Texas Hosts Shriners' Convention

Working Together Is Annual Theme

By Marcus Neustadter, Jr.
Houston, Tex. — The Prince Hall Masons came to the Southwest for their annual convention, which was held at the Shamrock Hilton Hotel, August 15-20.

Charles A. Dargan, of New York City, retiring imperial potentate, presided over the 78th annual session of the Imperial Council, A.E.A.O.N.M.S., and Mrs. Gladys W. Dixon, of Baltimore, Md., Imperial Commandress, presided over the 60th annual session of the Imperial Court, Daughter of Isis.

Using as their theme "Working Together for Everyone," the Imperial Potentate set the convention's tempo in his annual message when he called upon the more than 15,000 delegates and visitors to return to their respective communities and work for the unification of their people.

"We believe that a fraternal organization, to justify its existence, must make definite contributions to the welfare of the communities wherever our membership resides by disbursing charity, encouraging participation in civic and political activities, and assisting the economic development of blacks particularly. The economic condition of Negroes is growing worse daily," said Dargan.

According to the Imperial Potentate of some 60,000 Shriners the world's condition is probably at its lowest ebb.

"We are keenly aware of the state of unrest in our country. Race is being pitted against race, class against class, and many of our officials are under indictment. The high rate of drug abuse, unemployment and underemployment, slum ghettos and the war in Viet Nam are among the major problems we are now facing, and "we are urging the President to extend himself and resources to solve each."

"We must work to free our communities of the menaces which are now plaguing them, and we cannot expect presidential declarations or court actions to do the complete job. Much depends upon you and me. The government should take another look at the problems of health, education and welfare before sending another rock collection party to the moon. Men are dying daily not just from cancer and heart disease, but from the lack of food, clothing and shelter in a land of plenty. We cannot enjoy a full life until you can accept the other man as your brother and equal," he said.

William H. Howe, of Philadelphia, Pa., deputy imperial potentate, assigned in the opening ceremonies, along with Marshall S. Johnson, Pittsburg, Pa., imperial assistant rabban; Beaumont, imperial high priest and prophet; Eugene Dickerson, Washington, D.C., imperial oriental guide; Harry E. Smith, Toledo, Ohio, imperial first ceremonial master and Roswell A. Taylor, Alexandria, Va., imperial second ceremonial master.

Britons Get First Black Weekly Paper

LONDON (NPI) — Britain's growing black population now has its first major weekly newspaper. Called "West Indian World" it is published and edited locally by experienced West Indianborn newsman Aubrey Baynes.

The paper has a circulation of 30,000 copies in Britain and 15,000 in the Caribbean. Baynes, 40 - year - old native of St. Vincent, says he expects sales to climb sharply in coming months as the nearly half - million persons of West Indian origin living in Britain become acquainted with the paper.

A Negro business man, who has been advertising in the Bystander, complains that "its news is not relevant to the Negro." It sounds like those who say the courses in the schools are not relevant to the needs of Negroes without specifying how.

Discussing this observation with the Bystander staff, we laid down some of the Negro newspapers from surrounding and distant cities, compared them with a few issues of the Bystander and find the national articles generally the same: local articles more where there are more Negroes, more things to do more crime; education, business and economic features the same; more social news because there is more social life; more complaints about the high unemployment among Negroes which we don't have as they do.

The similarity in national news is the result of common news releases, and articles about service and other organizations much coming from public relations firms. It is just as the national news today in our daily paper is covered by daily papers in other cities differing only as

NEWS In A Nutshell

HARTFORD, Conn. — Meharry Medical College, the leading educator of black physicians and dentists in the United States, has been awarded an unrestricted grant of $10,000 from Aetna Life & Casualty.

ARGONNE, ILL. — Two black faculty members from Grambling College, Grambling, La., are spending their summer learning the techniques of electron microscopy at Argonne National Laboratory.

DETROIT, MICH. — Motown Record Corporation won the coveted title of "Record Company of the Year" and six other top awards at the 16th annual convention of the National Association of Television and Radio Announcers (NATRA), which met this year in Chicago.

LINCOLN UNIVERSITY, Penn. — Lincoln University has been named by the National Accelerator Laboratory as one of the predominantly black colleges to take part in their program to increase minority participation in physics.

Major Rights Group Grows In Members, Prestige And Influence

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "Since 1909, the Association has hit upon the main channels of black aspirations and ambitions." When Roy Wilkins made that assessment of the NAACP to a group of reporters at the recent 62nd NAACP Annual Convention in Minneapolis, he spoke with the authority of a life-long participant.

On Monday, August 30, the executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will be 70. In his 40 years of dedicated service on the national staff, Mr. Wilkins helped build the Association membership from a modest 70,000 in 1931 to a peak of 535,000 in the drama-packed year of 1963 — the year of the memorable March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom, and of the tragic deaths by assassination of Medgar Evers and President John F. Kennedy. NAACP income in 1931 amounted to $59,081 with a deficit of $4,359.

