue because "local demagogues are whipping up sentiment against ... black candidates expected to file for public office" and against "Northern volunteers who are joining local registration and campaign efforts."

Asking that the department "act promptly" in protecting the rights of blacks in Mississippi, the ACLU said that "things are not likely to calm down in Mississippi" without Justice Department intervention.

SAFETY REMINDER

Medicines and matches, like poisons and pointed objects, are major household hazards when they're available to small children, hence the wisdom of using safety-cap bottles of the type used on St. Joseph Aspirin for children. Bathrooms and kitchens especially, should be scrutinized to see that harmful bottles are well out of youngsters' reach.

Tried by German Court; Disputes Jurisdiction of Men Serving Overseas

A case that "raises serious and substantial issues" over the rights of American soldiers covered by the NATO Status of Forces Agreement between the United States and West Germany is being pressed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in the Nation's Capital.

The case, which involves a young German girl and two black GIs charged with attempting to rape her, "raises a substantial issue" whether the legal rights that are guaranteed under the U.S. Constitution are available to American soldiers serving their government in Germany, the NAACP's brief to the Federal Court of Appeals in Washington charged.

Status of Forces The civil rights organization maintains that under the 1959 Status of Forces Agreement, U.S. servicemen serving in foreign countries are guaranteed the same basic rights that would have been afforded them here at home.

But Germany "violated the provisions of the Treaty and officials of the United States cannot constitutionally sanction such violation by surrendering its citizens," the NAACP brief said.

The men have charged that their trial in Germany was not fair. The NAACP supports their claims.

Another issue raised in the case is that of outright racism.

A translation of the German court's summary of the judicial proceedings condemns the men for being black: "Being colored, they have particular difficulties to satisfy their sexual needs."

Holmes and Tucker The case involves Privates Nathaniel Holmes, 22, of Winfield, La., and Bernard Tucker, 21, of Hampton, Va., who fled to the U.S. while awaiting the results of their conviction appeal to the German Federal Supreme Court.

In Washington, they enlisted the help of New York Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, who turned the case over to the NAACP.

Led by General Counsel Nathaniel R. Jones, the NAACP blocked the Pentagon's initial attempt to return the men to Germany in violation of their rights to appeal. The NAACP charged in the Federal District Court in Washington, where the suit was filed for a preliminary injunction, that the U.S. cannot turn over a West German to his own country without taking the necessary legal steps.

Yet the U.S. Army now is attempting to turn over American citizens to the imprisoned without the benefit of these constitutional guarantees. The NAACP, therefore, concluded that "Under this view they are being treated like nonentities."

Associated with Mr. Jones in defense of the accused men are NAACP Attorneys J. Francis Pohlhaus of Washington and James I. Meyerson of New York City.

Chronology Of the Case

July 6, 1970 — Six black GIs stationed with the Eighth U.S. Infantry in West Germany allegedly raped a 16-year-old German girl. The following week Holmes and Tucker were arrested along with another black soldier.

The Army investigated the case, but decided the evidence was insufficient and the identification was not positive.

July 29 — Germany exercised its power to recall its waiver of jurisdiction under the NATO Status of Forces Agreement and thereby took the case into its criminal courts.

December 16 — A presiding panel consisting of a judge, two assistant judges and four juvenile jurors tried the case in the Juvenile Chamber of the District Court, Bad Kreuznach, West Germany. The men were found guilty.

February 10, 1971 — Holmes and Tucker were sentenced to three years in prison. While awaiting appeal, they were turned over to the Eighth Infantry Division.

June 1 — They fled to the U.S. and sought the help of Congresswoman Chisholm.

June 8 — Holmes and Tucker, accompanied by Mrs. Chisholm, surrendered to the Pentagon.

The men charged that their trial was unfair because they were denied:

— Their right to a prompt and speedy trial.

— Their right to have legal representation of their own choice.

— Their right to be confronted by their accuser.

— Their right to a full and accurate transcript and a fair appeal.

— Their basic guarantees to a fair trial because they were not properly identified by their accuser.

June 9 — It was learned that the German Appellate Court dismissed the appeals by Holmes and Tucker, denying them any further means to challenge their conviction.

June 10 — The men's military attorney, Capt. J. Clay Smith, learned that the Army planned to return his clients to Germany the following day and informed Mrs. Chisholm. She immediately sought the help of the NAACP.

