To Enter Mississippi Prison Case

Third Newton Trial Will Start

Order Trial to Begin on Oct. 12th

An Oakland, Calif. judge has ruled that a piece of missing evidence was immaterial in the case of Huey P. Newton, co-founder of the Black Panther Party.

A blood-splattered law book carried by Newton the morning a police officer was killed was lost by a clerk of the district court.

Denied Petition

Superior Court Judge Robert Kroninger denied petition by Defense Atty. Charles Garry and ordered Newton to report Oct. 12 for assignment of the case to a trial judge.

Atty. Garry argued the book was covered with Newton's own blood and was a key defense exhibit. According to Garry, Newton was reading his rights from the book Oct. 28, 1967, when policeman John Frey stopped him for an alleged traffic violation.

Minutes later, Frey was dead and another officer was wounded, and Newton, who was shot in the stomach, was captured shortly afterwards in a nearby hospital.

Garry argued that Frey was angered when Newton quoted his rights and shot the Black Panther, knocking him unconscious.

Guilty But Overruled

Newton was found guilty of manslaughter in a 1968 trial but an Appellate Court overruled the verdict on a judicial error. The second trial ended recently in a hung jury.

In the second trial, the state argued that Newton was the aggressor and carried a gun and attempted to get Frey's gun from him. Neither weapon, however, was recovered.

Judge Kroninger ruled that he did not accept the theory that the court system was part of the prosecution and therefore responsible for the missing book.

The judge ruled that the law book was not material to case which formed a basis for a third trial.

Consumer Revolution Is Needed, Cites Burrell

WASHINGTON, D.C. "We must create a revolution that redresses the imbalance of minorities as consumer and producers. The quiet revolution is the only way to force the power structure to accept minorities at every level and aspect of American life," NBL President Berkeley G. Burrell told Arkansas business and civic leaders at a gathering in Little Rock sponsored by the South Arkansas Business and Economic Development League.

"The quiet revolution means minorities getting it together now to effect a broad economic and political base that permits minorities to achieve a quantum leap in economic and social gain," he explained.

"Two thousand delegates, minority and white, will meet later this month in Richmond, Va. at our 71st Annual Convention to 'get it together' and develop a plan," he continued, "not plantationism, but partnership is what NBL asks of white America."

NBL is seeking 100,000 members to support the quiet revolution. Blacks account for 17 per cent of the population, but only 4 per cent of the business enterprises and these account for less than 1 per cent of total business receipts.

Admonishing his audience, consisting primarily of blacks, to trust and believe in each other, Burrell stated that minorities will not get an equal share of the economic pie until they control enough ingredients to supervise the slicing of it.

Getting It Together is the theme of NBL's convention and also the title of a recently published book by Burrell.

The National Business League represents some 13,000 minority businessmen in 78 chapters across the country. Serving as its president since 1962, Burrell

Black Man Given Honor-- Sioux Name

DENVER, COLO. — James Chase, Jr., Manpower Administration representative in the Denver Regional Office, has been honored by a Sioux Indian tribe in Fort Totten, N.D. and given an Indian name. A news release issued by the Sisseton-Wahpeton Sioux Tribe states that "there is no record of Sioux memory that a blackman has been so honored on our tribe's reservation."

Chase, who received the honor during Fort Totten Days Celebration, will be called Wicanhipta (plenty stars).

Chase, who has completed his course work for a Ph.D. in sociology, writes contracts and monitors Manpower programs throughout North Dakota.

Fort Totten has been granted a special Public Service Careers Program (PSC) which will aid the Tribal Government in conducting Tribal functions traditionally carried out by other Federal agencies, Chase said.

$7,000 Fire At Tavern

Fire caused an estimated $7,000 damage to The Scene, a tavern at 1310 Keosauqua Way, early Tuesday.

The blaze was discovered about 2:30 a.m. by a passing police patrolman, and District Fire Chief Joseph Palmer said it apparently started behind the bar and spread upward through the ceiling of the one-story brick building before firemen could bring it under control.

He estimated damage at $5,000 to the building and $2,000 to its contents.

Palmer said the arson bureau will investigate the cause of the fire.

Charge Officials with Discrimination and Cruel Unusual Punishment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Department of Justice today filed a motion to intervene on behalf of prisoners at the Mississippi State Prison at Parchman who are suing prison officials on charges of cruel and unusual punishment and racial discrimination.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said the motion was filed in the U.S. District Court in Greenville, Mississippi.

The class action suit brought on behalf of all present and future inmates at Parchman named Thomas D. Cook, superintendent of the prison, and others as defendants.

The Justice Department charged in its motion that the conduct of prison officials in the operation of the prison and the treatment of the inmates, and in maintaining segregated facilities, violated the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments.

The motion also requested the court to grant an injunction prohibiting such abuses and requiring prison officials to submit a plan to eliminate the abuses, including a cost analysis and description of whatever technical assistance may be needed for that purpose.

Specifically, the Justice Department alleged that in the past:

— Prison officials have allowed armed inmate trustees to guard and control the prison population.

— Regular guards have permitted or ordered trustees to beat, shoot, shoot at and intimidate prisoners.

— Prison officials have failed to provide adequate medical treatment for prisoners.

— Guards and trustees are allowed to impose cruel and unusual treatment upon prisoners and inmates.

— Prison officials failed to protect the prisoners from assault by other prisoners.

— Sewage and water systems are totally inadequate and created a health hazard for prisoners.

— Inmate camps where prisoners are housed fall far below minimum standards for prisoner housing.

— Prison officials maintain prison facilities segregated by race.

Minorities Collect Back Pay from Virginia Utility

RICHMOND, Va. — Admitting by consenting to a decree of discrimination against minorities in employment by paying sub-standard wages, the Virginia Electric and Power Company will pay 214 Negro employees $250,000 in back wages.