Staffer Since 1931
Roy Wilkins joined the NAACP staff in 1931 as assistant secretary under Walter White who had been named executive secretary following the resignation of James Weldon Johnson. When Mr. White died in 1955, the Board of Directors chose Roy Wilkins to succeed him. In 1954, the year before he became chief executive, NAACP membership totaled without the changing climate of opinion which increasingly recognizes racism as the nation's No. 1 domestic problem. All of these forces, together with the Association's great record over a period of more than six decades, enhanced the Wilkins leadership of the organization which Bishop Stephen G. Spottswood, NAACP Board Chairman, in his keynote address at the Association's Minneapolis convention, called "the oldest, largest, most experienced, most successful, most consulted, most feared of all civil rights organizations."

It was Wilkins who introduced a pension plan for NAACP employees. Previously, there had been no retirement plan. However, the Board of Directors, on occasion, voted an annual stipend to a former employee who had resigned or retired after long years of work for the Association.

Also, it was during the Wilkins regime that the NAACP Special Contribution Fund was established. Contributions to this fund are tax-deductible for income tax purposes whereas memberships in and contributions to the Association proper are not deductible because the Association is engaged in efforts to influence legislation and maintains a Washington might be slanted or reported for local interest.

This man might be reminded that the big successful Negro newspapers, while printing the news about everybody, do not thrive on billfishing Negroes or whites or directing the readers to violence as a way of life, but they do emphasize the need for education, jobs, good housing, a free exercise of civil rights and a sense of responsibility, law abiding habits and reliable day to day living among blacks as well as others.

What many call news relevant to the Negro is emphasized in the complaint of the widow of a slain prison guard in California that Jackson, the political prisoner who was being held on a felony charge, got more sympathy from the news media than her husband, the slain guard, who was doing his job protecting the public.

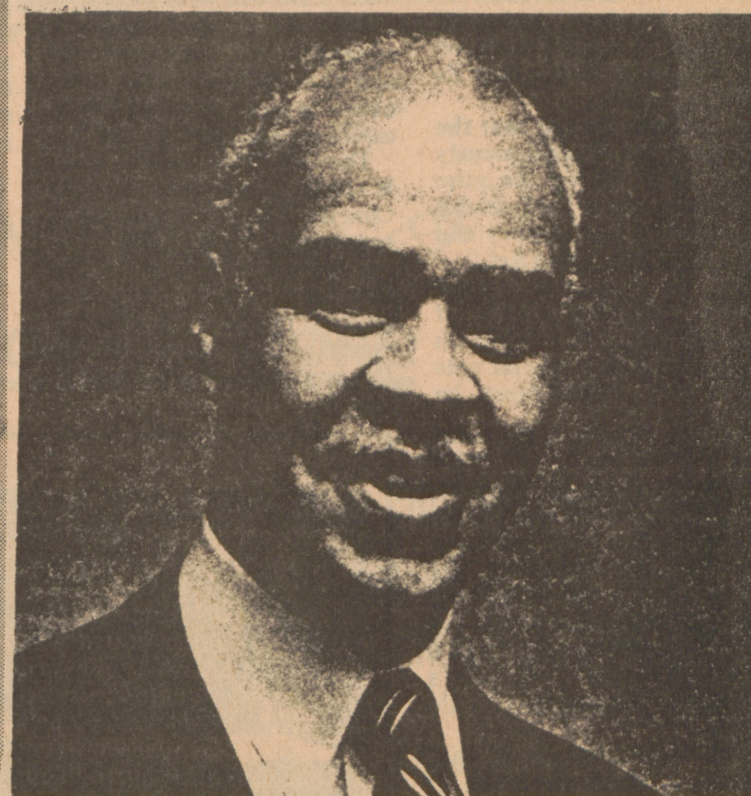

The Bystander offers its columns to the public for news and views by and for everybody and will print them if made known to us, without regard to station in life.

Black Women Revolutionaries Visit Albania

IRANA (NPI) — Revolutionary African women have recently joined women freedom fighters from other parts of the world in visiting Albania.

The black women came from the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA), which fights against Portuguese colonial rule over their country, and the Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU), which has been engaged for years in a bitter struggle against the illegal white minority regime in Rhodesia.

240,000 with a general fund income of $466,065. There were 1,350 branches, youth councils and college chapters.

Not only have income and membership been vastly expanded under Mr. Wilkins' leadership, but also the size of the staff and the range of activities as well as the prestige and influence of the organization — this despite the proliferation of other organizations in the civil rights movement and despite certain uninformed and irresponsible criticism of the Association's program and objectives.

Mr. Wilkins would be the first to acknowledge that this growth would not have been achieved without the dedication, commitment and hard work of the officers, Board of Directors and the staff of the NAACP. Nor Bureau for that purpose. Gifts to the Special Contribution Fund may not be used for any legislative or political purpose or to maintain the NAACP as an organization.

Court Decisions
Other highlights during the 40 years of the Wilkins service to the NAACP, the Negro race and the nation have been important Supreme Court decisions that clearly upheld the black man's right to participate fully in American society and the landmark legislation enacted by the Congress during the Sixties. Included in these are the following:

The Smith v. Allwright decision in which the Supreme Court of the United States ruled that the State of

Wee Pals Bookmobile Begins 'Truckin' Thru Model Cities

The "Wee Pals" Bookmobile being launched in Des Moines this week is a joint project of the Public Library, "Expanded Use of School Facilities," of the Public Schools, and Model Cities. It grew out of a need to provide more convenient library service to the residents of the Model Cities area.

