LaVine Objects to Hiring Prospects With Criminal Record

An investigation of a Model Cities program will begin by the City Council after being told that several persons with criminal records have been hired as police aides.

The Community Service Aides Program, sponsored by the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and Model Cities, provides officers acting as buffers between neighborhood residents and police.

"Several of the aides have arrest records," stated a report to councilmen by City Manager Tom Chenoweth. Councilman LaVine stated he "can't believe we're letting these men stay on the city payroll and go out on the street in our cars with police radios." At least one man on the list has six felony convictions, an indictment and another investigation on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property.

LaVine proposed to bar anyone with a police record, other than traffic violations from being employed by the police department.

LaVine said he had a confidential report on certain aides and investigations in progress, but refused to comment.

He offered to let other councilmen read the report and several, including Mayor Olson, said they would.

As yet no action on LaVine's proposal to keep people with police records from being employed by the police department, but the council voted to refer the matter to the council's crime committee.

A reception honoring the police community service aides and celebrating successful advisory board efforts to put these men in uniform will take place at the Julia B. Mayer Center, Sunday, Feb. 6, from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. and will be televised. Richard Bates, Center Director, will be master of ceremonies.

The reception is sponsored jointly by the community organizations represented on the Police Community Service Aid Program Advisory Board.

Mrs. Evelyn Davis, as a neighborhood person, commented "I feel this is a much needed program. With help from the neighborhood people, the police community service aide program can become successful."

Baker's body was found on a Sioux City sidewalk. A preliminary autopsy showed he died of a knife wound in the heart.

The deceased is a brother-in-law of Raymond Claybourne, formerly of Des Moines.

To Honor Dr. Harry Harper at Dinner, Feb. 12

A testimonial dinner for a long time Fort Madison physician and civil rights leader, Dr. Harry Harper Sr. is being planned for Saturday, Feb. 12 at the Fort Madison Country Club under the sponsorship of the local branch of the national Association for Advancement Finis Webster. Dr. Harper, 71, has practiced medicine there for nearly 45 years, active in Civil Rights affairs and is president of the Fort Madison Branch of the NAACP, a post he has held for several terms. He is a past member and a past chairman of the Iowa Civil Rights Commission. In 1959, he served on the Governor's Study Commission on Discrimination in Employment and was a member of the State Commission for Employment on Merit. A native of Fort Madison, Dr. Harper was one of nine children of George and Rhonda Dandridge Harper. He attended the Jackson elementary school and Fort Madison high school. He received his associate science degree from the University of Iowa and graduated from the Howard University Medical School, Washington, D.C. 1926. Dr. Harper served his internship at Freedman Hospital, Washington, D.C. He opened his office in Fort Madison in 1927. Dr. Harper's wife, the former Lillie Virginia Grinage, was a school teacher in Washington.

of Colored People (NAACP). NAACP official said the event is open to the public and that tickets are available from members of the committee, at the Lampe Drug Store or Harper Clinic.

Mrs. Ben Lewis, is general chairman of the committee. Other members are Mr. and Mrs. Orville Woods, Mrs. James Brewer, and Mrs. Lillian Harper. The event is being held in the case of Ham v. South Carolina. LDF attorneys are challenging the trial court's denial of the right of a criminal defendant to examine prospective jurors to determine whether they are prejudiced against blacks. If the Court upholds the LDF position, it will establish for the first time the right of a defendant to examine jurors as to possible racial prejudice.

NEWS In A Nutshell

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Ms. Lucille Berrien, a 44-year-old Korean War widow with a history of activism on behalf of Milwaukee's poor, filed Saturday as a candidate for mayor. She is the first woman black candidate.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Veterans Administration education and training has started more than 130,000 women on their way to join the nation's trained personnel pool since the end of the Korean Conflict in 1955.

Rallies to Support of 6 Black Coast Guardsmen

NEW YORK — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has gone to bat for six black servicemen charging that the Coast Guard is unfairly court-martialing them for alleged acts that could lead to imprisonment and dishonorable discharges.

The charges grew out of a series of confrontations and fights between Coast Guardsmen on Governors Island, New York, last September. Although white Guardsmen were involved, all six of the servicemen who have been charged with violations of the Military Codes of Justice are black.

Following preliminary investigations by Julius Williams, NAACP director of veterans affairs, the NAACP legal department and their military attorneys filed a motion on Jan. 14, with the Coast Guard Judge Advocate General in Washington, D.C., for a verbatim transcript of the investigation. But this was refused.

The men are represented by NAACP Assistant General Counsel Charles E. Carter.

The NAACP appealed to the Secretary of Transportation, who oversees the Coast Guard in peacetime, for the transcript and a stay in the court-martial proceedings until the document is supplied. The trial was postponed a week.

All of the accused are stationed with the Third Coast Guard District in New York. They are P03 Fred D. Woodberry, Jr., and Seamen

The estate of Gospel singing star Mahalia Jackson may be worth more than $4 million, said the late singer's press agent Harry Dale.

The dollar estimate of Miss Jackson's worth was neither confirmed or denied by Gene J. Shapiro the attorney who handled most of her financial matters.