The decree, filed in federal court in Richmond, VEPCO also agreed to "make every reasonable effort" to promote black employees and to take steps to recruit blacks by contacting high school principals and employment counselors.

Second Such Case

This is the second back pay requirement in a racial discrimination case of this type, the Justice Department said. A similar order was entered in July in a North Carolina mill case.

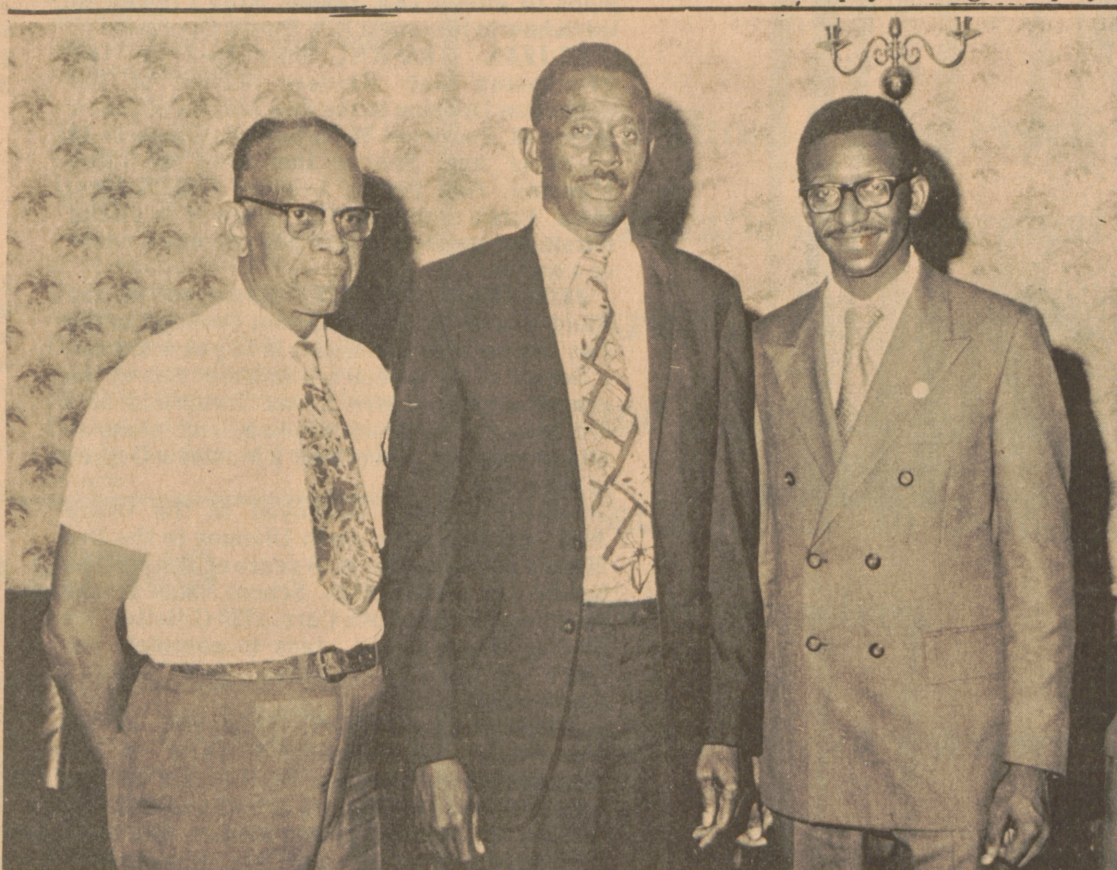

The decree orders that VEPCO cease using high school diplomas (or their equivalency) and aptitude test scores as criteria for promotions or hiring in blue collar jobs. The Justice Department contended the tests discriminate against blacks.

The back wages are to be paid on the basis of a complex formula involving an employee's hourly wage and length of service with the utility.

Filed By Justice Dept.

When Justice Department filed suit against the power company last year, 586 of the VEPCO's 6,053 employees were black. According to officials, the company now has "somewhere over 600" blacks on its payroll.

The company was granted up to 28 months in which to reimburse the 214 employees, under terms of the consent decree. It also agreed to establish a training program to help present employees earn promotions.

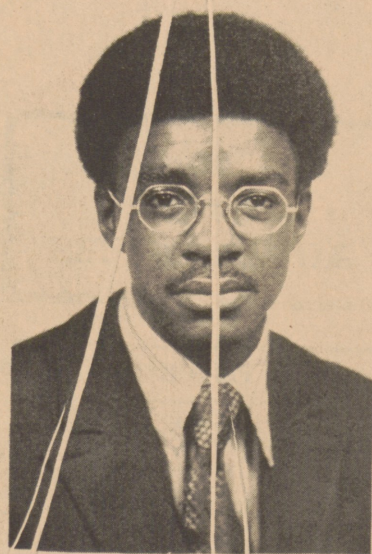

Congratulations

When Satchel Paige, one of the all-time great baseball players, was inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., recently, a number of old-time black baseball players were on hand to congratulate him. In this picture, the ageless wonder of baseball is being congratulated by Ted Page (left) of Pittsburgh, Pa., a former teammate of Satchel's and present part-time consultant for Gulf Oil Corporation, and Walter A. Jackson (right), Gulf's Supervisor of Minority and Academic Relations. Other former greats who attended a Gulf-sponsored reception in honor of Paige included Roy Campanella, William "Judy" Johnson and Monte Irvin, now on the staff of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

DES MOINES, Iowa — Last June, the Internal Revenue Service welcomed six students as employees under the summer work program, to work both in the Des Moines office and in offices throughout the state. As the summer ended and the students returned to the classroom, John F. Hanlon, District Director for IRS in Iowa, spoke his appreciation for the fine work these young people had done.

