blacks zero in on problems

national caucus 'on target'

BLACK PRESS INTERNATIONAL—Gary, Indiana — During the first National Political Convention held in Gary, on March 10-12 was somewhat of a success. The creation of a New Black Political Movement. Debates and long, confusing parliamentary disputes left one of the three-day assembly with its main tasks still unfinished — The adoption of resolutions.

Whether "The National Assembly" as the new movement was tentatively called, might well develop into a third political party, but no one could say. Great things were predicted for its future, though."

The Rev. Jesse Jackson of Chicago said, "All of these seeds have begun to come together and germinate into one flower." "If we do nothing else today, we will have made a revolutionary step toward a black political nation in this country and in the world."

A motion from New York brought together in the conventions interim report all resolutions proposed by state delegates and left the final decisions on policy to a steering committee that will meet later.

After part of the 254-man Michigan delegation has walked out and part of the Illinois group threatened to do the same. The Compromise motion was offered and adopted.

The Convention was put on record as tentatively adopting both sides of several debatable issues, including school integration. It adopted another resolution saying, that it rejected segregated schools, after protests from Alabama and Virginia delegations. The Compromise motion put the convention against the endorsement of any political candidate for president, but for the presidential bid of Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y.

It also confused the stand on specific items. It proposed, for example, that a guaranteed annual income be set at $5,200, $6,500, $7,500 and $10,000 a year for a family of four.

Rep. Charles Diggs of Michigan said, "We are forgetting what we already agreed to... No matter how they look today the final agenda coming up May 19 will not be the same documents."

An earlier vote gave a steering committee of 50 state delegation chairmen the authority to rewrite and resolve all conflicts in the final resolutions which will be released on the anniversary of the birth of Malcolm X, May 19 and to ratify the document in the name of the convention."

A National Black Agenda, another document is asking for a "permanent political movement that addresses itself to basic control and reshaping of American institutions... "Also was adopted for the future."

The Agenda's list of basic recommendations included: An urban homestead act to keep federally owned housing developments and lands from passing into commercial ownership.

Formation of a national foreign policy that would "further the progress of the revolutionary movement in Africa... and assist African countries in their move toward meaningful political independence."

Free public education, national health insurance and day-care centers.

Black representation in both the Senate and House in ratio to the 15 per cent black population of the nation, with the same principle applied to state and local government.

A 50 per cent cut in the national defense and space budget.

Black-owned systems of communications for black communities.

An end to U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

Reparations to Negroes in the form of real estate and cash.

The formation of black unions as an alternative to labor organizations that practice racial discrimination.

bystander opinion poll lack of unity biggest problem

By Debbi Brown

In the past week the Des Moines Black community has been canvassed, at random, in an attempt to surface the thoughts on the problems and obstacles we as Black people face in Des Moines.

Thoughts were stirred by the question: "What is the greatest problem or obstacle facing Black people in Des Moines?" Opinions ranged from "admitting that we have a problem," to "there are so many problems that I couldn't narrow it down to one."

For some the question required quite a bit of thought to determine just which problem was the greatest. Others answered without hesitation.

Unity and self motivation were cited most often, providing 40% of the responses.

Unity and motivation is not something younger Black people have just discovered is necessary. Although persons between the ages of 16-34 comprised 62% of these responses, the other 38% were aged 35-55 and over.

Another area of concern was racism.

Bringing it closer to home, the Des Moines city council and police department were mentioned by the respondents. Education and housing came to mind but not as often as employment problems.

The drug problem in the community was expected to be a major concern. However, few drug related responses were given.

As several people questioned stated, "Black people themselves are the basic problem; we've got to unite."

The Black community poll was made considering age, sex, and occupation including the unemployed, by area of the city in which the respondent resided. Approximately 1% of the community is represented by this at random poll. The breakdown is presented by category of response and age only.

Total number of responses by area and age:

Age	West	East	S.E.	Total

glanton cites need for equal justice

Judge Glanton

"One problem with white judges is their inability to relate to the black man's world," said Judge Luther T. Glanton, who added he is pessimistic toward a changing judicial system allowing blacks equal justice.

Iowa's only black judge feels since we are living in a white world everything tends to be interpreted in a white scope.

"However, the black man," he said, "is no longer the product of discrimination that once plagued him in the courts. This change is evident on the bench as well as among the jurors." Glanton also feels that the law enforcement officers are becoming less bigoted with more education.

LACK OF COOPERATION

He cited how attitudes have changed since he was appointed Iowa's first black to the Municipal Court in Des Moines by former Governor Herschel C. Loveless in 1958.

"Many white people felt my appointment meant the world was coming to an end." They predicted he would be faced with insurmountable problems in gaining cooperation from city officials and employees, and were sure his re-election would be impossible.

Although problems have been minimal compared to the original reaction, Glanton admits they have not been absent. He has had misunderstandings with white policemen, prosecutors, bailiffs, city employees, and he is not unfamiliar with accusations of favoritism from both black and white individuals. "Some white people," he said, "feel I am unusually rough on them and close my eyes to the wrong doings of blacks, but those who feel this way are always the uninformed. I am committed to give fair and equal justice to all."

STAY "COOL"

Glanton, who has a 15 year old son himself, pleads to black youth to keep cool. "often times our young blacks have chips on their shoulders and when confronted by the law, sometimes lose their heads and become defiant." He added that black youth need to use control, learn to live in a white world while trying to get along with whites. In so doing, they can stand on their own feet, be responsible and demand respect.

Glanton stressed that we are living in a new day, and the black person who is determined to be something should get an education. Jobs are awaiting him and he should learn to compete as an individual, not just a black 'individual.'

