National Key Personalities to Speak At Banquet, Rallies, Etc.

NEW ORLEANS, LA. — The 14th Annual Convention of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) opens here Tuesday, Aug. 17.

Theme of the August 10-13 convention is "The Politics of Poor People — A Movement to End Repression."

Nationally known figures who will speak at a banquet, rallies, workshops and other sessions include Dr. Ralph David Abernathy, SCLC President; former U. S. Senator Eugene J. McCarthy; U. S. Congressman Walter E. Fauntroy; Mrs. Coretta Scott King; John Lewis, Executive Director of the Voter Education Project; Dr. John C. Shabazz, head of the National Democratic Party of Alabama; Mrs. Marian Wright Edelman, Director of the Washington Research Project; Larry Hamm, student and newly appointed member of the Newark, N. J., Board of Education; Gladstone Ntlati; Charles Hightower, Washington Bureau, Director of the American Committee on Africa; and Al Hubbard, of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War.

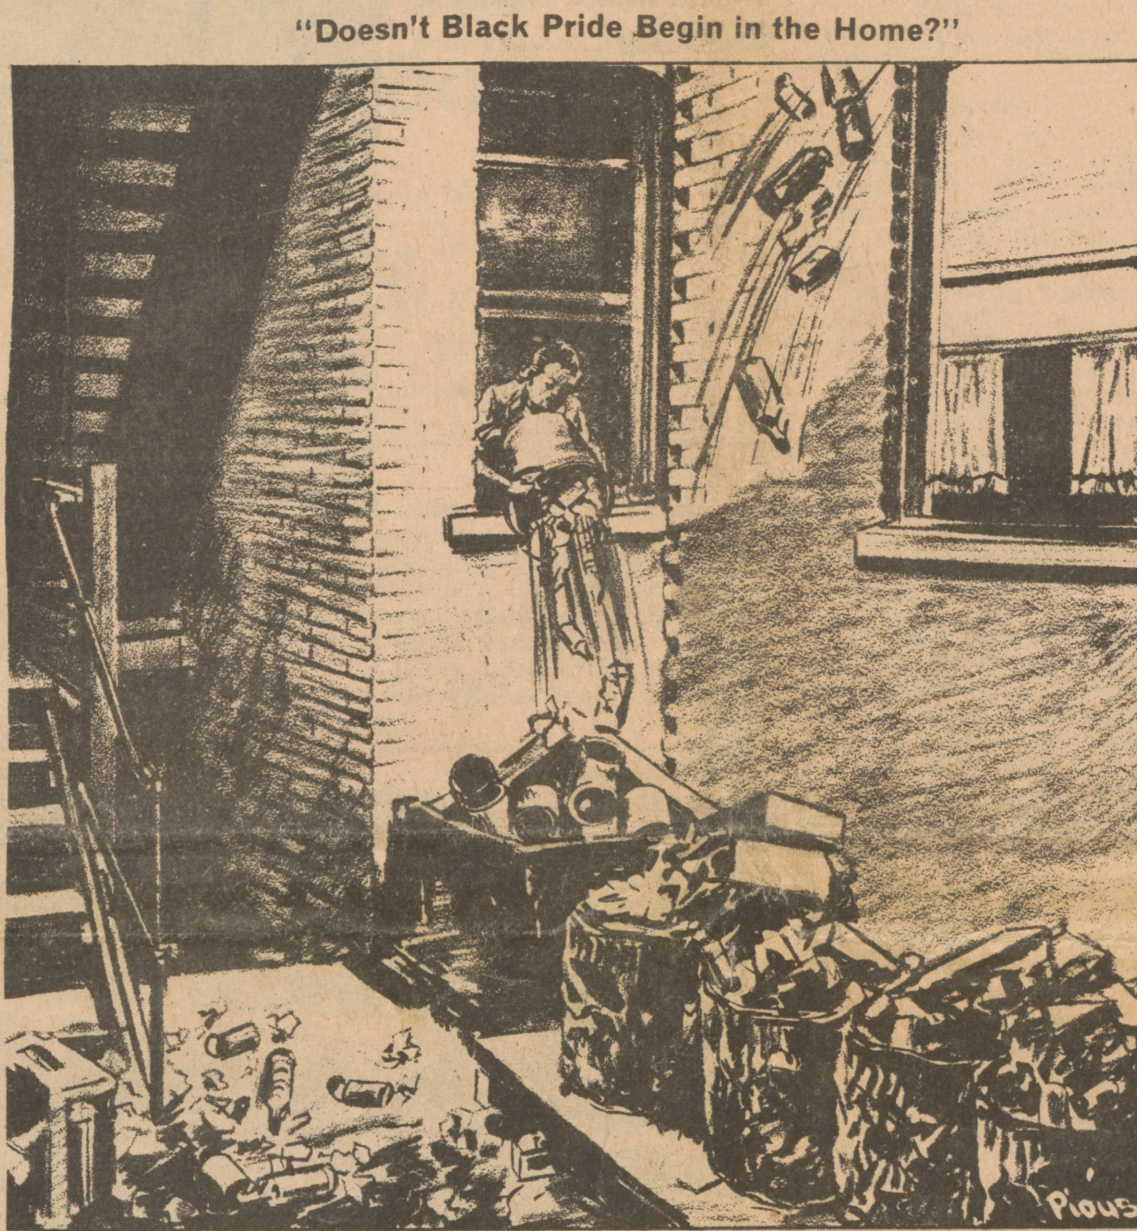

Other highlights include the President's Annual Address by Dr. Abernathy on Wednesday morning; the Annual Banquet Wednesday night; a mass meeting Thursday night; and working sessions Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Various awards and citations will be presented during the course of the convention.

Workshops will cover the subjects of "The Politics of Poor People," "Mechanics of Political Education and Voter Registration," "Economic Crises," "Educational Crises," and "An International Movement."

New Orleans is the location of the meeting which organized SCLC 14 years ago. After the organization was founded in Atlanta on January 10-11, 1957, a follow-up meeting at New Zion Baptist Church in this city was held February 14 that year. Assembling at the church — pastored then and now by Rev. A. L. Davis — were 95 persons representing 35 communities in 10 states.

Among those attending was Judge I. M. Augustine of New Orleans, the first General Counsel of SCLC. At the meeting, SCLC elected officers and directors, with the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., serving as President and Dr. Abernathy as Financial Secretary-Treasurer.

Wee Pals To Grace Bookmobile

A new and unique sight will be seen on Des Moines streets later this month by way of a cartooned bookmobile.

Model Cities and the Des Moines Public Library, in connection with the Meredith Corp., will support a traveling library for use, primarily, in the Model Cities and Southeast Bottoms areas.

Maury Turner, cartoonist of Wee Pals cartoon strip, will be in Des Moines Aug. 23, 24 and 25, to kick off the activities. The bookmobile, decorated with characters from Turner's cartoon strip, will be stocked both with children and adult books but primarily with specialized materials appealing to black children. A press conference breakfast is planned for Turner, Monday, Aug. 23, at the Meredith Corp.

DEFENSE FUND PLEDGE

ATLANTA, GA. — Charging that a "repressive grand jury system" denied Angela Davis her constitutional rights, the National Bar Association pledged $2,500 to her defense.

The predominately black association of judges, lawyers and law professors ended their forty-sixth meeting in Atlanta after declaring that Miss Davis, accused of murder and conspiracy in the death of a California judge, had been held in pretrial detention "for an unprecedented period of time."

