League Ends 61st Annual Conference

National Urban League Vows
Continuing Support For Negroes

DETROIT, Mich. — The National Urban League will continue to be an advocate for the cause of black people, a result and issue orientated agency serving as a bridge between the races, Vernon E. Jordan, Executive Director - Designate of the League vowed here before some 2,500 persons.

Mr. Jordan's promise came as he officially closed the 61st Annual Conference of the League which opened three days earlier and attracted over 5,000 registrants from all across the country and from all economic and racial groups.

First Major Speech

In his long awaited first major speech as the new director of the League selected to replace the late Whitney M. Young, Mr. Jordan said the League will remain flexible and aware of the need to change to meet new demands placed on it by its constituency.

Mr. Jordan indicated his intention to add several new programs to those either already underway or contemplated. These include voter registration in the North to "bring about black political power and to influence the established institutions of American politics", and a modern drug prevention and educational action research teams to provide facts and interpretation to the black community and black leadership on complex new issues, and the implementation of a program that will bring corporate executives into the ghettos to get a first hand feel of "what it is like to be poor and black in this America of 1971", as a method of increasing corporate responsibility.

In assessing where Americans are at this moment, Mr. Jordan said "the record of the Nixon Administration is one that combines elements of high purpose with an apparent neglect of the deepest needs of poor people and minority groups."

"What the right hand giveth, the left hand taketh away", might be one way to describe some of the actions of our leaders in Washington."

The record of the administration, Mr. Jordan added, in welfare reform, revenue sharing, housing and health is mixed in the areas of rhetoric and enforcement.

Clouds Of Ambiguity

"We ask it (the administration) to bring forth from those clouds of ambiguity, the bright rays of clarity; we ask it to make its positive achievements a base from which to launch a total commitment, with massive resources, for an end to poverty and racism in the land. We ask it to turn our doubts into belief and to provide... moral leadership."

Noting that the President is preparing for a journey to China, Mr. Jordan said:

"We of the Urban League movement ask him to make a spiritual pilgrimage to Black America; to demonstrate his concern with the hungry children of the urban ghettos and rural farmlands as he is demonstrating his concern with the strategies of world politics."

The achievement of economic empowerment must be a major goal of the Urban League in the 70's, Mr. Jordan said, and there must be a restructuring of our economy and income distribution so that there are jobs and decent living standards for all.

Mr. Jordan's maiden speech before the League movement came as the climax to three crowded days of meetings and workshops during which several major position papers were released by the League.

Participants heard from a number of distinguished speakers including Harold R. Sims, Acting Executive Director of the National Urban League.

Blackmen And Redmen Share Common Problems, Cites Okla. Indian Leader

DETROIT, Mich. — Mrs. LaDonna Harris, founder and president of Americans for Indian Opportunity, told Urban League volunteers from across the country that blacks could form a "natural coalition with American Indians, since half the Indian population now lives in urban areas and is experiencing common problems of discrimination and advancement."

The National Urban League Trustee and wife of Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, addressed the first major event of the League's Annual Conference held July 25-28 at Cobo Hall in Detroit — the annual Council of Urban League Guilds Luncheon.

"Being Indian is even harder than being black in this country," Mrs. Harris told the 650 guests and Guild members of 62 local Urban League Guilds across the country, noting the legacy of restrictive federal policies and attitudes which has "practically killed two generations of Indians."

Mrs. Harris pointed to various forms of government and social discrimination that have caused Indians to have the highest national rates of infant mortality and suicide — a phenomenon previously unknown to Indian culture — an average life expectancy of 44 years, the poorest housing and the lowest income and education levels in the country.

