100-Million for Minority Business

President Nixon Seeks Increase in Budget Estimate

In a message to Congress on October 13, President Nixon asked support of his proposal to expand his minority enterprise program through a budget increase of $100 million in a two-year program for the Department of Commerce's Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE), the Administration's coordinating agency in its minority enterprise efforts.

The increase would provide an additional $40 million for OMBE through June 1972, and a $60 million increase for the following 12-month period. OMBE is currently operating on an appropriation of $3.6 million. The request for $40 million increase was presented to Congress last week.

"Ten percent of the new funds would be used at the national level," the President said, "to strengthen minority business and trade organizations, to generate broad private programs of marketing and financial assistance, to develop training programs, and to foster other national efforts."

"The remaining 90 percent of the new money would be spent on the local level — supporting a variety of efforts to identify, train, advise or assist minority businessmen, and to put them in touch with one another and with non-minority businessmen who can provide them with additional help."

The President said he is submitting legislation to the Congress to strengthen the government's growing program for Minority Enterprise Small Business Investment Companies (MESBICs), which assists members of minority groups to finance and manage new businesses. He also urged Congress to act upon legislative proposals previously presented, including a bill to alter tax laws which would ease the burden on small marginal businessmen; the Small Business Amendments Act of 1971; the Indian Business Development Program Act, the Indian Financing Act, and the Washington, D.C. Development Bank Act of 1971; and his proposal to create in the Department of Commerce a new Assistant Secretary for Minority Enterprise.

The President also issued a new Executive Order broadening Secretary Stans' authority in the minority enterprise program, saying, "this order gives the Secretary a clear mandate to establish and carry out Federal policy concerning minority enterprise and to coordinate the related efforts of all Federal departments and agencies."

In a White House press conference following the President's announcement, Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans,

Charge Henry Finney With Assault

Henry C. Finney was arrested Friday night, October 29, on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. He was later released on his own bond in Judge Ray Harrison's court and trial set for November 18, 1971.

Officers are said to have arrested Finney at 1247 Hutton Street, where they had been sent to investigate gunshots. It is claimed that Gilbert Wilson, 35, of 1131 Eighteenth Street, was found lying outside the Hutton address and was wounded in the leg. Miss Mary Ann Trujillo, 28, of 712 Sixteenth Street, was said to have experienced body bruises and was inside the Hutton Street address. Officers stated their belief to be that the incident resulted from a "domestic situation."

Broadlawn Polk County Hospital listed Wilson as being in satisfactory condition and that Miss Trujillo had been treated and released.

L-Million for Minority Business

In a recent message to the Congress, President Nixon called for a budget increase of $100 million over an 18 month period to provide additional financial assistance for Minority Business Enterprise. Federal business loans, guarantees and grants to minority enterprises and purchases from them has increased from $200 million in 1969 to an estimated $566 million in fiscal year 1971. In the above photo, left to right: Berkeley Burrell, Vice Chairman of the President's Advisory

Marvin Parker Freed In Fatal Shooting

Marvin Parker, 26, was set free on Saturday, October 30, after being in jail since his arrest December 17, 1971. He had been charged in the fatal shooting of Ann Marie Tursic, 31, of 712 Sixteenth Street in an attempted robbery December 11.

Saturday's acquittal was the culmination of a second trial. In the first trial, there was a hung jury.

The jury in the second trial presented its verdict to District Court Judge Leo Oxberger. Parker's attorneys were William Kutmus, Clark Holmes and Gerald Ralph. Their winning case was the occasion of the first loss by County Attorney Ray Fenton when he personally prosecuted a case.

Miss Karen Krueger, 30, the state's star witness in both trials was Miss Tursic's roommate and accompanied at the time of her slaying. The two were returning from a shopping trip in downtown Des Moines, when a man held them up at Sixteenth and Pleasant Streets. Miss Tursic refused his demand for money and both she and Miss Krueger were shot by the man. Miss Tursic's wound was fatal. Miss Krueger recovered.

In his first trial, Parker had an alibi as to his whereabouts on the night of the shooting. Three persons stated that he had been at the VFW Club. The jurors were unable to agree on a verdict.

In the second trial, his attorneys presented no evidence and produced no witnesses. The prosecution based its case on Miss Krueger's testimony but did not submit a weapon. The police were said to have shown Parker's picture repeatedly to the witness after the slaying. This was followed by their placing Parker in the police line-up where she selected him as the slayer. The defense argued that the police had made sure of his being marked as the killer.

The jury apparently felt that the action of the police brought about Parker's identification and that this in addition to the lack of a murder weapon failed to establish guilt, and was so indicated by the jury foreman.

Just before 5:00 o'clock Saturday evening, Parker

Venue Change For Angela Davis

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. — The trial of Angela Davis has been transferred to San Jose, 54 miles from San Francisco.

Defense attorneys, who sought the movement of the trial from San Rafael, immediately said they would challenge its change to San Jose.

"Miss Davis cannot get a fair trial in Santa Clara county," said Howard Moore, jr., chief defense attorney. "Our surveys already indicate intense racial prejudice in that county."

The ruling ended 10 months of tightly guarded pretrial hearings in the same Marin County courthouse where the crimes Miss Davis is accused of plotting occurred on Aug. 7, 1970.

A Superior Court Judge and three other persons were killed in an attempted courtroom escape.

No Definite Date

Judge Richard E. Arnason ordered new proceedings to begin in San Jose in 10 days. However, he did not set a trial date.

Miss Davis, a former UCLA philosophy instructor, is accused with San Quentin convict Russell Magee of conspiracy, kidnap and murder in the shootout which brought death to Judge Harold Haley and three of his convict abductors. Magee's trial has been separated from that of Miss Davis.

was brought to the courtroom and the jury's verdict was read finding the defendant not guilty.

Parker has lost nearly a year from his pursuit of a career, but his job awaits him, as does his family and friends.

NEWS In A Nutshell

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The steering Committee of The National Urban Coalition urged today that the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission be given stronger enforcement powers and that its authority be extended to cover all Federal, state and local public employees.

A Model Cities employee has filed suit for $990,000 against four top Model Cities staff and board personnel.

Richard L. Colbert, director of the Model Cities Area 2-C Neighborhood corporation, 2401 Bellefontaine, has named as defendants James I. Threatt, Mrs. Samella Gates, Marvin L. Groves and Mrs. Irma Groves.

A Zoning Inteferes with Business

BOSTON, Oct. 30 — Leaders of American industry believe that suburban zoning regulations are interfering with the efficient conduct of their business, according to a survey released today at the annual meeting of the National Executive Council of the American Jewish Committee, now taking place at the Marriott Motor Hotel, Newton, Mass.

The survey, conducted by the Housing Division of the Committee's Department of Intergroup Relation and Social Action, reflects the reactions of more than 150 major American corporations to the problems of finding adequate housing for their semiskilled and unskilled workers as industry continues to move its offices and factories to the suburbs.