Mr. Hanlon explained that the summer aides worked in the Audit, Collection and Administration Divisions and were assigned a variety of developmental tasks. The summer work program is designed to introduce the student employee to federal tax operations at a basic level and to encourage the employee to advance into more difficult assignments as he becomes ready.

In addition, a series of training sessions was scheduled. Here, the student aides first received orientation on work flow, and specific work assignments. In later sessions, they were assisted through discussions on how to apply for jobs, completion of application forms, proper appearance and dress, and question and answer periods to talk about any concerns the summer aides might have.

Thumbnail descriptions of IRS summer employees are given below:

THERESA VASQUEZ, employed in the Processing and Review Section of the Collection Division in the Des Moines office. Theresa is 17 years old and a Junior at Lincoln High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Castellano, 332 Pioneer Road, Des Moines, Iowa. After graduation, Theresa plans to attend Des Moines Area College to learn how to become a Key Punch Operator.

ELIZIA BROWN, employed in the Processing and Review Section of the Collection Division in the Des Moines office. A senior at Roosevelt High School, Elizia is 18 years of age. She is the niece of Lillie Manning, 1600 Forest Avenue, Des Moines, Iowa. Elizia's plan for the future is to attend nursing or medical school and become a nurse or a doctor.

JENNIFER WESLEY, employed in the Field Branch of the Collection Division in the Des Moines office. Jennifer is 17 years old and a Senior at St. Joseph's Academy. She attended Southwest Minnesota State College at Marshall, Minnesota for one year and is presently enrolled in the Iowa Central Community College in Fort Dodge, Iowa. She is the daughter of Rev. & Mrs. S.L. Hooks, 150 H. Ave., West, Fort Dodge, Iowa.

Mr. Hanlon emphasized that the summer group this year did an excellent job for IRS, and he was tremendously pleased with the progress these student aides had made. The Internal Revenue Service is very interested in providing employment for students under the "back-to-school" and "stay-in-school" programs, he said, and believed this work experience to be rewarding both to the student and to the IRS.

The opportunities for permanent employment with the Service are increasing as these young people demonstrate their abilities. AUDREY BURG, a former summer aide, is now employed full-time as a Clerk (trainee) in the Facilities Management Branch, Administration Division, in the Des Moines office. Audrey is 18 years old and plans to complete her senior year in high school by attending night classes this fall. Audrey is the daughter of Mrs. Ella Burgs, 1931 Franklin, Des Moines, Iowa. Audrey plans to continue her employment with the Internal Revenue Service.

RENEE HAYSLETT, 18, was named in June 1971 as an Internal Revenue Scholar, earning an IRS Scholarship worth $5,000 a year for four years. She enters the Davenport office this week to begin part-time work while attending St. Ambrose College where she plans to major in Business Administration. Renee is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Hayslett, 1720 Mound, Davenport, Iowa.

Other new employees of IRS in the past few months who are working under Cooperative Work Study Programs are MELVIN JONES and JAMES A. HENRY.

Mel was given an excepted appointment as a Student Trainee in the Collection Division. Several new employees entered service with the Internal Revenue in July of this year. FRANCIS COLSTON transferred to the Office Audit Branch of the Audit Division as a Tax Technician from the Department of Agriculture. Frances is not a stranger to IRS, having been previously employed by IRS from January 1960 to November 1966.

VERSA MARINA was appointed as an Internal Revenue Agent (Trainee) with the Audit Division in the Des Moines Headquarters office. Versa hails from Benton, Louisiana, and graduated from Southern University, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, with a B.S. Degree in Accounting.

DOUGLAS PIERRE received his appointment as a Revenue Agent (Trainee) after graduating from Nicholls State College, Thibodaux, Louisiana, with a B.S. Degree in Accounting. Doug is working in the Waterloo IRS office.

Mr. Hanlon pointed out that the Internal Revenue Service offers the opportunity of advancement and increased responsibility along with regular salary increases to these young people after they complete their classroom and On-the-Job training period. He feels they will do a fine job for the Service and welcomes the opportunity to place them in the types of technical positions they are now occupying.

Coalition Seeks Query Into Soledad Death

NEW YORK, N.Y. — A coalition of Black professional, civic, and church organizations, concerned over "a serious crisis in the administration of justice and penal systems in this country," has asked for an investigation into the San Quentin Prison death of George Jackson and the treatment of inmates there following his death.

Goldberg And Clark
The Coalition of Concerned Black Americans called on the Commission of Inquiry — an interracial volunteer group of distinguished citizens including former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg and former United States Attorney General Ramsey Clark — to initiate such an investigation and to publish its findings.

The Coalition request was sent to Professor Herbert O. Reid, executive director of the Commission of Inquiry, at 880 Third Avenue in New York City.

"We have been especially concerned with the nature of this crisis (in the administration of justice and penal systems) as it affects the Black community," the Coalition letter to Professor Reid said, "for though we see the crisis as national in its breadth, it falls with particular heaviness upon Blacks and other non-white persons."

"The recent events at San Quentin in California surrounding the death of George Jackson and the problems within the prison which followed in the wake of these events indicate that the crisis is deepening."

The letter took special note of "what appears to be the conflicting official versions of what occurred" at San Quentin, adding that "the reports of wholesale physical abuse of prisoners by guards after Jackson's death, as reported by inmates and their attorneys, is also greatly distressing. Here again, the official version of what is going on does not coincide with other sources of information."

The Commission of Inquiry was formed to look into circumstances surrounding the slaying of Fred Hampton and Mark Clark in the Chicago police raid on a Black Panther apartment in December, 1970, and is credited with having played a significant role in bringing about recent indictments of law enforcement officials in connection with that raid.

Similarities In Death
"In many respects," the letter said, "we recognize similarities in the type of climate that now exists in connection with George Jackson's death, with that of sentiment in our communities surrounding the deaths of Fred Hampton and Mark Clark."