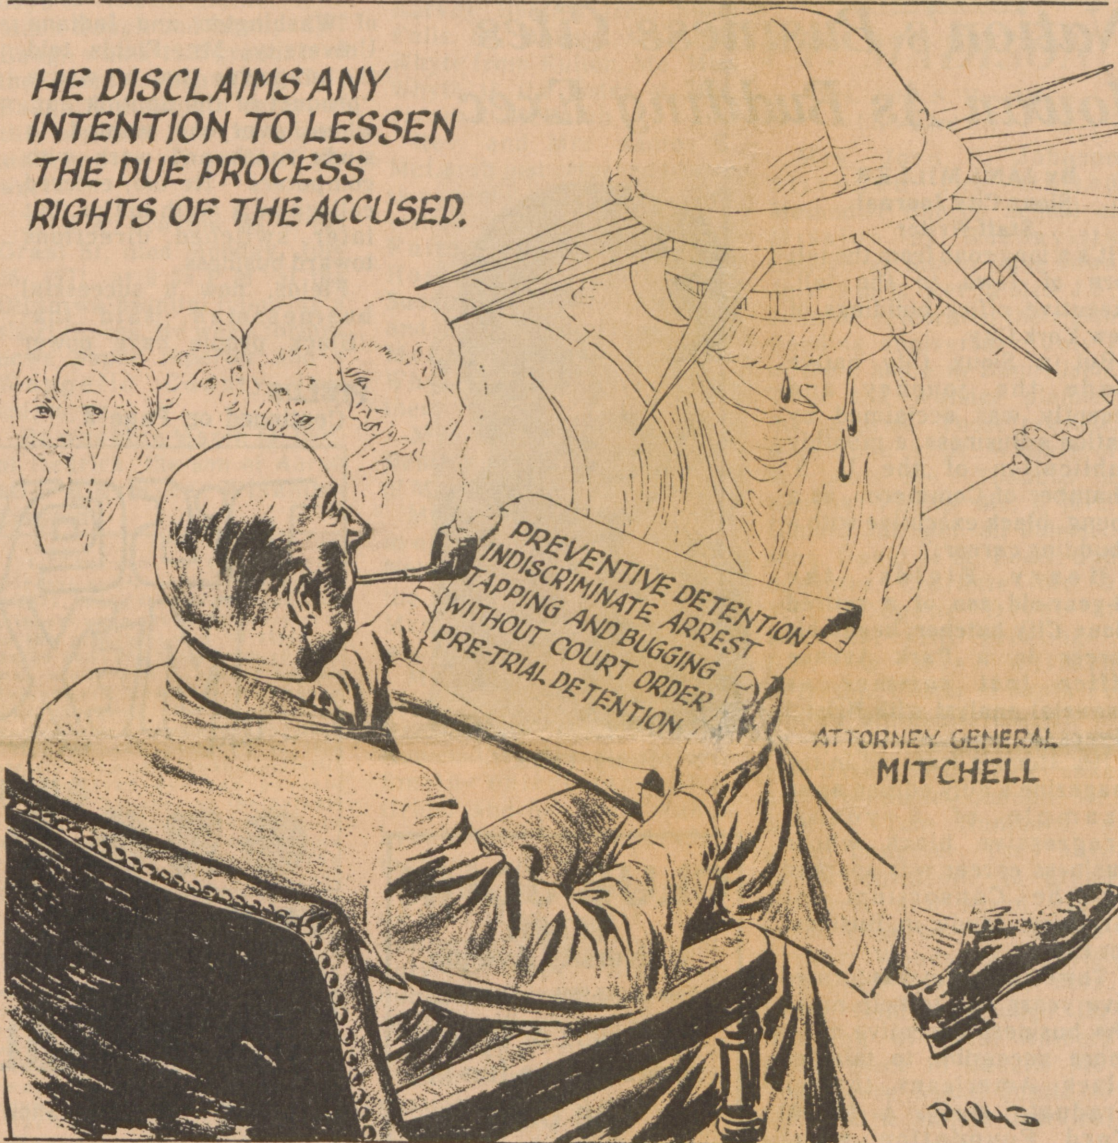

She called federal attitudes towards Indians "patronizing, though sometime well-intentioned," and gave as examples of the kind of discrimination "that destroys a human soul," the policy of encouraging beadwork among Indians on reservations, when it is not part of Indian culture, — or related comments like "Isn't it nice that Indians have good eye-hand coordination?" convey subtle prejudice in the form of compliments.

"If I had one message to give this country," said Mrs. Harris, "It would be that people who are different, can make different kinds of contributions, and that they are beautiful in their own difference."

Mrs. Harris, an active member of the Comanche Indian tribe, was raised on a farm in Cotton County, Okla., by grandparents whose primary language was Comanche.

Negro To Head Minority Office

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans announced Tuesday the appointment of John L. Jenkins to the position of Director of the Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE).

Jenkins, 43, the highest-ranked black official in the Department of Commerce, has been serving as an Assistant Director in OMBE since May of 1970 heading up its Community Services Division. He succeeds Abraham S. Venable, who resigned to become director of Urban Affairs at General Motors.

In announcing the appointment the Secretary said, "Mr. Jenkins has demonstrated outstanding leadership qualities since joining the Department, bringing with him a valuable and extensive background in the area of corporate business management and operation. I am confident that he will make a significant contribution to the program, and am pleased that he now joins us in our minority enterprise commitment in this new executive capacity."

The Office of Minority Business Enterprise was created by Executive Order in March of 1969 and placed under the responsibility of Secretary Stans. It is the Administration's coordinating agency in the government's minority enterprise effort.

Prior to joining the Department of Commerce, Jenkins was president of Bill Cosby Foods, Inc., and earlier was an executive officer of several food franchising organizations.

Ship Named For Negro Navy Hero

The Secretary of the Navy announced that it will pay tribute to Petty Officer Doris (Dorie) Miller, a black Navy Cross winner of WWII, by naming a destroyer escort in his honor.

The keel of the USS MILLER is scheduled to be laid at the Avondale Shipyards, Westwego, La., August 6, 1971.

Ship's Cook Third Class Miller won the Navy Cross for bravery. While Japanese planes were bombing Pearl Harbor, Miller moved the mortally wounded commanding officer of his ship, WEST VIRGINIA, to a place of greater safety. Then, manning a machine gun, he directed fire at attacking Japanese aircraft until ordered to leave the bridge. Miller died November 24, 1943 when the USS LISCOMBE BAY was sunk by an enemy submarine in the South Pacific.

Miller was born October 12, 1919 in Waco, Tex. where his mother, Mrs. Henrietta Miller, currently resides. In addition to the Navy Cross, Miller, who joined the Navy in September of 1939, was awarded the Purple Heart.

Concentrate In 6 Areas: Oakridge, Bottoms, Logan, 4-Mile Creek, Etc.

The Des Moines Model Cities Project will be expanded by a $3.7 million grant from the federal government next year.

U.E. Sen. Jack Miller (Rep., Ia.) announced the expanded role for Des Moines in Washington corresponding to the announcement made here by Mayor Thomas Urban.

Given A Chance

Miller said the purpose of the grant was to give the 20 chosen cities a chance to "demonstrate what local government can accomplish in solving urban problems when given greater freedom from federal regulations."

Urban added that Des Moines is "very enthusiastic about being selected as one of the few cities in the United States to implement a city-wide Model City program."

The federal red tape that usually plagues federally funded programs will be lessened by the additional money.

The Planned Variations program will be similar to the revenue sharing approach. All low-income residents of Des Moines are eligible for Model Cities participation, but efforts will be concentrated in six general areas.

