REV. JACKSON ANNOUNCES

PUSH-New Rights Organization

Test Suburban Housing For Minorities

People United to Save Humanities; Break With Leadership Conference

New York Case Will Set National Pattern

NEW YORK — Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, sharply attacked "the emotionally charged and racist motivated actions" of opponents of the controversial Forest Hills low-rent housing project here and pledged once more to support Mayor John Lindsay's effort to bring scatter-site housing to New York City.

Mr. Wilkins, who has made the "darkening of the suburbs" the battle cry of the NAACP for the 1970's, said that even a reduction in the size of the Forest Hills project would be "hailed as a defeat for scatter-site housing." The NAACP leader headed a group of civil rights leaders who met with Mayor Lindsay on Dec. 21.

Should the project be completely halted, he maintained, other communities throughout the country would be able to effectively block all efforts to build housing for the poor outside of the ghettos.

Mr. Wilkins' stand was a reiteration of the position the NAACP has taken since the fight over the project began in the middle-class Queens community. He has strongly supported the Queens NAACP branches and the New York State Conference, which have been pushing for construction of the project.

Mr. Wilkins has noted that, despite local claims, the project will not overburden community facilities. Both the nearest elementary and junior high schools are now underpopulated and a new high school is scheduled to be completed by the time the project is finished.

William L. Miller Is Shooting Victim; Wife Accused

Mrs. Irene Miller was found in her home Wednesday, about 6:15 p.m. with a severe head wound and her husband, William, shot to death. Mrs. Miller underwent surgery early Thursday at Broadlawns Polk County Hospital.

A neighbor, expressing concern over not having seen the Millers for some time, notified officers. Forcing open a door, officers found Mrs. Miller in a first floor bathroom and Mr. Miller's body in a second floor bedroom.

According to detectives, circumstances surrounding the shootings, are at present uncertain. They declined to divulge whether or not a gun was found. Nor did they indicate the possibility of involvement of a third person or whether the shootings were committed by one of the Millers.

It was believed Miller had been dead for at least 24 hours.

buildings will occupy only 15 per cent of its 8.46 acre site. Its population density will be below the maximum set by site zoning regulations. Furthermore, fully 40 percent of the 3,000 persons that will benefit from the modern facility, will be elderly.

Mr. Wilkins said that he felt that whatever risks the project might bring are worth taking for the benefit of a healthy society.

Allowable Spending

It's all right to save money, but too many are trying to save it from people they owe it to.

Iowans Take Honors At Amherst College

AMHERST, Mass. — Two young men from Cedar Rapids are among those cited for outstanding academic achievement on the current Dean's List of Amherst College.

BRUCE ANTHONY HARRIS, son of Dr. and organizing, directing and controlling, communication, leadership and decision-making as well as the attitudes of management will be studied. All of these areas will be related to the actual working situations of those enrolled in the courses.

The women's program, "Administrative Supervision for Women," beginning January 25 and continuing to May 3, is designed to assist female employees in first-line supervisory positions, or above, who are employed in business, social agencies and local, state and federal governmental positions.

The program for minority employees, "Management Career Development," beginning January 27 and continuing through May 5, is designed to increase the advancement potential for participants interested in supervisory and administrative positions.

The instructional staff for both courses will be led by Dr. James J. Chastain, who teaches both undergraduate and graduate management courses in the College of Business Administration.

Additional instructors for the two courses will be drawn from Drake's faculty and administrative staff and will also include other management teachers, practicing managers and administrators.

Mrs. Percy G. Harris of 3626 Bever Avenue, S.E., came to Amherst as a National Merit Scholar and an honor graduate of George Washington Senior High School. At Amherst, he has been previously cited on the Dean's List, is a member of the Afro-American Society, and has served on the College Council.

ABBOTT BENNETT LIPSKY, Jr., a senior honors candidate in physics, has consistently been cited on the Dean's List and has been involved with musical and rock groups in the area. A 1967 honor graduate from Phillips Exeter (N.H.) Academy, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Bennett Lipsky of 655 Cottage Grove Avenue, S.E. His mother is Republican representative in the State legislature from Linn County.

