

Mrs. Stoney, National Supervisor With Flori Roberts, Inc. Cosmetics

Alyce Stoney, a national supervisor of Flori Roberts, Inc., is one of the nation's top business executives. Married and the mother of a son and a daughter, and ten grandchildren, she has amassed an incomparable background of rich experience and a lifetime of religious participation. Her operating base has always been the city of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Prior to her business alignment with Flori Roberts, Inc., Mrs. Stoney was the first black to have a downtown business, "Stoney's for Elegant Fashions" and enjoyed its tremendous appeal and popularity among Milwaukee's and other nearby communities' women of all ages.

Begins Finishing School
Nearing the close of the dress shop's fifth year, Mrs. Stoney began a finishing school, "Alyce Stoney's Modeling and Career School." Keyway to fascinating enchantment." She directed the agency for fifteen years.

In the school's fifteenth year, Mrs. Stoney met Mrs. Flori Roberts, founder and owner of the beauty products by that name. Having viewed innumerable beauty lines, she selected Flori Roberts, Inc. This choice in 1968, resulted in the termination of her school and her present ranking of national and international supervisor of Flori Roberts, Inc.

Chooses Flori Inc
Mrs. Stoney's choice of this firm, stemmed from such basic business practices as a researched study of women's buying habits with regard to makeup; for example, an approximate 500 billion are spent by whites; an approximate 60 billion spent by blacks. Knowing this, presents a total market, an invaluable factor in the world of commerce. For once blacks can show statistics.

Mrs. Stoney points out that Flori Roberts, Inc. products are for all complexions stemming from the very light to the very dark. Generations of black women have had to "make do" with beauty items. These cosmetics are a result of scientific study and preparations and so offer the best in beauty aids.

She is proud to state that during sale promotions, eleven black makeup artists are brought in. One can appreciate the support this represents throughout the system at such times.

At this point, her story introduced a delightful twist: beginning "from the beginning of time — when we were brought from Africa, — black women have had to make their dresses, husbands' shirts, sleeping garments, etcetera, from crocker sacks (potato sacks). From these they made use of flour sacks, bleaching these and making dresses. Next were bolts of calico replacing the sacks.

These things and others, Mrs. Stoney learned from her paternal grandmother, who quit teaching to become a fulltime midwife. She delivered over 2000 babies and had birth certificates to prove it.

So it was that fun times and story telling with her grandmother had to do with the past, black history as it turns out.

Mrs. Stoney's mother attended Talledega College. She attended Margaret Barber Seminary, a high school and junior college located in Anniston, Alabama.

Looking back over her career, examining the twenty years in her privately owned business ventures and her immediate past three years with Flori Roberts,

I. Magnin, Nieman Marcus, Foley's, Eaton's (Canada); Carson Pirie Scott & Co., and many others. But I am ten times happier," she continued. "If I thought in the flesh, saw people as having used me... But I am happy to have been instrumental in providing an education, training and opportunities for others!"

Her Models

Her models are or have worked for all the top New York designers, married professional and business men, and enjoyed successful careers. Many came from large families and so needed opportunities, one the daughter of a gangster, another the daughter of a wayward, roving mother and others from assorted disadvantaged backgrounds. These graduated, found success in work. Her proteges are all over the world. She next described her role as Sunday school superintendent and church superintendent in one of Milwaukee's largest Baptist churches.

These responsibilities and helping others are her greatest sources of happiness. Glancing at the credit cards, she observed that in material ways, whatever blessings she may need, God sends to her. In closing, she stated "with all of our limitations, we are able to live as Americans live! I am so glad to have found the key to love; family responsibilities, the warmth and understanding of friend-

Inc.. I questioned her reactions to the sum of these experiences.

Saying in essence "wealth have, I none...", she tossed before the two of us credit cards ranging from

Activities of Priority Boards

The Southeast Neighborhood Priority Board will hold a public meeting for the citizens of its area on Saturday Jan. 29th, at the Chesterfield Opportunity Center, 2744 Maury Avenue. The meeting will be an all day session beginning at 8 a.m. Its purpose is to get area citizen approval in establishing the final priorities that will be submitted to the Central Advisory Board by Feb. 1. The board established tentative priorities at a previous planning conference; but will not make any final decision until it has met with the citizens of the area.