The report given to the Pittsburgh Courier also said that Miss Jackson may have foreseen that she was to die because she changed her will four times in the last six months.

Dale said he was not certain what caused the gospel star to make the will changes according to the Courier.

Her financial holdings included an 18 unit apartment complex in California in which a brother and cousin resided. She also had about $1 million on deposit in three Chicago banks; The Drexel National, American National, and Seaway Banks, along with having some U.S. bonds.

Shapiro said that Miss Jackson "was never concerned about the financial return her investments would bring her."

However, Dale said that one thing which contributed to Miss Jackson's aggravation was a bad real estate deal last December. According to Dale, Miss Jackson wished for years to purchase a temple in Pittsburgh and transform it into a non-denominational temple.

"Queen of the Gospel Singers", Mahalia Jackson died Thursday Jan. 27 of a heart seizure.

Mahalia Jackson started out scrubbing floors and ended up singing to the world. As she would say, hers was not an easy life. She lauded other people's silks, scrubbed others floors and nursed other people's children. It was out of such tribulation she sang out her soul. It was a combination of the artist's flesh and spirit.

"You got to work with your hands. How can you sing of amazing grace, how can you sing prayerfully of heaven and Earth and all God's wonders without using your hands. My hands demonstrate what I feel inside. I throw my whole body to say all that is within me. The mind and the voice by themselves are not sufficient."

Mahalia Jackson

A truly wonderful person Mahalia Jackson belonged to the people. They packed the baseball park far beyond its capacity to hear her. They filled Carnegie Hall on five different occasions. The people of Ohio greeted Mahalia with a parade bigger than one held for President Harry Truman of the same day.

In places where many could not understand the words, they understood the artist. Mahalia Jackson touched them all.

She worked on many occasions to raise scholarship funds for ghetto youngsters. Mahalia had little conception of money and was regarded as a soft touch for any worthy cause or needy human.

Earning large sums in concert and in records was only half of what Mahalia Jackson could have had, had she accepted night club engagements. But because of her religious convictions, she resolved never to sing where liquor was served.

The civil rights movement made Mahalia Jackson's spirituals and Gospel songs great. Her songs became a piece with the word of Dr. King.

Miss Jackson had an abundance of love for everybody," her heart was as big as her voice."

designated "Project Equality Week" by Churches United. An intensive campaign will be sponsored by Churches United to get Project Equality commitments from as many local congregations and church-related institutions as possible. Project Equality is sponsored by Protestant, Jewish and Catholic churches in the United States to use their combined hiring and purchasing power to help remove racial discrimination from employment practices.

February 20-26, which is also "Brotherhood Week," will be devoted to "Equal Employment Opportunity in Business and Industry." Details for activities during that week are now being finalized by the Quad City Merit Employment Council, which has representatives from many of the leading industries in the Quad City area.

Annual March of Dimes Campaign Collaborates with Sickle Cell

The Des Moines March of Dimes Campaign is cooperating with the Sickle Cell (Anemia) Foundation this year, according to Vern Hill, board member of the drive and chairman of the Sickle Cell (Anemia) Foundation of Des Moines.

Seven-year-old Randy Flipping, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flipping has been selected as its 1972 poster child. Randy visited Governor Robert D. Ray to help kick off the fund-raising drive.

Randy, a student at Smouse School, was selected because of a birth defect called spinabifida (open spine).

Because he needs special braces, crutches and a wheelchair, the March of Dimes was able to contribute toward these items.

In cooperation with the campaign, a group comprised of presidents and chairmen of church and social organizations will meet Friday, February 25 at 7:30 p.m. at Soul Village. Its goal will be to determine a means by which people can be tested for Sickle Cell Anemia.

Integration of Pupils Is For Better America, California Superintendent Tells Publishers

LOS ANGELES (NNPA) — The integration of pupils in the longrun is for a better America, Wilson C. Riles, California state superintendent of public instruction, told members of the National Newspaper Publishers Association who were meeting here last week in their Mid-Winter Workshop.

"Don't tell me a black child can't learn unless he is sitting by a white child," the state's first black superintendent of schools declared. "Worldwide, there are not enough white people to go around, he added.

The real purpose of school integration, Mr. Riles continued, should be to bring children of different races and backgrounds together at a young age when they learn faster so that they can learn about one another and appreciate each other's strengths and weaknesses. This would make for a better America, he said.

Other speakers on the three-day program were: Mrs. Yvonne Brathwaite, California state assemblywoman; Frank L. Nageotte, president and chief executive officer of Greyhound Lines - West; and NNPA President Garth C. Reeves, publisher of the Miami Times.

Mrs. Brathwaite told of her work in the assembly for the benefit of black women and others; Mr. Nageotte discussed improvements in black employment and other race relations areas achieved by Greyhound; Mr. Reeves emphasized the services of black newspapers to their communities.

The workshop sessions, coordinated by Norman W. Powell of Amalgamated Publishers, Inc., were devoted to advertising, including the promotion of travel for vacation and business by black Americans. Speakers said there was a potential of $600 million a year that may be spent.