Black G. C. P. Officials Meet In Washington

Washington, Dec. 20 — The White House is organizing black Republicans who hold high state office into a political propaganda network to help sell President Nixon's civil rights record to the voters in 1972.

Last Week A dozen black officials from nine states that have Republican Governors held a day-long conference Dec. 16 with Harry S. Dent, one of the President's chief political lieutenants, and other White House aides for a full dress briefing on the Administration's efforts on behalf of minorities.

Mr. Dent told them, some of the black Republicans reported later, that the President and his runningmate would "go after the minorities vote" in the campaign next year, but he did not set any percentage of Negro or other voters as a goal.

In 1968, Mr. Nixon received an estimated 12 per cent of the non-white vote against 85 per cent for Senator Hubert H. Humphrey. But that was a considerable improvement over 1964, when 94 per cent of nonwhites supported President Johnson over Senator Barry Goldwater.

New Yorkers Present

Attending the meeting from New York today were Mrs. Ersa Poston, president of the State Civil Service Commission; Samuel Singletary, special assistant to Governor Rockefeller; and John Silvera, deputy commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights.

Robert Brown, special assistant to the President, predicted that in 1972 the Republican candidates would sound a different note than they did in 1968 on issues involving economic and political advancement for racial minorities.

Other states represented at the meeting were California, Delaware, Illinois, Michigan, Virginia and Washington.

CAR-TEST & POLLUTION

Washington — Dr. John T. Middleton, director of the air-pollution-control office of the Environmental Protection Agency, reported that European auto makers have developed test vehicles apparently able to meet the United States' 1975 and 1976 emission standards.

NEWS In A Nutshell

RALEIGH, N. C. — More than 5,000 black students came together here recently to voice their opposition to the state's new college reorganization plan. If enacted, it would mean the end of racially identifiable schools in North Carolina.

LAUREL, Miss. — A three-month strike has won a pay increase for 2,500 woodcutters who supply wood to the big paper mills in Southern Mississippi.

The strike also forced the Masonite hardboard plant in Laurel to restore a pay cut put into effect on Sept. 1. Woodcutters said the pay cut had amounted to a 20 to 25 per cent reduction in the price paid for logs.

MINERAL BLUFFS, Ga. — The hill country of north Georgia was the scene of one of the most determined strikes of the 1960's — by women employed at the Levi Strauss plant in the small town of Blue Ridge.

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Basil A. Paterson, recent candidate for the office of New York Lieutenant Governor and former State Senator from Harlem, was named president, last week, of the Center for Mediation and Conflict Resolution, effective January 1, 1972.

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The Institute of International Education, a private non-profit organization, has awarded grants under its Black Artists Project enabling five young artists of the black community in New York City to go overseas to the country of their choice for a two-to-three-month study and observation experience.

The overall thrust of the new group, he said, is to "challenge the oppressive, economic, political, and social forces and to obtain our goals through the research, education, development and execution

Chicago, Illinois — Breaking away from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and Opportunity Breadbasket, in particular, Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, has started a new movement.

Development of a comprehensive economic plan for the black and poor that will solicit aid from the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund and a "Survival Bill of Rights" for children and the elderly are part of a 12-point platform of Operation PUSH, a new civil rights organization being formed here by the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, the Sengstacke Newspapers learned exclusively.

Mr. Jackson former national director of Operation Breadbasket, the economic department of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said the new organization's platform will be publicly announced in a community meeting Saturday at the Met Theater, 4644 S. King Dr., when Operation PUSH (People United To Save Humanity) will be officially established.

Last week's initial meeting of the new group was attended by more than 3,000 persons, including a number of nationally prominent blacks who have pledged financial and professional support to Mr. Jackson. The Christmas meeting will also kick off a membership drive for Operation PUSH, which Mr. Jackson said will encompass national and international direct action programs to upgrade economic, health, education and labor conditions among the poor. Following the meeting, Mr. Jackson and a group of volunteer workers will visit the Cook County jail and distribute gifts.

