Gaines Held in Brother's Death

Preliminary Hearing Set for November 5

Gerald Gaines, 54, has entered a plea of innocence in the death of his brother, Carl Gaines, 62, who died about 11:30 p.m., Saturday, October 16, from a stab wound in his right side.

Susie Gaines, 73, of 1244 Twenty-first Street, the same address given for her brothers, told officers that she had tried unsuccessfully to get between her brothers when their argument developed into a scuffle. Police said that the argument apparently led to the fatal stabbing.

When police arrived at the scene, Gerald Gaines had gone and was later arrested at the home of a friend.

Carl Treated
Carl was treated at Broadlawn Polk County Hospital where he was taken following the stabbing.

A preliminary hearing November 5 has been set by Municipal Judge Ray Harrison. Gerald Gaines original charge of assault with intent to commit murder was dismissed, after Carl Gaines died and a murder charge filed in the fatal stabbing. Gaines is being held in the Polk County Jail without bond.

Gerald Gaines was a maintenance employee at Younker Brothers.

Threaten Legal Action Against School Board

Robert A. Wright, regional director, Region IV NAACP has written a letter to Dr. Dwight Davis, superintendent of Des Moines Independent School District, informing him that "the NAACP is, and has been, vitally concerned with the selection of sites for new schools."

It is the position of the NAACP," he said, "that there is not to be created new segregated white and Negro schools, and we oppose the location of new schools in segregated white or Negro areas where the student body from its inception will be racially imbalanced or there exists the great propensity that they will become racially imbalanced within a short period of time."

He said "It is indicated from our study and investigation of the two proposed new schools, the Charrette - planned schools in which the elementary schools, Bird and Grant, Kirkwood and Nash, are being combined to create two new elementary schools in the City of Des Moines."

The Des Moines Branch of the NAACP has appointed a committee to study the proposed Charrette - planned schools but the report has not been submitted.

NEWS In A Nutshell

Atlanta, Georgia — The sovereign grand commander of the United Supreme Council, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Southern Jurisdiction (Prince Hall Affiliation) announced Tuesday in Atlanta that the organization has undertaken a program designed to assist in the development of a comprehensive housing management training and technical assistance program.

Washington, D. C. — The U. S. Department of Justice has filed a federal suit against the Hinds County Board of Supervisors, charging that their re-drawing of county supervisor districts violates the Voting Rights Act. The suit, filed Sept. 14 in Jackson, asks that a three-judge panel order the supervisors to redraw the lines, but does not ask that the upcoming county election be delayed until that has been done.

Self-exiled Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver, 36, said in Algiers, Algeria, he has decided to return soon to the U.S. and devote himself to urban guerrilla struggle. He spoke bitterly of Communist Chinese moves apparently aimed at better relations with the U.S. He indicated that his disillusionment with Red China helped convince him that "oppressed people" in the U.S. and other countries had no recourse except armed struggle.

Future of Negro Colleges

The nation's 111 predominantly black colleges enrolled 2.06 per cent of all college students during the 1970-71 academic year and received 3.4 percent of all federal aid to higher education — $125 million, HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson announced recently. This marked a 16 percent increase in federal support to black colleges over the previous year, the Secretary said.

"This Administration, more than any other," Sec. Richardson said, "has demonstrated concern for the future of black colleges. It has backed up its concern with money."

"If the Congress acts favorably on our higher education proposals, we will be able to do even more to improve the quality of black colleges and to enhance educational opportunities for the black student," he said.

The secretary disclosed highlights of a comprehensive study of federal aid to black colleges conducted by the Federal Inter-agency Committee on Education (FICE) in HEW's Office of Education. The study, based on fiscal year 1970 appropriations, will be published later this fall. It is the second in a series entitled "Federal Agencies and Black Colleges."

According to the Secretary, federal agencies began a concerted effort in 1970 to improve support to Black Colleges.

Black Colleges

black colleges. Of the 19 departments and agencies which provide assistance to higher education, 12 reported increases in funds to black colleges, a net increase of 17.7 million from fiscal year 1969 to fiscal year 1970.

The proportion of federal funds for higher education going to black colleges has steadily increased from 1.3 per cent in 1962 to 3.4 per cent in 1970, Secretary Richardson said.

During the 1970-71 academic year, the year in which the bulk of fiscal year 1970 funds were spent, black colleges enrolled 177,000 of the 8.6 million students enrolled in all colleges and universities.

Black colleges received 80 per cent of their federal funds from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, according to the FICE study. By contrast, other colleges and universities received only 62 per cent of their federal support from HEW.

In HEW, the Office of Education accounted for 68 per cent of all federal aid to the black college community. In dollar terms, HEW provided $2.3 billion to all colleges and universities in 1970; over $100 million of which was allocated to black institutions. OE contributed $896 million to higher education — $84.9 million or almost 10 per cent of which went to black colleges — an increase of more than $7 million over the previous fiscal year.

Outside of HEW, the primary sources of aid to higher education were the National Science Foundation and the Department of Defense. NSF provided $361 million, only $3 million of which went to black colleges. Defense provided $325 million, of which approximately $200,000 went to black colleges.

Few black institutions have the laboratories and facilities necessary to conduct advanced scientific research. As a result, NSF, Defense, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and the Atomic Energy Commission provided an average of only 4 per cent of their funds for higher education to black institutions.

By contrast, the human resources — oriented agencies provided an average of 5 per cent of their higher education funds to black colleges.

These agencies account for a total of $120.6 million to black institutions in fiscal year 1970, some of it for research. They provide 96.6 per cent of all federal support to black colleges and universities. Since most black colleges are primarily teaching institutions, they qualify more readily for programs of this kind.

These agencies which contributed a large percentage of their total educational funds to black colleges were the Office of Economic Opportunity (15.3 per cent), Peace Corps (12.4 per cent), National Endowment for the Humanities (9.5 per cent), and National Endowment for the Arts (9.0 per cent). Because of their modest budgets, however, the support provided by these agencies amounted to only 5 per cent of all federal funds received by black colleges.

