Balk at Friendship City Operation Beauty School Celebrates 33rd Year

Founder Expands New Operations

The students at Crescent Beauty School are observing their 33rd birthday. By honoring the founder of the school, Mrs. Pauline Humphrey.

Mrs. Humphrey started out in the beauty field around 1934 and 1935, attending Madam Walker's Beauty School in Chicago, Illinois.

When she finished training, she returned to Des Moines and had her first beauty shop called "Polly's", on E. 16th and University. She worked there for about 5 years.

Teaches in Ft. Dodge

In 1940, she commuted to Fort Dodge to do her teachers training. In 1951, Mrs. Humphrey accomplished her lifelong goal, that establishing the first black beauty school in Iowa located at 1050 13th St. and at the same time had Polly's moved to Walker St.

Also in the 40's she was commissioned by the "Fitch Co.", to establish a place for black W.A.C.'s stationed here for officers training.

The school was moved to 1407 Center St. because she had outgrown the one on 13th.

Own Line

Mrs. Humphrey had her own line of cosmetics, "Myrise Paule". These cosmetics were so successful, she later added other products from other companies.

During these years she also had a shop at Keokuk which she managed and at various times sending beauticians from here. Around 1968 the school moved on University Ave. because of the Oakridge Urban Renewal Projects.

Among her many organizational functions, Mrs. Humphrey is the Vice President of the National Beauty Culturists League, establishing organizations in Minneapolis, Waterloo and here in Des Moines. She maintained membership in Iowa Beauty Schools.

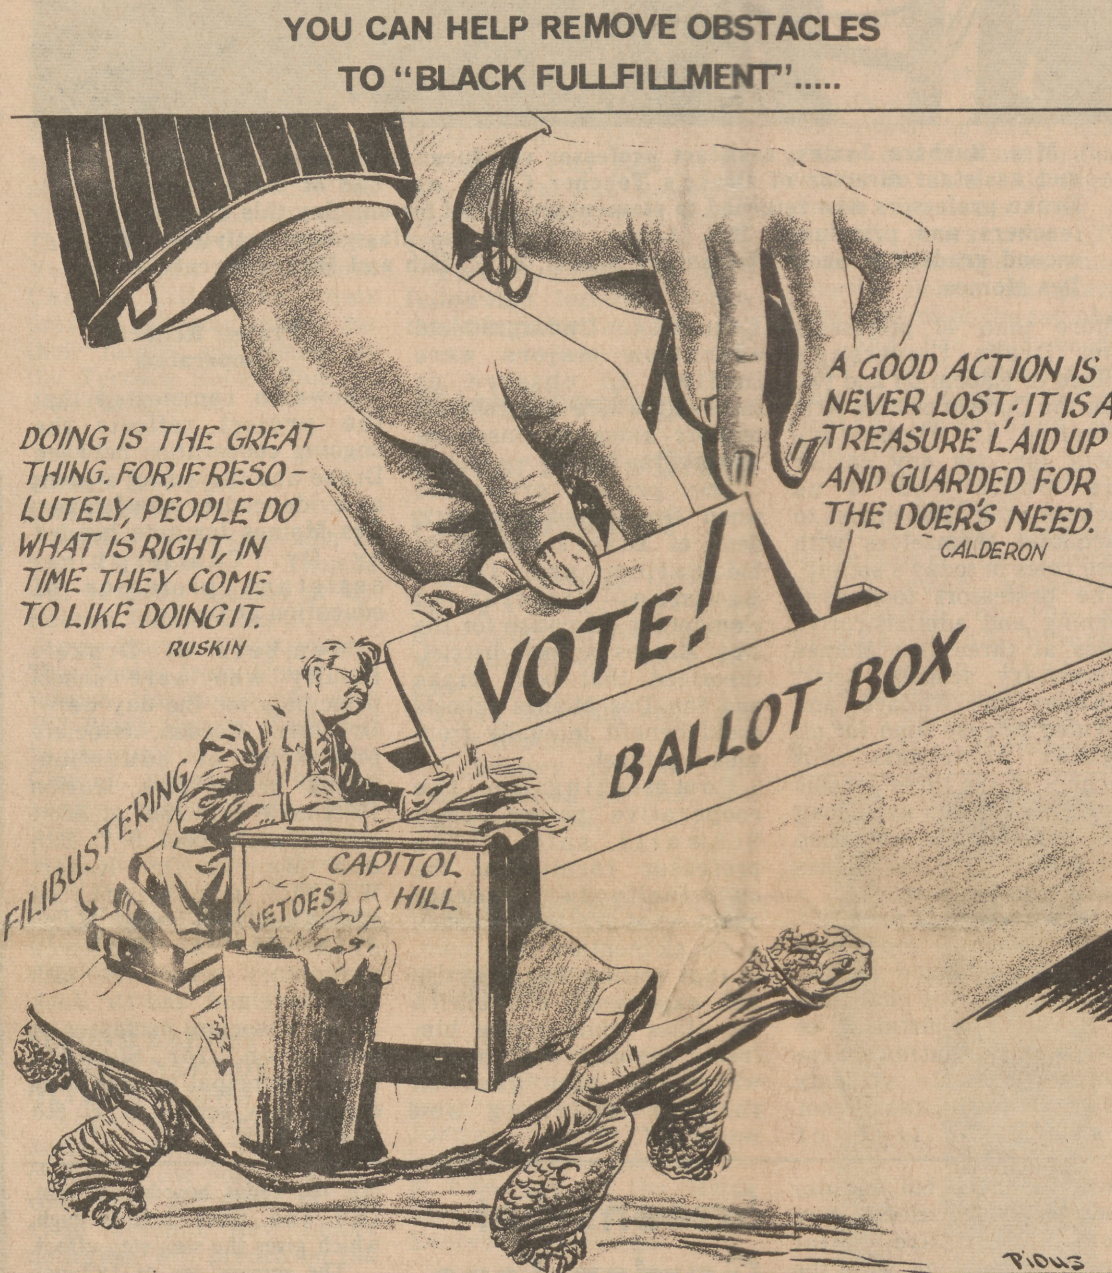

Some of her civic duties are that she has provided services for Woodard and Clarinda Areas. Students were sent to these areas and provided free services for the people until they could provide operators for themselves.

For a number of years she has provided students to give free demonstrations for various schools.

Revolutions Business

The school has always been a cite for clinics and yearly demonstrations. Mrs. Humphrey revolutionized the business when she introduced permanents for kinky hair to the community.

Mrs. Humphrey has taken courses at the University of Iowa, at Drake and Grandview Colleges pertaining to her work. She has studied at Paris, France with short work courses at beauty schools there.

Family

She is the wife of Major Humphrey and they have one daughter, Mrs. Barbara

A memorable birthday for Dr. Harper

ONE VETERAN FORT MADISON physician was on hand at the Fort Madison County club Saturday evening to help honor another. Dr. Frank R. Richmond, sr. (left) was among those paying tribute to Dr. Harry D. Harper, sr., at a dinner sponsored by the Fort Madison branch of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). Dr. Harper is pictured with his wife, Lillie Virginia. Dr. Harper has been practicing medicine here 46 years, just four years less than Dr. Richmond.

Commemorating a 72nd birthday can be a very ordinary occurrence for people of this time in history.

But when you observe it on Abraham Lincoln's birthday and when approximately 220 persons come to a testimonial dinner in your honor, the day must have greater significance.

This happened to Dr. Harry D. Harper, sr. Saturday night at the Fort Madison Country club when he was honored at a dinner sponsored by the Fort Madison branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, an organization which has elected him president, several times over.

Associates from all walks of life and from throughout the United States came to pay tribute to the quiet man, a Fort Madison native who graduated from the Howard University medical school, Washington, D.C., in 1926 and who has been in practice here since 1927.

His life, from the time when he opened his office here with his brother, the late Dr. George Harper; was reviewed by various speakers during the program.

Ernest Burt was his second patient.

The principal speaker, William R. Ming, a Chicago attorney who is a personal friend of Dr. Harper's, told the group there is one major lesson to be learned: "We must communicate with our young people and tell them the story of Dr. Harper and the impact that such a man has on the life of his fellowmen. He is an inspiration to all of his friends and his race, by the examples he has given."

In his remarks at the close of the program, Dr. Harper after thanking all who had made arrangements for the evening, commented:

"In recent years, it has been one of my major objectives that I wanted no part of any testimonial dinner. But I was told to come here tonight and if I did not like the program, to be quiet. If I did like the program, I was to comment that I did. Well, I came, and I liked it, and I appreciate it."

Mrs. Ben F. Lewis was master of ceremonies. A Harper family crest was presented to the honoree and Mrs. Harper from the NAACP Dr. Harry Harper, Jr. and Dr. Frank Harper two of his children. He also received other gifts and Mrs. Harper received a corsage.