To Supreme Court in Carolina Massacre Case

On Friday, January 7, 1972, NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. (LDF) attorneys asked the U.S. Supreme Court to hear the case of Cleveland Louis Sellers, Jr., a young black man who has been implicated in events which led local law enforcement officials in South Carolina to carry out the infamous Orangeburg Massacre against students at South Carolina State College in February of 1968.

Sellers now stands convicted of riot law violations and will have to serve a one-year prison term and pay a $250 fine, the maximum South Carolina sentence for riot, if the Supreme Court refuses to overturn his conviction. LDF attorneys allege that miscarriages of justice occurred throughout Sellers' state trial and led directly to his conviction by a local Orangeburg jury.

The case holds a very special importance for black Americans, LDF attorneys claim. If Sellers' conviction

In a letter to Ms. Gloria Schaffer, secretary of state, Mr. Andrews cited the constitution of Elks limiting membership to "white, male citizens of the U.S.A." and the application form of the Moose certifying that the applicant is "a member of the Caucasian white race, and not married to one of any other race."

It is clear, he said, "that both organizations are practicing and promoting racial discrimination in a very flagrant manner. I ask that your office proceed to cancel their present charter with the State of Connecticut."

Kaufman Runs for County Sheriff

County Sheriff

RICHARD E. KAUFFMAN, 38, of 4214-42nd Street, Des Moines, Iowa, a Republican, announced his candidacy for Polk County Sheriff. He retired from the United States Air Force on 31 December 1971. KAUFFMAN completed 20 years of military service. For the past 8½ years he has been an Investigator for the Office of Special Investigations in the Air Force and prior service was in the Air Force Intelligence, Administrative and Supply Divisions.

KAUFFMAN said that he will emphasize several key points in his campaign, relating to the Efficient, Economical, and Honest Conduct of the Polk County Sheriff's Office. One of the points is the many duplications of efforts of the law enforcement agencies in the Polk County - Des Moines area. KAUFFMAN indicated he works towards a unified law enforcement effort to eliminate duplication through organized cooperation with local, State and Federal agencies. KAUFFMAN also pointed out that each of these agencies have a large budget. He said that a more closely coordinated effort among these agencies would result in material saving to the taxpayers without cutting back on services.

We must, in the face of the increasing crime rate and acts of violence, reorganize our thinking and our actions for a full scale coordinated assault on crime and the factors that lead to crime. To do this we must have better organization, better communications, better educated law enforcement personnel, modern training, and a con-

Death of Former NAACP Treasurer Mourned

NEW YORK — NAACP Executive Director Roy Wilkins sent his deepest condolences to Mrs. Margaret Glenn Post Chalmers, whose husband, the Rev. Allan Knight Chalmers, died on Jan. 23. Mr. Chalmers was treasurer of the NAACP from 1948 to 1957.

Mr. Chalmers successfully headed the defense committee for the nine men who faced death sentences in Scottsboro, Ala., because they were falsely charged with raping two white women.

Also receiving condolences was New York City Fire Commissioner Robert Lowery whose wife, Marjorie, died on Jan. 24.

NAACP Says Elks and Moose Biased

HARTFORD, Conn. — On behalf of the 19 branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in the State of Connecticut, Ben F. Andrews, Sr., state NAACP president, has called upon state officials to revoke the charter and the liquor license of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks and of the Loyal Order of Moose on the ground that these two fraternal orders discriminate against non-white persons.

New Post for D. C. Attorney

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Mrs. Ruby Burrows McZier, one of the top women officials at the Department of Housing and Urban Development, has announced her resignation from HUD to enter private business.

Mrs. McZier plans to open her own law office and management consulting firm in Washington, D.C. and Daytona Beach, Florida.

For eight months, Mrs. McZier served as Acting Director of the Subsidized Home Ownership Program for low and moderate income families. In that capacity, she was the first woman to hold a director's position in FHA.

Mrs. McZier, who is Black, joined HUD in February 1969, as Special Assistant to Samuel Jackson, Assistant Secretary for Community Planning and Management.

As a result of her outstanding work, Mrs. McZier received two Sustained Superior Performance Awards at HUD in 1970 and 1972. In entering business, Mrs. McZier explained that her area of specialization will be in real estate, business development and urban affairs.

is allowed to stand, he would be the only person to receive a major conviction as a result of the massacre. Police officials, charged by the Federal government of participation in the shoot-out, which left three students dead and 40 others wounded, were acquitted by local juries and all charges against them have been dropped.

According to the LDF petition to the Supreme Court, Sellers took part in a student demonstration on February 6, 1968, two days before the massacre. Students at the predominantly black South Carolina State College gathered before a segregated bowling alley in downtown Orangeburg and attempted to enter it.

NAACP Asks Relocation of North-South Highway No. 61

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has submitted a statement with respect to the re-routing of Highway No. 61, through the City of Fort Madison, Iowa.