Of the top 100 higher education recipients of federal funds, only one is a predominantly black institution, Howard University in Washington, D.C. All others are large multiversities with highly developed research capabilities. Approximately 71 per cent of all federal higher education funds to these 100 institutions.

More than half of all federal support to black colleges came from four Office of Education programs: Educational Opportunity Grants totaling $17.3 million assisted approximately 31,000 students enrolled in black colleges. This represents 18 per cent of the estimated black college enrollment of 177,000. Overall, Educational Opportunity Grants assisted some 290,500 students or 3.4 per cent of the 7.9 million students enrolled in 2,500 colleges and universities. College Work - Study Grants totaling $18.9 million supported 49,671 black college students — 27 per cent of the black college enrollment throughout the nation. Work - study Grants were awarded to 375,000 students representing 4.4 per cent of the college population. The National Defense Student Loan Program provided $11.2 million to 43,399 students enrolled in black colleges, 24 per cent of the black college enrollment. Nationally, the program aided 481,970 students or approximately 5.6 per cent of all college and university students. Black colleges received $17 million of the $30 million granted developing institutions to strengthen academic, administrative, and student services programs.

While black colleges received 45 per cent of their federal assistance in the form of student aid and 55 per cent in the form of institutional aid, colleges and universities in general received 21 per cent student aid and 79 per cent for institutional assistance.

Approximately $1.5 million, more than half the federal funds provided for institutional assistance, were awarded for research oriented activities which most black colleges are not equipped to handle. Only $5.1 million or 4.1 per cent of federal funds received by black colleges was awarded for research and development activities.

The Department of Agriculture provides support to land - grant colleges and universities (17 of the 43 public black institutions are land - grant). These funds are awarded largely for research and extension programs. During fiscal year 1970, black institutions received a total of $1.1 million from Agriculture. This represented .6 per cent of the $180 million which was awarded to all colleges and universities.

The top 10 black colleges recipients of federal funds accounted for 36 per cent of the federal support awarded to black institutions of higher education in fiscal year 1970.

VETERANS

Q — Does the Veterans Administration's loan guaranty of $12,500 or 80 per cent of the loan limit the price I may pay for a home?

A — No. There is no restriction on the price you pay for a home other than your ability to pay the difference between the cost of the home and the amount of loan the lender is willing to make, from your own resources.

Q — I am not eligible for Veterans Administration benefits because of my income but I recently filed for this benefit for my son based on his deceased father's World War II service (my second husband). Since I was drawing widow's compensation based on my first husband's death during World War II, I wonder if the compensation I was receiving prior to my second marriage can be reinstated while my son is drawing pension?

A — Yes. A recent law permits a widow who has lost her pension or compensation because of remarriage to have this benefit restored if that marriage ends in death or divorce, provided she is otherwise eligible. Your son's pension would have no bearing on your compensation based on the death of your first husband.

Q — My husband who was a World War II veteran passed away recently. Is he eligible for a headstone?

A — Yes. Any deceased veteran of wartime or peacetime service whose last period of service was terminated honorably is eligible for this benefit.

Q — I draw Veterans Administration compensation, and would like to know whether I can have payments on my VA insurance loan deducted from this compensation.

A — Yes. If you wish to use this method of repaying your insurance loan, get a VA Form 29-888 from your nearest VA office, complete it and forward it to the VA office to which you pay your insurance premiums.

Q — I am a Vietnam veteran interested in training under the GI Bill, but am not sure what courses I should take. Can the Veterans Administration assist me?

A — Yes. If you are eligible for training under the GI Bill, you may receive vocational counseling, without cost, at your nearest VA office. A counselor will help you to better understand your interests, aptitudes, and abilities, and provide information on occupations you might want to consider.

Q — After World War II, I converted my GI insurance to a 20 - year endowment plan that matures next year. Will I have to take face value or can I convert it to another type of insurance?

A — You may exchange it for a policy of lesser cash value if you prove to be in good health. This must be done before the policy matures.

Q — Is a veteran's widow who draws VA pension entitled to an extra $55 monthly if she becomes a patient in a nursing home?

A — Yes. I was recently released from a VA hospital after 35 days for injuries suffered in an auto accident. Am I eligible for the special payment veterans receive when they stay more than 21 days in a VA hospital?

A — Not unless the accident was in line of active duty and the injury was recognized as service connected.

Q — I am a veteran who did not complete high school. Will VA pay me an educational allowance?

A — Yes. Not only are you eligible for this assistance, but any veteran who must complete high school to qualify for higher education can do so without this assistance being charged against his basic entitlement.

HALLOWEEN: PROTECT CHILDREN FROM CRACKPOTS

The most frightening horror of Halloween does not stem from the ghosts and goblins who ring doorbells with masked cries of trick or treat. Rather, it is the grotesque behavior of crackpots behind some of those doorbells who turn the children's evening of make-believe into a haunting nightmare.

Every year at this time, newspapers carry the heart-breaking stories of children who have been innocently duped by sick minds. Yet, every year the cautions go unheeded and November 1 sees the same stories all over again.

There is a solution to the problem, and it's a very simple one. Get together with your neighbors and plan an indoor trick or treat party for all the children. Buy your Halloween treats at a reliable store and buy only known brands of candy. A full line of safe Halloween candy is offered by Luden's, Inc., the Reading, Pa. candy and cough drop manufacturing company. Included are full size and miniature versions of their popular 5th Avenue and Nut Log candy bars as well as a wide variety of individually wrapped bagged items including candy corn, Spooky Treats, candy wafer rolls and many others.

Whether you buy Luden's or another nationally advertised and reputable brand, be sure that you give — and your children take — only wrapped candy with its original factory seal.

By playing safe, you won't have to worry which witch is which!

The year? 1960? 1961, 1962? Think a moment... yes, it was exactly 10 years ago, 1961. A year of drama, tension, excitement — and of high hopes for a new era of progress. For many, 1961 has more personal memories.

For 4,268,000 Americans, it was the year they were born. It was the year 1,548,000 Americans were married. And in that same year, 3,891,000 young Americans entered college.

Some of the young parents of 1961 were looking ahead to buying a house, a second car, or a vacation home. Others were putting money aside for a European vacation and some were saving for the future college expenses of their children. This year, 10 years later, 8,390,000 sons and daughters are expected to enter college.