The overall thrust of the new group, he said, is to "challenge the oppressive, economic, political, and social forces and to obtain our goals through the research, education, development and execution of direct action programs that provide for an economic, political and cultural democracy."

Although Operation PUSH will be based in Chicago, chapters will be set up across the nation. Unified economic and social efforts will also be sought with African nations, Mr. Jackson stated.

Political activities, such as mass voter registration and education, are expected to be intensified as one of the organization's first local projects. Mr. Jackson said those plans will be outlined at Saturday's meeting.

The 12-point platform is:

1. PUSH for comprehensive economic plan for the development of black and poor people. This plan will include status as underdeveloped enclaves entitled to consideration by the world bank and the International Monetary Fund;

2. PUSH for the revival of the labor movement to protect the organized workers and to organize unorganized workers;

3. PUSH for humane alternatives to the welfare system;

4. PUSH for a Survival Bill of Rights for all children up to the age of 18, guaranteeing their food, clothing, shelter, medical care and education;

5. PUSH for a Survival Bill of Rights for the aging, guaranteeing adequate food, clothing, shelter, medical care and meaningful programs;

6. PUSH for full political participation including automatic voter registration as a right of citizenship;

7. PUSH to elect to local, state and federal offices persons committed to humane economic and social programs;

8. PUSH for humane conditions in prisons and sound rehabilitation programs;

9. PUSH for a Bill of Rights for veterans whose

The Learning Center, Inc. Newest Education Agency

Des Moines has a new educational agency which presents an entirely new approach to solving the so-called "learning problem" among youth prevalent in any community. The organization is The Learning Center, Inc., 2217 Forest Ave., a private enterprise, less than a year old.

The center's goal is to supplement and reinforce a youngster's classroom instruction and so help them derive as much from school as possible.

The center is staffed by skilled educational professionals and para-professionals.

These ascertain the individual's learning strengths and weaknesses. Interviewing and private instruction sessions, complete with the use of various resource modes and educational equipment, are conducted. The equipment includes The Welsh Auto Tutor, The Craig Reader, The Language Master, and a full complement of International Learning Company's pre-formatted Audio Tape Programs.

Learning is accomplished in small groups of 4 to 5 children during the first half of the session. The last half involves placing the youngster on an individually prescribed learning activities program called a "lap". In larger terms, he is now on the road to attaining his maximum learning potential.

The system creates a positive inter-play between the child, family, school and center.

The center's founder is Gerald Eshelman, a lifetime resident of Des Moines. Having long noted the need for a service of this kind, in 1970, he undertook the organization and establishment of the center's concept.

During the summer of 1971, he met and employed Betty Jean Jones, a January 1970 graduate of Drake University. She is now director of The Learning Center, Inc.

Hopes For 1972

We, like many others, are inclined to make resolutions for the New Year and therefore have some suggestions as to what we would like to see accomplished in 1972.

The Bystander hopes for:

First — a total winding down of the war in Viet Nam.

Two — Less racial tensions brought on by irresponsible black and whites, educated and uneducated.

Three — Less greed and avarious exemplified by the unreasonable inflation which picks the pocketbook of too many people.

Four — More respect for the rights of individuals with equal regard for those of each other.

Five — Less coddling of criminals by public officials pledged to enforce the law and others whose activities tend to glorify the criminal rather than law abiding citizen.

Six — Equal opportunity for all for an education, training, and employment with an even chance for merit advancement.

Seven — Enforcement of the law such will as enable citizens to go and come on the public streets without being molested, assaulted and/or robbed.

While all these suggestions cannot be accomplished overnight an honest try would be a move in the right direction. They are the basis in touch with our daily life. The failure to practice them has contributed materially to the unsettled condition of the country today.

May 1972 bring some improvement and it will if we practice the fundamentals of decency which our parents taught us at an early age.

Unfortunate Division Among Rights Groups

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference, much to the surprise of most people, is the parent body of Opportunity Breadbasket of Chicago, Illinois which has been headed by Rev. Jesse Jackson.

