41 Deaths in Attica Prison Riot

Most Inmates Are Negroes and Puerto Ricans

Attica, N. Y. — Attempts to quell the four-day prison riot at New York's Attica state prison resulted in the deaths of ten hostages and 31 convicts, after helicopters dropping tear gas supported several hundred state police armed with rifles and shotguns as they flooded the prison and so gained command.

The decision to take this action came after the rioters' disregard the 9 a.m. ultimatum deadline that they surrender. The State Corrections Commissioner Russell Oswald claims to have maintained unbroken contact with Governor Nelson Rockefeller as to what steps to take.

Troops Called In

Seventy cars carrying National Guard troops protected by gas masks and armed with rifles were on hand. Expectation of their participation was not general knowledge. State police executed the first attack before national guardsmen were seen to enter the prison. All the while, Governor Rockefeller, at his office awaited word of the events.

Kunstler Negotiate

William Kunstler, civil rights attorney, pressed mediation efforts in behalf of the convicts. The mission had the support of Governor Rockefeller.

The governor refused the prisoners' request for amnesty to come to the prison to negotiate. Rockefeller said that it would be illegal to grant amnesty and would not do so, if he could.

Kunstler a Spokesman

Kunstler stated that the prisoners would have abandoned their demand for the firing of Prison Superintendent Vincent Mancusi had they been allowed amnesty.

According to Kunstler, the Black Panthers had secured sanctuary in four countries, including North Korea and the Republic of the Congo for prisoners given amnesty. Bobby Seales was one of the mediators.

Oswald, Corrections Commissioner, in a man-to-man confrontation with prison leader, Richard Clark, delivered his ultimatum. Clark responded that he would take up the matter with "the people's central committee."

The convicts had won a number of concessions from authorities. They had retained a stand for complete amnesty. Five of the hostages had sought acceptance of the granting of amnesty. The death of a guard injured during Thursday's start of the rebellion sparked the authorities' refusal to the question of amnesty.

A special mediation team was present at the prison and predicted the possible massacre of prisoners and guards as they sought to no avail solutions to the positions taken by both sides.

Commissioner Oswald's release of the prisoners' demands and the concessions made revealed the latter covered the administrative changes and other reforms sought by the inmates.

Among these was discontinuance of censorship of reading matter, political activity, correctly balanced diets and an increase in library facilities.

Attica state prison has a population of 70 per cent blacks with the remaining 30 per cent being predominantly Puerto Rican.

Both Parties Had Guns; Bond Fixed at $50,000 Later Reduced to $10,000

WATERLOO, Iowa — Following a shooting Saturday night, a man was arrested and charged with the shooting death of his next-door neighbor. He pleaded innocent in District Court Monday to an open charge of murder.

Percy Burt, Jr., 35, of 432 Cottage St., is accused of shooting Sammy Harris, 36, of 436 Cottage St., three times with a semi-automatic shotgun as Harris stood on his front porch.

Harris died Saturday at 9:45 p.m. of internal hemorrhaging due to multiple shotgun pellets in the chest, authorities said.

Bond on Burt was reduced from $50,000 to $10,000.

Police said the shooting apparently came after children of the two men quarreled Saturday afternoon and night.

Burt has nine children and Harris six, and police said the two had been quarreling for about two months.

A trial was scheduled for Nov. 1 on the murder charge.

Police said Burt fired the shotgun from his own front porch as Harris stood on his front porch, also holding a shotgun.

Police said they were not sure whether Harris' gun was loaded.

No Charges Filed In Shooting

Virginia Cooper, 25, of 1436 13th St. was shot Sunday night during, what witnesses said was a quarrel near her home.

Witnesses said Miss Cooper was on the porch of an apartment house at 1336 13th St. where she was arguing with a man standing on the sidewalk when the man shot her with a pistol.

No charges were filed against the assailant.

Mrs. Hammer, a Des Moines native and a graduate of Iowa State University, is a member of the Des Moines Pollution Control Committee, the Environmental Coordinating Council and the League of Women Voters.

She is the founder of Planning with People, a group which analyzes city and regional planning and is on the administrative board of First United Methodist Church.

Her husband, James, is co-owner of Mechanical and Electrical Warehouse, Inc. They have a daughter, Michelle, 5.

Young Black Killed In SCLC March

BUTLER, ALA., September 13 — A white man drove a car into a demonstration here Saturday, striking and killing a black youth 19-year-old Margaret Ann Knott, who was in the march organized by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

In follow up protests, 1,700 marched Sunday and about 250 black students were arrested in a Monday morning march. National Guardsmen and state troopers moved in during the weekend.