Jointly financed, the bookmobile is one of the three regular Library bookmobiles with a "New Look." Which has been refurbished inside and out.

Inside, along with new books, is a permanently installed movie screen and a projector, a record player, wire book racks which can be set out on the sidewalk, storytelling cassettes, a large umbrella (for impromptu storytelling in parks and playgrounds) and a public address system. The bookmobile staff consists of specialists in both juvenile and adult books drawn from the regular library staff; Mrs. Connie Smith, a paraprofessional who has been working as a library aide in the after-school program at Washington Irving Junior High; and a driver.

Outside, the bookmobile has been decorated with "Wee Pals," appealing children from all racial groups, who appear daily in Morrie Turner's comic strip in the Des Moines Register. These figures, in full color, wander all over the bus-sized bookmobile.

Turner, who lives in Oakland, Calif. is in Des Moines making personal appearances to promote the launching of the bookmobile.

Free cartoons will be given to all who come "aboard." On Monday afternoon, all day Tuesday, and on Wednesday morning, (August 23, 24, and 25) the bookmobile with Turner will move from spot to spot in the Model Cities. Some of the stops are Gateways Opportunity Center, Tiny Tot Day Care and Child Care Centers, Settlement Houses, and the Senior Citizens Center.

The tour is in part a preview of the bookmobile's schedule which begins next week. It is intended to bring the traveling library to the places where people are gathered rather than waiting for the people to come to it.

Schedules will be kept flexible and adapted to use and need, tying in with established programs wherever possible.

Justice Dept. Files Suit In Bias Case

The Department of Justice today filed its first suit against a real estate agency to enforce compliance of an agreement to end discrimination which the realtor had signed with the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said the suit, against Dick Coffey, who operates the Dick Coffey Realty in Decatur, Alabama, was filed in U. S. District Court in Birmingham.

The Justice Department's complaint said that on November 12, 1970, the realty firm signed a conciliation agreement with HUD and with Charles Wright, a black Army sergeant who had complained of discrimination in the sale of a house.

Under terms of the conciliation agreement, Coffey was to:

— pay $467.50 to Sergeant Wright in settlement of his complaint;

— submit periodic reports to HUD on compliance with

VA Steps Up Fair Housing Regulations

In another step to insure fair housing, Donald E. Johnson, Administrator of Veterans Affairs announced that all applicants for Veterans Administration home loan guaranties and all persons submitting offers to purchase VA owned properties after September 1 must sign a certificate subscribing to fair housing before their transactions can be approved.

The applicant must agree that he will not discriminate for any reasons of race, color, religion or national origin, in any future sale or rental of the property being acquired, Johnson said.

Wilkins Urges Teachers To Police Education Law

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins this week called upon the American Federation of Teachers to police the Federal Government's administration of education laws. His appeal came as he addressed the civil rights luncheon at the 55th convention of the 250,000-member teachers' union on August 17. The AFT honored the civil rights leader with its Stillman Award.

Mr. Wilkins stated that the union "should be continuously alert and active on the administration of funds under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act."

"In the light of its recent antics in the field of education, the Nixon Administration's official acts on Title I funds must be watched closely," he said. "In view of the pronouncements and threats of the President as to the employment of the busing of children to facilitate the desegregation of schools, it would not be exactly astonishing to find government officials condoning the misuse of Title I funds."

Mr. Wilkins noted that "there is widespread use of the agreement:

— include a nondiscriminatory phrase in advertising;

— supply HUD with a copy of written notification to Coffey's agents of nondiscriminatory practices, including the selling of homes, to all persons regardless of race, color, religion or national origin.

New Book Explores Black Press

AMES, Iowa — The history, origins, viewpoints, scope, directions, and prospects for the future of one of the most significant influences in America are explored in "The Black Press, U.S.A.," just published by the Iowa State University Press.

The book is the first general discussion of this influential medium in nearly 50 years. Author Roland E. Wolseley, professor of a pioneering course on contemporary black journalism at Syracuse (N.Y.) University, examines black newspapers — national and local — as well as black magazines — general and specialized.

Wolseley's investigations deal with the news and editorial content of black publications, advertising, production methods, and circulation and readership data. He further emphasizes the role of the black press as it relates to the social movements now attracting many black people.

After discussing the concept of a black press and its history, Wolseley examines the newspapers and magazines of today, the types of material offered, and the reporters and editors who form their policies and content.

The original planning for the bookmobile project was done in most part by Roderick MacDonald, director of the Public Library; William E. Callahan, senior planner for Model Cities; and Marsh S. Houston, coordinator, Education Component, Model Cities, while on a special federal assignment to the public schools.

Among the materials offered by the bookmobile are 130 volumes donated by Meredith Corporation. The selections include many of the Better Homes and Gardens "how to" books on sewing and crafts, foods and nutrition, home repair, decorating and finance, as well as some children's reference books and novels.

Dr. Joseph H. Jackson, president of the 6.3 million member group announced progress that has been made within the membership during the past 12 months. "One year ago we organized a student rally and as a result two very significant papers were adopted... 'Campus Peace Anonymous' and 'With Christ for Character and Country.' In response to this achievement we have correspondence from 10 Bishops, 22 College Presidents, 23 Senators and 63 Congressmen commending student use of this approach," Dr. Jackson said.