For this reason, the Coalition statement said, "we feel that an investigation by such a broadly representative, highly competent, private body is precisely what the present situation demands."

The Coalition of Concerned Black Americans includes the National Conference of Black Lawyers, the Committee of Concerned Afro-American Academics, and the National Committee of Black Churchmen. Its coordinating committee is composed of Haywood Burns, executive director of the National Conference of Black Lawyers; Professor Keith Baird and Dr. Jewell Gresham of the Committee of Concerned Afro-American Academics; the Rev. J. Metz Rollins, executive director of the National Committee of Black Churchmen; Father Robert Chapman, member of the National Committee of Black Churchmen and executive director, Department of Social Justice, National Council of Churches; and the Rev. Gayraud S. Wilmore, Jr., and Mrs. Sophia LaRusso, both members of the National Committee of Black Churchmen and executives of the United Presbyterian Council on Church and Race.

Other items in the statement of philosophy include:
1. There must be free and open dialogue between students and teachers in an atmosphere that is receptive and examines all points of view, free of moralization. Individuals from all segments of society and all age groups must communicate to understand the values and attitudes that govern the others' behavior.

2. Drug education should begin in the home with the school program beginning at the kindergarten level. Students from junior high age on should be involved in planning drug education, to make sure it is relevant to that school.

3. Drug education should be interwoven through the total school curriculum. All instructors must be concerned about humanizing instruction and aiding in the development of the student's self-concept. Every learning situation should become a laboratory for decision-making.

4. Motivations for drug abuse are varied and complex, ranging from poor influence and a desire for "kicks" to lost ties with family and religion. Emphasis must be on ways of coping with problems rather than on depicting drug users as "depraved" individuals. Alternatives to drug use must be offered in the home, school and community.

5. Schools should present accurate, factual material about drugs. Where research does not have the answers, this should be admitted. As part of the same overall problem, tobacco and alcohol should be treated along with the illegal drugs.

6. Different approaches should be taken for different age groups and different cultural backgrounds. Inner-city, suburban and rural inhabitants all face different patterns of drug abuse.

Black Women Heads Caribbean Peace Corp Post

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A prominent black woman educator from Michigan has been sworn in as Peace Corps Country Director for the Eastern Caribbean Islands. Dr. Marise T. Hadden, a former Adjunct (Auxiliary) Professor with the University of Michigan, became the fifth woman in the 10 year history of the Peace Corps to be appointed to this position. She is the second woman presently holding this position in the nearly sixty nations around the world where Peace Corps serves.

Dr. Hadden will be responsible for 200 volunteers who will work with programs designed by the host governments on the islands of: Antigua, St. Kitts, Grenada, St. Vincent, Montserrat, Anguilla, Dominica, St. Lucia, Nevis, the West Indies, and Barbados, where she will maintain offices in the city of Bridgetown.

Bill Inglis, Acting Deputy Director of ACTION, the new umbrella agency covering such government programs as Peace Corps, VISTA, and five other programs, administered the oath of office.

Dr. Hadden served as Director of Intergroup and Community Relations with Youth for Understanding, a program designed to increase the involvement of non-white high school students and Africans.

In 1968, Mrs. Hadden became the first black woman to teach in the School of Education where she concentrated on Urban Education within a social foundations framework.

Dr. Hadden served in numerous positions in the Detroit Public Schools systems from 1950-66, including homeroom teachers, Assistant Principal and Summer School Principal.

Among the organizations she holds membership are: American Women in Radio and Television, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Women's Advertising Club, and Michigan Association for Emotionally Disturbed Children.

Coalition Warns of 'Unfair Test'

WASHINGTON, D.C. — M. Carl Holman, President of the National Urban Coalition, warned that the $1.5 billion recently appropriated for public service jobs under the Emergency Employment Act of 1971 can by no means provide an adequate test of public service employment on a scale commensurate with the needs of the cities.

Addressing the opening session of a three-day Institute on the Emergency Employment Act of 1971 at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, Holman said:

"Caught in the crunch of rising unemployment, shrinking fiscal resources and insistent demands that localities do a better job of keeping the streets safe and clean, cleansing the air providing better and less expensive health services, urban leaders in the weeks ahead are likely to be outgunned by states and counties in the competition for a total number of jobs which is tragically inadequate to the needs of any one of these jurisdictions."

Labor Dept. Acts to Thwart Job Bias of American Women

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A proposal for "significantly" improving the employment opportunities of American women has been announced by Secretary of Labor, J.D. Hodgson.

Regulations specifying "affirmative action" requirements among Federal contractors in all industries other than construction have been newly revised to cover women.

Revised Order

Known as Revised Order No. 4, the regulations will require Federal contractors and subcontractors to develop goals and timetables "to remedy underutilization of women," Secretary Hodgson said.

The proposed order — developed after a series of consultations with the diverse organizations — has been changed and appeared in the Federal Register on August 31.

Sec. Hodgson expressed confidence that, when effective, this revised regulation "will have great impact on our efforts to assure women equality in the American workplace."

"By providing well-defined criteria for correcting underutilization of women, this order will insure significant new job opportunities for American women," Mr. Hodgson added.

Order No. 4, signed by former Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz on Jan. 30, 1970, provides guidelines for the development of affirmative action programs by Federal contractors and subcontractors in nonconstruction industries. The Office of Federal Contract Compliance is responsible for carrying out the order.

Increased Awareness

Since the order went into effect, the department has become increasingly aware of problems concerning the application of affirmative action measures to the problems of equal employment opportunities for women.

The central changes to be effected by the revised order are requirements that employers analyze their work forces against newly developed criteria "to determine whether women are being underutilized and, if so, to develop goals and timetables for remedying the problem," Secretary Hodgson said.

