Questions City Complies With Rights Act

Holds Passport; Says Refusal Violation Of USA/SA Visa Agreement

Employment Is Involved

The City of Des Moines has been reminded by the executive director of the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights that one of the requirements of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is that of a workable program of equal opportunity shall prevail.

Last year the component under equal opportunity was accepted by HUD, he said, but for the coming year they are requiring more than the equal opportunity statement. A program of action that will insure minorities not only equal job opportunities but upgrading on the job and the awarding of contracts to minorities in all areas is required.

Program Can Work
Staff members of the Rights Commission will be meeting with the departments, the major and city manager to discuss those changes recommended by HUD and at this point he sees no problem in the City doing what is necessary to insure that equal opportunity is not a slogan but a reality.

Two Accused Of Assault

Robert Lee Huston and Raymond Shade were arrested in Union Park Monday night upon complaint by a young woman that they had attempted to assault her.

Police said the girl told them she was walking near Union Park, E. Ninth Street and Jefferson Avenue, about 9:30 p.m. when two men grabbed her by her arms, pulled her into the park and allegedly tried to rape her.

Her screams attracted police officers who found the girl in the center of the park. Huston and shade, who were arrested in the park, pleaded innocent Tuesday in Municipal Court. Judge Luther T. Glanton, Jr., set their bonds at $3,000 pending hearings Jan. 19.

They entered a plea of not guilty and were released on $3,000 bond.

ST. LOUIS, MO. — The board of curators of the University of Missouri approved appointment of Dr. Arvarh E. Strickland as special assistant to the chancellor of the University of Missouri - Columbia.

IT MEANT SO MUCH TO THEM.....

NEWS In A Nutshell

WILBERFORCE, OHIO — David Rockefeller, Chairman of the Board of the Chase Manhattan Bank, announced today that Wilberforce University of Wilberforce, Ohio has been selected as the Chase Manhattan Bank Foundation's recipient of the Recognition Grant for 1971. This distinction, in addition to national recognition, brings to Wilberforce the Recognition Grant of $30,000.

KANSAS CITY — For Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lofton, 24, divine custody of Lisa, 4, Crella, 2, and Joseph Jr., 18 months, was ended Monday, Jan. 3, when fire swept their home about 2 a.m., trapping the three children in an upstairs bedroom from which no rescue could be made.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Department of Justice filed civil suits today charging the owners of two bars in Louisiana with discriminating against Negro patrons. Attorney General John N. Mitchell said the suits, which charged violations of the public accommodations section of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, were filed in U. S. District Court in New Orleans.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., says her Presidential hopes are not going to get the backing of the power structure because she is black and a woman — but she's not necessarily going to support the power structure.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — A three-judge federal panel adopted a black-sponsored reapportionment plan which divides the Alabama legislature into single-member districts and which supporters claim could put as many as 20 more blacks in the legislature.

INDIANOLA, IA. — A survey released today by the American Council on Education indicates that the percentage of freshmen at Simpson College who consider themselves political liberals, made "A" grades in high school and were high school student leaders is substantially higher than the national norm of freshmen questioned at 326 institutions across the nation.

TAMPA, Fla. — A black man and woman, carrying a small child, hijacked a plane over California, forced it to fly to Tampa, and then on to Cuba.

The federal Aviation Agency said the plane, with nine crew members aboard, landed in Cuba Friday.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Attorney General John N. Mitchell announced today that two Florida men have been indicted on federal charges of holding at least nine farm workers in peonage and involuntary servitude in South Carolina.

LONDON, England — Representative Charles C. Diggs, of Michigan, Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee on Africa has again been refused admittance to Namibia by South Africa. Incensed over this conduct he has sent the following telegram to President Nixon:

"The refusal of the South African Government to permit my entry into Namibia for the second time is of utmost concern. In fact, refusal of my reentry into South Africa despite possession of valid multi-entry visa is serious violation of US-SA Visa Agreement. Mere US protest of this unprecedented action against one of its government officials is an insufficient response and most unsatisfactory to me. Such a wrist slapping has no meaning to SAG and will be interpreted as empty gesture.

"A strong action is required. Since the US Ambassador to South Africa is in Washington, I urge that he be instructed to remain in US for 'consultation', at least for 90 days, and beyond that period of SAG does not indicate it is prepared, in all cases, to honor its visa agreement."