They are:

Logan, 1740 Garfield Ave. vicinity; Woodland Oakridge Opportunity Center, 1617 Crocker; Southeast Bottoms, south of the State Capitol to the Des Moines River and east to E. Thirtieth St.; Four Mile Creek, bounded roughly by University Ave., Easton Boulevard, E. Thirty-third St. and the east city limits; Central Place, east of Second Ave. and west of the Des Moines River; and Bidwell, in the Bidwell - Riverside Community Center vicinity, 1203 Hartford Ave.

According to Mayor Urban, a new system of federal fund review, called the "Mayor - Council Signoff" has been approved for the city.

Council Will Help

Urban said the City Council will have a voice in all Des Moines - spent federal funds, including education and transportation.

The present Model City area includes approximately 16,000 persons and 1,000 acres just north and west of the downtown business district.

4,178 Persons Helped

4,178 persons received services from or were employed by Model City projects, and 3,813 persons reside in the Model City area.

The Model Cities agency enters into contracts with existing agencies and new ones to execute the separate programs, but does not operate projects itself.

The Des Moines Model City area has received $8,304,000 in federal funds during the past three years. The first was a planning year devoted to determining needs from extensive research. This is the second action year of a total of five action years.

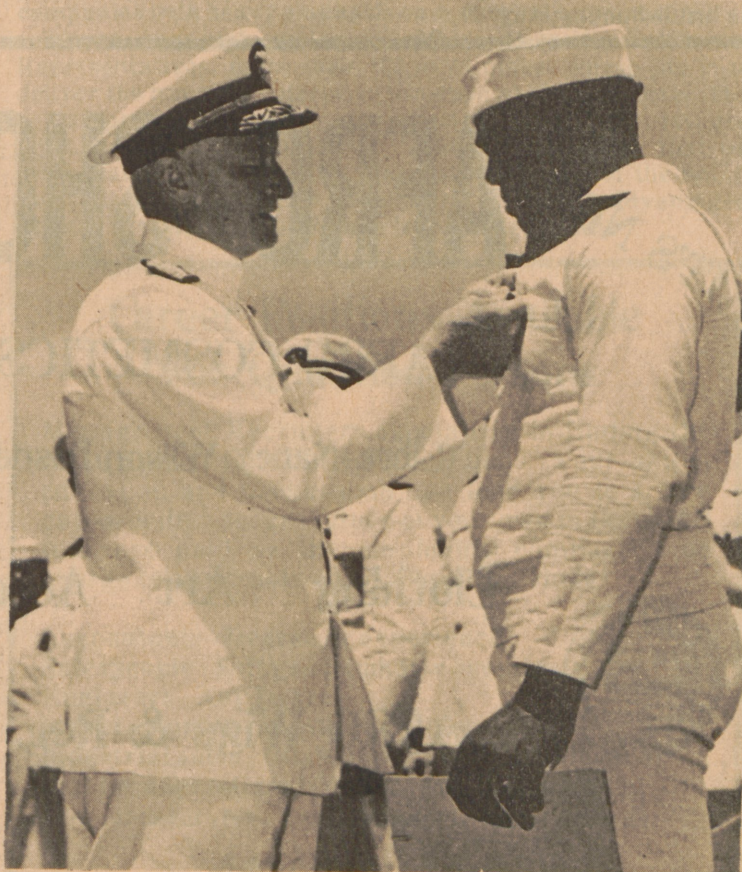

The original idea behind the Model Cities program was to demonstrate the impact that federal and local urban renewal efforts could make on low-income housing.

A wide assortment of local social welfare, employment and educational agencies as well as other federal funds have been added to the program.

Des Moines' Support

The Des Moines City Council and the business community have supported the Model City effort from the beginning of the program.

Ultimate responsibility for the program lies with the council. The basic planning is done by the Model City Citizens Board, consisting of sixteen elected area residents and Model City property owners and seven other persons appointed by the Mayor.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, USN, awards the Navy Cross to Doris Miller for heroism on the USS West Virginia. He was later killed. This ceremony and other awards and commendation letters were given by the Admiral on board the USS Enterprise at Pearl Harbor, March, 1942.

"No Real Change" In City's Housing Integration Patterns

A study of black housing patterns conducted by the Des Moines Human Rights Commission, shows there has been little real change in housing integration in Des Moines over the last thirty years.

Using data from the Bureau of the Census studies of the city in 1940, 1950, 1960, 1966, and 1970, the commission found very little actual assimilation of black families into predominantly white areas. Rather, a general shift in the location of black "ghetto" areas was indicated.

Forced By Freeway
In 1940, four "inner city" census tracts housed 62 per cent of the city's black population. By 1950, the same areas housed 68 per cent of the blacks. By 1966, the percentage for those four tracts had fallen to 50 per cent. But by 1970, another grouping of four tracts in the "inner city" held 61 per cent of the black citizens.

The changes in black residential areas is due very little to integration into white neighborhoods but is a result of blacks being forced out of homes by the freeway system and commercial developing, as well as new but high cost housing.

Some penetration of new areas of black families is revealed by the study. In 1940, only 8 of the city's 44 census tracts had a black resident percentage higher than the city-wide ratio of 4.0 per cent. By 1970, 15 of those areas registered above the city-wide ratio of 5.7 per cent.

Again, however, much of this apparent progress can be misleading. The city's black population rose from 6,360 in 1940 to 11,425 in 1970, an increase of over 79 per cent. In that same time period, the white population grew less than 18 per cent.

The black influx into these newer areas is explained in part by a growth rate more than four times that of the whites.