William Cribbs of Davenport gave a history of Dr. Harper's life. Dr. Frank Richmond Sr. spoke on behalf of the Fort Madison Medical Society as did Dr. George McGinnis.

Thomas Kelly of Des Moines represented the state NAACP and De Edwin White, Burlington, represented branch NAACP presidents. A longtime personal friend, W. L. Oliver, attorney from Des

Oil Tanker Found In 150 Ft. Of Water

The U. S. Coast Guard has reported that the oil tanker VA EOG which had been reported lost off the coast of Texas, has been found in 150 feet of water about 50 miles from shore.

The accident was reported last week in which Tommy Lee McGregory, of Des Moines was listed as one of the members of the crew. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth McGregory, has had no further word from the owners of the tanker.

Moines gave Dr. Harper a personalized plaque.

Guests included Congressman Fred Schwengel of Iowa's first district, State Senator Will Davis of Keokuk and State Rep. John Clark, also of Keokuk, Fort Madison Mayor Gordon Lane, and relatives of both Dr. and Mrs. Harper from several states and Washington, D.C.

Immediate family members present included two daughters, Virginia Harper of Fort Madison, Lois Eichacker of Keokuk; a daughter - in - law, Mrs. Harry Harper, jr., of Fort Madison and grandchildren of the honoree. Dr. Harry Harper, jr. and Dr. Frank Harper, sons, were absent due to duties with military reserve units.

Ernest Burt, husband of the Ft. Madison Bystander correspondent Mrs. Dessie Burt, was Dr. Harper's second patient.

NEWS In A Nutshell

NEW YORK, NEGRO CONDUCTED SIT-IN AT AMSTERDAM NEWS recently in protest of a Bayard Rustin column which argued for "scatter housing for NY blacks. Publisher Clarence Jones agreed to carry 4 articles by Dr. Thomas W. Mettew, president of Negro Economic Growth & Reconstruction Organization. In his series, Dr. Mettew holds that the desire for "scatter" housing by blacks is an expression of self-hate and a wish of black people to get away from themselves. (N.E.G.R.O.)

LOS ANGELES — Sammy Davis, Jr., super-star, joins the Los Angeles Black Business Conference's $100 - A-Plate Fund Raising Celebrity Committee.

KANSAS CITY — Samuel J. Cornelius, O.E.O. regional director, charged the Human Resources Corporation with "improper lobbying" this week and the charges have placed the financing of all anti-poverty programs here in jeopardy.

H.R.C. headed by Chester E. Stovall with headquarters at 2405 E. Truman road, is financed through O.E.O.

MILWAUKEE, WIS. — A local union representing hundreds of Black hospital and nursing home employees in Milwaukee, as well as workers at St. Luke's Hospital and Lincoln Lutheran Home in Racine, has been charged with unfair and illegal labor practices.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U. S. Representative John Conyers, jr. (D-Michigan), according to his legislative assistant David Simmons, is "still talking to Ms. Chisholm. We are very supportive of her efforts but we have not yet come out with a blanket endorsement. There are still a couple of issues to settle."

Glantons Involved In Auto Accident

Judge and Mrs. Luther T. Glanton, Jr. were injured January 23 about 6:30 p.m. when their car was struck from the rear. The cars were moving in a northerly direction on Highway No. 65 nine miles beyond Chillicothe, Missouri.

The Glanton car was totally demolished as was the second car. Judge and Mrs. Glanton received neck and back injuries. Passengers in the other car suffered injuries consisting of a broken arm, possible broken nose, possible brain injury; and cuts, bruises and abrasions.

The Glantons were returning from St. Paul Lutheran College where they had enrolled their son, Luther, III in high school at St. Paul College in Concordia.

Letter Charges Terms of Contract Violated; Director Roberson Makes Reply

In an article appearing in the Des Moines Sunday Register on February 13, Rev. Orzealya Roberson organizer and director of Friendship City stated that fewer than 10 of her 73 clients were referred rehabilitation prisoners.

However, the Iowa Bystander has received a copy of a letter written from J. Michael Casey, Assistant City Manager for Community Development, February 11, 1972, addressed to Rev. Roberson, stating that "Prisoner's Rehabilitation Center, Inc. of which you are currently the director, is in violation of the contract between the Corporation and the City of Des Moines due to the Corporation's failure to comply with the terms and conditions as defined in the scope of services of said contract dated April 26, 1971 and amended December 20, 1971.

Cites Failures

Specifically, in our judgement, Prisoner's Rehabilitation Services, Inc. has failed to:

1. Demonstrate that it is providing services to released adult offenders to help re-integrate them into their community.

2. Develop a program as defined in the contract for each client referred to the Halfway House.

Rev. Roberson has been operating the facility since December 20, 1963 but only in May 1971 did he receive a grant of $19,400.00 from the Model Cities Program.

Letter Requests

Service
Casey's letter requested the following information of services required to be furnished under the agreement:

1. The name of each client served;
2. The age of the client;
3. The name and location of the state penal institution from which the client was released;
4. The date of release from the penal institution;
5. The date the client was taken under service by the agency;
6. The community into which the client was to be re-integrated;
7. A statement of the program of support service

New Jersey Judge Slain

NEWARK, N.J. — A strawberry-blonde, tan-skinned black woman was arraigned Thursday in the hotel room shooting death of the first black man ever appointed to a New Jersey judgeship.

Mrs. Naomi Stout, 43, was ordered held without bond on murder charges in the death of Essex County Judge Roger M. Yancey, 67.

Police said she was previously convicted of stabbing the judge in his chambers in 1967. The judge described her then as a family friend, police said.

Yancey, recalled by Newark Lawyers and court reporters as a knowledgeable, competent judge with a sharp wit, was found propped up on a motel bed in downtown Newark last Wednesday night.

REV. ORZEALYA

developed for this client: 8. A report on the progress of the client with regard to the program developed for him;

9. A statement and report for each client for whom services have been terminated, the reason for termination, and an assessment as to whether or not this client has been successfully re-integrated into a community.

City To

Withhold Payments
If the information requested above does not indicate that the project has, in fact, been performing under the terms of its contract as defined in the scope of services, the agreement will be suspended in accordance with section 11 of that contract.

The City of Des Moines will withhold payments after February 29, 1972, until that suspension is removed. Therefore, I would recommend that you take the necessary steps to pay all expenses which have been incurred or will be incurred through Feb. 29, 1972.

In an interview held Tuesday afternoon at Friendship City, Rev. Roberson declared that "the charges made by J. Michael Casey that Prisoner's Rehabilitation Services, Inc. is in violation of the contract with the City of Des Moines are inaccurate and that she is preparing documentary evidence to refute them."

Police said the judge was nude and bleeding from multiple gunshot wounds with a .32 caliber pistol when a motel employee discovered him.

He was rushed from the Gateway Downtown Motor Inn to Martland Medical Center, where he died Thursday after six hours of surgery.

Before he died, Mrs. Stout, accompanied by her attorney, surrendered to police at headquarters here.

Arrest Hobbs On Conspiracy Charge

Police arrested Clifford C. Hobbs of 1206 12th St. on Monday on a warrant signed by Judge John M. Hughes, Jr. charging that he delivered a controlled substance.

Only last week he was released from bond on a drug charge. In this case, bond was set at $100,000.

Candidates In The making

Governor Ray to Seek Third Term

GOV. RAY

Governor Robert D. Ray, announced last Friday that he will seek re-election as Governor of Iowa.

"For some time I have been aware of, and encouraged by, the efforts of many people who have been working on behalf of my candidacy," Ray said. "At this time I want to acknowledge publicly the loyalty and support of these people and thank them for it."

Vigorous '72 Campaign

I will wage a very vigorous and positive campaign for re-election. But it will be a campaign that will have to begin in earnest after the conclusion of this legislative session," he continued. "And even then I will continue to have the responsibility of the duties of Governor and will not ignore that priority.

We are in the midst of an especially important legislative session, a session that will affect the shape and direction and tone of the gubernatorial campaign which is ahead of us."

The governor added that General Assembly has been acting favorably on a number of important legislative proposals that he submitted last month. "I shall continue to do what I can to assist the legislature in seeing that this program of work is accomplished."

Satisfaction Outweighed Rigors

The satisfaction of accomplishment in the office he now holds has far outweighed the rigors during the three years he has been Iowa's Governor. "Perhaps most satisfying has been the opportunity. From the unique vantage point of this office, to be aware of and to help unleash the tremendous potential that is possessed by Iowa and Iowans."

It has been the goal of this Administration, utilizing this potential, to move Iowa ahead and to develop our industrial, agricultural and most importantly, our human resources," he added. "I believe we are succeeding, although much remains to be done."