Children To Be Tested For Sickle Cell Anemia In New York City

NEW YORK, N. Y. — State Senator Joseph L. Galiber's (D-Bronx) bill mandating the testing of children to determine the presence of Sickle Cell Anemia was signed recently by Gov. Rockefeller.

The bill requires testing at the entrance into the first, third, seventh and eleventh grades. It was originally believed that Sickle Cell Anemia was indigenous only to blacks. However, recent tests have shown it occurring in Mediterranean people, Orientals, Indians, Eskimos, and Latin Americans.

The bill represents a major break-through in the fight against Sickle Cell Anemia. "This is a momentous occasion for children who suffer from this dread disease," said Senator Galiber.

"Many of these children have had their education interrupted because the illness which leaves them fatigued and weakened keeps them out of school causing them to lose valuable time. Moreover," continued the senator, "they are not able to participate in sports and many activities which other children enjoy."

The senator also hopes pre-marital testing will help to stop the disease from being passed on to the offspring of couples who might have the trait.

"When you realize that one out of every 10 black Americans suffers from Sickle Cell Anemia," said Sen. Galiber, "then you can understand my deep concern."

Sen. Galiber is working closely with the Howard Sanders Agency, which will produce a telenovela to raise funds for research in sickle cell, on September 12.

Senate Funds To Fight Sickle Cell Anemia

The Senate approved an appropriations bill to operate the Department of Health, Education and Welfare during Fiscal Year 1972. Included in that legislation were two features sponsored by Sen. Edward Kennedy that will provide federal support for the fight against sickle cell anemia and childhood lead based paint poisoning.

Senator Kennedy's amendments will:

1. Add $6 million for treatment of sickle cell anemia victims. Senate approval of that measure provided a total of $12 million for this disease.
2. Add $7.5 million for childhood lead based paint poisoning — providing a total of $15 million for programs in that area.

In his remarks on the Senate floor, Senator Kennedy said that sickle cell anemia:

"is a disease which affects hundreds and thousands of American citizens. At the present time there is some $6 million in the legislation, but those funds are directed toward the NIH solely for the purpose of research, and, as I understand, have gone to the Heart and Lung Institute at NIH."

Civil Rights Hearing Here

Iowa Civil Rights Commission will hold a public hearing in Des Moines, Iowa in Suite 405 in the Executive Hills Bldg., 1209 E. Court Ave. on August 18th, 1971 at 9:00 A.M. John Strother, Commission Chairman said only that the case involved alleged discrimination on the basis of race and is an employment case. According to statute no details may be disclosed at this time.

Magazine vs. J. Jackson

WACO, TEX. — The July-September issue of The New Christian Digest magazine editorially counters the arguments of some black leaders, specifically the Rev. Jesse Jackson, director of Operation Breadbasket of Chicago, that birth control in the black community is black genocide.

The Digest editorial, written by Rev. Willie White, editor-publisher, stated that the Rev. Jackson's recent statements before the U. S. Commission on Population and Growth were most unfortunate because they will lead many to believe the U. S. "can support an unlimited number of people."

"Birth control is more than a matter of poverty and resources. It is an issue that involves the totality of life," the Digest editorial said.

White said Jackson's unequivocal statement that children are gifts of God will lead many to believe they have the right to bring an unlimited number of "such gifts" into the world.

Dellums Raps Congress At Alpha Phi Alpha Convention

By Marcus Neustadter

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — The thirteen members of the Black Caucus are assuming the responsibility that the congress is not doing, Congressman Ronald V. Dellums (D, Berkeley, Calif.), said here Sunday while addressing a public meeting conducted by Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., in conjunction with its 65th Anniversary Convention.

Congressman Dellums admitted that although he was a Democrat, there is very little difference between the present policies of both major parties, since neither has been able to demonstrate any grave interest where the welfare of the poor is concerned and the present Vietnam conflicts's termination.

Although he was unable to present any documented evidence, he did claim that allegedly Model Cities funds had been used by Washington to conduct a NATO conference.

Dellums said that on his return to the nation's capitol he would be launching an investigation.

Idealist Referring to himself as an idealist, Congressman Dellums said that he was frightened at what he found on Capitol Hill and when introduced as a freshman Congressman.

According to Dellums the recently announced proposed visit of the President to Mainland China will not be in the best interest of Vietnam.

"I believe that President Nixon will make a deal with Red China that will hurt Vietnam, whose citizens are advocates of self-government and independence."

He was high in his praise for the media of communication in the type of timely press coverage that the public has been exposed to.

Des Moines Is Survey Site

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce, will visit a number of households in this area the week of August 16 to obtain information on employment here. Guy A. Lutz, Director of the Census Bureau office in S.T. Paul, in making the announcement, said the households are among the 50,000 across the country that have been scientifically selected to represent a cross section of the American people.

The survey, which the bureau conducts each month for the U. S. Department of Labor, provides a continuing measure of employment and unemployment for the nation.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is confidential by law and results are used only to compile statistical totals in which no individual or household can be identified.

"The press has been able to inform the American people what is exactly happening and this is good," he said.

He told the group that the same congressmen who campaign against welfare benefits are entitled to free medical services and other benefits.

Human Misery

"Here we are collecting rocks on the moon when we ought to be dealing with human misery down here," he said, while adding that the "war in Vietnam is illegal, immoral and insane and we must stop glamorizing and eulogizing the war."

Ironically, a prime feature of the program was the presentation of award to Rear Admiral Samuel L. Gravely of the US Navy and Brig. Gen. Roscoe C. Cartwright of the US Army, who sat throughout Dellums address, seemingly unmoved by his attacks on the military. Gravely was presented the Alpha Award of Honor, the fraternity's highest award, and Cartwright the Award of Merit.

In a brief statement Admiral Gravely said "I consider it an honor to be honored by my fraternity and this is my greatest achievement."

Gen. Cartwright in his acceptance said "This is my shining hour." He is also a member of Alpha which was organized by seven black students attending Cornell University in 1906.

Gov. Rockefeller signs into law the bill, introduced by Senator Joseph Galiber, mandating that each child be tested for symptoms of Sickle Cell Anemia upon entering the New York Public School System and periodically thereafter. Also pictured is Mr. Howard Sanders (r), President of the Telenovela for Research in Sickle Cell Anemia.

New Medical Center Opens On Nineteenth Street

On July first, a new medical facility opened its doors to Des Moines residents.

Four doctors practice at the clinic at 943 19 St. David F. Gordon and Rolando E. Creagh occupy one wing and specialize in heart and cardiovascular problems.

Albert J. Mintzer, an obstetrician, and Frank A. De Sandre, a gynecologist have

The clinic encompasses 10 examining rooms and four consultation offices, and is staffed by four medical nurses.

Special examining rooms are equipped with extensive, modern equipment. An electro-cardiogram machine monitors heart impulses and detects heart disabilities. A treadmill provides maximum exercise and strengthens the cardiovascular muscles.

"We have an academic practice," says Dr. Gordon. "We do everything that can be done in a clinic."

In addition to the clinic, each doctor is affiliated with Broadlawns, Lutheran, Northwest, Des Moines General, Methodist and Veterans Hospital.

Dr. Gordon is a graduate of Bellevue Medical College in New York. Dr. Creagh received medical degrees from the University of Paris and the University of Havana.

Dr. Mintzer graduated from the University of Iowa's Medical School and Dr. DeSandre graduated from Chicago's Medical School at the University of Illinois.