Trick or Treat Calls Up At Sheriff Office

Polk County Sheriff Wilbur T. Hildreth said today (11-1-1) that the number of calls handled by his office during the Halloween weekend were exceptionally low. The Sheriff cited the cold and wet weather conditions as one reason; although unpleasant for the "trick or treaters" the weather forced many pranksters to stay home. Hildreth also said his office has over fifty patrols out in the county and assisting the area metropolitan police forces. This is an increase over the usual five cars on patrol in the county.

First Negro Chosen in Iowa: Judge Glanton Wins, Mrs. Loggins Losses

Davenport, Iowa — For the first time in Iowa, a Negro has been elected to the city council.

Powell Owens, 43, edged out Lane Kruse 51, a Republican newcomer, in the 5th Ward by only 38 votes. The decision was made in the 1st Precinct where Owens piled up a sufficient plurality to overcome losses in the other three precincts.

Sonny Owens, running for alderman in the 5th Ward, would bring long needed black representation to the city council. Sonny also has a good ear for the people, and he expects to hold meetings with his ward residents about all the issues that come up before the city council.

You saw a lot of people in the 5th Ward wearing PWO buttons, for People With Owens. The letters were also the initials of Powell W. Owens, Democratic candidate for alderman.

Judge Luther T. Glanton, Jr. polled 30,072 votes in his bid for re-election as one of the judges of the Municipal Court ranking second in the race in which 8 candidates competed in the election Tuesday.

Mrs. Evelyn Loggins, who ran as candidate at large for a 2 yr. Term, polled only 62 votes.

JUDGE GLANTON

Richard Olson, former member of the council defeated Pete Crivaro as mayor of this city. Other candidates elected were Jens Grothe for a 4 yr. term as councilman at large and Russ LaVine won a 2 yr.

POWELL OWENS

The "With" is very important, according to Owens. "It's not people 'for' Owens, but people 'with' Owens," he said. This fits in with his program stressing involvement of all the residents in city government.

Owens Platform

"I believe that all areas of city government should be much more responsive to the needs of its people and that city government can do more to encourage participation by the people in determining their own destinies."

This is Owens' platform, called "Because I believe in people..."

"I am dissatisfied by the environment of our lives. We must put an end to air pollution, noise pollution, and aesthetic pollution."

"I am dissatisfied by the isolation of those under 25 and those over 60. The community needs the wisdom, energies, and leadership of both groups."

"I am dissatisfied with the obvious discriminatory hiring practices at city hall. Fair and full employment must become a way of life in our community."

"I am dissatisfied by the current handling of the community's drug problem."

Katy Shinstine was elected clerk of the Municipal Court and Rice was elected Bailiff of the Municipal Court.

Other councilmen elected were Sheldon Rabinowitz in the third ward and Robert Scott in the second ward, Jack Woods in the fourth ward.

Drug abusers are not criminals — they are ill. "The city can reduce the cost of government without curtailing city services."

Black Queens Reign at Davenport High Schools

Black girls were elected Homecoming Queens at both Davenport high schools this fall.

Cathy Crump of 800 E. 15th St. was the queen at Central. Her mother is Mrs. Alberta Crump and her father William Crump of Rock Island.

Cathy is a professional singer. She has performed with the Dukes of Rhythm at private parties, mainly on weekends, for the last 10 months.

She will graduate in January and then hopes to work for a bank or as a teacher's aide until fall. She plans to go to college and major in dramatics with a minor in literature. She is interested in teaching literature eventually. She writes poems, one of which is on page 2.

Cathy is president of the drama club at the high school, and is a member of a Capella choir. Her hobby is photography.

She has three sisters, Lisa, 4, Lori, 13, and Tony, 16, and a brother Kim, 15.

Joyce Faison of 3117 Pearl was the homecoming queen at Davenport West.

Her parents are Rev. and Mrs. B. J. Faison.

She works after school for the Human Relations Commission in Davenport. Joyce wants to major in special education when she goes to college.

Her hobby is music, and she sings in church and school programs. She has one sister, Kimberly, 6. At the homecoming dance Joyce made an acceptance speech about "human acceptance and the peace that comes from it."

She is a member of Nomo and of Operation Breadbasket in Chicago. She lived in Chicago before moving to Davenport two years ago.

"As serving in the position of Homecoming Queen at West, I could only note a revolutionary movement of change among the student body of this Davenport High School. The youths today are destroying the stereotypes handed to them by their parents. They are seemingly reaching out from the region of unknowing, and uncaring about people of minorities. Even though I have always presented myself as a Black student, they surpassed me and saw me as a fellow student who happened to be Black. They saw me for what I am and the barrier of prejudice that stops most whites from caring, which is the supposed racial supremacy, has evolved into mutual respect. In the traditional sense, Homecoming Queen is the highest position a girl can serve in her Senior year at West; yet to me there is a hidden symbolism in this whole incident. The world will be in the hands of these youths in a few years, and if they can except people for what they are and not their color then there may be hope for the world. If the older people would make room for the young folk maybe there can be peace."

Black Midshipman Increase In Navy

ANNAPOLIS, MD., OCT. 26 — For the first time in its history, the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., this year will have more blacks in its "Plebe" class of first year midshipmen than it had in the entire Academy a year ago. This past June, 45 blacks were appointed to the Academy and began their four-year midshipmen careers. This is four more than the other three classes combined. This significant increase is a result of Navy-wide efforts to increase the number of black officers in the Navy.

Though increases in other officer programs have been noted, the Naval Academy's example is one of the most significant. In the three previous Plebe classes, there were 15, 17, and 21 blacks.

Interracial Jury Frees Collier

A white man, charged with manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Jo Etha Collier, 18-year-old black teenager, was convicted by a biracial jury. The girl was slain last May and her death protested by a series of rallies and protest marches.

Eight black and four white jurors deliberated all of one hour and forty minutes to find Wesley Park, 26, of Memphis, Tenn., guilty in the death of Miss Collier, who had graduated with honors a few hours earlier at Drew High School. Parks was sentenced to 20 years in prison.

The convicted slayer, a refrigerator and air conditioning mechanic, claimed to have been drinking beer and could not recall the evening's events. He stated he "very possibly" fired the bullet from a car on May 25, causing the student's death.

Sunflower County Circuit Judge B.B. Wilkes admonished his courtroom not to demonstrate in anyway regarding the trial results.

New Systems For Filing IRS Liens

DES MOINES, IOWA — Richard C. Voskuil, Acting District Director of Internal Revenue here, today announced that a procedure which designates offices in the state of Iowa where notices of Federal tax lien will be filed has been approved by the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service.

The revenue procedure is being issued because of a recent change in Iowa law, effective July, 1971, relating to the filing of notices of lien.

Notices of lien for personal property will be filed with the clerk of the United States District Court and, in the case of real property, with the office of the recorder of the county where the property is located.