I am presenting my candidacy to the people of this state today with the hope that the support and cooperation I have received from Iowans since I was first elected Governor will be forthcoming again in the election of 1972."

Clark Seeks Senate Seat

DICK CLARK

Dick Clark, 42, of Marion, announced today that he is a candidate for the United States Senate.

In a statement issued from his Marion headquarters, Clark said: "In the past few days I have been most encouraged and honored by the enthusiastic support expressed by people throughout the state."

"In the months ahead I will tell you where I stand on the issues we face, but I want to hear what you have to say as well. In this campaign I will listen as well as speak."

Clark went on to say: "I undertake this effort knowing that Senator Miller is a well-entrenched and highly-financed politician. However, I have great faith in the judgment and good sense of the people of this state and I am confident they will reject Senator Miller's record of service to special interests at the expense of the rest of our citizens."

"To be successful, he continued, "our campaign must be based on enthusiasm, energy and the hard work of our people. Together we can work to help build a greater state and a greater nation."

Meridith Runs For U. S. Senate

JACKSON, Miss. — James H. Meridith, the hero of the civil rights movement in the deep South 10 years ago, said he would seek the Republican nomination to oppose Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss.

State Republican Chairman Clark Reed said Meridith's announcement came as a "total surprise." He declined further comment, adding that "we don't normally comment on candidates until after filing deadlines or primaries."

Meridith, whose admission to the University of Mississippi as its first black in 1962 sparked campus rioting that claimed two lives, said he was setting up campaign headquarters in Jackson.

Meridith, 39, is the second candidate seeking the GOP nomination for Eastland's seat. Former GOP Congressman Prentiss Walker made his announcement several weeks ago.

Meridith returned to Mississippi last year to set up an economic development firm. He said his program was designed to "teach blacks the basics of investment."

Meridith revealed last month, however, that his program was "failing" but vowed to continue the project. He said some $27,000 had been spent in promotion and other costs for the program "with only a negligible result in all cases."

Meridith graduated from Ole Miss in 1964 and moved North to enroll at the Columbia University Law School.

When he returned to Mississippi in 1966 to lead a 210-mile "March Against Fear" from Memphis, Tenn., to Jackson, he was felled by three blasts of birdshot from a shotgun held by a white man.

After graduation, he spent 10 years in the Air Force.

Through yearly clinics, Des Moines has been introduced to new products and new methods of beautification.

"With a number of credits going to Mrs. Humphrey, we do appreciate her many efforts, which have been put forth and accomplished," said the students in an anniversary message.

Appoint Area Administrator At Woodward

John F. Mapp Jr. has been appointed area administrator at the Woodward State Hospital-School, Woodward. He will have responsibility for approximately one-fourth of the resident population and will have ultimate responsibility for seeing that the Hospital-School resources are utilized to assure that an individual plan is developed and implemented for each resident living in that area.

Mapp received his bachelor's degree in sociology from Virginia Union University.

JOHN F. MAPP JR.

Richmond, Va., and his master's degree in social work from the Atlanta University School of Social Work, Atlanta, Ga.

He has been associated with the Welfare Federation of Cleveland, Ohio; Cuyahoga County Welfare Department, Cleveland, Ohio; and with Wilkie House, Inc., Des Moines.

Mapp was intake supervisor at Woodward State Hospital-School from 1968 until May of 1969. He served as project director for Public Service Careers, city of Des Moines and later joined the Division of Rehabilitation, Education and Services Center, State Department of Public Instruction, as a social worker.

Waterloo Seeking More Black Teachers

The Waterloo School Board has agreed to hire 10 extra black teachers for the 1972-73 school year at a cost of about $90,000.

Presently only 34 of Waterloo's teachers are black.

The money will come from a $100,000 desegregation and integration (D&I) budget used to promote racial integration in Waterloo schools.

Dr. Robert Harvey, the only black member of the Waterloo school board said he is opposed to using D&I money in hiring the teachers. "I'm for hiring

Forty Drake Professors Teach in Elementary Schools

Mrs. Barbara James, assistant professor of education at Drake University and assistant director of Drake's Teacher Corps, was one of more than 40 Drake professors who returned to elementary school for one day this month as teachers and principals. Mrs. James oversaw the classroom activities of second graders at Scott Elementary School, S. E. 25th and Maury Streets, in Des Moines.

More than 40 professors from Drake University's College of Education and two from the College of Fine Arts returned to elementary school for one day earlier this month Feb. 3 as teachers and principals to reacquire themselves with those roles in today's setting.

The professors took over teaching and administrative duties at three Des Moines elementary schools, Scott, McKinley and Wallace, and provided release time for all regular principals and teachers at the three schools to participate in a day-long staff development workshop scheduled by the Des Moines public school system.

The unique cooperative project, coordinated by Dr. Russ Abell, acting chairman of Drake's Department of Teacher Education, also involved graduate students and graduate assistants from Drake's College of Education. Undergraduate education majors were invited to observe or function, where possible, as teacher aides or classroom volunteers.

The project originated when Dr. Alfred Schwartz, dean of Drake's College of Education, and James Bowman, director of elementary education for the Des Moines school district, theorized that both Drake and the Des Moines schools could benefit mutually from such a project.

Commenting on the cooperative project, Dean Schwartz said, "The professor rarely has the opportunity to experience again what it's like to teach in the elementary classroom. In that setting, his expertise and experience can enrich the class while giving him fresh insights for himself which he can pass on through teaching and research."

Screens Set Garden Tone

Planters and screens lend focal points to garden landscaping. Combined with plantings, screens of western wood attractively separate outdoor living areas of a yard.

Screens serve a basic background role, as most plantings change personalities with the seasons, or are planted anew each year. Screens also afford privacy without blocking air circulation necessary for healthy plant growth.

A staggered set of three five-foot screens attached to planter boxes can be different. The planters, built of 2x8-inch west-

Special Subsidies To Low Income Persons

The Central Advisory Board for the Des Moines Community Development Program voted Sunday night to give top priority in its programs to obtaining special assessment subsidies for low-income persons.

The proposed subsidies would be available for such things as street paving and sewer projects. Board members suggested property owners who receive Old Age Assistance and those who meet certain income requirements should be eligible for subsidies.

The Central Board selected its top priority and six additional priorities at the conclusion of a three day planning conference at the Des Moines Area Community College near Ankeny.

Sewers, Food Control Considered
Assessment subsidies for persons who live on Maury Street, where paving and sewers currently are being installed, was top priority of the Southeast Neighborhood Board.

In establishing its top priority, the Central Board took note of the Maury Street project and of plans for flood control on Four Mile Creek, though the latter may be several years away. The Four Mile Neighborhood Priority Board has placed flood control at the top of its list and has said needed sewer and paving projects must be delayed until flood control measures are completed.

Council Awaits HUD Approval

During the planning conference, the Central Board used priorities established by the six Neighborhood Priority Boards to draft a comprehensive plan.

The Central Board will revise its comprehensive plan during the next few weeks and will file it with the Des Moines City Council by Mar. 13. The Plan then must be approved by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

City officials anticipate HUD approval of the plan by Apr. 1. When HUD approves it the city will receive the $5.8 million grant it was promised last July.

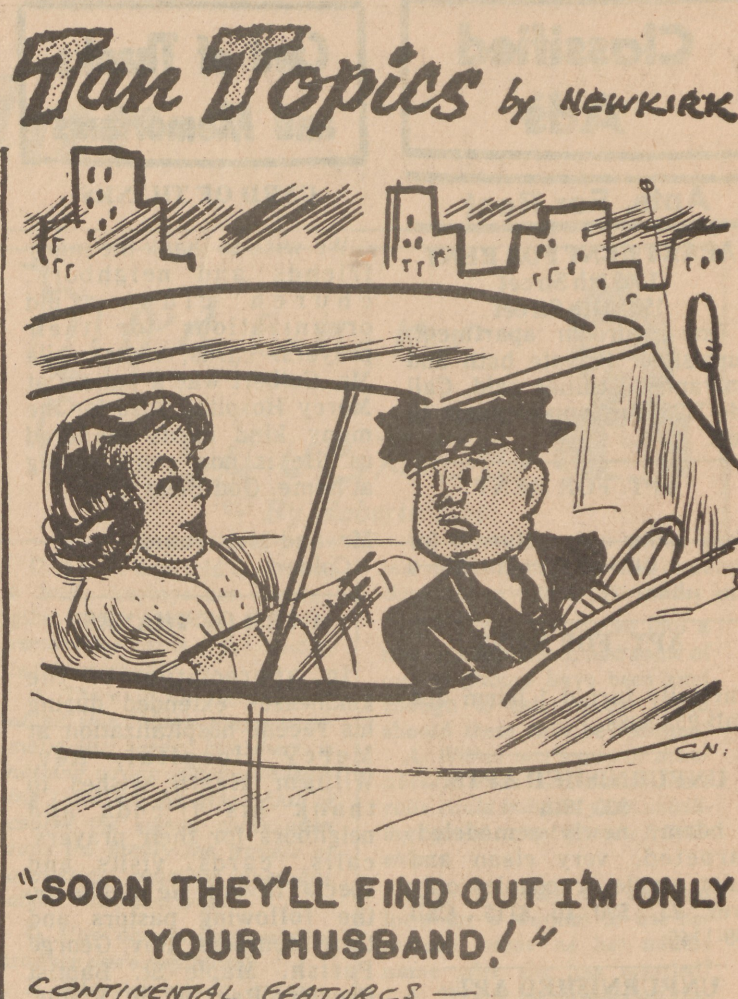

Projects included within the seven priorities established by the Central Board would cost an estimated $7,305,000. Some of the grant money would be used as local matching funds to obtain federal categorical grants, such as those available through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. City officials have estimated these additional funds could bring expenditures for community development to as much as $15 million during the coming year.