Under the rules of the parent organization Operation Breadbasket is required to remit a percentage of the net proceeds from operations. In 1970 SCLC received $11,000 most of it coming from the Operation Expo. In 1971 Afro Expo was the largest ever held and yet SCLC has not received any money from it.

Black Expo has been conducted by Operation Breadbasket. Recently Rev. Jackson has organized new corporations designed to do the same work as Operation Breadbasket independently of SCLC. It is reported that some of the Chicago backers dislike the practice of raising money in Chicago and sending it to Atlanta.

It is unfortunate for SCLC that this controversy has arisen heralding the opening of sores that may never heal. Most such organizations exist because of the personality of their organizers or a few immediate successors.

SCLC, under the leadership of its founder, the late Dr. Martin Luther King and its successor, to a lesser degree, Dr. Abernathy, has done much good. No organization can escape criticism from time to time but few can stand the consequences in fighting which can ruin any organization.

Much is being said about black solidarity these days. Intelligently handled, it has value. Certainly controversy within the top operators does not set a good example.

Hoffa Earned His Release

James Hoffa, who at one time was president of the Teamsters Union and who was convicted in the federal court of jury tampering and sentenced to a total of thirteen years, has been released on parole.

Much vindictive pressure has been heaped upon Hoffa by those federal officials who prosecuted him. True, his crime was dispicable, but he served sufficient time to earn a parole far in excess of other prisoners today. He gave no trouble to the officials in the prison.

We think Hoffa has served a fair share for his crime and is entitled to be released that he may prove to society that he wishes to reenter private life as a law abiding citizen.

Health for All

BETTER BREATHE OUT
Better watch out. Better not pout.

For weeks before Christmas, the Santa Claus set is close to angelic. Nobody wants to risk wracking up a stack of goodies. But tantrums and fury can creep in as the Santa season fades away.

Breath-holding is a not-so-uncommon tantrum technique among youngsters from the ages of six months to five years. Some youngsters, in fact, have as many as five to ten breath-holding sessions a day.

According to Dr. Samuel Livingston of the John Hopkins University School of Medicine, breath-holding is often triggered by an emotionally disturbing incident. If the child gets results, he uses it again and again. Dr. Livingston, who has studied hundreds of children with this problem, says the child usually gives two or three short, loud, violent cries. Then he stops breathing.

In severe breath-holding spells, the child may actually turn blue, particularly around the lips. He may also become rigid, lose consciousness and precipitate a convulsion. The trauma can terrify parents.

In spite of appearances, however, Dr. Livingston says breath-holding is really quite harmless. The seizures should not, he says, be considered epileptic. And our respiratory center simply forces us to breathe

THE YEAR, 1971

The year was quite a year for most of us. It began when we hoped Drake would make it into the finals of the NCAA basketball meet again. Then there was the annual Golden Gloves meet. People who should know because they see the guy most of the time, tell us that Lamont Lovelady has the stuff to become one of the best amateur fighters around the country, and could become big time professional if he would work at it, according to a couple of former boxers who know what they are talking about.

There was the Drake Relays show that was one of the best, and the surprising manner in which our local high schools fell behind the rest of the state in all round strength, track, that is. Then we hoped North would come through in the state cage meet, but they had one of their rare bad games, and that was fatal. And they knew they were a better team than that. This was the year that black swimmers began to be noticed in our local high schools, even though some had been around before they were noticed. The two Brewton brothers came up one after another, and their dad, Cecil was a good water sports man in his day, but one didn't hear too much about him. Our Hilltop tennis meet went over, but do you know that meet is getting to be a little bit better each year. Don't know how long it will go on.

High School Rating

Then there was the annual battle between Dowling and East Waterloo for the number one spot in the state high school ratings, but this time Heelan of Sioux City slipped into the picture by beating Dowling, and getting rated tops on one poll, while the Trojans were head on the other. People suspected that the raters just got tired of putting East up there. But there will soon be a playoff and then we shall see who is who. We suffered with Iowa U as they nearly didn't win a game in football, and managed to see Iowa State as they climaxed their best season in school history. Then Drake had a fine year in the Valley after being out for so long.