"Every city in the United States has a scar from civil disobedience. We must, therefore, continue to develop power through nonviolent methods so we can structure improved education and economy. One specific method Jackson emphasizes is using the voting privilege."

"We must organize our financial capital and capture our markets with the resources we possess. We are appealing to individual abilities... not grievances... and we want the convention to resound with sound recommendations for our membership."

The award presented to Mr. Wilkins memorializes Charles B. Stillman, founding president of the AFT. It is presented annually to the individual who is judged to have made significant contributions to improving the quality of education in the nation.

K. C. Office Set Up to Enforce Wage-Price Freeze Controls

The Office of Emergency Preparedness opened an office in Kansas City Aug. 17 to serve Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska, for the planning and implementation of wage and price controls ordered by President Nixon.

Francis X. Tobin, Regional Director of OEP, Washington, will direct the activities of this office which has temporary headquarters in the Federal Building in Kansas City. The telephone number is 374-5901.

The office would be staffed by present employees of the Federal government.

Tobin outlined the following measures which are to be undertaken immediately by the office here:

1. A 90-day freeze of all prices and wages. This freeze will be monitored by the Office of Emergency Preparedness under the policy direction of a newly established cabinet cost of living council chaired by Treasury Secretary Connally.

2. A second stage of price-wage stabilization in which transition is accomplished from the temporary freeze to the restoration of free markets without inflation. Plans for the mechanics to be used during the second stage will be developed by the cost of living council.

These steps on the price-wage front will do more than control inflation. They will help to restore confidence, increase the competitiveness of American products in world trade, expand employment at home, and strengthen the American dollar.

Tobin released a list of sixteen questions and answers which he expects to be asked frequently in the days ahead.

1. Are price increases that have already been announced to take effect in the future subject to the freeze?

Yes, all price increases must be controlled.

2. Are deferred wage or salary increases which have been negotiated to take effect in the future permitted by the freeze?

No.

3. Are previously announced increased tuition rates for the 1971-72 school year permitted by the freeze?

Yes. These are considered transaction prices, since commitments have been made and there are a number of cases where payments have been made.

4. Are increases in pensions permitted to take effect?

Yes, these are not payments for services rendered.

5. Are future cost of living increases built into wage contracts or provided by management exempt?

No. There will be no cost-of-living increases during the 90-day freeze.

6. Are stock and bond prices included in the freeze?

No.

7. Are apartment rents included in the freeze?

Yes.

Someone needs the sound of you.

Dial long distance direct. Northwestern Bell

8. Are prices of used commodities, such as used cars, antiques, and resales of housing included in the freeze?

Yes.

9. Are fees for professional services such as doctors and lawyers included?

Yes. No increases in rates or fees for particular services are permitted during the freeze.

10. Are State and local tax rates frozen during this period?

No.

11. Are interest rates included in the freeze?

No.

12. How does the freeze affect people who work on commission or piece rate?

The commission rate or piece rate cannot be increased over that existing in the base period.

13. Will the wage-price freeze apply to insurance rate?

Yes.

14. Are rates charged by common carriers and public utilities included in the freeze?

Yes.

15. Are wholesale and retail prices included in the freeze?

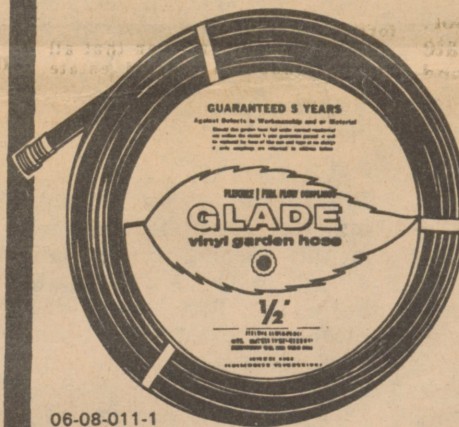

Yes.

16. In cases where surcharges or other sales or excise taxes have been increased, is the ceiling for the price paid by the customer (including these taxes) raised by a like amount?

Yes. The price the customer pays is equal to the base, which remains unchanged during the ceiling, plus these taxes.

Heads of the Federal agencies in the greater Kansas City area have been asked to attend a meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon in room 302 at the 911 Walnut Federal building where they will be briefed by Tobin on the role their agencies will have in the wage and price stabilization plan during the next 90 days.

The A. Philip Randolph Institute was founded in 1964 to promote racial equality, and economic justice through building an effective alliance between trade unions, the poor, liberals, and minority groups.

A Philip Randolph, the oldest and highest elected black official in the trade union movement believes that an essential element in such an alliance is the organization of black union members to apply their union learned skills in black communities where they live to help increase black participation in politics through voter registration, voter education and get - out - the vote drive.

Norman Hill, Associate Director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute spoke at an initial organizing meeting to set up a Quad - Cities A. Philip Randolph Institute on Friday August 20, at the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher's Workmen of North America, 1401 West 3rd street, Davenport, Iowa.

Herbicides have also been effective in increasing waterfowl production and hunting opportunities. When wet areas are choked with water lilies, cattails and similar aquatic weeds, good food-producing plants are shaded or crowded out.