To state department
Prior to his departure from London, Congressman Diggs sent the following message regarding Southern Rhodesia to the President and the Secretary of State:

"I am calling on my government: (1) to refuse entry into the U.S. of Rhodesians who support or represent the Smith regime, and this would particularly include the Rhodesian Information Service; (2) to be mindful of the clear inferences of this action by the Smith regime on the acceptability to the people of Zimbabwe of the Settlement Proposals; (3) to continue to recognize the Security Council's Authority in this matter, and thus refrain from any economic or political relations with that regime."

Former UN Delegate
Representative Diggs was a U.S. Delegate to the United Nations prior to his resignation a few weeks ago. He complained that the United States had not shown sensitivity to the needs of human rights of under privileged nations and people.

U. S. Files Suit In Miss. Payroll Case

MONTGOMERY, January 4 — The NAACP today brought suit to integrate Alabama's state troopers. A job market of one thousand jobs will be opened to blacks if the suit succeeds, according to NAACP state president Thomas Reed.

The complaint, filed in U.S. District Court, charges that the Department of Public Safety (employer of the state troopers) systematically excludes Negroes from its payroll. Not one Negro has ever held a position in the Department in thirty-seven years.

The NAACP is represented in the case by attorneys of the Southern Poverty Law Center, a Montgomery-based group.

Reed, a member of Alabama's legislature (Macon, Bullock and Barber Counties), had earlier sought to integrate the state troopers by proposing an amendment to a pending bill. The bill would expand the force by one hundred men; Reed's amendment, stipulating that the new troopers be black, was defeated.

An added incentive in the case stems from the fact that state troopers have been used in the past to suppress demonstrations by Negroes for civil rights — notably, at the Selma Bridge during Martin Luther King's march, and in Tuskegee during attempts to integrate public schools.

As state president of the NAACP, Reed heads an organization of several thousand citizens, mostly blacks, pledged to eliminate racial prejudice and discrimination. In the new suit, the group seeks a ruling whereby all new appointments to the state troopers would be made to Negroes, until the Department's racial balance equals that of the state.

Angela Davis Is Hospitalized

SAN JOSE, Calif. — Angela Davis was hospitalized Friday for tests by both "doctors and dentists," her attorney said, and also is suffering from a mysterious "coldness in lower extremities."

Howard Moore, chief defense counsel for the 27-year-old black militant who is on trial for murder and kidnapping, Jan. 31, refused to define the illness for which the tests were being carried out.

Moore told a news conference he would decide Monday whether to ask for another change of venue for Miss Davis' trial, strongly indicating he would do so.

He noted the defense, which had wanted the trial moved out of Marin County, had consistently objected to its new location in San Jose "all along."

He said the decision would be made after defense attorneys meet with presiding Judge Richard Aronson.

Neighborhood Priority

Boards To Hold

Planning Conference

A Planning Conference for the 109 members of Neighborhood Priority Boards for the Des Moines Community Development Program will be held Friday, Saturday and Monday (Jan. 14, 15 and 17) at the Des Moines Area Community College at Ankeny.

Iowa Governor Robert D. Ray will speak at the opening session, which begins at 9:30 a.m. on Friday.

During the morning and afternoon the six Neighborhood Priority Boards will meet in separate sessions to discuss problems and ways of solving them.

Experts in various social welfare and physical improvement fields will be on hand to explain how individuals working in their fields can contribute to neighborhood development programs.

The six "prime service" areas for the Community Development Program, which is the new, city-wide Model City program, are Four Mile, Logan, Model City, Pioneer - Columbus, Southeast and Woodland - Willkie.

The Community Development Program is financed with a $5.8 million grant from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

At the Friday evening session, which begins at 7:30 p.m., each neighborhood board will meet separately to analyze causes of neighborhood problems and determine which are most serious.

At the Saturday morning session, which begins at 10 a.m., there will be a joint meeting of the boards. The chairman of each Neighborhood Board will present the findings his board made the previous day.

During the afternoon session, which begins at 2 p.m., the Neighborhood Board members will break up into separate groups to develop both short- and long-range goals.

At the Saturday evening session, which begins at 7:30 p.m., there will be separate board meetings to discuss how to achieve short-term goals and what limitations may be imposed by such things as the amount of funds available.

On Sunday evening, each board will meet with residents of its individual service area to present the goals that have been developed at the conference.