Funeral services for Miss Knott are scheduled for Tuesday in nearby Yantley, Ala. Dr. Ralph David Abernathy, SCLC President, will officiate.

Dr. Abernathy said that the killing was "a tragic and detestable example of the hate and terror inspired by George Wallace's Alabama. Black people will rise up and put a stop to killings, repression and racism."

The killing Saturday occurred during a march of 1,500 people in this Choctaw County community. Witnesses said police and sheriff's staff stood by and watched as a man roared his car into the demonstrators at a speed estimated to be as much as 40 miles per hour. As demonstrators scattered, the car struck and killed Miss Knott. The sheriff reportedly refused to arrest the man, and he was not apprehended until later Saturday night.

The march had been organized by SCLC staff who are aiding a Choctaw County movement which was touched off by firings of black teachers here last spring. The movement is demanding that the teachers be restored to their positions, that black people have representative control of the schools, that more job openings be made available to blacks, and that representative government be instituted in this county with a black population of 43.9 per cent.

One of the fired teachers is the mother of Miss Knott, whose entire family has been involved in the movement.

SCLC field organizers assigned to Choctaw County currently are Rev. James Orange, Ben "Sunshine" Owens, Lester Hankerson, and Willie Tabb.

College Info Center In Soul Village

The College Information Center of the United Black Federation is increasing its services to students involved in pursuit of higher education and stresses the term "higher education", including all institutions of learning.

The Center's college coordinator, Mrs. Shirley Woods, is emphasizing an important source of assistance to young people in their efforts to obtain financial aid. They are The Iowa Tuition Grant and Iowa Tuition Scholarship.

Application forms are available at the offices of any high school counselor and at Soul Village. She says that it is necessary that these forms be filled out by those seeking financial aid.

At the time a student fills out either of the two forms, "The Parents Confidential Statement" must be filled out showing financial need for assistance which enables the child to qualify for the Iowa tuition grant or scholarships and other grants.

Davis Trial Delayed Again

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. — Attorneys for Angela Davis won another delay in her murder, conspiracy and kidnap trial on grounds the recent San Quentin prison escape attempt "poisoned the atmosphere" in this county.

Miss Davis, a black militant and onetime UCLA philosophy instructor, was to be tried in Marin County Superior Court on Sept. 27. Her lawyers told Judge Richard E. Arnason earlier this week that the prison violence made it impossible for their client to receive a fair trial now — "if ever."

Miss Davis' attorneys also told Judge Arnason that they needed the trial delayed because they still had to interview about 500 potential witnesses.

The judge this week denied a defense motion for dismissal of the charges against Miss Davis on grounds the Grand Jury which indicted her was improperly composed.

Her attorneys had said blacks, the poor and the young had deliberately been excluded from jury membership.

"The court," Arnason said, "does not find sufficient basis for findings any Marin judges have conscientiously, deliberately, arbitrarily discriminated against any definable class."

Jury May Be Guilty, Cites Indiana Psychology Study

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — "We find the defendant not guilty because he's such a likeable guy."

While it's never said in just this way, some jurors may render verdicts on the basis of the defendant's personality rather than the evidence, recent research at Purdue University shows.

No Guarantee

These experiments indicate that trial by a jury of one's "peers" may not guarantee a fair hearing and objective decision.

Herman Mitchell, graduate student in psychology, set up an experiment in which 139 Purdue students acted as "jurors" in a fictitious case of a student accused of theft.

The jurors received evidence that the defendant:

- was seen taking the stolen item,
- had the item in his possession when he was apprehended,
- and admitted taking the item.

Despite this evidence, some jurors were not convinced that the defendant was guilty.

Jurors most likely to acquit the defendant were those who had been shown through attitude questionnaires to be similar to the defendant in attitudes and, therefore, attracted to him. These jurors also were described as "rigid and intolerant and having a tendency to condemn, reject, and punish those who violate conventional values."

Biased

Yet these jurors who tend to condemn and punish were likely to be so strongly biased toward a defendant they liked that they exonerated him in spite of overwhelming evidence of guilt.

Prof. Donn Byrne, who supervised Mitchell's study, believes this apparently incongruous behavior may be explained by authoritarian persons' tendency to "lump the world into them and us." These persons go out of their way to protect and support those who agree with them.

In the experiment, authoritarians who were dissimilar in attitudes to the defendant recommended more severe punishment for him than did other jurors.