The proposed corridor which has been chosen for the relocation of Highway No. 61 will have the discriminatory effect of disrupting minority neighborhoods in Fort Madison, Iowa and the consequence of displacing a disproportionate number of minority group members living therein, specifically Black persons and persons of Mexican-American ancestry. In fact, in December 1970, officials of the United States Department of Transportation acknowledged that if approved, the corridor selection will have the effect of discrimination in that a disproportionate number of the displaced persons will be minority group members, i.e., Negroes and Mexican-Americans.

The proposed action of the Iowa State Highway Commission reflects a total insensitivity to the fact that the minority persons living in the corridor area have been systematically denied the privilege of living in other areas of Fort Madison because of their race and ancestry and it authorizes, encourages, and sanctions continued discrimination on these grounds.

Many of the minority persons living in the corridor area are economically disadvantaged and have worked hard for many years to acquire ownership of their homes. Some have put many dollars into improvements while still others have built new homes.

Adequate relocation housing is not available for those persons who would be displaced by the proposed action. At this time, the only housing available in the City of Fort Madison is in the $25,000.00 bracket, a bracket which is far out of the reach of most of the home-owner in the corridor area. Contrary to published reports, the majority of the dwelling units that will be taken as a consequence of the proposed action will not "satisfactorily" be replaced by the proposed "Low-Rent" Housing project.

It is apparent that the location of the proposed highway corridor is being pressed by persons with no vested interest in the area. The sole design of the proposed corridor area is to acquire land at the cheapest price possible and at the sole expense of the minority persons living therein.

A Federal Court of Appeals, in addressing itself to proposed governmental action and the consequent effect of minority dislocation, stated:

"... (T)he fact that the discrimination is not inherent in the administration of the program, but is... accidental to the plan 'surely does not excuse the planners'... Equal protection of the laws means more than merely the absence of governmental action designed to discriminate; as Judge J. Skelly Wright has said, 'we now firmly recognize that the arbitrary quality of thoughtlessness can be as disastrous and unfair to private rights and public interest as the perversity of a wilful scheme."

In light of the foregoing, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People respectfully urge the Iowa State Highway Commission to reject the proposed re-routing of Highway No. 61 through the City of Fort Madison, Iowa. It is the feeling of the Association that the design and effect of the proposed action is unconstitutional and illegal and all efforts will be taken to block the implementation of the project if such is approved.

It is with the hope that further action will not be necessitated and that equal protection of the laws will be accorded to all persons, irrespective of their color or ancestry.

HOME MANAGEMENT HINTS

by Karen Mason.

"Mildred, my left-handed widgeit flange was on the workbench last weekend. What did you do with it?"

It always seems the most important tool a home hobbyist has is the one he can't find when he needs it. And no one is more aware of the frustration of misplaced materials than the hobbyist's wife who usually gets blamed for secreting away paraphernalia she can't even pronounce.

Lack of organization can make a man's hobby a nerve-grating venture for everyone in the family, and can add unnecessary headaches to the already considerable job of home management. Help is available, however, in the form of a labeling system that makes it easy to organize hobby work rooms and to identify tools and their storage areas. Dymo Products Company, the firm that pioneered the embossed labeling field, has developed a Home Labeling Kit for embossing raised white letters on colorful, self-adhesive vinyl tape. A perfect Christmas gift for the hobbyist, the kit includes a labeling tool, a .180" high horizontal letter embossing wheel and three magazines of 3/8" embossing tape in blue, red and avocado.

Of course, the need for organization does not end in the hobby room, and the kit can make the job of home management easier when used in the kitchen to identify canisters and foil-wrapped foods in the freezer; in the linen closet to save time in locating the correct size sheets; near the phone to post emergency numbers and on records and tapes to identify their owners, as well as myriad other applications that help make your home run more smoothly.

"Dress up" Dinner With a Sprightly Vegetable Dish

Enjoy the bounty of summer gardens year round. We can choose from a range of vegetables fresh, canned, or frozen. Delicious and colorful as these vegetables are, they can be made more exciting when condensed soup sauces are added. Either cook vegetables in condensed soups so they soak up delicious flavors, or add soup sauces to cooked vegetables. They'll add flavor nuances comparable to those achieved by skilled French chefs.

Our featured vegetable dish is Green Beans with Golden Mushroom Sauce. To prepare, cook sliced green onion in butter until tender. Then add condensed golden mushroom soup, water, canned tomatoes, and Worcestershire. Add the cooked, drained green beans and heat.

Serve this delightful vegetable dish at a spring dinner for company. In keeping with the season, serve a crown roast of spring lamb. After the roast is cooked, fill the center with a parsley garnish or stuff with citrus fruit relish. Surround the roast with small oven-browned potatoes.

GREEN BEANS WITH GOLDEN MUSHROOM SAUCE

1/4 cup sliced green onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed golden mushroom soup
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup chopped canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
2 packages (9 ounces each) frozen green beans, cooked and drained
In saucepan, cook onion in butter until tender. Add remaining ingredients. Heat, stir now and then. Makes 6 servings.

Keeping The FAITH

"Know Thyself," the ancient Greek dictum which has been quoted for centuries, remains an almost Herculean task. Even though man has explored nearly every horizon on earth, the most uncharted region remains the same - his own interior.