Among local schools, Lincoln's Phil Hayman deserved top all state honors, or so we thought. But the pickers put him on the second team. We were sure hoping that Tech could come up with one win, and they nearly did. In fact, with just a couple of breaks the Engineers could have won three games. The other schools were just scrambling, although Roosevelt looked pretty good at times. Now comes the basketball season, and as we write this Tech hasn't lost a game. But they have a rough row to hoe in Roosevelt, Lincoln and North.

after a few minutes. The best attitude for parents to take, the doctor advises, is one of "purposeful neglect" to prevent the child from using these spells to dominate the family. In extreme cases, psychiatric guidance may be helpful.

Your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association has no hints on how to bring up children. But they do have a great deal of information on breathing and how the lungs work. Check with them. And use Christmas Seals.

that was just what it was. The surprising thing about that one was the fact that All made no excuses for losing, although some ringsiders say it could have gone either way. He probably made more friends by losing than he might have made by winning. That was the moment that millions of fight fans and people who were not fight fans had waited for. We can't recall a time when emotions were so high among people who would probably never see the fight. People acted as if that fight were to settle the fate of the world or something.

Tennis
We would have liked to see Arthur Ashe really put it out in tennis, and maybe he might have done a little better, although he didn't do badly. But he explained it by saying that he wasn't going to let tennis come between him and some of the things he wanted to do, and apparently he didn't. The four time women's singles champion of the ATA was finally recognized, and will get to play a series of matches against some of the better USLTA players. We know that the ATA has its very useful purpose in bringing up young players, and that is reason enough for its program. But now other people are getting into the act. Here at home there is a young fellow who plans to have a clinic for black youth next summer, and all over the country white people young and old are trying to find some more fellows who can play like Ashe or mabe Althea Gibson. And who knows, this may be the year that golf powers find a way to get a black player into the Masters, even if he doesn't do a thing. Yes, it was some year, and this one may get better.

successful fund-raising campaign since the Caucus' first benefit dinner this summer in Washington, D.C. The benefit indicated a momentum gradually being gained by the Caucus as a major Black political voice.

The dinner, held in Nashville's Municipal Auditorium (December 11, 1971), boasted of about 1000 guests. Among them were congressmen Ronald V. Dellums, Ralph H. Metcalfe, and Louis Stokes.

Mrs. Fannie Lou Hamer, a one-time contender for Mississippi's U.S. Senate seat, was guest speaker. Comedian Bill Cosby was emcee.

The Stax Organization (Memphis), as part of its community interest in the state of Tennessee, presented artists Kim Weston and the Emotions who rendered numbers "Lift Every Voice And Sing" (the Black National Anthem) and "Show Me How," respectively. Also, listed on the entertainment itinerary were Jerry Butler and Sons of Slum. These artists, who donated both their time and talents to the benefit, were paid a special tribute by Congressman Dellums.

Looking For 100 Millionth Ph

This week, in Des Moines, some new telephones will be installed — and one of them could be the Bell System's 100 millionth.

The Bell System isn't trying to find out precisely which of the thousands of new phones connected this week throughout the nation will mark this milestone.

"What's important is that connecting the 100 millionth telephone signifies that we have virtually achieved a long-sought goal — universal telephone service in the United States," said R. A. Reed, Northwestern Bell District Manager - Customer Relations.

The goal of universal service was set by the first president of AT & T, Theodore N. Vail, in 1908 when Bell had only four million subscribers. He said that the public could best be served by "one system, one policy and universal service" and set about organizing the fledgling Bell System under that banner.

Reed thinks the growth in telephones, however, will continue at much the same pace as it has since World War II. At that time, 71 years after the phone was invented, the Bell System had 25 million phones. Now, only 25 years later, that figure has quadrupled and by the end of the decade the number of Bell phones will approach 150 million.

Here in Des Moines, the post-World War II era has seen the number of phones grow from 87,000 in 1950 to 224,000 today.

Reed says that the number of phones in Des Moines will reach 150,000 by the end of the decade.