Prices and taxes also have gone up during the 10 years. Home costs are up to 50 per cent higher and college tuition costs have risen 100 percent or more. Some incomes have kept pace, others have not. Some savings and investments have prospered more than others.

To reminisce on the past, said Bernard Shaw, "makes one feel so deliciously aged and sad." How often do you hear, "If only I had..." Yet for many, looking back can also be satisfying. The average American investor in mutual funds, for instance, saw his investment increase 100 per cent in the past 10 years. Those who bought their fund shares 20 years ago have seen them increase an average of 700 percent in that time.

Looking back can also be useful in helping to plan ahead. Today's young parents, more aware of inflation, can start a regular savings or investment plan now for those higher college expenses in 1981. Parents now in their fifties can plan more prudently for a happy retirement in the years ahead. "Let time work for you, not against you," is the advice of many investment counselors.

Whatever those future plans, more and more families are finding that one of the most suitable and convenient ways of achieving them is through a mutual fund, according to the Investment Company Institute, national association of the mutual fund industry, which points out that today there are many different kinds of funds for modern savings needs.

The best way to plan a party is with pencil and paper. No matter how good your memory is — be sure to write down... what has to be done.

Mid-Iowa Boy Scouts Annual Good Turn For Goodwill Ind.

Last Saturday, a Cub Scout brought a Good Turn Bag to your home. This Saturday, October 30th, a Scout or Explorer will be around to your home to pick up your filled bag. This annual effort by the Scouts on behalf of Goodwill Industries brings in thousands of bags of material. Each of these bags give approximately 3 hours of vocational training to an employee at Goodwill. This is a major source of raw material and many jobs depend on it's success.

The household items collected by Goodwill are used in training disabled and disadvantaged people to earn their own living and become independent, productive

Magnificent Ten Strike Again At Black Expo

THE MAGNIFICENT TEN: The standing-room-only crowd of more than 20,000 that overflowed Chicago's International Amphitheatre let loose a deafening roar of delight when Motown's male superstar vocal groups, The Jackson 5 and The Temptations, leaped onstage to give their first live performance together. The historic event occurred on Motown Night at the International Black and Minorities Business and Cultural Exposition sponsored by SCLC's Operation Breadbasket. Lovely Valerie Simpson joined her Motown mates on stage to complete the most explosive entertainment package ever put together for Black Expo. Earlier, The Four Tops and Stevie Wonder brought down the house with the vocal magic each has woven for years to remain at the top of the show business world. The J-5 Temptations show established another precedent: It was the first time the world's top male vocal group has seen a live performance by the youngsters from Gary, Ind., who have broken concert attendance records across the nation. They led the cheering.

Republicans Share in Local State Dinner

DES MOINES, Ia. — County Republican organizations will share in proceeds from a $100-a-plate dinner in Des Moines on October 23, and diners will again be able to "charge it."

Billed as a "Double Header Dinner," the event, will feature two main speakers, Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson and Michigan Governor William G. Milliken.

Republican State Finance Chairman J.J. Perpich of Des Moines said any Republican county organization that has achieved 50 per cent of its 1971 state quota (either before or during ticket sales) will have two choices on how it wants to share the dinner proceeds.

The Des Moines Motor Carriers Association is providing large trucks and semi-trailers to transport these materials to Goodwill after the Scouts collect them.

Please have your filled bag out by 8:30 a.m. Saturday, October 30th. The Scouts and Explorers will begin their collection early. If you are missed, take your bag to the yellow Goodwill Box in your neighborhood or Call Goodwill.

This massive co-operative effort needs your support.

Coca Cola Provides Homes For Workers

LAKEVIEW PARK, Fla. — Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Banks and their four-year-old daughter, Barbara Ann, are shown entering their new home here this weekend. The Banks family are agricultural workers employed by The Coca-Cola Company Foods Division and was among the first of an expected 40 or more families of citrus harvesting workers who began moving into new homes of their own this weekend. Homeownership is but one phase of the Company's Agricultural Labor Project, which is designed to improve the living and working conditions of the citrus harvesters, including former migrants. Other new homes in Lakeview Park are shown at left.

Evers, Los Angeles Leaders Say Muskie Tells The Truth

Three prominent black community and civil rights leaders have endorsed Senator Edward S. Muskie's presidential candidacy while at the same time Fayette, Miss., Mayor Charles Evers has expressed the opinion that Muskie "told the truth" when he said that a black could not be elected Vice President next year in the Presidential race.

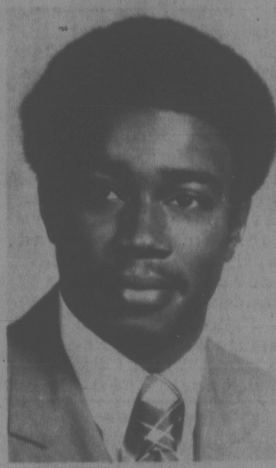

A leading contender for the Democratic nomination for President next year although he's still an undeclared candidate, the Maine Senator said recently in Los Angeles that a black Vice Presidential candidate would be "unelectable" next year if he was on the ticket.

Criticized by members of both major parties, for these remarks, Muskie added that the white electorate just wasn't liberal enough at this time to submerge their prejudices when they went into the voting booth.

Meanwhile in Los Angeles, Calif., the Rev. Thomas Kilgore, pastor of the Second Baptist Church in Watts; Arnett Hartsfield, a candidate in the 1970 Los Angeles Board of Education race, and Willis Edwards, student body president at California State College in Los Angeles, issued a statement declaring that Muskie "represents a renewal of the people's hope for compassion and concern in government."

Gardner To Gulf Oil Public Relations Staff

LAWRENCE GARDNER, JR.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Lawrence Gardner, Jr., has joined the public relations staff of Gulf Oil Corporation, according to Paul Sheldon vice president, Advertising and Public Relations. He will be employed as a staff writer and will be assigned to Gulf Oil Company — U.S., the domestic operating subsidiary of the Corporation, in Houston.

Mr. Gardner is a native of Dallas, Tex. He received his B.A. degree in journalism and public relations from the University of Houston in 1970.