While the authoritarians in the experiment were less likely than other jurors to render objective judgments, Byrne does not believe it would be practical to try to exclude such persons from juries in actual trials. Psychological testing of prospective jurors would never be acceptable, he said.

However, something might be done about the other factor which was found to influence decisions — like or unlike attitudes. Jurors may infer a defendant's attitudes from his race, age, sex, accent or attire, Mitchell points out.

If peers are really to equals of the defendant, Mitchell says, then the term may require a much narrower and more specific definition than it now has.

The experiment was part of Mitchell's investigation of ethnic factors influencing judicial decisions. His work is aided by funds from the Ford Foundation and the Department of Justice.

Minority group business organizations got $1.5 million more in Veterans Administration contracts during fiscal year 1971 than in 1970.

New Energy Exhibit

State and local government officials as well as business and community leaders attended a special preview showing of The Story of Energy Wednesday evening, September 15, at the Des Moines Center of Science and Industry.

Donated by Iowa Power and Light Company in conjunction with Northern Natural Gas Company, the new exhibit on energy will be opened to the public Friday, September 17 on the lower level of the Center.

In announcing the donation of the energy exhibit to the Center, Iowa Power's President, Dwight H. Swanson, said:

"Iowa Power is extremely proud to be able to bring this exhibit, The Story of Energy, to the people of Iowa. The Science Center reflects the excellent cultural and educational facilities located in Des Moines and in the State."

Robert Bridgum, Director of the Science Center, commented:

"Naturally, we are very pleased to receive this major exhibit. The Story of Energy is not only interesting and informative, but also a highly entertaining exhibit too." Bridgum pointed out, "Youngsters can actually see how electricity is generated by pedaling a specially installed bicycle. As the child pedals he will create electricity which will light a panel just above him."

African Dinner Given at St. Paul Church

St. Paul A.M.E. Church held an African Feast Saturday night, September 11.

The event was planned by the church organization presidents, with each group donating $10.00 for food. The organizations cooked, although this meant working from African recipes, unknown to most of the women.

Members worked in different homes making jam and bread.

All areas of Africa were represented: a dish from Cape Malays, Senegal, Sierre Leone, the Cameroons, East Africa, Kenya, Tanzania and Ethiopia.

The authenticity of the affair was enhanced by Julia Lema, from The Cameroons, directing the Saturday afternoon crew in making vegetables, garnishes, and the fufu (potato and ham balls served with ground nut stew). It is said that in this choice of foods, Africans maintain their trim figures.

The apparel was as unfamiliar as the recipes. Many families wore African clothing. Mr. and Mrs. John Bell of West Des Moines were clad in "Mr. and Mrs." dashikis. Elementary school children, sub-teens and teenagers, high school and college students were in their African dress.

The evening's entertainment is credited to Naphtal Tevelu, from Arusha Tanzania and a student at Northwestern University. Tevelu is majoring in film-making. He exhibited this skill in presenting films of Africa. He had on display from his own collections wood carvings, and many baskets made of natural color and turquoise - dyed raffia.

In addition to Miss Lema and Tevelu, others from Drake University and Central College supported the entire affair.

New Veterans Administration authority to sell mortgages it holds from direct loans to veterans at prevailing market discount rates is expected to make more direct loans available to veterans who live in eligible areas, the agency said.

Bridging the Mother-Daughter Gap

"You're too young!" "Wait a couple of years." "I'll tell you about that later."

For years these were the traditional answers parents gave to the searching questions asked by their offspring who were entering puberty.

Many of today's parents, while more modern in many ways, still give these same non-answers to the questions adolescents bring home. It isn't easy to answer some of these questions . . . in fact, some of them are downright shocking to parents.

However, according to Mary Louise Lennon, Director of the Kimberly-Clark Life Cycle Center, a mother's responsibility is to be honest and straightforward. "You should hear your child out, and not ignore questions which at that moment are vitally important to your child or you will shut the door to future questions."

The Life Cycle Center, an educational service for women provided by the Kimberly-Clark Corporation, has recognized that parents and children do need help in finding the answers to questions. "Even if your daughter hasn't asked any questions, you should initiate conversation about some of the basic principles of being a young lady," says Miss Lennon.

In order to help you explain feminine cycles, from a physiological and emotional viewpoint, the Life Cycle Center provides six booklets. Parents and children can read them together, or they can be given to your daughter to read by herself.

AFL-CIO GRANT

"We are confident that this endorsement, with the support the UNCF traditionally gets from the corporate and foundation sectors, will help us reach our goal of $10,000,000 this year."