The Four Mile Neighborhood Priority Board will hold an area citizens' meeting Thursday, Jan. 27, at Mae Goodrell Junior High School E. 29th Street and Ovid Avenue at 7 p.m. The board will discuss the problems it considered to be of major importance to their area.

It won't make final recommendations to the Central Advisory Board until it has met with the citizens of the area.

ships." She added the friendship enjoyed with Mrs. Flori Roberts, as well as the tremendously satisfying role of employee.

Heads Cleveland Construction Council Tax Deductions

COLUMBUS, Ohio — John Scales, Business Manager of Local 423 of the Laborers' International Union, was elected President of the

ted President of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Council here recently by a unanimous vote.

Long active in labor and community affairs in Columbus, Mr. Scales also serves as Chairman of the City's Metropolitan Housing Authority, Board Member of the Labor Development Corporation for the Columbus Model Cities Program, and President of the Ohio District Council of Laborers.

Watch Those Construction Council Tax Deductions

DES MOINES, Ia. — Taxpayers planning to claim an interest deduction on their 1971 Federal tax return should be sure to read the instructions carefully to avoid errors, Mr. R.C. Voskuil, Acting District Director of Internal Revenue for Iowa, advised.

Interest deductions should be entered with other itemized deductions on Schedule A and attached to Form 1040. The form for itemized deductions gives taxpayers space to list interest, taxes, contributions and other deductible expenses.

Interest paid on a home mortgage, a bank loan or other debt may be deducted if the taxpayer is legally responsible for the payment.

Interest paid for another person is not deductible, Mr. Voskuil said. This could occur when a parent makes a mortgage payment for his children on a home that is not in his name.

ON SELLING CARS

Detroit — U.S. automakers sold more cars in October than in any previous month in the industry's history. Four major U.S. automakers sold 933,713 cars, breaking the record set in October 1968.

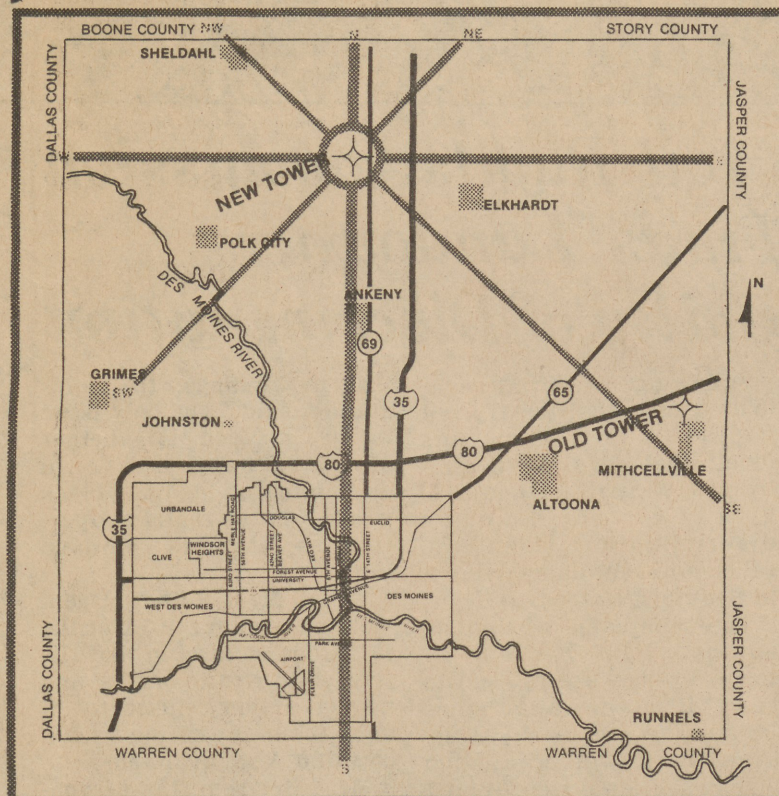

The best way to get ahead in life is to stop talking about it and do something about it.