Even the ducks have difficulty finding the water in some places. But with the right chemicals, scientists are able to get rid of weeds while leaving food plants alone. This use of Lampreys were destroying sport fishing in the Great Lakes until chemists found a way to fight the parasites.

SCIENTISTS ARE WINNING IN WAR AGAINST POLLUTION

Armed with chemical pollution-fighters and more ingenuity than many people know about, America's scientists are teaming up with our farmers to clean up our environment successfully.

On our farms, where the main polluters of our agricultural environment are insects, weeds, bearers of plant diseases; and nematodes.

Soaring population makes it urgent to combat the pollutants of our agricultural environment: insects; weeds; bearers of plant diseases; and nematodes.

Populations of most wildlife species are increasing. Annual harvest of deer has more than doubled in the last 20 years. The annual harvest of morning doves is over 40 million. A sizeable body of evidence indicates that pesticides have helped bring about this growth in wildlife. Antelope have rebounded from near extinction in the early 1900's. So have beavers and buffalo.

Evidence indicates that pesticides have helped make deer more numerous. The scientific triumphs help us to heed a Biblical injunction.

ROBIN AND RUSS VANDERHOEF and 13 week old Danielle, motored from Denver to spend Tuesday in Estes Park as our guests. Robin is the daughter of Jack and Marita Mastrofski, known to many of you in little theatre and among Public School art instructors. Being the perfect guest, Robin brought along a flawlessly made and delicious fresh apple pie. Until now I had been a struggling member of the Weight Watchers Club. I put aside my membership for the day.

HITCHHIKING TO DENVER WITH THE VANDERHOEFs brought me to Flora Mae Danforth's doorstep. We talked far into the night. Her youngest, Sydney, treated us to the breakfast of our choice — pancakes! They were so light and tasty, too!

MEETING SYDNEY DANFORTH, John and Flora Mae Danforth's charmer, was all pleasure. She is pursuing an art career and making tremendous progress. Sydney gave Flora Mae and me a beautiful star for the day in that she volunteered to prepare for us and so get us off to a fast start.

OUR DESTINATION WAS SEARS & ROEBUCK'S AUTO SERVICE and specifically a spare tire. Pop calls delayed our arrival there until almost noon!

MARCELLINE ESTES MCCLOUD, one of Des Moines beautiful people is now one of Denver's beautiful people! She is even more radiant than formerly! She presides over a home which contains elaborate furnishings. Of still greater importance is Marcelline's expertise in interior decorating and arrangement. She has everything to work with — beautiful brass pieces, crystals, Italian marble, walnut, mahogany, teakwood and ebony wood items; oriental figures here and there on the one booklined wall and brocade, antique loveseat located against the opposite wall. All these specifics and countless more make up the exceptional setting in which Marcelline spends her days as wife, hostess, and assistant to her husband!

MARCELLINE'S MOST IMPORTANT ROLE is that of Mrs. Burnis V. McCloud! Mac as he is affectionately called by friends and business associates, is a widely known photographer!

MAC HAS A VAST PHOTO COLLECTION. He "has photographed everybody but President Nixon!" (Note the quotes!) In my short stay, I chatted and viewed the likenesses of Roland Hayes, famed tenor; Paul Robeson, Joe Louis, Muhammed Ali (Cassius Clay) in an exclusive shot by Mac; Althea Gibson in several poses; Bishop Chaire (A.M.E.), Ralph Bunche, Jackie Robinson, Roy Wilkins. Countless more. His collection is history in pictures. They mark the periods of life as they transpired during his life span. This if nothing more is his contribution for his time on earth. Few of us achieve anything comparable!

JIMMY MITCHELL WAS IN THE PHOTOGRAPHS and Mac sent the message that he and Jimmy have a private collection of a certain item. He has almost caught up with Jimmy, number-wise! There was a lovely picture of the former Jean Morris before her move to the West Coast. At this point, I lost Mac to Sydney Danforth's boy friend, Michael Carter, whose career deals with the cinema arts. He and Mac took off for outer space. Their's is the world of photography!

MAC HAD TAKEN TIME OUT FIRST, HOWEVER, for a telephone introduction for me with Paul Stewart, one of Denver's best known barbers. Flora Mae completed the telephone introduction by driving me to Stewart's shop. We both were caught up with Stewart's enthusiastic pursuit of black history, particularly that of the West! Stewart's free time in his barbering career is completely absorbed with collecting books, materials, research, interviewing and recording his facts. He is striking it rich historically speaking and will fast establish himself as a historian.

PAUL STEWART COUNTS AMONG HIS BEST FRIENDS, Elaine Estes (Mrs. John, Jr.) She is invaluable as a librarian and creator and owner of one of Des Moines' famed landmarks, the home of her and her husband located at 944 Ninth Street. Another important contact is Robert Whitlock, great grandson of Frederick Douglas. He, too, is completely taken up with black American history. Stewart and he have much going between them and are on the brink of careers which will perform a tremendous service to all black people.

STEWART IS THE SON OF EUGENE J. STEWART, onetime Clinton, Iowa, business man. He was owner of a fleet of five trucks operating throughout the Midwest — from Cleveland, Ohio, to Omaha, Nebraska, and from Minneapolis, Minnesota to St. Louis, Missouri.