Other priorities established by the board, in the order they were ranked, are:

Social Services Given Priority
Expanded social services, job development, housing rehabilitation, transportation, new housing and removal of abandoned cars.

Both the Logan and Woodland - Willkie Neighborhood Priority Boards had placed expanded social services at the top of their priority lists. And that category ranked high with the remainder of the boards - Four Mile, Model City, Pioneer - Columbus and Southeast.

The social services category includes such items as medical, dental and mental health clinics; services for the elderly; and youth programs.

Deny Diggs Forced Out

WASHINGTON — Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, took over leadership of the Congressional Black Caucus amid denials that Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., was forced to resign as chairman.

Diggs told reporters at a news conference he began "quietly passing the word" three weeks ago that he would not seek re-election and that "I never felt word" try again.

Diggs told reporters at a news conference he began "quietly passing the word" three weeks ago that he would not seek re-election and that "I never felt I was under any compulsion or pressure" to resign.

The Congressman said Stokes, a Cleveland lawyer before winning election in 1968 as Ohio's first black member of Congress, was the unanimous choice of the Caucus in a secret vote. All 13 black members of the House belong to the Caucus. The only black in the Senate, Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, is not.

There have been published reports that several members of the Caucus were unhappy with Diggs' leadership, but Reps. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., and Parren J. Mitchell, D-Md., emphatically denied Diggs was forced out.

Diggs said he could have continued as chairman but that the press of other duties such as his chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Africa prompted him to give up the "tremendous burdens" of heading the Caucus.

Why is it so hard to discuss the POW question?

NOT only is the prisoner-of-war question a thorny problem at the peace talk sessions in Paris. It seems an explosive issue in homes around the world, even here in America.

Why? Because we are in a complicated and baffling and frustrating war. Because it is an "unofficial" war and many people wonder what rules apply. Or possibly, if any rules apply. Because nobody wants the war but the two sides can't agree how to end it.

The prisoner-of-war issue is caught up in this maelstrom of intellectual confusion and emotional voltage.

It's a pity that it is. It's a pity for the men who are being held prisoner. It's a pity for their families who live in fear and doubt. Indeed, it's a pity for the nations involved and those who only watch. They have allowed the multiplicity of issues to cloud the human issue.

This message speaks not of the political side of the prisoner-of-war issue but of the human side.

It speaks for the families of the prisoners and for all the peoples of the world whose conscience hasn't been covered over by the smog of confusion.

Of course, we all want the war to end and the prisoners of war to be released as soon as possible.

But meanwhile there is no need for Hanoi and its allies to delay even a day in answering this plea:

Open your prison camps in North Vietnam, South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia to official neutral observers. Let the world know who the prisoners are, where they are and whether they are being humanely treated in accordance with the standard of civilized nations.

That's all. Certainly there can be agreement on that part of the POW question.

In fact, there is no need for consultations. Hanoi, unilaterally and without consultation, can solve the problem.

Then, at least, the minds of millions in America would rest easier.

And perhaps those in other parts of the world, too.

SUPPORT OUR PLEA TO HANOI AND ITS ALLIES:

Clear away the doubts — Open your prison camps to neutral observers... now!

We ask no more than we give. All American and South Vietnamese prison camps are inspected regularly by official neutral observers — The International Committee of the Red Cross.

On Saturday, January 8, 7 P.M. Churches United of Scott and Rock Island Counties sponsored a Christian Education dinner discussion on Christian Education in the black church. Fifty-six persons attended this informative discussion representing 10 Black churches in the Quad Cities area. The agenda for the evening was as follows:
A. Dinner and fellowship.
B. Film strip (Shadow or Reality)
C. Completing of check list on needs in Christian Education.
D. Rapping on Christian Education as I see it in my Church.

These were the needs as stated on the check list:
1. How to understand and teach the Bible?
2. How to be a creative teacher?
3. How to communicate?
4. Continued teacher training and workshops.
5. How to involve and serve the youth of our church?

Planning and projection to help meet some of the stated needs will be as follows:
1. A workshop on Life and Leadership School during the spring of 1972.
2. The invitation extended to expertise in Black Church orientation to visit our area for lectures, workshops, and participation in the leadership school.
3. To utilize all resources in our community available to meet the growing needs stated and unstated.

Valentine cookies, punch, tea and coffee, also candy was served by the hostesses. It was generally agreed that Brotherhood should be practiced every day instead of once a year.
The purpose of the program was to promote better race relations and become better acquainted. We live in an age where communications are one of our greatest barriers. In Proverbs 18:24 we are told that a man who hath friends must show himself friendly, and there is a friend who sticketh closer than a brother.
Mr. Vernon, of the Tabernacle Baptist Church will enter the Veteran's Hospital Tuesday morning. Shut-ins: Elmer Wilson, Bellevue Leisure Manor, Bellevue, Neb., Timothy Ross and his daughter, Pamy Elaine at home.

FRIENDSHIP CITY at the moment is the most talked about City in the Midwest. On second thought, it is probably one of the most talked about in the country. Just check your morning or evening paper. It remains among outstanding topics whether it is because people can't drink there; or there is church there all of the time; or in its pre-guard days had been broken into and dirtied up—and Evangelist Roberson pulled clean up duty (as usual!); and now has money woes or something. Since I care about the director and about the place, I wanted this week to publish its board of directors. The agency has other things to do at the moment and so I did not ask for any of their time. But can say its board members are some of the most knowledgeable, successful and top notch anywhere! So what's next about Friendship City—got to keep it in the news!

HAIR — "The American Tribal Love Rock Musical" reads the ad. Asked a few what they thought about it ... but let's begin with my version: The opening scene was unlike any I've ever seen ... it was action in italics! The theme held my complete attention. I must own its music. The whole of life was enacted. The social messages most worthwhile. (Could not reach Freda Nahas, Director of Drama Workshop plays, for her

MRS. CATHERINE WILLIAMS: I had mixed reactions to it. I thought the music was very beautiful. What book there was carried a fairly serious theme around peace and war. I felt that a lot of things that went on could have been left out, but it probably wouldn't have been HAIR. I wanted to see it to find out what all the talk was about.

MRS. LEOLA DAVIS: I resigned myself to "HAIR". I came to see and to acquaint myself with this famed show. The show held many messages and I tried to carry these with me from the show. I really enjoyed it. Their talent was superb. Each one was tremendous!

CLARA EAVES consented to tell me about the recent play written by Henderson Davis Jr. It seems his play was written in connection with one written by her for St. Paul's Choir. Davis sought to provide the birth of Christ in terms of his birth taking place in 1972. He wrote the portion entitled "Could You Run Back Behind that Brother?" Meaning could a young couple ... black and poor ... relive the roles of Joseph and Mary? Davis is being lauded for the beauty of his play and its tremendous portrayals of so very, very much! Henderson Davis, Jr. is an artist in all respects! This column congratulates him.

Author Maya Angelou Speaks at Iowa State University

By Mikel J. Johnson
Sunday evening, February 13, culminated the events of Black History Week at Iowa State University with a talk by Maya Angelou, contemporary author, screen writer, lecturer, actress and songwriter.

Miss Angelou lecturing before a crowd of approximately 150 persons spoke on, "Black Poets, Black Poetry, Black Joy," and ostensibly life itself.

The premise of Miss Angelou's presentation was that the black experience itself is poetry in its purest form. In advancing her ideas, she reiterated again and again the hypothesis that it is necessary for people of today to understand each other's heroes, for a man is only as great as those he recognizes as heroes. An individual must examine the cultures of all peoples for they are like the air and free for all to use. Following this examination the individual should take what he can use of this culture and leave what he cannot use for the next investigator it is the examination itself which is intrinsic to understanding.