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said the executive council's action recognizes the extremely serious plight of the black colleges at this time.

"We are, therefore, very happy to make this contribution," Mr. Meany said.

The AFL-CIO check was presented to Mr. Jordan by Mr. Meany at union headquarters in Washington Tuesday.

Education Trouble
Walter Davis, Director of Education for the AFL-CIO said his division had studied the needs of higher education closely before recommending support of the UNCF gift.

"Higher education in general is in trouble but black higher education has crucial financial needs which must be met immediately," Mr. Davis said.

Endorsement by the AFL-CIO executive council clears the way for any further support which the 120 national unions and state and local councils wish to give.

VERNON E. JORDAN

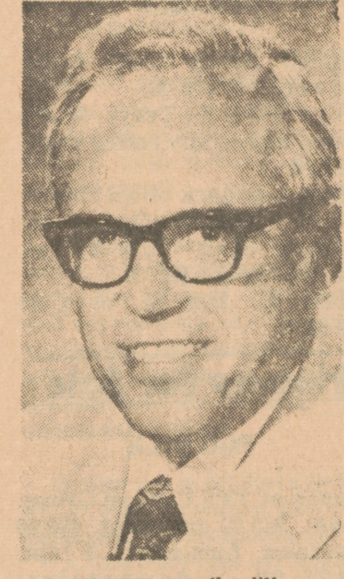

The United Negro College Fund, founded in 1944, raises operating revenues for its 36 member colleges. Donations from organizations, individuals, UNCF alumni and other sources help educate some 40,000 students.

Mr. Jordan said that the fund drive this year is well over the $3,000,000 mark, more than a half-million dollars ahead of last year's figure at this time.

EMPLOYMENT ADVICE

Competition in the job market has never been more intense. In 1971, more than ten million people, seeking from $10,000 to $60,000, will circulate resumes. Only a small fraction, however, will receive a single job offer—and even fewer will make significant financial gains.

Two major reasons for these disappointing results are the archaic methods of bringing people and jobs together, and the lack of understanding on the part of the job seeker in planning and executing an effective campaign.

Overcoming both obstacles is relatively simple, though, as explained in a new book called "The Professional Job Hunting System." Designed to give individuals a published source of professional job hunting knowledge, the book prepares the reader to go after a better future like an expert—at less cost than personal counseling for similar information.

"System" is available in During its more than quarter-century of existence, the UNCF has raised some $110-million for its schools.

Cyrus R. Vance is 1971 National Campaign Chairman for the UNCF drive.

$8,000 Loss In Fire

The home of Louise Turner, 1527 E. 16th St., suffered an estimated $8,000 damage caused by a fire according to firemen called to the scene.

District Fire Chief David Neal said the blaze started in the bedroom of the one-story frame house shortly before 3:30 p.m. He said a lighted cigarette might have touched off the fire.

The fire was confined to the bedroom, Neal said, but heavy smoke throughout the house caused most of the damage. Neal said, the woman was home at the time but was not injured.

Keeping The FAITH

In view of the turbulent cross-currents in the mainstream of today's religious thought, a carefully formulated expression of the four leading Christian doctrines deserves our most thoughtful consideration.

At age 57, Emanuel Swedenborg, whom Emerson called "The Aristotle of the North," gave up a distinguished and fruitful career as a natural scientist to devote the rest of his life to theology. Using Hebrew, Greek, and Latin Bibles as his only texts, he dedicated himself to a profound study of the Word of God.

In his book, Four Doctrines, Swedenborg discussed the four basic doctrines of Christian religion: The Lord, The Scripture, Life, and Faith. One who opens this book for the first time soon discovers the reason for the long-standing interest in this new revelation. In the Four Doctrines, newly revised for the modern reader, the author reinterprets Christianity in terms which are at once readable, logical, and stimulatingly fresh.

The ecumenicism of Swedenborg's theology appeals to people of all faiths. Many of the molders of our culture give credit to the teachings of this amazing 18th century scientist, philosopher, statesman, and theologian.

The great French writer Honore de Balzac wrote "Swedenborg undoubtedly epitomized all religions—or rather the one religion—of humanity."

Copies of FOUR DOCTRINES may be obtained by mailing $1.25 to the Swedenborg Foundation, Inc., Dept. PD, 139 E. 23rd St., New York, N.Y. 10010.

ORBIE BOGGS, DIRECTOR OF THE UNITED BLACK FEDERATION, states that plans are in the making for classes in key punch machine training. He advised that IBM is lending the use of the machines for residents of Des Moines' minority communities to be trained and thereby given the opportunity to upgrade themselves.