The IRS will also continue to file notices with the Secretary of State for personal property if the taxpayer is a corporation or partnership and in all other cases in the office of the recorder of the county where the taxpayer resides at the time the notice of lien is filed.

Urban League Banquet Heads

Gustave L. Levy, former chairman of the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange and senior partner in the firm of Goldman, Sachs and Company, and John H. Johnson, publisher of Ebony Magazine, will serve as Vice-Chairmen of the National Urban League's November 18 Equal Opportunity Day dinner which will pay tribute to the late Whitney M. Young, Jr.; Henry Ford, II, chairman of the dinner announced today.

The tribute dinner, which will be held at the New York Hilton Hotel, will thus combine the efforts of three of the nation's busiest corporate executives in what promises to be the most successful since the inception of the EOD dinner 15 years ago.

Mr. Ford will personally serve as master of ceremonies.

Harmony Is Decorating Watchword

Decorators always seek, in "doing" a room, to establish harmony among the six surfaces and the furnishings.

Newly added to their tools in reaching this goal are five colors in a new Antique series of pre-finished hardboard wall panels now available at lumber and building materials dealers.

These unusual Royalcote panels are textured and embossed to duplicate aged, painted wood. Ranging from subdued to

Forbush Held For Slaying His Brother

Gerald E. Forbush, 27, of 914 SE Twenty-seventh Court is being held in the City Jail after turning himself in at police headquarters and reporting the shooting, which police stated occurred over an argument about money. The incident happened late Tuesday morning.

The victim was identified as Ernest McKinley Johnson, 24, of 1441 Center Street, and who is now hospitalized at Broadlawn Polk County Hospital. The shooting took place outside of Ebony Lounge.

A charge of assault with intent to commit murder has been filed against Forbush. He is a Polk County sanitarian employed by the Polk County Board of Health but has been suspended while criminal charges are pending on a recent Polk County Grand Jury indictment of breaking and entering and embezzlement by bail.

His brother, Raymond O. Forbush, was fatally injured in a shooting incident which took place in September.

bold, the colorful panels may be used as accent or primary walls and are readily coordinated with home furnishings in traditional or modern decor. They are called Goergotown White, Jamestown Gold, Yorktown Blue, Suffolk Green, and Cambridge Red.

"Real Contribution" "The panels are a real contribution to the decorating field," said a qualified interior decorator. "Their appeal is to all ages, including young moderns. The panels 'go' with any furniture."

Arrival of the Royalcote Antique series, by Masonite Corporation, comes at a time when the "antiquing" hobby has reached great popularity. The series has been coordinated with commercially available kits and antique furniture.

Features include authentic Colonial double beaded grooves, random spaced, a color tone range giving home owners a choice that will accent or complement any decor; individuality and character; fully-textured surface.

"The wide range of colors gives the home decorator an opportunity to plan a room for existing or new furnishings," the interior decorator declared. "They are a perfect foil for draperies and other furnishings, and the antique nature of the panels gives a room a warm, appealing appearance."

According to the new Dun & Bradstreet Metalworking Directory, California continues to lead all other states with 4,902 listed major plants that buy, produce or work with metal. Unchallenged at the other end of the scale is Alaska, which despite a 50% one-year increase, shows just three firms with over 20 employees, all connected with shipbuilding or repairs.

Vernon Jordan Cautions Grant Could Boomerang

Vernon E. Jordan, Jr. warned today that popular misinterpretation could completely reverse the intention of an important Ford Foundation grant and "produce results nobody wants."

Mr. Jordan, executive director of the United Negro College Fund, in a memo to UNCF presidents and field staff, said the results of "a notion going around could boomerang and cut off funds to black colleges instead of encouraging them."

Mr. Jordan's warning was in reference to the recent Ford Foundation announcement that it was going to spend $100,000,000 over the next six years "to increase minority opportunities in higher education."

"Many people have seen this and said 'that solves the problems of the black colleges, they don't need any more help.'" Mr. Jordan said. "The reality, as Ford itself points out, is that this is just a very small start and really a vote of confidence in the viability of the black schools."

In his memo, Mr. Jordan makes the following points: 1. The Ford grant so far encompasses only four black colleges — three of them UNCF members. It is never envisioned to encompass more than a small number of schools. There are more than 50 private black colleges in the United States.

2. Half of the Ford grant — $50,000,000 — is going to individual minority group students for scholarships and loans. These scholarships presumably will be applied over a wide spectrum of American higher education.

"The crisis in dollars facing the black colleges is as great as ever," Mr. Jordan writes. "The Ford step is a very important one, a good one, but that could rebound to our disadvantage unless this misunderstanding is cleared up for the corporate, foundation and public-giving sectors."

The College Fund, established in 1947, raises operating monies to assist its member institutions. All are private, four-year accredited liberal arts schools. Some 40,000 students attend the UNCF colleges. Next year, four more colleges will join the Fund, adding some 5,000 more students.

The UNCF executive director, who leaves the Fund January 1 to become executive director of the Urban League, urged the UNCF family to step-up its efforts to meet the $10,000,000 goal which, he said, "must be reached this year to help our 36 member schools."

Attention!!! Des Moines Area Minorities

The Federal Housing & Urban Development has contracted to build a senior citizens high rise apartment building in the model neighborhood area. The Des Moines Area Construction Training Program has been asked to prepare a list of minority contractors and construction workers and submit it to the Housing & Urban Development Compliance Officer and all persons connected with the construction of this building.

I have submitted a list of those persons that I have been able to determine are in the Des Moines area. However, your name may not be on the list. The Housing & Urban Development Office in Omaha and the Des Moines Low Rent Housing Agency has indicated that a certain percentage of the work force must be minority people. I will submit your name for the purpose of your being given equal consideration for the projects being done on the job.

Our office would appreciate very much your either notifying us by telephone or mailing this coupon to our office at 1223 Sixth Avenue, Ph. 288-1938 by November 19, 1971.

Keeping The FAITH

In the whirlwind pace of our technology, mobility, and hypertension, more questions concerning values, morals, and faith are being asked than ever before.

One of the changes affecting a vast portion of our society is the attitude towards sex and its role in love and marriage. For years our churches chose to pretend the subject did not exist. A study by Professor Gerhard Gollwitzer of Germany, entitled Sex, Eros, Marital Love discusses on a scholarly level the spiritual significance of

HOW TO BEAT A RISING COST OF WINTER!

1. Replace filters. Furnace filters trap dust and keep your air clean—but they must be changed frequently to allow maximum heat flow.
2. Close damper when your fireplace is not in use—and keep warm air from rushing up the chimney. A glass fireplace screen might also help. Shutting drapes over windows at night can stop up to 15% of the heat lost through windows.
3. Weatherstrip and insulate. This keeps warm air in and cold air out where it belongs. Check heating system now. Have your furnace man make sure your entire system is in safe working order before the first real cold snap hits.
4. FM
5. Don't spend money heating unused space. Close the doors to attic, garage, basement and other unheated areas. If your home has electric heat with thermostats in every room, you can save even more by reducing the settings in unused rooms and closing them off.
6. You'll save quite a bit by setting your thermostat at 70°-72° rather than a higher temperature. If you do turn it down at night—don't reduce more than 10° as the cost of reheating your home will offset any savings. You may notice that your winter Iowa Power and Light bills are bigger than summer bills. Well, it's because you need more heating, more lighting, eat more hot meals, and use your appliances more.