When appointed to judgeship, the former assistant county attorney left a vacancy which was filled by his wife, Mrs. Willie Stevenson Glanton. Mrs. Glanton is currently acting regional counsel for the Small Business Administration.

NOT ANTI-WHITE

Their son, Luther III, is a student at St. Paul College High in Concordia, Mo.

Glanton was an undergraduate student at Tennessee State University in Nashville, Tenn., and received his law degree from Drake.

Perhaps, the key to the judge's success lies in his philosophy that "any black worth his salt should be concerned about his people, should be pro-black, but not anti-white, and should be willing to stick by and work for his people."

iowa black caucus chairman speaks

"I feel that the National Black Caucus accomplished a great deal despite some efforts to split the group into factions," said Wesley Chapman, chairman of the Iowa Black Caucus who attended the national session in Gary Indiana. "People must remember that this was the first time black people had met as a group of this magnitude. If you look back at other groups, for instance the people who wrote the constitution, you find dissension and even some killing."

The Caucus was plagued by very poor press coverage. Many efforts were made to project a bad image, as reporters and newscasters played up alleged beatings etc. surrounding the caucus. At one point, there was a move by one faction to show that the NAACP was opposed to the preamble of the convention.

But in view of all of this, Chapman felt that the great gain for black people was solidarity. The Convention made it clear that there is definitely a need for black people to unify into a strong body. "In a relative sense, I feel that what we did was to set up a body which can work for black people by election of spokesman who have a political base from which to work," stated Chapman.

Another thing which the delegates came away from the convention with was the realization that there is an urgent need for self-determination in the affairs of the black community. Black people must have a voice in deciding those issues which directly involve the Black Community.

The platform of the caucus was not finalized as the press had widely indicated. The Chairmen of all the states will meet in Washington to deliberate on this issue March 24 with the final platform to be published in May.

Chapman answered when questioned about the goals the Iowa delegation had gone to Gary with, "we wanted to look at things coming out of the national convention as well as support our state issues."

Things came up which we had not discussed, but all in all, what we had considered was pretty much what came out in the national."

The conveners of the convention were: Imamu Imiri Baraka, Rev. Jesse Jackson, Mayor Richard Hatcher, and Congressman Charles Diggs. These four men chaired the convention each day, but participation was not limited to them. The important point of the caucus was that members of every faction of black people were working together. This was a group of people cooperating regardless of stature and position.

"I think we've identified this need (unity) nationally, the need in Iowa is evident. The question is where do we go from here? We will involve all communities in Iowa in our effort. But, along with our efforts, we will need input from the National Caucus in the form of moral support. I think we now realize the needs for a similar state platform."

There were problems, but on the whole, it appears that the caucus established a great deal in its unification of black people into a working political body. It's quite likely that this important step was somewhat dimmed by delegates having their hopes set too high and wanting to accomplish too much in too short a time. It must be realized that this convention was a great step forward for Black Americans.

BLACK-OWNED BUSINESS FORMS COMPANY WILL OPEN

J. Wallace Gaines, a graduate of Drake University and president of International Business Communications, the largest Black-owned and operated Business Forms Brokers in the country, announced plans for the opening of a new Business Forms Manufacturing Plant in the Newport News area.

The new plant will be called Hampton Business Forms, Incorporated, specializing in manufacturing electronic data processing forms.

The Newport News plant will service the central part of the United States. Negotiations are presently underway to acquire a plant in the New England States, to service primarily the Eastern part of the country.

Hampton Business Forms, Inc., becomes the first Black-owned and operated manufacturer of computer forms in the country. Over one-quarter million dollars worth of highly specialized equipment will be invested in the new facility, it was stated.

Mr. Gaines stated, that "the efforts and desires of our staff to make our company one of the best in the country, is in part responsible for our growth." Another factor that has contributed largely is the support and faith of a few people in "Minority Entrepreneurship."

elliston moving up

Gary Elliston is a member of a highly respected, proud and distinguished group of craftsmen with a tradition and heritage that spans several generations.

In a very few months he will become a journeyman sheet metal worker, a feat that will culminate 4 years of intensive and diligent effort on his part. On that day he will join the ever increasing ranks of young black men in the skilled trades who will eventually help set the pace in the building trades of America.

For Gary, a lifetime native of Des Moines, his lucrative career first began to formalize itself while attending Tech High School. Years earlier he first realized a fondness for creating things with his hands. In high school, becoming increasingly more aware of the satisfaction he derived from his shop classes, he began to earnestly pursue courses that gave him an outlet for his creative endeavors. Courses in metal shop, wood shop, mechanical drawing, and math seemed to offer him a special challenge. At the same time these courses gave him the opportunity to increase his skills in these areas. Only casually aware that his efforts in high school would someday help prepare and provide him with a highly rewarding career in the metal working trade, he none the less felt compelled to strive for excellence in his classes.

The sheet metal trade, like all the others in the building and construction industry, is a demanding occupation. The tradesmen who perform this type of work are expected to know their job, as well one might when making $7.00 to $8.00 an hour. Gary, like most of the people engaged in these types of occupations, acquired his skills through the apprenticeship program.

The apprenticeship program usually consists of 8,000 hours (4 years) of on-the-job training, in addition to related classroom instruction. In a typical training program, the apprentice learns among other things, to use, care for, and handle safely the tools, machines, equipment, and materials commonly used in the trade. He also learns how to do welding, soldering, and seaming, as well as air-conditioning, heating and ventilating work. The trainee receives related classroom instruction in subjects such as drafting, blueprint reading, and mathematics applicable to layout work.

Apprenticeship applicants generally are required to be between 17 and 23, but special consideration may be given for military service. A high school education or its equivalent is required. Good physical and mechanical aptitude are necessary assets.