Causes

The commission feels there are a number of possible causes to explain the lack of progress in integrating neighborhoods. Paramount among them may be the following:

1. Real estate agents may be using multiple listings in a discriminatory fashion by showing blacks homes located only in predominantly black neighborhoods.
2. Black families may be requesting or seeking out homes only in black areas.
3. Perhaps, as the black community gains its own identity, blacks are establishing a real preference to remain in black areas. This ethnic geographical unification may be a manifestation of pride or of cultural solidarity. It may also be a symptom of fear, or a gathering of forces out of intense frustration.
4. The economic considerations also may prohibit black families from seeking out better living accommodations, since according to federal Department of Labor statistics, non-white families on the average earn one-third less than comparable white families.

In a further study of housing patterns and practices, the Des Moines Human Rights Commission intends to conduct attitudinal surveys of integrated and segregated neighborhoods, and to examine possible discriminatory actions by real estate agents.

Nation's Business Cites Iowan As Budding Exec

By JANA MILLER
Sioux City Journal
Staff Writer

It's a long road from the tall corn of Iowa to the tall, executive office buildings of New York City.

But a Sioux City native made the journey and recently was acclaimed by Nation's Business, a monthly publication of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, as a young, black executive with a "budding career."

Henry Fields, the 30-year-old son of a retired Sioux City butcher, began his career in a Park Avenue office last summer as financial analyst with Bristol Myers Co.

His story is featured in the magazine's July edition as an example of a young, progressive black whose business career was sparked by the Consortium for Graduate Study in Business for Blacks.

The consortium was formed five years ago to help make the business executive chair more accessible to talented black Americans through graduate study. A $30,000 Ford Foundation grant helped launch the program which is now supported by more than 100 of the nation's giant corporations.

Fellowship Awarded
The first year, the consortium of five universities — Indiana University, the University of Rochester, the University of Southern California, Washington University and the University of Wisconsin — awarded fellowships to 22 black students. Last year it awarded 65.

Maximum Help To Minority Business--Kleppe Tells Congress

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Backed by an imposing accumulation of operating results from his agency, SBA Administrator Thomas S. Kleppe told Congress July 27, that, "while continuing to increase service to the entire small business community in virtually every area of activity, SBA has compiled an outstanding record of financial and management assistance to the minority entrepreneur in the last two years."

Testifying before the Minority Enterprise Subcommittee of the House Select Committee on Small Business, Kleppe catalogued a wide range of SBA services which he said have all been used to bring socially and economically disadvantaged Americans "... into the mainstream of the American economy."

"These efforts carry forth President Nixon's pledge of March 1969, to help redress the long standing social grievances of this nation's disadvantaged by opening to them the absolutely vital avenues of business opportunity," Kleppe said. Highlighting the testimony were the Administrator's reports on the following SBA programs:

BUSINESS LOANS

Business Loans

"In Fiscal Year 1968, the year during which SBA's minority enterprise program, as such, was begun as a distinct and separate effort, approvals totaled 2,335 for $41.3 million. In fiscal year 1969, by contrast, SBA made 4,654 loans to minority businesses for $104.6 million.

In 1971, 7,776 loans to minority concerns for $213.8 million were made. Representing an increase of 24 per cent in number of loans over 1970.

Federal Procurement Assistance

"Under the 8(a) program, SBA placed $22.2 million in contracts with a total of 136 disadvantaged firms in 1970.

"During fiscal year 1971, we have increased the totals to $66.1 million, with 366 firms. This represents an increase of 198 per cent in dollar amounts of contracts awarded, and an increase of 169 per cent in terms of numbers of firms assisted, over 1970.

"Again, the figures do not tell the 8(a) story in total. Our purpose is more than placing $60 or $100 million per year in government contracts with disadvantaged firms on this specific basis, with SBA serving as the prime contractor. We are interested in this program primarily as a vehicle to be used to create and upgrade disadvantaged firms so that they will 'graduate' from the 8(a) program as successful competitors for the nation's purchasing dollars — in both the private and the public sectors."

Foundation Formed For Whitney Young Memorial

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The formation of the Whitney M. Young, Jr. Memorial Foundation, Inc. was announced here Aug. 2 by Mrs. Whitney M. Young, Jr., and Joseph F. Cullman, III. Mrs. Young, widow of the civil rights leader who served as executive director of the National Urban League until his death last March, is chairman of the foundation. Mr. Cullman, chairman of the board of Philip Morris Incorporated, is serving as foundation president.

The new non-profit foundation, established in honor of Young, is an exclusively charitable and educational organization. Its primary purpose, Mrs. Young said, is "to further understanding and cooperation among all races."

"Initially," she said, "the foundation will establish fellowships, will foster social research, and will conduct conferences designed to bring together the races activities to which my late husband devoted his life."

Specifically, Mrs. Young added, the foundation will begin recruiting and screening candidates this fall for its Whitney M. Young, Jr. Fellowship Program. The fellowships, to commence in the fall of 1972, will be designed to encourage and help promising black students interested in the field of social science.

The foundation, in cooperation with Mrs. Young, will also collect and preserve personal papers and documents relating to the life and career of Whitney M. Young, Jr.

Finally, Mrs. Young said, the foundation will conduct interracial seminars, or conferences, designed to bring the races closer together through creative dialogues, both formal and informal.

Whitney Young, Jr.

Also announced today was the receipt by the Foundation of a major grant, in the amount of $100,000 from Philip Morris Incorporated. The grant will be used to support the Foundation's new fellowship program, according to Mr. Cullman.

Other Foundation grants have also been received from McGraw-Hill Inc., in the amount of $20,000, and Polaroid Corporation, $10,000. Hundreds of other contributions, ranging in amounts from $2 to $1,000, have been donated in memory of Mr. Young by individuals from all areas of the United States.

Former D.M. Resident Dies In Kansas City

Funeral services for Miss lone Coleman, well known school nurse and citizen of Kansas City for 54 years, were held Monday morning, July 19, at the Allen Chapel A.M.E. church of which she had been a member for over half a century.