Prior to joining Gulf, Mr. Gardner was employed as a public relations and community relations representative by the Houston Independent School District. He also served internships with several public relations firms in Houston.

Mass Media Reports Minority Affairs Better Says Study

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Black journalists believe that the establishment press is reporting news of minority affairs better, according to a research project presented by a University of Iowa doctoral candidate to the Associated Press Managing Editors Association Convention.

Henry G. LaBrie III prepared the APMEA paper, "Plotting Infinite Growth From Zero," for the association's Minority News Continuing Study Committee, of which he is a member.

The report reflects black journalists' opinions about how much better they believe the establishment press has become in reporting news of minority affairs since the Kerner Commission Report was issued. The majority (84 per cent) cites improvements on behalf of the establishment press although 16 per cent of those questioned said the mass media have not become any more responsive in reporting minority news.

Only one editor conceded that the improvement has been caused by the Kerner Report. Most of the black publishers and editors felt that any improved reporting in this area had its genesis before the Kerner Report, as far back as 1955.

The black journalists offered several reasons why the establishment press is not realizing increased circulations in the inner city, although it is showing more interest in minority news. First, many said that while there has been improvement, it has been only slight improvement and not enough to merit skyrocketing circulations.

A second reason suggested was the violence which has plagued the inner-city areas, resulting in a changed life-style for the inhabitants. What was once a nighttime and daytime public life is now only a day-active public.

Economics was offered as a third major reason. When economic conditions in the central city improve, the establishment press can expect its circulation figures to rise.

The 52-page report includes transcribed responses from 40 black editors and publishers. "I wanted the AP managing editors to read something other than statistics so the bulk of the report is comprised of 'gut reactions' from these men and women. I believe this is the most impactful way to reach the decision-makers in the establishment press. I hope it brings about more meaningful change and increased mass media interest in news coverage of the total community," LaBrie commented.

The massive research project initially involved interviewing 57 prominent black men and women journalists, most between the ages of 60 and 90. These interviews were conducted this summer in 41 U.S. cities.

The entire study is under the direction and support of the Ford Foundation and The University of Iowa School of Journalism.

What electric appliance in your kitchen is used more than your frypan? Probably none. It's the portable fifth burner for today's busy homemaker.

Here are a couple of ideas to prolong the life of this versatile tool:

1. Clean it thoroughly every time you use it, including the underside, to prevent build-up of burned-on-fat.
2. Remember to disconnect and clean the heat control unit with a damp cloth.
3. Never immerse a hot frypan in water. Cool it to room temperature first. Why? To prevent warping. Warped pans don't cook foods evenly.

Ancient Scottish Rite Masons Confers 185 Honorary Degrees

ATLANTA, Ga. — A highlight of the 85th session of the United Supreme Council, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Southern Jurisdiction (Prince Hall affiliation) was the conferring of the thirty-third degree (honorary) on some 185 candidates on Monday.

The newly elevated members of the Class of 1971 named itself in memory of the late president of the Republic of Liberia, William V.S. Tubman, in recognition of his dedicated and devoted work in the promotion of Prince Hall masonry. He had served as deputy for the Rite. A plaque in his memory was presented Sunday by Dr. John G. Lewis Jr. of Baton Rouge, La., sovereign grand commander, to Albert V. Just, who officially represented William R. Tolbert, president of the Republic and deputy now for Liberia.

Charles E. Martin, a government employee of Atlanta, Ga., was elected president of the '71 Class, which made a contribution of $2,000 to the Cathedral Fund at the Annual Banquet, which was addressed by the Honorable Maynard Jackson, Vice-Mayor of Atlanta.

Other class officers are Osborne C. Chambliss, Montgomery, Ala., vice president; the Rev. Edward A. Hailes, Washington, D.C., secretary; Julius C. Turnipseed Sr., Memphis, Tenn., treasurer; Joseph Ervin Morse, Tuskegee, Ala., public relations director, and Dr. Lawler P. Daniels Jr., New Orleans, chaplain.

O.C.W. Taylor, New Orleans; Dr. John W. Davis, Englewood, New Jersey, and Dr. Caesar A.W. Clark, Dallas, Tex., were elevated to the rank of Grand Inspectors General (Emeritus).

HOME OFFICE

The credit card explosion has resulted in a growing need for greater home organization. With today's pay-later accounting, the family needs a regular office to keep track of bills and do paperwork. The space needn't be large; consider converting a closet into your office space; a shelf can serve as a desk. Invest in a file cabinet and label each drawer by writing the user's name on a piece of Scotch transparent tape and attaching it to the drawer. For quieter nerves, tape paper clip box, pencil holder, all the moveables that tend to rattle around, to top of desk with double-coated tape. Z

Good Go-Togethers:

FOOTBALL AND FOOD

FOOTBALL FOOD features Warmup Chili-Chaser (in casserole) and triangles of Half-Time Hash Tarts (foreground). Salads and snacks, plus fruit and dessert, complete the culinary game plan.

Football and food: like love and marriage, they just seem to go together. And the wife who wants her marriage to be as happy during the football season as after it rapidly learns to live with the game, instead of fighting it. For the lady of the house — who may or may not know a punt from a pass — the professional football season has become a time for picnic-parties, easy to do and over early enough to let the armchair quarterbacks concentrate on the game. For a special savor, try building a picnic around NFL training table foods; the fact that they're "football's own" adds to the fun. Two treats worth trying are Warmup Chili-Chaser and Half-Time Hash Tarts.

HALF-TIME HASH TARTS

1½ cups Mary Kitchen
Corned Beef Hash
½ cup sweet pickles, finely chopped
½ cup mayonnaise
1 Tbsp. chopped green onion

5 drops hot pepper sauce
2 cans (8 oz. ea.) refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
3 Tbsps. butter or margarine
1 egg
1 Tbsp. cold water

Mix hash, pickle, mayonnaise, onion and pepper sauce. Separate triangles of refrigerated dough. Spread generously on both sides with butter. Form sandwiches, filled with hash mixture, and place on buttered baking sheet. Beat egg and water together; press edges of dough together and brush each sandwich with egg wash. Bake in pre-heated 375° oven for 20 minutes. Serves 6.