As a member of Sheet Metal Local No. 45 of Des Moines, Iowa, Gary Elliston has just about mastered the skills of his trade... skills that will last him a lifetime and insure him a well paying career for the rest of his working life. How about you... is apprenticeship in your future?

GROUP SEEKS RAY'S RE-ELECTION

A committee of Polk County Republicans has been organized to work for the re-election of Governor Robert D. Ray.

The chairman of the "Polk County Ray Committee" will be Brent (Chris) Green, a Des Moines attorney. Co-chairman will be Mrs. Dawn Roberts, also of Des Moines.

According to Green, the committee to re-elect the Governor was formed "because he has built a solid record of accomplishment during his three years in office, and at the same time, has developed a progressive program for Iowa's future." "Additionally," Green said, "recent polls have shown Ray as the strongest Republican candidate for Governor, and the only candidate with a lead over all likely Democratic candidates."

Green said the possibility of a divisive campaign leading up to the Republican primary makes it all the more important that a strong organization is at work to assure a Ray victory in August and a Republican victory in November.

RATED "G"

protecting your teeth

By Ann Kastler

It's easy to say that there is hardly anyone who goes through life without a dental problem of some sort.

In reality though, at least 95 per cent of all Americans suffer from tooth decay at some time during their lives while disease of the gums affect over 70 million adults. What causes these dental problems and is there anything we can do about it?

First of all, virtually all dental disease is caused by a deposit of a sticky film of bacteria and food particles called plaque on and around the teeth. These tiny germs infect the gums and make acid which attack the teeth. The result is cavities and destruction of gum tissues and bone structure of the teeth. In short, tooth loss.

What can we do? Flouridation, proper diet, plaque control and regular visits to the dentists are necessary to have a healthy mouth. We are fortunate living in Des Moines since our water contains sufficient flouride.

"GOODIES MAIN CULPRIT

In our diet we should reduce the amount and frequency of the flour and sugar we eat.

Every time candies, mints, cookies, cakes, breads, crackers, breakfast foods, along with snacks, sweet drinks, chewing gum and other "goodies" are put in the mouth, the decay process begins.

In plaque control, daily toothbrushing, which helps remove the plaque from the exposed surfaces of the teeth, and use of dental floss or tape, which reaches the hidden areas between the teeth, are important. A soft bristled toothbrush is best for most people.

Drs. Merle Bean and Gary Fingert suggest brushing the teeth using a sideways motion, 3 teeth at a time. Toothpaste isn't necessary but if you do use one, make sure it contains flouride.

Dental floss or tape is a specially treated thread which should be rubbed in a sawing motion back and forth against the sides of the teeth making sure to go only as far as, but not into the gum. After flossing, rinse thoroughly with water to remove the food particles and plaque that have been loosened.

FEAR OF DENTIST UNNECESSARY

Also the tongue should be cleaned. Millions of bacteria grow in the tiny cracks of the tongue. Some of these may cause bad breath. When the tongue is brushed or rubbed with a cloth, the germs are scraped off.

With periodic visits, a dentist can remove with special instruments any plaque too hard for you to remove with the brush and floss. X-ray pictures taken will help to find any small cavities, bone loss or many other conditions not visible to the un-aided eye.

Dr. Julien Mason's main concern is that people should lose their unnecessary fear of the dentist. He is there to help you and should be seen regularly, not just when you have that tooth ache.

If you follow the above suggestions of dental care, you should have better health, retain natural mouth appearance, enjoy chewing, talking and possibly prevent bad breath.

The agency asks, too, do you need to know how to stretch your paycheck? Do you need help in presenting your case before agencies? Would you like to get involved in a group session to get help from your friends in dealing with a problem?

Single Parent Family Center states through its director, Mrs. Raye E. Galbreath, that these services are offered at no charge at all to Model City residents. It has accommodated many people in the Model City area. It has turned down many people from Woodland - Oakridge, Logan and Southeast areas, because there were not in the Model City Area.

There are very few people who know how well—or how poorly their homes are insulated.

Yet—when it comes to saving money on heating and cooling costs... insulation is the most important factor of them all. If a home is not properly insulated, the amount of heat required to make it comfortable may almost be twice that of an insulated home.

It's a fact that hot air rises. And if your ceiling is not properly insulated, the warm air keeps right on going up through your roof. There's nothing to stop it—or slow it down. Also when the cold air blows against poorly-insulated walls, there's little to keep it out. Your walls become cold to the touch and anyone sitting or playing by them feels uncomfortable.

And there sits your furnace—working overtime to keep up with the heat loss. This gets expensive.

Here's what to do about it! Go up above your ceiling with a ruler. Measure how deep the insulation is. It should be about six inches. If it's less, it may pay you to add more insulation. It's easy to do —and it's inexpensive. Insulation in your side walls is harder to measure and adjust. With a new home under construction—this is an easy matter to take care of. In an existing home, however, this insulation must be blown into the wall cavity. This is a job for an insulation contractor.

Proper insulation will not only pay for itself by reducing heating and cooling costs—it will also increase your comfort at home while helping conserve precious energy at the same time.

campbell scores on sickle cell

The veteran Public Relations Consultant Dick Campbell, was highly praised for his contribution to the cause of sickle cell disease in a meeting at the Harlem Branch Red Cross Service Center here last week.

In his response, he used the occasion to score what he termed sickle cell "hustlers." The meeting was called by a group of community residents to set up a meaningful organization to deal with the disease in greater New York City.

Campbell freely admitted that he had never heard of sickle cell disease until five years ago. "But," he said, "I make no apologies for my ignorance. Less than three out of ten blacks had never heard of it in 1968. Now it's more like nine out of ten."