We still have a great deal to learn about the processes that result in our conscious thoughts and emotions. We know even less about this mind which produces visions, voices, and hallucinations, and still find ourselves groping for explanations today.

Dr. Wilson Van Dusen, a practicing psychologist, has discovered that his recent clinical findings on the subject of hallucinations conformed to those of the 18th century scientist-theologian, Emanuel Swedenborg whose detailed accounts of parapsychological experiences written over two hundred years ago have proved quite helpful to modern day psychologists. Dr. Van Dusen's conclusions are strikingly similar to those of Swedenborg and are published in booklet form entitled The Presence of Spirits in Madness. They have radical implications for our self-understanding.

In another booklet, Dreams, Hallucinations, Visions, Dr. Ernst Benz, a leading German theologian, offers an objective study of such phenomena as recorded in the Bible, in writings of mystics, and in scientific annals.

Both copies of these fascinating booklets - Dreams, Hallucinations, Visions and The Presence of Spirits in Madness - are available for only $1.00 (postpaid) at the Swedenborg Foundation, Dept. PP, 139 E. 23rd St., New York, N.Y. 10010.

RANDY FLIPPING'S SELECTION AS DES MOINES' 1972 March of Dimes poster child was made by Terry Smith, Chairman, of the Campaign. Forgive the cliché, but Randy's placement gains him one of those firsts.

AHEM! RANDY DID SOME RAPPING as he spearheads the Flipping clan's first bid in the community's political arena, one might say. He wrote his name across the guest book quite, quite clearly!

DAD IS HARRY W. FLIPPING, you know and is Iowa Realty Athletic Club masseur! Brother Harry, Jr. 19 used to play drums, is an air force veteran and now International Harvester Co. employee; another brother, Gordon 14, is a Washington Irving student and plays lead guitar in The Divisions; Tammy Lynn, 10, attends Perkins School and is mother's little helper. Mother is a lovely homemaker and very proud of it.

RANDY SINGS WITH THE FAMILY jam sessions. Tries to play Gordon's guitar. At three years he was enrolled at the Easter Seal Center for therapy; remained until passed to Smouse School. As his mother and I visited, I could hear him fingering the organ in the background.

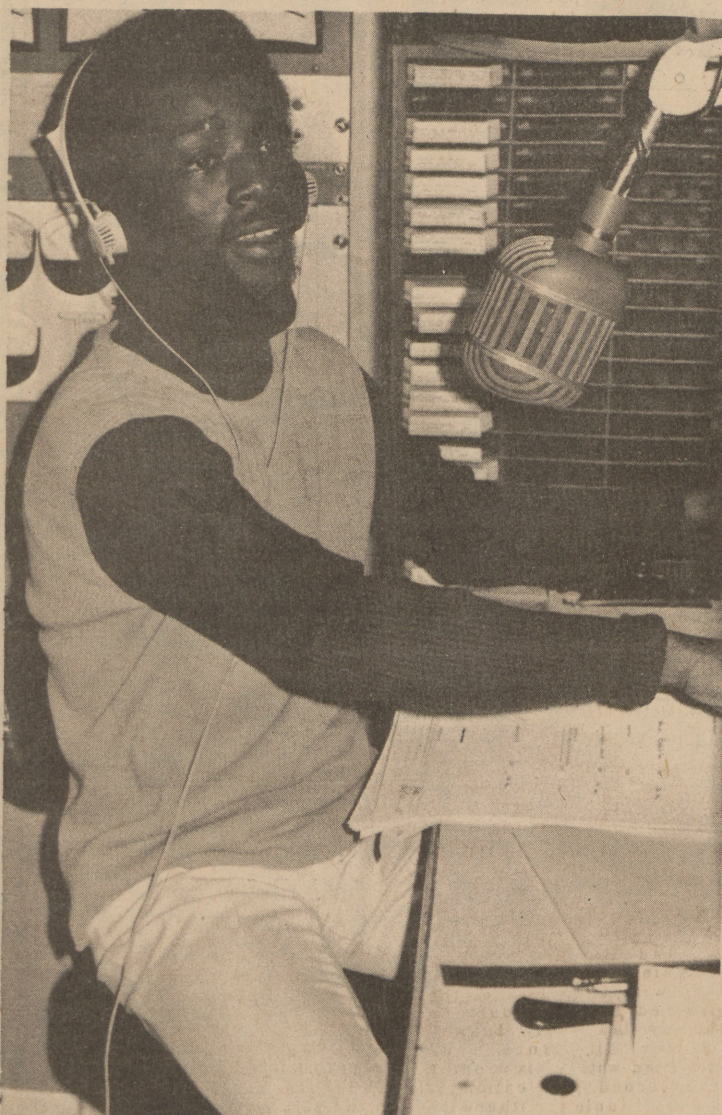

OUR POSTER MODEL HAS LISTENED to Radio Station WHO for years but this is the first time he has heard anything about the family.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. At the end of a meal in a public place, when a boy and girl are dining together, which one makes the first move to leave?