When the conference resumes at 9 a.m. Monday at the Community College, the boards will complete development of strategies for attaining the goals. It is anticipated that each board will identify four or five major problems and a number of lesser ones.

Following the conference the boards are to place their priorities in final form for presentation to the Central Advisory Board.

The Central Board is to use priorities established by the neighborhood boards as guides in formulating a comprehensive plan to present to the Des Moines City Council.

Dedication Ceremonies Set Feb. 14th To Open Frederick Douglass Home

The Frederick Douglass Home, undergoing restoration since 1970, will be formally dedicated and opened to the public at ceremonies scheduled at 11 a.m. February 14.

In making the announcement, Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton said the home's dedication honors the internationally known 19th-century statesman, equal rights leader, orator and educator, as well as officially opening the home as a unit of the National Park system.

"Frederick Douglass' achievements in his prophetic vision made him one of the great Americans whose heritage all of us share," Secretary Morton said.

"Under President Nixon's mandate to promote the preservation of our historic legacy, it is appropriate that all Americans now will be able to visit the home of a man who never hesitated to remind us that our future demands that we strive constantly to be a united people," the Secretary said.

Also known as Cedar Hill, the 19-room home overlooks the Anacostia River; and much of the Nation's Capital can be seen from its eight-acre site at 14th and W Streets, Southeast.

Dedication
The dedication ceremony is being conducted cooperatively by the efforts from June, 1970 to June, 1971 by the National Urban League's Consumer Health Education and Training Program.

Restoration of the two-story brick home and many of Douglass' furnishings and

Department of the Interior's National Park Service, which administers the site, and the Frederick Douglass Memorial and Historical Association.

Participants will include Mrs. Mary E. Gregory, president, Frederick Douglass Memorial and Historical Association; Mrs. Georgia Anderson, president, Washington — Area Chapter of the National Association of Colored Women's Clubs; and other local and national "friends of Douglass."

Cedar Hill, purchased by Douglass in 1877 and built in stages from about 1855 to 1892, became a part of the National Park system in 1962 through an Act of Congress (PL 87-633). Full-scale restoration of the home and its furnishings began in 1970 after Congress authorized over $400,000 for this purpose in November of 1969.

Douglass spent the later years of his life there until he died in 1895.

To preserve the home in honor of Douglass, Helen Pitts Douglass, the orator's second wife, organized the Memorial and Historical Association, chartered by Congress in 1900.

In 1916, the association joined with the National Association of Colored Women's Clubs, and the estate and house were opened briefly to the public. Continued preservation of the house was assured in 1962 by Congress when it entrusted the National Park Service with the care of the home and its contents.

Restoration of the two-story brick home and many of Douglass' furnishings and personal belongings was done by the National Park Service.

The dedication ceremonies and opening of Cedar Hill come as one of the first major milestones during the Centennial Celebration of the National Park Service which is celebrating its 100th anniversary during 1972.

Mugging Delays Presentation Of Life Membership Plaque

NEW YORK — Presentation of an NAACP life membership plaque to the popular Stapel Singers, scheduled for Jan. 5 at the Apollo Theatre here, has been postponed due to the theft of the essential text of the plaque two nights before the planned presentation.

Also stolen were the text of $500 life membership certificates for Flip Wilson and Isaac Hayes, stars in the entertainment field, and of Al Bell, owner of Stax Records. The immediate victim of the theft was William Auslander of Geyer Studio who was mugged in Flushing, Queens, on the evening of Jan. 3, while taking the certificates to a shop for lamination. The thieves took his money and the certificates.

NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins, who was scheduled to make the presentation to the Stapel Singers, expressed regret that the incident had necessitated postponement of the event. He said he looked forward to making the presentation at a convenient later date. He also expressed appreciation for "the growing number of people in the entertainment world who are indicating their support of the NAACP program by taking out life memberships in our organization."

REGINALD HARVEY

In a letter, dated January 4, 1972, to UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins cited an Association resolution in support of the plea of the Papuans and urged "that this resolution, and the problem with which it deals, be formally considered by the United Nations, including movement to a policy decision by the Security Council and the General Assembly."

Northwestern Bell Tells About 1971

In 1971 it was more phones, more calls, more money invested in buildings and equipment than in 1970, says Jack A. MacAllister, Northwestern Bell's vice president and general manager for Iowa.

MacAllister released the company's year-end figures and noted that at the end of 1971 the company served 1,178,000 Iowa telephones in 230 communities - a gain of 46,000 phones over 1970.