NO CONSIDERATION BY HEALTH AUTHORITIES

Asked why he took it upon himself to conduct a volunteer crusade of his own to alert the nation to the disease, Campbell stated, "It made me angry to learn that this disease which affects one out of ten persons of America's largest minority had been given so little recognition or consideration by the Health authorities of this nation. I personally felt that my tax dollar had been misused, and that a crime of discrimination and genocide was being perpetuated against black people."

During the past three years Campbell initiated scores of radio and television programs on Sickle Cell on all major networks as well as hundreds of stories and articles in the press.

This occurred while he was a volunteer director for the Foundation for Sickle Cell Disease in Harlem.

Now he is concentrating his efforts on the national level and hopes to assist in the development of a nation-wide sickle cell organization that will bring all of the sickle cell groups under one 'umbrella - type' program.

FUNDS, UNITY NEEDED

"There is a great need for unity in our fight to overcome this scourge", he said, "and the biggest problem is to get the sickle cell anemia fund raising activities out of the hands of the hustlers so we can get on with the business of testing the entire black population."

"It is no secret that hundreds of individuals as well as organizations are giving fund raising 'benefits' for 'sickle cell anemia' without specifying the sickle cell organization for which the benefit is being given. These people must be exposed and prosecuted for their selfish and fraudulent activities. They may just as well say they are giving a benefit for small pox, tuberculosis or measles.

TELLS OF FRAUDS

You don't give money to a disease. You give to an organization FIGHTING the disease. The public must be alerted NOT to give money to "telethons" "radiothons" and other "benefits" that do not identify the organization to which the funds will be donated and simply state "for the benefit of research in sickle cell anemia".

Last year the President allocated 5 million dollars for sickle cell disease research to be used in fiscal 1972 but which is entirely inadequate to do the job. The Senate recently passed a $143 million dollar bill for detection and prevention of the disease which is to be used over a three to five year period.

The bill is now in the House where it may undergo minor changes.

"This is a good beginning," says Campbell, "but the real challenge must be met by black people themselves. It's up to us. Our fate is in our own hands."

kansas abortion law: unconstitutional! iowa feels effects

"The federal court ruling in Kansas should have the effect of reducing, by nearly 30%, the cost of legal abortion for Iowa and midwest residents," according to Ronald L. Hammerle, director of Planned Parenthood in Des Moines.

"Women seeking early abortions should soon be able to obtain medical care through Planned Parenthood or the Iowa Clergy Consultation Service for around $150, plus the cost of transportation to Kansas City," said Hammerle.

'MAY SPEED CHANGE'

"The federal court action this morning should speed the day when Iowa legislators see abortion as a medical concern," said Barbara Madden, chairwoman of the Iowans for Medical Control of Abortion.

"We don't force patients to go to New York or Kansas City for heart surgery or any other medical procedure, so why should we continue to do so for abortion," she added.

"In addition," said Hammerle, "commercial groups, such as those now putting up billboards in Iowa, should be less successful in charging high fees for abortion referral."

A group called Mitchell Family Planning, claiming non-profit status, has recently purchased billboard and radio advertising in Des Moines, Burlington, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa and Clinton. At least one ad company in Burlington, however, has had second thoughts and taken down the signs. (See Des Moines Sunday Register, 12 March 1972, Sec. B, Page 1)

"Anyone seeking assistance with a problem pregnancy can get professional help through either Planned Parenthood or the Iowa Clergy Consultation Service," said Hammerle, "and do so knowing they are dealing with reputable organizations concerned with their personal, medical and financial needs."

LOCAL HELP PROVIDED

The Iowa Clergy Consultation Service maintains a 24-hour, statewide coordinating number, at 515-282-1738, through which women or couples seeking help are referred to Planned Parenthood or one of 150 clergy and lay volunteers throughout the state. Each provides assistance and information on marriage, single parenthood, adoption or abortion.

ali only 'real' champ

ALI FIRST BLACK CHAMP WHO IS HIS OWN MAN

Six of the last heavyweight champions of the world have been black, and of these men Muhammad Ali is the first to tell the white world that he is his own man.

That's the estimate of a portrait by Budd Schulberg, writing in SATURDAY REVIEW.

Ali, writes Schulberg, is "the first black champion to proclaim his blackness, to say to the white world, 'I don't have to be what you want me to be,' the ideal practitioner to tap out on the heads and bodies of his opponents the message: Black Is Beautiful."

UNUSUAL CHAMP

Schulberg, whose forthcoming book "Loser and Still Champion: Muhammad Ali", termed him "our only world-famous athlete of the Shook-Up Decade just past" and said, "Hate him for this or despise him for that, he is still our youth, our conscience, our Mark Twain of bitterness and laughter."

He adds, "Of all our champions, gloved and bareknuckled, from the end of the eighteenth century to the dawn of the twenty-first, he is, in his own words, 'the most unusual.' Schulberg explained Ali's supremacy this way:

"Taunted by whites, Jack Johnson taunted back. Accepted by whites who offered him the national laurels and social responsibilities that came with the championship, Joe Louis accepted back. Never quite an Uncle Tom, he was the Good Joe who knew his place. He was the hero but never the author of his allegory."

AMUSING, BRASH KID

On the other hand, Schulberg asserts, Ali came prancing along, crying,

"Here I come, ready or not!" and changed not only the style in the prize ring but revolutionized the heavy social order that the ring entertained.

"Cassius would fight with weapons never before carried into an American ring, his faith in a non-Western religion, as well as his growing awareness that while he might be part of a minority 10 per cent in the United States, he was also part of a global family of non-whites among whom Caucasians were in turn a minority doomed to eventual defeat."