A. The girl. She signals this by placing her napkin unfolded at the left of her plate, looks inquiringly at her escort, and prepares to rise.

Q. Is it necessary to write a "thank you" note when one has been entertained informally at dinner in someone's home?

A. Verbal thanks as you are leaving are all that's expected. However, there's nothing wrong with a sincerely-written note of appreciation for any kindness.

Q. Certain guests have the habit of putting cigarettes out in my coffee cups when I am entertaining them. What can I do about this?

A. Very firmly place an ashtray within reach of these ill-mannered guests, and say, "Would you mind using this, please?"

Q. When one has a large quantity of wedding invitations to address and mail, isn't it all right to address the envelopes on a typewriter?

A. Never, NEVER! This would be in the worst possible taste. These envelopes are addressed by hand, as legibly and neatly as possible.

Q. I've been told that it is bad manners to take anything to drink while there is still food in the mouth. True?

A. True — because this often leaves particles of food in the beverage or an unattractive smear on the glass. Your mouth should be empty before you drink. Certainly you should avoid the appearance of "washing down" food that is already in the mouth. And incidentally, it is amazing how many people are guilty of this breach of good manners.

Q. Who properly terminates a social phone call — the person who made the call or the one who has been called?

A. This really is not too important — either one, depending upon circumstances, may end the call.

Q. My fiancé cannot afford the kind of engagement ring he would like me to have. Would it still be proper for me to announce our engagement without a ring?

A. Certainly. The ring is just a symbol, and you can be just as much "engaged" without one. And above all, don't apologize to anyone for your lack of a ring! This is YOUR business, and no one else's.

Q. We have recently moved into a new neighborhood and are planning a housewarming. Should we invite neighbors whom we haven't met yet?

A. No; invite just your friends. You should wait for your neighbors to call on you before extending them any social invitations.

SPORTS

Unbecoming Conduct

The disgraceful ending of a basketball game involving some of the players of the Ohio State University and the University of Minnesota should never be repeated. It was the height of unsportsmanlike conduct. Football and basketball provides close contact between the players, some intentionally causing flareups with often easily brushed off with a handshake.

But in the fracas at Minneapolis some players deliberately mauled and manhandled some of their opponents. Some visitors joined in.

Permanent friendships often develop among athletes between men from opposite sections of the country and from different races both in the schools and in professional sports.

The athletic arena is no place for fights. They are arguments for opponents of athletics in schools. On the other hand, those who inflict these disgraceful fouls should be punished severely and not with just a tap on the wrist.

Diplomatic Explorations

To End the War

Many of President Nixon's critics have insisted that a date be set for a complete pull out in Viet Nam. Efforts to pass a law calling for this have failed in Congress because enough members do not agree.

There are those who insist that the administration could have settled the war if a definite proposal to do so was made to the other side.

Last week, the President announced that personal negotiations with the enemy have been going on for several months wherein offers were made for a complete pull out coupled with the provision for a simultaneous release of all prisoners. This has been turned down so far.

These negotiations are secret and should have been so. Otherwise critics would have made all kinds of objections to form and substance which would have gotten us nowhere.

Apparently the North Vietnamese feel that they can win the war with a military victory thus pushing aside any interest in an negotiating settlement.

Ducking Responsibility

Letters to the editor are sounding boards, a privileged citizens have of expressing their view publicly. Editors generally publish them as long as they do not block the mails or contaminate the air or do indicate the name of the writer.

Generally, letters to the editor over WHO have been excellent. However, we were surprised and disappointed that an editorial was read over WHO in which the writer criticized the people who have bought homes under Title 235, wherein, the public pays much of the cost and who purchase color TV's and new cars at the same time.

Without taking notice of the facts, we do not believe that a writer should be permitted to make wholesale charges against any group and at the same time withhold his name and thus escape responsibility for his action. This type of publicity is not conducive to good public relations.

While the writer made no mention about race or status in life if she knows about the program the loans are made to low income families black or white.

Maybe some people are abusing the program as is the case with anything; others are not but let every critic stand on his own feet and let the people know who he is.

Health for All

OUTGROWING THE COMMON COLD

There is no cure-all for the common cold. But outgrowing colds may be one way to hold out against sniffles and sore throats.

One intensive study, conducted by the Child Research Council of the University of Colorado, showed that the preschool child had the greatest number of colds. As age increased, colds declined.

Subjects in the study — 116 boys and 111 girls — were volunteered by their parents before they were born. Their illness records were kept for decades, in some cases as many as 34 years.

The results? Severe infection were most common in the very early years. But they decreased gradually after age two in boys and age five in girls. Mild infections peaked in preschool and early school years, slowly declined until mid-adolescence, then dropped off abruptly. During the year, most colds occurred between October and May. Colds were scarce during June, July, and August.

The study that antibiotic therapy did not alter the number or the kind of infection. Also, the passage of time had not influenced the incidence of respiratory infection since 1930. Results of the study were published in a recent issue of the American Journal of Diseases of Children, a professional publication of the American Medical Association.