During 1971, Iowans served by Northwestern Bell placed an average of 5,300,000 local calls every day - up 300,000 over 1970. Additionally, Iowans made nearly 116,500,000 long distance calls during the year - a 5.9 per cent increase.

New construction accounted for $67 million in 1971, up from $65 million in 1970. That amount will jump to approximately $83.6 million for the 1972 construction program and is expected to total over $500 million for the next five years.

Northwestern Bell continued to "go underground" in 1971 by replacing aerial wires with buried telephone cable. More than 30,000 telephone poles were removed, with about 1,450 miles of underground cable being installed.

MacAllister noted underground cable's two main advantages - providing service virtually free from storm damage and improving community and countryside appearance with elimination of many poles and wires.

Equal Employment

On April 16, 1971, Northwestern Bell took a significant step in the field of equal employment opportunity when its Affirmative Action Program was signed into effect. "The new program states specific goals and actions through which we'll further our continuing positive approach to equal employment opportunity," MacAllister said. "We have increased the number and improved the utilization of minority group people and women, but we recognize that more must be done. We believe we've been a leader in this field and we want to remain in that position."

DEDICATED SUNDAY, JANUARY 9

In 1918, the members of St. Paul A.M.E. Church marched from its location at Second and Center Streets to its new location at 12th and Crocker Streets under the leadership of the late Rev. S. L. Birt. There they worshipped and served the community until a new church was constructed. On January 9, 1972, led by Rev. Henderson Davis, the congregation departed from 12th and Crocker Streets marching to its new location, at 12th and Day streets.

Enroute, as the parade passed Corinthian Baptist Church its congregation under the leadership of Rev. F. W. Strickland, sang a God Speed number wishing them well in their new location.

The dedication service was held at 10:25 a.m. when the Rt. Rev. Howard Thomas Primm delivered the dedicatory sermon.

The dedication program is continuing throughout the week which will be reported fully in the next issue of the Bystander.

URBAN MINISTRY

The Urban Ministry concept is the outgrowth and project of The Commission on Religion and Race of the former Council of Churches of Scott and Rock Island Counties. The purpose and design for Urban Ministry is as follows:

An ordained Negro clergyman of a cooperating denomination with the National Council of Churches is being called by the Executive Board as Director of Urban Ministry to work with the Commission on Religion and Race supported by funds from Denominational Jurisdictions.

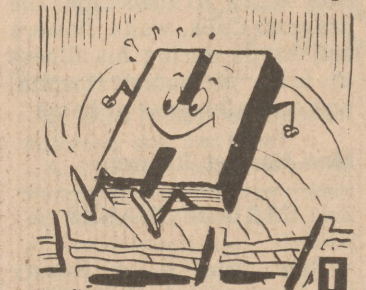

In May of 1969, the Rev. Clarence Monroe Savoy and family (Florence and Darlene, age 5 years) answered the call to serve as Director of Urban Ministry. The Savoy's have served in Georgia, North Carolina and New Jersey as an ordained minister of The Christian Methodist Episcopal Church.

HISTORY OF THE "H"

The letter "H" may have started as a picture sign of a fence, such as is found in a very early Semitic writing which was used about 1500 B.C. on the Sinai Peninsula. Beginning about 1000 B.C. in the city of Byblos and in other Phoenician and Canaanite centers, the sign was given a linear form from which all later forms are derived.

When the Greeks borrowed the alphabet from the Phoenicians, they named the sign eta and used it for the consonant "h" and the long vowel "e". The Romans then took over the form "H" with the sound value of the English "h." The capital letter came into English unchanged from the Latin.

A small Greek eta with curves was developed from the capital letter. By the 9th century the corresponding Latin letter, which indicated the sound, "h," acquired a shape much like the English handwritten and printed small "h."

The letter "h" begins many words today such as "help," "hope," "happy," "house" and "homework." It is also the initial of the name "Hermes," a company whose product is helping many youngsters to get better grades on their homework. Regarded by many as the finest portable typewriter, the Hermes 3000 is the ideal gift for a youngster on his way back to school.

For more information about this rugged, precision engineered "homework organizer," write to: Hermes-H. Paillard, Inc., 1900 Lower Road, Linden, New Jersey, 07036.

Is It Rarebit Or Rabbit?