At first, his biographer writes, "Onlookers were merely amused by the brash kid with the big mouth who seemed to have borrowed his publicity buildups from the wrestler's division of the classical school of acting.

INTENSITY, NOT APPRECIATED

"What was dangerous about Cassius was not immediately appreciated:

sports then

With Allen Ashby

In this first column in the New Bystander I thought you ought to get an idea as to what will be in this thing. I shall not fool around with contemporary local sports, except when I think I can help some. Rather this corner will deal with sports as they were when I was young and a while after that.

You will hear of some of the great athletes of those years, and what made them great, the games of the time and the differences between the games of then and now, the strategy, terms, and such. Some of these athletes will be local ones, we had some good ones way back when, and some will be in the national eye. And then, I shall try to let you see that a lot of the current problems that black athletes have today were very much in existence then.

For openers I had intended to come up with a story about one Chester Brewer, a local boy who made good in the old Negro National league and who could have made it big in the majors if he had been given the chance. But, on the way home, somebody stopped me on the street and wanted to know why there were no black players in the girl's basketball tournament which ended last Saturday, and if there had ever been any.

PLAYED AT DRAKE

Answer number one was obvious. There have been few, if any, black families living in the towns those teams come from. But the second part has to be answered, yes.

Back in the 20's, when there were two state tournaments, there was a black girl named Mary Wood who played with Centerville. She came to Drake and became one of the outstanding girl athletes on campus. After graduation, Miss Wood became one of the leading YWCA women in the country.

Another black girl was from Ankeny named Delores Brown. She was selected on the first all state team, and had several offers from colleges around the state interested in girls basketball. But she may have married instead.

LED VALLEY TO STATE

In the 60's, there was a girl out of Valley High of West Des Moines. She had all the moves of a smooth boy player because she played with them many times. Colleen Bowser was expected to lead Valley to the state title, but she injured a knee, and was never able to play her best in the tournament. Despite this, Valley went to the finals, and Colleen was selected to an all-state team. She later played with a couple of colleges and in the local amateur league.

These are about the only three black girls that I can recall.

There may have been others, but these were stars by any standards. The others were not outstanding enough to attract attention.

There wouldn't be enough space to tell about the great black boy players in the tournament this week. But the first real male cage star in Iowa high schools was Joe Lilliard of Mason City. Joe led his team to the state title and was an all state selection in the intensity, the concentration, the determination with which he played. It was this that separated the fools of Shakespeare from mere Middle Ages merry-makers. Wise kings listened to inspired fools while foolish kings laughed at the exterior apparatus of their jokes."

In the words of his manager-trainer, Angelo Dundee, Ali was "Not just a fighter, he's the most unusual human being, the most fascinating person I ever met — period."

Then from Ames came a great big fellow named Jack Smith who captained the

1. The sum of $16,145.74 with interest at 5 1/4% from March 1, 1972, being the amount due plus interest upon the promissory note in the principal sum of $18,600.00, dated August 2, 1962, which note was made and executed by the defendants, Robert D. 2. Also asking judgment for costs including statutory attorney's fees.

3. Also asking as against the defendants above named a decree of foreclosure of the mortgage made and given by the defendants, Robert D. Kitson and Lucille M. Kitson, which mortgage is dated August 2, 1962, recorded in Book 3443, on the scene...

letter to the chief

March 10, 1972

Mr. Wendell Nichols
Chief of Police
East 1st and Court
Municipal Court House
Des Moines, Iowa

Dear Chief Nichols:

On Saturday morning, March 4, 1972, at approximately 0825 hours, traffic summons No. 100241, was issued to James E. Belcher. Mr. Belcher was accused of having disobeyed a stop signal. The officer who wrote the summons placed Mr. Belcher in jail, caused him to be fingerprinted and otherwise processed before he could be released. This young man is a student at the University of Iowa, carried a valid operator's permit and legal evidence of ownership of the motor vehicle.

I find it extremely difficult to understand the reason for this procedure and wish to take this opportunity to strongly object to the conduct of Officer No. 354 and further take exception to this procedure and policy if it is that regularly employed by our police department.

This is an insult to guests in our city and to ourselves and some feel it only applies when the guest happens to be black and a non-resident. Your attention is directed to this matter and I would appreciate a reply to this complaint.

Very Truly yours,

James B. Morris, Jr.

aide coordinator dismissed

The success of our service aides and their coordinator depends upon the trust, respect, and confidence placed in them by the community they serve. The aides have been clobbered by more than their share of unfavorable publicity in the papers.

It is well to take notice of the good work and serious efforts the aides are making to serve and protect the community from

"rip-offs". The community needs to know what the aides and the coordinators face working not with, but under Wendell E. Nichols, Chief of Police.

He says the program is a big headache that takes too much of his time. He adds that the citizens advisory board is not supporting the program. Also that an incompetent coordinator is responsible for his headache.

An advisory board member suggests that racism is the cause of his rising fever. He admitted at a reception for the aides that some of his police officers are opposed to the Police Community Service Aide Program. Chief Nichols' headaches will not be cured by dismissal of the coordinator or phasing out the whole program.

TOO MANY REMINDERS

We remind the chief that racist attitudes in his department makes their experiment in community police relations a necessity with a deadline to meet. The Advisory Board has been consistently advising Chief Nichols how to strengthen the program. The advice pinpoints the need for Nichols to stop listening for what he wants to hear and face the problems right under his nose.

Too many police officers in the area believe that an aide or even the coordinators are his personal "flunkies" to order about. Too many officers and special agents are assuming that this program is a federally funded program for snitchers or informers. Too many police officers and commanders find opportunities to remind a service aide of what the aide is NOT.