That night, U.S. District Court Judge Barrington D. Parker issued a temporary restraining order against Melvin Laird, William Rogers, Stanley Resor, Major Gen. Ronald M. Glesner preventing them from returning the men to Germany. The order was effective until June 21, when a hearing was scheduled. This order was later extended for four days.

June 21 — NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins wrote West German Chancellor Willy Brandt asking him to "intervene in this matter and urge the appropriate officials in your country to discontinue their attempts to have these two young Americans returned to West German custody."

June 25 — At the end of a day-long hearing, U.S. District Judge John Helm Pratt denied the NAACP motion for a preliminary injunction restraining the Army from returning

GMC Donates
$75,000 to Negro
College Fund

NEW YORK, N.Y. — General Motors Corporation has donated $75,000 to the 1971 campaign of the United Negro College Fund, a 25 per cent increase over last year.

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr., executive director of the UNCF, expressed the fund's gratitude for the gift which, Mr. Jordan says, brings GMC's contributions over the years to the UNCF, to $1,200,000.

"We are tremendously inspired by this support from one of the greatest corporations in the world," Mr. Jordan said.

Richard C. Gerstenberg, vice chairman of GM and vice chairman of the UNCF's National Corporations Committee, said his company feels its contributions to the UNCF are "more of an investment than contributions, because we have seen the dividend it pays."

Mr. Gerstenberg said the continued existence of the predominantly black schools is "vital."

Woods In Washington 'Getting It Together' Is Theme Of 62nd NAACP Convention

Leon O. Woods, Watts Manufacturing Corporation president (left) was honored by Religious Heritage of America as "Business Man of the Year" for having accomplished one of the most outstanding jobs in America in training hardcore unemployables into an outstanding work force and excellent citizens. Presenting the award recently in Washington, D.C. was F. Ritter Shumway, board chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Watts Manufacturing Corporation was founded in 1966 by Aerojet General Corporation to provide job training for the hardcore unemployed. It was spun-off in May 1970, through financing provided by Chase Manhattan Bank's small business investment company, Chase Manhattan Capital Corporation. Under an arrangement devised by Watts and the bank, 80 percent of the Watts stock will be turned over to the employees. This will make Watts the nation's largest minority-owned manufacturing company. Sales volume in 1970 exceeded $4,000,000.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Some 2,500 or more delegates from all sections of the country will gather here for the 62nd annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, July 5-9, to ponder ways and means of "Getting It (the civil rights movement) Together" for an accelerated assault upon the bastions of racism in this country.

Sounding the keynote for this organized attack upon racial segregation and other forms of discrimination will be the association's outspoken board chairman, the Right Reverend Stephen G. Spottswood, bishop of the A.M.E. Zion Church (a major black denomination), who will be the principal speaker at the opening public session in the Minneapolis Auditorium and Convention Center, Monday night, July 5.

Also appearing on this opening program will be Maurice H. Stans, Secretary of Commerce, who will present a citation commending the NAACP for the outstanding performance of the organization in the "black count," that is, in the effort to get a full count of the Negro population in the 1970 census.

The following morning, Tuesday, July 6, the Association's veteran executive director, Roy Wilkins, will outline the goals of the association and indicate the means by which dedicated civil rights workers can get together to level racial barriers in all aspects of American life.

That afternoon, a three-man panel consisting of Leon N. Weiner, president of the Leon N. Weiner Associates of Wilmington, Del.; the Rev. Nicholas Hood, president pro tem of the Detroit Common Council; and Samuel Simmons, the assistant secretary for equal opportunity in the Department of Housing and Urban Development, will lead the discussion on "Getting It Together in Housing."

Mr. Weiner is a former president of the National Association of Home Builders and a pioneer in producing new concepts in housing construction and development. Mr. Hood is also a senior minister of the Plymouth United Church of Christ and has founded six corporations which have constructed nearly 1,500 dwelling units.

Spingard Medal At 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Andrew Brimmer, member of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, will present the 56th Spingard Medal to the Reverend Leon H. Sullivan, founder of the Opportunity Industrialization Centers and chairman of its board of directors, and pastor of the Zion Baptist Church of Philadelphia.