IT IS ANTICIPATED THAT THE KEY PUNCH TRAINING program will be scheduled for approximately twelve weeks. In keeping with the expanding use of school facilities, in conjunction with model cities and school board planning, classes will be held at Washington Irving Junior High School.

CORLOS GLOVER, '71 GRADUATE OF IOWA METHODIST SCHOOL OF NURSING, recently passed the Iowa State Board Examination given by the Iowa Board of Nursing and is now a registered nurse. She received a high score in the examinations and is now employed in the coronary and intensive care unit at IMH. She is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Glover.

CORLOS, ON DUTY THE NIGHT OF AUGUST 25, was relaxed, though alert, as the intensive care unit received repeated calls that an emergency room case would be sent up at any moment, if the man lived long enough. She was in complete readiness as she waited with other staff persons, that is until the second in which the nurse in charge faced her and stated "It is your father, Corlos." For a few seconds, time stood still! Someone asked "Are you all right, Corlos?" By then she was very much all right! I imagine, that she alone in all the world now awaited this patient—Rev. Elmer Glover! He had nearly lost his life as he rode his motorcycle at East Fourteenth and approximately Grand Avenue and suffered a head-on collision with a woman driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

REV. GLOVER RETURNED HOME MONDAY, September 13, after a nineteen-day hospitalization. It will be some time before he can return to employment. He is grateful to be recovering, though slowly. The Glovers operate a Standard Oil Station at East Fourteenth and University Avenue. See you there??? Fine!!

Totable Stew For Famished Crew

For easy cooking afloat, plan your meals in advance. One-dish entrees, using canned convenience foods, are your best bet. They make for quick cleanup. And... most of the ingredients can be stored anywhere.

Rio Grande Stew is a perfect example of a one-pot main dish. All you need are two cans... one of Chili Con Carne (with beans) and another of Beef Stew. Just stir them together for a hearty, filling combo.

Or, make Rio Grande Stew at home. Then, just pack it in a tatable thermal jug for a calm and collected meal your first night afloat.

Take along, too, a Ribbon Pound Cake for an extra treat. Packed in its own baking pan, this delicious dessert keeps safe and snug from the elements.

RIO GRANDE STEW

1 can (15½ ounces) Bounty
Chili Con Carne (with beans)
Corn chips
In saucepan, combine stew and chili. Heat; stir now and then. Garnish with chips. Makes 4 servings.

½ cup finely chopped pecans
1 cup brown sugar
1 package (about 18 ounces) pound cake mix
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¼ teaspoon ground mace
Grease and flour (if directed on package) a loaf pan (9x5x3"). Combine pecans and sugar. Prepare cake mix as directed on package using 2 tablespoons less liquid. Add orange rind and mace to batter. Pour half the batter into pan; sprinkle with 1 cup sugar mixture. Repeat ending with remaining sugar mixture. Bake as directed on package; cool.

MUMMY'S THE WORD FOR HALLOWEEN

Looking for Halloween entertainment that's fun, wholesome and pleasantly spine-chilling at the same time? Play "Voice of the Mummy", a new, three-tiered game by Milton Bradley in which the mummy itself directs the player's climb to the sarcophagus, or mummy phase, in an eerie voice which should fill anybody's prescription for Halloween goose bumps. As you climb in response to the mummy's commands, you win jewels and other precious objects. To win the game, seize the sacred scarab on the third level and depart at once. The mummy almost never gives the same commands in the same order twice, thanks to the amazing random-groove recording system used in making the built-in record. The perfect thriller-chiller for a Halloween party!

CONTROLLING HAY FEVER

Allergy specialists advise that there is something you can do about hay fever. In fact, they advise a number of measures that can be taken to avoid hay fever and its distressing symptoms. Some of them follow:

Wear glasses. Large motorcycle types are considered best. Keep doors and windows closed, especially on windy, dry days when pollen flows freely.

Turn air conditioner on a few hours before spending time in a room. Be sure the unit has a good filter.

Keep front windows of automobiles closed to prevent pollen-saturated air from blowing in.

Stay indoors on days on which there are high pollen counts.

Avoid garden work and garden sprays. Do not allow fresh cut flowers in your home.

Stay away from insect, mothproofing, deodorizing and other household sprays as well as strong odors, ammonia, waxing solutions and other substances with irritating odors.