Outgrowing colds can be a long, scratchy wait. And millions of adults are still laid low by respiratory infections every year. To find out more about how your respiratory system works, check with your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. And when your system isn't working right, see your doctor.

500,000 Members
Goal for NAACP

NEW YORK — Dr. Eugene T. Reed, chairman of the NAACP 1972 nationwide membership campaign, announced the membership drive will begin March 21.

The goal for this year is 500,000. But Dr. Reed, president of the New York State Conference of NAACP Branches, felt that this goal is too modest.

He sparked enthusiasm at a meeting of delegates and state conference presidents during the Association's annual meeting here, Jan. 10, when he announced that he was doubling the New York State membership goal to 100,000. He also said that he felt that other NAACP state presidents should do the same.

In hailing the drive, Executive Director Roy Wilkins said that "we naturally welcome the challenge that Dr. Reed has presented us. I am confident that we can easily surpass our half-million membership goal."

Last December, the NAACP membership came to 388,715, just 26,000 more than in 1970 but still short of the 400,000 target. Consequently, the National

ON THE SPORTS SCENE

The big sports news of the week was the brawl involving Minnesota and Ohio State basketball teams. From what the films showed, the Gophers were largely at fault. What triggers a deal like that one? As close as we can figure, it begins when the game starts out rough, and the officials are inclined to let things go a little. The way the game is played, it isn't possible for ten great men to bang into each other and push one another around without some tempers getting away.

No Contact Game

Basketball was designed as a no contact game, but it never was, not even in the days when we little fellows played it. We can still recall some Sunday school league games with two sets of brothers playing guards for opposite teams, and all the baskets were made from the middle of the floor. It was worth your health and possibly your life to go in for a lay up against those four brothers. And now the players are big, so big, in fact, that a fellow six feet one is almost called short, and a five feet ten fellow is referred to as a midget. Then, they come around the backboards weighing anywhere from two twenty to two forty. When those fellows bump, something has to give.

It is just about impossible for two officials to see all the fouls committed in a fast moving game. So player A may have been shoving and holding player B all through the game, and maybe had mouthing him a little. Well, player B gets enough, and either commits a flagrant foul or takes a swipe at A. That the official sees, and that doesn't help B's blood pressure. Even on television, there was ample evidence that the Ohio State player involved wasn't doing anything, but events like that one only happen out of a clear sky. We thought the coaches should have been right out there, and maybe they were. That scuffle in South Carolina between Marquette and South Carolina could have been as ugly as the Minnesota one if the two coaches had not taken charge right away.

How would we prevent a recurrence of that? Well, maybe three officials and have them call every thing, and we mean just that. If a player so much as brushed another, it should be called. Then, perhaps raising the baskets to twelve feet and eliminating the backboards might help. You wouldn't have the scramble around the basket if there were no backboard, because the ball would either go in or come off the rim. There have been several of those melees this year, and something must be done to bring the game back to sanity. Better control of the crowds would certainly help. Food and drink cups should be barred in the seats, and there wouldn't be so much debris to throw at the teams. And the officials don't get too much respect because of the actions of the coaches and players. Coaches let their displeasure be apparent with every foul called on their team, and the player raises his hand and waves it in disgust at the official. That should be a technical foul. We saw this in a paper last week, and it illustrates how the crowds feel about the officials. "We got the rope, we got the tree. Now all we need is a referee."

Now that we have taken care of all that might be wrong with the roundball game, you must know what happened to our three major teams. Drake stood off a rally to dust North Texas, and Iowa State came through against Oklahoma State. Iowa caught the Minnesota team on the rebound after the suspension of the two players who fought, and took one on the chin. After that game, the Iowa coach is in favor of a thirty second rule for shooting such as the pros have.

Tech Back To Winning

And here at home, the fellows from Tech act as if they hadn't lost to North and went right back to winning, getting Valley and Dowling over the week end. North seems to be having troubles, because they dropped their third straight game, and they are a better team than that. If the Tech boys can win a couple more, they can begin to think in terms of championship.

We thought it would be a little different to come up with a small rundown of some of the black college scores. Now, they may not be the very latest, but here are some of them, and we shall include them each week from now on. Texas Southern 89, Prairie View 88; Grambling 101, Alcorn A&M 88; Le Moyne 84, Ithica 73; Lincoln U. 86, Roger Williams 78; Texas Southern 121, Texas College 97; Arkansas AM&N 114, Southern LA 91; Florida A&M 105, Alabama A&M 88; Le Moyne 72, Siena 67; Grambling 105, Prairie View 104 (overtime); Lincoln (MO) 109, Kentucky State 97. Maybe more next week.

Can you invest $10? Theoretically yes, but in practice no. The cost of the transaction would be more than the investment.

But if $10 is what you have in mind, step right into a broker's office and speak up. He'll talk. Because small investors have a way of becoming big investors. It's called growth. Isn't that what investing is all about? This thought about brokers comes from a company that is not a brokerage firm.

Home Sewing Reminder

NEW YORK (ED)—The home sewer must be knowledgeable about the care requirements of the fabrics she chooses, and of the notions and trim she uses with them.