WARMUP CHILI-CHASER

3 cans (1½ lbs. ea.)
Dinty Moore Beef Stew
1 can (4 oz.) green chilis, chopped

1 jar (7½ oz.) Italian sweet (roasted) peppers
2-3 Tbsps. chili powder

Heat the stew in a large casserole and add the remaining ingredients. Cover and keep warm until ready to serve.

Veterans Day

While millions of Americans recite the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag on Veterans Day it is unlikely that more than a handful of scholars know who wrote it or of the controversy surrounding the identity of its author.

And, oddly enough, the pledge was first recited in October of 1892, the month in which the nation now observes Veterans Day for the first time.

The authorship mystery involved two men named Bellamy and the Boston publisher of a now long-forgotten children's magazine, "The Youth's Companion," a 19th Century classic for teeny boppers.

It also involves a persistent young miss, Margaret S. Miller, who, in 1936 at an Armistice Day ceremony, heard the shocking news that the grave of the author was "overgrown with the weeds of indifference." That it was the wrong author and the wrong grave was of no consequence then.

Miss Miller, now in her late fifties and publications editor for the Portsmouth, Virginia, school system, was greatly moved by the words of the pledge which she considers "music." She began a one-woman campaign to rectify the indifference and today is a recognized flag authority, a patriotic leader of an annual national school award, and a Doctor of Humane Letters.

Coincidentally, her doctorate was awarded by Upper Iowa University, in the home state of the present Administrator of Veterans Affairs, Donald E. Johnson, who also is chairman of the President's Veterans Day National Committee which directs the nation's prime observance of Veterans Day, this year on Monday, October 25, at Arlington National Cemetery.

Starting in 1936 to unravel the mystery of who wrote the Pledge of Allegiance, Dr. Miller discovered that the first Frank Bellamy credited with its writing was a 12-year-old boy who apparently won a grade school writing contest in 1896 with the 23 now immortal words. But, Frank Bellamy number one did not last long as an author under Dr. Miller's probing.

A venerable and trusted book "The Flag of the United States," was the source that jarred Bellamy number one off his historic pedestal.

Located after much research by the persistent Dr. Miller, the book credited James B. Upham, a Back Bay Bostonian and publisher of "The Youth's Companion," as the author of the Pledge.

Satisfied, Dr. Miller began spreading the glad tidings and laid plans to honor Publisher Upham for his gifted writing. The backlash was not long in coming.

A group of New Yorkers protested, claiming that a New York Preacher, Francis Bellamy, penned the immortal words.

Back to her research, driven there by the force of protests and her own doubts, Dr. Miller started working over the antecedents of Mr. Bellamy number two. This time it was A-Okay all the way.

The real Author Bellamy was not only a preacher, but worked as well as a writer on Upham's magazine.

With all the pieces of her Pledge of Allegiance puzzle in place, Dr. Miller took them in 1939 to the United States Flag Association in Washington, D.C. Francis Bellamy, not Frank — although the real author was sometimes called Frank — withstood the Flag historian's crucial test, and has been honored since as the real author, who died in 1931.

Later, in 1957, the Library of Congress added its prestige to her claim in a report to Congress.

Bellamy wrote the Pledge in August of 1892 for use during the Columbian Celebration that same year. Spurred on by the urgings of Publisher Upham, 10,000,000 American children joined in a nation-wide chorus of:

"I Pledge Allegiance to my Flag and to the Republic for which it stands — one Nation Indivisible — with liberty and justice for All," just as it was written. It was many years later, in 1954, that the words "under God" were added. Two other changes had been made — in 1923 and 1924 — "to the Flag of the United States" and "of America."

Today, the grave of Francis Bellamy in Rome, New York, is honored on Veterans Day with special ceremonies, and on his birthday, May 18, a flag is flown over the Nation's Capitol in his honor.

Dr. Miller established the National Bellamy Flag Award which annually goes to a school for patriotic efforts during the year.

The flag presented to the winning school is the one flown over the Capitol each May 18. The 1971 award went to McCollum High School, San Antonio, Texas, and under the rules no school will be eligible for a second award for a period of 50 years.

Dr. Miller works to counter flag desecration and what she terms "pledge defiance." She was instrumental in 1970 in organizing a 50-state, third-grade promotion of the Pledge of Allegiance. Her favorite response was:

"I am 8 years old. I want to make boys and girls understand and realize the value of saying the 'Pledge of Allegiance to our Flag.' I am in Mrs. Irene Priore's Third Grade class in the Cleveland Hill primary school, Cheektowaga, New York. The Pledge is a promise of our faithfulness, loyalty and devotion to our country. I know my 50 states which are ruled by the people and are under God's protection. Every day we say the Pledge. I feel so good when I stand facing the flag that I get chills down my back. I want every boy and girl to feel this thrill..."

MARRI JOHNSON, the writer of this column, has asked me to fill in for her the reason: aches and pains. However, rumor has it that she just can't be torn away from her newest granddaughter "BRANDA GEORGETTE JOHNSON," the first born of her son and daughter-in-law John Johnson, Jr. and Mikel.

AMID candles, birthday cake, gifts and cards we joined in singing "Happy Birthday TO BILL (Mr. William) SPRIGGS, last Saturday night when he celebrated his 73rd birthday. Well known for his versatility and excellence in such activity as: Chess, bridge, pool, boating, guitar playing, and fishing, (to name a few) Mr. Spriggs' life is full and exciting and he fits in well with members of the several generations he has witnessed. In addition to his own achievements (a retired engineer) he views with pride the accomplishments of his children: MAX (Illinois); THURMON (Virginia); LACY (Principal of Des Moines Brody H.S.), each have post-graduate degrees, two of which are Ph.D.s. His daughter, RUTH TURNER, is currently a candidate for a Ph.D. upon the completion of the requirements for the higher degree.