Cheese Rabbit

There are die-hards who insist that Rabbit is the proper word for a Cheese Rabbit. A complete break with tradition is this recipe for Cheese Rabbit. Rabbit which also doubles as a cheese sauce. It is made with Spin Blend salad dressing available in this area. The dressing is especially noted because it contains 1/4 less oil than most dressing, gives an extra creamy smoothness to the Rabbit, and because it has a light and lively flavor there is little else needed to flavor either the sauce or the Rabbit.

Gradually stir milk into salad dressing. Add cheese and paprika. Stir over low heat until heated. Serve over toast. Makes about 1 cup, enough for 2 servings.

Cheese Sauce: Follow recipe for Cheese Rabbit increasing milk to 1/2 cup, decreasing salad dressing to 1/4 cup and decreasing cheese to 1/2 cup. Serve over freshly cooked vegetables such as carrots and broccoli.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. What color of personal stationery is in best taste?

A. You can never be wrong with plain white stationery, since this is correct for ANY kind of correspondence. Colored paper, for instance, should never be used for really formal correspondence, and this includes letters of condolence, appreciation, application for employment, and the acknowledgment of formal invitations.

Q. Who pays for the corsages worn by both mothers at a wedding?

A. While in some communities the bridegroom usually pays for both, it is usually customary for the husbands to buy these corsages worn by their wives.

Q. Is it ever permissible under any circumstances to use the knife to convey food to the mouth?

A. Never, NEVER! The knife is for cutting only.

Q. When a girl becomes engaged, is it proper for her to show her ring around to her friends, or should she wait for them to ask to see it?

A. Who can question a girl's happiness over her engagement, and her eagerness to display her ring? There is no question of propriety here.

Q. Does a divorcee mail out engraved invitations to her second wedding?

A. Definitely not. This should be an informal wedding with only relatives and close friends in attendance, and the invitations should be either in the form of handwritten notes from the bride herself or her mother, or if the guest list is small, by telephone.

Q. When mailing birthday greeting cards to women whom my husband knows only slightly, am I supposed to sign both our names, or just mine alone?

A. Since these are your own personal friends, you need not include your husband's name.

Q. Is there any polite way to rinse your fingers at the dinner table when there's no finger bowl provided?

A. It is permissible to tip the water glass against a corner of your napkin, and then wipe your fingers on this damp corner.

Q. Whenever I have especially enjoyed a date with a young man, would it be proper for me to invite him to call me again soon?

A. I think this would be a perfectly natural and proper thing to do.

The executive secretary of the Des Moines Commission on Human Rights has called to the attention of city government that it is not complying with the Equal Employment Act. Specifically, the city receives grants from the federal government which requires the minorities be employed in places where these funds are expended. The city has a poor record of employment to date. There are many departments where no Negroes are employed and some where there are less than ten employed several years ago. The state is not innocent.

The personnel of the city is secured through the civil service commission following examinations which everybody is supposed to pass. However, over the years, the city departments have hired people prior to examinations and when the tests were given were in a position to far out distance those who had not had an opportunity to work in the job to which they had aspired.

For the years, civil rights organizations in the city have complained about this but got little help from the city fathers. Now that the federal government is looking over their shoulders with a possibility of jeopardizing some of their grants, undoubtedly some attention will be given to these complaints.

Thieving By High Officials

Today the federal government is being plagued by theft of trusted employee of secret documents. They attempt to justify their acts on the grounds that "the people have a right to know" and never admit that they are guilty of a crime.

Stealing from the government is even more reprehensible than that of a fellow who steals to eat even though he is able bodied man.

These people should be prosecuted to the limit and if found guilty made to serve their time for it.

Such acts will not be stopped by sending the defendants to a psychiatrist to see why he did it.

All Players Must Obey The Rules

Sports today is big business. It requires playing the game by management, the fans and the players. With the participants, it is team work that makes a time click.

Iowans were surprised when it was learned that the Iowa State basketball coach had dismissed Mack for failure to attend meeting prior to the Oklahoma game last week.

Some are inclined to look upon this as racial discrimination. Far be it from that.

Few coaches have played more black students than Morey John. He has not hesitated to recruit them.

And the fact that he dismissed his top player, taking a chance on weakening the club, is evidence that the action was purely a matter of discipline.

People, young and old, must learn that rules are made to govern society in any undertaking and that unless complied with it brings chaos to the situation.