You are not a police officer. You are not in civil service. You are not a permanent employee. You cannot carry a weapon. You cannot serve a warrant, are among the most common reminders.

What is the chief's response to this master slave put down? "I want aides to ride with the area patrolmen. I want detectives, narcotic agents to visit the office." A recently convicted pusher of narcotics appeared before the City Council Crime Committee and urged the firing of the coordinator. The Advisory Board head recommended one month probation.

COORDINATOR DISMISSED

The coordinator has been dismissed. Word is spreading in the community of a "busybody" trying to organize another Advisory Board instead of supporting the efforts of the existing one to correct serious weaknesses.

The Board believes the community wants no part of snitchers and informers. The community service aides are in uniform for all to see that their job is without racism. We believe the aides and the coordinator deserve your presence at a Thursday night meeting, Julia B. Mayor Center, 801 Forest Avenue.

the community

by gil anderson

The Police Community Aides have an Advisory Board made up only of a handful of interested citizens who meet each Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. and give up many of their free hours to deal with the problems of the Community Aides and the community.

Though rumor may have it, this is not a hand picked board, for without the members, there would be no board. For it would seem that those who are quick to give rumors and idle talk aren't really interested in the program.

The board is open to all people in the community, black or white. Yet it appears that the community seems to favor to listen to idle talk and gossip rather than to attend the meetings and get the facts. Facts that concern not just the problems of the Aides, but also the community at large.

If the Community Aide's program is to function as an effective program, they need the help of the community. For it is your home life and property, they are out to protect, regardless of what rumors persist. These men are trying to do their job, and can only do better with your help.

So let us join together as interested citizens of this community and start taking part in our programs, not for notoriety or for the pat on the back, but instead for ourselves. These men are looking out for the rights of us all as well as our homes.

True, there are those who are against the program. But there are those who are against anything that doesn't include them, which is neither here nor there. For someone is always against something without full details.

So let us who are against the program step forward and be counted, too. For there are two sides to every coin.

It is time people of this community take interest in what's going on, pros and con, instead of talking about it.

So, remember, every Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. The community needs your support, so let's take an interest and do our part.

MRS. ALYCE STONEY, NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL ACCOUNTS HEAD OF FLORI ROBERTS, INC. a black cosmetic line carried by Younkers, was among the black women executives on hand at the Black Caucus sessions held last week in Gary, Indiana. Mrs. Stoney, in a long distance telephone visit, described it as having an approximate 5000 persons in attendance. As with most leaders, she feels it is a tremendously big step and much needed. MORRIE TURNER, WEST COAST CARTOONIST, returned to Des Moines Tuesday night to participate in conjunction with a two-day program sponsored by the Des Moines Public Library at Nash and Logan Elementary Schools. JOHNNY BURRELL WAS IN DES MOINES for a few days and gave an exciting description of a recent visit to Las Vegas. his most impressive observation was "you never go to bed there, there's so much to do. After four days, you're ready to go home!"

MET M.C. PAMPLEY CURRENTLY ON TEMPORARY DETAIL HERE for a week with the National Guard. He is stationed at Letter Kenney Army Depot, Chambersburg, Pa. Pampley, a career man, is in his 15th year. Temporary duty status has taken him to Springfield, Illinois; Fort Douglas, Wisconsin in the period February 22 to March 14. September, October and November found him in Berlin, Neuremberg, Fuerth and Bremerhaven, Germany. Pampley is a technical representative of Army Material Command (AMC) which is headquartered in Washington, D.C. Pampley's self - assurance and seeming satisfaction in his career, is an excellent recommendation of a military career. JASON SMITH, OWNER OPERATOR OF THE AFRO SHOP, corner Clark and Harding Road, sees as his next goal a black business federation. He leaves his comment at that. With further prodding I learned that it is his idea that a black business federation is to help black businesses work together. (Yes, I discussed the United Black Federation.) He clings to this: his personal undertakings in this direction are — he has leased the complete Afro cosmetics department at Williams' Pharmacy, 15th and University; has leased space at McQueen's Pharmacy in an effort to provide a more complete variety of Afro cosmetics and is an example of three businesses working together to provide the maximum amount of pharmaceutical, cosmetic and other services. "This is what I mean by working together more!", he stated. "Not only are we economically linked, politically aware, socially compatible to each other's needs, we are able to focus our attention on the best ways to attract more customers and offer better service", he concluded. JUST LEARNED THAT RAYE E. GALBREATH is director of The Single Parent Family Center. Read the page describing her agency, then cast about in my mind as to what she might do for me. Just about then caught sight of the line saying that their service is to Model City Area persons. This eliminates me, but Ms. Galbreath is so very pleasant, it was a pleasure to get acquainted! Visited with Mrs. Betty Turner, the Center's consultant, whom I first met long ago at Veterans Administration Mental Hygiene Clinic.

Dedication dinner for New inn here

A dedication dinner dance was held Saturday night March 12 at The Downtown Holiday Inn by its manager, Mr. Ralph Harris.

The invitational affair also included the choice of remaining overnight and a Sunday morning breakfast.

Cocktails were served in The Frontier Room located downstairs. Dinner was served in The Top of the Tower, famed for its revolving dining area and balconies extending North and South beyond the building's exterior.

The dinner menu was shrimp cocktail; prime rib of beef with Yorkshire pudding, and broccoli with Holiday Sauce. There were anchovies and lettuce salad, also.

The cocktail buffet had a fish theme. There was a large fish-shaped pond with fish swimming in it. In the center of the long table was an octopus which held a lobster between each of its eight sucker-bearing arms.