The criteria, similar to those found in Order No. 4 for "dealing with the underutilization of minorities, have been tailored" to reflect the particular problems attendant to the underutilization of women in employment," the Secretary added.

Under the revised rule, Federal contractors and subcontractors will be required to analyze the following factors:

—The number of unemployed women in the labor area surrounding the facility.

—The percentage of women in the work force in the area surrounding the facility.

—The availability of women having the requisite skills in the area surrounding the facility.

—The availability of women seeking employment in the area.

—The availability of women having requisite skills in the area in which the contractor could reasonably recruit.

—The availability of "promotable and transferable" women in the contractor's organization.

—Anticipated expansion, contraction and turnover of the contractor's work force.

—Availability of institutions capable of training persons in the requisite skills.

Training that the contractor is reasonably able to undertake as a means of making all job classes available to women.

For the past several months, John Wilks, Director of the Labor Department's Office of Federal Contract Compliance met and consulted with representatives of women's organizations, industry, labor and human resources groups regarding the problems of underutilization of women in employment and the best methods for dealing with these problems. The revised order is the result of these consultations.

Interested persons will have 30 days from the date of the proposed revision's publication in the Register to submit their comments to the Department. Written comments should be sent to: John L. Wilks, Director, Office of Federal Contract Compliance, U.S. Department of Labor, Washington, D.C. 20210.

$5,000 Damage In House Fire

Fire Monday afternoon caused about $5,000 damage to the Robert W. Hobbs home, 1307 College Ave.

District Fire Chief Art Daniels said the blaze, which apparently was started by a smoldering cigarette in a sofa, was confined to the living room and attic of the one-story house.

The remainder of the house was damaged by smoke and heat, he said. No one was home when the fire broke out and there were no injuries.

High school equivalency examinations are offered to hospitalized veterans at 97 Veterans Administration hospitals.

NBL Gets It Together For 71st Convention--Most Crucial

Washington, D.C. — "Getting It Together", the theme of NBL's 71st Annual meeting is significant because that is what 2,000 businessmen and women will be doing in Richmond (September 28 - October 1st) for minority economic development.

The stage has been set for what may be NBL's most crucial meeting in history as the result of a recent census bureau study which indicates an ever widening economic gap between minority and white business.

The census bureau study shows that although minorities account for 17 per cent of the total U.S. population, only seven-tenths of one percent of the total U.S. business receipts were grossed by minority businesses in 1969. These results are very similar to those of an NBL survey conducted in 1967 in several major U.S. cities. NBL has been prodding the government for the past 15 years to conduct such a study and a comprehensive look at the results will take place at this year's 71st Annual meeting. Both the census bureau study and NBL's '67 study found Black business to be in poor condition. It is the feeling of NBL President Berkeley G. Burrell that "Blacks must get together NOW or that it may soon be too late."

The present state of Blacks in business is:

(1) Blacks own 163,000 of the 7.5 million business firms in the country — less than 4 per cent of the total.

(2) Blacks grossed $4.5 billion of the 1.5 trillion gross total receipts for 1969.

(3) Seventy per cent of Black businesses employ less than five persons and only 20 per cent are partnerships or corporations. "Booker T. Washington and E. Franklin Frazier are just as relevant today as yesterday when they called for Blacks to get it together", said President Burrell.

He continued, "Top level jobs in industry is a myth and the statistics prove it. Ninety-six per cent of all jobs paying $15,000 and up are held by white males who comprise only 52 per cent of the work force while 53.4 per cent of government jobs at GS-1 level are held by minorities. Why emphasize business ownership? What Do Black People Want?" NBL's 71st Annual Convention will answer these and other questions concluded Burrell.

Other highlights of the convention include: NBL's Business Opportunity Store where business transactions will be conducted; A government Procurement Conference featuring information on how to obtain government contracts; A Private Procurement Conference featuring private corporations seeking minority suppliers and Panels covering such areas as Cable Television and Politics.

Burrell urged "all persons interested in attending this timely convention to mail their registration forms today."

Opportunity Officer for GSA's Region 6 (Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska) for the past two years.

Robert L. Kunzig, Administrator of General Services, authorized creation of the new post to insure that equal employment opportunity standards are maintained both within GSA itself, and with contractors doing business with the U.S. Government.

Black Dem Proposed For Senate

Congressman John Conyers urged that national Democratic Party leaders should consider Michigan as the state to elect the first black Democrat to the U.S. Senate. He pointed out that President Nixon's economic policies would probably contribute to the defeat of the junior Senator from Michigan, Republican Robert Griffin, next year.

Conyers said that the administration's wage-price freeze diminishes the reelection prospects of all Republicans, in particular, in areas such as Michigan where there are large concentrations of government employees scheduled for promotions and raises.

He urged that Richard Austin, black Secretary of State and the highest ranking Democratic official in Michigan, be considered as the Senatorial nominee most likely to defeat Griffin next year.

Conyers noted that there are no blacks among the 55 Democrats presently in the Senate, although 85 per cent of blacks who vote, vote Democratic.

Apprentices Up to Record 280,000 New Minority Gains Are Cited

WASHINGTON, D.C. — New gains were made in minority apprenticeships in 1970 as the number of registered apprentices in all trades rose 10,000 to a record 280,000.

In reporting the developments, Secretary of Labor J.D. Hodgson said minority apprentices accounted for 9.1 per cent of the total, a 16-per cent rise over 1969.

Climbed Steadily
The minority proportion of all new apprentices has climbed steadily over the past four years, Sec. Hodgson noted.

Nearly 12 per cent of all new apprentices registered in 1970 were members of minority groups, versus 10 per cent in 1969, 8 per cent in 1968 and 6 per cent in 1967.

"These gains are important," said Sec. Hodgson, "but we should not let them make us complacent. For we have a long distance to travel in meeting shortages of craftsmen and to insure equality of opportunity for everyone seeking apprentice training.