NEW 2,000 FOOT TOWER!

On Monday, January 24, three of your television stations

KDIN-TV	Channel 11
WHO-TV	Channel 13
WOI-TV	Channel 5

began transmitting from one of the world's tallest television towers, located 15 miles directly north of Des Moines, and are now sending out stronger, better picture signals than ever before!

These three stations were formerly broadcasting from three widely separated locations, and your antenna may be aimed separately at each location.

This is a very simple, inexpensive adjustment, which your television serviceman can make in a few minutes... if it is needed.

So, if you are getting "ghosts" or double image pictures from any of these stations, call your TV Serviceman (where this decal is displayed). Then enjoy the last word in television transmission.

WHO-TV... your community minded station.

Insect Bites
To take the sting out of insect bites this summer, first remove any stinger, if present. Next apply a cold ice compress to relieve the pain. For ant and mosquito bites and bee stings apply a paste of baking soda or calamine lotion. For wasp bites, apply vinegar. Avoid rubbing or scratching the bite. Consult your physician promptly if there is any reaction, such as hives, generalized rash, pale-ness, weakness, nausea, vomiting, "tightness" in the cheek, nose or throat.

There are lots of great things about this new Flynn plastic gallon jug.

Actually our new plastic gallon jug is the next best thing to the cow herself for keeping Flynn Milk fresh. The re-sealable screw on cap insures complete freshness. The built-in handle makes it easy to carry and easy to pour from. The plastic is translucent so you can always see how much milk is left. Of course, we wouldn't be so excited about the container if we weren't so sure about what we put inside it. It costs no more than milk in waxed cartons. And you pay no deposit. ST. PAUL, MINN.: Mrs. John E. Johnson, Jr. 3 month old daughter, Brandie, and Grandmarri arrived at the airport after a bumpy ride and an hour's delay starting time. Only Grandmarri was expected for the visit, so it was great fun watching Arthur E. Sidner's great surprise at sight of Mikel (Mrs. JEJ, jr) and Brandie trailing along way, way, behind Grandmarri. (A part of the surprise plan.)

MRS. ARTHUR E. SIDNER (nee Jean Johnson) upon opening her kitchen door leading to the attached garage, and finding Grandmarri bewigged, began "And just who is this lady?" Got no further because her glance took in her unexpected guests, her sister-in-law and baby! Speechless and immobilized with pleasure, she finally was able to rush to the two and embrace them with a hug and kisses. What fun!

HAVE HEARD ABOUT JESUS FREAKS! On Sunday morning the entire household was leaving the house by 8:30 a.m. First we left Jean and a hot dish at one spot and we continued with Art and 5 year old Aaron and 3 year old Alison to The Stable, an enormous house used for dorms and classes. Here Art taught the little people, assisted by a young girl evangelist, named Ellen. The tiny ones sang so well. Participated without hesitance. (We Des Moineses three found a spot in the dorm. Relaxed until time to rejoin the group.)

IN AN HOUR we loaded in to our Volkswagen bus, picked up Jean and three others. Went to Minneapolis Campus Theatre, entered a nearly filled auditorium. Its capacity of 600 was stretched to approximately 700 — aisles were used as well as the stage area. People in all modes of attire but in one accord in terms of quiet demeanor and complete participation in song and prayer. The sermon was delivered by a former Baptist minister, who sounded very much like an Irish clergyman fresh from Ireland. He is pleasing to hear and much beloved (much comment).

WE ARE NEXT UNITED with the original hot dish plus others and delicious cakes (thick frostings), coffee, fruit dessert and drink, and a long, long social period.

THE MINNEAPOLIS INSTITUTE OF ART was our next stop and depletion of funds expedition. You'd never believe that someone exclaimed Jean! Transfixed, Jean stared in complete amazement at one of her college buddies now employed at the institute. The art institute requires hours of viewing to enjoy even a small area. It is tremendous, and calls for a special return visit.