The coveted award, instituted by the late J. E. Spingard in 1914, is presented annually to a Negro American for distinguished achievement. Previous Spingard medalists include Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, Associate Justice Thurgood Marshall, artist Jacob Lawrence, Jackie Robinson, Sammy Davis, Jr., Langston Hughes, Marian Anderson, Roy Wilkins and others.

Dr. Wilson Riles, superintendent of public instruction and director of education of California, will be the principal speaker at the Wednesday morning session "Getting It Together in Education." Dr. Riles attracted national attention last November when he defeated arch conservative Max Rafferty, the white incumbent, in a statewide contest for California's top job in the field of education.

Wednesday afternoon, William H. Hastie, chief judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, will speak on "Getting It Together in the Law." Judge Hastie, a former NAACP lawyer, was the first black governor of the Virgin Islands.

Wednesday evening, July 7, has been designated Youth Night. Addressing this session will be Mal Goode, ABC-TV United Nations correspondent. A onetime newsman, Mr. Goode broke the color bar in network television.

Jobs At 2 p.m. on Thursday, James E. Jones, Jr., professor of law at the University of Wisconsin, will speak on "Getting it Together in Jobs."

The convention will close Friday evening with a Freedom Fund Awards banquet in the Hall of States and with the Miss NAACP Ball in the Hall of Cities, both in the Leamington Hotel.

The Commerce and Industry Show in Exhibit Hall will continue throughout the convention. Among the exhibitors are major American firms.

A series of workshop sessions on various aspects of the NAACP program will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Also scheduled are the annual breakfast for ministers, lawyers' breakfast and life membership luncheon. In addition, there will be a luncheon meeting on the NAACP and the military.

Summary Of Arguments Before U.S. District Court

the accused servicemen to West Germany. The judge granted a stay of seven days for filing of an appeal. General Counsel Jones announced that notice of appeal would be filed immediately.

June 30 — NAACP attorneys filed an appeal with the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia with a request for a "stay of the order" issued by Judge Pratt.

—The Nato Status of Forces Agreement is a multi-lateral reciprocal treaty that establishes and sets forth the terms and conditions governing the rights, duties, privileges and immunities of the forces of one country sent into or stationed in another country.

The plaintiffs (Holmes and Tucker) charge that the limited procedural guarantees of the Nato Status of Forces Agreement were not observed in practice in their criminal trial in Germany. They were therefore denied fundamental justice, Germany violated the treaty, and the U.S. cannot sanction such a violation by surrendering its citizens to the Germans.

—Because Germany violated the treaty, "it is of no force and effect for the purposes of imposing an obligation on the American government."

—A preliminary injunction should be granted to the plaintiffs until a detailed investigation and thorough hearing is made on their charges, because they bear the burden of hardship.

—The U.S. Senate's concern for safeguarding the fundamental rights of American servicemen on foreign soil is evidenced in its "understanding" when the Status of Forces Agreement was adopted: "Whenever an American serviceman is to be tried in a foreign court under this agreement, the commanding officer of the American Armed Forces in that country will examine its laws with particular reference to the safeguards contained in the United States Constitution."

—Because of the difference between U.S. Constitutional Law and German Civil Law, there are "very grave doubts" as to the ability of an American to receive a fair trial in conformity with the U.S. Constitution. An example of this "gross disparity" in the two systems is that American military officials could not find sufficient evidence to prefer charges, while the German courts were able to try and convict the accused men.

—American officials in Germany were guilty of dereliction of duty under Army Regulations and NATO - SOFA Treaty because they failed to make a thorough investigation of Germany's determination to press the trial.

Holmes and Tucker requested American civilian attorneys to represent them. But, despite the fact that American civilian lawyers practice before German courts, they were told that this was not allowed.

—Because of the language barrier, the accused were unable to communicate adequately with their German - speaking lawyer. Their interpreter sometimes refused to convey their information to their lawyer.

No verbatim record of the trial was made. Consequently, the men have been denied their basic right "to a full day in court, a blatant violation of international standards of justice."

—Questionable was the fact that, although the trial Chamber had "no doubts as to the credibility" of the complainant, she was not sworn in to testify. German law prohibits the administration of an oath to a person under suspicion.

The case of Holmes and Tucker is very similar to another in 1968, when a GI serving in Korea was accused of murdering a Korean citizen. Then, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia granted a temporary injunction to the soldier based on the arguments that the NAACP is now using.