"Clearly, we are moving in the right direction, but considering that the shortage of craftsmen in the 17 construction trades alone is expected to exceed 758,000 by 1975 if present trends continue, we really have a big job ahead of us."

Of the 280,000 apprentices registered at the end of 1970, Mr. Hodgson said 161,000 were in the construction trades (57.5 per cent); 53,700 in the metal working trades (19 per cent); 15,000 in the printing trades (5.4 per cent); and 50,000 in the miscellaneous trades (18 per cent).

Promotes Programs

The Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training (BAT) in the Manpower Administration promotes and registers programs that adopt Standards set by the Secretary of Labor. BAT also approves standards of 29 State apprenticeship agencies that registered about 80,000 of the 280,000 last year.

The 9.1 per cent minority group proportion represents 25,000 active minority group apprentices in registered programs at the end of the year.

Among them were 15,400 blacks (5.5 per cent of all apprentices); 6,160 Spanish surnamed (2.2 per cent); 1,400 Indians (.5 per cent); and slightly more than 2,000 Orientals (.8 per cent).

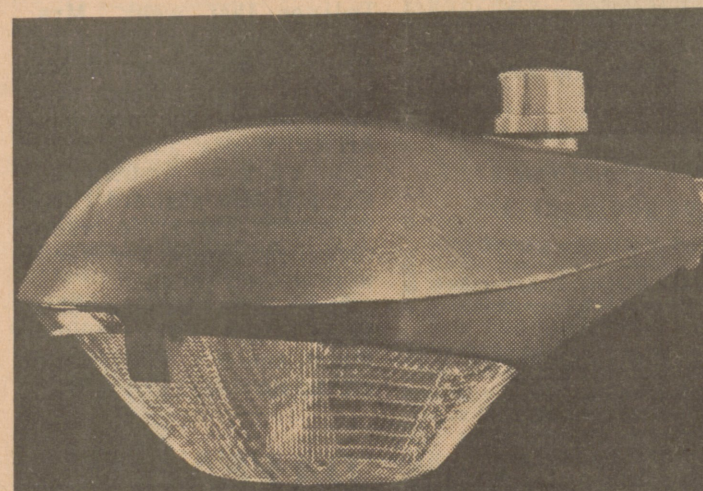

To ensure wider equal opportunity in all registered programs, Sec. Hodgson issued new apprenticeship regulations in April. The regulations require program sponsors to take positive steps to get minorities into apprenticeship through an aggressive affirmative action program, to include an approved selection method and the establishment of percentage goals and timetables.

Among the four major trades groupings, the printing trades, with an 8-per cent increase in the number (1,225) of active apprentices for the year, showed the biggest net gain. The miscellaneous trades were next with a 7 per cent gain (3,800), followed by the construction trades with 5 per cent (8,765).

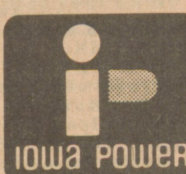

The number of apprentices in the metal working trades showed a decrease of 6 per cent, representing 3,740 fewer apprentices than the previous year.

The Department of Labor has been responsible for overseeing the National Apprenticeship Program since it was established by law in 1937. It sets the minimum quality training standards for apprenticeship, and registers those programs that meet the standards through its network of BAT field offices in 160 major industrial cities in all 50 States.

When you teach your child to count,

By the time your child is old enough to recognize numbers, you ought to teach him something about using them. It may save his life.

Start with "0" (zero). Explain to him that "0" stands for Operator—a friend who works where all the telephone lines come together and who can bring help quickly.

All the operator needs to know are two things: what's wrong and where you live.

Once your child understands this, he can handle any emergency—day or night. He can alert the fire department, rescue squad or police.

All he has to do is dial "0". She'll do the rest. You can count on that.

PAUL DANFORTH'S "MARRIAGE AND FAMILY COUNSELING SERVICES" located at 1114 Fleming Building is now in its third year and has recently acquired three new staff members. The agency is the first and only one of its kind in the state and has an integrated staff. Danforth, at one time one of the city's foremost realtors, is an instructor in Drake University College's night classes in "Marriage and the Family" and "Race and Minorities Group Relations". YOU KNOW, OF COURSE, that the rule "Behind each great man is a woman" applies to Danforth, too. She is the so chic Delores Harris Danforth with a very important plus in her favor — none other than the Danforths' son, Wendell! AARON B. CARTER, JR., son of Bishop and Mrs. Aaron B. Carter, Sr., who head the Forest Avenue Church of God in Christ, is presently Equal Employment Opportunity Specialist for the Iowa State Highway Commission and doing a magnificent job. AARON HAS WORKED WITH FEDERAL, State and City and County agencies to make it possible for deprived blacks to be hired or upgraded. His work reaches the fields of housing, education and human relations in addition to employment. I PREDICT (AS ROMA BARRETT WOULD SAY) that Carter will be counted as one of Des Moines' black leaders in the not too distant future.

REV. ORZEALYEA ROBERSON has (had) and has (again) returned to our midst after a much needed and well - deserved rest. Her travels took her to Florida where she attended meetings, then to Nassau where she vacationed briefly. Then followed further meetings in Omaha, Nebraska! (WOW!) This exuberant personality is always missed when absent from the local scene! JULIA PROCTOR (MRS. STANLEY) prominent in club circles, is finally back home and resuming her usual share of work after an ever so long hospital stay. MRS. KATHERINE SHELTON AND SON, LLOYD SHELTON, motored back from Denver, Colorado, where Mrs. Shelton visited with Lloyd and his "Mrs.", vivacious Grace Shelton. For the senior Mrs. Shelton the world of friends with whom she has spent so many years calls her back. For a while anyway. She looks marvelous and we had a good visit Labor Day. CLARA BAYLES (MRS. CLIFFORD) is at home now after surgery and a hospital stay. Clara had just concluded a trip! BERNICE DAVIS, NEAR THE CORNER OF 13th and The Floyd Loggins' Executive Day Care, included a rib of barbecued ribs for her pup and his side - kick — two Sundays ago! She discovered her generosity when she checked as to why there were so few rib slabs. The two culprits were awaiting seconds when she discovered the loss!