TALKED WITH MARY HYDE. Oh first talked with Eric in pursuit of Mary and her unlisted phone number. She is still enjoying a fascinating teaching career.

TALKED WITH ROSE GUY MARSH (Dr. Donald Marsh's Mrs.). The couple has a second daughter, making a total of three little ones. Rose tried for a dinner for us, but illness in the family and the weather took care of that effort. We will try again next time for a get-together.

MEANT TO PHONE JOHN BURRELL and others. Was always too late or too early. Almost had to take up residence in St. Paul as the weather cancelled out each flight! (The wind chill reached 74 degrees)

Noble Order of Mastic Shrine

The Noble Order of the Mastic Shrine has recently taken action towards "total freedom," says John W. Davis, Special Director of the organization.

The Shriners have adopted an amendment to give one dollar per year per member for their Prince Hall Masons Legal Defense Fund. By doing this the Shriners feel freedom in America will be advanced for members and other minority citizens.

Davis said that his organization has made history by taking affirmative action for freedom, which likely no other Black organization has ever attempted.

The Noble Order of the Mystic Shriners also contributes to other funds each year, such as; Tuberculosis, Cancer, NAACP, Student Aid, and the Negro College Fund.

You'll Love These Butterscotch Brownies

This recipe for chewy-good Butterscotch Brownies is from a new cook booklet called "Cook With Love." It was produced by Best Foods, a Division of CPC International Inc., as a helpful guide to planning meals that increase the levels of polyunsaturates and decrease those of saturated fats and cholesterol. The 48-page full color booklet contains meal plans for nine days with accompanying recipes and charts offering food values of the recipes. For the booklet, send 25 cents in coin to: Cook With Love, P.O. Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238.

Butterscotch Brownies
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1/4 cup Mazola corn oil
1 egg
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup unsifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

Grease 8 x 8 x 2-inch baking pan. Stir together brown sugar, corn oil and egg until smooth. Mix in nuts and vanilla. Mix together flour, baking powder and salt; add to corn oil mixture, mixing well. Turn into prepared pan and spread evenly. Bake in 350°F. (moderate) oven 25 minutes or until browned. Cut into squares while warm. Makes 16 (2-inch) brownies.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Is it really considered improper for a bride to take an active part in her wedding rehearsal?

A. This is not a matter of propriety, but rather of custom or superstition. It is customary for the bride to allow a good friend to take her role in the rehearsal proceedings, while the bride sits on the sidelines and observes or directs.

Q. When eating in a restaurant and small butter pats are served in paper containers, is it proper to let the knife rest on the pat when not in use?

A. Never. The knife should rest along the upper right part of the plate — never with the handle resting on the table.

Q. I see more and more paper napkins being provided at meals in other people's homes. Is this really proper?

A. While at one time this was considered out of the question, today for all informal entertaining, paper napkins are perfectly proper — and very practical, too, I might add.

Q. Is it proper to speak an inquiring "Yes," instead of "Hello," when answering the telephone?

A. Although "Hello" is the more widely accepted manner of answering the phone, there's nothing wrong with saying "Yes!" The most important thing is a pleasant, friendly, manner of speaking.

Q. Is it considered poor form for a woman, at her second marriage, to have three or four bridesmaids?

A. Yes. The second marriage should be as simple and informal as possible, and the bride should have but one attendant.

Q. Is it quite proper and acceptable nowadays to type social letters?

A. Yes, and it's increasingly popular, too. Typed letters should be written on a single sheet, with only one side of the paper used. And be sure that your signature at the end of the letter is written by hand.

Q. I have just received an invitation to a bridal shower on a girl whom I scarcely know. Would I be justified in ignoring this invitation?

A. This would be rude to the hostess who invited you. You are, however, justified in telling her that you are very sorry, but that you have another engagement for that particular date.