Another table had raw oysters, hot, soft-shell clams and lobster tails.

Surrounding the octopus arrangement were silver trays filled with hors d'oeuvres on tinted breads. Each of the table's corners held poultry coated with a decorative aspic.

Dessert was a meringue with ice cream and apricot syrup. There was wine and coffee to drink. The food was excellent.

The Downtown Holiday Inn, long awaited by the community, exceeds all expectations in its beauty and furnishings.

Its northern or southern views from the Top of the Tower dining areas are spectacular and Des Moines appears very glamorous and very large.

Mrs. Elaine Estes and Mrs. Ruth Stokesberry were among the guests.

Deltas host africans

Phi Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta hosted four African students to a potluck dinner at Willkie House Saturday.

The guest students included Mietta Sherman from Liberia, a senior at Johnston High School; James Reprah and Kwame Ofu-Mensah from Ghana, students at Open Bible College.

Phi Chapter was also pleased to see one of its former members, Mrs. Mae Olphin. Mrs. Olphin is in Des Moines for the Corinthian Baptist Church dedication program. She now lives in Newark, New Jersey. The sorority is now planning a Jobberwock, a type of talent show to help raise money for their scholarship fund.

a view of the staple singers

Many young groups have tried to copy their style, but audiences, who have heard the Staple Singers, agree that such attempts are inimitable.

Their style is inimitable simply because the secret of such stimulating performances is ensconced in their doctrines of individuality. It's also interesting to piece together some of their quotes with the traits of their zodiac signs.

MAVIS, THE CANCERIAN

Cancerians are moon children. As a representative of the fourth sign in the zodiac, Mavis proves to be RECEPTIVE: "I enjoy meeting people. Even though, we are successful, I really don't feel any bigger — in the sense that there are no big I's and little you's. Getting where we are is something we've worked for. We've been in this business for almost twenty-two years, and I'm super - glad about all our successes."

AN EPICUREAN BELIEVER: "I enjoyed Africa more than any place we've been to. There was so much feeling of friendliness. I also like the food. The place was just together."

INDUSTRIOUS: "I like to write songs. I'm getting more into that now." Mavis has contributed to the majority of songs written for the group. Now she is beginning to take on another phase in the recording industry —

"I'm getting into production. I've already produced a record by Kitty Hayward which did well locally. Now I want to produce my younger sister, Cynthia."

SYMPATHETIC AND SENSITIVE: "The three things I like a man to be are 'all man,' a Christian person, and intelligent."

MOODY: "I like to be by myself at times. When I get home, I can concentrate and shut the big city out for awhile. I also like to sit on the beach. I like water. On the beach, I can meditate."

MOODIER: "I like to cook. But I have to be in the mood to do things. For instance if I'm in the mood, I might cook every day that I'm home. I also have to get in the mood to prepare certain dishes."

MOODIEST: "The only time I really get mad is when someone wakes me up!"

CLEO, THE ARIAN

Cleo (short for Cleotha) is a true Arian. When speaking to her, it's clear to see that she is —

HEADSTRONG, IMPULSIVE, AND A BUILDER: "I enjoy singing. I don't know anything in life I would rather do. It's been a part of my life for twenty-two years now."

ALWAYS WILLING TO EXPERIMENT WITH NEW IDEAS: "I just started crocheting a few months ago. It's good to do in your spare time, and it relaxes you. It's especially good when I'm waiting in the dressing room between acts. I've already crocheted a knicker suit, a long skirt, and a cap."

PASSIONATE, WARM, AND A GO-GETTER: "The

three traits I like in a man are intelligence, aggressiveness — I would especially like for him to be aggressive because I'm an Arian, and we're go-getters. He would have to have a good personality and be able to talk to anybody."

AND BLUNT: "I'm not necessarily political minded. However, I do try to keep up with what's happening — but some times, things are so fouled up that I don't know what's happening anyway."

YVONNE, THE SCORPIAN

The Scorpio has been called one of the most powerful signs of the zodiac. And all the other traits possessed by this sign fit Yvonne who is —

ECONOMICAL: "I don't have too much spare time because I'm taking care of the business aspect of the group."

A PERSON WHO MINDS OWN BUSINESS AND PREFERS THAT EVERYONE ELSE DOES THE SAME: "I'm quiet until I have something to say. I don't like to gossip, and I don't like to see anyone else gossip. I didn't gossip in high school or grammar school, and I won't start now. I don't have to worry about what the Joneses' have. I like to mind my own business."

SECRETIVE, CRITICALLY RESERVED, BOLD, DARING, BLUNT, AND SARCASTIC: Yvonne is currently working with a mental retardation center for adults in her hometown of Atlanta, Georgia.

"At first, I was somewhat afraid. But after a while, I found that some of them have more sense than some of us walking around. Most of them just want someone to talk to. That's all, really."

ROEBUCK "POPS", THE CAPRICORN

"Pops" probably knows the struggles to success more than his daughters. But, like a Capricorn, Pops knows how to overcome all obstacles by being —

PATIENT, PERSISTENT, AND PRACTICAL: In discussing the Black Movement, Pops gets to the point of simply stating:

Emotions on the go

The Emotions have been on the move quite a bit these days. Their latest Volt record "My Honey And Me" has jumped onto the charts faster than any of their previous releases; the demand for personal appearances by the trio will take them from Connecticut to California, with stops along the way in Texas and Illinois, during the next two months; and, they had an opportunity recently to work with one of their favorite entertainers, Bill Cosby. Coming up for the three delightful young ladies — Sheila and Wanda Hutchinson and Theresa Davis — are a new Volt album "Songs Of Innocence And Experience," and a guest appearance in Pervis Staples Annual Awards Show.