However, following these few tips will not only help keep your costs down—it will help conserve one of the nation's vital energy resources.

Survey Before Buying
After the 1971 Los Angeles earthquake, it was discovered that important boundary markers had been moved by the tremors. A significant number of real estate owners no longer could be sure where true property lines were located and survey work began immediately to unsmear the situation.

In New Jersey a few years ago, a long-disappeared creek forming the original boundary of a property was shown by a survey to run straight down the middle of a drainage ditch. Then, during a lawsuit, an older survey was noted that showed the creek meandering in anything but a straight line. The older survey resulted in a loss of more than 12,000 square feet to one landowner.

These examples illustrate the importance of an accurate land survey. If encroachments or overlaps exist regarding the property, you should know about them before purchasing a home when you are in the best position to make decisions and arrange protection relating to your real estate investment. Therefore, you will want to consider a land survey before buying a home—even if a survey is not required by your mortgage lender.

Another helpful home buying precaution is a search of separately located public records, by an abstractor, attorney, or title insurer, for possible land title defects—followed by issuance of owner's title insurance. Based on a search of public records before your purchase is completed, owner's title insurance will pay claims proved to be valid and also pay for a legal defense against an attack on your title as insured. Mortgage lender's title insurance will not protect you, the buyer; it takes owner's coverage.

You can obtain free literature on what you should know before purchasing a home by writing American Land Title Association, 1828 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

takes a daily beating, year in and year out. If your living room has "lost luster," consider changing the decor and some of the furnishings.

Transforming a living room from a hodge-podge to a pleasure is quite easy nowadays with attractive, factory-finished hard-board paneling in colors, textures and woodgrains finishes. Royal-cote woodgrains in a variety of distinctive, beautiful shades are available at lumber dealers.

Textured, prefinished hard-board panels and a series of antique patterns in colors give the home owner an outstanding selection.

They're easy to install, too, either directly to the walls with an adhesive or over furring strips. The panels are ideal for an entryway, also. Improve living room and entry and you will have gone a long way toward treating your family and friends to a more pleasant home.

Black Entertainers Going To South Africa Helping Segregationists Save Face

While some black athletes and entertainers are planning to go to South Africa for big money, international attention has been attracted by two sharp rebukes of that nation's notorious apartheid system.

The first rebuke was a statement by United Nations Secretary-General U Thant who told the U.N. General Assembly that the continued suppression of blacks in Southern Africa would provoke "intolerable interracial tensions that would inevitably affect the future relationships" between black Africa and the rest of the world.

The second rebuke was a demonstration against apartheid by the Black Sash, a group of middle-aged South African white women who wear black mourning sashes to demonstrate their disagreement with the official racism of South Africa. In the middle of downtown Johannesburg the women carried signs saying "Stop Detentions Without Trials." They also are opposed to South Africa's security laws and police practices.

Saving Face

Since South Africa and her neighboring, white-dominated states are morally in the doghouse with respect to world opinion, they are seeking to revamp their image and justify their race policies.

What better way could be found to improve their image than by getting their repugnant policies approved by those identified with the victims? Trips to South Africa by black American sports figures and entertainers would suggest that black people approve that nation's policies.

For this reason I have grave reservations concerning the trips to South Africa reportedly planned by several black American big names. South Africa is reported to have offered them fantastic amounts of money to appear there within the next few months.

"Money Talks"

Some black Americans have said that "money talks" and that the athletes and entertainers should take the money. Apartheid or not, because they cannot help black South Africans by rejecting the money.

Others say the spectacle of a few American black people grabbing for dollars gained probably at the expense of millions of repressed South African blacks is repugnant. They believe South Africa has objectionable, public-relations reasons for offering big money to black American celebrities. They think going to South Africa would be "consorting with the enemy" and a betrayal of black people.

Black African nations also have been invited to peep at South Africa's tainted riches. For them South Africa has proposed a miniature "Marshall Plan" that would throw some money into their coffers but tie them into an orbit of South African economic serfdom.

With the black African nations economically dependent upon South Africa, that nation then could (1) control those nations who have excellent reasons to push her into the sea, and at the same time (2) proclaim before mankind that she is a kind and generous nation, mercifully helping the "poor struggling blacks."

Being Used

American black celebrities going to South Africa reminds me of the recent trips of Pearl Bailey, Joe Louis and a few other blacks to the White House. While they were enhancing President Nixon's image with a facade of racial accord and impartiality, Nixon was planning furtherance of his Southern Strategy by submitting names of a formerly Ku Kluxing senator and a racist lawyer to the American Bar Association as potential Supreme Court justices.

If other people — U Thant and the Black Sash women — care enough about black people and justice to speak out against oppression in South Africa, how can black people do less?

Instead of running to South Africa, grinning and performing for money, American and African blacks should be adding further rebuke and pressure against that land of apartheid.

Minority Business

accompanied by OMBE Director John L. Jenkins said, "the program announced today is in addition to all direct loan money, guarantees, government purchases and other direct government assistance. It is to be used entirely to provide technical help to organizations assisting in the development of minority enterprise." These funds totaled $200 million in 1969, $566 million this past year, and a goal for approximately $700 million has been established for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972.

Secretary Stans said the program will meet the three basic needs of minority citizens who want a chance to compete in the market place: (1) It will stimulate wider access to business resources, such as capital and profitable markets; (2) It will provide greater assistance in starting new businesses and in improving existing ones; and (3) It will provide new ways of learning, upgrading and applying the skills of business management.

OMBE Director John L. Jenkins said, "the funds ultimately will reach 100 metropolitan areas with large minority populations, and also, among other actions, will help in launching new experiment and demonstrations projects in areas of importance to minorities which might otherwise be neglected."

The Office of Minority Business Enterprise was created by President Nixon in March of 1969 and placed under the responsibility of Secretary Stans in the Department of Commerce. Serving as the coordinating agency in the President's minority enterprise program it seeks to increase opportunities for members of minority groups to enter into business or expand existing ones.

A recently completed survey of minority business ownership conducted for OMBE by the Bureau of the Census showed that as of 1969 there were approximately 322,000 minority-owned businesses in the United States, representing about 4 per cent of the total of all businesses.

"This survey," Secretary Stans said, "shows clearly that 1969 involvement of minority groups in business enterprise was disproportionately low. This record must be improved, and we must increase our efforts to achieve a viable minority business community in this country. It is not a matter of party or persuasion; it is a matter of right."