Pvt. Singleton

Iowa Private Training Under Volunteer Plan

FT. ORD, Calif. — Army Private Samuel S. Singleton Jr., 19, whose mother, Mrs. Betty J. Singleton, lives at 1235 13th, Des Moines, Iowa, is assigned to Ft. Ord, Calif., where he is training under the Modern Volunteer Army Field Experiment.

The new concept, called Volar, combines basic and advanced individual training into a single 16-week program. Decentralized instruction at the unit level and a reduction of formations and inspections gives the soldier more time to train and increased off-duty time. Fewer restrictions on off-duty travel and improved living facilities are other benefits of the Volar concept.

He is scheduled to complete the first phase of the Volar training July 9.

security reasons, but rather to cover up a situation or to protect a government agency."

Schwengel said Congress has a responsibility to do what it can to guarantee that the American people and the Congress have access to all such information.

Is the use of plastic garbage bags a good idea? Yes, if they are made of non-polluting polyethylene. Plastic bags increase the speed and completeness of garbage pickup and help keep your cans clean. They have been praised by mayors all around the country, for making collection easier.

What electric appliance in your kitchen is used more than your frypan? Probably none. It's the portable fifth burner for today's busy homemaker.

Here are a couple of ideas to prolong the life of this versatile tool:

1. Clean it thoroughly every time you use it, including the underside, to prevent build-up of burned-on-fat.
2. Remember to disconnect and clean the heat control unit with a damp cloth.
3. Never immerse a hot frypan in water. Cool it to room temperature first. Why? To prevent warping. Warped pans don't cook foods evenly.

Wilkie House Judo Club Goes to National Finals

Seven members will represent the Wilkie House Judo Club in the National Junior Judo Championship at Odessa, Texas, July 9-10.

Willie Hilson, Terrance Butts, Keith Colton, Craig Colton, Clair (Rudy) Rudison, Mike Walker and Melvin Weaver left July 6 in a van provided by the Boys Club of Des Moines. Their trip is being financed through the efforts of Officer Bruce Brown, Des Moines Police Division. Officer Brown coaches the team.

The 8th edition of the National Junior Judo Championship will be held at Permian High School Field House in Odessa, Tex.

In addition to placing 1st, 2nd or 3rd in their division at the 6-state regional tournament, national contestants must amass a good record in all meets. They are members of the Amateur Athletic Union (A.A.U.), the United States Judo Federation (U.S.J.F.), and Wilkie House. Also required is attendance at all practices and meets and a positive attitude coupled with a cooperative team effort.

The following highlights show the participation in contests to date:

Willie Hilson, whose performance for the team this year has been the most outstanding of any of the members received the first place award in his division in the Iowa State finals. He also placed first in the Region 7 Junior Olympic Judo Tournament.

Terrance Butts earned a first place award in the Iowa State Finals and won second place honors in the six-state regional.

In 1970 Keith Colton was the only member of the Wilkie House Club to place in the six-state Regional, receiving first place honors there. At the six-state Regional in 1971 he placed second, while achieving a third place finish in the Iowa State Finals.

Craig Colton captured a first place in the six-state Regional.

Michael Walker, in his division at the six-state Regional, rated a third place award and received first place honors for his efforts at the Region 7 Junior Olympic Judo Tournaments.

Melvin Weaver received a first place award from the six-state Regional judges. At the Regional 7 Junior Olympic Judo Tournaments he worked for a third place finish.

Clair Rudison placed third in the six-state Regional.

LATIN IS NOT SO DEAD

Unlike the old soldier who fades away, Latin is now making a comeback in hundreds of secondary schools throughout the U.S. As a matter of fact, in many Philadelphia schools a brief introduction to Latin is now being offered at the fifth-grade level.

How come Latin is flourishing? One reason is that there are new innovations in the teaching of Latin. One such innovation, called "Artes Latinae," published by Encyclopaedia Britannica Educational Corporation, is built around a programmed textbook that divides up the subject into small bits of information. Tapes and films, a reader and filmstrips using cartoons to suggest phrases and Roman scenes with Latin titles supplement the text. The programmed text also rearranges the dense grammar that clogs up normal first-year courses.