During her stay she toured many Hawaiian islands, shopped at Alamoana the world's largest shopping center, dined at the La Ronde the world's first revolving restaurant, also visited the valley of the Byodo Temple, and took many snapshots of points of interest.

She stopped on her return trip from Honolulu in Los Angeles, California to visit her grandson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Johnson, formerly Des Moines residents.

After a few days in Los Angeles, she returned to Lancaster, California and accompanied her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Griggs of Cedar Rapids, Iowa and granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen, Jr. and son, who had spent two weeks visiting and touring California cities with Mrs. Griggs' brother, Dr. Robert Johnson and family. The return trip by auto included scenic tour of the Grand Canyon and Painted Desert.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. How much jewelry should a bride wear?

A. This should be limited either to that which is functional, such as a pin needed to hold the dress together, to a strand of pearls, perhaps small gold or pearl earrings. A watch or bracelet should not be worn. The engagement ring may be worn on the RIGHT hand, or left at home until after the ceremony.

Q. Is it all right to write thank-you notes on the typewriter?

A. Although most typewritten personal notes are now generally accepted, still it is much better -- and seems to denote more sincerity -- to write thank-you notes by hand.

Q. What does one use for putting butter into one's baked potato or other item of food on one's plate?

A. The fork is best for this. Q. How do you introduce one person to a group?

A. Mention his or her name (saying it only once), as, "Mr. West, I would like to have you meet Mrs. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Gray, Miss Carter, Mr. Jones, and so on. No order of precedence is necessary -- ladies first, or age, do not count in group introductions.

Q. I was recently granted a divorce from my husband, and since our two small children are living with me, I'm wondering if I'm supposed to continue wearing my wedding ring?

A. Entirely up to you. In most cases, though, a divorcee discards her ring... even though she has children.

Q. Is it really considered poor manners to take anything to drink while there is food in your mouth?

A. Yes. Always avoid the appearance of "washing down" your food. And really it's amazing how many people are guilty of this little breach of etiquette.

Q. How does one properly go about removing the bones from a fish at the dinner table?

A. Lift the end of the bone with the fork, then pinching it between the fork and the knife, lift it all the way out. In some cases, you might have to use your fingers, and this is quite all right if you do not permit your fingers to touch the fish.

Q. Is it proper for a divorcee to insert the announcement of her second engagement in the newspaper?

A. While there is no rule against this, usually the second engagement is announced more quietly -- just by letting relatives and friends know shortly before the wedding.

Pizza Stars in Easy Summer Meal

Pizza, that great snack time favorite, is also ideal for an easy summer supper. Keep frozen pizzas on hand in your freezer. Then, just minutes before serving, top with assorted cold cuts and relishes, and bake.

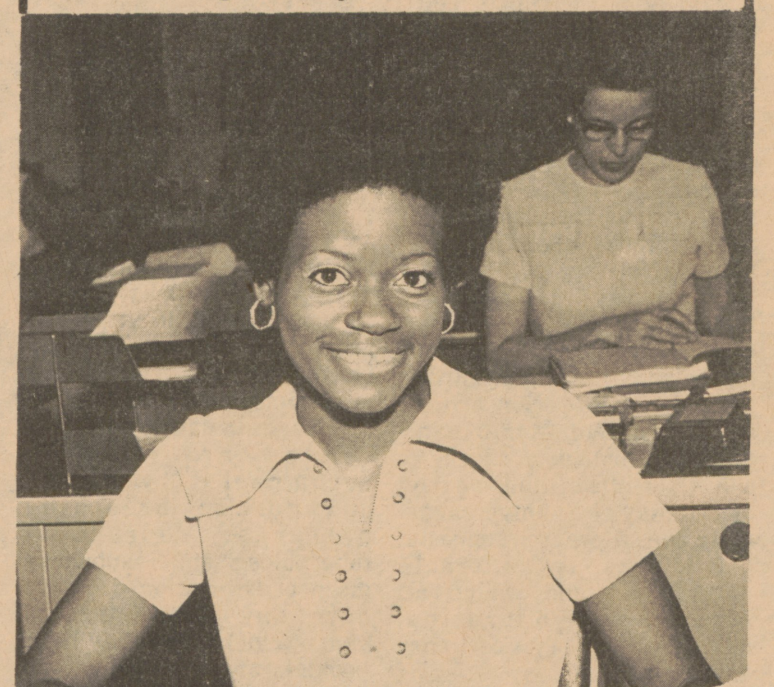

Bologna, salami, scallions and black olives are used in this tempting pizza. However, you can add your family's favorite toppings. Round out your summer meal with a tossed salad, iced tea and a light dessert such as fresh berries or melon. Serve this delightful supper outdoors for an extra special treat!

Summer Supper Pizza

- 1 Chef Boy-ar-dee Frozen Cheese Pizza
- 2 slices bologna
- 2 slices salami
- 2 tablespoons sliced scallions
- 4 pitted black olives, sliced

Cut bologna and salami into small wedges. Top pizza with scallions, meat and olives. Bake according to package directions. Cut in wedges. Serves 4.

Flexibility is very important in keeping your mind open and alert, and getting a high school diploma is a good start in learning how to cope with the world. One good rule for living is not to worry about the future until we have learned to manage the present.