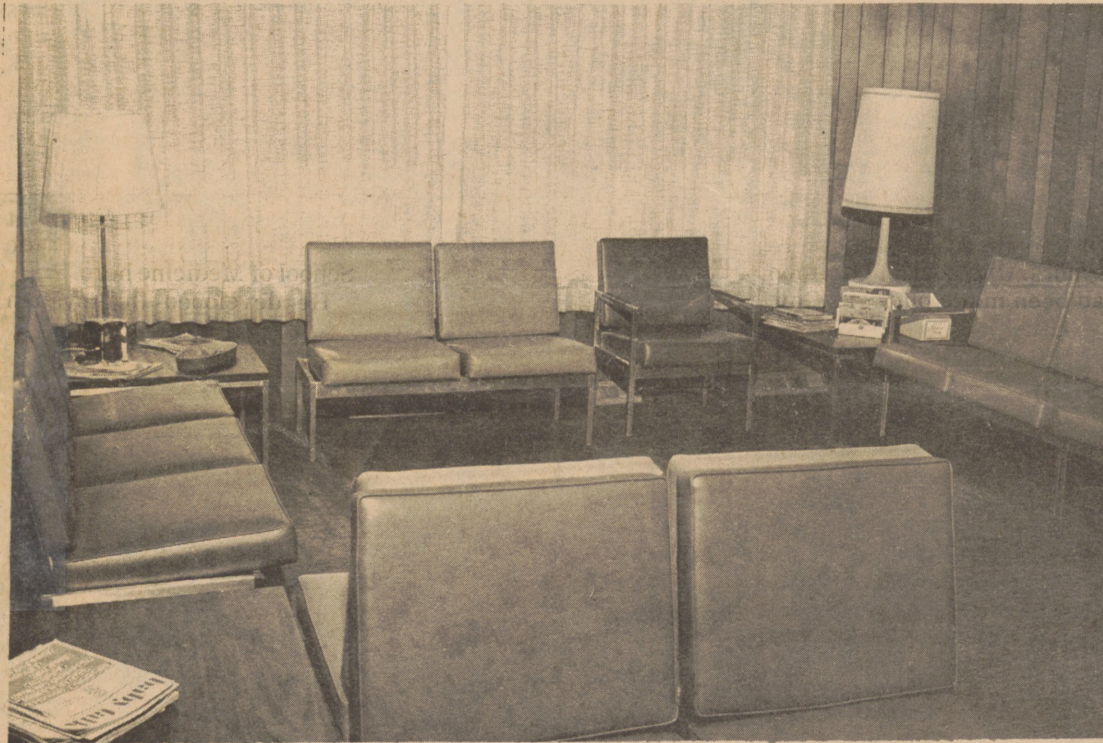

943 Nineteenth Street

The new clinic was contracted for and built by the Professional Office Builders of Madison, Wisc.

Betty Pipkin is shown with the clinic's electrocardiogram machine. The physicians hold the responsibility for financing their equipment.

Neil Sager demonstrates the use of the sterilizing equipment. Sager is a medical student, assisting at the clinic.

Spacious waiting rooms provide a pleasant introduction to the clinic.

Wilkins Supports Busing-- "Correct Racial Imbalance"

AMARILLO, Tex. — Busing of school children for the purpose of integration was strongly supported by Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, at a Freedom Fund dinner celebrating the 26th anniversary of the Association's Amarillo Branch.

"The concept of busing is strictly American," he told some 300 NAACP members and friends attending the dinner here, August 3.

"It was not invented strictly for the benefit of blacks or whites. It has served many purposes besides correction of racial imbalance."

Negro parents who object to busing "forget that neighborhood schools were created by segregation ... and perpetuation of neighborhood schools is perpetuation of a wrong," the NAACP leader said.

Among those seated at the dais table were Amarillo Mayor L. Ray Vahue and Gillespie Wilson, president of the Texas State NAACP. A plaque of appreciation from the local NAACP membership was presented to Dr. Richard Jones, president of the branch.

"The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will oppose any amendment to the Emergency School Assistance Act designed to deny the use of federal funds to bus school children for the purpose of correcting racial imbalance," Roy Wilkins said after President Nixon announced he had instructed the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to draft an amendment to the act to forbid use of its funds for such busing.

The President also repudiated a proposal advanced by HEW providing for extensive busing in Austin, Texas, in order to integrate the schools. He ordered Attorney General John N. Mitchell and HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson to "work with individual school districts to hold busing to the minimum required by law."

Registration Starts Today

New student registration for school-age youngsters in the Des Moines Public School District will be held on Thursday and Friday, August 19 and 20 from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., at each school.

This two-day registration period is for students who have recently moved into the Des Moines School District and for those students who have moved from one school area to another within the District during the summer.

First Federal Employee To Receive League Honor

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Arthur A. Chapin, director of the Labor Department's Office of Equal Employment Opportunity, was recently honored by the National Urban League for his efforts to develop more effective relations between the federal government and the private sector, particularly the League.

The first federal official to receive an award of this type from the League, Chapin accepted the citation at the organization's 61st Annual Conference in Detroit on July 28.

Chapin was credited with working to bring together the resources of the Labor Department, the League and other minority organizations to create more effective means for providing jobs for the disadvantaged.

In his current position, Chapin is responsible for carrying out and coordinating all functions and activities under title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 for the Department of Labor.

Since joining the Department in 1961, Chapin has held several high positions, including serving as special assistant to former Secretaries of Labor Arthur Goldberg and Willard Wirtz.

NAACP & Gulf Oil Discussion

DISCUSS PROBLEMS AND PROGRESS. Black problems and progress was one of the chief areas of discussion when two Gulf Oil officials met with NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins in New York recently. The occasion of the meeting was the presentation of Gulf Oil Corporation's annual contribution to the Association. Presenting the check to Mr. Wilkins are Brenda Joyce of Gulf's Advertising and Public Relations Department in Pittsburgh, and Kenneth L. Hawthorne, Gulf's Sales Manager in New York City. The trio is standing in front of the roster of life members of the NAACP.

Six Southern Governors Write Of Gains In "Ebony"

Six southern governors, their words often echoing the rhetoric of civil rights leaders, called for a new era of racial harmony and prosperity in signed articles appearing in the August issue of Ebony magazine.

Most of the governors told of their appointments of blacks to high state posts and indicated that the segregation which existed in the South only a decade ago is a dead letter today. A seventh governor, Alabama's George Wallace, wrote only that "there is a lot of genuine good feeling between blacks and whites down here." His statement differed from the others submitted both by the absence of any examples of blacks named to high posts and the lack of any appeal for racial brotherhood.

"Fewer Problems"

Whereas Wallace wrote "I feel that the South has fewer problems in regard to race than does the rest of the nation," Gov. John J. McKeithen of Louisiana said he had integrated his state in the past seven years and "we are proud of it, not just because it is the law but because it is the American way." In a related article, though, southern black spokesmen said their region had a long way to go toward racial equality and opportunity. Their statements about the needs of blacks were far stronger than those of the governors. One area of common consent was that some progress had been made but — as Gov. McKeithen said — the job is "far from over."

McKeithen, who said "a great majority of our citizens feel the same way I do" (about racial progress) was joined by Gov. John C. West of South Carolina, who said his "progressive stand" was shared by "the great majority of even the conservative white people" in his state. Such expressions of popular support suggest a major shift in the attitudes of southern whites.