NEW EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM WINS COVETED AWARD

"Dr. King had a dream that every boy and girl be given a chance to improve the quality of their lives... your commitment to educational achievement has made you a part of the fulfillment of that dream."

So spoke Mrs. Coretta Scott King, as she proudly presented the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Center's first annual Award of Achievement to the public school system of Gary, Indiana.

Honored for its educational initiative, Gary recently—in an unprecedented move—became the nation's first public school district to ask a private company to manage one of its schools.

Further, Gary's equally unprecedented agreement with that company might well become the model for all teaching systems of the future.

Why? Because, under the terms of its four-year "guaranteed performance" contract with Behavioral Research Laboratories (BRL) of Palo Alto, Calif. and New York—the achievement success of each Banneker Elementary School student must be raised up to, or above, national grade level norms... or the fee for that child will be refunded!

Making her presentation to a group of students, teachers, administrators and BRL, Mrs. King stated, "We decided to present this first annual Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Center Achievement Award to you for your initiative and accomplishments."

In accepting the award, Gary's Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Gordon L. McAndrew, praised the program's progress and explained that the curriculum at Banneker "is aimed at overcoming the basic weaknesses in the present elementary education process." Banneker is now an individualized, non-graded school where students work at their own levels of ability.

From the very beginning, the new program has proven to be a gratifyingly conspicuous success. After the first three months of special BRL instruction, a significant number of Banneker students had already advanced between four and five months in reading and math proficiency.

And that's the kind of award-winning stuff—that educational dreams are made of!

OUT DERN SPOT!

Ball point pen marks on a white blouse, a shirt or a favorite sweater? Fear not—the spot comes out easily. Simply spray the portion that's got the ink marks with hair spray before laundering. Lo and behold, the dern spot is gone. (Repeat the process if it hasn't disappeared completely.) Watercolor el Marko spots are no worry at all. The ink is water soluble so just a trip through the washer is all that's needed to make the garment clean.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. When an engagement is called off after the wedding invitations have been issued, what is the proper way to recall these invitations?

A. Mail out printed cards with some such announcement as: "Mr. and Mrs. John F. Harris announce that the marriage of their daughter, Anne Margaret, to Mr. Robert F. Allen will not take place."

Q. Is it a "must" to call on newcomers to one's neighborhood?

A. Not a "must"—but surely a kind and courteous act of friendship. Too many of our communities today have become very lax about this old-fashioned and fine custom. I'm wholeheartedly for it!

Q. What sort of gift does a mother give to her son's fiancée after their engagement has been announced?

A. This really does not require a gift. However, if she really wants to, and if she has a good deal of family jewelry or family silver, she might give some of this—or, in fact, anything she chooses.

Q. Is it proper for a girl to light a boy's cigarette for him?

A. Yes, if she has just lighted her own and her match is still burning, or if her lighter is still available. Otherwise, the man should always light his own.

Q. When applause is served with pork, should it be eaten with the spoon or fork?

A. It is better to use the fork.

Q. Will you please set me straight on the expressions, "American Plan" and "European Plan," as pertaining to hotels?

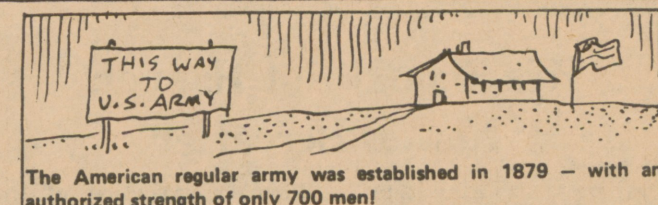

A. European Plan means room alone without meals. American Plan includes meals with the room.

Q. Are the small, folded-over thank-you cards proper for acknowledging wedding gifts?

A. A folded card with "Thank you" imprinted on its face is all right, but you MUST add a HANDWRITTEN personal message of appreciation.

Q. I've noticed some women wearing rings over their gloved fingers. Is this considered correct?

A. No. It's all right to wear bracelets over gloves, but not rings.

The American regular army was established in 1879—with an authorized strength of only 700 men!

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...

Was haircoloring first done in Africa?

Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions... to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.

Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairor® Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.

Today black pride brings you closer to the cultural ways of your African heritage. Haircoloring is a part of black history too. Ask your professional hairdresser about changing your hair color with Miss Clairor... and be more beautiful than you already are.

Demands! Demands! Demands!

They come clear and louder from groups which have the power to force their acceptance.

Thus, rule of law is abandoned, we submit in hope of compromise and make things worse; it only encourages more demands.