How is Latin flourishing today? In Four Oaks, North Carolina, for instance, Mrs. Mamie Johnston, a Latin teacher in the South Johnston High School, reports that she first introduced "Artes Latinae" in the fall of 1969 with 75 beginners. This year the school has 42 continuing in second level and 75 new students who began in September 1970.

And, for the midwest farmers, the company has sample plantings of farm seeds, forages, grains and hybrid corn included in the open house showing.

Question: What business information agency provides weekly comment and analysis on the cost per pound of 31 primary foodstuffs, on the price fluctuations of 30 basic commodities, on failures in 39 different business lines, and on bank clearings in 26 major cities? Answer: Dun & Bradstreet!

Question: If you read the policy, you'll see two interest rates. One (the 5% you mention) is the interest you have to pay if you borrow against the policy from the insurance company—and that's quite a bargain today!

The other interest rate is the one the company must pay you on the cash value of your policy. This payment is made by adding the interest to the cash value.

Now it is hard for some people to understand, but the surprising fact is that many an insurance company often pays more than it has to. It does this, when business is good, by paying dividends—payments over and above what the company has to pay according to the rate mentioned in the policy.

But even if business is bad, the company is required by law to pay you at least the rate promised in the policy.

And no matter how business is, the company is required to lend you money against the cash value of your policy at a rate no higher than the loan rate mentioned in the policy.

So—on the rate you pay when you borrow, it's clear. On the rate the company must pay you, you're sure of at least that much, and you may get more.

(Mrs. Korinne Jackson is our guest columnist this week and brings us a review of the Ethnic Music Workshop held June 21 through June 26, 1971, at Drake University, which she attended. Mrs. Jackson has long been identified with music education as a teacher and as a participant on Drake's campus and in the local community. She writes now of Mrs. Gertrude H. Robinson, instructor of Ethnomusicology and Music Education at Loyola - Marymount, Los Angeles, who conducted the workshop.)

A study of Nigerian music was our very first undertaking. It was in this study that we undertook a gamaleon. Seven instruments form a gamaleon. Each is playing in a different rhythm and as a result is the most exciting undertaking imaginable. Many of the movements are very similar to the modern dances performed by the very young today. Surprisingly only men perform in the gamaleon, but women may dance.

African music must be perceived through movement. Without this approach understanding it is inconceivable. In relating to us the cultural incidents of Ghana, Nigeria, Bali and Java, the instructor became a dolog, a story teller. The storytelling was substantiated by films, slides and records.

The format of the workshop followed a planned schedule. One is made to feel that one has traveled to these distant places and experienced these most vividly described incidents. For instance, there was the showing of a puppet show from Java. Colorful, exotic and vastly unusual, it differed from anything we had ever before experienced. We each participated in performing in a gamaleon, the Ghanaian term for orchestra; the same term is used in several countries bringing us to the conclusion that perhaps this bit of culture was spread through immigration.

The six days under the tutelage of Mrs. Robinson were well spent in acquiring a knowledge and understanding of these people and their cultures. My life has been greatly enriched in that my appreciation of Africa and its people has been broadened. Now when I view a group of African dances, I shall have a greater comprehension of the technique and skills gone into the production of this performance.

Cream Pies Great Treat For Summer

"Easy as pie" is an apt phrase these days, especially when you refer to cream pies. For the modern cream pie is exceptionally easy to make.

The prebaked crust may be one you make yourself or from a packaged mix. The filling is cooked like a simple pudding, cooled and then poured into the shell.

This chocolate banana cream pie from the home economists at Meadow Gold Dairies is a perfect example. While the pastry shell is cooling, the rich filling is cooked in the top of a double boiler. Modern trends in food preparation also contribute to the making of this pie, for ready prepared chocolate milk is the liquid ingredient used, saving considerable time in the preparation of the filling.

Make the filling according to oldtime procedures, though. Meadow Gold home economists recommend that you heat the chocolate milk before blending it into the flour-sugar mixture to prevent lumping.