It's quite difficult to improve yourself if the only model you have to copy is yourself. In order to keep up with this changing world, one needs to be definite in their ideas and goals — know who you are, be proud of what you are, know where you're going and get there.

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...
Was haircoloring first done in Africa?
Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions... to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.
Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairol® Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.
Today black pride brings you closer to the cultural ways of your African heritage. Haircoloring is a part of black history too. Ask your professional hairdresser about changing your hair color with Miss Clairol... and be more beautiful than you already are.

More Negro Candidates

Along with football this year comes elections in all parts of the country, mostly local, where city, county and school boards generally lead the way.

And in these elections, we find more Negroes running than ever before because more have been activated to register; more because there are more chances to win. There are more elected Negro public officials today than ever before.

Many have made their influence for good felt, many are simply win jammer politicians like that of some white office holders.

A Negro, Charles Evers, is one of two candidates being voted on for governor in Mississippi this year. There is much talk of running a Negro for President of the United States.

Such candidacy would not succeed, but like the candidate on the Socialist ticket, became a perennial candidate for the organization he represented. The Democratic party, would suffer most because most Negroes are Democrats and are located in pivotal states.

These efforts by Negroes encourage youngsters that they can measure up if they will and that the courage of many who have tried has succeeded.

Opposing Freeze By Fooling The People

Since invoking the freeze on wages and prices last week, considerable opposition has developed from divergent sources.

Labor leaders, whose union men have suffered most from inflation, are preparing a legal action against the program and so have teachers. Even Gov. Smith of Texas instructed state officials to ignore the order. The Democratic National Committee has joined the opposition.

Blind opponents apparently forget or don't know that authority for the freeze was given the President in 1970 by a Democratic controlled Congress, which Democratic leaders have asked that he invoke and President Nixon is exercising his authority. Then, too, the law does not cover interest and corporate profits and to include them in the freeze would be void.

Gov. Ray was asked by the teachers' union officials to circumvent the law by declaring the date of teacher contracts effective in July. The governor said, and rightly so, that he had no authority to do so. And if he had, his acts would be so much hot air as those of Gov. Wallace of Alabama when he issued orders in contravention to orders by the federal courts in school segregation cases.

Of course, most of this opposition comes from powerful organizations (some selfish) bent on making political hay rather than work for the best interest of the whole country.

Opinion polls have shown that an overwhelming majority of the people approve the freeze. Law and order have a great part to play in the freeze program. It must work or the slow pace of holding down prices will damage us all.

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

Watched former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson fight last Saturday night, and the same questions that watching Sugar Ray Robinson brought up came up. Why does the guy keep on fighting?

He has all the dough he needs, if we can believe what we read. After looking him over, last week, we decided that, while the fellow is in remarkably good shape for his age, 36, he couldn't beat either champ Joe Frazier or Muhammad Ali unless he carried a club into the ring with him. He couldn't stand the terrific pace he would have to maintain with either of those guys. Maybe he is trying to prove something, but we would sure like to know what.

Now, that is out of the way, there are a couple of things that came up last week that should be talked about. One concerns the closing of athletics in the Philadelphia high schools. These schools produced such fellows as Wilt Chamberlain, along with a host of nationally famous athletes. The kids had something to look forward to.

Now, what will they do? We can think of a number of athletes here in our city who have become useful citizens who would have never stayed in school but for athletics. Then they went on to college and got into the mainstream of events and turned out all right. There are a couple of fellows active in our school system who could bear us out if they were asked. Then we have had a few who were spoiled. They didn't have to study because they were athletes and when they go to college, the going was too tough, not because they were dumb, but because they had never had to put out in the classroom.

With Allen Ashby

So they left school, and became just people looking for jobs, when they might have made it big. They had the stuff, but just didn't ever use it. But, when you just cut out a whole bunch of kids from ever having any athletic program, you cause a lot of dropouts because that is the only reason they are in school. And some of them turn out right as we have said.

Is that worth keeping an interscholastic athletic program? Then there is the proposed program for our local ninth grade athletes. There have been some hot arguments over this. Some people contend that athletics on a competitive basis are hard on kids in the ninth grade.

But, then, there again is the possible incentive for a boy to go to school because he likes to play football or basketball. Maybe that is the only reason he will go, and keep up his studies. Then, somewhere down the line, he realizes what he can have if he will just give it a good try. This has happened to a few guys we have known personally. Actually we can't see where the proposed program will hurt kids.

There is so much organized play before a boy gets to the ninth grade that he will know by then whether he wants to play football or not. As kids we used to have football games and play all day, and if it hurt us, we were too dumb to know it. But we grew up and were not too unhealthy. And today's kids are so much bigger and possibly stronger than we were, we just don't see how they can come to much harm. But, we are arguing from this viewpoint of a fellow who grew up playing contact games, and possibly may have gotten our brains scrambled so we couldn't tell when we were hurt. Maybe a person who has specialized in studying those things could have more advanced ideas on the subject.

But he, she, or it will have to do a great selling job to convince me that ninth grade competition is possibly injurious to boys who want to engage in it. For that matter so is competition at any level, but still we have little leagues, and the boy grows up in the thing into high school.