Miss Angelou is the author of "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings," an autobiography, and of "Just Give Me a Cool Drink of Water 'fore I Die," both published by Random House. She has also sung in several prominent night spots in New York and Chicago and has served as a northern co-ordinator of Southern Christian Leadership Conference headed by the late Dr. Martin Luther King. Within this busy schedule, Miss Angelou had the time to join the European touring company of "Porgy and Bess," sponsored by the U. S. Department of State, and sang the role of "Ruby" and was the lead dancer in that production in 22 countries of Europe and Africa.

It was this vast theatrical experience and Miss Angelou's deep resonant performing voice which delighted the audience as she sang and read various excerpts of poetry from her own works and the works of such well known poets as James Weldon Johnson, Shakespeare, Gwendolyn Brooks etc.

As she read from the various sources she carefully documented the history of the times surrounding the particular pieces.

All in all, one cannot help but realize that Maya Angelou herself is poetry embodied as she goes through the quiet cadences of:

"If you don't believe I'm sinkin', Then look what a hole I'm in. If you don't believe I love you, Then look what a fool I been."

Following the talk, the phosphate-free detergents and this is commendable, but some think this type of detergent must be used in larger quantities. This is not true. Substitutes for phosphates have been found that are equally as safe and effective. Miracle White Non-Polluting Detergent, for example, does not contain phosphates but will give a clean, bright wash every bit as good as the most popular brand containing phosphates.

Too much detergent results in problems that will affect your laundry. All soaps and detergents leave a film or residue, so naturally the more detergent used, the more residue left on your clothing. After repeated washings this residue builds up, layer upon layer. Consequently, clothing becomes gray, dull or yellow. Ordinary soil and stains remain because water cannot penetrate and eventually fabrics become rough and scratchy. Aside from these problems, any detergent used excessively necessitates extra rinsing, therefore, we are wasting one of our most precious commodities—water.

Although manufacturers recommend a given amount of detergent to use per washload, we may not always find this amount adequate for our needs. The correct amount of detergent to use may vary because of the amount of mineral deposits in your water. (Hard water needs more detergent than soft water.) The size of the washload and degree of soil must also be considered. Experience can best help you determine the proper amount of detergent to suit your needs. Don't be afraid to use less.

Glory Of The Grape Caught In Cream Pie

Dessert is the climax of entertaining company. Give guests a surprise with handsome Grape Cream Pie. Its fabulous flavor is achieved effortlessly with convenient grape juice. The surprise for the hostess is how easy this showpiece pie is to make. You buzz it up in your blender. Instead of baking it you chill it in the refrigerator 'til firm. Knox Unflavored Gelatine keeps the pie high, light and luscious. With this quick blender method your pie will be chilled firm, ready to eat, within only two hours.

Grape Cream Pie
2 envelopes Knox Gelatine
1/2 cup cold grape juice
1/2 cup boiling grape juice
2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 cup heavy cream
1 1/2 cups ice cubes or crushed ice
1 9-inch graham cracker crust

Sprinkle gelatine over 1/2 cup cold grape juice in blender container. Add boiling grape juice. Cover and process at low speed until gelatine dissolves. Add eggs, sugar, salt and lemon juice. Cover and process at high speed until smooth. With blender still running remove cover and add cream and ice cubes, one at a time. Continue to process at high speed until ice is melted. Allow mixture to stand for just one or two minutes until it begins to thicken. Turn into crumb crust and chill until firm. If desired, garnish with whipped cream. YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Note: If blender container will not hold a volume of 4 1/2 cups, do not add cream to blender. Add ice cubes and then quickly pour mixture into a bowl and stir in the cream.

Royal Dukes Entertain Wives At Valentine Party

The Royal Dukes Club entertained their wives at a very colorful Sweetheart Valentine Party on Saturday, February 12, 1972 at Hotel Kirkwood. Special guests were Mrs. Murray Wolder and Mrs. Bert Parker.

The evening began with cocktails in the Iowa Room where each lady was presented a beautiful corsage by Mr. Kelly Dixon, entertainment chairman, and host for the evening. Music was furnished by Mr. Virgil Winters and his lively trio.

A delicious Candle Light Buffet was enjoyed in the Pioneer Room. The buffet table was decorated with thirty six inch center piece consisting of an assortment of gladiolus and red carnations, with a wide spread green foliage background, surrounded by candles. The table front was decorated with sweetheart sequins. The guest tables were lined with sweetheart sequins, centered with double candles for that elegant touch.

The president, Mr. Thomas Avant extended a hearty welcome to the guests and introduced the new members to the group.

Mrs. Clarence L. Jones was the recipient of the beautiful Sweetheart Center Piece.

Next meeting will be Friday, February 18, 1972 at 1116 - 17th Street with Mr. Luther (Speed) Wells as host.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. I have been told that, when a bride displays her wedding gifts at the reception, she must remove the cards of the donors. Is this correct?

A. There is no definite rule about this. Many prefer to remove the cards, but there is nothing wrong either with leaving them on the gifts. And of course the signed cards often save the family the trouble of answering countless questions about "who sent what."

Q. How does one properly introduce one's stepfather?

A. Introduce him as "my stepfather," and be sure of course to mention his name (which is different from yours), as, "Mr. Harrison."

Q. When serving a fruit juice as the first course at the dinner table, where is this glass placed?

A. On the place plate — not with the water glass.

Q. I'm a girl about to be married for the first time, but my fiancé is a widower. I have heard that a second marriage always dictates a simple, informal wedding. Is this true?

A. No. The man's status has nothing to do with it. If the bride has not been previously married, she may plan her wedding on any scale she wishes.

Q. We recently moved into a new neighborhood, and some of our neighbors have been kind enough to call on us. When should these calls be returned?

A. Within two weeks or thereabouts. Failure to return these calls could indicate your unwillingness to accept the new friendships.

Q. Is it really the accepted form for a woman to use her maiden name as her middle name after she has married?

A. This is the established custom. After Judith Helen Anderson marries Robert Hall, she then becomes Judith Anderson Hall.

Q. Is it all right to eat bananas with the fingers when at the table?

A. No; they should be skinned on the dessert plate, then cut and eaten with the fork.

Q. When a host is doing the carving of the meat at the dinner table, does he usually cut enough for everyone before serving anyone?

A. This is the usually accepted procedure.

THE FEMININE PHYSIQUE

by BETTY WEIDER

The Feminine Physique

"Are You Ready for Hot Pants?" by Betty Weider

It seems to me that every few years, a different portion of the female anatomy becomes the focal point for the sensual attention of men. This year, you'd better have your thighs firm and lithe, because the popularity of Hot Pants is racing across the country.

"Hot Pants"—is really just a new name for short shorts. The difference is, Hot Pants can also be worn in the winter when they're made out of a wintry material such as suede, wool, leather, or wool knit. They're at their best when worn with opaque panty-hose and boots. If you've got a good figure, there's a kind of "Prince Valiant" effect to the total look that's quite charming.

But if your thighs are marbly in back, or your derriere is wide enough to rival Tonto's as he rides away in the last panel of good ole Western ... let me give you some advice: embark immediately on a six-week course of dieting and exercise. Because, there's no doubt about it—thighs are back in fashion and being seen in the most sedate and unexpected places.

Here are two exercises to get you started.

For the buttocks and leg: Lie on the floor, facing downwards, hands under chin. Lift the leg as high as possible from the floor, move it sideways, downwards and in to the left in a circle. Do six with the left leg and six with the right.

For hips and upper thigh: Stand with the left hand resting on a chair back. Swing the right leg forwards, upwards and then backwards with knee relaxed so that it flexes naturally as the leg swings backwards.

You should feel the quadriceps muscles of the thigh being stretched as the knee bends on the backward swing. After six swings with the right leg, place the right hand on the chair and swing the left leg six times. Gradually increase each day until you are doing 25 swings per leg.

Slither into your new Hot Pants (and make sure you're slithering, not squirming and pulling) and enjoy the admiring glances!

LYLE SUTER, portrait painter and former visitor in Marshalltown, right views his painting of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. which will be hung in the new Martin Luther King

Hospital in Los Angeles, Calif., in February. The artist is a cousin of Mark Warren, 402 N. 4th Ave., and Mrs. Frank Johnson, 410 N. 4th Ave. Commissioned by the Colonial Savings and Loan Association of California to do the portrait, he is shown with the organization's president, Raymond Welch, at the unveiling.