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Please comment on a girl's acceptance of gifts from a man.

A. Do not accept expensive or personal gifts -- never any wearing apparel other than gloves, scarves, or handkerchiefs -- never such things as dresses, nightgowns, slips or furs. Flowers, of course, are always acceptable. Expensive and personal gifts are compromising, and a man of good breeding will not embarrass a girl by offering them.

Q. I've been told it's incorrect to use colored stationery for social correspondence. Is this true?

A. No. Any conservative color is good except for strictly formal correspondence. Gray, blue, or light green, for example, will not cause criticism, if used properly. Avoid violent colors.

Q. Is it proper to use the napkin for removing a particle of food from the mouth, such as a bone or other inedible portion of meat?

A. Never! Use the fingers, and then the napkin for wiping the fingers.

Q. Recently while we were guests in a friend's home at dinner, the other guests refused second helpings, while I gladly accepted. My wife says I was wrong for doing this. Was I?

A. Depends. Sometimes when a guest is the only one to accept, he could be delaying the serving of the next course -- and consideration is a mark of good-breeding.

Q. One of my friends has asked me to take care of the bridal book at her wedding reception. How do I properly do this?

A. Stand with the book open on a small table as the guests reach the end of the reception line, after speaking with the bride and groom, and you ask them to sign the bridal book.

Q. Is a hostess obligated to rise and greet each newcomer to her home?

A. If she is a GOOD hostess, she will!

Q. If I have contributed to a wedding gift given by the office force to an employee, and then later I receive an individual invitation, am I supposed to come through with another gift from me alone?

A. No; you fulfilled your "obligation" with your part in the office gift.

Q. When I am a guest at dinner in a friend's home and my hostess offers me a couple of vegetables I don't like, what should I do?

A. If you want to retain this particular friendship, accept at least a small portion of everything served -- and make a show of enjoying it, too.

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...

Was haircoloring first done in Africa?

Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions... to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.

Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairol's Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.

Today black pride brings you closer to the cultural ways of your African heritage. Haircoloring is a part of black history too. Ask your professional hairdresser about changing your hair color with Miss Clairol... and be more beautiful than you already are.

GENTRY SHOULD BE REELECTED

Voters in the Des Moines Independent School District will elect members of the board of education on September 13. Little interest has been displayed during the campaign and yet this board spends more tax money than either the city or county.

By and large, the board has done a pretty good job. Among the candidates is Nolden Gentry, an attorney and an active citizen in public affairs.

Gentry is the first Negro to serve on the board following a special election last year to fill an unexpired term. He was supported by many substantial groups in the city and won by a good vote.

He came to Iowa from Illinois receiving his education at Iowa University where he starred in basketball both as a player and captain of the team. Following a short stint as an FBI agent, he came back to Iowa, served as assistant attorney general later joining a law firm of which he is a member.

A splendid young man, home owner, married, the father of two children, he is well fitted to serve another term. He should be reelected and no stone should be left unturned by his friends to assure it.

THE BEST MEANS TO EQUALIZE WAGES

Numerous studies have been made, results of which show the large disparity in the wages between Negroes and whites. However, little has been done to correct it in spite of minimum wage laws and equal opportunity efforts.

Minimum wage laws have been in the statute books for years. But in spite of the law some companies have failed to comply.

The federal government seems to be getting busy on this score as evidenced by a law suit against the Virginia Electric and Power Company.

As a result the company agreed to a consent decree acknowledging underpayment of the minimum wage to its Negro employees and the payment of $250,000. in back wages to 214 employees.

With all the claims by organized labor that they worked for the interest of all labor, it is difficult to see how a big utility could get away with such flagrant violation of the law over such a long period of time.

It is this type of discrimination that helps to maintain the disparagement of wages between whites and Negroes.

Other firms are being investigated and will be hauled into court for the same violation of fair labor standards if they refuse to comply. It is this type of thing that is needed more that Negroes get the same break as others as the law provides.

BUS STUDENTS IF NEED BE

The opening of public schools for the fall term has brought added problems for segregated schools. Segregated schools came originally by law or custom in the South while it arises in the North by residence of the pupils.

The effort to desegregate by busing pupils has brought new problems for there is less objection to busing Negroes to all white schools as there is to busing white students to predominately Negro schools.

Backers of the stigma of segregation of Negroes have objected to segregated schools because they were unequal. Prior to the supreme court school decisions of 1954, some southern schools spent five times as much on the white child as the Negro child. They had been assigned less and poorer equipment, less prepared teachers. And even in the North, where defacto segregated schools existed, less money has been spent on schools in Negro neighborhoods than as in unsegregated schools.

Take Des Moines, which is typical of large city schools, in the older section where most Negroes live with such schools as Washington Irving, which was built years ago, are not equipped such as Brody or other newer ones.

The idea of busing is to have students, living in the Washington Irving, area enjoy what students in the Brody area enjoy.

We are spending a lot of money here busing students to and from schools for one reason or another and few realized it until busing became a means of integrating the schools. Negroes and whites need to grow up together.

The problem is more or less in cities where there are large Negro student attendance. The problem can be solved if officials take a positive stand and stay with it. Some will object but this is true of any move that is made.

Health for All

OXYGEN FOR SENILE
MINDS?

Without oxygen, human life cannot exist. Without enough oxygen, the human brain does not function properly.

Many scientists, including Dr. Eleanor A. Jacobs at the State University of New York at Buffalo, suspect that decreased oxygen supply to the brain can be one cause of senility. In Dr. Jacobs' experiments, some senile patients exposed to a special oxygen-filled chamber have shown "dramatic" improvements in thinking and memory.