(Too late to make a change in the makeup of the editorial page, coach Maury John has allowed Mack to return to the squad with the promise that he would cooperate fully with the program and play an all out game in the future.)

Health for All

An electric chair to measure how much the lungs heal when a smoker quits? Sounds improbable. But it exists.

At the University of California's San Diego Medical School, researchers have set up a box they describe as a modern sedan chair with a glass door. A breathing tube is in the box as well as $10,000 worth of electronic equipment. All a person does is sit inside and blow into the tube. Lights on a computer board indicate the amount of resistance in the lungs.

Resistance is the amount of blockage that takes place in the lungs and the bronchial tubes because of smoking. The resistance changes when smoking stops. "The device will have the same effect on a smoker as a scale does for someone on a diet," says Dr. G. M. Tisis, head of pulmonary research at the Medical School. "It shows what goes on inside the lungs when you give up smoking."

The pilot project is funded by the Smoking Research organization of San Diego and involves 30 university hospital employees who are trying to quit smoking.

Just one cigarette slows down the cilia, the tiny hair-like structures that keep your lungs clean and ward off infection. Years of smoking wipe out the columnar cells as well as the cilia attached to the cells. But after a few months of not smoking—if the disease process is not too advanced—the cells and cilia reappear and help keep the lungs in good working order.

Your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association does not have an electric sedan chair, but they can tell you about breathing tests and some ways to try to quit smoking. Christmas Seals support all kinds of antismoking activities. It's a matter of life and breath.

Nighttime V.D.
Clinic Fills Need

Dr. Julius S. Conner, Director, Des Moines - Polk County Health Department, expressed his gratitude to the volunteers from the Woman's Auxiliary and the Polk County Medical Society for their work in the Monday night V.D. clinic. Dr. Conner said, "A review of the night V.D. clinic's operations since it began last June has shown that there is a real need for its Monday night 7:00 to 9:00 P.M. extended services. So far 226 patients have been treated, most of whom would have faced a personal or financial hardship if they had come during the Venereal Disease Clinic's normal hours." (Daytime hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, 8:00 - 11:30 and 1:00 - 4:00 P.M.)

Dr. Conner said that on December 30th he would present to the Public Health Advisory Committee his recommendation that the clinic's Monday night services be continued.

The Social Health Venereal Disease Clinic is in the Argonne Armory Building, 602 East First Street. Treatment is both free and confidential.

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

Macks Dismissal

Probably the biggest story of the week so far as Iowa State's chances in the Big Eight cage race are concerned is the dropping of Gene Mack by Coach Maury John. As we write this, the only side of the incident that has come out is the coach's side. Tried to contact Mack Monday PM but didn't know where to look, and drew a blank. Then, we didn't have too much time. A couple of fellows we know are asking if John would have done the same thing to a white boy. We would have to say that we think he would. There are some people who just won't accept excuses, no matter how valid for a missed appointment, and it would seem that John is one of them. How this will effect the Cyclones chances for a good finish in the title race remains to be seen. As another pool hall coach put it, "You just don't cut off about fifteen points a game off your offense, and do as well as you would like to."

Maybe by the time this comes out, everybody will have had a change of heart. Maybe, just maybe.

Marquette vs. So. Carolina

Watched Marquette play South Carolina in the latter's back yard Sunday, and still pick them as the next national champs, if they can get by the opening meets. UCLA's coach said a mouthful when he said that a sixth straight title is possible, but hardly probable. Nobody wins forever. Ask the Los Angeles Lakers. That free for all in the Marquette game Sunday was what happens when play gets as rough under the baskets as it was in that game. In those battles under the basket, an official could call a foul on somebody on every time the ball went up if he wanted to. So it is easy for the home crowd to get next to an official and he can't help but go with the highly emotional crowd. For there isn't any game that generates spectator emotions like basketball. And when it is almost all a black versus white game, look out. Not claiming racial prejudice, because if the situation were reversed, and the game played at Marquette, they would have had the South Carolina coach screaming.

Tech High

Here at home, some of our sidewalk coaches argue that Tech is being overrated. But they haven't lost yet. Now comes the tough test when they play the second half of the schedule on the other fellow's home floor. The one game we saw them play, they looked as if they managed to play just as well as they had to, always seeming to be able to put down rallies, and not pressing the panic button when their opponents crowd them. Maybe they are overrated, but one would have to say it was nice while it lasted, and it ain't ended yet. Meanwhile North seems to have finally hit their stride, and will be tough for anybody. They have lost one game in the city, and could end up dueling Tech for the title. Maybe the winner of this conference crown could automatically qualify for the sub state meet. So could some of the other conference winners. Just an idea.