Miss Coleman, who was 80 years old, died Thursday afternoon, July 15, at the Wheatley-Provident hospital where she had been a patient for about 10 days. She had suffered from a cardiac condition for a number of years. She entered the hospital shortly after returning home from Lake Placid where she had spent the Fourth of July week-end with members of her family and friends.

Miss Coleman was born in Muchakinnet, Iowa, one of the 16 children of Jacob and Mariah Wilson. After graduation from the West high school in Des Moines, Miss Coleman came to Kansas City in 1917 to enter the Nurse Training school at General Hospital No. 2. She completed her course in 1921 and had been a registered nurse in this community ever since that time.

Miss Coleman joined the school system August 18, 1921, as a physical education teacher.

In 1960, Miss Coleman took a voluntary retirement from the school system because of ill health. However, in 1969-70 and 1970-71, she worked as a substitute school nurse. A relative said of Miss Coleman this week, "She loved life and lived the life she loved."

After her retirement from the school system, Miss Coleman spent her time relaxing with friends, travelling and devoting more time to her church and community activities. In 1961, she took a trip abroad with the late Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Wells.

Out of town relatives attending the funeral were: Mrs. Catherine Coleman, Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bailey, Gary, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Johnson of Indianapolis, Indiana; Mrs. Coleman and Mrs. Foster are nieces; Mr. Bailey and Mr. Johnson are nephews.

A wake was held at 7 p.m. Tuesday at L. Fowler & Son Funeral Home.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Friday at the funeral home, with burial at Glendale Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, Rose; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Gloria Cox of Detroit, Mich.; a stepson, Donald Lee McKee of Des Moines; a sister, Mrs. Minnie Moore of Burlington; three grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

Muskie Offers Amendment To Aid Inner Cities

An amendment offered by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie (D-Maine) allowing ghetto areas plagued with severe unemployment to receive massive federal assistance has been adopted by the Senate Public Works Committee.

The amendment was adopted as part of a new, general economic disaster assistance program which expands and changes the Disaster Relief Act of 1970 by including economic as well as natural disasters as a basis for federal assistance. The bill will be before the Senate next week.

The Muskie amendment changes the bill so that aid is not limited only to "major labor areas," as the bill had originally proposed. He explained that the "major labor areas" designation is an inappropriate statistical unit for allocating federal aid because it frequently masks ghetto unemployment due to the prosperity of the surrounding suburbs.

LINES

These lines come to you from one of the most beautiful spots in this country: Estes Park - situated in the heart of the Rocky Mountains in Northern Colorado.

As I write these lines the sun is just peeping over one of the smaller mountain peaks; I am deeply awed and touched by the beauty, the serenity and the majesty of this whole area. Let me try and share these moments with you:

I can hear the roar of Horseshoe Falls - the only sound that breaks the beautiful quiet of this moment;

We are 7500 feet above sea level, completely surrounded by peak after peak of lofty and majestic mountains, which touched by the rays of early sunlight, are like jewels in the sky;

Located in the foothills of the Rocky Mountain National Park, at the very base of one of the highest peaks: Longs Peak - we are surrounded by meadows, lakes, streams and the most beautiful wild flowers one can describe. But most important are the trees - the lofty Aspen and Evergreen are everywhere.

It is truly a magnificent sight and place - how I wish I could more adequately describe it.

For three full weeks I and my hostess, Dr. Ada Dunner, will visit the great Continental Divide, the State Fish Hatchery, browse through the local museums which contain geological and botanical specimens from the Park, and shop in the village for exciting and numerous articles made by Indian and other early settlers.

Just as I was about to leave on this trip, I picked up a copy of the D.M. Tribune and was thrilled to read that a $3.7 Million dollars grant has been given to Des Moines by the federal government to extend the Model Cities program citywide! It is my understanding that Senator Jack Miller worked hard to get the grant approved.

I also noticed that the D.M. Urban Renewal Board has awarded a contract to the Audino Brothers Construction Company of Sioux City for the purpose of erecting a 60 unit housing complex consisting of 8 buildings to be located Northwest of 9th and Crocker Streets - at a cost of $1,046,000. Soon we will NOT be able to refer to this area as the ghetto.

A note from Thelma Clark tells me she is just back from a marvelous Caribbean Cruise which included a take off from Florida, the Bahamas, Haiti, and other small islands. Next week a more detailed description will be given of her trip.

Information available to me indicates that Des Moines has recently gained a new citizen, Mr. Clois Cecil - formerly of Minneapolis. From all I can gather it is truly Des Moines' gain and Minneapolis' loss for Mr. Cecil comes fully qualified including a Master's Degree program from the University of Minnesota, and many diversified experiences in the fields of human relations and teaching.

Corliss Williams and her sister have just - at this writing - enplaned for Europe. Upon her return we shall look forward to writing the details of her trip. Marguerite Cothorn and Mary Holmes are also touring the Continent, as well as the Glantons, including their son Luther, Jr. Rumors have it that the Olivers will soon be embarking on a cruise - whereabouts at this time are not yet known.

It is good to see Mrs. J.B. Morris, Sr. out and about again after a long shut-in as a result of a fall. She looks as sprightly and chic as ever, and has maintained that magnificent charm all through these last several months. It is also good to know that Mrs. Trotter is well on the mend after a long illness.

John Estes, Sr., still a lover of golf, recently spent the week - end in Minneapolis during a golf tournament - I understand he did not participate but is still an ardent fan.

Preston Love, man-about-town still the IBM Executive, but tending toward diversification, has made a deep impression on black youth. Said one recent high school graduate: "I want to be JUST like Preston, job, car, house, and all!"

I must keep a well - meant promise to myself and visit Rev. Aaron B. Carter, Sr. The job he is doing with black youth is something to recommend - and no publicity!