Telles Sworn in as EEOC Commissioner

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Raymond L. Telles, 56, was sworn in today as a Commissioner for the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) in ceremonies held at the White House. Mr. Telles' appointment was confirmed by the U.S. Senate on September 30, 1971. His term as Commissioner extends to July 1, 1976.

During the past two years, Mr. Telles has held consulting and management positions with private industry in Texas and Oklahoma. For six years (1961-1967), he served as U.S. Ambassador to Costa Rica. He previously held the post of U.S. Chairman of the United States - Mexico Commission for Border Development (1967-1969).

A native of El Paso, Texas, Mr. Telles was elected to two terms as mayor of El Paso (1957-1961) and was also elected to four terms as county clerk of El Paso County (1948-1957). His term as county clerk was interrupted by one year's service as a colonel with the U.S. Air Force during the Korean War (1951-1952). He also served with the USAF during World War II and received a Bronze Star; he is presently a colonel in the USAF Reserve. His career has also included several years as an accountant with the Federal government.

Mr. Telles is married to the former Delfina Navarro and they have two daughters, Cynthia and Patricia.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission is a bipartisan, independent Federal agency responsible for administering Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which prohibits discrimination in employment because of race, sex, religion, color or national origin.

The Commission is composed of five members who are appointed for five year terms. The Chairman of the Commission is William H. Brown III.

VETERANS

Q — I have been married six years to World War II veteran who still carries his moth... as the sole beneficiary of his $10,000 G. I. insurance policy. Can I get the Veterans Administration to change it, since I am no longer able to work?

A — No. Legally, VA must pay the proceeds of G. I. insurance to the beneficiary designated by the veteran.

Q — I have a certificate of eligibility for education benefits which I received three months ago after filing VA Form 21E, 1960 and a copy of my discharge papers with VA. Can you tell me why I have received no checks?

A — The certificate of eligibility which you say you still have must be given to your school so it can certify your enrollment to VA. After VA receives this certification, your checks will start.

Q — Are there any income requirements for obtaining a mobile home loan?

A — Yes. You must show, among other things, that your present and anticipated income and expenses are such that it could be reasonably expected that the loan will be repaid, and that you are a satisfactory credit risk.

Q — What is the maximum Veterans Administration loan available for a mobile home?

A — For the purchase of a mobile home only, it is $10,000 payable over 12 years and 32 days.

Q — I withdrew from school under the GI Bill at the end of the semester two years ago, and plan to return to the same school to pursue the same program. How do I start my benefits again?

A — You should notify the school to submit a re-enrollment certification to the Veterans Administration. This would start your benefits again, provided you have not exhausted your entitlement and the school and program are currently approved.

Q — Can a veteran pursue any educational program he desires under the GI Bill?

A — Yes, if the course or program leads to a recognized educational, vocational or professional objective, and if the school and course are approved by the state - approving agency.

A Critical Look At The New Black Movies

IN FRATERNAL LOVE

It is more than a mere figure of speech to say what has been said in another connection, and that is, that "The more things change, the more they remain the same." As regards to the new "Black movies," we have gone full circle, that is to say, we are right back where we started. The image of Black presence on the screens of movie houses have changed radically in a short while. But the sum and substance of what one sees remains essentially the same. A sensitive and careful reflection of Black life styles are as absent from the screen as much as in the good old days of Black invisibility. The new Black images represents a modern "hipper" stereotype. Up dated in speech, dress, and mannerisms, but never the less, they are stereotypes as shallow and callous as Amos and Andy. What we are in fact viewing, are gross insensitive over simplifications of Black experiences at best, abominable ignorance of, or a conscious disrespect for Black humanity at worse. Even some semi-conscious Black critics have hailed these so-called "Black movies" as "together," "telling it like it is," and even "revolutionary."

I regret to say, that some of these minds I once felt were exceptionally keen, and reasonably pure of heart and feeling for Black humanity. The designation of these disordered vignettes as "Black movies," one guesses, is related to the notion that these movies are based on some intrinsic and universal reality in Black life styles; that they represent some ultimate truth about our existence in race ridden America. And above all they are "made" by Black people. Time will tell. Until then, I reiterate and submit that these movies are a lively and alarming indication of this society's generally poor state of mental health. Black health in this case, poor white health is a foregone conclusion.

A thoughtful look at what has been passing for Black life on movie (not to mention T.V.) screens cannot help but arouse the sensibilities of mature (and militant) Black people. There are basically two themes in these movies. One theme deals with The Militant Life Style, or what one brother calls "messin' with the revolution." The players are energetic, violent, and inept. The script - writer puts any damn thing in the revolutionary cause. The brothers and sisters, who have supposedly reached a state of revolutionary consciousness, are shown as "niggers" who can't get their political thing together because of sex, personalism, or no real sense of values. Plenty of action, motion, but no direction, and the flick ends on a demoralizing note: the hero being killed, plans shattered, uninstrusive. But, everybody has been entertained. Young and impressionable Blacks like the action, how the "brother" rips this or that cat off," not understanding that it is they who have been ripped off, money, mind and soul. Perhaps some are too young to deal with the mixed up images they are receiving. Fun and jive and T.C.B. is all one big ball game. An imitation of life confuses real life.

A second and perhaps more favored theme of "Black movies" is the sex plus violence freakout (and expected surprise in good movies, you dig?) often replete with the erotic tendencies of European culture. The Black stud has finally arrived on the American screen, laudibly fulfilling the myth inherited from slavery. As a pimp, or a cop, or the plain good guy, the spade is a classic study of super-human virility. With the Black slums as background, any act highlighting "sins of Black flesh" is valid. A thirteen-year-old child being introduced to incest enriches the sexuality of Black life. The Black stud fornicating with endless numbers of comely blonds whom he just happens to run into, while he is trying to get away. (Very believable, right on!) Nude Black women of easy virtue, the fouled mouth Black bitch, are better than comic relief in between the sensational acts of Black violence. We have backed into a trick bag, by helping the "man" to "legitimately" exploit what he already imagines about the quality of our lives. We become the sexual freaks that they are striving to be. He transfers his neurotic behavior to us in movies.

To make a very long and sad story short, the rise of Black visibility largely through political struggle has made Black people a commodity on the screen. And the tragedy of it is, that this creative image has fallen prey to a gang of apolitical, unphilosophic, practical money grabbers. Alas, Blacks in collusion with whites. It is indeed a nightmare, having suffered all of these years watching our rich, emotive experiences being dehumanized by ignorant or perhaps just plain evil minded racists. But witnessing the extension of this perjorative tradition being promoted by Blacks is almost unbearable.