Gov. West wrote, "arguing about race, making it a political issue really is a waste of time and energy and you have little progress as a result." Most of the criticism of his stand, he said, came from outside South Carolina. His statement, appearing in a special issue on "The South Today," was typical of remarks by Governors Linwood Holton, Va.; Robert W. Scott, N.C.; Preston Smith, Tex.; and Reubin Askew, Fla. Virginia's Holton, who pointed out that his first executive order banned discrimination in state employment, declared, "We will show that the American dilemma can at long last be resolved. And we will make a new South beyond anything ever dreamed of in the imagination of Henry Grady."

Gov. West said that "arguing about race, making it a political issue really is a waste of time and energy and you have little progress as a result."

He said most of the criticism he has received from this stand has been "from people in other states" and claimed that most South Carolina white conservatives "have applauded me."

Three southern governors, invited by the Editors of Ebony to submit articles but who failed to respond, were John Bell Williams of Mississippi; Winfield Dunn of Tennessee; and Jimmy Carter of Georgia.

In an editorial comment titled "Looking Upward," the magazine said, "The black man in the South is just reaching the status the black man in the North reached some 25 years ago just after the end of World War II." Noting that southern blacks had won many victories since the Supreme Court struck down school segregation in 1954, the editorial pointed out that southern blacks "earn their living pretty much as they did before the start of the (civil rights) Movement" and added "It is time now that they do better."

Trace Drugs In Humans

DENVER, Colo. — We know what "booze" and "speed" and "downies" and "coke" and "grass" can do — but not how they do it. Not yet, anyway.

But a researcher supported by the Heart Fund has come up with a test-tube system that should help trace chemical routes through which drugs may affect behavior.

The scientist is Dr. Frederick H. Schneider, an established investigator of the American Heart Association, and an assistant professor of pharmacology at the University of Colorado School of Medicine here.

He developed this system while seeking to explain how the body releases the two stress hormones, epinephrine and norepinephrine. These are means through which drugs work some of their effects on the body. Dr. Schneider has been using a cow's adrenal gland to pin down details regarding the release of epinephrine.

His efforts have led to better understanding of how amphetamines, for example, stimulate the release of epinephrine — one reason why people taking these pills may suddenly find their hearts pounding. And they may provide answers to how

Negro Mayor Tells Catholics To Help Nation's Racial Crisis

The first black mayor of a major American city will travel South next week to tell a meeting of Catholic leaders what he thinks a major white religious body can do to help the nation's racial crisis.

Mayor Richard Gordon Hatcher of Gary, Ind., recently renominated by an overwhelming majority after a successful four-year term, will be a featured speaker at the biennial convention of the Chicago-based National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice in New Orleans.

James Groppi

He will be followed by a controversial white priest long active in the black ghetto of another northern urban center, Milwaukee's Rev. James Groppi.

The five-day convention, whose theme is "The Church in the City of Tomorrow," opens at Loyola University on Wednesday, Aug. 18.

Mayor Hatcher's administration is earmarked by his ability to mobilize a wide range of resources, including religious and other non-profit groups, to aid municipal government in solving urban problems," said NCCIJ Chairman Walter Hubbard of Seattle. "That is one of the reasons we believe he has a major contribution to make to this meeting."

Hubbard is a native of New Orleans now on the staff of the Washington State Board Against Discrimination. He was elected at the 1969 convention as NCCIJ's first black chairman.

Father Groppi will be a principal in a workshop on housing and will also address a plenary session of the convention.

Refocus

"Our goal is to refocus the work of the Roman Catholic Church to better cope with today's urban problems — and tomorrow's," said Sister Margaret Ellen Traxler, NCCIJ acting director, "who better than Father Groppi, who has lived and worked for that goal throughout his ministry, can be of more help to our group than he?"

The housing workshop is one of 10 sessions that will zero in on specific target areas including: decision-making in the church, education, health, Hispanic American problems, economic development, communications, international peace, legal justice for the poor and the politics of race.

Keynote speaker for the convention is Arthur Fletcher, assistant secretary of labor and a leading advocate of minority rights in the Nixon Administration.

Four Catholic bishops will also participate: Most Rev.

Joseph A. Durick, bishop of Nashville; Most Rev. Joseph G. Vath, bishop of Birmingham; Most Rev. P.F. Flores, auxiliary bishop of Chicago.

Combat Poverty

Bishop Dempsey was national head of the successful Campaign for Human Development, which raised more than $8 million for the Catholic Church to combat poverty.

NCCIJ is a lay body working through local interracial and human relations bodies to promote racial justice through the power of the church. The 1971 convention is sponsored by the Archdiocese of New Orleans, Loyola University, St. Mary's Dominican College, Xavier University of Louisiana, Knights and Ladies of St. Peter Claver and Notre Dame Seminary.

George F. Lundy, S.J. is convention coordinator, working out of Loyola University offices.

GETTING THINGS DONE

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Responsibility at an early age is what many young people are looking for today. Gary Hooper, a 23-year-old Navy Ensign found it aboard the destroyer USS Collett.

Ensign Hooper completed six weeks of gunnery school in early 1970 and reported aboard his ship as the ship's junior officer and was later assigned as the gunnery officer.

This new challenge is the latest in a series of opportunities which have marked this young professional's career.

Prior to his destroyer assignment, Gary Hooper gained his commission through the Navy's Officer Candidate School at Newport, R.I. After three months of school he was selected from a dozen other outstanding candidates as student commander of the 625-man regiment.

"At first I thought I would decline the regimental job because I felt it might be purely for racial reasons. But one day I happened to overhear a conversation between two of the officers in which they said I was chosen because of my ideas and some of my recommendations and not race," the young officer explained.

Ens. Gary R. Hooper takes a sighting from the gun director mount of the destroyer USS Collett. Hooper is gunnery officer of the Collett.

"I accepted the job because a challenge has always appealed to me. I like breaking the ice and getting things done."

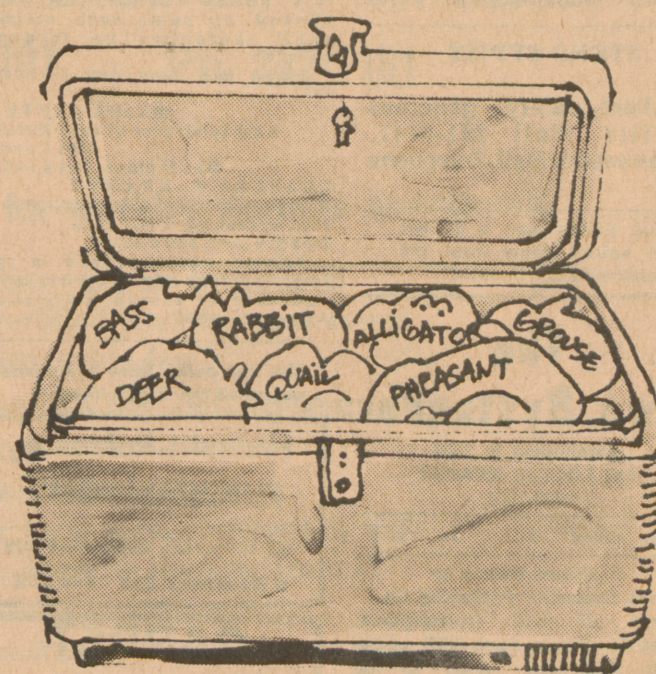

Prior to joining the Navy, he was employed by a national insurance company as a supervisor and worked nights in a retail store to finance his education at San Jose State College where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Marketing.

When asked why he chose the Navy, he explained, "I came into the Navy for two reasons. After researching the services I found that the Navy gave me responsibility at an early age. I really felt that it was the only one which did, and secondly, I wanted to show my community that the Navy gave the black man an equal opportunity and that you did not have to be from a high-class neighborhood to become a naval officer."