Visited with Evelyn Davis about Tiny Tots, Inc. - here is a woman well worth emulating - the Board of Regents think so too.

For all you LPN's - don't forget the national convention that will be held in Las Vegas soon. Check your association for dates and details.

Also on my list of promises - visit Rev. Henderson Davis and Rev. Strickland's new church sites! And, Rev. Shopshire's Black Theology Center where Joanne Cheatham is doing a magnificent job with youth.

Onion Salad Brightens Menus

Add a bright ray of summer to winter menus with an Onion and Orange Salad. Thin circles of Sweet Spanish onion and segments of orange are marinated in a tangy oil and vinegar dressing. Just before serving they are tossed with tender leaves of spinach and crisp iceberg lettuce. Crumbled bacon adds a flavorful garnish.

For a raw onion salad of this type it is important to select an onion with the delicate flavor and juiciness of the Sweet Spanish variety. Often called Gentle Giants for their mild flavor, these huge onions with delicate golden-bronze paper-like skins are grown in Eastern Oregon and Southwestern Idaho. You'll find them on the market from September through March.

Sunshine Onion Salad

1/2 Idaho-Oregon Sweet Spanish onion
2 oranges, peeled and sectioned
Tarragon French dressing
3 cups torn spinach
1 cup torn Western Iceberg lettuce
3 slices bacon, drained and crumbled

Peel and slice onion, separate into rings. Place onion rings and orange sections in bowl. Add tarragon dressing. Cover and refrigerate 2 hours. To serve, place spinach and lettuce in salad bowl. Add onions, oranges and dressing. Toss. Sprinkle with bacon. Serves 6.

Tarragon Dressing: Combine 1/2 cup oil, 1/4 cup wine vinegar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 teaspoon tarragon. Shake well to blend.

GREAT WAVELENGTHS OF THE '70s

Seldom throughout history has the subject of hair created more controversy than now. Over the last decade, men grew it long, women grew it longer, and some members of both sexes shaved it all off.

Hair is a symbol... of youth, of status, even of political passion. But the all-prevailing, perpetual symbol is that of beauty. And all the controversy has made that symbol more important than ever.

Every fashion-minded woman today is infinitely more aware of how she should be wearing her hair. It is perhaps this awareness that has caused the current swing to the luxurious, healthy mane, the pretty headful of tousled curls. Away from the non-look of straight blunt-cut hair.

Some people call it the return to the '40s, but in the '40s it was primarily the movie greats like Rita Hayworth, Hedy Lamarr, Veronica Lake, who wore the full, wavy sensuous look. Today, fashion includes everyone, can make every woman feel like a potential superstar. And to complete the picture the beauty world gives every woman today the "equipment" to create her look in a matter of minutes instead of hours under the dryer or plugged into the Marcel wave machine.

The cut is the key and should be left entirely to the professional hairstylist. The newest cut is the "layered" look, basically longer in back, shorter on the sides and top. It represents a great new change for medium and long hair without cutting it all off. Find a hairstylist that doesn't do assembly-line work, one that knows the layered look (or any look you like) and will take the time and care to do yours right.

What's the new equipment for the new look? It's the instant hairsetter that's giving off the great wavelengths of the '70s. This wonder machine has given millions of women the gift of beauty along with the gift of time.

Instant hairsetters come in many sizes and varieties - regular, water mist, and conditioning mist. But the key to the best set is the roller. How long and how evenly does it hold its warmth? The rollers in the Kindness instant hairsetter, for example, have a patented inner core that was especially developed so the roller will hold its warmth the longest and release the warmth most evenly throughout the setting time. Extensive testing has proven that this type roller does the best job of curling and waving the hair.

For the new styles use a regular instant hairsetter along with a heat-activated conditioner to spray on each section of the hair as it is rolled up. In 10 minutes the combination of the spray mist conditioner with built-in setting action and the warmth of the rollers will create a super '70s hairstyle.

The newest instant hairsetters are the 3-in-1 type, like Clairol's Custom Care, which offers three setting choices: regular, conditioning mist or water mist. For the great new curly look, these hairsetters are used on the regular setting (with heat-activated conditioner in a spray container). For deep-penetrating conditioning to make hair silky soft and luxuriously wavy, they are used on the conditioner setting. And, for those women who prefer it, these hairsetters also give water-mist sets.

However she wears her hair, the woman of the '70s can make it truly her symbol of beauty.

HOUSEHOLD SAFETY

When it comes to safety around the home, parents need to know the "inside" story for their children's sake as well as their own. Here are checkpoints to help you avoid danger, fall within your own domicile.

1. Don't overload electrical circuits. More than two cords plugged into one outlet constitute a fire threat.

2. In the kitchen, remember to close oven doors and keep pot handles turned in so that children will not be tempted to grasp them.

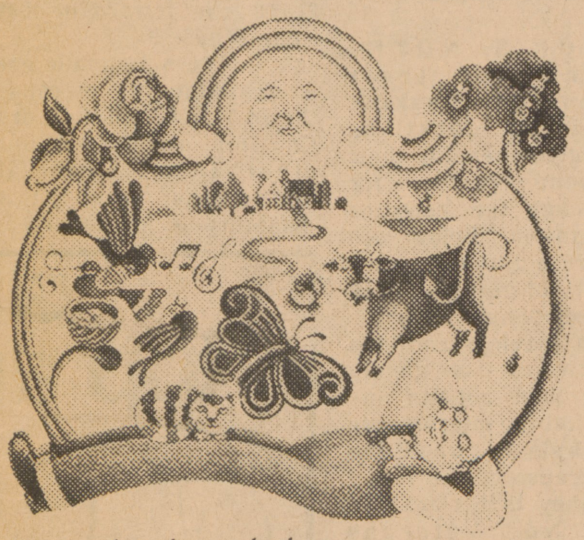

3. Basements should be cleaned and kept free of papers, paints, kerosene or other inflammable materials. If your furnace is near a wall, insulate the wall with metal or asbestos lining.