"We have to vote." QUIET AND SERIOUS: "I want to travel all over Africa. The amazing thing about Africa is that while I was over there, I only heard two murders broadcast over the radio."

AND THOUGHTFUL: "I really would like to visit Japan also. They, the Japanese, really have 'self respect'."

renown childrens choir here

The Chicago Children's Choir, a cooperative project of the First Unitarian Church of Chicago and Urban Gateways, will appear on Friday evening, March 17 at the Center for the Study and Application of Black Theology 1016 Forest Avenue.

The Children's Choir is an extraordinary group of singing children and young people whose backgrounds represent the entire racial, cultural and economic spectrum of the City of Chicago. The music these children sing is as varied as their faces. Singing with technical skill in the languages and musical styles of many times and lands, they may open a concert with sixteenth century motets sung in Latin and close it with rousing foot-tapping gospel. In between those two extremes, they sing difficult contemporary works, folksongs from around the world and Aaron Copland's adaptations of American folksongs and the poignant American spirituals. The program for this tour includes Scarlatti's EXULTATE DEO, Poulenc's AVE VERUM CORPUS, Hassler's CANTATE DOMINO, Villa-Lobos' CANCAO SAUDADE, Copland's ALL THE LITTLE HORSES and CHIG-A-RING and the spirituals GIVE ME A JESUS and LONESOME VALLEY.

The choir is made up of boys and girls, aged ten to eighteen drawn from varying racial, cultural and economic backgrounds from the south and west sides of Chicago. This is the choir's sixteenth season. Director Christopher Moore founded the group in 1956 as a junior choir for the First Unitarian Church of Chicago. In 1963, with the assistance of Urban Gateways, they began a period of expansion. Today under the joint sponsorship of First Unitarian of Chicago and Urban Gateways, five hundred singers participate in the program each year. Some are in the Gateways School Choruses, others get early training (beginning in the third grade) in the junior choir. The next training level, Concert Unit in Training, joins singers from nearby areas with inner city children for whom transportation is provided. All training unit members work toward the big goal: appointment to the tour unit rehearsal group, a hundred voices from which members of performing and touring teams are selected. And a boy whose voice has changed, a girl who is in high school, can continue singing with the Alumni Chorus. Tenors and basses from the Alumni group tour with the high voice choir.

Since 1965 concert teams from the choir have made two annual tours, singing in much of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains and in Canada. In 1970 the Choir went to Europe where they toured England, Denmark and Germany where they received acclaim from European critics.

At home the choir sings concerts, appears on television, sings at civic affairs and is regularly engaged by visiting opera and ballet companies to sing with them.

This concert tour includes appearances in Iowa, Tulsa, Dallas, Houston, Little Rock and Memphis.

The program begins at 8 p.m. on Friday evening and a donation of one dollar is asked of those attending.

harlem dancers amazing

This weekend many Des Moines residents turned out to witness the first appearance of The Harlem Dance Theatre, which has been acclaimed as one of the leading dance companies in the world. They have traveled throughout Europe and the United States and are presently ending a three month tour which began in California.

The company was organized four years ago in the basement of a Harlem church by Mr. Arthur Mitchell, the company's artistic director. At that time the company included 20 students from Harlem. Today, the group has grown to 24 dancers and a student body numbering approximately one thousand. The group is now housed in a new facility on Harlem's 152nd St. Besides its dance courses, the school also offers a wide array of other fine arts instruction. The students range in age from 10 years to adults.

The fees for classes run from 50 cents a week for children to $5 a week for adults. Besides Harlem residents, there are now students from all over the world — some from as far away as Africa and Jamaica.

Mitchell's purpose in organizing the ballet was to appeal to the children of the world. Having been a dancer with the New York City Ballet for 17 years before founding the company, Mitchell has a great love for ballet and for children. It is these two ingredients which he seeks to combine in his theatre. He wants to teach the child to love the dance.

It was this love for children that came through as Mitchell entertained the children at Washington Irving Jr. High School with a program featuring the rudiments of ballet. Mitchell established an easy rapport with the student body. He compared the movements of the ballet to the everyday sports and dancing with which the student is already familiar.

The material for the Dance Theatre is largely selected by Mr. Mitchell, but is taken from all realms of the ballet, classical, neo-classical and modern or social dance. The material is entirely inspirational in nature. The Choreography, on the other hand, is drawn from many sources, some old and some new.

Fred Barry, technical director for the group, describes them as a "do or die" family where there are no stars and no "ego trips." The dancers come to the theatre because they want to dance and there are no contracts to bind them. However, Barry says "in spite of no contracts, there has been very little turn over in the dancers." The average age of the dancers is 20, the youngest being 15. Some of the people have danced before they came to the company and others have learned with the theatre.

The troupe performs largely to recorded music except where the patron can afford to hire live accompaniment. There are tentative plans for the group to combine with the Harlem Symphony in the future.

The Ballet itself is funded by a grant from the Ford Foundation and by contributions from Mrs. Alva Gimbel and the National Arts Council.

Mitchell stated in his presentation to the students, "it has been proven that a dancer works harder in an hour than a football player would if he played the entire game." The dancers proved this statement beyond a doubt as they performed both for the public and the students. Each dancer exercised perfect control and tremendous discipline in the execution of their art. The spectators gaped with awe as the lithe young bodies seemed to hover in mid air — now in the air and then on the ground. Much must be said for Mr. Mitchell's excellent and exacting leadership.

The presentation was made possible by donations from the Tiny Tots Guild, Inc., Iowa Arts Council, the Community Development Agency and Iowa Power & Light.