The prison riots are examples of the attitude that is built up in the minds of a lot of people who, in spite of well meaning efforts, just won't be helped.

The people have been patient but patience often runs thin.

As has been the case in every prison flareup, too many people immediately accuse public officials of neglect of duty, poor prison management and brutality. True, all conditions are not satisfactory and these same late accusers may well have started earlier to help correct them.

Unfortunately, they see labor unions and nations fighting with guns and dynamite, to meet their demands and nations at war and feel that they too have the right to do so also.

People who violate the law must learn that they are not the boss of correction facilities and that most grievances can be solved by negotiation.

Demands, Demands, Demands have gotten us in a lot of trouble during these last few years.

Keep Trying for Miss America

In 1970, a Negro girl was Iowa's representative for the title of Miss America. This year a Negro girl was Indiana's representative.

Neither was chosen in the first ten selections. But the fact that their state chose them as their representative denotes progress far beyond what most of us thought ten years ago.

Then, too, for the past two years, a Negro has served as one of the judges. And while the public does not know how she voted, intelligent as she is, qualifications provided by the rules must have formed the basic decisions.

All of this shows progress. The day will come when a Negro will be selected. They only need keep trying just as they have made the grade in other fields.

This Should Not Happen Now or Hereafter

A rather penetrating and truthful letter appears on page 6 of the Bystander this week chiding the officials of the two Negro churches under construction that no Negro labor was being employed by the contractors. He further stated that being a Negro church and paid for by Negro contributions, the churches had been derelict in their duty to help Negroes secure jobs. (The author is not fully informed for the Bystander has learned that two Negro laborers were used when the foundation of one was laid and of course, white people have made substantial contributions to the building fund of each church.)

But be that as it may, the position of the writer is correct for to have taken this course follows the pattern of construction going on in Model Cities area and of course outside.

When construction of the houses in the Model Cities and near north side area began several months ago, the Bystander called attention to the lack of Negro workers on any of the houses and reminded the Des Moines Human Rights and Job Discrimination Commission to look into the matter. As a matter of fact, the NAACP has allowed the matter to go unnoticed.

The late Harvey Ingham, who was a consistent supporter of civil rights, often said "it is important first that a man eats, then it becomes important where he eats".

The civil rights commission can find a wealth of problems in the field of employment of Negroes which should be dealt with and worked out ahead of a lot of other things. The lack of funds prevents many from the enjoyment of a better life.

Health for All

Before birth, the fetus floats in a fluid-filled sac. At the moment of birth before the first cry, life hovers in the balance.

In the womb, the fetus grows in a liquid environment without using its lungs. Even the lungs, in fact, are filled with fluid. At the moment of birth, the baby is thrust face-first into another atmosphere filled with air. He must respond immediately or die.

The baby's blasting cry helps force the liquid from his lungs and allow his first breath. Without the first cry, there would be no breath, no life.

Cries are an essential part of a baby's existence from birth on. They communicate significant signals about his early progress, and well-trained ears can interpret these signs correctly. Now a cry analyzer has been developed by a team at the Wenner-Gren Medical Research Laboratory in Stockholm that helps hospital personnel sort out cries of newborns that spell pathology.

The device, say the researchers, is most useful during the first two weeks after birth, since serious damage that happens during this period is often irreversible. Often, it is a baby's cries that are the first indication of abnormality. The portable unit is the size of a small radio and has three meters, each of which continuously registers one kind of cry: normal, abnormal, or very abnormal. The unit may be able to pick up trouble before it becomes permanent.

A baby's cries reflect his confrontation with life, and the messages in those cries can be decoded. Living, for babies as well as people of any age, is impossible without lungs that function properly.

To find out more about lungs and how they work, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and death.

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

With Allen Ashby

The new Iowa U head coach's debut was hardly a smashing success. One fellow who professes to know a lot about football said the fellows were green and just too small to play good defense.

Says nobody can hope to play good defense in the Big Ten with a defensive line averaging around 200 lbs. Just not big enough.

Maybe they will do better. A small defensive unit can learn to coordinate with each other, compensating for each other's weaknesses and strength, and can really get the job done. But it takes experience.

Hawks

The Hawks will get that as they go along, if they can keep their team intact as to injuries.

Drake did better than the dopster had them pegged. Wallace says a couple of silly mistakes cost the Bulldogs, and that that won't happen again. Would be nice if the Bulldogs could win the Valley title after all these years.

Here at home, the local high school season didn't open on a large winning scale. Our only winners were Dowling and Lincoln. Dowling wasn't really tested, so we don't know just how good they are yet.