Chocolate Banana Cream Pie
9-inch baked pastry shell
1/4 cup sugar
5 tablespoons flour
2 cups hot chocolate milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
2-3 bananas, sliced
Meringue Topping
3 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
6 tablespoons sugar

Combine sugar, flour and salt together in top of double boiler. Gradually add chocolate milk. Cook about 10 minutes over boiling water until mixture thickens, stirring frequently. Add small amount of hot mixture to egg yolks. Gradually add to remaining hot mixture. Return to double boiler and cook until thickened, about 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add butter and vanilla; cool. Arrange banana slices on bottom of pastry shell; pour filling over bananas. For meringue, beat egg whites until frothy. Beat in salt and cream of tartar. Add sugar, a little at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat until stiff and glossy. Pipe lightly on top of filling, sealing edges to crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes, or until delicately browned.

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...

Was haircoloring first done in Africa?

Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions...to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.

Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairol® Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.

False Ideas About Inflation

The president of the United Steel Workers Union, appearing on "Meet The Press" T.V. stated recently that an increase in wages will not necessarily raise the price of steel.

Apparently he has given little attention to the influx of foreign cheap steel and other goods that are coming into the country daily competing with American manufacturers and raising the unemployment rate.

This inflation must be stopped but it will not be done by appealing to the conscience of greedy people.

Trouble Among Soldiers Abroad

It is most unfortunate that Negro soldiers are experiencing so much trouble in West Germany. A recent incident (fully explained in the front page of this paper) involves two Negro soldiers who having been charged with attempted rape were convicted and sentenced to two years in prison.

The men escaped and returned to America later turning themselves over to the Pentagon. On petition by the NAACP, a federal judge restrained the government from returning the men to Germany. An international legal battle goes on.

Anyone who has served overseas in our recent wars knows very well how this trouble comes about. Our defense department has not taken the precaution to educate white soldiers not to take their prejudices abroad. And thus as foreign people attempt to treat Negro soldiers the same as they do white soldiers many white soldiers resented it. And since the whites are in the majority their views generally prevailed.

And, of course, this equal treatment includes social activities with the, say Germans (it was true when I, the writer, was in France in 1918-1919) or Asians for that matter and the resentment carried on in America pops up abroad.

Of course, some Negroes make their mistakes abroad just as they do at home which adds to the troubles over which they have little control. This is true of both races.

In recent months, the defense department is making an effort to improve relationships between Negro and white men in the service. And in view of the fact that the service is integrated, the men must learn to get along with each other, not stir up discord and resentment which cut deeply into the morale of the service.

And as some of our own white soldiers kept spreading their prejudice against Negroes abroad we shall continue to have trouble everywhere American soldiers are stationed.

Dreams Of Impractical People

Some of our well educated preach that what the Negro needs is self-determination — the chance or right to determine for himself how he should like his daily life.

This is music to the ears of those impractical people who don't stop to think how "things are run".

Their idea is that they would have their own schools. They have their own churches, lodges and clubs.

They would own their fire department, courts, taxing bodies, tax collection agencies, transportation, garbage collection, street cleaning, utilities and telephone companies.

As these essential services are examined, here in Des Moines for instance, how could they be so split up that Negroes could determine for themselves how they will lump off self-determination.

It is silly to think an intelligent person would preach such as long as Negroes live in America — and there is little chance or desire of many to leave.

It is essential that the Negro be a full partner in all activities wherever he resides. And with the attainment of more opportunity to share in what his community offers, the idea of self-determination fades in the minds of practical people.

Health for All

Most TB germs can be done in by drugs like isoniazid. This discovery revolutionized the treatment of TB. But now some TB germs are waging a counter-revolution. They have developed a resistance to anti-TB drugs.

The percent of cases of TB with drug-resistant germs is still tiny. But a serious problem nonetheless.

One comprehensive four-year study at Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn, New York, showed that tougher TB germs were more prevalent among children than adults. A much greater number of children than adults failed to respond to any initial treatment of TB. Other studies indicate similar results.

Research suggests that children pick up these drug-resistant infections from adults who fail to obtain adequate drug treatment for their own infections. The germs are spread by coughing and sneezing. Children usually develop active disease shortly after they are infected with TB germs. But adults, on the other hand, can be infected for years before the germs trigger active TB.

Fortunately, new kinds of anti-TB drugs have been developed in recent years. And children as well as adults — who have TB germs resistant to such drugs as isoniazid and streptomycin — can be treated with the new drugs. Eventually, the TB germs may also develop resistances to the new drugs. Then, the cycle will have to begin again.