VISITED briefly with JANE MOLDEN, well-known for her work in the area of Social Services especially as director of WILLIE HOUSE, who tells me she is now serving as a coordinator for the CHESS program at Grandview College. For those (like me) who do not know what chess stands for it is NOT a game but are the initials standing for the CONSORTIUM in HIGHER EDUCATION for SPECIAL SERVICES: a help-oriented program designed to assist students attending universities and colleges in obtaining greater fulfillment thru various services in educational opportunities. Other blacks who are holding similar positions are KITTY WESTON, at Drake and EQUILA JOHNSON, at Area XI Community College.

WHILE lunching with CATHERINE WILLIAMS last week, had the pleasure of visiting with her houseguest Mrs. Roberta Bell, retired school teacher from Chicago. Mrs. Bell has found a way to turn retirement into activity which provides both challenge and profit for her. She has studied extensively the lives of historical black men and women and has created authentic replicas of these historical figures in the form of DOLLS. While in Des Moines she served as a delegate to the Regional Doll Conference for the National Institute of American Doll Artists which convened at the newly erected Merle Hay Holiday Inn. Mrs. Bell is the only black member of this Institute.

It's hard to believe that little JULIE ROBINSON, daughter of GEORGE AND ELLEN ROBINSON, is all grown up and looking forward to a trip abroad next year. It all depends upon the fund-raising activity of North High's Band, she says, which has been invited to play for a festival in Hawaii. Fund raising - days are Friday and Saturday (October 22 and 23 - day and evening) where all sorts of items including cakes and cookies, go on sale at North High to assist in raising funds to defray the band members expenses. Here is hoping the public will respond to this very worthwhile endeavor. Other black youths who will be going on the trip include DEBBIE LEWIS, CINDY PARKER, and ARZANIA WILLIAMS.

PETE CRIVARO, aspirant to the Mayor's Office in Des Moines, has done a good job in grooming LEONARD JOHNSON in administrative affairs while he was Director of the Des Moines LOW RENT HOUSING AGENCY. CHUCK BATEY, a more or less recent newcomer to Des Moines (less than 5 years), illustrates the possibilities that are open to our young men today if they are prepared. Arriving in Des Moines from Denver, Colorado, Chuck first served as Director of Drake's newly formed Urban Affairs Center. Having performed excellently in this position, he is now the Director of the Equal Employment Opportunity Office at Drake - situated in the Office of the President: Ride On, Chuck!

Former School Teacher Now Doll Artist

By Marri Johnson

In the city this past week was an educator with the most exciting topic to discuss as a child shall ever hear. She is Mrs. Solon (Roberta) Bell, a doll artist. She talked about the dolls which are real people figures. These dolls are also to be had as paper dolls. Each doll is the figure of a real character from the pages of black history. Each doll is priced in a form placing it within the reach of any child. They are available in sizes as tall as 18".

Mrs. Bell, a retired school teacher designs and makes the dolls. She discusses her working methods freely: "I sculpt them first in an oil based clay called sculptor's clay. The reason for this is that, should I start a figure and not return for months, the clay is not hardened - can still be worked."

After this she makes a Plaster of Paris mold. "When the mold is completely dried, sometimes 6 to 8 weeks, the doll is poured into a porcelain clay slip." She says "The purpose of the Plaster of Paris mold is to absorb the water from the clay slip. The cast can then be removed from the mold."

Continuing, she says "Afterward, there is much

Vernon K. Ashford, Sr. Celebrate Anniversary October 10

On Sunday, October 10, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon K. Ashford, Sr. celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary at the Holiday Inn North.

In a setting, in which the color scheme was gold, white, and foliage green, floral arrangements of autumn flowers consisted of orange and yellow chrysanthemums, yellow gladioli, and bronze pom-poms. Their three - tiered cake was in gold and white.

Mrs. Ashford wore a turquoise afternoon dress with long, open - work sleeves. She wore a corsage of yellow sweetheart rose buds.

Family Present

Family members present were Miss Elizabeth Ashford, of Cedar Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon K. Ashford, Jr., of Des Moines; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McDaniel and their two children Suzanne II, and Prudence 9, of Des Moines; Mrs. Sherman Jones, the former Faye Ashford and her two children, Stephanie 7 and Jocelyn 6, of Los Angeles; Constance Ashford of Los Angeles; and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gaiter, and their children, Lewis III, Byron II, and Kimberly 2.

Among other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Waggoner, and their three children, Chad 9, Layla 8, and Colton 6, of Ankeny; Mrs. Jerry Miller and daughter, Lori II, also of Ankeny.

Mrs. Louella Cassell, a longtime friend, was an honored guest at the reception. Mrs. Cassell attended the wedding of the Ashfords and is one of the few survivors who were present on that occasion.

A highlight of the anniversary celebration was a beautiful, five - foot, gold money tree, made by Mrs. Julia Cannon.

work to be done to remove mold seams and prepare the cast for firing. The porcelain clay slip is used at a high degree of temperature in the making of these famous black Americans, as it has brown. This flesh tone does not have to be painted.

The features are painted in. Each doll is "bewigged". The bodies (with the exception of the porcelain head and hands) are cloth stuffed with sawdust. (The artist's husband gives an assist at this point. He stuffs the bodies!)

Then these figures of famous black persons, perhaps soon to be some child's personal possession as a mere doll, are meticulously dressed, including underwear, according to the period in which they lived and in keeping with the personality of the character depicted. The dolls have been widely selected for private collections, for museums and schools throughout the country.

As paper dolls, they may be the very personal

Dilettante Club Plans Annual Art Exhibit

The Dilettante Club is sponsoring its annual art exhibit to be held 3:00 o'clock to 6:00 o'clock, Sunday, November 7, 1971, exhibiting the following categories:

playmates of both girls and boys, in homes, classrooms or wherever. With girls and boys they will be called by their very own names and "conversed" with by the young, about their life work and the popular theme today, life styles and why!

The dolls mirror our past, expressing black American culture, and so offer enrichment of each individual's personal fund of black history.

Mrs. Bell retired two years ago. She taught black history throughout her career, long before it was popular to do so.

An avid doll collector for many, many years, she has anywhere between 800 and a thousand dolls, plus miniature homes; a chapel, a country store, a schoolroom, etc. These are grouped in her home in specially built glass cabinets containing glass doors and glass shelves. This arrangement is called "Bertabel's Doll Museum".