Q. When a man is escorting his wife and another woman to a social function, which one does he help first with her wraps?

A. The woman guest.

Q. When invited to someone's home and the hostess has small dishes of candy and nuts placed on tables about the room, is it proper for a guest to help himself without being asked?

A. Since obviously these dishes are there for the guests, it is quite all right to help yourself.

Representative Shirley
Chisholm's Candidacy

Representative Shirley Chisholm of New York has announced her candidacy for the Democratic nomination for President. This is a bold move on her part and is bound to attract not only people who agree with her philosophy or support her on racial grounds or many who are dissatisfied with what we have had in the past and are willing to try anything.

Generally speaking, nominations are controlled by "The Organization" because they have the party faithfuls and in many cases, the money. An exception to this was the nomination of Wendell Wilkie by spontaneous followers and not by the party heads.

Mrs. Chisholm has been a school teacher and so was President Lyndon Johnson. There have been presidents who have held lesser jobs but manage to be taken up by the organization.

Of course, Mrs. Chisholm does not expect to be nominated. But she can use her political strength in the convention to bargain for some of the things she stands for. Naturally, all Negro delegates will not support her for the reason many are bound up with their local organizations which must be dealt with after the convention. This is politics and is bound to step over racial lines just as Mrs. Chisholm did when she supported Senator Harold Hughes for chairman of the credentials committee for the coming Democratic National Convention rather than Patricia Harris, a Negro woman, who got the position.

Not Conductive To Discipline

The board of directors of the NAACP, at its annual meeting January 10th, authorized the establishment of branches in two prisons: Attica, New York and Louisburg, Pa. The action was taken in response to requests from inmates in these institutions and as a followup of their interest in prison conditions throughout the country.

Since the prison riots last year, there has been an upsurge of interest in prison reform from many sources. These riots have been brought on, not by the so called terrible conditions in the prisons but by the belligerent attitude of some of the inmates and the encouragement of misinformed liberals. Generally speaking the rioters involved were sent to prison because of their disregard for the rights of others, in punishment and to be rehabilitated. Instead, the rioters choose to resort to change by force rather than settle their grievances by peaceful means.

We don't believe that establishment of branches in prisons is a good thing. Too many will use them to agitate grievances rather than rehabilitate themselves. Not that prisoners should be mistreated but they should not be allowed to run the prison or blame society for their plight rather than themselves.

Viet Nam Veterans Should Have A State Bonus

Men who served in previous wars were given a bonus by the federal government and also by the states. Iowa is one of them.

The bonuses were justified on the grounds that these men, in addition to suffering rigors of war including a chance to be killed, were at a disadvantage financially. Wages were high and jobs plentiful during the wars while soldiers got less wages and pat on their back for their patriotism.

Following each war since the turn of the century, Congress has made numerous provisions to assist the veterans. And while they are great improvements, local citizens should show their appreciation and respect for the boys who served in the war.

We hope the Iowa legislature will provide a bonus for these veterans. They deserve it.

Reasons For Unemployment Rate

There are those who complain bitterly of the unemployment rate today. True, there is considerable unemployment particularly in areas where work is dependent upon supplying war goods. This situation prevailed following all other wars.

There is another angle which has raised the unemployment rate which critics have overlooked. During the past few years many jobs previously held by men have been taken over by women. It has made a lot of difference.

As industry continues to improve methods of production, the lower echelon jobs become fewer so that other means must be found to fill the gap.

Health for All

INFECTION IN THE UP-
CHUCK

Lung diseases can be caused by cigarette smoking and by a host of bacterial agents. But can they also be caused by frequent vomiting?

At least one thoracic surgeon — Dr. Milton V. Davis of Dallas — thinks so. He told the annual convention audience at the Medical Society of the State of New York that frequent regurgitation may produce symptoms of lung infection or allergic bronchial disease.

When vomiting occurs often, Dr. Davis said, gastric material mages to enter the windpipe and finds its way into the bronchial tree. Respiratory infection results.