Son Of City Native Paints King Portrait For Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Mark H. Warren, 402 N. 4th Ave., have returned from Los Angeles, Calif., where they visited Lyle Suter, one of the nation's leading Black portrait painters, and who was commissioned by the Colonial Savings and Loan Association of California to do a portrait of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Suter, a cousin of Mark Warren and Mrs. Frank Johnson, 410 N. 4th Ave., is the son of the late Dr. Lyle S. Suter Sr., a native of Marshalltown, and a grandson of the late George L. Suter. The Suter home was formerly at 907 N. Center st.

The artist is widely known in Marshalltown, having spent summers here as a child and visited here last August. The portrait will be hung in the new Martin Luther King Hospital now being built in Los Angeles and scheduled for completion in February.

Suter, a veteran of World War II, decided on a life career in art when he was stationed in France. While growing up in St. Louis, Mo., he had sketched, but never painted with oils, and after viewing paintings by the masters in the Louvre Museum in Paris walked the fields of southern France and saw the sites they had painted. He is currently working on a "Black Experience" exhibition. He is a teacher in the Beverly Hills High School.

Silent Killer

The silent killer is on the increase, warns Roger Grunow, Public Health Engineer for the Des Moines - Polk County Health Department. Carbon monoxide deaths recorded in Polk County for 1970 numbered five. Eight were reported in 1971 and so far this year three carbon monoxide deaths have been reported in Polk County.

One of the main causes of accidental carbon monoxide poisoning is from faulty gas heating equipment. A blocked chimney is hazardous because the carbon monoxide gas will back up into the home and be a killer. Carbon monoxide is a tasteless, colorless and odorless gas that is very fatal in small amounts.

Listed are visual inspections that can indicate a gas heating equipment venting problem.

1. The odor of gas suggests the need for immediate attention, checks should be made to determine if leaks have occurred around fittings that would cause a possible accumulation of gas and an explosion hazard.

2. A properly adjusted gas burner will burn with a blue, well shaped flame. If the flame appears irregular, lazy and yellow in color, the burner is not properly adjusted and will most often produce carbon monoxide.

3. Soot stains on the hot water heater or furnace are an indication the equipment is not properly venting the poisonous gas from the building.

4. A lighted match will go out if held under a draft hood discharging carbon monoxide into a room when the appliance is in operation.

5. The pipe from the furnace to the chimney sometimes becomes so rusted out on the inside that it will collapse when squeezed. Make this test when the pipe is cool.

6. Chimneys should be inspected above the roof for deterioration. A chimney can become so rusted that it will collapse and block the venting of poisonous gas from the building.

Washington, D. C. — The Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) is hanging on the ropes like a punch-drunk boxer.

Its programs have been dismantled and phased out. Some have been taken over by other agencies. Still others have had the old kabosh put on them before they could get off the ground.

According to an article in the current issue of The Saturday Review, OEO's Director Phillip Sanchez said it's not yet appropriate to sing a funeral dirge. But there's little life left in the body that was once advertised as the shining hope of Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty.

President Johnson ran into trouble as zealous OEO officials began charging hard against some of the established institutions — City Halls and school boards, for instance — where they claimed the poor were not getting a fair shake.

In Newark, and other cities, OEO officials backed off as the City Hall pots told them that their reforms weren't welcome. Under President Nixon, OEO's decline as the "cutting edge" of social reform has turned out to be a dizzying plummet in the direction of disillusionment and despair.

Remember Head Start? It had 733,000 pupils enrolled in 1966 but only half that number are getting help today.

Remember Upward Bound? It's been transferred to HEW and only 25,000 students are being helped.

Within OEO, meanwhile, says author Peter Jensen in Saturday Review, "programs are not being renewed as their grants run out. In 1970, for example, the Human Resources Development Division was operating 55 programs; this June the total will be down to nine."

Joseph Howell, director of OEO's human resources effort, said, "Every time a program is conceived, there's a battle about why some other organization — Congress, HEW, OMB — shouldn't do it. We have no monopoly on programs. It's getting much more difficult to find unique ideas that are out there on the cutting edge."

The third OEO director in the past year, Phillip V. Sanchez, denies that OEO is ready to hear a funeral dirge sung about it. But the music these days about the War on Poverty hardly sounds like the Jackson Five.

In Time, the magazine reports on the worsening situation in Rhodesia, where Prime Minister Ian Smith once boasted, he has "the happiest Africans in the world." Well, the happy Africans rioted in four cities, and the result was 18 dead.

At issue is whether the gradual reforms calling for political power on a go-slow basis for blacks will be adopted. The militants, of course, say no. When a 20-member British commission headed by Lord Pearce came to Rhodesia, to assess a gradualist political deal, the rioting broke out, shattering British hopes for a peaceful solution.

The African majority, naturally, wants a majority of the political pie, and their show of strength stunned the whites — only government of the breakaway nation. Time concluded, that perhaps the most important "is the fact that the long-dormant and virtually powerless Africans had stood up in masse and confronted the government" with minimal organization.

"If the blacks begin to stand up to it, how long can Smith's white-supremacy government hold out?"

Sound familiar? In The National Review, professor Ernest Van Den Haag gives his views on "Civil Disobedience." It is his thesis that "Civil disobedience by definition is always regarded as unlawful at some point. Else it could not qualify as 'disobedience.'" My advice is to read the entire article

Chess Can Turn Failure Into Success

If a disadvantaged youth wants to go to college, Project CHES can go a long way toward helping him attain his goal.

poor or one with a physical handicap, failure does not have to be a way of life," says Charles E. Sims, Director of the project.

CHES, which stands for Consortium of Higher Education for Special Students, provides services to about 280 economically and physically disadvantaged students at Drake University, 130 at Grand View College, and 200 at the Des Moines Area Community College who can benefit from a program in higher education.

Although many schools have such special services offices, the one in Des Moines is the only inter-institutional effort that has services for both economically and physically handicapped students.

Coordinating the Project are Sims, the Minority Student Adviser in Drake's Office of Student Life, Mrs. Equilla Johnson, Guidance Counselor at the Des Moines Area Community College, and Miss A. Jane Molden, Guidance Counselor at Grand View.

The nature of the institutions allows the Des Moines project to operate in a full array of educational programs. The community college has a two-year program of general and vocational education. Its students have the opportunity of furthering their education at a four-year school upon graduation. Grand View has two and three-year liberal arts programs, and most of its students transfer to four-year schools when they are graduated. Drake offers a on the subject, whether you disagree or agree. Personally, I disagree.

While civil disobedience has been used in America to have unjust laws stricken from the books, it has also been used to compel authorities to breathe life into existing laws, such as the right to vote or the right to register to vote.

I remember clearly one civil rights march through Mississippi in 1966 when a decision was made by Dr. King, Stokely Carmichael and other leaders of the old coalition to encamp on the playing field of a segregated black high school. The authorities at Canton, Miss., refused to allow blacks to pitch tents on the all-black grounds, teargassing and beating hundreds of people.

The idea of the march was to get blacks to register, (and it proved to be highly successful.) But civil disobedience was used to

"We are here to help students do two things," Miss Molden said. "One is to develop confidence in their own ability to succeed. The other is to become sophisticated in dealing with the processes involved in higher education."

Mrs. Johnson described the major handicaps that CHES must overcome to reach its students: "Pride and fear keep a lot of students who might need us from coming in, so we have to go out and find them."

CHES uses data from each school's financial aids office and follows HEW's guidelines to identify needy students. It relies on records of health centers and admissions offices to identify the physically handicapped.

"We have to be careful," Sims said, "in contacting students for the program without giving them the impression that they are being stigmatized."

At the beginning of each term, CHES sends out a notice that outlines the program for students, what services are available, and how they can receive them.

"We would like for the students to look on us as simply another resource like the library or the health center," Sims said.

"Our basic premise is that no one knows any sooner than the student himself that he is having problems. He may not know how critical the problems are, but he is the first to know about them, and he has to be the first person who wants to solve them. We firmly believe that no student should be forced to participate in CHES."

New Operations Diggs & Cites Black Affinity

WASHINGTON, D.C. Feb 3 — Congressman Charles C. Diggs, Jr. (D-Mich.) said at a press conference today, "The presence of four Black members of Congress on African soil at the same time, represents the growing affinity of Black Americans for their Black brothers." The Michigan congressman was referring to the historic significance of a recent meeting in Lusaka, Zambia which was attended by four members of the Congressional Black Caucus. Accompanying Mr. Diggs at the January conference were Congressmen Louis Stokes (D-Ohio), Charles B. Rangel (D-NY) and John J. Conyers, Jr. (D-Mich.).

The members of the CBC were part of a nine-man delegation, of U.S. government representatives, who met with African leaders to discuss U.S. policy in Africa.