Having always taught black history, it was a natural for her to start making black dolls as a "doing something to make these lessons more alive!" Her story reveals the exacting standard of excellence in interpretation and execution to which she adheres.

Her father, Robert E. Bell, was an artist and sculptor. She grew up wishing that she had artistic ability, never really believing that she had until finding her media through dolls.

She first became a member of the United Federation of Doll Clubs in which there are very few black members. Within this federation, is an exclusive group of doll artists known as the National Institute of American Doll Artists. At the Federation's 1969 convention in New Orleans, her Dr. Carver doll won the artist group award for the best portrait of a nonmember of the Institute and in August of 1970, she became the only black member of NIADA. One of the purposes of NIADA is to promote American culture through dolls, a very personal drive with Mrs. Bell.

It is her hope to continually place them in educational settings throughout the country. She is available for and very much in demand for lecturing in black history, using her dolls as props.

Mrs. Bell taught in Kansas City, Missouri schools for nine years; in the Chicago Schools for 16 years; in

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. What is the correct way to eat bread, biscuits, or rolls?

A. Bread is the most mismanaged of all foods. It should be broken, a small piece at a time, buttered, then placed in the mouth. Never take a whole slice of bread on the palm of the hand and plaster it with butter. The same "small-piece-at-a-time" rule applies to biscuits and rolls.

Q. Is it necessary to write thank-you notes to friends who brought food to our house at the time of my father's passing? I thanked all these good people personally at the time of their thoughtfulness.

A. No, your thanks at the time is all that is really necessary.

Q. What is the correct amount of the fee that a bridegroom gives to the clergyman?

A. There is no set amount. It really all depends upon the bridegroom's finances...and wishes.

Q. Is it all right for a woman to introduce her husband's mother as "my mother-in-law"?

A. Yes; this is all right to acquaintances, provided of course she adds the name, as "This is my mother-in-law."

Q. Is it proper to announce the adoption of a baby in the newspaper?

A. This is not generally done. Much better, I think, to mail out engraved announcements to friends - or just inform them verbally.

Mrs. Travis. To good friends, however, it is much nicer to say, "This is Bill's mother."

Q. I see more and more women shaking hands with other women and men upon being introduced. Is this now considered the proper thing?

A. Although still optional, I like women who shake hands... shows more shyness and warmth over a meeting or introduction than just a nod of the head.

Q. When a fingerbowl is part of a formal dinner, does one put both hands into the bowl at the same time?

A. This is a FINGER bowl, not a HAND bowl. Dip just the FINGERS of ONE hand at a time into the bowl.

Q. Is it up to the best man or to one of the ushers to propose the toast to the newlyweds at their wedding reception?

A. It doesn't matter. Whoever can do this most easily should do it.

Q. Is it proper to announce the adoption of a baby in the newspaper?

A. This is not generally done. Much better, I think, to mail out engraved announcements to friends - or just inform them verbally.

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...

Was haircoloring first done in Africa?

Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions...to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.

Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairol® Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.

Today black pride brings you closer to the cultural ways of your African heritage. Haircoloring is a part of black history too. Ask your professional hairdresser about changing your hair color with Miss Clairol...and be more beautiful than you already are.

Many Consideration Control
A Course At Times

The Democratic National Convention met last week to, among other things, name the temporary chairman of the credentials committee for their convention next year. This committee checks credentials of delegates, hears contests of seats of those in question and thus have a tremendous influence on who is finally seated. While appeals from their decisions to the whole convention are provided for their decisions have great weight.

Senator Harold Hughes was a candidate for the post and was nominated by Rep. Shirley Chisholm, the fiery Negro congresswoman from Brooklyn. He had worked for reforms in the party and wanted to push them further so as to not repeat the sordid convention in Chicago in 1968.

Mrs. Patricia Harris, a brilliant Negro woman who, at one time, served as ambassador to Luxembourg and dean of the Howard University law school, was nominated as the candidate of the organization which some say, opposed reforms and played along with the regulars.

Mrs. Harris won by a 72 to 31 vote.

This maneuver may sound strange but only goes to prove that other considerations may arise above our desire to support a black candidate; that at times we may find ourselves opposing a Negro candidate for telling reasons. It simply shows that we find ourselves needing help from whites.

We have heard no condemnation by the black caucus because Representative Chisholm opposed a black woman who was supporting a white candidate. And we don't believe any is due. For in spite of all the cries of black determination, black separation and black causes, we may find it more advantageous to do otherwise at times. Rep. Chisholm took her stand not for black or white but for a cause she felt had greater consequences, greater political advantage.

Legal Assistance For Everyone
But Don't Martyr Criminals

Milwaukee, Wisc. has concluded a city election. Among the candidates in one ward were 18 Negroes and one white man. Jimmie Davison, one of the Negro candidates, was high man but the city council, by a vote of 17 to 0, some of whom are Negroes, refused to seat him.

It came to light two days after the election that Davison had been convicted of raping a 13 year old girl and had served time for it. Later the governor pardoned him.

The council based their decision, after advice from the city attorney, on the following provision in the constitution of Wisconsin, which states:

"No person convicted of any infamous crime in any court within the United States shall be eligible for any office of trust, profit, or honor in this state." The phrase, "to hold any office of trust, profit or honor" does include the office of alderman, the city attorney's office ruled.

According to the Milwaukee Courier, a fine newspaper run by Negroes, supporters are planning rallies for Davison while others in the same paper say he is unfit for office for the reasons given by the city council and "others".

The decision of the council seems clear. On the other hand, here we have a man about to be placed in positions of trust and leadership whose character sets a terrible example for the community and especially youngsters. And yet because he is black what he does, no matter how reprehensible, makes no difference, argue his supporters.

This is a serious question facing Negroes. Do we support a man simply because he is black without regard to character and/or qualifications or do we support him because his chances of developing as law abiding citizens have been handicapped by economic and political disadvantages not faced by white people.

We have so many "fine militants" in trouble today who need help in their fight against the law that less money and effort are left to do other things.