Dallas Cowboys

We read the accounts of the Dallas Cowboy running back Duane Thomas. It seems that the new writers have him pictured as a guy who eats raw meat, and if that meat comes off a reporter, so much the better. This article claims that Thomas is really a nice sort of fellow, just doesn't want to be bothered with trifles when he is concentrating on football. The fact that it is said that he doesn't speak to his teammates half the time explodes the theory that a winning ball club has to have togetherness. That is a valuable asset if it is there, but it seems as if games can be won without it.

Really all that is necessary is that each man know his job and do it. Nobody wants to be the fellow who goofed up if he knows the other fellows are just waiting for a chance to get on him about it. And, speaking of football, did you hear the sportscasters raving about Iowa U's Craig Clemmons. The guy was selected as the outstanding defensive back for his team, and will likely be a high draft choice. One thing the pro scouts did was make it possible for a star on a losing team to get his just recognition.

Sends Grambling
Band To Liberia

BOSSIER CITY, La. — The famed Grambling College Marching Band flew to the Republic of Liberia, West Africa, aboard two military aircrafts from Barksdale Airforce Base to play for the inauguration of President William R. Tolbert on Jan. 3.

President Richard Nixon provided transportation to Liberia to enable the band to represent the United States government as part of the American entourage headed by Pat Nixon, the first lady.

Gerald L. Warren, deputy press secretary, said, "The President decided to make an exception in providing transportation for Grambling because it is a great honor for the college to be represented." The President felt it would be "a very appropriate gesture."

Grambling received the invitation to take part in the inauguration from President - elect Tolbert in early December.

Dr. R. W. E. Jones, the school's president, immediately notified President Nixon, Senator Allen J. Ellender, D - La., Senator Russell B. Long, D - La., and Congressman Otto E. Passman, D - La., about the invitation and requested help in procuring transportation for the 150 - member band, newspaper, radio and television party.

While no request was made to the President for transportation, Passman said he asked for consideration on the matter because, "I thought it would be quite an honor for our country. It is customary at a country's Presidential inauguration for other countries to have representatives in attendance."

"Grambling is a very fine college headed by a very fine educator with a band known internationally. It is only natural that this predominately Black college with such a great reputation have the opportunity to represent the United States at such an important event in West Africa," Passman said.

Included in the Grambling party is a television crew from Black Associated Sports Enterprises that will put together a full - length documentary film designed for network television to enable Americans throughout this country to see the band in the inauguration ceremonies.

Conrad Hutchinson, Jr., bandmaster, said the Grambling aggregation would be playing for all inauguration ceremonies, Jan. 2-4, as well as the Sesquicentennial celebration, Jan. 6-8.

Considered by many as the nation's finest, Grambling has appeared on national TV more than any other college or university band in the country.

It performed for the first Super Bowl and can point with pride to major events from coast to coast.

Each performance is a breath - taking panorama of rhythmic sound, prancing musicians and a fantasy of form and color.

The celebrated group shuffles through fast cadences of 220 steps per minute. Most bands use a cadence which varies from 130 to 145 steps.

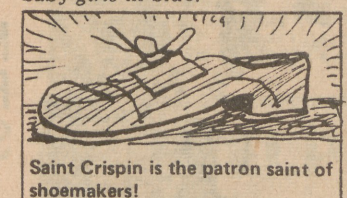

It may come as a surprise to you, but French layettes often include "brassieres" and "culottes" for infants. These Gallic garments, however, are simply undershirts and trousers for the toddler set.

These days, with the widespread use of detergents for laundering, diaper rash is especially common among babies. A and D Ointment brings soothing relief and promotes healing of diaper rash, minor burns, cuts and bruises and abrasions.

Those who believe that pink and blue are the traditional colors for girls and boys might be startled to learn that a much older traditional color scheme dressed baby boys in pink, and baby girls in blue.

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Health Insurance Institute, 277 Park Ave., N. Y., N. Y., 10017

Q. I'm planning on purchasing a health insurance policy, but something my neighbor told me has me puzzled. He says I should make certain I have a "waiver of premium" provision in my contract. But he can't explain to me exactly what this is. Can you?