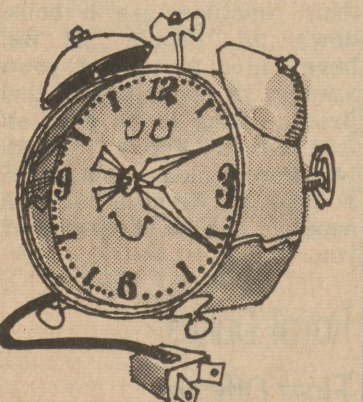

The performance of a finished garment is no better than the performance of its weakest part. If the fabric selected for a dress is completely washable, the trim, pocketing, interfacing and lining fabrics, binding tape, thread and zipper must be care compatible, too.

For example, if the home sewer selects a Fortrel polyester double knit shrink-resistant dress fabric, and the lining used is 100% rayon or cotton (as many fabrics are), the garment is not going to be very useful or wearable after one washing.

Good judgment on the part of the home sewer can help eliminate many potential problems. For instance, pre-shrink the zipper before sewing it into the dress; test a sample of trim for colorfastness before using it with a white fabric; do not use plastic buttons on a garment that will need dry-cleaning (they could dissolve in the dry cleaning solvent), unless you are prepared to remove them before cleaning.

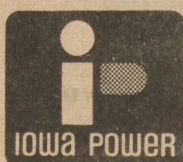

There is more to making clothes than having a wide selection of high fashion fabrics from which to choose and the skill to cut and sew them in the latest styles. You have to make sure that after washing or dry cleaning, your dress will still fit!

VETERANS

Funding levels requested in the President's Fiscal Year 1973 budget request to Congress to support Veterans Administration programs for America's veterans are the highest in the history of the Nation.

Donald E. Johnson, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, said the VA appropriations request of $11.7-billion is up about $790-million over fiscal 1972 and marks the fourth consecutive year in which record VA budget requests have been recorded.

The total budget authority for VA in F.Y. 1973, Johnson added, amounts to $12.4-billion, an increase of $1.0-billion over fiscal 1972.

The VA head said a record medical care appropriation request of nearly $2.5-billion, up $166.1-million over 1972 will permit VA to achieve these new levels:

— Provide inpatient treatment to some 949,000 veteran-patients, an increase of 24,200 over the previous year.

— Handle 10.8-million outpatient medical visits, an increase of 1.4-million.

— Increase by 20-per cent the care provided in VA nursing care units.

Provide medical training for a record 62,000 physicians, dentists, nurses and other health personnel, 5,500 trainees over the prior year.

The VA Administrator noted these other highlights in the just submitted budget.

— The biggest single item in the VA budget is the payment of VA compensation and pensions to nearly 5.0-million veterans and dependents. The amount for these payments in the new budget is set at $6.4-billion, an increase of $331-million over the previous year.

— A hospital construction program of $155-million. An increase of $61.6-million from the previous year, the highest level of construction since 1951.

— Included in the construction program are provisions for multi-million-dollar hospital projects at Bronx, N.Y., Columbia, S.C., Hampton, Va., Boise, Idaho, and Loma Linda and Los Angeles, Calif.; air-conditioning funds for 10 VA hospitals, and the construction of 1,415 additional nursing care beds at a number of VA stations.

— An increase of $204.7-million for G. I. Bill training and other readjustment benefits. The total $2.2-billion for these benefits represents a more than 200-per cent increase over the figure of just four years ago, and provides for the training of more than 2.0-million young veterans — an increase of 105,500 veterans over last year's record number of enrollees.

These proposals include an average 8.6-per cent increase in payments under the G. I. Bill and other VA education along with training programs at a fiscal 1973 cost of about $174-million.

Johnson said the record new VA budget, which accounts for nearly five-per cent of the total 1973 Federal budget, will go mainly to veterans in direct benefit programs. Approximately 74.0-per cent goes for direct benefits; 22.0 per cent for medical care; 1.4-per cent for hospital construction, and 2.6-per cent for VA general operating expenses.

IRS Gets Retroactive Instructions

Des Moines, Iowa — R. C. Voskuil, Acting District Director for the Des Moines District Office, Internal Revenue Service, announced that the IRS had recently received instructions on processing requests for permission to grant retroactive pay.

Voskuil said that generally, "retroactive pay may be paid, including fringe benefits, up to 7 per cent if increases were called for in agreements which were agreed to or in effect prior to the 90-day freeze, which started on August 15, 1971." He said that, "if prices, productivity, taxes, or appropriations were raised in anticipation of increased salaries, the raises must be paid."

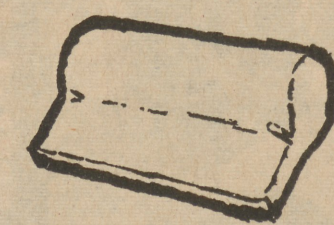

Category 2 employees (1,000-5,000 employees) and category 3 employees (less than 1,000 employees) may grant retroactive pay up to 7 per cent.

Category I firms (5,000 or more employees) must obtain prior approval from the Pay Board before granting retroactive pay.