Queen's Way to Fashion

The soft, pretty colors of ancient Greek pottery are making fashion news. Tints of terra cotta, browned blues, burnt sienna and dusty rose are the perfect complements for the new soft knits.

The colors are so muted and earthy they can be mixed beautifully for a subtle, layered look. Or, several shades of one color, from palest pink to deep rose, for example, can create a beautiful monochromatic effect.

Whatever your choice this year, look to the total, color-complementary approach when mixing and matching your outfits. Colors do wonders for all sizes and shapes and are at their best when paired precisely as well as tastefully.

TRAVEL TIPS

Sun bedazzlement on the highway can have grave consequences, so screen out blinding solar glare with sunglasses when you are driving.

Be sure, however, not to compromise safety with false economy. Cheap sunglasses distort images and dim out required light without blocking sufficient quantities of harmful ultraviolet and infrared rays. All of these deficiencies are invitations to highway tragedy.

For just a few dollars more, you can obtain stylish sunglasses, like American Optical Sunvogue® sunglasses, that have optically ground and polished lenses that are not only distortion-free but heat-hardened for impact resistance. These traveling companions are available at your local department stores, and if you need prescription sunglasses ask your eye-care specialist.

Look through them for safer fun-in-the-sun driving. And, to be certain that you're always protected from dangerous glare — keep an extra pair in your glove compartment.

Dr. Schneider's work also offers a promising means of developing and testing new agents that may curb the damaging effects of amphetamines, as well as alcohol, barbiturates, cocaine, marijuana and other drugs.

The release mechanism he found was explained by Dr. Schneider in a recent interview. It is called exocytosis, literally "out of the cell." Epinephrine is made and housed in tiny sacs or vesicles which are found in the medulla, the inner portion of the adrenal gland. During stress (exercise or fear) the adrenal medulla is stimulated by nearby nerves which release a substance called acetylcholine. It causes charged calcium atoms to accumulate in the vicinity, and this aggregation prompts the vesicles to move and cling to the inner surface of the membranes of the cells within the adrenal medulla. From then on it's just a matter of spilling their content out into the bloodstream. The next thing you know, the heart is banging harder and faster. And if you drew a blood sample you'd also see a big upsurge in the amount of free fatty acids and glucose (sugar). For one of the other things the stress hormones do is mobilize the body's supply of stored food so that there is a quick energy source on tap if needed right away. This is why they sometimes are called the fright-flight-fight hormones.

Now, Dr. Schneider is working to set up an even simpler model of exocytosis. No cells, he says, just pure vesicles and pieces of cell membrane — the basics. Then he'll add different kinds of drugs and see how they affect the system.

War Condemnation Ends Fraternity's Annual Convention

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity closed its 65th Anniversary Convention here Friday after adopting a public policy statement condemning this country's involvement in the war in Southeast Asia and for the President and Congress to direct their attention immediately to the solution of all problems that are facing this country's domestic and foreign image.

Spokesman for the fraternity, which had been in deliberation here for the past six days at the Sheraton - Schroeder Hotel, was the Honorable Ernest N. Morial, a New Orleans, La., Juvenile Court Judge.

He said that "Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity condemns this country's involvement in the war in Southeast Asia because it is immoral, unjust, and costs too much in lives and money, and a disproportionately high percentage of blacks have fought and died without having enjoyed the human rights themselves that they were supposed to have been protecting for others."

Judge Morial said that the fraternity is demanding the immediate withdrawal of all American armed forces and advisors from Southeast Asia.

Recognize Priorities

He added that the group is requesting that the "National Administration recognize and give top priorities to our urban crisis. Our primary concern is our urban ghettos. The black population in the ten largest cities has increased tremendously during the past two decades. The areas in these cities where black people live have the most deteriorated housing, the oldest and most overcrowded schools, the highest rate of unemployment, the lowest median family income, the least political participation and the highest rates of crimes to persons.

"Alpha Phi Alpha urges the Federal Government to lead the way in implementing fair employment practices both in Washington and all of its field agencies.

"American business and industry are making some progress in hiring blacks and other minorities. However, the 'instant black' or the 'necessary Negro' is still, generally, the order of the day in far too many of the nation's business organizations," he said, adding that "the business community, like the federal government, must move away from the quota system. It must see the advancement of minorities as a step toward minimizing the welfare programs that many of its members deplore."

The statement was strong in condemning what it called "Racism in the Broadcasting News Media," in that there is the continual denial of employment to black reporters at the network level.

Black Reporters

"The 26,000,000 black Americans, including the 40,000 members of Alpha Phi Alpha, who like other Americans, daily observe the newscasts and purchase the products of their sponsors, are distraught and disappointed at the continual denial of equal employment in one of this nation's most vital industries." The statement called for immediate employment of blacks for network reporters without restrictions.

The fraternity's statement strongly supports the recommendations made to the President last spring by the Congressional Black Caucus, and urges that the President use his high office to assist in bringing about the immediate implementation of these recommendations from the 13 black members of the United States House of Representatives.

Memorial For Whitney Young

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Groundbreaking ceremonies for a multi-million dollar housing development to be called the Whitney M. Young, Jr. Manor, were held here Friday.

This is of special importance in the Colorado Springs area because the presence of five major military installations in the immediate vicinity, combined with the prevailing housing shortage means that many low-income servicemen are living in squalor.

Richard Roundtree, star of MGM's "Shaft", starts upfield flanked by New York Jets running backs Matt Snell (1) and Emerson Boozer during recent workout with the team at their Hofstra University training camp.

Negro Athlete Turns Actor In "Shaft"

HEMPSTEAD, LONG ISLAND — If the success of Richard Roundtree in his first starring role in the smash MGM film "Shaft" rubs off on Joe Namath, Matt Snell, Emerson Boozer and the rest of the New York Jets football team, then Roundtree may be a regular pre-season visitor to the Hofstra University training camp.

Roundtree, who played collegiate football at Southern Illinois University, but opted instead for a career as an actor, worked out with the 1968 World Champion Jets recently and proved he still has football instincts on a few practice handoffs from Jet Quarterback Joe Namath.

Namath, who's logged a few hours on the silver screen himself, seemed a bit relieved when Roundtree informed him of his college position as a defensive back.

"I'm glad you didn't say quarterback," quipped Namath, who showed no ill effects from his broken wrist which sidelined him for most of the season last year.

Talking with Jet veterans Snell and Boozer about movies and football, Roundtree pointed out that the next SHAFT film will probably go into production in December as the football season draws to a close.

"We hope to finish shooting in the Caribbean in time to get back for the Super Bowl," Roundtree said to Snell. "so I'll probably stop by and say hello again."

Roundtree seems confident enough about the Jets. Now it's up to them.

Petty Officer Holliday Serves With Navy's Blue Angels

WASHINGTON, D.C. — At speeds of over 500 miles-per-hour, the crack pilots of the Navy's Blue Angel Flight Demonstration Team perform breathtaking aerial maneuvers for communities across the country and overseas.

What's it like to be a member of this famous team?

Sacrifices

For Petty Officer Ronald E. Holliday, a native of South Carolina, it means making sacrifices such as being away from his wife, Linda, and their two children 230 days a year as he travels with the team. Most of all it means working long hours, living out of a suitcase week after week and performing the duties required of a crew chief for the team's lead solo F-4 Phantom jet. Holliday, an Aviation Structural Mechanic Second Class, explained his feelings about his assignment with the Angels this way: "I think it's an honor because you're picked for the team only if you're considered tops in your field."