The Black film maker, (few though they are) with the notable exception of the likes of an Ossie Davis, are a pitiful collection of programmed, salary oriented "Negroes." super individualistic and unfeeling. Black actors and actresses have thus far complimented the betrayal of the Black experience past and present. Consider the following: People of African descent have lived in this inferno called America before there was a United States of America. There is not a significant political, social, or cultural event in America's history in which Blacks have not played a part. We have been caste slaves, "3/5 of human beings." Nobody else can make that statement. We have been soldiers in every way, city builders, dug gold in California, captured the whale in the Pacific, been cowboys, friends and enemies of Indians, been scientists, intellectuals, and revolutionaries, and first lovers of American soil; we live in families as husbands, wives and children and yes, as illicit lovers, hustlers, whores and pimps. The result of this is that Blacks have created the greatest body of folk lore, original music, and expressive patterns of culture in America. As an ethnic group on the intangible level, peoples of African descent are without question, experientially among the richest people in America. And yet, out of these many magnificent flights of human spirit, the best that our creative geniuses can perceive from an "Uptight" to a "Sweet Sweetback" is the fact (a fairly recent fact in our long history) that Blacks live in crowded Northern slums in a state of animal existence, shucking and jivin', and talkin' slick, in between their various states of "militancy;" the "brother on the stem" rappin' and capin' with handshakes and dashiki. Let me hasten to add that communal handshakes and dashikis could be more meaningful if they were not so vulnerable to exploitation by a fad dominated society. Every sacred aspect of the Black experience has been perverted — for entertainment purposes.

With apologies to the late Malcolm X, "I hate to say this about us — but it's true" — and that is this: So far, the few Blacks for whom this opportunity has been created by other Blacks (oh yeah!) have not measured up to the creative task. They have blown it, man. They have been dead beat appendages to white stagnation. And the most notable weakness in Black screen writing, directing, acting, etc. is that these movers and shakers of our complex image know so little about the Black experience, formally or informally. I know that I am on safe grounds when I assert that no serious expression of cultural realities can be made without a good sense of history. Without seeing groups of human beings as products of history as well as sociology no coherent statements about them can be made. The "artist" will be unable to create intelligent myths.

Any writer can write Mickey Spillane, or 007 type foolishness. We don't need it. It's bad for our convalescence. Black people everywhere have a date with something resembling concrete reality, not pointless entertainment. The human weight and complexity of Africans in America still lays dormant, craving to be explored. These one-dimensional statements about Black people must be challenged by the truly committed creative forces from within the national Black community.

It must be admitted, for example, that any mindless, anti-humanist white writer, producer, director, might have done a much better "Sweet Sweetback" than Brother Melvin Van Peebles, for the simple reason that his cultural base for outlandishly degenerate acts is better, i.e. Western.

Western creative efforts regarding sexuality and violence have a very long and diligent history towards the bizarre. This is partly due to an over reaction to the sense of inferiority developed from years of "seeing" or imagining the "sexual freedom" of various "primitive" peoples throughout the world. And the natural tendency of violence among men is far more pronounced in Western imagination simply because Western man has had more exposure, and more opportunity and experience in committing it. It might interest some to know that the concept such sex-related violence (sadism), and erotic behavior are totally alien to most of the world's cultures. Most African cultures among them. As for brothers of the mind - set of Van Peebles, who are doing "segments" of Black life is precisely what the enemies of a complex Black image have been doing for generations. If Black writers and producers, and directors honestly choose to offer us (Black people) insight regarding our own experiences, particularly on that "segment" called street life, I say, right on to that! But they might be even more helpful and creative by dealing with some of the subtler and more common place aspects of street culture, the less glamorized or romanticized realities of life on the block. As every relatively conscious Black person knows, there are a variety of life styles represented within the street culture context. Few Black people who hang out on the block will ever graduate into pimpology, whoredom, or become master hustlers in the flim-flam or pigeon drop, or become classic studies of hippness. Most of us just are not smart enough, or brave enough — weak or scared enough.

In a very real sense, from within the urban Black community itself, everybody is from the streets! At one time or another people who work every day from 9 to 5, deal with Jesus, come home from college, makes A's in high school and shoot craps in the alley, all make it to the stem. To the corner bar.

EVELYN LOGGINS (MRS. FLOYD) HAVING EXPERIENCED her first political role, flanked by her staff, Floyd, Jr. and Charles, Husband Floyd and the other members of her family staged a party with them. She and the youngsters shopped at Dahl's for rare extra goodies such as assorted pies and cake along with the basics, enjoyed watching the election returns. Sounds light-hearted, but it wasn't because, though Mrs. Loggins took the long-view, her sons live for now. As do all children. They felt the loss. Evelyn realized a gain — she had taken first steps, necessary to make the bit steps. And who knows whether it will be Mrs. Loggins who will next enter the arena or one of her sons? Who really knows? The civic life appeals to these youngsters. They are willing to learn and to compete! And work? It's play to them.

EVELYN LOGGINS STATES THAT SHE PLANS greater preparation for the next election, plans to remain current with council table events. Her consolation prize, if now we may indulge in a bit of humor, a color television set — a birthday gift from Husband Floyd.

NOTED THIS FLIER: "Greatest Revival of Our Time", Morning Star Baptist Church, November 1-5, 1971, conducted by Rev. Thomas, Pastor of Metropolitan Baptist Church, St. Louis, Missouri. All are welcome. All of which is an effort by Rev. Alex Crawford, and his congregation. We have a city of busy pastors. This flier came at a time when the town was a flutter with political sheets. Even so, this one, a bit larger, stood out like "loud and clear".

THE GREEN-PACK NUPTIALS announced this week by the now real life Mr. and Mrs. Donavon Green combined today's mode fashion in the wardrobes of the youthful participants, in the both clever and arty reception planning and decor with the sentiment of yesteryear in the couple's romantic use of a green monochromatic color scheme! Now for the choice of green: its coincidental with their surname; its symbolic of everlasting love; and a symbol of life itself.

MET ARCHIE B. HALL, JR. A STUDENT OF MODERN DANCE and member of ISU's modern dance troupe which is appearing this Sunday, November 7, at the C. Y. Stephens Auditorium. Young Hall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie B. Hall, Sr., of Sioux City, Iowa. A friend and I were attending the Royal Winnipeg Ballet last Sunday, October 31, at the auditorium. The evening was all pleasure. It is amazing how individuals can stand out as especially lovely when each and everyone of the performers is exceptionally lovely.

MRS. NINA FISHER AT THE TINY TOT CENTER, was very stylish in her blue and white stipe, belted pantsuit! She was filling in for Mrs. McFeders, Social Worker now on maternity leave. (Good luck to you and your happy bundle, Mrs. McF.)

ONE OF OUR FAVORITE PEOPLE was in the office recently and shared this true story: He caught a string of 12 bull heads weighing 34 lbs. Apart from this batch was one bass, weighing a fraction over 5 lbs. and one weighing two full pounds. Leaving us office inmates, our friend exited to the perfectly gorgeous out-of-doors. We were happy before his fish tale!