Mr. Diggs told the group of reporters and representatives from various African embassies in Washington, that the experience of his colleagues went beyond getting a firsthand view of Africa. "It exploded the myth that Africans do not realize certain aspects of American policy as it relates to them."

Africa Looks To America

He said: "African nations look to America for assistance in the development of their countries, but what do Americans look for from Africa?" Congressman Diggs declared: "The sheer geo-politics of Africa's location dictates its importance, its natural resources, its people resources."

In his analysis of the Lusaka conference, Mr. Diggs indicated that the presence of representatives of the various liberation movements in Africa brought a new awareness of the problems they face, especially problems relating to "techniques of revolution."

"Since 1967 the liberation movement in the U.S. has involved all sorts of techniques that have advanced America's largest minority," Congressman

Diggs, who serves as Chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus and as Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Africa, indicated that a similar application on techniques by African liberation groups might bring similar positive results.

37 Recommendations For Lusaka

Regarding African affairs generally, Congressman Diggs pointed out that a conflict apparently exists between the White House and foreign policy advisers in the State Department, and within State between African and European bureaus.

It was revealed at the press conference that thirty-seven recommendations have been drawn up as a result of the meeting in Lusaka, and a future meeting with the Secretary of State is planned to discuss them.

Other participants at the press conference giving their evaluation of the Lusaka conference were Senators Adlai E. Stevenson, III (D-Ill.) and Frank Moss (D-Utah); Congressmen Charles W. Whalen (R-Ohio) and Jerry L. Pettis (R-Calif.).

Sickle Cell Unit Meeting Feb. 25

The Des Moines Sickle Cell Foundation has indicated they will organize a massive campaign against Sickle Cell Anemia.

The disease is an inherited blood disorder. The foundation feels that one big united thrust would be effective in eliminating the disease.

The campaign will include such things as educating the Des Moines community as to what the disease is and how one is affected by it, along with having every person in Des Moines subjected to the disease tested for it.

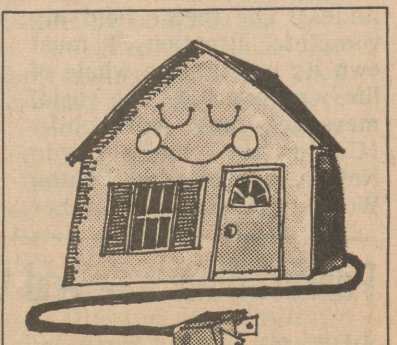

The foundation has also said that a center may be built here for sickle cell treatment and research.

The first step in the campaign will be a meeting on Friday, Feb. 25 at 7:30 p.m. at Soul Village, 1409

Forest Ave. Featured guest speaker will be Dr. Joseph Song, the nation's leading sickle cell authority and author of the book Pathology of the Sickle Cell Disease. State Legislator June Franklin and U.S. Congressman Neal Smith will also speak.

The Des Moines branch is starting out with a total of $1,355 for initial expenses.

BROTHERHOOD COMMITMENT WEEK

FEBRUARY 20-27, 1972

AMERICAN INSTITUTION

is giving to others the rights and respect we want for ourselves.

The purposes of BROTHERHOOD COMMITMENT WEEK, an activity of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, are:

1. Rededication to the basic ideals of respect for individuals and peoples.
2. Practical steps which people can take to promote an understanding and realization of these ideals.

In 1934, some 300 communities in the United States shook off the doldrums of the then current depression long enough to observe something called Brotherhood Day. The observance caused only a ripple of response in the participating communities and it received virtually no national recognition. But to a group of men and women banded together in a relatively new organization known as the National Conference of Christians and Jews, that day in April, 1934 was exciting and inspirational.

And in Denver, Colorado, a Catholic priest, Monsignor Hugh McMenamin, was seeing the fulfillment of an idea he had almost casually proposed to the National Conference two years previously. The suggestion grew out of this situation: Monsignor McMenamin was sitting in his study one July day, looking at his calendar with July 4 standing out in red with the wording, "Independence Day." The priest thought, "Wouldn't it be fine if for just one day we celebrated our inter-dependence?" Out of this reflecting came his suggestion for Brotherhood Day.

Those who worked to promote that first Brotherhood Day saw it become a full week's observance in 1940, and four years later, more than 2,000 communities, among which, for the first time every state was included, celebrated Brotherhood Week. Since 1940, the Brotherhood Week dates have always been in the full week that includes Washington's Birthday. Today, over 10,000 communities of the nation observe the event in some manner.

Plan exciting and inspiring BROTHERHOOD programs suited to your needs

Here are some suggestions: IN YOUR SCHOOL

Assembly programs

Invite guest speakers representing religion, labor, management and the professions to discuss democracy's need for better intergroup relations.

Plan choral programs of music and folk songs of religious, racial and nationality groups.

Present pageants and dramatic readings of episodes in our history when religious freedom and political liberty were established as principles of the American Way.

Plan folk dance programs for physical education classes and for assembly.

Show films and hold forums on the themes of brotherhood and group relations.

Classroom activities

Organize a unit of work in intergroup relations in social studies or literature classes and plan an assembly program as the culminating activity of the unit.

Encourage students to write essays, verse, skits and plays on the brotherhood theme. Provide outlets for these efforts in class programs, the school paper, on radio and TV and for assemblies.

Listen to records of great artists of various backgrounds who have contributed to American culture. Enrich with discussion.

Provide opportunities to learn about peoples comprising the nation and the problems they encounter in adjusting to American life.

Arrange a display of posters, pamphlets and books on intergroup relations for library, home-room or auditorium.

Exhibit arts and crafts of many people.

It is not expected that Brotherhood observances, publicity and displays can solve all of our ills but they do make a contribution to the overall program of improving human relations. Since 1934, Brotherhood Week has been spearheaded by the

IN YOUR CHURCH OR SYNAGOGUE

Clergy frequently preach sermons on a Brotherhood theme. Report these to your local press to reach the larger community.

Use church and synagogue bulletins and periodicals for a simple message affirming the principle of brotherhood.

Set up a study group to discuss the moral and spiritual foundations of our nation in which all religious groups contribute.

Make full use of all clergy resources in your community so that the united voice of religion may be heard on community problems and the moral resources of the community mobilized.

Plan for adult education through church and synagogue clubs. Arrange for forums, films and speakers to teach the meaning of good neighborliness.

Provide resources for radio and television through speakers and discussants who will analyze the problems of prejudice and suggest the resources of religion.

Church and synagogue youth can stage a brotherhood play.

IN YOUR COMMUNITY

Through civic-social organizations, employee and employer groups.

Announce Brotherhood Week in club, agency and organizational publications including endorsements from leaders or an editorial on brotherhood.

Devote one or more meetings to the subject of brotherhood. Arrange for a speaker, a panel, a forum discussion or perhaps a leader's conference or institute on the theme Rearing Children of Good Will or Increasing Teamwork on the Job.

Use the films and other audio-visual aids available from NCCJ offices and other agencies, around which rewarding programs can be developed.

Consult with other organizations about the possibility of planning joint programs and projects to build greater understanding in the community.

Arrange neighborhood friendship parties or teas in the homes of members of your group, inviting parents, particularly newcomers in the neighborhood.

Split Political Conventions

The Democratic party in Mississippi held two state conventions last week. One was lily white from which all Negroes were excluded while the other was integrated but predominately Negro.

This is a reminder of similar battles within the Republican party in the South which wound up in heated protest before the credentials committee of the National Convention.

Voters in Mississippi should realize that they wind up as laughing stocks before their National Conventions, although the struggle for power will go on until they learn to work together. Of course, this is a struggle for power to determine who runs the show. It was much easier in years gone by in Mississippi than it is today. Negroes are registering, voting and electing officials in city and county government. There will be more as the electorate become more aware of the vote.

Generally, at national conventions these contests are settled by splitting some of the total vote on each side. It is a compromise which generally takes the credentials committee off the hook and gives each side a part of what it is seeking.

Brotherhood Essential
To Our Well Being

Soon after World War I a few people conceived the idea that they would make money spreading hate. They were responsible for the rebirth of the Ku Klux Klan which spread through the North under the guise of hating Catholics and Jews but which they had been doing all along with Negroes and foreigners.

It became a formidable force in some places — Des Moines was one of them — which spread fear and apprehension among those who refused to line up with their beliefs.

The National Council of Churches in America had been formed and a Department of Race Relations became a part of its activity under the direction of Dr. George E. Haynes. Inter racial commissions sprang up in many places, notably in Des Moines, following a series of religious life emphasis weeks. They had the guidance and influence of those people who recognized the danger of spreading dissension among people in the country.

In 1934 the National Conference of Christians and Jews was formed as a nucleus for spreading brotherhood. For years, the organization made a strong bid for leadership in the field of human rights. However, the nature of the organization forced it's program to remain rather passive in aggressive civil rights activities contenting itself with the technique of peaceful penetration to solve our troubled racial problems.