The comparisons of drug-resistant TB germs in children and adults were reported in a recent issue of the American Review of Respiratory Disease, a publication of the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Lawn Care's A Family Affair

If you're like a lot of proud homeowners, you want the grounds and garden around your home to be as neatly landscaped as possible. But the weekends do seem to fly. Lawn care specialists at Diston have developed a family of products to help all members of the family finish garden chores quickly and be off having fun.

Diston's new cordless electric upright grass shear manicures the lawn at 6,000 cuts a minute.

Another new member of the family, Diston's cordless electric hedge trimmer, wings along at 2,200 strokes a minute and weighs about 6 pounds. Its self-contained battery unit supplies full power for plenty of continuous shearing. It recharges overnight.

And that's how you can slow down the wings of time, end your frustration and maybe even take Sunday off all through the gardening season.

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

With Allen Ashby

sandlotters have certainly come a long way.

But, do you know that just about the same situation existed in basketball?

Before the advent of the NBA, some of the best professional cage teams were black. The old New York Renaissance (wonder if I spelled that right), The Philadelphia Spas, The Washington Bearcats, and not to mention the Harlem Globe Trotters. There used to be a world's professional basketball meet in Chicago, and the winner would get to play the college all stars the following fall, kicking off the cage season. Well, the Globe Trotters won the thing twice, the Bearcats and Spas once. The Renns never got to play in the meet.

Probably the most exciting cage game I every saw was between the Bearcats and the college all stars in the opening of the 1943-44 season. But, when the league was formed, blacks were just excluded, until they had to let some in order to make up a full roster for some of the weaker clubs. But they never really got in for keeps until Bill Russell turned the game around for the Boston Celtics.

Of course there wasn't the great bunch of talent that there is now, although black colleges were capable of holding their own with the best white schools a lot sooner than most people realized. You see, blacks couldn't play in the major conferences such as the Big Ten, and so a lot of very good cagers went to black schools where they could play the game. We remember when we spent a few minutes at Arkansas AM&N, we played Xavier of New Orleans. Now these people had two teams, one for the road and one for home games.

The road team was made up of five Chicago players, and they could have probably beaten any college team they played. There were several black college teams with players from New York, Philadelphia, New Jersey, and Michigan. These fellows had played on the same high school teams with some of the national college stars, and so you know they were good. And again, the ice wasn't broken until these just weren't enough players to go around. The University of Chicago, on its last legs in the Big Ten took on a couple of blacks because without them they couldn't have fielded a team. Then one or two of the other schools, Iowa among them timidly tried the water, and to their surprise, the sky didn't fall in, and more people came to see these black boys play, even if they weren't as good as they are now.

But one thing this integration did for our black fraternities. In schools like the Big Ten schools, they used to have a stranglehold on the intramural cage title because they were using fellows capable of playing varsity ball, and the other clubs were not. Well, varsity ball took care of that, and now we suspect the intramural league title is up for grabs. Why do we bring all this up? Well, we think people should know the background of some of the things they take for granted now, and see how they came about.

Morgan-Gramlin Football Classic in NY Sept. 11

BALTIMORE, Md. — On Saturday, September 11, 6:30 P.M., here at Yankee Stadium, the New York Urban League will present the FIRST ANNUAL WHITNEY M. YOUNG, JR. MEMORIAL FOOTBALL CLASSIC, featuring two nationally known black collegiate football teams, Grambling College of Grambling, Louisiana, and Morgan State College of Baltimore, Maryland.

The famous marching bands of Grambling and Morgan Colleges will perform during half-time of the game.

Net proceeds from the game will benefit our financially ailing street academy program; our newly instituted narcotics program; and our neighborhood youth corps program.

In view of Whitney Young's very deep interest in many of the New York Urban League Programs, especially the Street Academy program, Mrs. Margaret Young, wife of our departed leader has given her blessings to the naming of this event in honor of her husband.

The last article submitted to the New York Times by Whitney M. Young, Jr., published on March 13, stressed his interest in the Street Academies. This article which followed his death on Thursday, March 11, emphasized his main concern — the plight of the street academies and why corporations should continue to fund them.

Through the efforts of Mr. Michael Burke, President of the Yankees, Inc., this game is being sponsored enthusiastically by the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of New York.

Tickets will go on sale on July 19. They can be purchased at the Yankee Stadium ticket box office and may be ordered at Urban League offices throughout the United States.