The Bystander believes every man has a right and should be given adequate defense, if he cannot provide it himself, in order to defend his case. If he has no funds — Iowa does a good job with this — the state should provide it. It believes every defendant is entitled to a fair trial and every other consideration available to defendants in criminal cases. Once accorded these safeguards, they should not expect Negroes to glorify or make martyrs of them. Those who help rehabilitate themselves reasonable help should be given but it is not fair to law abiding citizens to place them in positions over those who have observed the law.

Health for All

ULTRASONIC DETECTION OF DISEASE

X-rays of the lungs are a valuable tool in diagnosing tuberculosis and other diseases. But they do not provide definite proof.

Confirmation of TB must be made by laboratory analysis of body fluids, especially sputum. Damage that shows up on X-rays of the lungs indicates trouble. But the damage could be from lung cancer, a fungus disease, or other infections.

Radiation caused from too many X-rays is a difficulty, too. New techniques are being developed that may soon complement and maybe eventually replace X-rays. One not yet perfected technique, called sonography, will take three-dimensional laser photographs of internal organs by using ultrasonic waves instead of X-rays.

A method of ultrasonic diagnosis is already in limited clinical use on pregnant women to avoid exposure of the fetus to X-rays. The method is only two-dimensional, however, and sends ultra-high-frequency sound pulses into the body. The pulses echo off the organ; the echoed pulses are then electronically converted into a map of the organ.

Instead of this pulse-by-pulse mapping, sonography would use a broad wave of ultra-sound to premeate the entire organ in the time it now takes to send a single pulse in the older method. Research is already underway at the State University of New York at Stony Brook, and researchers predict sonography will be able to show dying tissue and certain soft tissue tumors, such as breast tumors, which are undetectable by X-rays.

For the present, however, X-rays still make a valuable contribution in the diagnosis of TB, although laboratory analysis of body fluids is the only definitive test. To find out more about the symptoms of TB and other ways to detect the presence of the disease, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and breath.

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

Iowa-Minnesota

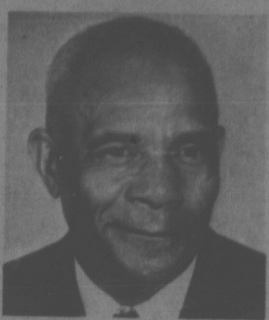

Well, sir, for fifty five minutes Iowa had those blasted Gophers in their hip pockets, but the durned things slipped out through the button hole. Of course everybody has his own theory as to why things turned out as they did, so we have ours. Aside from the three missed place kicks, and the untimely fumble, we thought there were two major penalties that had the biggest part in the defeat. The first came when the Minnesota pass receiver was apparently on his way out of bounds after trying to field a pass that he didn't have much chance to get. The Hawk defender blocked him outside, and that brought a fifteen yarder that helped give the visitors field goal range. That came on a third down play, so instead of punting from out of field goal range, the guys got a first down, and thus got their second field goal. Then, after that much talked about fumble, the Gophers didn't get down to the Iowa goal line until they were benefited by a fifteen yard penalty caused by a Hawk defender piling on late. That gave the northerners the ball deep in Iowa territory, and then another minor penalty put the ball on the five yard line. Take away those two happenings, and the fellows just might have come through. But nobody left until the last dog was shot, and they were all disappointed at the manner of the defeat. We still have to give Iowa a shot at beating Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan State, and Illinois. They should have beaten Minnesota.

Iowa State

Iowa State has apparently served notice that they will not be a doormat for the rest of the conference. They really took care of K State, and we used our curiosity to see what they will do with Kansas. And, mind you, the Cyclones don't have the guy they thought was going to be the key to a better season, Moses. There is serious talk of red shirting him. Might do him a whole lot of good so far as his foot ball is concerned. Then he will have a much better chance to graduate. But most of the Iowa State footballers, like the Notre Dame gridders graduate, or they don't stay in school. They don't tolerate dummies at Iowa State. One would have to think that the State boys shouldn't beat Oklahoma or Nebraska, but anything could happen. You would have to give them better than an even chance against the rest of the field. They will likely finish higher in the Big Eight than Iowa U does in the Big Ten.

Drake

They tell us that when Drake looked up and saw the size of the Tampa gridders, they refused to play until they heard some of them talk. They just ran over the Bulldogs, so we are told. And Drake does not have what might be called a small team. But these fellows! one fellow told us. You didn't play em, you tried to climb them, they were that big. But that makes only two games Drake has lost, and they still have a chance for an excellent season.

High School

Meanwhile back at the ranch. Dowling and Roosevelt are headed for their shoot out this week end. By the time you read this, the game will have been played, or they will be getting ready to kick off. About all they could do is to come up with a tie, and hurt them both. Tech had problems with Phil Hamman, but who hasn't all year? But, still, the Tech fellows came up with a score. They have been shut out just once so far. They are just about ready for that big upset we keep saying will come up. But they better hurry. Time is running out. East never did get back into the game after the first half with Roosevelt. Seems like those fellows have a jinx on the Lee Townshippers, besides having a heluva good ball club. North is having problems, too. But just wait until next year.

Basket Ball

And do you know that while the football season is just about half over, basketball is creeping onto the scene. This is what makes it hard for a fellow to play in more than one sport now. With the season overlapping, he can't get ready to play the next sport until the guys are well on their way to a season. Then he better be mighty good to catch up.

Q — I'm a teacher. During the summer I received my master's degree and, as a result, I was to receive a pay increment this fall. Can I still get it?

A — Yes. Pay increments for teachers who receive their master's and other scheduled pay raises dependent upon employees completing certain educational requirements may be paid during the freeze, because these actions are bona fide promotions. The employer, however, must be able to certify that such an agreement was in existence.

If the effective date of the teacher's contract is after August 15, the increment must be no more than the amount that was granted last year.

Q — Can my city government increase rates for gas and electricity?

A — No. State or local governments may not increase charges or fees for government provided services. However, state and local tax rates, and fees for licenses or legal penalties, such as traffic tickets, are not frozen.

Q — Can merchants pass on to consumers the cost of an increase in state or local taxes?

A — No. This is not permitted during the freeze.

Q — What are some of the food products not subject to the freeze?

A — Raw agricultural