Dr. Davis noted that many patients with respiratory disease have a physiological problem that triggers vomiting. The junction of the stomach and esophagus is located above their diaphragm, instead of below as with normal patients. To correct the condition, Dr. Davis recommends an operation that extends the esophagus below the diaphragm in order create a valve-like mechanism that prevents regurgitation. In a series of 500 such operations, 92 per cent have been satisfactory and have resulted in disappearance of respiratory symptoms.

As for another cause of pulmonary disability — heavy smoking — Dr. Davis believes smoking should also be considered a symptom of chronic bronchitis. "You have to cure the bronchitis first," he says. "Only then can the patient be reasonable expected to be able to give up smoking." Smoking, he says, acts as a counterirritant to the distress of chronic bronchitis, in just the way that

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

With Allen Ashby

A fellow asked us what we thought of the NCAA ruling allowing freshmen to compete in varsity level athletics. A lot has been written and said about it. Most writers and talkers seem to think that there are few freshmen who will make the varsity in either basketball or football. In many cases the big high school star is often a little more mature than his teammates and his competition. Or maybe he is just quicker, or bigger and stronger than the others. He goes to college and meets people of his own level on all counts, and he is just another fellow. There are a few people we can think of who could have probably made it as frosh. Calvin Jones, Alex Karras, Ozzie Simmons, and a few others. In just about every case the fellow was badly needed in the spot he filled as a sophomore. He was needed as a freshman, too. Now when a school has a big weakness at one position, the coach just might find a first year man who can fill the gap. How often will that happen? Not too often, especially in Conferences like the Big Eight or Big Ten, or any other major conference. Probably the nearest approach to first year players is the junior college transfer, and he has had two years of competition above the high school level.

College Basketball
Oh, yes, there was a little basketball played by our major colleges over the weekend. Drake nearly staged what would have had to be the upset of the season by nearly getting Louisville. It was so close that Coach Howard Stacey was tempted to demand a recall of a judgment call, which is almost impossible to reverse. But, says Stacey, that was what beat the Bulldogs. Iowa State seemed to come unglued against Kent State, prompting Coach John to shuffle his lineup again. We must say it again: the first fundamental rule of successful coaching is to get some ball players, and enough of them. One of our pool hall coaches says, that John may be having trouble getting the fellows to go along with his philosophy. This may take at least another season at Iowa. They have a phenomenal record in the Chicago Stadium beating some of the top teams in the nation there. Now the latest was that high ranked South Carolina team. The Hawks must have looked like champions Saturday. If they could play like that all year, they would have to be reckoned with when the league title is up for grabs. Maybe they will, but the rest of the Big Ten has been warned, and Iowa won't sneak up on any of them.

There was a big high school game last week, too. The game between North and Tech was billed as the game of the year in the city. But, really, it wasn't that big. North wanted to win in order to tie for the top spot in the Metro league, and set the stage for the really big game at the end of the year. This one would be for all the marbles. Well, North pulled into a tie. They beat Tech in a close game that either team could have put out of reach in the first quarter if they hadn't been so jittery. We thought Tech was too careful, and that is almost always fatal. When they finally decided to go all out, it was too late, maybe next time. The big boys for North were Ron Welch and Dallas Smith. The next night, Tech played at Valley and they knew they had to win this one or they would jealously have problems. After a winning streak is broken, it is almost a must to win the next one. The Engineers did just that. Meanwhile North was battling East.

Now, the Lee township boys had lost some close ones, including an overtime to Tech. This time they decided to upset North, and that is what happened.

Actually, the Polar Bears probably lost the game when Smith and Welch were said to have gone into the stands after some spectators. They were so upset that they might just as well have sat out. Fellows, if you really did that, you should have learned your lesson. You win basketball games by playing the game, not battling people on the sidelines. Sometimes spectators needle you to make you mad that you can't play. A fellow will deliberately foul you, you lose your cool, and take a swipe at him. That is the one the official sees, and out you go, which was the whole idea. No, we hope you won't let people make you that mad so forget why you are on the floor.

There was a big high school game last week, too. The game between North and Tech was billed as the game of the year in the city. But, really, it wasn't that big. North wanted to win in