Patio Perks Drizzly Yard

A bonanza of outdoor living enjoyment can be created with a patio of western wood, beautifying and making useful idle land surrounding the house.

Pockets of privacy from weather or neighbors can be formed with screens. Sweeping decks can transform a grassy plot into a party room complete with benches, gazebos and garden "rooms."

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Patios are a flexible home addition, with designs to suit the scale or style of any house, complementing existing landscaping, and providing relief from wind or sun.

Decks and yard structures, such as a gazebo for barbecuing and serving alfresco meals, can relieve the monotony of look-alike adjacent houses.

Sloping lots can be landscaped with a patio incorporating decks on several levels, wide stairways of wood, and planter boxes of flowers or terraced planter areas.

For an eight-page, colorfully illustrated booklet on ways to landscape your yard with patios of western wood, send 15 cents in coin to Western Wood Products Assn., Dept. 523-P, Yeon Bldg., Portland, OR 97204.

It was just two years ago that William Greaves won an identical award at Atlanta for his film, "In the Company of Men" — the production has won a total of eight awards at international film festivals. William Greaves is the former executive producer of NET's "Black Journal" who piloted the series to an Emmy Award in 1970. Greaves Gets Award in Atlanta Film Festival

Black filmmaker, William Greaves, walked off with one of the highest awards granted by the Atlanta International Film Festival last Saturday, June 26th, for his film, "Voice of La Raza," an in-depth look at the problems which confront Mexican-Americans and Puerto Ricans in securing equal job opportunities with other Americans.

The award — the Special Jury Gold Medal — is given for "film of outstanding creation, excellence and unusual merit." In expressing his feelings about "Voice of La Raza," Anthony Quinn who freely donated his services to the film has said, "It is a very passionate picture." The film was produced for Equal Employment Opportunity Commission by Emmy Award winning producer, William Greaves.

The hour-long color film was filmed in New York, New Mexico and California, utilizing "cinema verite" technique to capture the life and spirit of Spanish speaking communities. The film grows out of the conversations and questions asked by Quinn, in his travels across the country, concerning the plight of Spanish speaking Americans. His personal feelings as a Mexican-American concerning equal job opportunities are also vividly expressed.

"Voice of La Raza" also deals with the role of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in combating job discrimination against minority groups and women. Rita Moreno, stage and screen star, also

Q. Is it ever permissible to tell another person about his poor pronunciation or bad grammar?

A. Not unless you're his teacher. No one appreciates being corrected in public, especially on something so basic that he ought to know it. And this means, too, that you don't make an obvious correction of his mispronounced word in your very next sentence — unless you really want to embarrass him.

Q. I know that the bridesmaids at a wedding pay for their own outfits, but who pays for their bouquets?

A. These bouquets are a part of the wedding expenses, and as such, devolve upon the bride's parents.

Q. Is it permissible at the table to cut a croquette with the knife?

A. No. Both the cutting and eating of this item are performed with the fork.

Q. Is it necessary at the table to swallow each mouthful of food before taking another?

A. Indeed it is! You don't stir the peas into your mashed potatoes on your plate, and you don't mix them in your mouth either. You should take a small bite, chew it with your mouth closed, and swallow it before taking another bite.

Q. Would it be all right for a girl to send a birthday card to a young man she is interested in, even though he has never sent her a card or given her a gift of any kind?

A. Quite all right. There can never be anything wrong or out-of-place with a gesture of friendship and thoughtfulness such as this.

Q. Is "Dear Sirs" a correct form of salutation in a letter written to a business company?

A. At one time, yes — but no longer. Today's accepted salutation is "Gentlemen."

Q. The man I am to marry is a widower, and I am a widow. What kind of wedding ceremony is in best taste for us, and may we have a reception?

A. Your wedding ceremony, religious or civil, should be small and informal — preferably with only one attendant for each of you. As for a reception, surely you may have one — of any size you wish.

Q. If one is on a reducing diet, and is served apple pie at a luncheon, is it all right to eat only the apples and leave the crust — or would this be discourteous to one's hostess?

A. This is quite all right, and often done by diet-conscious guests — and a thoughtful hostess does not question it.

Dealers Diversify

An estimated 70 percent of all materials used in light construction is sold through lumber yards and other retailers. One-third of these dealers also are home builders, and two-fifths of them sell package remodeling.