Although a man is hand picked for his job by the Bureau of Naval Personnel he has the right to reject the assignment. "I accepted my orders because I saw a challenge," stated Petty Officer Holliday, who joined the Angels in March 1970.

As crew chief, the 28-year-old Holliday is responsible for the mechanical maintenance of his aircraft as well as assisting other crew chiefs with their problems when the need arises. Of his pilot and his job, Petty Officer Holliday commented, "My pilot, Navy Lieutenant Marvin Umstead, is a good head. If I say I've done something, he accepts my word. It's a great feeling to know a man has confidence in you and respects your opinion."

Pit Crew Chief

Holliday's job might be compared to that of a racing driver's crew chief. When the "race" is over, there is barely enough time for the pilot to say "well done" before the crew prepares for the next "race."

"I must admit though," he said, "I'm on pins and needles while he is up there. I feel my job isn't done until he lands and I greet him."

Sometimes Holliday's job calls for working into the wee hours of the morning preparing for an airshow. Recently, his jet's engine was severely damaged during a pre-show demonstration at the Oceana Naval Air Station, Va., and required an engine change. Holliday's crew spent half the night changing the engine after flying to Pensacola, Fla. (the home of the Angels) to pick up a new one. All of this was done in time for the airshow the next day.

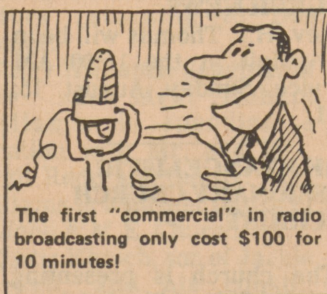

Black English Debate Featured In Magazine

NEW YORK — The debate on "black English" continues in the August issue of The Crisis (out this week) in a scholarly analysis of American speech patterns by Dr. Juanita V. Williamson, a linguist now teaching at Le Moyne College, in Memphis.

Dr. Williamson concludes that examples cited in her paper "are neither black nor white, but American. Some . . . may be found in the speech of people everywhere. Some like 'I'mo' are standard southern English. Others are non-standard Southern."

In addition to Dr. Williamson's lead article the magazine publishes a letter from the Ford Foundation and another from Brooklyn College, each stating a view in support of the program which, each asserts, does not involve the teaching of "black English" but rather its utilization to teach standard English.

ESTES PARK, COLORADO: Vacationing but passing along news gathered from home! When there is space, will fill in more about this setting.

RECEIVED GREETINGS FROM JUDGE AND MRS. LUTHER T. GLANTON, JR. and son, Luther, III, from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, where the Judge attended the World Assembly of Judges Meeting. The Glantons found Belgrade most interesting and, among other points, have visited Amsterdam, Brussels, Jordan, Dublin, Frankfurt, Rome and Paris.

THELMA CLARK (MRS. LOYATUS) graciously shared her travel log with me so that those of us who have not visited her vacation site, may enjoy news of the unusual! We find her now in Montego Bay, Jamaica! "On July 28, we docked off the "Starwood" in the Caribbean Sea at Montego Bay whose population is approximately 50,000, 95 per cent of whom are Jamaican. Austin Blake, our tour guide, took us first to Bouge Heights, a residential area of bananas and coconut plantations. Going through these picturesque mountains we passed the Pepsi Cola factory, viewed famed Broadway producer, Billy Rose's mansion; were enraptured by the many wood carving stands selling mahogany furniture and antiques; watched the Jamaicans fishing in The Great River, its water quite clear and blue.

THE CARIBBEAN SEA WAS A BEAUTIFUL background for the Starwood, a Norwegian Liner. The drive was very scenic and its beautiful open front residences in the $30,000 to $300,000 price range most impressive. We saw the residence of Douglas Dillon, whose picture appears on U.S. currency. We next found ourselves in Hope Well, a lovely mountain town. This area had many mahogany furniture factories, stretches of bamboo trees. Next were Plantation Mountains' Friendship Pimento Estates, standing 1300 feet in the mountains. At this point, the tour guide's Cadillac bus broke down. The pause served well for picture taking. Having changed to another bus we finally arrived at the plantation proper. Here we watched the Jamaican youngsters skillfully climb the coconut trees.

IT WAS AT THIS 1200 FEET HIGH spot with its temperature of 82 degrees, that we were served coconut and lime juice with rum punch. Touring the spot, we saw the gingerlilies, pimento trees from which spices are made, guava which when boiled, makes jelly. We saw papaya, an allspice resembling cantaloupe, banana trees filled with fruit, and blocks of banana loaded trucks ready to fill the boats.

HERE, TOO, WERE SOURSAP TREES the fruit of which is used for medicine. Bachelor ladies, a type of flower which closes when touched, were seen here. Close by was the tree that produces the small, red Jamaican apple. The coffee bean trees were loaded, and will soon ripen to a red color when they will be picked and dried. This, the Jamaican coffee, was served on ship.

THE IRONSIDE HOUSING SITE was Montego's first condominium and so this type of housing is being repeated on the islands. Signs reading "Don't leave the country without us" are posted along the highway much like our speed limit signs. Along the seashore is a newly completed Holiday Inn of some 550 rooms. We explored an old sugar mill and an old fort with cannons intact which once guarded the seacoast many, many years ago.

A HOSPITAL AND SIX HOTELS, Montego Beach, Sunset Lodge, Carlyle Beach, Chatham Beach, oldest of them all, Spanish House and Bay Roc Hotel provide a fantastic place to visit. Close by is the airport from which Jamaican lines fly out over the Caribbean Sea to the other islands.

SHOPPING IN DOWNTOWN-MONTEGO BAY was a pleasure. The populace was preparing for its August 2 celebration; the resulting beautiful decorations of lights and torches were most exciting. At night street dances were held. A Jamaican style show was held aboard ship advertising the city shops. The colors and prints were beautiful in the sportswear and evening clothes modeled. Coca colas were 25 cents higher than in the states, but under the hot Jamaican sun, tasted better than any enjoyed in Iowa.

THELMA WAS ACCOMPANIED by her gorgeous daughter, the former Delores Duncan. Needless to say Delores' loveliness and charm brightened the event for their party and heightened the pleasure of occasion for all who met her and her mother.

staff to develop meaningful opportunities and to promote sincere commitment on the part of all involved to relieve the estimated 35 per cent unemployment level within the Black community." He continued, "we all must strive to be what we represent ourselves to be and it will be this program's intent to offer these alternatives."

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. If a bride's time is very limited before her wedding, and there are a great number of gifts to acknowledge, wouldn't it be all right under these circumstances to mail out printed thank-you cards?

A. Never, NEVER! If a bride doesn't consider her friends worthy of the time and effort to thank them with personally written notes, then she isn't worthy of friends.

Q. When meat is passed at the table, and the portion closest to you is too big or doesn't suit you, is it all right to search through the portions until you find a desirable piece?

A. Yes, if you can accomplish this without too much fuss or delay.

Q. Is it always necessary to respond with "You're welcome," when someone else says "Thank you?"

A. Certainly SOME response is in order, and "You're welcome" is just about the best.

Q. If you're a guest at a party which seems to be dragging, is it all right for you to attempt to pep it up by suggesting a card game, or by sitting down at the piano?

A. Never! The party is your host's responsibility, and any suggestions from you could be taken as insults on his entertaining abilities. If your host asks others received citations for outstanding work in city, state and nation.

Mrs. Pauline Humphrey, owner of the Crescent Beauty School in Des Moines, presided.