4. Broken glass, razor blades, bottles, tin cans and other sharp waste should be discarded in closed containers.

5. Medicines should be kept in a locked medicine chest - out of reach of small children. Be sure that matches, kitchen knives and tools also are inaccessible to youngsters.

6. Keep a safe and effective children's aspirin in your medicine cabinet. Bayer Children's Aspirin, for example, is contained in a bottle with a protective double action cap which makes it difficult for the child to open.

See the nice man.

He is asleep beneath the tree.

The sun is shining, shining, shining.

The birds are singing, singing, singing.

Everything is nice and peaceful and serene.

Do you know why everything is always nice and peaceful here? Because this is not a real world.

It is make believe. It never rains. There is no bad. And nobody ever gets sick. Ever.

Help yourself with a checkup. And others with a check.

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...

Was haircoloring first done in Africa?

Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions... to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.

Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairol® Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.

Today black pride brings you closer to the cultural ways of your African heritage. Haircoloring is a part of black history too. Ask your professional hairdresser about changing your hair color with Miss Clairol... and be more beautiful than you already are.

Model Cities to Cover
More of Des Moines

Des Moines has been selected by HEW as one of 20 cities to receive federal funds to create Model Cities in parts of the town. This is welcome news for while a Model Cities project has been in operation in a small portion of the town for two years, other sections, some even more in trouble, need it too.

While it is highly desirable to improve living conditions among less fortunate people, white and Negro, the project has produced little to perpetuate itself and thus will rely on the federal government in coming years to keep it going. It thus becomes a subsidized federal project bordering on welfare.

In the present Model Cities area, some new houses have been built but many old dilapidated, uninhabited houses surrounded by weeds, grass and trash remain. Overall systematic plans seem unavailable relying on day to day involved programs by some one who has a project.

Inexperience accounts for much of this occasioned by the requirement that the people in the neighborhood run the show.

There is agitation that the city council be given more authority over the funds. We have doubts about this proposal preferring that interested retired business men be sought to work with the boards.

In any event, Des Moines has a chance to make a better looking city and every effort should be made to do just that.

Decorum and Justice
Important in Court

The trial of Angela Davis has been set for September 6. Her lawyers objected pleading that they could not get ready by that time.

The action of the court was timely for the longer the delay, the more ill will and unfounded accusations crop up to make the chances of a fair trial shaky.

As it is, there will be those who will carry their sentiments too far intimidating officials and creating scenes that make for unsound judgment by the jurors and the court.

We have cited instances when, in years gone by, mobs surrounded jails, threatened the defendants' lives as well as intimidated court officials denying chances of a trial. The U. S. Supreme Court has said that trials held under such circumstances constituted a denial of due process of law.

Many individuals and organizations have conveyed their concern to California that Miss Davis be given a fair trial. This is, of course, as it should be. But on the other hand, her followers need to be warned that they owe a duty to the public that they refrain from committing acts which prevent the court from conducting a fair trial.

The Absence of Mutual
Give and Take Hurts

Bordens Dairy has closed its doors and left Des Moines. Management and labor could not agree on a contract which, the company said, would permit it to make a profit. Both would rather lose the plant than agree on terms.

About 65 employees were thrown out of jobs.

A large shopping center is closing apparently for lack of business. Others are moving in. More motels are being built while many already here are in financial straits.

We have encouraged entirely too many retail outlets to locate in Des Moines simply because the business is not here. Most of them contribute little to the community other than making life for the little business man miserable.

Some of these companies are desirable and make a contribution to the community. They help keep prices even and otherwise make a contribution to the community.

Unsound excessive labor costs and a surplus of retail outlets hurt.

Health for All

"FARMER'S LUNG"
IN CITY OFFICES

Breathing in organic dust can set off a respiratory disorder called "farmer's lung." The disease is not exclusively rural by any means.

Spore-laden dust from moldy hay can trigger the disorder. So can the droppings of birds such as pigeons. But more and more cases have been reported recently among office workers. The disease is on the increase.

Exhaustive investigations at the University of Wisconsin Medical Center have uncovered mold growing in some warm, wet air conditioners. The spores were spewed from the air ducts throughout entire office buildings.

The spores penetrate deep into the lungs and inflame the area where the exchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide occurs. Eventually, the body becomes starved for oxygen. The first symptoms resemble pneumonia — chills, fever, cough, and especially, shortness of breath. The much more serious chronic phase can lead to a breathlessness so severe that the person cannot walk across the room. Loss of weight is characteristic of both acute and chronic phases.

Continued exposure to the offending substance can lead to progressive lung damage and eventual lung failure. Better ventilation can help remove the substances; and sometimes it is possible to wet down moldy material.

Farmers who find it difficult to avoid exposure to moldy hay often take special steroids to ward off the disease.

At the University of Wisconsin, researchers have seen a number of similar lung conditions which are expressions of the same basic disease mechanism. Maple bark stripper's disease, pigeon breeder's disease, bagassosis, and mushroom worker's disease are some of the exotic names. But the Wisconsin clinicians put them all together under this single term: hypersensitivity pneumonitis. Pneumonitis means an inflammation of the lungs.

For more information about lung disorders, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association.

Wood Loss Huge

Enough timber is lost to insects, disease, old age, wind and fire in western forests every year to build nearly one million homes, forestry officials estimate. Half of this doomed timber, they add, could be salvaged, if access roads and management were adequate.