A New Way With Chicken

Chicken-ticem—here's a new idea for an old family favorite and a wonderful way to treat your hard-working husband and homework-laden children. It combines delectable chicken with the delicate, nutty flavor of Roman Meal bread stuffing and rich mushroom-sour cream sauce.

Chicken-Ticem
4 chicken breasts
1/2 cup enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
2 cups dry Roman Meal bread cubes
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
2 tablespoons melted butter
1/2 cup hot water
1/2 cup butter, melted

Split chicken breasts just enough to fold. Combine the next four ingredients in paper bag; add chicken and shake. Make dressing: mix bread cubes, onion, salt, pepper and seasoning. Add 2 tablespoons of melted butter and water; toss. Fill the cavity in each piece of chicken; skewer together with toothpicks. Dip chicken in 1/2 cup of melted butter; place in baking dish. If any butter remains, drizzle it over top. Bake in a slow oven (325°F) for 45 minutes, turn and bake an additional 45 minutes or until tender. Pour sour cream mushroom sauce over chicken and garnish with parsley.

Sauce:
1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, cut in half
1/4 minced onion
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/2 cup sour cream
Salt and pepper

Brown mushrooms and onion lightly in butter; cover and cook for 10 minutes. Stir in flour. Add heavy cream, sour cream and seasonings. Heat slowly, stirring constantly. Do not boil. Pour over chicken which has been put in casserole. Makes 4 servings.

Mrs. Eleanor M. McCall of Portland, Ore., won a year's supply of Roman Meal bread for her Chicken-ticem recipe. Your original recipe could be a winner, too. Simply send your entry, or entries, along with your name and address to: Contest, Box 1971, Tacoma, Wash. 98401. The contest, void where prohibited by law, will be judged quarterly on the basis of originality. Decision of the judges is final.

Green-Pack Nuptials Announced

"The Bride and Groom Share a Kiss"

"Don and Edna cutting that first piece of cake"

Miss Edna M. Pack and Donavon D. Green were married October 22 at Maple Street Baptist Church in a double ring ceremony performed by Rev. George Parrish. Mrs. Green is the daughter of Mrs. Betty Moore and Mr. Hurley Wyatt. Green is the son of

Mr. and Mrs. William Green. Maid of honor was Miss Bille Green. Best man was Tyrone (Rocky) Weston.

The bride was elegant in a floor length green velvet dress, the bodice of which was cream colored. She carried a corsage of light and dark green carnations tied with varying shades of green velvet streamers. She wore green satin slippers.

The bride was elegant in a floor length green velvet dress, the bodice of which was cream colored. She carried light and dark green carnations in a corsage tied with varying shades of green streamers. She wore green satin slippers.

The groom was handsome in a tuxedo trimmed in green satin brocade.

Miss Green, an altogether lovely maid of honor, wore a yellow chiffon, floor length gown and carried a corsage of white carnations. She wore white satin slippers.

The pair selected a green monochromatic color scheme. This choice was made so as to coincide with their surname; also green is the symbol of everlasting love, and is symbolic of life itself.

Mrs. Moore wore a blue satin A-line dress. Mrs. Wyatt was attired in a white party dress flecked with multi-colored butterflies. Mrs. Margaret Green, the groom's mother, wore a green satin tunic style dress.

A reception was held at Willkie House. A beautiful white lace table cloth covered the reception table, which held a three-tier white wedding cake trimmed in green roses. Atop the cake was the traditional black bridal couple. A crystal punch bowl and cups were used. The coffee pot was unique in that it was a silver sputnik. Their novelty napkins were white with gold edging and bore this line "It's Mr. and Mrs. now!" Personalized match books read "Edna and Don — just married" and was adorned with an old car to which shoes were tied.

Ivory angel kissing figures stood on a silver tray which held green plants, repeating the color scheme. This arrangement was placed on the mantelpiece over the fireplace.

Among the recordings in the background music at the reception was "To Be Young, Gifted and Black."

Hostesses on this occasion were Miss Maxine McNair, Mrs. Lillian Haynes and Mrs. Dorothy Robinson.

Mrs. Green is employed as secretary to the managing editor of Better Homes and Gardens Book, of the Meredith Corp. Mr. Green is employed with Allied Construction Company as a painter.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Would it be all right for me to wear an evening gown to a dance even though my date will be wearing a business suit?

A. Oftentimes the women in a party will wear evening gowns to such affairs where the men are dressed informally. However, no one girl should do this on her own without first checking with the other girls.

Q. I'd like to wear an emerald instead of the traditional diamond engagement ring, but have been told this is not proper. What do you say?

A. I say you may wear any kind of ring you wish. In fact, even if you wore no ring at all, you would be "just as properly engaged."

Q. If a girl is being married in church wearing only an afternoon dress and having only one attendant, is she then supposed to invite only a very few friends and relatives to this type of wedding?

A. There is never any limit to the number of guests at any wedding — provided, of course, there is ample room for everyone.

Q. Would it be proper for me, the bridegroom-elect, to be present at a shower that is being given for my fiancée?

A. Since these are usually all-female parties, it would hardly be appropriate for you to attend. You may, if you wish however, put in an appearance towards the end of the party to help your fiancée home with her "loot."

Q. May one pour gravy from the pitcher, or must one always use a gravy ladle?

A. If there is a ladle in the pitcher, by all means use it. If, however, no ladle has been provided, then it is quite proper to pour from the pitcher.

Q. When a man must wait in line at the box office for his theater tickets, should the girl he is with stand in line with him?

A. There is no set rule governing this. She may keep him company if she wishes, or she may wait in the lobby for him.

Q. Are the male attendants at our wedding supposed to pay for the rental of their own formal attire?

A. Yes.

Executive Director

MISS BRYANT

NEW YORK CITY Ronnie M. Moore, executive director of SEDFRE, the Scholarship, Education and Defense Fund for Racial Equality, announced yesterday the appointment of Miss Shirley A. Bryant as director of the newly created Health and Education Department for the nearly 10-year-old training and technical assistance organization.

As director of the new Health and Education Department, Shirley A. Bryant will unify SEDFRE's efforts in several related fields — especially its work with black elected and appointed school board members and administrators.

Miss Bryant, 28, holds a Bachelor's degree from Hanover College in her home state of Indiana and a Master's from the Fordham University School of Social Service. Before joining SEDFRE in 1969 she worked at a Head Start center in Harlem and as a caseworker for the New York City Department of Social Services.

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...

Was haircoloring first done in Africa?

Centuries ago in Africa (before it was explored by Europeans) beautiful black women used herbs and other ingredients to change the color of their hair. It was one way to complement their dark rich complexions...to accent their natural warmth and beauty. Whether or not Africans were the first to use this method, no one is sure. Yet, they are among the first in terms of recorded history to go through the then-tedious process of coloring their hair.

Today changing your haircolor can be as quick and as brief as a visit to your professional hairdresser. That's because many professional hairdressers use Miss Clairol® Hair Color to lighten hair, to make slight color changes and to cover gray. Hairdressing experts know that exotic blacks and browns are generally gorgeous for darker skin tones. Golden or red shades are stunning for lighter tan complexions.