The banquet was addressed by Henry R. Davenport, business executive of Mobile, Alabama. Mrs. Ruth Valentine delivered the principal address at a session of Theta Nu Sigma Beauticians' Sorority.

Miss Hazel Patterson, Burlington, North Carolina, was crowned "Miss Institute 1971" and her king was Leroy Smith of Washington, D.C. They were accorded all honors by president, Dr. Katie E. Whickam and the officers and others in the institute.

Rev. Jessie Jackson, head of "Operation Breadbasket" was the speaker on Wednesday at a special session for the group.

Miami will be the site of the 1972 meeting.

Mrs. Humphrey was reelected to the executive board. Ernestine Parker of Des Moines was to have attended the convention but was occupied in preparation for the all state cosmetology convention.

for suggestions, it's all right to offer them -- but don't ever take over the reins.

Q. How late at night is it proper for a young man to phone a girl at her home?

A. This would largely depend upon the custom of that girl's family, and their feelings in the matter. Generally speaking, I think that ten o'clock should be the latest.

Q. Is it correct to mail out invitations written in pencil or typed out over the hostess' handwritten name?

A. No. Invitations should be handwritten in ink -- or engraved. The pencil and the typewriter are out!

Q. I have received a number of wedding gifts from out-of-town relatives of my husband, persons I've never even seen. What salutation should I make to each of these persons in my thank-you notes?

A. Address each relative of your husband as he does -- "Aunt Mary," "Uncle Joe," "Cousin Bill."

Q. When a husband and wife are entertaining another couple at dinner in their home, who pulls out whose chair when being seated at the table?

A. It is customary for the host to seat the visiting woman, and for the male guest to perform the same courtesy for the hostess.

Prepared by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the national society of life insurance professionals who have earned the C.L.U. designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

QUESTION: My husband is planning to buy an educational life insurance policy to guarantee our 6-year old son's four years in college, whether my husband lives or dies. What's more, he wants to guarantee that our son goes to his old alma mater and wants to have the policy made payable to the university. Would that be possible?

ANSWER: Don't do it. Making the policy payable to the university won't guarantee that the school will accept your son after looking at his grades. And what if he decides, since young people have minds of their own, to go to a different college "no matter what?"

Your husband will be better off making the policy payable to you to hold for your son. This means that you'd get the money and put it aside for your son until it's time for college.

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...

Was haircoloring first done in Africa?

Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions...to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.

Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairol® Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.

Today black pride brings you closer to the cultural ways of your African heritage. Haircoloring is a part of black history too. Ask your professional hairdresser about changing your hair color with Miss Clairol...and be more beautiful than you already are.

Propes To Head O.J.T. Program

Victor L. Propes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Propes, was appointed Director of the St. Paul, Minn. Urban League's on-the-job training program.

Funded by the Dept. of Labor and administered by the National Urban League and local affiliates, the program is designed to relieve unemployment and under-employment of minority persons.

"This program's aim and design is to offer honest opportunities to minorities, in particular, who have suffered exploitation in this economic system." Propes stated in a recent interview with the St. Paul press. "I intend to use the funds and energies of my

Black Pride Is No Substitute For Money

Ignorance of facts and inexperience cause people to draw a lot of faulty conclusions. And that is why we are getting some false notions about the status of the Negro in Des Moines today.

A glaring example of this is the notion that "Black Pride" is a new drawback to interracial housing and that very little has been done in Des Moines. Integration has not scattered a lot of Negroes over Des Moines but some are living in all sections of the town, more than some think. True, most real estate operators won't show houses to Negroes in so-called white neighborhoods, not because some do not wish to make the sale but because of the heat they take from "his organization".

But it can be done and is being done by individuals who want to sell and will deal direct; it can be done if Negroes have the money to buy more 30 and 50 thousand dollar houses. And Negroes do have some and they are not located in so-called Negro neighborhoods.

When a man decides to buy a home, he must first consider his finances, whether it is comparable to other houses in a location which fixes the loan value, possible resale, schools, his status in life. Few people know their neighbors anymore for fear of "becoming involved".

Most Negroes live in the same neighborhoods in Des Moines because they don't have the money to buy elsewhere. For the same reason, whites of the same income status do the same thing.

There was a time when most lending agencies would not loan money to a Negro to finance a home; later to buy a home in a so-called white neighborhood. Generally, this is not true today although some cling to the old position that race rather than responsibility guides their policy in making loans.

When a man has the money to buy a fine home, black pride is not going to have weight in its location. Too often black pride is an excuse for having no money. It buys nothing.

Negroes must quit using this black business as a deterrent for everything he tries to do. Money, education, responsibility and a determination to be somebody are the answers. And with them he can get a lot of help on the way as is evidenced by where and how many are living and working in Des Moines today.

Poor Planning Costs Extra Cash Here

When these streets were paved no side walks were provided in spite of the fact that they are well traveled.

Two years later, now, sidewalks are being put in. Had the job been done at the time the street was paved, the job could have been done a lot cheaper. But the planners have just recognized the need.

Government bodies have more experts and planners than ever before. And in spite of these experts, a lot of projects are carried on which cost the tax payers extra money because of poor planning.

An excellent example of this is the paving of Oakridge Drive and 12th Street south of Keo Way.

Why Continue To Carry Dead Wood?

It has long been recognized by many people that nations can no longer refuse to open up cooperation between Communist China if peaceful relations can ever be achieved.

Since President Nixon announced his proposed trip to China, objections have come from conservatives but by and large, most people look upon it as a chance to not only advance world peace but also to help our economic position.

Our recently pronounced policy toward China, which recognizes Nationalist China along with Red China, has met furious objections from Peking and rightly so. True, we have supported, backed and recognized the Nationalists as the government of China, but as a practical matter, our position is impractical and a loss of money in an effort to maintain it.

Governments taken over by power plays maintain themselves because of that power. While it is not our policy to desert friends, as a matter of practical sense the nationalist government of China has no chance of ever taking the mainland. For this reason, we are not abandoning our friends but helping them dispel impractical dreams.

It is no disgrace to abandon a policy which has accomplished nothing since it was adopted, and has no chance of doing better in coming years.

Health for All

Whales sing incredible songs underwater. Some scientists and musicians say the songs are the most beautiful sounds in the world. That world is now threatened by man.

The cavernous sounds are strangely melodious, according to Dr. Rogers S. Payne, a research scientist at Rockefeller University, who has recorded the songs. They begin on a low pitch, rise slowly to a higher frequency, and sound for an instant like an oboe and muted cornet. Then they trail off into an eerie wail like melancholy bagpipes.

"Nobody knows how they make the sounds," says Dr. Payne. "They have no vocal chords, but we think it's with their larynx and the air in their lungs."

Scientists think the lowest notes of the songs may travel tens, even hundreds of miles through the ocean's deep sound channel, probably carrying clear messages to other whales vast distances away.

When folksinger Pete Seeger heard the recordings of humpback whale songs made by the New York Zoological Society, he composed, "The Song of the World's Last Whale" and turned over the song rights to the Whale Fund at the Society, which is trying to save the mammals from extinction.

A decade ago, Rachel Carson predicted a future with silent Springs as songbirds were wiped out by man's pesticides and pollution. Soon the seas may be silent because of pollution and overkilling.

Plankton, the diet of whales, is also threatened by the increasing pollution in the oceans. Without this fragile plant life, even human life cannot survive long because plankton produces 70 percent of the free oxygen in our atmosphere.

Conserving our natural environment is now a necessity, not a luxury. To find out more about how pollution affects the air we breathe, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association, before silence sets in. Polk County Tuberculosis & Respiratory Disease Assoc.