A. Your neighbor is right. This is an important provision. It's inserted in a contract to relieve you of the obligation of paying premiums if you are totally and continuously disabled.

abled for a period of at least three months (or six months, in many policies) prior to the date the premium becomes due.

Q. I have a major medical insurance policy covering my wife and three children. I've had it for six years now, and I wonder if it still covers my children? My children are aged 23, 21 and 20.

A. It all depends on your insurance policy and whether your children are still attending school. You see, many insurance companies provide coverage for unmarried children who are full-time students at accredited schools up to age 21, 23 or sometimes 25 — and this is particularly true of major medical policies. In some states, children who are incapable of self-sustaining employment due to mental retardation or a physical handicap must be continued as dependents under family coverage regardless of their age. But you should check with your insurance agent or with the company from whom you bought your policy to be certain of its provisions concerning your children.

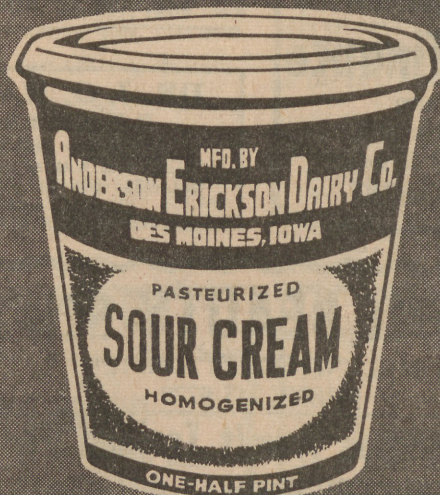

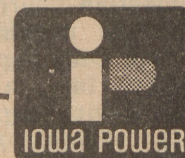

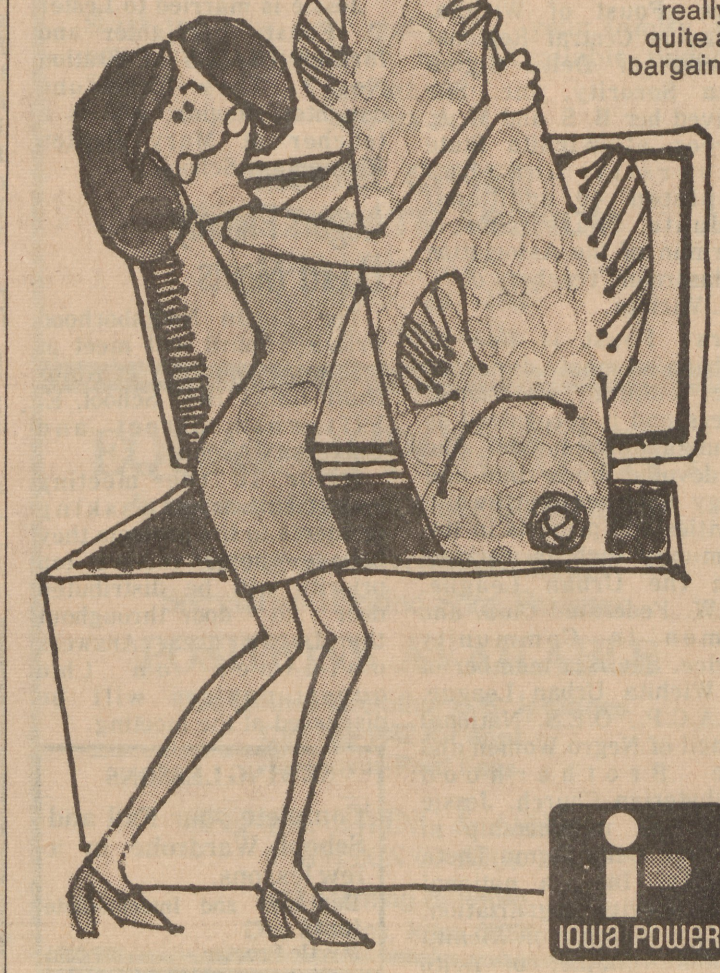

Q. Can you tell me if newborn infants are covered under the insurance provided by health insurance policies?

Yes, typically they are covered, but it depends on the policy just how they are covered. Actually, there are three basic means of protection: (a) from birth for all expenses, including nursery costs; (b) from birth excluding normal nursery expenses; (c) from 14 days of age, or discharge from a hospital.