Today black pride brings you closer to the cultural ways of your African heritage. Haircoloring is a part of black history too. Ask your professional hairdresser about changing your hair color with Miss Clairol...and be more beautiful than you already are.

Practicing Equal Opportunity

Vita Blue in the American League and Ferguson Jenkins of the National League have won the coveted Cy Young award in their respective leagues. This award is given to the most valuable pitcher in both leagues.

This year has brought some outstanding advancements in the participation by negroes in organized baseball. First, there are more Negro Players than ever before. Second, Negro pitchers started for their respective leagues in the world series. Third, Negroes won the Cy Young Award for their respective leagues.

This simply indicated that greater opportunity is being offered Negro players and more finances and they are taking advantage of it. The public and management look on with approval.

These accomplishments in interracial activities help to dispel the notion of those who argue constantly that Negroes should separate themselves from the "establishment" but who find that in doing so cuts off their source of income.

Members of the old Kansas City Monarchs, Indianapolis Clowns and other Negro teams of years gone by, who operated on a shoe string can testify to that.

Election Results

Des Moines has just completed an election. Last week, we pointed out that some of those seeking office were mediocre and did not deserve to be elected. Unfortunately, they secured the position because people interested in good government awoke to late to correct the error.

A lively campaign brought out a large vote; this because there were vital issues and several candidates in the field.

However, the membership of the council will have little change in those vital policies that have been followed over the years. Of course, there will be some who, in the name of change, will be devising some programs simply to demonstrate that they deserve to be on the council. This is to be expected but they will have few supporters that get things done.

Problems in Upgrading the Hardcore Unemployed

During President Johnson's administration he persuaded several heads of business and industry to finance a program to secure employment and education for the hard core unemployed. As is true with most ventures, it has produced favorable comments and success as one would assume. Of course, it can not cure all the ills but did help most of those who wanted to be helped.

In recent months there have been slow results but there have been suggestions to phase out the program. Apparently there were those whose hopes were to high because they did not realize the depths of the problems involved.

Some of the hardcore unemployed don't want to work, some don't have the education and are unwilling to try and get it, some are not willing to go through an apprenticeship period to qualify for the jobs that are offered today. Many have taken advantage of it.

The program is certainly one in the right direction and given time to undo the knots, will go along way in helping those who unfortunately could not secure a job or were relegated to types of work beyond qualification.

Health for All

TREATING TB SOONER

A new drug — rifampin — is now in use to treat tuberculosis. Treatment of the disease, it is expected, will be speeded up even more.

"The advantage of rifampin over our other drugs is that it attacks the TB germ sooner," says Dr. Robert J. Anderson, managing director of the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. "It also looks as if it will have fewer side effects. The results should be shorter hospitalization and a more rapid return to normal life."

Rifampin was released for widespread use by the Food and Drug Administration only this May. Years of clinical experience pretesting the drug, however, show that rifampin shortens by up to 25 percent the period of hospitalization for patients with active disease. The drug is used in combination with other anti TB drugs such as isoniazid.

Many TB patients today receive most — and sometimes all — of their treatment as an outpatient, through a clinic, health center, or physician's office. For patients with minimal TB, even hospitalization for diagnosis and initiation of treatment seldom is necessary.

Although anyone can get TB, those who are not healthy in the first place — the elderly and sick — have more TB than the rest of the population. There is also more TB among the poor, whether they live in big cities or in rural areas. Too often, the poor do not have access to medical care, and TB can result in eventual death if it is not treated. Anyone with untreated active disease can spread the germs by coughing or sneezing.

This year more than 30,000 new cases of active TB are predicted in this country alone. Drugs like rifampin can help reduce the dislocation in the lives of these people. Treating TB sooner is a matter of life and breath.

Uncertainty of Iowa

Can't remember when I saw so many happy people as were in the Iowa stadium Saturday after the Hawks had dusted Wisconsin by the score you know if you heard anything about football last week end. We always have argued that football winning depends on getting two of three factors, luck, emotion, and ability on your side. Well, Iowa has always had the emotion, and Saturday the fellows got luck on the right side. That pass interference call was the Minnesota game in reverse.

The Iowa receiver couldn't have caught that ball if he had been airborne. But the two Badger defenders caught him in between them and made him stumble. Accidentally or otherwise, it was just what it was called. Then, after one play gained about a yard, an offside penalty put the apple on the two yard line, and Penny went over. And that was the turning point in the Minnesota game. A pass interference call followed by an offside penalty. Who says history doesn't repeat? But it did the crowd good to see the Hawks never quit battling, and the ovation they got when the game ended made up for a lot of disappointments. But, right in the middle of a pleasant dream comes a night mare. Michigan this week. And the Wolverines are rolling.

Iowa State

Iowa State didn't figure to stop Oklahoma, and they didn't. But they scored twice, and never stopped hustling. Reminded one of Iowa against Ohio State. But, the Cyclones have a good shot at beating the last two conference opponents on their schedule, and might give Nebraska more than a light workout. They won't be last in that league as some expert said they would. And next year they may be even tougher. Drake had their troubles, and dropped another one. Now they have to meet a Southern Illinois team that always plays well against them. They might still come up with a fine season. And possibly a minor bowl bid.

High School

Here at home, the big surprise in the Dowling-Lincoln game to us was the way Hamman ran against the Maroons in the first half. Then Dowling either adjusted to him, or else Lincoln had nobody to give him a rest, so he got tired. This is just a guess. The big fellow went both ways, and in spite of some fellows saying he couldn't play defense, came up with a few important tackles. But we would have to think that on a dry field, the Maroons might have rolled up a bigger score. Tech didn't lose this one with North. They tied, and they were as happy as if they had won. But, do you know that they scored in every game they played but one, and with just a break here and there could have won three games? They can really holler wait till next year.

I was in a store the other day when we noticed a big guy eyeing me. He looked about eight feet tall and four feet wide. Wondered why he looked like that. Finally, "Mr. Ashby, how are you?" "Fine, but do I know you from somewhere?" Yes. You used to write about me when I played football at Tech. "Ulp!" "Did I write anything good about you?" "No, I don't think you did." I wondered why I put off drawing up a will. I gave a quick rundown. Now let's see, who gets what. Then, "Well, by now I am sure you must have learned that I was never considered an expert." The guy said, "No, your criticism just made me play that much harder to prove you wrong." Then I told him about a fellow I knew who was considered to be a poor blocker, and who took his criticism to heart and wound up leading plays for his team, becoming a fine blocker, and about another fellow who was a poor defensive player who became a good linebacker because people said he wouldn't tackle. "You have to prove your point not only to other people, but also to yourself." The guy agreed, and said that was what he had learned. Then I promised to write about his nephew in about ten years if I last that long, which I doubt.