Senile patients exposed to the chamber for 90-minute sessions twice a day for 15 days showed improvements on psychological tests that ranged from 35 to 300 percent. They became more active, slept better, and took greater interest in caring for themselves. A control group not exposed to the chamber showed no improvements at all.

Although the improvements showed for some time, Dr. Jacobs says not enough is known about how long the effects do in fact last. The researchers also stress that there is no evidence that the improvement will persist or that all senile patients will benefit, even temporarily.

"This was only a first small step," Dr. Jacobs says. "It's as if we picked up and identified one grain of sand but may be standing in the middle of a whole Sahara."

Whatever the eventual outcome of experiments with senile patients, the body needs enough oxygen to function well. Cigarette smoking and pollution cut down the amount of oxygen we breathe; the lungs and heart as well as the brain are affected. Enough oxygen is necessary for all minds, not only senile ones.

To find out more about oxygen and breathing, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and breath.

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

PLAYING ON LOSING TEAMS

The other day we listened to a fellow who was discussing the great athletes of the past. The guy has seen just about all of them for about the last fifty years. When he was asked to name some of the greatest in the various sports, he chose at least one fellow who was never on a winning team. We recall that we used to read about the feats of big Jay Berwanger of Chicago University at a time when the Maroons were last in the Big Ten. All they had was the big fellow from Dubuque and he did just about everything that a team was supposed to do in a game. When he was asked how he picked Berwanger, when there were so many great athletes on winning teams, he replied that probably most of them were great because they were on winning teams. Then he asked how many of them would have starred with a losing club. Then we could think of quite a few fellows who were outstanding on losing teams, and who never were chosen for all star clubs.

Requisites

For one of the chief requisites for all stardom seems to be a winning team. We recall seeing a high school game in which one club was soundly trounced. But one boy on the losers seemed to be just about the whole club. He backed up the line, carried the ball and made just about half of the tackles. After the game all of the winners came over and shook the kid's hand telling him that he had played a great game. As one guy put it "We beat your team, but we never did beat you." Yet, when the all star teams of that league were picked, that boy was given honorable mention. We wondered how the other fellows could possibly be any better than he. There are several arguments about the value of playing in a losing cause. One very famous sportswriter said it when he wrote that it matters not that you won or lost, but how you played the game. Maybe that was true in his day, but we aren't so sure about now.

Winning Responsibility

Then we can think of a lot of fellows who played their hearts out on a losing club because they loved the game, and who enjoyed every minute of it. But, then there is a certain responsibility that goes with constant winning. The knowledge that sooner or later you might be on the short end, and the ability to refrain from becoming boastful or vain. And that is likely the reason why some star athletes don't make good coaches or managers. They can't stand losing, and don't know how to react. Then they expect every boy to be able to do what they did when they were playing, not realizing that some people just don't have the same physical equipment that others do. We can name some great players in various games who made lousy coaches or managers because they just couldn't understand that A couldn't run as fast as B or is not as strong as C. They expect them all to be equal in the different abilities that make up athletes. If I had to make up a list of the greatest athletes I have seen or known, I would tie it up to the list of people who taught various games and how they taught them.

High School Football

The lid will soon be off the local high school race for gridiron honors. We still don't know who to pick for a favorite. But, we were a bit amused by one fellow who is trying out for one of the high school teams here. He said that he would expect to be paid if he played. We reminded him that he didn't know too much about the game. As we put it to him, Why, you wouldn't make a patch on the seat of a football players pants." But he remained adamant, insisting that he was going to ask the coach and school for pay when the season starts. We shall be very interested as to how he comes out.

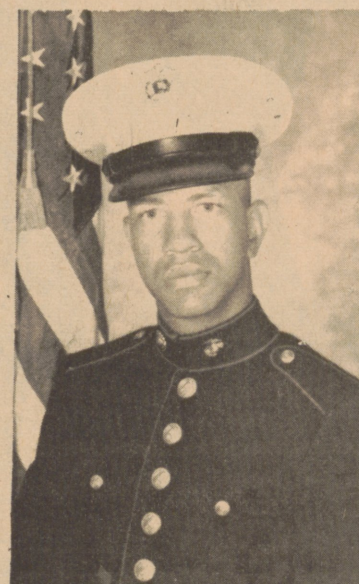

College - University
Football

And in a couple of weeks we shall be seeing how our major colleges and universities will do in their openers. We told a fellow that we could see Iowa winning five, and with luck, six games. Let's see how far off we are. Iowa State? Maybe four or five. Drake? Maybe they will drop not over two if they lose that many.

Who Was Prince Hall?

Prince Hall was born September 12, 1748 at Bridgetown, Barbados, B.W.I. His father was an Englishman and his mother a free colored woman of French descent. Prince Hall was apprenticed at 12 yrs of age to learn the leather worker trade.

He left home in 1765 and came to Boston, Mass. He worked hard and studied night and day. In 1774 he joined the Methodist Church and later became a minister. He early became an outspoken enemy of slavery and denounced it on all occasions.

In March 1775 Prince Hall and 14 other Black Men were initiated into an Army Lodge attached to one of General Gages Regiments. For 9 years they met and enjoyed limited Masonic Privileges.

In 1784 Prince Hall and his followers petitioned the Grand Lodge of England for a Warrant to form a Lodge of their own. This was granted but not received due to transportation difficulties until 1787. The Warrant was for African Lodge No. 459. All Prince Hall Lodges stem from this momentous event. This is the Mother Lodge for us, the Prince Hall Masons of Iowa. Prince Hall was indeed a citizen of the times. He was involved in the religious, social, and Masonic Affairs of this time. He enlisted in the American Army during the Revolutionary War and served with distinction. He died December 7, 1807.