No laws alone can solve any problem for those whom it governs must learn to respect them. The program of Brotherhood Month and Brotherhood Week served to help educate the people to the value of observing civil rights laws and those principles of humanity which stand for equality of every man.

Model Cities
Must Save Itself

Model Cities has suffered some rather unfortunate blows during the past few weeks. First, there was the discovery that some police aides had been convicted of felonies; two have been charged with sex offenses; one has resigned as president of the Credit Union and now the flare up about Friendship City.

All of these incidents are serious. They point up rough spots which often occur in new and untried organizations and which indicate that a broader base of participation by members of the community, even living outside of the model cities, is necessary.

There are those who don't want the program to succeed so that they can get the control of the funds. Even some public officials seem to refuse to believe that the local people can operate the program. They call for inexperienced. They rather display a willingness to let them fail and then say, "I told you so."

For these reasons, an advisory committee of experienced white and Negro citizens and some members of the Model Cities board might well be formed to help advise them and point the way to overcome unnecessary pitfalls. The committee would have no authority to direct anything but we believe that it would broaden the base of operations and put a prop under those people who have not had experience in handling million dollar businesses.

Then too, there has been little checking in advance of how Model Cities money is spent and the results obtained from it. Thus at this late date we are turning up deficiencies that have been known all along but no one did anything about.

A lot of money is being spent on these projects. It should be for those for whom it is intended. More tangible results of making Model Cities have not been forthcoming.

Health for All

BREATHING VAPORS

Breathing any air these days can be hazardous. But the air in operating rooms may be especially damaging for women who work there.

Anesthetic vapors are associated with a high rate of miscarriage among surgical nurses and female anesthetists. Research at Stanford University showed that nearly 30 per cent of pregnancies among surgical nurses ended in miscarriages as compared with 9 per cent among other nurses. Female anesthetists had a 38 per cent miscarriage rate compared with 10 per cent among women doctors in nonsurgical specialties.

Dr. David L. Bruce of Northwestern University says the statistics do not prove a cause - and - effect relationship between the vapors and spontaneous abortion. But he points out that inhaled fumes are retained in the body for some time and may inflict harm. Further, experiments with animals have produced similar results. The offspring of rodents exposed to anesthetic vapors have demonstrated a significantly high percentage of birth defects.

Precautions should be taken to reduce the exposure of operating room personnel, especially women, to anesthetics, says Dr. Bruce. At Stanford, special devices have already been installed in all surgical rooms to trap and expel damaging gases.

All kinds of people are paying more and more attention to the air they breathe these days. And with

Brewton Never Challenged

Cecil Brewton did a first class job of line calling in the pro tennis meet last week. Saturday he called the toughest of all lines, the service line, and in two matches, never had one of his calls challenged.

He called a baseline Sunday, and didn't have any trouble. And this in a meet where line calls got bigger headlines than did the players, unless you want to except Pancho Gonzales who won the meet. But players were disputing calls all over the place, but not Cecil's.

Your illustrious scribe called lines Saturday and Sunday, and if anybody disagreed with any of our calls, we never heard about it, and we are sure we would have if anyone had done so.

It was an interesting meet, and we both were glad that we did what the fellow who picked us thought we would do. Not look bad.

They all lost again. After looking like champions against Ohio State, Iowa looked just the opposite against Michigan State in a game the Hawks figured to win. As we write this, they will probably have one of their up nights, and the next opponent may wish they hadn't played them.

Iowa State had trouble with a couple of Nebraska guys, and finished second in that game. They gave up too many easy layups, as we saw it. Drake looked for a while as if they might whip St. Louis, but the well disciplined and patient Billekins never stopped playing their game, and it pulled them out in the end. Neither of the three schools has anything to brag about. Maybe things will get better further down the road.

Tech, Lincoln In Shooting Match

And here at home, Tech and Lincoln put on one of the hottest shooting exhibitions people around here have ever seen. At the half it was 62-55 and that is usually where most high school games end. The Tech boys came up short by one point, 94-93.

What hurt them was the foul shooting of the Rail Splitters in the first half.

We thought that if the Engineers could have maintained that full court press they started out with, they could have blown the game wide open. But, just as Lincoln was about to lose their cool, a foul would be called on some Tech player, and the resulting free throws kept them close enough so they didn't lose heart or poise.

But nobody need be ashamed of a game like that one, regardless of whether they won or lost. Tech had to abandon their early pressing game because they had their best fellows in foul trouble early.

And North finally got untracked and dusted Hoover. Now, the Polar Bears could knock Tech out of a share of the title, because they will probably be on fire for this one. East couldn't pull another upset, but they have dropped some close battles against top teams, and have pulled a couple of upsets they weren't supposed to.

New Wave
Recruiter

Navy recruiting in the Washington, D.C. area took on an attractive new look recently, with the assignment of Lieutenant (junior grade) Earlyn F. Perry, a Navy WAVE, to the area's main recruiting office.

A native of the city, Ltjg Perry attended Calvin Coolidge High School and earned a Bachelor's Degree at Howard University in 1969, prior to joining the Navy.

The 24-year-old Ltjg is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Perry of 6423 9th Street, N.W. Washington, D.C. Ltjg Perry has always wanted "a challenging job that's important," and now feels she has one. As Minority Officer Recruiter, Ltjg Perry will advise potential service candidates, particularly those from racial - ethnic minority groups, of the many advantages and opportunities available to them through various Navy programs. Employment of minority recruiters is one of many efforts by the Navy to improve its racial balance.

Ltjg Perry earned her commission through the Navy Officer Candidate

School at Newport, Rhode Island. Prior to her current assignment, she served as a communications watch officer at the Naval Communications Station, San Francisco. She has travelled extensively throughout the continental U.S., Hawaii and Europe.

The Now
Washbasket

By Joyce Champion

Although stores still advertise their sales of sheets and pillowcases as "white sales," these items now come in a wide variety of patterns and colors in man-made fabrics that have special laundering problems.

Just like the whites and pastels, these bright fabrics tend to discolor where the head or body rests. Spots or stains from make-up, blood, perspiration and body oils require special treatment, especially on the permanent press fabrics.

Here's how to keep those colors bright and the texture soft:

Examine each item for stains before laundering. Pre-treat the stains by wetting them with cold water and rubbing or brushing the area with a borax-based laundry additive, like Boratrem. For larger areas of staining, such as sheets and pillowcases, pre-wash the items in cold water, using 1/2-cup of the product. Follow with a regular hot water wash.

Too many large items in the washer impair the cleaning action, so do not overload the machine. The ideal load is not more than three single bed-sheets or two double sheets. Fill in the rest of the load with smaller items, like pillowcases, towels, etc.

Mattress pads made from cotton or permanent press — and some bedspreads — also can be machine washed and dryer dried. However, the manufacturer's instructions should be checked before washing. The stain problems usually are similar to those of sheets and pillowcases, but since they generally are not washed weekly, the stains tend to become set with a buildup of oily soil. Pretreatment and pre-wash are definitely needed. Again, the additive should be used. For particularly bad stains, rub in Boraxo, a powdered hand soap, and follow with hot water and detergent wash.

AMNESTY

A number of those who fled to Canada rather than be sent to prison for avoiding the draft have indicated they don't intend to ask for amnesty even when it becomes available. Amnesty would involve a period of mandatory service, and they are said to feel accepting it would be admitting they are wrong; they feel the country was wrong in fighting the Vietnam war, and that they were justified.

But those who fled didn't do it just to escape the war, they did it to escape the legal system which would have put them in prison. There has been talk of an obligation to disobey immoral laws, particularly since the Nuremberg trials, and we have a long tradition of civil disobedience. But that tradition holds that a person stands and faces the consequences of his act. Those in Canada ran from the consequences; they set themselves above our system, not just one law.

Exile for the rest of their life is too severe a penalty for what they did, but it was a serious offense. It's not unreasonable for them to perform a period of mandatory service longer than the one they avoided initially, if they want to return to this country.

CHECK ONE:

The second 3 minutes of a long distance call usually cost...

- ☐ more than the first 3 minutes.
☐ the same as the first 3 minutes.
☐ less than the first 3 minutes.

(Bet you guessed wrong!)

Tell the truth now. Did you guess "less"? Then you're in the minority. Most people don't realize that the second 3 minutes of a long distance call are never more and usually less than the first 3 minutes.

Here are some examples:

First 3 minutes	Each additional minute
75¢	25¢ or less
65¢	21¢ or less
55¢	18¢ or less

So don't be afraid to talk longer than 3 minutes. It costs less than you think.

A little money still goes a long way on the telephone.