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

Well, sir, the baseball season is just getting down to the show down months, and here comes the football season. The college all stars played the world's champs a lot closer than the score indicates, and with a couple of breaks might have taken them.

Now I hear stories of stars quitting training camps, getting injured and out for most of the season, and just any number of things that make up football news.

Here close to home, there was a pro game last week, with the Des Moines Vikings beating a team of what may have been sand lotters by a lopsided score. Just about every one I meet wants to know what Iowa is going to have this year. Wish I knew.

The spring game didn't show too much, because the first team played the reserves all the way, and it wasn't really a test. But after studying their schedule, we give the Hawks a possible six games. Who? Don't pin me down.

Iowa State may win more games than people think they will, and Drake has a pretty good chance for another winning season. I haven't forgotten that I would like to hear Coach Wallace's ideas as to why there aren't very many black players on the club.

That takes care of the big three, although some guy says it should be the big four, including UNI. Maybe he is right, but until the other fellows include the northerners, I will go with the gang.

Now back to baseball. The fact that the season is in its showdown stage is reflected in the attendance figures. The teams that don't have a chance to finish in the money are drawing crowds of from five to eight thousand, while the teams having a slim chance are pulling in from 10 to 20 thousand, and the real pennant contenders are getting crowds of maybe 30 thousand or more.

That big 80 thousand capacity stadium of the Cleveland Indians must look sad with about five or six thousand people in it. Bet you have to look for them with search warrants.

But the funny thing is that no matter where the Chicago Cubs are in the pennant race, they pull big crowds. I don't think another major league club can say that.

The only time Oakland draws anybody is when Vida Blue pitches, and now that he has his twentieth win, and faces almost impossible odds to make it 30 he probably won't pack them in. And that team will win their division crown.

I was glad that the powers of baseball finally decided to forget that segregated Baseball Hall of Fame and voted Satchel Paige into the real one. The fellow would have made it on his own but for that stupid color bar.

There were a lot of others who should make it, and maybe they might: Josh Gibson, Cool Papa Bell, our friend Chet Brewer, Bullet Rogan, Buck O'Neil, and maybe several others, but that will do for openers. Nobody will ever know how great those guys were, but the major leaguers who faced them in their day.

When Jackie Robinson was selected to break the organized ball color line, black baseball followers were not expecting him to be chosen.

They had in mind a fellow named T. J. Brown. They all agreed that Brown was a better all around player than Robinson, in spite of the fact that the latter was a star. But it was said that Brown could never have gone through what Jackie did in order to make it.

People said that T. J. would have met some of those bigots on the way home and might have left them lying where they fell. So, it turns out that Jackie was the wisest selection after all.

For years I was afraid the baseball followers of Negro baseball were going to come up with a black hall of fame. They initiated the white setup in just about everything else, two leagues when they really needed but one; a black world's series.

I still have somewhere a couple of autographed baseballs from Brewer in which he pitched and won two of those games against Pittsburgh. Hope I can find those balls and be sure of who the Monarchs played.

So it followed that a black hall of fame was next. But somehow, they never got around to it, and I am glad.

But, how are you going to know about the great black players? There are some books out on black athletes and their history. Then, maybe the black magazines will come up with some history, as the white ones do now and then.

I was informed that there will be little league football setup in the Model Cities area for kids who can't make it to the far away practice fields and games.

Now, please, fellows! Don't wait until your season is over and then ask me why I didn't write about your teams. Send in news, any news about your teams, and let me know what I can do to help, and I will try to do it.

A New Answer to America's Cleanup Problem

Community expenditures for trash collection and disposal are exceeded only by expenditures for schools and roads, and are increasing rapidly. Two major reasons for this explosion of garbage are the growth of our population and the development of convenience products which use comparatively elaborate packaging for comparatively small amounts of food and other products.

Americans have become accustomed to buying the spray can instead of the bottle, which hold more liquid product for the same amount of packaging, and to the convenient box of frozen mashed potatoes instead of the larger paper bag filled with spuds. Fancy packaging is nice, and we all love it, but it adds to the growing problem of waste disposal. The answer?

City planners, food service experts, home owners and factory managers are turning to a new system that is based on the use of large waterproof paper sacks to hold garbage. By replacing the noisy, smelly, heavy and unsanitary garbage can, such paper sacks can increase garbage pickup efficiency by 20% or more.

Thanks to the "biodegradability" of paper bags—the fact that they are biologically "degraded" or broken down chemically by soil bacteria, garbage can be efficiently disposed of in a way that does not contribute to air pollution. Instead of burning the bags, together with the garbage, the whole package can be buried under the earth.

In a matter of months, natural processes then convert the whole package back to the soil—bag and all. If bags were made of plastic or some other material that is not biodegradable, ble, conversion might be delayed years, possibly decades! The system has been in use in the U.S. since 1962, when the town of College Park, Md. adopted it after a series of tests. Further information about the College Park experience, as well as that of dozens of other municipalities, can be obtained by writing the National Refuse Sack Council, 60 East 42nd Street, New York, New York 10017.

VETERANS

Q — I plan to travel this summer and will not have a mailing address to receive my compensation check. What can I do about this?

A — The Veterans Administration will send your check to your bank for deposit if you submit a VA change of address form or a letter over your signature. You should also obtain two power of attorney forms from the VA, one to give your bank as evidence of its right to receive and deposit the checks to your account, and the other to be retained by you.

Q — I hear that I won't get any dividends if I convert my term GI insurance to a modified life plan. Is that true?

A — Not true. At present, dividends are being paid on modified life policies. They would be smaller than on your present policy, but this should not influence your decision too much. Compare the premium rate for a modified life policy at your present age with the rate for a term policy at ages above 50. VA Pamphlet 29-22 which provides comparative details is available at any VA office or by writing to the VA.

Q — I submitted an application to the Veterans Administration for dental treatment. Since I live 150 miles from the nearest VA clinic, I'm wondering if I will be required to go there for treatment?

A — No. The VA will send you an authorization plus examination papers. Have your dentist complete the examination papers and return them to the VA. After VA reviews the examination papers, you will receive additional authority for treatment. You should not make any appointments or have any treatment until you receive this authority from VA.

Q — I am moving next month. Should I notify the Veterans Administration or the Treasury Department so I'll get my pension check at my new address?

A — You should notify the VA regional office where your records are filed giving your claim number and your old and new address. Also notify your post office but not the Treasury Department.

Q — I changed from college to a vocational school and now would like to make a second change. Is this permissible under the GI Bill?

A — Yes, the Veterans Administration may approve the second change if after counseling the new program is found to be in keeping with your abilities and interest and if there is a reasonable chance you can successfully complete the program.

Q — Who is eligible for a mobile home loan?

A — Veterans and eligible widows of World War II, Korean Conflict, Post Korean

Conflict, Vietnam Era; wives of servicemen missing in action or captured for more than 90 days, and servicemen who have served at least 181 days of active duty, providing they have their full real estate entitlement of $12,500 available.

Keeping The FAITH

In view of the turbulent cross-currents in the mainstream of today's religious thought, a carefully formulated expression of the four leading Christian doctrines deserves our most thoughtful consideration.

At age 57, Emanuel Swedenborg, whom Emerson called "The Aristotle of the North," gave up a distinguished and fruitful career as a natural scientist to devote the rest of his life to theology. Using Hebrew, Greek, and Latin Bibles as his only texts, he dedicated himself to a profound study of the Word of God.