Trellis Decorative

Add interest to bare stucco walls by attaching a trellis of western wood for ivy or other climbing plants. Natural finish will eliminate tedious repainting around vines.

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

Well, the Hilltop tennis tournament got back to normal last week. First, Esther Myers was back to do all the advance detail work that is so important to setting up a meet. Then, after missing last year because of illness, Kizzie Strothers came along with her jug of pink lemonade, and after that, along came Chet Williamson with his gallon of Coca-Cola and a sack of hamburgers. So things really got back to normal. Then, Mrs. Ruth Roades must have brought ten pounds of fudge and cookies and a quantity of coffee. People who like to eat had a ball.

And we got some tennis played. Had all of the junior events finished by Friday night but one. We had a good break on the weather and a fairly large draw for us, about 140. In the men's singles, we were hoping that Bill Rompf could retire the Harold Holt traveling trophy. He no doubt expected to, but brother Jon Rompf came to play, and cleaned big brother's plow for him. What do parents do when their two sons are playing for the title? Didn't have time to look and see, but we thought that father Will went off and hid.

The Rompf brothers teamed up to get their names on the Bill Ashby doubles trophies. They beat a pair of cagy veterans, Erling Jensen of Ames and Howard Sprague of Mason City, who by the way won his third vet's crown. The brothers just blew the ball past the older men, and that was just about it.

Sprague dusted Harold McElom in the veteran's singles final. Just about every time Esther Myers took the court in the women's singles, somebody was saying that she couldn't beat her younger opponent. But the Myers lady evidently didn't hear them or believe them. She set down a girl from Newton in the semi-finals, and then tackled Marrian Nissen of Mason City in the finals.

Two years ago, Miss Nissen

With Allen Ashby

had beaten Esther in a tough three set match. But this time it was Esther's turn to win in three sets. That prevented the Nissen girl from getting her third women's singles crown.

In the women's doubles, a pair of ladies who have been in every Hilltop tournament won over a good pair from the country club courts. Bobbie Lavine also got revenge for their loss to Scotti Core and Carol Stewart in the city recreation finals.

Wouldn't tell them for the world, but we were really glad to see them come through. Lavine and Betty Gerberech started out as high school seniors in our meet, and haven't missed one yet.

In the mixed doubles there was about to be a match that would have made Viet Nam look like a Sunday school picnic. Bill Rompf and Esther Myers were paired against Mrs. Sheila Johnson and a fellow from Dubuque named John Mescall. Rompf and Myers were leading in the first set five four when the rains came. Mescall got worried that he might have trouble driving home, and defaulted. We hated to see that come off. The guy really has a good time playing, and plays a lot of tennis. This was one of the few meets that Cecil Brewton wasn't on all the way. But his job called for him to be gone for a couple of days, and we were scared to death that he wouldn't make it back for Sunday morning. Then we would have really had problems.

We missed some of the old standbys. Wonder what happened to big Gary Fletcher. Missed razzing him, and do you know the guy plays a lot of tennis, and might have staged at least one upset. All week we expected to see Pete Mazula of Cedar Falls come sliding around the corner, come to a halt about four feet from the fence, and jump out asking if he were late. But no Pete this year. Jack Silverman had a bad arm, and really should not have played. But he had to get in for one round. Won his match, came to his senses, and defaulted the next one.

We had a lot of help. Mrs. Rhoades worked as if it were her own meet, besides furnishing a ton of food. Big Joe Dorzwiler called matches, and his son acted as ball boy for the women's singles finals. Lloyd Stokestad got into the act, and called the men's doubles and was going to call the mixed doubles. We had the usual loud speaker, but the way that guy booms out, he doesn't need a speaker. With one you could probably hear him down town.

We had a good bunch of juniors. In the boy's divisions, Steve Proctor and John Person of Mason City won a couple of titles. Max Spilka reached the finals in two divisions, and finished second in both. In the girls matches it was Mary Beth Kent and the Classon sisters, Cindy and Betsy, with the Johnson sisters Sue and Julie waiting for a slip. Kathy O'Brian had a good meet, too. Actually, we had more people and winners and matches than we have space to tell about. So we will just say that it was a good meet.

And while we were busy with our tennis, they were having the Iowa Federation track meet at Drake. In that was a fellow we talked about a while back, Don Graves. He ran in the fourth grade and over section, and added three medals to his collection in the quarter, hundred and low hurdles.

Physicians advise that persons with a severe cold or acute sinusitis should not fly.

Chewing and frequent swallowing during descent may help the passenger whose ears get "stuffed up". A nasal spray containing phenylephrine hydrochloride (Neo-Synephrine brand, for example) can be used shortly before or during descent to shrink the nasopharyngeal mucosa.

For the second consecutive year, the number of births in the U.S. has increased, after a downward trend which lasted from 1957-1968. An estimated 3,718,000 births were recorded in 1970. According to a U.S. government report, the rise can be attributed primarily to the increase in the number of women of childbearing age rather than to any increase in the rate at which women are bearing children.

VETERANS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their dependents are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — The savings and loan institution which gave me my GI home loan notified me recently that the interest rate on my balance would be raised because of the rising cost of money. Is this legal?

A — No. Veterans Administration regulations do not permit interest rates to be increased above the contract rate agreed upon at the time the loan was made.

Q — In 1967, while in service, I injured a leg while on approved leave, and lost it above the knee. Even though the accident was adjudged in line of duty, I was denied the $2,800 grant toward the cost of a car. Why?

A — The automobile grant is available to veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict discharged under other than dishonorable conditions, even if the disability is not incurred in performance of duty. For veterans with qualifying disabilities incurred after Jan. 31, 1955, however, the disability must have resulted directly from performance of active duty, unless application for the grant is filed before release from active duty.