North showed the potential to be tough as the season wears on, and so did East. Lincoln looked like one of the top teams in the city, and Roosevelt didn't look too bad. But, Tech. The guy who said that bad breaks even out better not talk to any of the Tech players or coaches.

Bad Breaks

It looked as if they might pull one out of the bag. But it gone soon. My neighbor claims that Jack can get social security benefits even though he never worked. I hope she's right. Is she?

ANSWER: She is absolutely right. Anyone who was disabled before he was 18 can draw on his parent's work record as long as he continues to be disabled. Jack should call his Social Security Office right away.

QUESTION: I am receiving monthly survivor benefits as a mother of four minor children who are also receiving these benefits. Will my working full time affect the total received by us?

ANSWER: Because the family maximum is payable to the four children, any earnings you have will not affect this full amount. This is generally true for three children also. Should there be only one or two children receiving, your work activity would have the affect of reducing the total amount received by the family.

QUESTION: I received student benefits from social security during my freshman year at college. Since my grades weren't too high I was considering only taking 11 hours next semester. I will still be in school every day. Will I be able to continue receiving social security?

ANSWER: Possibly not. You must be under age 22, unmarried and a full time student to receive benefits. A full time student is one who is carrying enough credit hours to be classified as a full time student by the school. Even though you are attending school every day the college may classify you as a part-time student with only 11 hours. You had better check with your school and with your social security office.

QUESTION: My wife rently as long as he could do what he was supposed to. I would listen to everybody equally and would lay down rules for everybody. I wouldn't care anything about my players' social or off the field life so long as it didn't bring discredit to the school or team.

His Choice

Who he paled around with or where he went would be his choice. Nobody could break my training rules and get away with it, no matter who he was. For that I would bench a star, even if it cost us a game.

I would try hard to instill the spirit into the team that the Pittsburg Pirates seem to have. When they fielded an all black starting team at one time and eight blacks another time, the manager said he hadn't thought one thing about it in that light. The white players said that all they saw out there on the field were eight other players, and didn't have time to figure out who belonged to what race.

And that is the way I would try hard to handle my team if I had one, alumni notwithstanding. A winning coach can tell the alumni where to go and make it stick, but a coach whose team is a borderline club may not be able to do that, so he may borrow more trouble than he wants.

But I would try to keep my players not thinking about color or race. Most of the coaches who haven't had trouble have done just that. Bob Devany of Nebraska, Woody Hayes of Ohio State, McKay of USC, and the coaches at UCLA have all seemed to run their teams on that basis.

became disabled. She had worked under social security for the last 15 years. If she qualifies for disability benefits will our two young children be entitled to any payments?

ANSWER: Your children will probably be entitled to benefits on your wife's work record, and your earnings will not affect their right to receive benefits.

Chides Churches' Failure to Check Labor Policies

Dear Editor:

After viewing several of your articles on the Editorial Page in regards to Blacks and the Building Trades in the Des Moines area, I have a question.

Why is it that several new churches in the Model Cities area are now nearing completion and from the time of the initial ground breaking until the new structure is almost ready for occupancy haven't I seen at least one Black Man working on these project sites? Correct me if I'm wrong, but obviously these new churches are being built with the money donated by exclusively Black Congregations, and yet they will allow a white contractor to perform the work without having a single Black on his crew.

Not to appear to be overly critical of any Black Pastor or Black Congregation, but with unemployment as high as it has been, and with the almost impossible task of getting Blacks admitted to some of the trade unions, it seems almost a sacrilege to allow something like this to occur at a time when young Blacks are begging for any kind of job, not to mention such a lucrative and well paying career as a construction worker.

Qualifications alone cannot be used as the sole criterion for keeping these people out of work because there are several qualified young Blacks in the city that can successfully perform this type of work. Even if there were not a single one qualified, I would still question the practice of not having at least some Black laborers working on these sites. Anyone can handle a wheelbarrow and shovel, and laborers are currently being paid upwards of $6.00 an hour. Finally I would ask the Pastor and the Congregation of these churches (Corinthian and St. Paul African, Methodist and Episcopal) why they would let such a thing be and not feel the urgency of helping fellow Blacks even when in a position to do so.

There are also a lot of new homes going up in the Model Cities area, and I for one, do not feel that our Black manpower is being utilized, not even in a minimum capacity. Is it perhaps that the Black people who are in a position to help still feel that other Blacks don't have the skill nor the brains to build a home or church of lasting duration, beauty and value?

Respectfully,
Eugene T. Woods