Now, somebody asked us what we thought of the controversial high school beer rule in our athletics. That is the rule by which a boy is suspended from athletics if he is in a car with beer whether he drinks any or not. But suppose a boy gets into a car with a group of friends, and they drive about twenty miles out of town, and somebody hauls out some beer. Now the boy in question doesn't drink, and all his friends know it, so nobody offers him any beer.

What does he do? Walk back home? Would you? The rest of our comments probably would not be printed by the editor, although he sometimes lets me slip in an occasional cuss word. But this would be just too many for him.

QUESTION: I am a farmer. During the summer months when I need some help I hire one of my neighbor's boys. I generally pay him about $300 for the whole summer. Do I have to keep a record of this for social security purposes?

ANSWER: Yes. You should keep a record of his name, address, social security number, and the amount of cash wages you paid him. If you pay more than $150 in cash wages to a farm employee during the calendar year, you must file a report at the end of the year with the Internal Revenue Service on pay social security on his earnings.

Statement By Urban League Head On Nixon's New Economic Policy

What America needed desperately, and Black America in particular, was bold action on the economic front.

President Nixon has acted boldly and forthrightly in the interest of the overall American community, and although the hour is late, we applaud him for it. However, the action which he has taken leaves much to be desired when the special needs of Black America are considered.

To create jobs by encouraging industry to spend more for plants and equipment is to ask the jobless and the poor to wait a little longer. This leaves the bulk of Black America still waiting.

To offer tax reductions to people who can't even pay the taxes which they now owe, is to offer pie in the sky.

But our major concern is whether the President's decision to defer his fight for welfare reform signals an abandonment of his fight for the poor.

One of the President's major purposes is to make the dollar more sound. No American can argue with such a purpose. But if an equitable number of those sound dollars do not eventually end up in the pay envelopes of poor people, America will have won a great battle, but it will still stand in danger of losing a greater war.

On balance we are pleased to see the President recognize the serious state of the economy and belatedly decide to act.

We are particularly pleased over the wage and price freeze, since this could enable Black people to purchase more with their limited dollars. At this point we can only hope that the President's bold action is the tip of an iceberg which ultimately will lead to a blueprint for the type of America which the late Whitney Young so persistently called for — an America which recognizes that "we are one people with a common destiny, and the fate of the man highest will be that of the man farthest down."

Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans today announced approval of a $2,366,650 loan for the establishment of 19 fastfood restaurants to be owned and operated by blacks in Chicago, Cleveland and Washington, D.C.

The funds from the Economic Development Administration, U. S. Department of Commerce, will go All-Pro Development, Inc., which maintains its headquarters office in Pittsburgh.

Health for All

Many animals, including man, have built-in daily clocks. Some scientists now suspect that animals, maybe even man, also have annual clocks or yearly cycles.

Most people fall asleep at roughly the same time every night. Their peak activity periods are not too different from day to day. They have daily clocks. So do most animals.

But many animals also have yearly cycles, most obvious in hibernating animals and migratory birds. According to a recent article in Scientific American, "Annual Biological Clocks," some scientists think yearly cycles may be as universal as daily ones. Research suggests the clocks are internal, already set and wound at birth, and operating independently of the environment.

Even ground squirrels raised in the laboratory — and surrounded by food — stop eating in October, just as they do in the natural environment. Their breathing becomes drastically slower and their body temperature drops almost 40 degrees.

Investigators are just beginning to explore the possibility of annual clocks in man, and a preliminary study of psychotics suggests yearly rhythmic ups and downs and cycles of inactivity.

Very little is now known about annual clocks, or even daily ones, for that matter. No scientist completely understands why sleep occurs. It just does; and if people are deprived of sleep they show psychotic symptoms.

Changes in daily and yearly cycles are usually accompanied by drastic changes in breathing patterns. Your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association does not have any information on yearly clocks, but they have booklets about breathing and how the lungs work. They know it's a matter of life and breath.

Grambling-Morgan Tiff Kicks-Off ABC's 'Game Of The Week'

GRAMBLING, La. — Grambling College opened fall football practice with Coach Eddie Robinson and his staff faced with the task of rebuilding an offensive backfield, the defensive line and the linebacking corps in time for the opener against Morgan State in Yankee Stadium in New York on Sept. 11.

The Grambling-Morgan tiff at 6:30 p.m. will be featured as ABC's first Game of the Week on national television. It will be the first time college division teams have ever appeared.

Grambling, perhaps the best known college division team in the nation with over 30 of its graduates currently on pro grid rosters, also has a TV Highlight Show that will be seen on over 100 stations in the country this season.

The 13-hour-long shows sponsored by Oldsmobile, Budweiser and Polaroid will include a pre-season show, the 11 games and a post season show.

Tiger coaches report that the players probably came to camp in better physical condition than last year. There are many holes to fill since 14 of the 22 seniors last year signed pro football pacts.

Grambling coaches are looking for replacements for three of the front four on defense and also lost three of the top four linebackers as well as eight of the top 10 backfield performers.

Robinson is not too dismayed. "We have some good young boys who have been awaiting their chance to

Nature's Seeding Time

Beginning in mid August, Bluegrass seeds mature and are scattered by the wind. As soon as these seeds receive moisture they start to germinate. Why not follow nature's example and scatter new seeds and a balanced lawn food for a better lawn.
